A MARVELOUS STORY FROM THE SON: "22 Cedar St., New York, Oct. 28, 1882."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I had in his case. I think his blood must have contained the humor for at least ten years.

FROM THE FATHER: "It is both a pleasure and a duty for me to state to you the benefit I have derived from the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Six months ago I was completely covered with a terrible humor and scurfous sores.

Take Things as They Come. Some days are bright and sunny, and some are bleak with rain.

And some are filled with pleasure, and some are filled with pain. For some the world is rosy, for others sad and grim.

A Strange Visitation. Very few more candid men or more genial companions than Ned Murray could be found in the city of Ballou.

Wherever he went he made friends, and at all times his purse was ready to relieve distress.

The act was done, the money obtained and used in bolstering his affairs. The agony of mind and torture of soul no one can know except the criminal himself.

When I did look, I saw just as plainly as I see you, darling, a lady standing in the doorway, gazing intently upon me.

"My God," I exclaimed, "I thank thee!"

"I was soon back into the city, pinching myself at intervals to see if I was indeed awake.

"I mailed the letter, at a hearty dinner, expressed to Mr. Browning, at Ballou, ample funds to settle all claims against me.

"I was startled, not so much at the question as at the voice. It was low and sweet, but seemed to come from a distance.

"Great Heaven!" thought I, "is it my wife and child, sojourning at a quiet country home a hundred miles from Ballou?

"I was truly grateful for your past encouragement, and trust, when in need of goods, you will call, with an assurance of a cordial welcome at the Central Dry Goods House.

myself penniless among strangers, and, for the first time in my career, knew what it was to crave food.

And things to suit our fancy I even found myself without shelter. In a city numbering its inhabitants by hundreds of thousands, I indeed felt like one who treads alone some banquet-hall deserted.

"Turn where I would, I could find no hand to succor, no heart to sympathize. The parks were bright and aglow with pleasure, the streams rippled forth music of peace.

"Out of the city I walked. Soon I breathed more easily. The pure air revived me, the country scenes refreshed me; I became invigorated.

"I had not been seated very long before I felt that some one else was in the room. I had seen nothing, I had heard no sound.

Had Been There Himself. Mr. Wood, who was chief of Federal detectives during the war, writes as follows to the Washington Gazette.

Some time after the execution of Mrs. Surraut President Johnson sent for me and requested me to give my version of Mrs. Surraut's connection with the assassination of President Lincoln.

"Write as I tell you." "Taking paper and pencil from my pocket, I wrote as follows at her dictation:—

"DEAR MARY.—I send but a few lines. Why do you treat my little ones so shamefully? You have money enough of them. You must not neglect them, nor slight them. I simply send this as a warning. If they are not treated with more consideration, I'll haunt you every hour. I'll be near as you read these lines.— You'll feel my presence—remember.— YOUR SISTER."

"Deliberately staying my hands, the spirit took the pencil, and, after what seemed to me a violent effort, she wrote 'Emma Monroe.' As the pencil dropped from her hand she said:—

"I would have signed it even if I had been tortured into tortments. Continuing, she said: 'Direct it to Mrs. Mary—No. 913—avenue, City of—'

"The writer omits the name and full address of the lady in question for sundry reasons.

"Smiling her thanks, the spirit or dream apparition, or imagination, faded from view before I could thank it for what it had done for me.

"I mailed the letter, at a hearty dinner, expressed to Mr. Browning, at Ballou, ample funds to settle all claims against me.

Grandmothers of a Bygone Generation.

"The trouble is nowadays," he said, adjusting his eye glass and frowning a strong-minded maiden of uncertain age who happened to be seated near him at a fashionable reception; the fact is nowadays that woman has lost those tender, clinging qualities which were so much admired in our grand-mother's time.

"In our grand-mother's time," she replied, with asperity, "very well-regulated domestic forest was made up of the tallest kind of timber. If our grand-mother has been obliged to creep around among the sickly sprouts that remain to this day and generation—that is, if they were the sort of grandmothers I have been led to believe they would have been swapped off their tendrils for wash-bowls and gone into the laundry business."

Where it Comes in. Customer—I suppose life will be cheaper the coming summer, won't it? Iecman—No, indeed! Higher if anything.

Customer—But great heavens, man! I have been plenty this winter? Iecman—Oh, yes. Customer—And it haint cost any more to cure it? Iecman—No, not as much.

Customer—Well, then, how are you going to make it cost more? Iecman—Well, you see there has been so much ice and it has cost so much less to cut it that our houses are overcrowded and we are compelled to go to great expense in building new houses. That's where the extra cost will come in.

Customer—Oh! Full Particulars. An old lady received a letter from her son, a sailor on board a merchantman, which ran thus: "Have been driven into the Bay of Biscay, by a pampose right in the teeth. It blowed great guns, and carried away the bowsprit; a heavy sea washed over the binnacle and compass; the captain lost his quadrant, and could take an observation for fifteen days; at last we arrived at Halifax."

"The old woman who could not read herself, got a neighbor to repeat it to her three or four times, until she had got it by heart. She then sallied out to tell the story. "Oh, my poor son!" "Why, what's the matter, mother? I hope no mischief."

"O, thank God, he's safe! But he has been driven into the Bay of Firmament by a bamboozle right in the teeth. It blowed guns, and they carried away the pulpit; a heavy sea washed overboard the binnacle and compass; the captain lost his quadrant, and could not get any navigation for fifteen days; at last they arrived at Hallelujah."

"La, bless us! what a wonder the wasn't beat to atoms. Well, wouldn't 'a' sailor?"

DR. JOHN BULL'S Smith's Tonic Syrup FOR THE CURE OF FEVER and ACUE Or CHILLS and FEVER, AND ALL MALARIAL DISEASES.

The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PAINLESS cures of Ague, Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to cure if the directions are strictly followed and carried out.
