DE LONG'S LAST JOURNEY.

The pathetic record of the closing scenes of De Long's last journey, as shown in the diary just published to the world, discloses a heroism and self-sacrifice, which have never been surpassed. There is no murmuring, no expression indicative of the despair that must have settled upon them; but regular systematic recording, day after day, of the labors, the sufferings, and the disappointment which marked its course; the mournful yet magnanimous attention to detail, with regard to the distribution of the last morsels of nourishment, and when the deer meat was consumed, the dog killed and eaten, the tea gone, and a journey of twenty-five miles yet before them, with their limbs frozen, their bodies growing weaker and weaker, whilst a little alcohol in hot water, or a spoonful of glycerine formed their only nourishment, there is still no murmuring complaint.

We only read how desperately they fought against wind and snow and ice, even whilst starvation was paralyzing their energies; and as one after another, lay down on the frozen snow to rise no more; the living, powerless to relieve their sufferings, with a sublimity of faith, almost beyond our comprehension, they knelt beside them, to repeat the prayers for the dying and read the burial service whilst heaping the snow and ice above them, which was their only means of sepulture.

Is there not something grander nobler, than we are wont to realize, in the influence of the christian teaching, which could enable these frozen, starving men, to find peace and comfort in repeating the Creed and the Lord's prayer?

The record continues till none but the writer was left, and then his last entry is made as he feels himself unable to do more than note the fact of the last death, and close his faithful diary. It surely is not out of place to say—the world recoils from such sacrifices. Have there not been lives enough lost, in the vain attempt to penetrate the secrets of the North Pole? What earthly good would come of knowing more of that icy region, even if it could be accomplished.

The nineteenth century, ought to find better use for its brave and noble men than sending them thus recklessly, to suffer and die amid the horrors of the Frigid Zone, even in the interest of science. The present age is becoming so eager in the pursuit of knowledge, that human suffering and human life have little consideration when weighed in the balance. Knowledge though it may be "power" can be too dearly purchased.

OHIO RIVER DISASTER.—On the night of the 4th inst., the steamer Sciota was sunk on the Ohio river by a collision with the steamer John Lamas. The latter struck the former on the port side 15 feet below her bow, making a large hole through which the hull rapidly filled and sank at once. The river was black with the bodies of the struggling victims. Fourteen bodies were recovered, and forty were still missing at the last account.

DAVID THOMAS, the father of the Anthracite iron business, died of pneumonia at his home at Calasauqua, Pa., on the 20th ult., in the 87th year of his age. Mr. Thomas came to this country from Wales in 1839. On July 4th, 1840, he put into blast the first furnace which successfully smelted iron ore by the use of Anthracite coal with the hot blast.

THE Internal revenue bill just passed abolishes the stamp tax on bank checks, drafts, &c., the taxes on capital and deposits of banks, and the taxes on matches, cosmetics and patent medicines, and reduces the taxation on tobacco, cigars and cigarettes. It does not touch the question of cheaper living however.

THE war-cloud in Egypt seems to be gathering thick and fast, and things have become so portentous that hostilities may now begin, any day.

THE Hon. Henry D. Fernandis has declined the presidency of the Chesapeake and Ohio canal.

A BILL to create the territory of Pembina is under discussion in Congress.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our Regular Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 6th '82

It is consoling to believe that the curtain is now drawn upon Guiteau. His earthly remains are buried in the damp basement of one of the wings of the gloomy structure with in which he passed the last year of his life, where no adventurous body-snatcher is likely to break through and steal. The funeral was a fitting end to the final scene. It was attended by three relatives: John Guiteau, Mrs. Scoville and her little daughter, the Rev. Mr. Hicks, Miss Chevalier, of Boston, and two reporters. In the centre of the prison room, on a plain wooden settee, was the imitation rosewood coffin which contained the body, the lid having been down to conceal the features from view. All around the room were evidences of the autopsy held the day before. A large tin bucket filled with bloody water was a conspicuous object; in one corner was a pile of old ropes, ladders, pulleys and blocks, indicating that the room was devoted to storage purposes, and on the walls were inscribed the names and regiment of a number of the soldiers who have been occupants of this room since the 2nd of July. It was amid such surroundings that the funeral of the dead assassin was conducted, and the desolate appearance seemed in every sense appropriate to the occasion.

A short invocation by Dr. Hicks, closing in an impressive manner with the Lord's Prayer and the familiar words—

"Dust thou art, to dust returneth, Was not written of the soul?" constituted all the ceremony. Then five stalwart colored prisoners were called in to act as pall-bearers, and picking up the plain coffin as though little mindful of the contents, bore it quickly down the chapel steps and placed it on the elevator to be taken to the basement below where a grave had been prepared. Here there was no ceremony, and but three witnesses besides the warden and his deputies and two prisoners who had been detailed to fill up the grave.

The coffin was covered with heavy boards before the earth was put in and, as the soil was of a gravelly nature where the interment was made, the sound of stones falling upon the coffin rang out with startling distinctness. Owing to the small size of the elevator leading down stairs, when the coffin was taken down it was found necessary to stand it on end and the body was moved out of position a trifle. The gloomy surroundings adjacent to the grave of the dead murderer will not likely be forgotten by those who witnessed the burial. It was four o'clock when the first spadeful of earth rattled upon the coffin, and Mr. Irving Crocker, a son of the General, called attention to the fact that it was the same time that the assassin's victim was buried at Cleveland, Ohio.

The effort to secure an adjournment of Congress on the 10th has failed and it is probable from present appearances that the 20th will be about the date. There is some force in the argument of Senator Beck that it is a one-sided arrangement to allow the House to keep the appropriation bills seven months and then expect to make the Senate dispose of them in a few days; but there is probably more in the general disinclination of Senators to be excluded from their full share in the personal profit or local influence to be derived from a manipulation of the items of National expenditure. Anyhow, the Senators are taking their time, meeting no earlier and sitting no later now than they did in December. After a seven months' session the record of this Congress is not a very proud one—no great measure of legislation having been matured—though there is consolation in the thought that it might have been worse. It is probably better to do nothing than to do wrong. But besides its sloth in attacking questions of real importance, the most remarkable thing undertaken by this Congress is the passage of a bill by the House for the reduction of taxes by which the revenue is to be diminished at least twenty millions a year without the reduction of a dollar in the expense of collection and without a particle of advantage to nine hundred and ninety-nine out of every thousand persons in the land. An increase of seventy millions a year in the pension list, with a river and harbor appropriation bill of probably twenty-five millions and other appropriations on a like liberal scale, would seem to call for the maintenance of the taxes, or at least of such of them as bear least heavily on the bulk of the people; but instead of adopting such a policy Congress goes to work to diminish the revenue, and to do it in such a way as to favor those few wealthy people who own bank stocks, keep bank accounts, or manufacture matches, patent medicines, and cigars. Old Oxenstiern's advice to his son to be held with what little wisdom the world is governed has its finest application in connection with the American Congress. In that respect we beat the universe. There is no party politics in the matter. Members of both parties are on both sides of the tax question and are equally to blame for the failure to legislate intelligently.

DOM PEDRO.

THE END OF GUITEAU.

As the final act in the overwhelming tragedy of the year we record that beginning soon after daylight on June 30th the Assassin and his spiritual advisor indulged at times in "pleasant religious talk," the state of his heart, his inspiration, his favorite passages of scripture, the rehearsal of a piece of religious, or rather blasphemous doggerel he had composed. We take the conclusion of the scenes from the New York Sun:

"After this scene the death warrant was read by the Warden to Guiteau, who then left the cell with his guardians for the scaffold, ascended the steps and stood under the beam, with bowed head, while the Rev. Dr. Hicks made a brief prayer, in one sentence of which, addressing the Almighty, he exclaimed, 'Behold this day servant!' Then Guiteau himself read aloud a portion of the Gospel of St. Matthew from a Bible which the Rev. Dr. Hicks held up for him, Guiteau's arms being pinioned. Guiteau next read aloud from the manuscript in the hands of the Rev. Dr. Hicks his 'Dying Prayer on the Gallows!' a shocking production, most shocking in that he applies to himself the sublime and sacrificial language of the Saviour of the world. After this blasphemy and abomination he chanted his wretched doggerel,

"I am going to the Lord!" which, he said, might be rendered effective if set to music, and which ended in a bal-bleat of 'Glory! Hallelujah!' Even all this crazy revelry was not enough. Next came the Rev. Dr. Hicks with his final benediction and appeal to 'God the Father.'

Guiteau's legs were pinioned; then the black cap; then the adjustment of the noose; then he dropped a piece of paper from his hand, as a signal that he was ready; then he raised his triple cry of 'Glory!' and then death and silence.

In half an hour his body was lowered into the coffin, and in the course of the afternoon the autopsy was begun.

The body was buried at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, beneath the flooring of a room in the northeast corridor of the Washington jail.

THE DANGER OF THE STOCK MARKET.—A man may be incredulous enough to risk his money in the fickle mysteries of a mercantile stock market but when he gets the Itching Piles, he goes straight for Dr. Swayne's Ointment. THE DEERING TWINE SELF-BINDING HARVESTER.

AN IMMENSE SUCCESS! 10,000 SOLD THIS SEASON!

BENJAMIN F. STEWART THE SOLE AGENT.

Call and see the Greatest Machine of the day. Perfectly simple in its construction; no mechanic needed to run it; any farmer can work it. The Deering will bind grain not for a day, but for an entire harvest. It is light draught and no weight on the horse's neck.

IT IS EASY OF OPERATION—AND—MADE OF THE BEST MATERIAL.

It cuts and binds entire crops without mowing a solitary blade. It separates every sheaf and never chokes.

Other machines require three or four horses, and in tangled grain require extra help with them. The Deering does its work so easy, as to relieve both man and horse. Every satisfaction guaranteed or no sale, and every purchaser his own judge and jury.

The Famous ADRIANCE REAPER.

This machine has been in active work in Pennsylvania for the past six years. Be careful to examine its superior points. No gearing in the master wheel—a point which no other reaper can claim. Three speeds for the rake arms independent of the knife—running fast in light grain, medium in standing grain and slow in down grain. No other reaper has it. Rake head is placed far away from table and no grain can wind in it. Only four cog wheels, with long bearings and solid boxes. Platform can be folded for transportation on the road in five minutes. Sent folded instantly. Rakes can be adjusted for either rake to sweep the table form every one to every sixth and all turned into rakes instantly without stopping. Angle Iron Finger Bar which can be adjusted to vary the length of cut from one to eighteen inches. I challenge any reaper to produce a machine which will cut in case of handling, Lightness of Draft Simplicity, Durability and Construction. Width of cut five to six feet, with extra down grain slats, rods, etc., furnished free of charge.

THE CELEBRATED ADRIANCE MOWER.

This mower is now entering upon its Twenty-seventh year and old age improves it. It is manufactured at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., by Adriance, Platt & Co., who have built the world renowned Grass and Clover REAPER and MOWER, combined and single. The manufacturer have not been compelled (as some of its competitors) to change its principles from year to year and as an expected result give the farmer an experimental machine. No cutting with a "grainable" joint, which talks well but works poorly, but in its place we give you a mower with the old reliable gear, using long shafts, procuring our first or slow motion from the bevel pinion, and the second or fast motion from the straight spur pinion, equalizing the wear and strengthening its cutting capacity—exactly the reverse from all other mowers. Also perfect Tilting Lever, with astonishing simplicity for raising and lowering points of guards, and when folded the bar is in "reverse" frame, which every one will admit is the only safe way. Front cut which allows the operator to watch both machine and horses and no danger of being thrown in front of the knife.

Has been unanimously voted the duldest one, as it was the dampest in the memory of man. It rained and it rained until mid afternoon, and universal gloom overshadowed the face of nature as well as of man. In some cases fires were needed for comfort. Towards evening the people began to walk the streets, the vehicles came forth, and the temperature grew comfortable. We have no public demonstration to chronicle as none was made. Everybody tried to be happy as he could. In the evening a parade of the Drum Corps awakened the dull energies of the people and set them in motion for social enjoyments, which were well improved.

The Results of Necessity.

What the ancients suffered for the want of knowledge in medical science can only be appreciated by contrasting the vast amount of suffering cured and pain alleviated in modern times, by the use of Swaine's Ointment for skin diseases. Its introduction was characterized by the necessary withdrawal of a score or more of illusive, quick nostrums, whose evil effects have left living monuments to denounce them. Thus is exemplified the proverb, Necessity is the mother of Invention. July 7

A $2,000 Brick.

A friend has handed us a copy of the St. Joseph, Mo., Daily Gazette, of the 31st inst., from which we copy the following, as showing the enterprise of a native of Emmitsburg, in a line of business out of the ordinary course:

"The Gazette local department yesterday inspected the costliest brick ever exhibited in St. Joseph. It was the first brick moulded by the Southwestern Mining company, Altar District, old Mexico, and is valued at over $2,000. It is pure gold and silver, finer than the finest gold and silver, and weighs sixty pounds. The gold is that it is estimated at over $1,200, the best being silver. The brick is stamped with the name of the mining company, and the number 1 to indicate its seniority over any brick that the mine may hereafter yield. The capital invested in the Southwestern is $1,000,000. Mr. C. C. Fulton, secretary of the company, told us that the brick was made in his hands. It was deposited in the State's Savings bank and will remain on exhibition for some time."

NOTICE TO FARMERS AND OWNERS OF PRIVATE RESIDENCES.—The safest and best company in which Farmers and owners of Private Residences can insure their Property, is the Time-Tried and Fire-Tested Agricultural Insurance Company. The Agricultural Insurance Co. is a stock company, and the strongest and largest company, doing an exclusive Dwelling Business in the United States, if not in the world, and is now issuing 50,000 Policies a year. AN INQUIRY.

COMMUNICATED.

Mr. Editor.—There has been considerable controversy lately, in a quiet way, in regard to the qualification of our Burgess, or shall I say the gentleman now holding that position. He has held the position several times, and I believe all admit that he has endeavored to faithfully discharge the duties. But the Ordinance requires that he be a "Free holder," and the question now is, "is he a Free holder?" If not, he is not qualified, notwithstanding the fact that he has taken the "oath of office," and is discharging the duties pertaining to the office. If not a free holder his acts are all illegal, and the whole thing looks very much like a farce, but should anything occur calling our "city officers" before the county court, they might discover that it is anything but a farce. Although there has been "considerable talk," I have not been able to discover that our Board of Commissioners have made any move in the matter, but seem disposed to let the question drop. Not so the quiet, law-abiding citizens, for we demand a full observance of the law. If the present incumbent "fills the bill" we are perfectly satisfied with him, not otherwise. I have been told by a gentleman, who has had the records examined, that our acting Burgess is not a Free holder. In the name of common sense let this question be authoritatively settled at once.

A Family Reunion.

During the past week there has been a gradual gathering of the family of the late Joshua Motter, in the old homestead, still occupied by his widow and her two single daughters, the representatives of four generations being collected beneath the ancient roof-tree. The Fourth of July, 1882, proving too rainy for any out-door demonstration, as was intended, was rendered memorable by a jubilant celebration within doors, which made the old house ring with merriment throughout the entire day. The spacious dining room was pretty well filled, when between thirty and forty happy guests, consisting of brothers, sisters, aunts, uncles and cousins were gathered around the well-filled tables where songs and toasts and story-telling, added to the enjoyment.

It was indeed a happy family party, from the gray-haired matron who presided, down to the laughing, wee grand children.

The family party consisted of Col. John L. Motter, of Wathena, Kansas, with his wife, his sons, Wilson, Frank and his wife, James T., Harold D. and daughter Helen M.; Mr. and Mrs. Winger, of Greensburg, Pa., with their son J. Motter and daughter Hattie; Rev. Dr. E. E. Higbee and wife, of Lebanon, Pa., with daughters Helen B. and Lucy, and sons Herbert M. and Lewis E.; Rev. J. B. Kerschner, and wife, of Locust Grove, near Emmitsburg, with their sons Elanaham, Bertram M. and Richard M., and daughters Constance and Amy; J. Taylor Motter and wife, of Emmitsburg, and their son Murray G.; Prof. George F. Mull and wife, of Lebanon, Pa., daughter of Dr. Higbee, and their daughters Lucy and Catharine, together with Misses Louisa and Harriet H. Motter, who reside with their mother, and genial, kindly aunt Kitty Henkle, an elder sister of Mrs. Motter's, who has always resided with her, and been the delight of three generations of nieces and nephews. Mr. Charles Galt, of Washington, and Edward Eichelberger, Esq., of Frederick, a nephew of Mrs. M., were also present on this memorable Fourth of July, and also, Misses Mabel and Edith Motter, Mr. Paul Motter, and Mr. Andrew A. Annan.

As such events as family reunions, which include so many generations, are of rare occurrence, they seem to call for more than ordinary notice, and the associations connected with this one, will be remembered by all who shared in it, whilst life shall last. The only cloud that marred the brightness of the homecoming of the different members of the family, being the absence of the dear ones who are waiting in the Heavenly Home to welcome every member of the loving household at the great reunion, which will be darkened by no shadow of separation.

In the Whole History of Medicine

No preparation has ever performed such marvellous cures, or maintained so wide a reputation, as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, which is recognized as the world's remedy for all diseases of the throat and lungs. Its long-continued series of wonderful cures in all climates has made it universally known as a safe and reliable agent to employ. Against ordinary colds, which are the forerunners of more serious disorders, it acts speedily and surely, always relieving suffering, and often saving life. The protection it affords, by its timely use in throat and chest disorders, makes it an invaluable remedy to be kept always on hand in every home. No person can afford to be without it, for those who have once used it never lose its knowledge of its efficacy in composition and operation, physicians in their practice, and clergymen recommend it. It is absolutely certain in healing all affections of the throat and cure where cures are possible.

AN INQUIRY.

COMMUNICATED.

Mr. Editor.—There has been considerable controversy lately, in a quiet way, in regard to the qualification of our Burgess, or shall I say the gentleman now holding that position. He has held the position several times, and I believe all admit that he has endeavored to faithfully discharge the duties. But the Ordinance requires that he be a "Free holder," and the question now is, "is he a Free holder?" If not, he is not qualified, notwithstanding the fact that he has taken the "oath of office," and is discharging the duties pertaining to the office. If not a free holder his acts are all illegal, and the whole thing looks very much like a farce, but should anything occur calling our "city officers" before the county court, they might discover that it is anything but a farce. Although there has been "considerable talk," I have not been able to discover that our Board of Commissioners have made any move in the matter, but seem disposed to let the question drop. Not so the quiet, law-abiding citizens, for we demand a full observance of the law. If the present incumbent "fills the bill" we are perfectly satisfied with him, not otherwise. I have been told by a gentleman, who has had the records examined, that our acting Burgess is not a Free holder. In the name of common sense let this question be authoritatively settled at once.

THE 4th.

Has been unanimously voted the duldest one, as it was the dampest in the memory of man. It rained and it rained until mid afternoon, and universal gloom overshadowed the face of nature as well as of man. In some cases fires were needed for comfort. Towards evening the people began to walk the streets, the vehicles came forth, and the temperature grew comfortable. We have no public demonstration to chronicle as none was made. Everybody tried to be happy as he could. In the evening a parade of the Drum Corps awakened the dull energies of the people and set them in motion for social enjoyments, which were well improved.

The Results of Necessity.

What the ancients suffered for the want of knowledge in medical science can only be appreciated by contrasting the vast amount of suffering cured and pain alleviated in modern times, by the use of Swaine's Ointment for skin diseases. Its introduction was characterized by the necessary withdrawal of a score or more of illusive, quick nostrums, whose evil effects have left living monuments to denounce them. Thus is exemplified the proverb, Necessity is the mother of Invention. July 7

The Baltimore American.

The ad. of the Baltimore American will be seen in another column. It is the leading Republican paper south of Philadelphia. Whilst it addresses itself to the reader from the standpoint of its own party convictions, it is nevertheless independent upon representing fairly the positions of the opposition, and occupies space on an extensive range in the collection of the news of the day, as to present statements on all sides in such forms of ready adaptation, as to make its pages a satisfactory source of information in every department of news. Its columns will soon be enriched by the letters of the editor, Mr. C. C. Fulton, who is about to revisit the European cities.

A $2,000 Brick.

A friend has handed us a copy of the St. Joseph, Mo., Daily Gazette, of the 31st inst., from which we copy the following, as showing the enterprise of a native of Emmitsburg, in a line of business out of the ordinary course:

"The Gazette local department yesterday inspected the costliest brick ever exhibited in St. Joseph. It was the first brick moulded by the Southwestern Mining company, Altar District, old Mexico, and is valued at over $2,000. It is pure gold and silver, finer than the finest gold and silver, and weighs sixty pounds. The gold is that it is estimated at over $1,200, the best being silver. The brick is stamped with the name of the mining company, and the number 1 to indicate its seniority over any brick that the mine may hereafter yield. The capital invested in the Southwestern is $1,000,000. Mr. C. C. Fulton, secretary of the company, told us that the brick was made in his hands. It was deposited in the State's Savings bank and will remain on exhibition for some time."
