KITTY'S PRAYER.

From Good Words.

"The mistress is dyin', the doctors have said so Oh, who'd be a doctor, to bring us our deaths?"

To sit by our beds, with a hand on the head so,
A feelin' the pulses, an' countin' the breaths!

To drive out doors in a vehicle stately, Outstretchin' the hand for a fee on the sly,

To settle our deaths for us very com-plately,
An' very contentedly have us to die!

"The mistress is dyin'—it is such a pity—
The master just worships the ground
'neath her tread,

She's such a swate crathur, so smilin' and pretty—
Is there no cross ould woman could go in her stead?"

She tries us so kindly, we think it an honor
To learn from herself her own illigant ways;

I loved her minute I set my eyes on her,
An' what will I do when she's dead, if you please?"

"I hate our fine doctor! he ought to be cryin', But smiled as he ran to his carriage an' book,

Just after he told us the darlint was dyin'— Shure if she recovered how quare he would look!

I know he's a janis—the best in the city—
But God's above all—even doctors—who knows

I am a poor little sarvint," says Kitty.
"But even a sarvint can pray, I suppose!"

So down on her knees, in a whirl of emotion,
With anger and grief in a terrible swing,

Her Irish tongue praying with utter devotion,
In faith that but few to their praying can bring.

The poor little servant—her tears flowing over—Implored with a force that my verse cannot give.

With the zeal of a saint, and the glow of a lover,
That, in spite of the doctor, the mistress might live.

The master sat close by his darling, despair in His stupefied brow—just holding her hand—

He prayed, to be sure, but no hope had his prayer in;
In fact, he was dazed, and could scarce understand.

Her delicate lips had a painful contraction,
Her sensitive eyes seeming sunken and glazed;

He knew in his heart there could be no reaction;
He just sat and saw her—in fact, he was dazed.

A pallor less ghastly—the eyelashes quiver—
Life springs to the face in sudden surprise—

Grim Death retrogrades with a sad little shiver—
She smiles at the master, her soul in her eyes!

A wonderful hope—is it hope? is it terror?
Leaps up in his heart while he watches his wife—

Is it life before death? is it fancy's sweet error?
Or is it—or can it be—verily life?

Oh, send for the doctor—death hangs on each minute—
They wait for his fist as that of a god—Who sagely remarks that there is something in it,

Granting lenses of life with an auto-crat's nod.
Joy rings through the house that was silent in sadness,

The master believes that he ne'er felt despair,
And Kitty, the servant, laughs out, 'mid her gladness,

To think that none of them knew of her prayer.

GUARD against disease. If you find yourself getting bilious, head heavy, mouth foul, eyes yellow, kidneys disordered, symptoms of piles tormenting you, take at once a few doses of Kidney-Wort. It is nature's great assistant. Use it as an advance guard—don't wait to get down sick. Read the advertisement.

WHEN some one standing by the Natural Bridge in Virginia expressed a doubt about George Washington's reported feat of throwing a silver dollar completely over it, Secretary Everts, who was present, gravely rebuked him, saying, "You forget how much further a dollar went in those days."

MORE OF SOCIAL.

BY HOPE HARNEY.

A great deal more should be made of the social element in our natures, this outflowing of the many impulses of good will and kind feeling within us towards those without. People may talk, not be really social, but they cannot be really social without talking.

"There is a savage within us which must be educated out," says some writer. The savage is self engrossed, taciturn, and as a result is contracted, cruel. Christian civilization fuses these hard elements so that on the warm current his own and his fellow's interests meet and mingle, and the savage is gradually transmuted into the true man. If we do not care to be classed as barbarous, we must make the social element conspicuous. I think those people who pride themselves upon their high cultivation, superior intellect, or transcendent genius, have not risen so far as they think in the real scale of being, unless they are ready to impart as to acquire and keep. Their pet "individuality," as they call it, may possibly be only another word for selfishness, and if they sacrifice to it love, friendship, and the kindred exercises, it can scarcely be called anything else than a refined form of savagery. We do not care to go down to that again to stay, so we will follow the leadings of the Master, Christ, who was the highest type of humanity, and go up.
And, strange paradox! we go up the surest and straightest by first going down. Down from our pride and haughtiness to where sweet humility abides, where we shall be ready in large heartedness and quick sympathy to reach others and lift them up, keep them up, and so make steady upward progress hand in hand, shoulder to shoulder, heart to heart.

And all this pure, great work of "uplifting the masses," as it is sometimes called, is done in little, simple, natural ways of Christian living.
"If you want to know how to reach the masses," says one. That is it Reach them. And the strongest force that can be brought to bear is in the development of the social element, here and there, a little at a time, and in the form of a silent, warm, passive influence, rather than attack. And you who read these lines, and I who pen them, and those whom we would benefit, are not each to work independently of the other. We are the "masses" ourselves, though that is an abominable word, and an ill name to call us by. There is to be reflex influence. We need to adopt the spirit, if not the exact method, of the gentle Quaker boy's plan with his brother for making a skyward ascent: "If thee'll lift me while I lift thee, we shall go up together."

We need other people just as much as they need us. The light, warmth and comfort, that the exercise of the simplest sincere sociability is capable of bringing to us is wonderful to perceive.

Can we not be more truly social on the Sabbath day, at the church?
Not to indulge in levity or frivolity, unseasonably to the day and place, but to exchange quiet, cordial greetings and fitting conversation, must, it seems to me, be in accord with the spirit of the day and its Author.

Perhaps some of you live in a pleasant little knot near the church, and see each other once a day all the week, or oftener, but please do remember those who have no near neighbors, or who for various reasons can go about but little, and who thirst for some social manifestation as the dry earth for rain. Surely no right ideas of Sabbath keeping can make it wrong for us to give to such a bright smile and nod, or a few friendly words, and so cheer and strengthen some poor sister, or de-sponding brother, or weary, discouraged worker for a whole week more.

And sometimes rich happy looking people are carrying untold burdens who need the grasp of Christian sympathy as well as other apparently more needy classes. And a little attention will do the pastor as much good as any other one. Make a note of this, and see how his often careworn face will brighten at an increase of cordiality. All this would be well, and He who knew as much about the right and wrong of things as we do, said, "It is lawful to do well on the Sabbath day."

The social element has great room for enlargement in the household, however small. We have all seen families who lived in a state of mutual misunderstanding simply because they have not had enough of frank intercourse to find out what was going on in each other's hearts.

"'Tis true, and pity 'tis 'tis true," that some parents have never mingled and talked enough with their children to get acquainted with them, and so confidence, which is the cement of union, is lost, or rather never established. All this working at cross purposes in households is disastrous to the upbuilding of that beautiful edifice of home, and the more unshapely, unfinished homes there are in the land, so much the worse for it.

Neighborhoods might be grandly reorganized by the application of the right kind of sociability. As when the farmer finds that his fields are not adapted to the raising of the desired crops, he furnishes the necessary chemicals to reconstruct the soil, and then sees the rapid thriving of his corn and wheat, so a wise and witty soul sometimes sees how a community can be changed from sterility into pleasant fruitage by introducing some innocent but effective form of sociability. "Sociables," so called, are good institutions if they are sociable indeed, and not the stiff, ceremonious imitation of some fashionable party which was worse than nothing. Let the sociable not be afraid of work, but be able and willing upon occasion to resolve itself into a sewing circle, a paring bee, a chopping or haying gang by the men, or even a house cleaning party by the women, as was done in a certain place once upon a time.

In the common cause of usefulness, vile gossip and scandal will flee away ashamed, mean thoughts and acts will die, good impulses will leap up, and worthy even if small and humble deeds will be done in an acceptable spirit.

Most of all, and indeed best of all, are the smaller, every-day, extemporaneous methods; methods without method, so to speak, of breaking through the upper crust of reserve caused by pride, unaffected friendliness, two modest merit, old habits of reticence, or what not. Short, frequent calls become delightful and profitable if they are cheerful, chatty, and full of the spirit of good will.

They diffuse a glow all around, which rouses the stupid, warms the heart chilled by unkindness, stirs the monotony of some lives, cheers the sad, and helps with a vivifying power generally. For these calls to be the most successful to their end, it is best not to be too particular as to the hour and day and dress, and especially should no reckoning be kept with a square account of whether it was your "turn to call," or that other woman's. And no matter about the work, if it is anything decent and comfortable, and waiting to be done. You and your callers will have a far easier, better time if you go with it than if by your absent mind and uneasiness over neglected work you convince them that they are unwelcome. Some of you have seen the story going the rounds in print, lately, of Professor Longfellow and another poet, who called upon a lady of taste and lettered talent, and finding her at work in her kitchen, staid on to the content and pleasure of all three, helped their hostess make, as well as eat, her pumpkin pies! It is a good story, and if not true, ought to be.

Let us not lug any of the tiresome city fashions of calling, which its more thoughtful victims themselves hate, into our country homes, and lade ourselves with them to one long distressful regret. A city friend said to me:

"O, I wish, I wish I could live in the country, to be rid of this ceremonious calling! It is a terrible nuisance. It eats my time for reading, thinking, planning, and even for the necessary care and instruction of my little children. I constantly hope that I am going to accomplish something definite, and then I am required to sit in the parlor with my callers who care nothing for me or mine, and so the days, weeks and months slip away, and I have nothing to show in my folded hands but the record of what I cannot help calling 'wasted time' with idle women."

The other friends, also city dwellers, told me how they took the initiative in a different practice:

"We found we could do absolutely nothing on account of our many callers. Our sewing must be done, and for certain reasons, by our own hands. We resolved upon a plan. We took our work in our hands, and composedly excusing it to our guests, sat down and went on with our sewing and talking together, chatting of whatever came to mind. Some stared, but others said, as we afterward learned, 'If Miss D. and Miss H. can do that thing, we can.' So by and by they would run in with their work, books, lectures, and other things really worth our while. That sewing in the parlor was equal to an emancipation proclamation to us."

The callers in their turn, carried the sensible custom into their own homes, so that in a short time the two pioneer young ladies had wrought a reformation in their whole "set" in this matter.

Some Vulgarities of "Good Society."

Asking questions, private and personal, is one vulgar habit; and telling your own business, which no one wants to hear, is another. Asking the cost of a present that has been made to you; "pumping" a stranger to hear what has been given by way of prating wail; loud talking in public; hard staring at table; insolent disrespect to husband, wife and sister, or brother; showing temper in trifles and making scenes in public; showing an embarrassing amount of fondness and making love in public; covert sneers, of which people can see the animus, if they do not always understand the drift; persistent egotism which talks forever of itself, itself, only itself, and

THE FATAL SHOT.

On Thanksgiving Day, at Cincinatti, in the Coliseum Theater, Frank Frayne's company was playing. Frayne as Si Slocom and Miss Annie Von Behren as Mrs. Lucy Slocom. At the end of the fourth act, when it was required to shoot the apple off the head of Miss Von Behren, Frayne adjusted his rifle and fired, and the trustful actress fell over dead upon the floor, the ball penetrating her brain, having entered her forehead about two inches above the eye. Of course Frayne became nearly frantic at the terrible result of his heretofore successful feat. He has been performing the act for six years or more, and it has excited universal indignation over the land, but only now, when a tragic result has followed, there are demands for suppressing by law all such plays. The wonder is that whilst the law has had cognizance of prize fighting, and its kindred brutalities, there have been everywhere crowds of people, willing and ready to encourage an exhibition, the fatal result of which has only been delayed. With all our boasted civilization, there yet seems to be innate desires to witness brutal exhibitions, which can only be restrained or suppressed by the strong arm of the law.

THE SUICIDES.

The several cases of suicide which occurred in Baltimore, last week, have elicited from the Press, various attempts to account for their occurrence, so near together, the Sun refers to the fact of many such cases having occurred, at one time, in Paris, when there were frequent cases of persons throwing themselves from the column of the Place Vendôme, and the practice was kept up until guards were placed around the top to prevent it.

We venture to suggest, that there is nothing in the air, or otherwise, of an epidemic character, to promote the dastardly acts; but that the whole trouble lies in the fact, that the details of every case are seized upon by the newspapers, and heralded abroad in all their sickening enormity. These publications act as incentives to others, who may need but the slightest suggestion to "shuffle off the mortal coil." Crime suggests crime. Let there be less notoriety given to its manifestations, and the deeds may be less frequent.

KINGSTON, the capital of Jamaica was laid in ashes on last Monday. The flames extended a mile and a quarter along the water front. The loss has been estimated at $30,000. Hundreds are homeless. Appeals for relief are presented.

The city was almost completely destroyed by fire in February, 1782, another fire in March, 1862, destroyed property valued at $1,250,000. One-eighth of the population was carried off by cholera in 1850—leaving a much stricken place!

Mr. Edison's patents now number 396; more than were ever before granted to one man.

The funeral of M. Louis Blane took place in Paris on Tuesday and was an imposing affair. Lightning struck a conductor on one of the Mexican railroads recently, singeing a broad stripe down the front of his clothing and burning the rim from his hat without doing him any injury.

ANOTHER COSTLY TROTTER.—Mr. Robert Bonner has purchased for $9,000 the bay gelding Pickard, 2181, by Abdullah Pilot, dam by Bourbon Chief. The horse recently trotted to top road wagon weighing 145 lbs., driven by Mr. McCon, who weighed 151 lbs., a mile and repeated on Gentlemen's Driving Park course, time 2:27 and 2:25.

In what is claimed to be the most delicate pair of scales in the world, according to the account given in the scientific papers, the beam is made of rye straw and together with the pans, which are made of aluminum, weighs only fifteen grains. In the most delicate scales heretofore made the beam and pan weighed sixty-eight grains—the beam being made of aluminum—and the instrument was capable of weighing to the one-thousandth of a grain. This new scale, however, weighs to the one ten thousandth of a grain. A piece of hair one inch long, on being weighed with this wonderful apparatus, was found to represent the almost infinitesimal quantity of one thousandth of a grain.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our Regular Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 13th, '82.

There was an uncommonly slim attendance of Representatives at the opening of Congress on Monday—the slimmest I have seen in my eight years observation here. The laggards are always numerous at the beginning of a session, in years when there is no speakership to settle, but what it was that kept such an unusual number behind this year can hardly be explained, unless Speaker Keifer's ruling that 11 o'clock should be the hour was too much for them. People who work from sunrise to sunset will have some difficulty in comprehending the tardiness of a Congressman who finds 11 or even 12 o'clock too early for him to be in his seat, but there are many of them. The greetings among members of both parties were unusually cordial. The cheerfulness of the day appeared to dwell on the Democratic side, as they discussed what they would do in the next Congress. Every one was curious to note the manner and demeanor of the defeated members who were represented in such large numbers upon the floor. Robeson, upon whom the eyes of the caller were often centered, was very active going about among his colleagues, and no one would have inferred from his manner that he is an intensely disappointed man. He did not extend many of his calls to the Democratic side, probably because of the jokes and chaffing he met with there. Much of the talk among members on the Republican side was made up of explanations by those who had been defeated for reelection of the peculiar cause which led to that result. Jay Hubbell was one of the absentees. In running over the Republican side the figures most sought after by the galleries were the diplomatic and courtly Kesson, the sturdy and vigorous Father Kelley, the judicious and ever alert Robinson, of Massachusetts, Mr. Robeson and Speaker Keifer. Upon the Democratic side the candidates for the next speakership are main objects of attention. They were all on hand Monday. Carlisle and Randall were the most dignified of these gentlemen, remaining at their desks to receive callers. None of the candidates were so agile and so effusive as the genial Springer. Who in the course of thirty or forty minutes embraced every Democratic voter in the House.

On the Senate side of the Capitol exchange of pleasant greetings, comparison of notes about the past fall campaign, and other subjects kept up a perfect buzz of conversation in the chamber. As is usual on the first day of a session, everybody was in good humor. The chamber, with the handsome new carpet lately laid new chairs and desks freshly varnished, wore a bright and cleanly appearance. Some of the desks were decorated with floral tributes, which added to the pleasant surroundings. Senator Voorhees was the favorite among the senders of bouquets. He had no less than three on his desks. Mr. Logan's desk was almost covered with a bank of flowers, having his initials in blue, set in a surrounding of white flowers. Senators Ingalls and Lapham were also the recipients of tributes of this kind. Don Cameron appears a little stern just now. A prominent newspaper correspondent went to him just after the Senate met on Monday and asked him what he thought of the appointment of his enemy, Clayton McMichael, as United States Marshall for the District of Columbia. The ex-proprietor of Pennsylvania nearly jumped out of his chair, as this proved to be the first intimation he had of the news. He said he had not read the morning papers, and could scarcely credit Mr. McMichael, he said had never been more than a half and half Republican, and had always opposed him. This was all Mr. Cameron would say, but he immediately called General Logan aside and began whispering to him with much earnestness, which was interpreted as evident that Mr. McMichael would not find plain sailing in his path to confirmation.

As the result of conversation with several members of Congress of both parties I find that both sides seem moved by a desire to proceed promptly with the work in hand, attend strictly to business and make good use of their limited time and talents. The President's message was received here with varying degrees of criticism and approval, but the preponderance of sentiment is that while it does not rank as one of the ablest of state papers, it was nevertheless constructed with a great deal of shrewdness, so as to touch a popular chord upon all the various questions concerning which the people have lately expressed themselves, and to stand away from the Democrats a good deal of their loudest thunder. There was not the usual experience of printing the message all over the country before it was sent to Congress. A rumor was current in newspapers Row Saturday night that a copy of the message had been procured and was for sale to correspondents desiring it. One or two, I believe, were taken in by this bogus copy, but when President Arthur heard the rumor he sent word that he would like to get a copy himself, as his own message was not yet finished, and this might save him all further trouble. Though the Garfield Monument Fair was not financially a success it developed a number of amusing incidents. One was the development of Congressman Houck, of Tennessee, and one Wiggins, of somewhere, as Presidential candidates. A gold watch was voted to the most popular candidates, and in spite of the fact that votes were cast for more than twenty-five candidates, among whom were such well known names as James G. Blaine, Samuel J. Tilden and Dr. Mary E. Walker, the friends of Houck and Wiggins fairly astonished themselves by the strength they were found to possess. But Houck carried off the election.

All the gossips have been indulging in more or less talk about the coming social season at the Capitol, which they generally predict to be unusually lively. The season will be short and we shall have here an unusual number of people who come just to spend the winter and see what is going on. This class is growing yearly, and the peculiarities of the present situation adds to their number a good many who are interested in political matters—the canvass for the next speakership, the revision of the tariff and other kindred subjects. The President will take a hand in the social festivities this season, which will be opened with the New Year's reception at the White House. Having a good deal of pride about doing such things correctly and brilliantly, it is probable that the round of receptions and dinners will be in keeping with the predictions and expectations for an unusually brilliant season. Last winter, while the President was writing his communications to Congress and his notes to personal friends on paper deeply bordered with mourning, it was proper that a degree of restraint should be observed at the Executive Mansion. The season of official mourning was long ago ended, and the occasion for it has faded from the memory of most people here. In preparation for the fitting reception of guests at the White House, the interior, as well as the exterior, has been improved. The scaffolds are still up in the halls and vestibule, but the work of the decorators will be completed in a few days.

SUMMARY OF NEWS.

THE great bridge over the East River at New York is to be opened for foot passengers by the middle of January.

ARABI Pasha having expressed a preference for Madagascar or London as a place of banishment the British Government promptly ordered him to Ceylon. John Bull always was suspected of a little tinge of nervousness.

By a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, the Arlington estate is to be restored to the heirs of Gen. R. E. Lee. Judges Waite, Gray, Bradley and Woods dissented. The government, it is thought, will buy the property.

KENTUCKY is indulging in quilting bees and cat shaking. After the quilting a cat is put upon the quilt. The young folks take hold of the corners and toss the animal till it jumps off upon one of the young ladies, who is then crowned queen of the bee.

A LESSON IN EQUESTRIANISM.—Horseback riding as an art and as a beneficial exercise is one of the most judicious habits that one could cultivate. While it affords the equestrian every opportunity for the cultivation of graceful posing, it comprises all the healthful elements of the most invigorating pleasures. Like all else in this world, however, if indulged in imprudently, the results are extremely painful, and oftentimes dangerous. Galled limbs, and Piles that itch intensely, particularly after getting warm in bed, are not infrequently the outcome of exercise in the saddle. In such cases, however, the evil can be thoroughly eradicated by applying Swayne's Ointment, which, as a cure for Piles—itching or otherwise, has no equal.

BURIED TREASURES. UNEARTHED.

A little town called Franklin, Pa., is agitated over the discovery of a chest containing $27,000 is gold by one of its residents. A belief has long been held that in the French occupation of that part of the country, a large amount of money was secreted at that place, near where the old fort stood, and close by the house of Capt. Smith. Columbus Brown had a mania in regard to the treasure, and meditated how to obtain it. About two years ago the arrival of two Frenchmen, supposed relatives of the old commandant of the Fort with maps, caused a systematic search to be made which proved fruitless. Brown grew excited at this. One Friday night recently, he had a revelation, while asleep, that he was counting and handling a chest of gold which he found buried at the foot of a tree in an open field. He was directed to measure a certain distance from the centre of a rock, due north, and in thirty three feet due west and he would find the treasure. He arose, and with spade and pick went to the owner of the field in which the tree stood and gained permission to dig. He had not been at work more than two hours when he came upon an iron chest, which he opened, and the sight that met the gaze of himself and son was enough to turn the head of almost any man. The box was nearly two thirds filled with gold and silver coin, tarnished and covered with sand and mould, but nevertheless gold. The coins are mostly French, but a number of English, German, and Spanish coins are among the lot. They bear the dates 1729, 1744, 1751, and various other dates, the latest of which is 1754 which is the same year that Fort Mifflin was completed. On a brass ruler found in the chest the name "Joucaire" is plainly stamped. It is a well known fact that this was the name of the officer in command of the French troops. The fort was evacuated in July, 1759, and very hastily. The location of this field is about seventy-five rods south of the fort, and was no doubt selected for the burial of the treasure with a view to mislead the Indians and recovering it at a subsequent date. Mr. Brown took the chest to his home, and many of the coins have since been on exhibition in the banks.

THE SUN.
NEW YORK, 1883.

More people have read THE SUN during the year just now passing than ever before since it was first printed. The circulation of this side of the earth has been bought and read in any year by so many men and women. We are credibly informed that people buy, read, and like THE SUN for the following reasons, among others:

Because its news columns present in attractive form and with the greatest possible accuracy whatever has interest for mankind; the events, the deeds and misdeeds, the wisdom, the philosophy, the notable folly, the solid sense, the improving nonsense—all the business of the world at present revolving in space.

Because people have learned that in its remarks concerning persons and events it is a practice of telling them the exact truth to the best of its ability three hundred and sixty days in the year, before election as well as after, about the whales as well as about the small fish, in the face of dissent as plainly and fearlessly as when supported by general approval.

THE SUN has absolutely no purposes to serve, save the information of its readers and the furtherance of the country's good.

Because it is everybody's newspaper. No man is so humble that THE SUN is indifferent to his welfare and his life. No man is so rich that it can allow injustice to be done him. No man, no association of men, is powerful enough to be exempt from the strict application of its principles of right and wrong.

Because in politics it has fought for a dozen years without intermission and sometimes almost alone among newspapers, the fight that has resulted in the recent overthrowing of popular Verdict against Robesonism and for honest government. No matter what party is in power, THE SUN stands and will continue to stand like a rock for the interests of the people against the ambition of bosses, the schemings of politicians, and the dishonest schemes of public robbers.

THE Maryland Classis of the Reformed Church, will meet in special session in Emmitzburg on next Tuesday (the 19th inst) to take action on the reception of the Rev. Geo. B. Resser, from the Lancaster Classis, and his installation as Pastor of the Emmitzburg charge, and other business that may claim attention.

A Hotel Man's Luck.

Mr. J. G. Tyler, chief clerk at the Union Depot Hotel, Ogden, had rheumatism in the muscles of the chest and left shoulder. By applying the Great German Remedy three days he realized complete restoration, and he is of the opinion that there is nothing equal to the St. Jacobs Oil for pain. The Great German Remedy is also a specific for burns and sprains.—Salt Lake (Utah) Tribune

A Boiling Kettle.

In the lack of the stimulus the election period gave to the good people of Frederick, they have gotten into a great muddle about their Post Office, and desiring a new building, the location of which has called forth differences of opinion. On reading their newspapers it is to be inferred the whole town has been agog in the matter. Unacquainted as we are in the merits of the case, we stand by prudent persons are wont to do of a dog fight, and yet we trust will be hurt, and that the rural districts may not be involved.

"I move," said a delegate in a Virginia convention, "that our chairman take a dose of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, he is so hoarse that I cannot understand him." That gentleman had no doubt tried this wonderful medicine.

The Star and Sentinel says, York boasts of a church for every 600 inhabitants. Gettysburg has a church for every 300 inhabitants.

Emmitzburg has provision in that way for every 189 inhabitants and almost all of them attend, while several flourishing churches are within two miles of the village, additional to the above.—Ed.

Reading at Night.

We occasionally find young persons reading very fine print, by lamp light and several feet distant from the lamp, those persons are unconsciously preparing a too early need for spectacles, or it may be permanently impaired vision. To read comfortably the light should fall directly on the reading matter, from behind the reader, and over the left shoulder.

The Washington Monument Topping the Capitol.

The 168th course of stones was put in place on the Washington monument on Monday last, which raises it to a height 2 1/2 inches greater than that of the highest point of the figure of the Goddess of Liberty on the Capitol. The shaft is now 436 feet 5 1/2 inches high.

VICK'S FLORAL GUIDE has been received, it is entirely up to the usual excellence of the House's productions, and is very handsome; finest paper, plates of flowers and vegetables in colors. Those who send 10 cents to James Vick, Rochester, N. Y., will be repaid in the book for the outlay.

The New Bridge.

Messrs. Cofford and Saylor, of Pottstown, Pa., of the Philadelphia Bridge Company, were last week awarded the contract for building two new iron bridges for the Western Maryland Railroad, Company, one over the Monocacy river and the one over the Antietam river. The bridge over the Monocacy is to be built in three spans, the entire length being 364 feet, and the bridge over the Antietam will be a single span of 150 feet. Both are to be of the heaviest pattern, and of the type known as "Pratt Truss." The contract price of the Monocacy bridge is $16,963, and of the Antietam bridge $8,213.33.

From the Compiler.

Reports of "low water" come from different quarters. The Schuylkill coal operators are suffering from a water famine.

At Bendersville, the other day, whilst Auctioneer W. H. Reed was chopping wood, he almost severed three of his toes by a slip of the axe.

Mr. Jacob Sell, residing in Union township, about three miles east of Littlestown, was frozen to death on Wednesday night. He had been at this place and left in the evening about 2 o'clock. Not returning home the next morning the family went in search of him, and found his lifeless body about half a mile away from his residence. His age was 67 years 4 months and 12 days. A large concourse of friends attended the funeral on Sunday morning.

The County Public Printing.

The Cabinet of last week, discourses logically and with due emphasis on the above subject. We endorse its premises and conclusions heartily, and hope they may prove effective in the interests of the people.

The Valley Register follows up the subject and reduces its suggestions to the most practical form, showing that one insertion in all the County Papers, can be made at a less cost than the three in each of the Frederick papers, which have been ordered; and that the single publication is sufficient, and wisely concludes that the arrangement was prompted by a false economy.

We claim that newspaper establishments are of benefit to the County, wherever they exist, and that they should be recognized as such, and that they are emphatically an adjunct to the School interests, to be used for their advancement.

In the Circuit Court.

Soon after the opening of the December term of Court on Monday morning, Mr. Wm. P. Mansby, Jr., arose and offered the following resolutions which were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, The Hon. Wm. Viers Bouie has retired from the Bench of this Circuit Court after a service of fifteen years, and WHEREAS, it is fitting that the bar of Frederick county should express their testimonials upon the occasion. Therefore be it Resolved, That the members of the bar of the Circuit Court for Frederick county express their sincere regret at the retirement of Judge Bouie from the bench, and their warm and hearty admission of his learned talent, sincerity, industry and the judicial integrity with which he discharged the duties of his exalted position.

Resolved, That the Clerk of the Court be and is hereby requested to place these Resolutions upon the minutes of the Court and to transmit a copy of the same to ex-Judge Bouie.

At the conclusion of the reading, remarks were made by Judges Ritchie, Lynch and Vinson, and by Messrs. Motter, Nelson, Brengle, Umer and others. Mr. Vinson, the new elected judge, was escorted to his seat on the bench, upon his arrival here on Monday, by a committee consisting of Messrs. Motter and Nelson. The docket as called shows the following cases: Criminals, 49; Appeals, 37; Trials, 190; Originals, 60.—Exam.

That's What's the Matter!

"The old man" has been as cross as a bear for a week past. No wonder that bread is heavy enough to kill an ostrich. Go right to Bussey's and get a package of "Dry Hop Yeast," it will cost you but 10 cents for one dozen cakes. Give the "Old Man" some light bread, and he will "smile again."

A Powerful Contrast.

When the soldiers of the dark ages were attacked with tetter, they could do naught but suffer. Medical science had not yet developed a cure. This labor of love and humane duty was left for Dr. Swayne, whose Ointment for skin diseases is infallible in its results, as was the inspiring potency of Patrick Henry's memorable words, "Give me liberty or give me death."

List of Letters.

The following letters remain in the Post Office, Emmitzburg, Md., Dec 11, 1882. Persons calling will please say advertised, otherwise they may not receive them:

Mrs. C. Bawner, Hugh Hughes, Mrs. C. A. Hoover, J. B. Orink, Samuel Shields, August Schneidiger, Harry Trunberlake.

Various Causes—

Advancing years, care, sickness, disappointments, and hereditary predispositions—all operate to turn the hair gray, and either of them incline it to shed prematurely. AYER'S Hair Vigor will restore faded or gray, light or red hair to a rich brown or deep black, as may be desired. It softens and cleanses the scalp, giving it a healthy action. It removes and cures dandruff and humors. By its use falling hair is checked, and a new growth will be produced in all cases where the follicles are not destroyed or the glands decayed. Its effects are beautifully shown on bristly, weak, or sickly hair, on which few applications will produce the gloss and freshness of youth. Harmless and sure in its results, it is incomparable as a dressing, and is especially valued for the soft lustre and richness of tone it imparts.

AYER'S Hair Vigor is colorless; contains neither oil nor dye; and will not soil or color white cambric; yet it lasts long on the hair, and keeps it fresh and vigorous, imparting an agreeable perfume.

For sale by all druggists.

MALARIA, Chills and Fever, and bilious attacks positively cured with Emory's Standard Cure Pills—an infallible remedy: never fail to cure the most obstinate, long-standing cases where Quinine and all other remedies had failed.—They are prepared expressly for malarious sections, in double boxes, two kinds of Pills, containing a strong cathartic and a chill breaker, sugar-coated; contain no Quinine or Mercury, causing no griping or purging; they are mild and efficient, certain in their action and harmless in all cases; they effectually cleanse the system, and give new life and tone to the body. As a household remedy they are unequalled. For Liver Complaint their equal is not known; or a box will have a wonderful effect on the worst case. They are used and prescribed by Physicians, and sold by Druggists everywhere, or sent by mail, 25 and 50 cent boxes. Emory's Little Cathartic Pills, best ever made, only 15 Cents.—Standard Cure Co., 114 Nassau Street New York. apr 22-8m
