Emmitsburg Chronicle.

EMMITSBURG, MD.

SATURDAY, MAR. 8, 1884.

THE UNREST OF THE PERIOD

Antagonism necessarily marks the course of human progress. It has been thus from the hour when its self-imposed depravity perverted the current of its original bearings.

The progress of the ages beyond doubt finds in our era, a diminished influence in the more outward and potent forces of malignity, but the evil tendency is everywhere still actively at work, stirring up strife and discontent and expostions against each and every effort to better the world's condition.

Just at this time the general body politic seems to be agitated to its innermost centre. The sessions of Congress and State Legislatures, are for the most part the provoking cause of the unrest.

Temperance, Reform in governmental affairs, the succession to office in the General and State governments, down to the petty positions of our district affairs, keeps up a constant turmoil.

At home here in Frederick county, we have been exercised about a more economical course of expenditures, and improved administration of our Jail and Almshouse, and the conduct of Justice under a "Cheap Sheriff."

Our neighbours at Hagerstown are warmly excited about the enlargement of their limits, and an expanded form of municipal government; Middletown has her railroad to fight for, Baltimore city desires the annexation of what is termed "The Belt," and loud and vigorous is her conflict in the issue.

Westminster is about to wake up on the question of increased taxation, and a bonded debt in favour of improving her streets; look where you may, the signs of war and carnage show themselves, and here in our Mountain girl village, in this quiet retreat from the hurly burly of the world, we have been foaming and rolling and spitting on the question of protecting our property by convenient supplies of water.

It all comes of the inborn spirit of contradiction that governs mankind, and so as the tide has flowed in the ages past, will it flow on and on into the fathomless future, till the might of Truth overpowers the forces of error.

MAKE IT FREE. Our valued contemporary, the Courier-Journal, has an article on the sale of tobacco by producers. It appears that there is an obstacle in some ruling of the Internal Revenue Bureau, and this ruling our contemporary desires to have modified.

But why should there be any restraint on the sale of tobacco by producers? There is none on the sale of wheat, or potatoes, or cotton, and why should tobacco be singled out and subjected to restriction? During the civil war there was a necessity for it, because everything had to be taxed out of which revenue could possibly be derived; but the sale of tobacco and of every other product of American agriculture should be as free as the light and air.

THE BRITISH VICTORIES.

The British forces on Friday last attacked and defeated the Arabs in Egypt, capturing Teb and driving the rebels off with a loss of 1,100 killed and wounded. On Saturday the British took possession of Tokar. It is said the Arabs fought bravely, but had inferior arms, and that they would throw themselves upon their backs and spear the British horses as they were ridden over them.—Ex.

The Sun.

New York, 1881. About sixty million copies of THE SUN have gone out of our establishment during the past twelve months.

If you were to paste end to end all the columns of THE SUN printed and sold last year you would get a continuous strip of interesting information, common sense, wisdom, sound doctrine, and sane wit long enough to reach from Printing House square to the Mount-Copernicus in the moon, then back to Printing House square, and then three-quarters of the way back to the moon again.

But THE SUN is written for the inhabitants of the earth; this same strip of intelligence would girdle the globe twenty-seven or twenty-eight times.

If every buyer of a copy of THE SUN during the past year, has spent only one hour over it, and if his wife or his grand-father has spent another hour, this newspaper in 1883 has afforded the human race thirteen thousand years of steady reading, night and day.

It is only by little calculations like these that you can form any idea of the most popular of American newspapers, or of its influence on the opinions and actions of American men and women.

THE SUN is, and will continue to be, a newspaper which tells the truth, without fear of consequences, which gets at the facts no matter how much the process costs, which presents the news of all the world without waste of words and in the most readable shape, which is working with all its heart for the cause of honest government, and which therefore believes that the Republican party must go, and must go in this coming year of our Lord, 1884.

If you know THE SUN, you like it already, and you will read it with acute interest and profit during winter months, sure to be the most interesting year in its history. If you do not yet know THE SUN, it is high time to get into the sun ship.

Terms to Mail Subscribers. The several editions of THE SUN are sent by mail, postpaid, as follows: DAILY—30 cents a month, $6 a year; with Sunday edition, $7. SUNDAY—Eight pages. This edition furnishes the current news of the world, special articles of exceptional interest to everybody, and literary reviews of new books of the highest merit. $1 a year. WEEKLY—$1 a year. Eight pages of the best matter of the daily issues; an Agricultural Department of unequalled value, special market reports, and literary, scientific, and domestic intelligence makes THE WEEKLY SUN the newspaper for the farmer's household. To clubs of ten with $10 an extra copy free.

A Sudden Death. Mr. Henry Cromer, residing near Mt Joy Church, in Adams county, Pa., about 4 miles from Emmitsburg, made a call at Mr. Hill's, residing on his son's farm on Tuesday, Mr. Hill, being absent, he engaged in a short conversation with Mrs. H. and then remarked that he would go home, and started for his horse that had been hitched to the wagon a few minutes afterward, on looking out of the door, Mrs. H saw the horse still standing in the shed with a blanket over him, thinking this singular, she went there, and was horrified to find Mr. Cromer lying dead. Heart disease is supposed to have been the cause of his death. He was aged about 74 years.

COMMUNICATED. On Sunday last, at 8 o'clock P. M., at St. Joseph's Academy, closed the earthly career of one whose life was, in many respects, above the ordinary run of mortals, and which certainly deserves to be noticed in the columns of the CHRONICLE. For among its readers, there must be many friends and admirers of the meekly lamented deceased, who is no other than the late beloved and admired Sister M. Raphael. On the above named day and at the home which she had loved so well, and had so long adorned by her virtues and amiable qualities, she peacefully surrendered her pure soul into the hands of her Creator, after having so faithfully served Him for upwards of seventy years, fifty-three and some months of which, she spent in St. Joseph's Vale, as a Sister of Charity, in the exercise of those heroic virtues which cause the community to which she belonged, to be revered all over the land. She was a native of Louisiana, and was but eight years old when she entered St. Joseph's Academy, as a pupil. Here by earnest application to her studies, during nine years, she acquired those grand accomplishments in the sciences and christian virtues, which made her the admiration of all who had the pleasure of coming in contact with her, and endeared her to all who were happy enough to come under her tender care. Having graduated with the highest honors and distinction, she returned to her home. But she soon felt that it was the will of heaven, that she should consecrate to the service of God, her talents and accomplishments, in the same Alma Mater, in which she had acquired them. Therefore after a brief stay of about six months, among her friends, she returned to St. Joseph's Vale, I believe it was in the year 1823, where, with the exception of a few months, she lived until she drew her last peaceful breath, on March 2nd 1884. Peace be to her ashes, green be her memory in the breasts of all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance.

What a noble life was not that of Sister M. Raphael! Over fifty-one years she spent in training, in virtue and the sciences, and molding into christian women the youth of her own sex. During thirty-seven years of these, she was at the head of the Academy, as directress, laying down her charge only at the end of the last session of last year, which her fast falling health obliged her to do. When, after graduating, she returned home, young, beautiful, and highly accomplished, what charms, what fascinations, for the world did she not possess? What home was she not capable of making happy? What circle to move in, might she not adorn? Yet as soon as she felt that God wanted her to devote her talents and accomplishments to the welfare, spiritual and temporal, of the young and tender of her sex, she hesitated not a moment, but promptly obeyed the divine will. With a cheerful heart she makes a sacrifice of everything the world could offer her. Christ she chose on earth, Christ she must possess eternally in heaven. REQUIESCAT IN PACE.

THE Scholars of the "Annan Institute," under the direction of Miss Barbour, the principal, gave a very pleasant entertainment in the dining room of the Enamit House, on Friday evening of last week. The performance consisted of reading, recitations, dialogues and tableaux, in all which appeared the thorough training of the pupils. When the performance ended, Rev. E. S. Johnston, on behalf of the patrons of the school presented their thanks to Miss Barbour, in a few appropriate remarks.

Corrected. A highly esteemed correspondent desires us to give "a citation from his (St. Paul's) writings" wherein the expression, "cleanliness, is next to godliness" occurs, we heartily thank him on the suggestion. We wrote last week, "cleanliness, which as St. Paul says, is next to godliness." At that time, we were compelled to work so hastily, that it prevented our usual, verification, in all cases, when Scriptural references are made, by us, and we used the terms, in the same manner in which they have been current in print, on all sides. Referring to the "Cyclopaedia of Practical Quotations" by J. K. Hoyt, and Anna L. Ward, we find the following.

"Cleanliness of body was ever esteemed to proceed from a due reverence to God"—Bacon.

"Certainly this is a duty, not a sin. 'cleanliness is indeed next to godliness' John Wesley, Sermon XCII on Dress.

But Wesley himself uses the expression as a quotation; whence did he get it?

The word cleanliness nowhere occurs in the sacred Scriptures. The Patriarchs and the Prophets and the Apostles themselves, are supposed to have known nothing of soap as we understand the term, for down to the conquest of Gaul, even the Romans were, not acquainted with its primitive forms of production; hence the omission.

We write this article to repair the injustice, we have done in our supposed quotation, and to claim the slight unwittingly shown to them, through the inadvertence which hurried engagements produced.

Charity in Things Doubtful. The position of an Editor is in many respects very peculiar; but in none is it more trying, than when a sense of duty to the public, may compel him to take a stand in opposition to the views of personal and valued friends. It is but human that persons shall maintain their individual preconceptions, and expect that others should view things in the same light. The man who is wise in his own conceit does not stop to think, how another may come and search him, and hence there is no room allowed for possible opposition in all such cases, there is but one course left for him that would fill his duty faithfully; to have the courage of his convictions, and impartially set forth his opinions, fearlessly in vindication of what he conceives to be right; a wise man will change his opinion when he finds himself in the wrong, but a fool never.

Architectural Designs. We have received from Palliser, Palliser and Co., Architects of Bridgeport, Conn., a highly illustrated quarterly, of large size, published by the above named company at $3 per year. Each number will contain from 14 to 16 plates of drawings 18 by 22 inches in size, and so accurate that any mechanic can readily execute work according to them, by measurement with his rule. The first number, April contains drawings and descriptions of buildings both inside and outside, the details, as to artistic construction of gables, brackets, balconies, verandas, porches, door and window frames, towers, cupolas, ventilators, roofs, inside a great number of others for interior finish and decoration.

There is hardly a detail in the construction of a house, from the most to the least important, that these details do not touch upon. The book is a protest against bad designs in architecture.

The ideas or designs need not be used as a whole. The parts being complete in themselves, they can be combined so as to produce different results. No matter what kind of a job is to be done, the book contains the ideas to help out. When one looks at the contents in details, it is surprising that so much can be given at so low a price. Only $3.00 for these 40 plates—only 74 cents each—nearly furnish the mechanic nearly eleven hundred ideas that they want and use every day. We are glad to be able to commend this work so warmly. It is just what has been needed by the building community; in fact we do not exaggerate when we say that no builder who wishes to make money by making the building he erects look beautiful can afford to do without this valuable work. The work can be seen at our office.

Grand Jury Report. The grand jury for the February term of the circuit court adjourned on Saturday last after a session of only eleven days. During that time considerable business was transacted as will be seen by the following report to the court:

To the Honorable the judges of the circuit court of Frederick county.—The grand jurors for the February term of your honorable court beg leave to report to your honors that having been in session for eleven days and in this time having disposed of all the work brought to their notice, they have found forty two presentments, some of cases of considerable importance and many of misdemeanors. They have also dismissed thirteen cases and have examined one hundred and sixty witnesses.

In compliance with the law they have visited the jail of the county and Montevue Hospital, both of which institutions, they are pleased to state, were found in excellent condition, and the inmates comfortable and well cared for. They found the officers of both institutions accommodating and hospitable, while the management gave proof of the efficiency of those in control.

In the jail they found sixty-five prisoners, of these twelve awaiting the action of your honorable court and the remainder serving out the sentences for their respective offenses.

At Montevue Hospital they found one hundred and ninety-seven inmates. Of these there are one hundred and forty white and fifty seven black. Of the whites seven are tramps.

The grand jurors further beg leave to report that from the investigation made by them they find that the requirements of the act of 1880, chapter 133 in reference to public halls, etc., have been complied with.

Now, that they do not know of any further business needing their attention, they respectfully ask to be discharged from further attendance at this term of court.—The Call.

THE tribute to the memory of Sister Mary Raphael which appears in this issue, will touch many a tender chord in the memories of a large number of our readers. Her dignified bearing, sweetness of disposition, high intelligence, and deep piety so endeared her to her pupils, that when they once made her friendship, it became a life endowment, whose influence was felt in the entire circle of the pupil's relationship, and thus her name was accepted as the embodiment of refinement, intelligence and all those virtues which make up the highest religious excellence. In every family her name was familiar, as the expression of goodness.
