THE QUARREL OF THE WHEELS.

BY THOMAS DUNN ENGLISH.
I sat within my wagon on a heated summer day.
And watched my horse's flinging feet devour the dusty way;
When suddenly a voice below shrieked out, it seemed to me:
"You're bigger, but you cannot go one-half so fast as we!"
I looked around, but no one there my straining vision caught;
We are alone upon the road—I must have dreamed, I thought;
Then almost at my feet I heard, distinct, a voice's sound:
"You'll never overtake us though you twice go o'er the ground!"
It puzzled me at first, but soon the fact upon me broke;
The fore-wheels of the wagon had thus to the hind-wheels spoke.
I listened to the answer, and it came in accents low:
"You're no father now before us than you were an hour ago!"
I awaited the rejoinder, but no further answer came;
The fore-wheels were too busy, and the hind-wheels were the same;
And though I strained my hearing much, depressing well my head,
By fore-wheels or by hind-wheels not another word was said.
The matter set me thinking how in life one often knows
Of bitter controversies with the words absurd as those;
How many claim as merit what is after all but fate,
With success that others make for them exultingly late.
Your wise and mighty statesman just before his fellow set,
Strives, as fore-wheel in the wagon further from the hind to get;
Rolls along in his complacency, as he thinks, to name and fame,
To find, the journey ended, his position just the same.
The patient toiler struggles, but no inch beyond is gained;
And he grumbles that, despite him, one position is unobtainable.
Not reflecting that the owner, who can exerting control,
Bade him ever, as the hindmost, for a fitting purpose roll.
Still speeds along the wagon o'er the steady roadway drawn,
Till ends the weary journey, and the light of day has gone;
And all the rivalries of men, the quiet thinker feels,
Are idle as the quarrels of the fore and hinder wheels.

Western Maryland Railroad WINTER SCHEDULE
ON and after SUNDAY, Nov. 12th, 1882, passenger trains on this road will run as follows:

A STARTLING RUMOR REGARDING THE FOURTH STREET SCHOOL PANIC.

A rather startling rumor has been circulating, for some days in New York, to the effect that the fire in the Catholic School, which caused such a disastrous panic, was not accidental, as at first supposed, but the work of an incendiary; it is to be hoped for the sake of humanity that the rumor is untrue, a member of the socialist and communistic society is the suspected villain.

It would be very hard for the people of this country, to believe in the existence of organizations, in this free and enlightened land, capable of encouraging such friendish deeds, though we have learned to look upon them, as a matter of course in monarchical Europe. Our correspondent writes of the matter as follows: One of the sisters claims that when she came out of her school room after the alarm had been given, she was knocked down by a stranger man who was in the corridor at the time, and the first of the would be rescuers, who rushed into the building and did so much harm that they could not have done worse had they tried. The police are quietly working up the matter, and should it be found to be true it will go hard with the fiend. These German Socialists are a very hard set, and although they profess to be wonderfully enlightened in their views, and liberal in their way and ideas, they as a body (for they are of course superior exceptions) manage to show as utter a heartlessness and mental depravity as to fairly horrify one. When the fourteen little victims of the disaster were buried last Thursday, a man in the crowd, who was known to be a shining light in the party yelled out, "may fire and destruction come down on every church, every convent and every school in charge of the priests and nuns," and the bystanders in the vicinity took this as a matter of course. The rumor alluded to above may not be true, but certainly the source to which the alleged crime is attributed is thoroughly bad that it readily receives credence among the non-communistic residents of "Little Germany."

ANARCHISTS IN EUROPE.

Brussels, Feb. 26.—In connection with the explosion of dynamite in the village of Granshorten on Saturday, while two members of an anarchist committee were experimenting, the house of an anarchist here, who entertained Louise Michel when she was in Brussels recently, was searched yesterday by the police, who seized three trunks. The Gazette says that the majority of the documents which have been seized are written in Russian and Italian. They clearly reveal a vast international anarchist conspiracy which is fast spreading throughout Europe. It is reported that they show that a plot has been organized to murder the Czar of Russia on the occasion of his coronation in May. A despatch from Paris says it is rumored that the disclosures made will lead to the arrest of Louise Michel and several of her associates. The man who was not wounded by the explosion at Granshorten is named Cyvet. He is a weaver from Lyons. It is said that the French Government demands his extradition.

Madrid, Feb. 26.—Accounts from Andalusia show that doings of the Socialistic societies recently discovered there resemble the worst outrages committed in Ireland. The societies are particularly violent in their denunciation of landlords.

The suggestion of ex Gov. SEYMOUR that Decoration Day, which is now well established as a holiday, should also be made a day for yearly tree planting, is worthy of attention. In many cases this planting could be made to assume a memorial character, and in all cases, since the day is generally observed, and there is much leisure for those who witness or take part in the celebration, there could be economy and mutual help in a general custom of employing a part of the day in setting out trees. "Trees regulate rainfall," says Gov. SEYMOUR, "and where they are destroyed the country is desolated by droughts or by excessive rainfalls." Decoration Day comes at a very suitable time for tree planting in a large part of the North.—N. Y. Sun.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26, 1883. Washington's Birthday, if it had not been for the semi-suspension of business and the few receptions of military organizations would scarcely have been known. I am sure that if a foreigner had asked any ordinary man he had run across what day was being celebrated, he could not have told. It is to be presumed of course that every American is as fondly proud of the memory of this man as the character and deeds of the Father of his Country warrant. But it is strange indeed how pious little enthusiasm there is on the anniversary of his birth. It was not always so. It is not ten years ago when Washington's Birthday was an occasion second only to the Fourth of July. There were parades of military and civic organizations throughout the city in the day, and fireworks and speeches in the evening. The boys built bonfires and although the police man was in duty bound to look unkindly at them, yet he would sooner steal away than serve as a spoil sport. Now all this is changed, and the day might as well be the anniversary of the birthday of Kamehamaha the great king of the Sandwich Islands as of Washington. I dined at the house of a well known clergyman the other day and conversation turned to this admirari feeling which is growing in strength in this country. "It is all an account of that Ingersoll spirit which permeates the very air that we breathe," said the man who uses his splendid oratorical gifts to vilify, ridicule and distort sacred feelings simply to make money, as a king's jester formerly did for a living, is doing an incalculable amount of harm. I have too good an opinion of his mind to think that he believes his own sophisms, and hence his criminality is all the greater. By his specious reasoning and sophistry he warps the judgment of the young and the half educated. He robs them of their respect for sacred things, and how can they after that respect worldly authority, age or experience. He makes the aim of the labor of life, either sensual enjoyment or the garnering of money. Where does it expect we will finish?

Rumors have been prevalent for several days that William H. Van derbilt has been seriously ill, and that he is threatened with paralysis of the brain. So far as can be ascertained, however, the rumor is untrue. The family declare the reports "wicked falsehoods circulated for the sake of influencing the stock market." Mr. Vanderbilt has been confined to his room with a severe cold, and has been compelled to forego his customary drive on the road for several afternoons. His son Cornelius too has been obliged to carry on his shoulders nearly the entire responsibility of his father's business. Although William K. is the elder, the father places more reliance on Cornelius. William K. is perhaps the more brilliant of the two, he has more dash and more quick energy, but he lacks balance. Even on the turf where he had a sort of meteoric career, racing in the name of his trainer, his quality, or rather absence of it was frequently noted and commented on, particularly in betting transactions.

The fishermen on both the New York and New Jersey side of the Hudson River are getting ready for the shad fishing season, which, beginning on March 10th, last until May, and of course, according to the time honored custom, there will soon be the annual war between the Pilot Commissioners and the fishers. Shad fishing in these waters is done by means of immense nets fastened to poles in the river. By law nets and poles are allowed to be placed on the New Jersey side of the Hudson to the middle of the stream, so as not to interfere with navigation which of course is very heavy on the New York side. Now this middle of the stream is always the bone of contention. The Pilot Commissioners fix it, but the fishermen have never been known to keep to it. If they can only get their poles a few inches further they are happy. There are a number of ancient mariners among them who can remember when there were no docks on the New York side, when what is now

West, Washington and Greenwich Street, was part of the river, and Canal Street was really a canal. Now they wish the middle of the river to be determined by the old shores. Every year it is determined anew that these marine lawyers are wrong; but nevertheless they go beyond their limits. The result is that a couple of boats are injured by the poles. The owners complain to the Pilot Commissioners, and they issue an order to the delinquent fishermen to remove the delinquent poles, of course it is not done. Then the Pilot Commissioners quietly fit out a tug and start out on a raid and pull up every pole that is beyond the line. The howls, the protests, the prayers and the threats that then ensue from the mariners are simply awe inspiring, but the Vikings of the Pilot Board do not mind them. In fact they rather enjoy them. It adds a sort of zest to their work and man always is at least a cruel animal. I took part in one of these expeditions and confess it was quite an enjoyment. You felt like a buccaner of the nineteenth century, and gloried in possession of might and right too. The sense of cruelty was lessened by the fact that the fishing season was nearly over, and that of course the fishermen were thereby saved the expense of removing their paraphernalia.

Evangelist Barnes, the mountain apostle, as he loved to hear himself called, has left us to go to Europe. He was a flat failure here, whatever he may have been in the West, and as he is a very plain spoken man, much more vigorous in his language than the apostles were in their time, he has no hesitating in expressing his disgust. Brooklyn particularly displeased him, and he said that it was a place where wickedness and sin literally dropped off the trees. I confess I do not see how Barnes ever expected to make a success here. His style of oratory and gross familiarity with Christ, and his hearers was positively repulsive, but it seems that the revivalists invariably drop into this style. I remember the Widow Von Cott when she commenced her career as a missionary. She was a strong, earnest speaker, and if at times she transgressed the bounds of enthusiasm it was pardonable. Now however she has dropped down to the level of all sensational religionists. She conducted revival services recently at a very nice Methodist Church, and her manner grew so offensive that the minister of the church felt so ashamed over his mistake in inviting her and almost stayed away from church. One gentleman she aroused so much by her lackluster way of telling him to come up to the platform and confess his sins, as well as yearning before his feet on account of his crimes, that he left the church so as not to insult her. Souls are not brought to the fold in this way.

The terrible disaster in the parochial school of the Catholic Church of the most holy redeemer, by which about twenty children were killed, and as many more maimed and wounded, still fills the minds of everybody with horror. The fact that appears most glaringly is that the children were not brilled how to act in case of fire as they are in the public schools. A few weeks ago there was an alarm of fire in a public school for colored children. They were of course as much panic stricken as anybody would be under such circumstances. But the principal retained her presence of mind. She gave the wanted signal, familiar to her charges from repeated drills. The children remembered it, gathered in rank and file and marched out, without having so much as a dress ruffled. The fire then was found to be slight. Had the same discipline prevailed at the School of the Most Holy Redeemer, not a child would have been injured for the fire was unimportant. The stairways, too, seem to have been anything but safe. The Building Department has been making such a fuss of forcing owners of hotels and theatres to make means of escape in case of fire easy. They seem to have forgotten that churches and schools stand fully as much, if not more in need of proper arrangements. Now probably something will be done, but of course it always requires a horror of some kind to sharpen the wits and arouse the activity of public authorities.

On Thursday night 25th ult., James Guthrie, a prosperous young farmer, was married to Miss Hulda Martin, at Halifax Court house, Va. Next morning while the family and guests were assembling for breakfast, and awaiting the appearance of the bride and groom, they were startled by a shriek from the bride of a night, who, on awakening found her husband dead by her side.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S private estates extend over 37,372 acres, and the annual rental is $20,773. This does not include the domain of Clarenceau. The Queen also has property at Coburg and Baden-Baden. These facts are mentioned in the new "Doomsday Book," which starving Irishmen might read with interest at breakfast.

OTTAWA, Feb. 11.—Wiggins, the Canadian weather prophet, had just discovered that he has erred in his calculations concerning the March storm. He still maintains that the storm will occur, but not to such an alarming extent as previously predicted. It will only cover a narrow area. His storm predicted for Feb. 9 did not come to time owing to miscalculation.

HALIFAX, N. S., February 19.—Eight men were overcome by black damp on Saturday while descending a coal shaft near Maccos, Cumberland county. One of the number recovered his senses and gave an alarm, when a party of volunteers went below and found two of the men, named Patten and Wilson, dead. The others were rescued alive, but one of the number, named Burrows, died subsequently.

THE cigarette has obtained a popularity among the schoolboys of Philadelphia that has alarmed the authorities, and various plans for reform have been proposed. A principal of a grammar school estimates that 75 per cent. of the male pupils under his charge are smokers, against less than half that number before cigarettes came into common use. The only measure thus far adopted is of a persuasive nature. A circular setting forth the harmfulness of tobacco, and especially of bad cigarettes, has been placed in the hands of every boy, and pasted inside the cover of each text book.

Both are out of the beaten track of ships. Two French expeditions are being equipped—one to observe the eclipse at Caroline Island and the other at Flint. The British will send a party to Caroline.

WHEN San Francisco reports that "the winter has been more severe than any since the city was settled," it does not mean that the temperature has been very low. "We account it quite cold around this bay," says the Chronicle, "when mercury drops down to freezing point; but for many days of the last and present months it has been 10 to 15 degrees lower than that. Ice has formed in this city in one night over half an inch thick, and we have had the unheard-of phenomenon of a three inch snowfall."

THE FIRST COMET OF THE YEAR.—A little before seven o'clock on Friday evening last, while Prof. Lewis Swift, Director of the Warner Observatory, Rochester, N. Y., was scanning the western sky, he discovered a brilliant comet located in the constellation of Pegasus, near the star Beta. The comet is moving eastward and is very bright. This is the first comet discovered during the present year and also the first discovery made by means of the new telescope of the Warner Observatory, which is the largest private telescope in the world.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 27.—A despatch from Latrobe, Pa., says: William Thaw, acting for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, to-day purchased from A. O. Tristram 1,000 acres of valuable coke land located on the Connellsville belt, lying down the country from Latrobe. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has been buying up coke lands in this district for some time past, to head off the Vanderbilt and Baltimore and Ohio parties.

The length of track of the Pennsylvania Railroad laid within the bounds of that State aggregates 2,200 miles. This does not include side tracks or double tracked portions of its lines. The total length of the lines owned, leased and controlled east of Pittsburgh is 3,859.92, including 406 miles of canals and ferries.

HERE AT LAST. After Long and weary Waiting relief is brought to those who need it. "Well, Pat," said an Orange county Physician to a complaining Irish patient some years ago, "for that pain in your chest you had better go home and put on a mustard plaster. And by the way," added the doctor turning to a friend, "I wish somebody would invent a real good plaster—something actually helpful for such cases as Pat's. Maybe they will sometime, when it's too late for us to use it."

When BENSON'S CAPSINE POROUS PLASTER was placed on the market about ten years ago the doctor's hope became a fact. A severe and capital operation in surgery was performed on Thomas Hartssock of Cotocin Furnaces, on the 13th instant. Some six months since Mr. Hartssock injured the eye while breaking limestone at Cotocin Furnace, so gravely as to cause entire loss of one eye with grave fear of producing ultimate blindness. The operation was skillfully and successfully performed by Rev. J. Stuart Smith, M.D., of Westminster, assisted by Dr. McPherson, of extirpation of the diseased eye, with every hope of saving the other. The Rev. gentleman though not a practitioner, is certainly a skillful oculist and surgeon.—Clarion.

THE Law of Public Sales. As the season for public auction is about upon us we give the following clipped from one of our exchanges: "In sale by auction there are three parties, viz: The owner of the property to be sold, the auctioneer, and a portion of the public. The articles must be sold without reserve, and unless the vendor reserve one bid he cannot bid himself or have the auctioneer or any one else bid for him. There are cases on record where a bid was not reserved, and the vendor had a bidder who bought it in, and afterward suit was brought against the vendor by the highest bidder for the article, and it was decided that he, the plaintiff, was the highest outside bidder entitled to the article against the vendor. So, also, if any article is struck off to a person, and it is afterward ascertained that the vendor or auctioneer practiced fraud by bidding himself, or hand proxy, it was held by both courts of England, and so repeatedly decided by the supreme court of Pennsylvania, that the purchaser should not be held, but the purchaser as soon as he discovers the fraud practiced upon him must return or tender the article to the vendor."

Miscellaneous.

THE PAINTER'S RUSE.—There lived in Brussels a celebrated painter named Wiertz, whose eccentricities were such as to give him the name of the "Crazy Artist."

After having finished a portrait of the old aristocratic Countess de Arnos, who pretened to be only thirty when nearly sixty, she refused to accept the painting, saying it did not look anything like herself, and that her most intimate friends would not recognize a single feature of her on that piece of canvas.

Wiertz smiled kindly at the remark, and as a true knight of old, gallantly conducted the lady to her carriage.

Next morning there was a grand disturbance in the Rue de Madeline. A big crowd was gathered before a window, and the following was whispered from ear to ear:

"Is the Countess de Arnos really in jail for her debts?"

Wiertz had exercised a little vengeance toward his noble but unfair customer.

As soon as she had refused the portrait he set to work and painted a few iron bars on the picture, with these words: "In jail for debt."

He exhibited the painting in a jeweller's window in the principal street of Brussels, and the effect was instantaneous.

A few hours later the Countess was back at Wiertz's pouring invectives on him at high pressure—"to have exhibited her likeness under such scandalous"—&c.

"Most noble lady," was the artist's reply, "you said the painting did not look anything like yourself, and that your most intimate friends would not have recognized a single one of your features in the picture. I wanted to test the truth of your statement; that is all."

The portrait was taken away, the city laughed, the artist charged double price, and gave the amount to the poor of the city.

SCRAPING TREES.—Do we approve of scraping trees? asks a friend of ours. Certainly we do, provided they need it, and one can rarely find an old tree that does not. Aside from the fact that the removal of the old bark scales breaks up a refuge for various insects, including the Woolly-aphis, the increased beauty of the tree repays the trouble.

There are scrapers made for the purpose; one of these has a triangular blade, another a long blade, with one flat and another slightly concave edge. An old hoe is quite as good a tool as any; cut off the handle to about 18 inches, and do not grind the blade too sharp, as a cutting implement is not needed—only a scraper. On a very old trunk some force may be needed to detach the scales that are partly loose, but on young trees be careful not to wound the healthy bark. The scraping may be done now, next month, or later. When there comes a moist drizzly spell, go over the scraped bark with good soft soap, made thin enough with water to apply with a brush. Paint over a thick coat of this soap and leave the rest to the rains. Later in the season the trees will appear as if furnished with mahogany trunks.—American Agriculturist for February.

TO CURE COLD FEET.—The Philadelphia Ledger says: "People who write or sew all day, or rather those who take but little exercise, may warm their cold feet without going to the fire. All that is necessary is to stand erect and very gradually to lift one's self upon the tips of the toes, so as to put all the tendons of the foot at full strain. This is not to hop or jump up and down, but simply to rise—the slower the better—upon tiptoe, and to remain standing on the point of the toe as long as possible, then coming to a natural position. Repeat this several times and, by the amount of work the tips of the toes are made to do, in sustaining the body's weight, a sufficient and lively circulation is set up. Even the half-frozen ear drivers can carry this plan out. It is one rule of the "Swedish movement" system; and as motion warmth is much better than fire warming, persons who suffer with cold feet at night can try this plan, just before retiring to rest."

The doctors disagree as to the best methods and remedies, for the cure of constipation and disordered liver and kidney. But those that have used Kidney-Wort, agree that it is by far the best medicine known. Its action is prompt, thorough and just. Don't take pills, and other mercurials that poison the system, but by using Kidney-Wort restore the natural action of all the organs.

Humorous.

WE increased our circulation considerably this morning—had a foot race with a Billy goat.—Arkansas Traveler.

"WHEN I was a young man," says Billings "I was always in a hurry to hold the big end of the log and do all the lifting; now I am old, I seize hold of the small end and do all the grunting."

Two young men out riding were passing a farm-house where a farmer was trying to harness a mule. "Won't he draw?" said one of the horsemen. "Of course he will," said the farmer, "he draws the attention of every fool that passes."

"How do you pronounce s-t-i-n-g-y?" Prof Steans asked the young gentleman nearest the foot of the class. And the smart boy stood up and said it depended a great deal whether the word applied to man or bee. "Go to the head, young fellow."

RECTOR, recently appointed to new parish meeting old man; "Well, Thomas, this is a most healthy and beautiful spot, and people seem to live to great age here. I should think folks hardly ever die here." Thomas: "Well, sir, it's generally the last thing they do, sir, here."

YOUNG men who are in doubt as to what profession they ought to select, should study to become astronomers, for the simple reason that their business will be always looking up. They would do well if seeking a trade to avoid that of blacksmith, because vice is familiar to them, they are forgers, cannot keep their temper, and carry iron in every remark they make.

"DON'T swear so, John. What if you should be struck dead with such horrid oaths on your lips?" said his wife, soothingly. "Swear so? Jimminy crickets, by all that's great I'm not swearing; but I'm going to express my opinion of this confounded, nine-cornered bazoo of a blamed rickety, infernal bit of stove-pipe." Exit the wife, with her hands over her ears.—Boston Globe.

A friend, visiting in a minister's family where the parents were very strict in regard to the children's Sabbath department, was confidentially informed by one of the little girls that she would like to be a minister. "Why?" inquired the visitor, rather puzzled to know what had given the child so sudden an admiration for that calling. She was quickly enlightened by the prompt reply, "So I could holler on Sunday."

A new rival band was hired to play at the funeral of a Connecticut deacon. They were playing a slow and solemn dirge at the grave, when suddenly the trombone man shot out a blast that started the hearse horses and broke up the whole procession. The leader, turning upon him fiercely, asked him what he was doing that for. He answered, with a smile: "Wall, I thought it was a note, and it wasn't nothing but a horse-ly, but I played it."

A WELL known English citizen of Fall River, Mass., who, by hard labor, frugality, and fortunate investment, had acquired a handsome property, was called as a witness in the Supreme Court of that city. Upon taking the stand the counsel propounded the customary questions concerning his age, occupation, &c., finally eliciting the complacent reply, "I am a gentleman."

"How long," quired the lawyer, "have you been one?" The witness promptly replied, "About five years, sir."

BOOKS.—Books have not always been so cheap as now. The King of Northumberland, in 690, gave for a history of the world 800 acres of land; and a Countess of Anjon once gave 200 sheep and a large parcel of furs for a volume of homilies, and 120 crowns for a single book of Livy. In 1720, a Latin Bible was valued at $150, and this was at a time when two arches of London Bridge were built for less than that amount. A laborer in those days had wages so small that the earnings of fifteen years were necessary to buy a Bible.
