

LETTER FROM COLORADO.

Special Correspondence.

SILVERTON, COLO., October 19, 1882.

The young city of Silverton, situated in what is known as the San Juan country, 40 miles from Durango, is one of the most beautiful spots in all this mountainous region. The valley through which runs the Animas River is at this point about a mile and a half wide, for a distance of two miles in length, and as perfect a level as the earth's surface can present.

This marvel of enterprise, the Denver & Rio Grand Railroad, spreads itself like an octopus over Colorado in all directions, eastward, northward and southward, through the more mountainous regions of the State with an earnest that no mountains are too high—no canyons too deep—no gorges too broad and wild to be overcome and surmounted by its locomotive power.

The several mountains that extend up the Animas river on each side as it stretches northward from Silverton are all richly charged with valuable ores and are separated by gulches which abound in silver and galena ores of a higher grade than are common in that region.

No good citizen can be indifferent in regard to the character and qualifications of those who may be called to preside in our Courts of Justice. It matters not how independent or how necessitous may be a person's situation, the lives in certain contingencies, and at all times, personal rights and property are liable to come within the jurisdiction of the Court.

A man of independent means may have extraordinary facilities for avoiding litigation, or be able to employ counsel for his relief, when trouble arises; but the poor man is entirely dependent upon the uprightness, the incorruptibility, the firmness and decision of the Judge, for the maintenance of his rights.

The Bi-Centennial Celebration of the Landing of William Penn, began in Philadelphia, on Tuesday, the weather, and everything highly favoured the festivities and they proved successful throughout.

Colorado is the mountain scenery more sublime than at this point, extending over a distance of several miles. Speaking of railroads: It was but a few years ago that the Union and Central Pacific railroads were struggling to reach the Pacific coast through the defiles of the Rocky Mountains under the foster aid of the Government, while now the iron horse is running in every direction over the State, by tracks laid with consummate engineering skill, along the mountain, sides, up acclivities, over deep canyons, and precipitous gorges, and through dark tunnels, until high mountains are overcome and pleasant valleys are reached in the interest of a more full and perfect development of the resources of Colorado.

This has been a year of extraordinary storms, and the cable has just brought us news of the most disastrous of all—the destruction by typhoon on Friday last of the greater portion of Manila, the capital of the Philippine Islands, an important commercial city of 150,000 inhabitants. The details of the disaster will be awaited with the greatest interest.—New York Sun.

THE ELECTION OF JUDGES.

DOM PEDRO.

THE largest cathedral in the world is St. Peter's in Rome. From the laying of its foundation in 1450 until its dedication, one hundred and seventy years were consumed in its erection; and if we include the work done under Pius VI, three and a half centuries passed before it was completed, during which time forty-three Popes reigned.

THE Election in Baltimore city, on Wednesday, resulted in the ratification of the Western Maryland Railroad loan, the Water loan, and the Pratt library ordinances.

NASHVILLE, TEN., October 26.—The fire at Hopkinsville, Ky., last night, originated in a stable, was the work of an incendiary, and lasted from 6 o'clock p. m. until midnight. It destroyed nearly forty business houses, five dwelling houses, seven law offices, one bank, three livery stables, two halls, two newspaper offices, the Presbyterian church, one tobacco warehouse and the post-office. Four blocks were burned. The loss on buildings is $100,000, and on stocks $200,000, which will not be half covered by the insurance.

WHY WE HAVE SO FEW GOOD RIDERS—It has frequently been the subject of remark as to the cause of the scarcity of good Jockeys. To be sure we have some excellent riders—Barrett, Evans, Hughes, Barber, Peakes, and probably half a dozen others, but not more. The secret is explained in the fact that unless a Jockey takes great care of himself constant exercise in the saddle will superinduce Piles of the most aggravating character, that itch intensely, particularly after getting warm in bed, and thus render him unfit for service on the track. However if Swayne's Ointment were used, the worst case of Itching Piles would be speedily cured.

The Inconveniences of Man
Scheming, devices and manifold advertisements, of worthless goods will never attract profitable customers; only meritorious articles such as Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases are recognized and sought after by the people. Real worth always receives its just merit. A man may profit for a while by imposing upon the public, but it is only a question of time when he will reach the end of his rope. Man has never dared to doubt the efficacy of this great vegetable Ointment.

The carp pond of Mr. J. E. Simons of this place gives promise of abundant success, as all of them are yet alive, growing finely and are making preparations to enter upon the torpid state during the winter. This they do by forming hollow places in the bottom of the pond in which to lie. We have already advocated fish-culture as a source of profit and we are prepared to hear after the lapse of several years, that Mr. Simons is reaping rich returns from his investment of labor and care. The pond is about one-fourth of an acre in extent.—Clarion.

THE citizens of Middletown are considerably excited about their projected Railroad. The only way to build a railroad is to build it; men are to be the present; such works are for all time. Large hearted and generous souls regard the future in such projects; they build, that others may reap the product of their toils and investments. Such seems to be the general experience, the exceptions are rare. Increase of business and increased value of lands are the encouraging motives of the present; dividends of stock and such promptings are for the generations beyond.

A Cow With A Wooden Leg.
Mrs. Mary Gravely, of Bally's Cross-roads, Bucks county, Pa., has a cow which, about four months ago, had its right front leg cut off below the knee by a railroad train. A veterinary surgeon dressed the wound and tied up the arteries so skillfully that the cow recovered. She was kept in the stable until a few days ago, when a neighbor, a cabinet maker, made for her a wooden leg, which was strapped on the stump. The cow hopped along holding the injured leg up for a day or two, but now she has concluded to use the wooden attachment and limps around quite comfortably upon it, and seems to be in good health.

It seems strange, that when people take a cold, they cannot keep it to themselves, but are not a little exercised to have everybody aware of the new acquisition, "I have an awful cold"—"a wretched, a terrible cold," and many such adjectives are brought out to excite the sympathies of others. To enjoy a cold in private is not in human nature; but more it is blown around the greater the hero, becomes the martyr to it, and the less his company is desired. The present prevalence of the evil is generally conceded to be due to the Comet, or perhaps more correctly to the negligent way in which persons turn out to view it.

Death of a Well-Known Citizen.
It is with sincere regret that we chronicle the death, at 7.50 o'clock, yesterday (Tuesday) morning, of our esteemed fellow-townman, Dr. DeWitt C. Keller, at his residence on West Patrick street. Mr. Keller had been an intense sufferer for some weeks past from an affection of the kidneys, supposed to have been Bright's disease. He was a gentleman highly respected and is mourned by a large circle of friends and relatives. He has had large business interests in Evansville, Ind., conducted by a partner, whilst he has been living here for a number of years in retirement. He leaves a son and two daughters.—Examiner.

ACCIDENT.—Quite a serious accident happened at the Liberty Mines one day last week, the facts of which as reported to us, are as follows: Mr. Henry Gourd, in adjusting the strap on a band wheel while it was in motion was caught by it and whirled round for about 140 to the minute. When released it was found that he fortunately escaped with his life, but had a leg broken and otherwise very badly cut and bruised. Mr. G. is about 50 years of age, a miner, and living on the mine ground. What makes the above more distressing is, that his daughter, Mrs. Annie Barrett, living in the same house, died on Sunday morning last, aged 23 years.—Citizen of 30th Inst.

We are glad to learn that our young friend, Dr. Schwartz, who has been prostrated with Typhoid fever at his home in Littlestown, is recovering, and hope to see him in Emmitsburg again, attending to the duties of his profession, before long. It was by an unintentional oversight, that his illness was not mentioned in our issue of last week, and we hope, both the doctor, and his patients will kindly overlook the neglect.
P. S.—Since writing the above, the Dr. has put in an appearance looking remarkably well for a recent invalid, and seemingly ready to resume his place in the race of life.

Hallow Een.
Tuesday next Hallow een, or the eve of All Hallows will recur, a season devoted to jollity of a certain kind, and furnishing lots of fun to young folks on the mischievous urchins who thump on the doors, and ring the bells, to the full grown lads and lasses who have many ways of trying, on this particular evening, what their future lot in life is likely to be. There are many charms and tricks and projects, belonging to this particular season which are handed down from generation to generation, and enjoyed alike by all; but why, the eve that ushers in All Saints day should ever have been given up to such peculiar orgies, is one of the mysteries of the olden time, which we accept, but do not understand.

PERSONALS.
Rev. Chas. W. Heisler of the Theological Seminary, at Gettysburg, spent Sunday and Monday in town.
John C. Motter, Esq., of Frederick, gave us a pleasant call on Monday.
Mr. Joseph Hopp of Middleburg made a visit to his old home.
Miss Mabel Motter is visiting in Smithsburg.

DIED.
COLLIFLOWER.—On October 5th, 1832, near Mechanicstown, John Colliflower, Sr., aged 83 years, 2 mos. and 25 days. Deceased was the progenitor of 8 children, 42 grand-children and 16 great grand children.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT.—On Wednesday evening, just when the threshers were about quitting work at Mr. Jonas Hellingger's, near East Berlin, a terrible accident occurred, resulting in the instant death of a little son of Mr. Hollinger. The little boy, although only about eight years of age, was helping at the threshing, passing shives to the feeder. By some means he slipped and fell into the rapidly revolving machine, going in feet foremost, and being ground and torn to death. The lower part of his body and his feet and legs were torn to pieces. The boy's body stopped the machine and horse-power at once. The terrible accident cast a gloom over the entire neighborhood. The remains were buried on Friday, there being a large funeral. Mr. Hollinger's family are peculiarly unfortunate. Some months ago, his little daughter, while driving the horses in a horse-power, got hurt in the cog-gearing, and Mr. Hollinger himself was once seriously injured by getting caught in the rod driving the machine.—Herald.

From the Gettysburg Compiler.
The Gettysburg Classis of the Reformed church will meet in Missionary convention in Littlestown the first Wednesday evening in November.
Gen. Chamberlain, ex-Governor of Maine, with a delegation from that State visited Gettysburg Wednesday and Thursday, and fixed a location for a tablet or monument on Little Round-Top.

On Sunday last, Mr. Charles Socks, son of Mr. John Socks, residing on Rock Creek, in Moon's Joy township, died of tetanus, in the 23d year of his age. A few months ago he was kicked by a colt, from which he seemingly had a good recovery. On the 11th inst. a newly sharpened harrow dropped on his right foot, seriously wounding the mechanism of the toe joints, and causing a great shock to the nervous system. On Tuesday last symptoms of lock-jaw were noticed, from which he died on Sunday. He was an active and energetic new-comer in this county, and promised to make his mark in our agricultural community.

PERIODICALS.
The November Century presents its readers with a portrait of Florence Nightingale, and has an article entitled "A New Profession for Women," by Franklin H. North, which includes a description of the training school for nurses, in New York, and shares the importance on value of refined, intelligent, and well-trained nurses, the calling of the public attention to which, is so largely due to the teaching and example of Miss Nightingale; Henry James, Jr., furnishes some delightful descriptions of Venice, elaborately illustrated; Mrs. Mary Hallock Foote, begins a new story, entitled "The Led-Horse Claim"; "Through One Administration" is continued, and the whole make up of the number is both interesting and instructive, the names of the contributors alone, entitling every article to consideration, whilst the profuseness of illustration makes it exceptionally attractive.

St. Nicholas.—The November number of St. Nicholas begins the tenth volume of this popular magazine, which improves with age, and from which not only little ones, but grown folks can find pleasure and instruction. It is now being published in Arabic, showing the immense demand for it, extending to all nationalities. A colored frontispiece entitled "Indian Summer," adorns this number, and the stories, the games and the music all demand attention at sight. Price $3.00 a year, 25 cents a number. Century Co., New York.

The American Agriculturist for November shows signs of becoming a Literary as well as Agricultural periodical, as it furnishes its readers with sketches, stories, anecdotes, &c., together with the usual variety of valuable reading matter relating to the business and home-life of the farmer and gardener. Every page of this number is so attractive, that when one begins at the first page it is impossible to put it down till the end of the last one is reached. Published by Orange Judd Co., 751 Broadway, N. Y. Terms $1.50 per year.

The Maryland Farmer is a monthly periodical, devoted to Agriculture, Live Stock and Rural Economy, and is full of useful instruction, which may be depended on as reliable. The preparing of land, cultivation of grains, vegetables, and fruits are all treated in a clear, common sense manner, as is also the raising of poultry, management of dairy, &c.—Published by Ezra Whitman, Baltimore.

Watering Plants in Pots.

Some people attempt to keep pot-plants without giving them any water at all; the result is familiar to every one. Usually, however, the earth in the pot or box is kept soaked and very much in the condition of an ordinary swamp. It is even said that malaria has resulted from living in rooms containing house plants owing to the damp soil. We have ourselves seen dead evergreens pulled out of the following timely remarks:

Watering plants is one of the most important things in the culture of those plants, and very special care should be devoted to it. Plants ought not to be wet until they need it. It will be evident that they require wetting, if on taking the earth from the pot it crumbles to pieces like dust, a sure sign is to knock on the side of the pot, near the middle, with the finger knuckle. If it gives forth a hollow ring, the plant needs water; if there is a dull sound, there is still moisture enough to sustain the plant. Plants must not be wet more than once or twice a day; on dry, clear days they require more water than on damp, cloudy days.

On the other hand the earth must not be allowed to dry out entirely, for that is also very injurious. In wetting them the water must be poured on in such a way that it will run out again through the hole in the bottom of the pot. If the earth gets too dry, it is best to place the pot in water so that the water will saturate the dirt very gradually. They may be watered at any hour of the day, except when the sun is shining on the pot or has just left it; for the earth gets hot when the sun shines on it, and then if cold water is poured on it, it will cool off too rapidly. The best time for watering flowers in summer is the evening, and in winter noon is best. Well water should never be used, but always use either rain water or brook water.—Scientific American.

Putting Away Tools.

The wearing out of farm implements is, as a rule, due more to neglect than to use. If tools can be well taken care of, it will pay to buy those made of the best steel, and finished in the best manner; but in common hands, and with common care are of little advantage. Iron and steel parts should be cleaned with dry sand and a cob, or scraped with a piece of soft iron, washed and oiled if necessary, and in a day or two cleaned off with the corn-cob and dry sand, finally painting the iron part with rosin and beeswax, in the proportion of 4 of rosin, to 1 of wax, melted together and applied hot. This is good for the iron or steel parts of every sort of tool. Wood work should be painted with good, boiled, linseed oil, white lead and turpentine, colored of any desired tint; red is probably the best color. Keep the cattle away until the paint is dry and hard, or they will lick, with death as the result. If it is not desired to use paint on hand tools, the boiled oil with turpentine and "liquid drier," does just as well. Many prefer to saturate the wood-work of farm implements with crude Petroleum. This can not be used with color, but is applied by itself, so long as any is absorbed by the pores of the wood.

VALUABLE RECIPES.

ONE EXPERIENCE FROM MANY.—I had been sick and miserable so long and had caused my husband so much trouble and expense, no one seemed to know what ailed me, that I was completely disheartened and discouraged. In this frame of mind I got a bottle of Hop Bitters and used them unknown to my family. I soon began to improve and gained so fast that my husband and family thought it strange and unnatural, but when I told them what had helped me, they said, "Hurrah for Hop Bitters! long may they prosper, for they have made mother well and us happy."—The Mother.

Chicken Salad.

Cut cold boiled chicken into bits about the size of a dice. Have twice as much celery as chicken, clean thoroughly and leave in ice water for an hour. Take out, wipe thoroughly and cut about the thickness of sliced cucumbers. Mix well with the chicken. Cover with mayonnaise and garnish with lettuce leaves, egg rings, beet stars and o. yes.

Humorous.

In the world's broad field of polo, in the base ball game of strife, many a shin is barked severely, you can bet your precious life.

"Tommy!" said a mother to her seven year old boy, "you must not interrupt me when I am talking with ladies. You must wait till we stop, and then you can talk." "You never stop!"

A Massachusetts judge has decided that the ringing of a church bell at 5 o'clock in the morning is a nuisance. The man who has to ring the bell must have reached that conclusion long ago.

A Michigan paper says: "Bears are going to be thicker than grasshoppers" in the woods of Michigan this winter. Dare say. Grasshoppers don't absolutely infest the Michigan woods during winter time.

We are surrounded by dangers from the cradle to the grave; and the only wonder, as an Irishman says, is that, after making our first appearance in the former, we should ever succeed in living long enough to reach the latter.

A literary man, who had recently published a book, was observed to be very downcast. "What is the matter?" asked a friend. "You look all broken up." "No wonder," was the answer, "I've just been blown up by a magazine."

HINT to subscribers: Subscribers of the Boomer who find crossbones and skull with crest of metallic burial casket drawn in blood on the wrapper of their paper will know that their subscription has expired and that something has got to be done.

A German emperor made a visit to one of his towns and was received at the gate by a long row of deputies. Just as they were about to address him a neighboring donkey set up a terrible bray. "Gentlemen," said the Emperor, "if you wish me to understand you, you must speak one at a time."

"How are you my old friend?" Asked a bright looking man. "Oh! I feel miserable, I'm bilious and can't eat, and my back is so lame I can't work." "Why in the world don't you take Kidney-Wort? that's what I take when I'm out of sorts, and it always keeps me in perfect tune. Kidney-Wort is the sure cure for biliousness and constipation. Don't fail to try it."—Leng Branch News.

"FATHER," said the young man, as he leaned on his hoe, "they say the balance of the trade is agin us." "They do, eh?" "And that our bank reserves are rapidly diminishing." "Du tell!" "And that railroad extension has come to a halt." "Well, well, well." "And that the volume of securities is substantially without a market." "Yes, I see," said the father; "and do they say anything about a feller stopping to lean on his hoe to talk when he might just as well talk and hoe too?" Renben resumed.

A Scotch packman, having paid some fruitless visits to one of his customers, called a few days ago for an installment of his debt. But the customer told her son, a lad five years old to say she was "in the toon." Accordingly, when the packman called and asked, "Where is your mother to-day?" the boy promptly replied "In the toon!" "What toon?" asked the peddler. The boy, having no further instructions from his mother, went to the next room and shouted "Mother, what toon are ye at? He wants to ken."

"No, sir," a Comestock barber is reported as saying: "No, sir; I used to give credit but I never do now—in fact, nobody asks for tick any more." "How's that?" inquired the customer. "Well, you see," said the barber, trying the edge of his razor on his thumb nail. "I had a set of stiff who used to ask me to chalk it down. I got tired of keeping books, and I adopted a new system. Whenever I shaved any of these old standbys I put a little nick in his nose with my razor, and kept tally that way. They got so they didn't want to run bills." There was a tremor in the customer's voice, as he asked beneath the latter, "Do you object to being paid in advance?"—Virginia City Chronicle.
