HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian HAIR RENEWER

was the first preparation perfectly adapted to cure diseases of the scalp, and the first successful restorer of faded or gray hair to its natural color, growth, and youthful beauty. It has had many imitators, but none have so fully met all the requirements needful for the proper treatment of the hair and scalp. HALL'S HAIR RENEWER has steadily grown in favor, and spread its fame and usefulness to every quarter of the globe. Its unparalleled success can be attributed to but one cause: the entire fulfillment of its promises.

The proprietors have often been surprised at the receipt of orders from remote countries, where they had never made an effort for its introduction. The use for a short time of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER wonderfully improves the personal appearance. It cleanses the scalp from all impurities, cures all humors, fever, and dizziness, and thus prevents baldness. It stimulates the weakened glands, and enables them to push forward a new and vigorous growth. The effects of this article are not transient, like those of alcoholic preparations, but remain a long time, which makes its use a matter of economy.

MR. JOSEPH A. BAKER, has placed an ornamental sign over his "Meat Market," at the East end of town. It is a cattle scene, and does much credit to the painter, Mr. M. Kerrigan.

A SALISBURY paper says: "One of our enterprising farmers beyond the depot cut his wheat with his sheep-shears, threshed it in his cart body, and his wife fanned it in her apron. The result was three pecks."

MR. FELIX WALTER has leased the lime kilns belonging to Mr. Silas Nikirk and is now running them. He used a small engine in drilling the rock. The lime burned at these kilns is used for land and building purposes.—Boonsboro Times.

To beautify a locality, tends at once to promote order and to advance morals; thus much we verily believe is evident in our own town. It behooves all good citizens therefore to maintain the progress of events. Health and comfort and material property are all involved in the premises.

THERE being no known remedy for hog-cholera, there can be little doubt, but that the use of disinfectants about the pens may prove beneficial as a prevention against the attack; dissolved copers freely used will be found a cheap and easily applied agent. But by all means the bodies of those that die from the disease should be either burned or very deeply buried with a free use of quick lime on the carcass.

MR. FREDERICK FUNK, Waynesboro's second oldest citizen died yesterday morning after a lingering illness. He was in his 90th year, and up to within a few months ago appeared regularly on our streets.—Keystone Gazette.

Funeral Observances.

The proclamation of Governor Lloyd, inviting the citizens of the state to attend divine service at their respective places of worship, on the day of the funeral of Gen. Grant, (Saturday Aug. 8) will be generally observed.

Hay Fever Cured by Cream Balm.

I have been a periodical sufferer from Hay Fever since the summer of 1879, and, until I used Ely's Cream Balm, I was never able to find any relief. I can say that Cream Balm cured me.—L. M. Georgia, Binghamton, N. Y. j25-4t

THE Drug Store of Williamson & Brown in Frederick was burnt out on Thursday by the ignition of phosphorus whilst a prescription was being compounded. Dr. Williamson received some painful burns, but escaped through a trap door into the cellar.

FATHER Michael J. Brennan, assistant priest at St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church, Baltimore, died suddenly Sunday afternoon of apoplexy, superinduced by the heat. He said mass twice during the day, and officiated at a baptism shortly before his death.

The curative power of Ayer's Sarsaparilla is too well known to require the specious aid of any exaggerated or fictitious certificate. Witnesses of its marvelous cures are to-day living in every city and hamlet of the land. Write for names if you want home evidence.

The evenings are now damp, and persons who have worked during the day, or have exercised to fatigue, as well as others, run much risk in sitting about after Sun down, with their coats and other garments removed. The cooling air is as insidious in its effects, as it may prove injurious.

The most deadly foe to all malarial diseases is Ayer's Ague Cure, a combination of vegetable ingredients only, of which the most valuable is used in no other known preparation. This remedy is an absolute and certain specific, and succeeds when all other medicines fail. A cure is warranted.

A FIRE in Shippensburg, Pa., on Wednesday destroyed the stables of Clarence Reddig, Dr. Witherspoon and S. C. Hollar. The origin was incendiary and the loss is about $2,000. This is the sixth incendiary fire that has occurred there in the last three months entailing a loss of not less than $10,000. Star and Sentinel.

List of Letters.

The following letters remain in the Post Office, Emmitsburg, Md., July 27, 1885. Persons calling will please say advertised, otherwise they may not receive them:

Joseph L. Durn, Christian H. Geasey, Alexis Karpers, Miss L. A. Shields, Jonas Warder.

A SPECIAL meeting of the Classis of Maryland of the Reformed Church, was held at Union Bridge, on the 30th ult., for the purpose of organizing a congregation at that place to form part of the Middleburg charge, recently created by the division of the Taneytown charge. The prospects are favorable for the establishment of a strong interest in that growing village.

The Cow Died.

MR. L. M. MOTTOR lost a valuable cow on Wednesday, under singular circumstances. The cow got her head between the cross pieces of a harrow that was standing by the roadside and being unable to release herself, the harrow fell over and caused her to fall, when found and relieved she was so exhausted that death soon ensued.

THE mountain resorts do not seem to feel the hard times very much. Montecrey Springs Hotel is accommodating 175 boarders and within the past ten days was compelled to refuse admittance to over 100. Clermont and Buena Vista are also full, whilst the Blue Mountain House is the scene of much fashion, beauty and gaiety.—Keystone Gazette.

THE Band Festival closed with an auction on last Saturday night having been open twelve nights. The managers are able to make the following gratifying report. Total Receipts, $194.90; Total Expense, $78.19; Net Proceeds, $116.71. This sum added to that already subscribed together with the old instruments will, we learn, secure them a new set of the desired quality.—Clarion.

Wholesome Diet.

It matters not so much what we eat, as when and how. There are but few articles of food that come before us that are not wholesome, if eaten in moderation as to quantities and at proper times. It is the gorging of the stomach with food beyond its proper capacity to perform its functions that gives rise to many distressing ailments to which flesh is heir.

Observation and experience only can convey the needed knowledge as to the just limits of indulgence, but the penalties of pain and disease hang over us as warning sentinels to compel the moderation on which health depends. Too many advisors, like too many cooks over the broth, are a weariness to the flesh. Eat what you relish, but be content with a sufficiency, and for the rest look to proper exercise, repose and the avoidance of hurtful exposure to either heat or dampness. Much of the talk about water melons, cucumbers, &c., is sheer nonsense. Good ripe water melons are very wholesome, and even cucumbers, rightly prepared are not to be discarded by healthy persons. Whenever you distrust anything, avoid it.

IT IS AMAZING that any human being should continue to suffer from biliousness, nervous headache, indigestion, or general weakness, when it is as notorious as that the sun is the source of light that VINEGAR BITTERS inevitably cures these complaints. This medicine is sold everywhere, taken everywhere, and cures everywhere. Reader, it will cure you.

For the benefit of distant friends, we are happy to state that the accident reported in our last issue from the Baltimore American in which our esteemed kinsman A. A. Amman Esq. of this place had a conspicuous part, was quite innoce in its details, and that he was home here before our paper was issued.

The occurrence took place in Hagerstown and his cousin Miss Mary M. Motter of Williamsport not her sister Mrs. P. L. Lemen attended him on the rapid transit. The parties have nearly recovered from the shock of the upset.

Important.

When you visit or leave New York City, save Baggage Expressage and Carriage Hire and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite Grand Central Depot. Elegant rooms fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced to $1.00 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplies with the best Horse cars, stages and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first class hotel in the city. oct 18-ly

Barn Burned.

On Tuesday, July 21st, while at supper, the barn of Jacob Sharrett, caught fire by sparks from a steamer with which they were threshing. When the fire was discovered it had gotten so much headway that nothing could be done. Several valuable horses burned with all the grain, hay and straw. Two men barely escaped with their lives. Farmers should be very careful while using steam threshers, lest more fires should likewise occur. The amount of loss has not yet been ascertained.—Littlestown Era.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Baltimore Sun says: Farmers living in the vicinity of the Baltimore and Annapolis Railroad, are reported to be greatly exercised over a new disease that is making its appearance among the cattle. One of the legs of the animals, it is said, becomes affected and soon after deadens and rapidly mortifies, causing death within twenty hours. A Mr. Chaney, living in that section, has already lost five head. Dr. S. K. Syleurk a veterinary surgeon of Frederick, who visited the cattle, pronounces the disease putrid fever.

A Motherly Cat.

MR. WM. T. GROVE, of Broad Run, in this valley, is the owner of a Maltese cat which recently developed an unusual freak. She had a litter of four kittens, and on going out some days ago she came across an equal number of young rabbits and brought them all in to her home nest, where she is bestowing quite as much attention to them as she does to her own felines. This is a very singular occurrence, as rabbits are considered almost a natural prey of cats, and when caught by them are nearly always killed and eaten.—Valley Register.

COMMUNICATED.

GLENMORRIS, MD., July 28, 1885. DEAR CHRONICLE.—A number of hogs having died attracted a host of scavengers to this neighborhood, one amongst them wearing upon its neck a small sleigh bell, making the feast a musical one. The query is who belled the Buzzard? D. A.

Since the above was in type we have received the following: A buzzard with a bell tied to its has been seen flying about Sell's Station. The sound of the bell has been distinctly heard.—Honor Citizen.

"D. A." should try and identify the birds.

A Terrible Accident.

A tramp was literally torn to pieces while trying to board a freight train at Harrisburg on Monday evening. The coroner said it was the most sickening sight he ever saw. Upon the man's person was found an account book with the name of U. Heckman, Millersville, Washington county, and the words "Little Falls," and the name Arthur Chambers, Philadelphia, in it. In this book was also a store account where deceased had drawn money and goods. There were several designs or pencil sketches of monuments and some other architectural designs in this book.—Call.

A Parable.

A level-headed newspaper man comes down as follows: We presume that some people think that newspaper men are persistent duns. Let a farmer place himself in the same business position and see if he would not do the same. Suppose he raises a crop of one thousand bushels of wheat, and the price was only the small sum of $1 a bushel or less, and the neighbors say, "I will pay you in a few days." As the farmer does not want to be small in the matter he says, "All right." Another comes in the same way until the whole of the one thousand bushels are gone out to one thousand persons. Not one purchaser concerns himself about the fact, it is a small amount he owes the farmer, and of course that could not help him any. He does not realize that the farmer has frittered away his crop of wheat in little dribbles, and that he is seriously embarrassed in his business because his debtors treat it as a small matter. But if all would pay him promptly, which they could do as well as not, it would be a large amount to the farmer and enable him to carry on his business without difficulty. The above comparison is too true of the difficulties that a newspaper man has to contend with.—Monticello Express.

A Perilous Position.

On Friday last, Mrs. Peter Leer, of Huntington township, accompanied by her little daughter and the hired girl went out to the field to milk the cows. Upon entering the enclosure a cow that had recently had a calf and was rather vicious in consequence, made for the party, tossing the child into the air, bumping over the girl and then finished up on Mrs. L., throwing her violently to the ground and horning her in the face, one horn penetrating the cheek into the mouth, making a horrible looking wound. Dr. D. Diller was summoned and gave the parties the necessary medical attention required.—Connet.

Be Comfortable.

Those persons whose surroundings admit of the comfort of working or taking things leisurely, in their shirt-sleeves are beyond doubt, the happiest mortals who have to meet the fervent influences of this torrid season. Even the comparatively light encumbrance of suspenders, should be discarded, naught but the reflective array of the clean linen should oppose the onset of the dissolving element. From such experience we doubt not Sydney Smith derived the idea of his letter. "Heat m'am! it was so dreadful here, that I found there was nothing left for it but to take off my flesh and sit in my bones."

THE Baltimore American says that the old "Tape Worm Railroad" in Adams county Pennsylvania, over which there was so much talk and no little excitement some years ago, is now likely to be used—at least, in part. That portion of the line from Gettysburg, running eight miles west of that place to a point on the Cashtown and Fairfield Road, has been finished, and a future extension is contemplated, making connection with the Western Maryland Railroad. The terminus is to be known as Wertz Station, and is a point which is favorably situated for the connection of a large trade in produce. Regular trains to Orr Station will be run in a few weeks.

List of Patents.

The following patents were granted to citizens of Maryland, bearing date July 21, 1885, reported expressly for this paper by Louis Bagger & Co., Mechanical Experts and Solicitors of Patents, Washington, D. C. Advice Free.

W. F. Cowden, Cumberland, gearing for reverse shafts 322,797.

Frederick Dorsey, Hagerstown, wheat scouring and cleaning machine 322,700.

G. W. & A. A. Hodges, Balto., brake for child's carriage 322,721.

M. H. Marcus, Balto., filling for bed quilts or comforts 322,735.

M. B. Marshall, Vienna, animal trap 322,736.

Cooking Corn.

Green corn is half ruined if you cut it from the cob. The process of munching an ear of corn is not a very fascinating one for the lookers on, but there is no excuse for ever looking at another while he is eating. To get the full worth of the corn you must cut it direct from the cob. After the plain boiled ear, the best preparation of corn is a fritter. Corn fritters, if properly made, are hard to excel.—En.

From the Union.

The report that diptheria prevails in Frederick is incorrect. One night last week a wheat stack, containing about 500 bushels of wheat, was burned on the farm of Mr. Geo. C. Cramer near Walkersville. The fire is supposed to have been of incendiary origin. The wheat belonged to William A. Cramer. On last Sunday Rev. Dr. Eschbach, pastor of the Reformed church, preached his annual harvest sermon to a large congregation. The sermon was an able and appropriate production. The decorations were very fine and quite exquisitely arranged, presenting one of the prettiest sights ever witnessed. The decorations consisted of cereals, fruits and flowers.

Death of Mrs. Eichelberger.

Among our readers are many relatives and friends to whom the record in this issue of the death of Mrs. Amanda Eichelberger of Frederick, will prove very saddening. She was the second daughter of the late Mr. Isaac Baugher who long occupied a very prominent position as a merchant and citizen of Emmitsburg. Here she was born and reared, her education being completed at St. Joseph's Academy, and here she was married in her youth, to Grayson Eichelberger, Esq., of Frederick, whose subsequent career as a successful lawyer in his native place, Secretary of state of Maryland in the war period, State Senator, and general influence in the County, will long be remembered by the many friends who were called some years ago to lament his early and sudden death. Mrs. E. on last Christmas eve, had an attack of paralysis from which she never entirely recovered and though her condition had improved so much, as to relieve her family of all immediate apprehension of a fatal result, they were altogether unprepared for the blow that fell so suddenly upon them. The transition from this world to the next was so quiet that those waiting at her bedside could not realize that the spirit had winged its flight.

Her funeral took place on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from her late residence of W. Church street. Rev. Osborne Ingle of All Saints P. E. Church officiated, assisted by Rev. E. R. Eschbach of the Evangelical Reformed Church. The pall bearers were Prof. C. W. Ely, Hon. John A. Lynch, George Markell, Henry Williams, Hon. M. G. Ureer and Lewis M. Nixdorf, Interment Mount Olivet cemetery.

From the Herald and Torch Light.

During the continuance of the storm on Sunday afternoon many telephone wires were burned out. Proprietors of phones cannot be too careful about putting in their lightning arresters at the approach of a storm. At the house of Col. Douglas on N. Potomac street, the telephone box was entirely destroyed and portions of plaster torn off the wall. Col. Douglas, while engaged in regulating the flow of water in the upper part of his house, received a severe electric shock.

A fire broke out in Shippensburg on Wednesday evening of last week which consumed five stables. Most of the fire department had been sent out of town to aid in suppressing a fire at the Roxbury Tunnels, and it was with great difficulty that the flames were arrested. The fire is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary.

Sends us the News.

Frequently have we called upon our friends in the county to send us items of news, but seldom do they respond. We are expected to furnish local news, but in the name of common sense how are we to do it unless reported to us by some friend who is acquainted with what transpires in his neighborhood. If our county friends would note down little items in regard to crops, farm matters, accidents, etc., and send them to us, we will be pleased to insert them. We only want the facts. Such items would be interesting to our readers throughout the county. Items that might appear to be of no concern at home, would be read with interest by people in remote sections. We hope that some of those who read this article will make up their minds to become correspondents and drop us now and then a few lines.—En.

Hatched by the Hot Weather.

MR. W. C. Eakle, merchant at Eakle's Mill, Washington county, owns a progressive little peep which, like Topsy has no parents, but "jes grooved." Mr. Eakle buys in eggs for shipment to the cities, and among a crateful that he had on hand some four or five days he heard the faint chirping of a newly-arrived peep. Investigation revealed near the middle of the crate the head and body of a well-developed baby chicken protruding from its shell. Mr. Eakle received the waif kindly to the comforts of his home, and with a little extra attention had the satisfaction of witnessing its rapid and hardy development into a genuine country chicken. The occurrence was unusual, the hatching process being performed by the uniform extraordinary heat of the weather, the like of which has rarely been recorded in this locality.—Hagerstown Globe.

We were correct in our surmise last week that the two Routhahn brothers who were killed by lightning at Oregon, Ill., on the 13th instant, were sons of the late John Routhahn, formerly of this place. The names given in the dispatch published last week were wrong, however, as we observe by Oregon papers received at this office, that instead of Albert and Robert, their names were William and George. William was about 33 years of age, and leaves a wife and four children, and George was about 28 years old and leaves a wife and one child. George had served five years in the regular army, and was a member of good standing of the I. O. O. F. The brothers had gone out Sunday night to fish, and a rain storm coming on early Monday morning they sought shelter under a large tree. The Ogle County Reporter says: "In the morning the men were found sitting side by side on the east side of the tree, leaning against it as though asleep, and covered by one blanket. The lightning had done its work. The hat of each was torn, and there was a red streak down each temple of both, the hair and eyebrows were singed, and on the back of one head was a soft spot where the deadly fluid had entered and passed down the man's spine. Strange to say, the tree above them was peppered by the lightning, leaving two streaks about a foot apart on the bark where the shafts had descended upon the heads of the victims."—Valley Register.

There is a misapprehension, says the Valley Spirit, pretty generally, as to the profits made by millers. It is commonly believed that they reap an unfair gain from the manufacture of flour, the complaint being frequently presented that the price of the product is out of proportion to the cost of wheat. A little calculation will disabuse the minds of any so thinking of the mistake made. To produce a barrel of flour from 44 to 54 bushels of wheat are required according to the excellence of the machinery and the care exercised in the process of manufacture. Wheat is now worth about one dollar per bushel and flour at $5.50 per barrel or $5.25 for eight sacks. Taking five bushels of wheat as the quality required in most mills there is an outlay of five dollars before the flour can be made. But from these five bushels of wheat there are taken one hundred pounds of bran which is worth one cent per pound. There is left then for the cost of the flour to the miller, exclusive of his labor, the wear and tear of his machinery and interest on his investment, four dollars. He has one dollar and twenty-five cents to recompense himself for his labor, purchase paper sacks or a barrel and pay a commission to the middleman. This commission is ten cents per sack or eighty cents for the eight sacks equivalent to a barrel. A barrel costs from twenty-five to thirty-five cents and sacks can be bought, in large quantities, for something over a cent and a-half a piece. The calculation can be easily followed out and it will be seen that the miller receives for his profit a small sum. When it is further taken into consideration that twelve to twenty barrels of flour is about an average run per day the complaining man should be willing to admit that the miller is not the grasping monopolist he has thought him.

On Tuesday morning, while workmen were engaged in the west end of Blue Mountain tunnel on the South Pennsylvania Railroad, two barrels of oil caught fire. The laborers fled from the tunnel and escaped death, with the exception of four whose retreat was cut off by the burning oil. They met a horrible death and their cries of agony were heard by their comrades, who were powerless to rescue them.

James M. Rouzer died at his residence in this place, on Saturday, of disease of the kidneys and bladder, aged 63 years 1 month and 4 days. He was widely known as a successful detective, and found frequent employment in this State, Maryland and Virginia. He had become a terror to thieves in general, and horse thieves in particular, and was in his way a useful man. He served in the 1st Pa. Reserves.

Fires From Threshing.

Accounts of more or less extensive fires from threshing-machines are already appearing. It is strange how familiarity with danger often produces recklessness in men. After a year's patient waiting for a crop, common prudence dictates the exercise of the utmost precaution and deliberation in using steam engines about the inflammable materials of a barn or a stack; the experience of most persons would indicate that the engines may be safely used. There are always those who came off unscathed from even the carnage of the battle field. But in this matter it is certain that you will escape injury, only by constant and unrelenting vigilance; careless and negligent hands should be avoided; skill and watchfulness are essential from first to last.

The August Agriculturist, recommends its farmer readers, to take advantage of the lull in farm work during the month, by making excursions and visits to such places as will offer them the recreation they need and at the same time add to their stock of information in regard to matters pertaining to the occupation in life. The suggestion is a good one, and ought to be carried out if possible even though it involves some sacrifice. The gain in the way of enlarged views, new ideas and methods, increased strength and energy both of mind and body to say nothing of the pleasure of a short respite from continual labor will more than compensate for the time and money thus spent, and if our rural readers, will take this number of the Agriculturist with them on their trip they can learn more from its pages during the idle hours they are from home, than they could possibly do by plodding on at their work and reading by snatches when too tired to do anything else.

PERSONALS.

Agricultural.

August Hints for the Farm.

Cut oats before they are fully ripe; they will shell out less, and the straw will be more valuable for fodder.

Backwheat sown early this month will usually escape the frost. Should it be injured, it will yet be valuable for plowing under.

The old New England method was to work corn three times. The first hoeing was called weeding; the second, half-hilling, and the third was to hill the corn; after this it was left for the ground to be over-run with late weeds. The better method is to run the cultivator as long as a horse can pass between the rows. The cultivator only stirs the surface, but kills the weeds. A plow should not now be used, as it cuts the roots.

Thin the root-crops. Sow Strap-leaf turnips in drills twenty-eight inches apart, using one hundred and fifty pounds to the acre of superphosphate, or bone flour, near the seed.

Give meadows a top-dressing of old manure or fine compost. Harrow bare and mossy spots in pastures, and sow seed on them. Give a dressing of lime or plaster. Cut brush with a brush hook; burn and save the ashes.

This is a harvest month for weeds.—American Agriculturist.

Prevention of Fowl Cholera.

The losses from this disease range from a few hundred dollars to two hundred thousand dollars in single counties annually. The loss to the whole country may not be over ten millions annually. The germs of the disease enter the system by the digestive organs, and are generally taken with the food. The contagion is spread by means of the excrement of sick fowls, or the flesh or other parts of dead ones. It may be carried by small birds, which are also subject to it. If the feeding places and runs are kept free from these germs, there is no danger of the fowls ever becoming affected. When cholera is known to be in a neighborhood, poultry keepers should watch their stock closely, and remove sick birds when first discovered. The feeding grounds and houses should then be sprinkled with a disinfectant, made by putting eight ounces of sulphuric acid in eight gallons of water. In old infected houses the liquid must be used so as to saturate all the wood work, and the ground where the fowls run. The remedy is comparatively inexpensive.—Ex.

Charcoal Dust for Poultry Houses.

Mr. T. J. McDaniel, York County, Me., writes us: "After an experience of many years in the breeding of common and thoroughbred poultry, I have come to the conclusion that there is nothing better for the walls of honneries, than a filling of charcoal dust between the outside and inside boardings. The boards of the siding need not be matched, or tongue-and-grooved, but well seasoned and jointed, then what little air gets through, brings those antiseptic qualities so much needed, especially during warm weather.—American Agriculturist.

CAPT. W. A. Hill, Locust Vale, Madison Co., Va., says he used Powell's Fertilizers last fall, on his wheat side by side with other brands costing double the amount of money, on land of same grade, using the same quantity (300 lbs. to the acre). The Powell's gave entire satisfaction, doing better than higher priced articles. Write to Brown Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

The sweet potato is one of the most valuable crops grown. In addition to being a favorite on the table it makes excellent food for stock. Hogs fatten very quickly on cooked sweet potatoes, which are a cheap article of food, considering that 300 bushels per acre is not an unusual yield.

Give to the cows none but the best and purest food. With no other stock this is so essential, for the reason that it has been fully demonstrated by competent authority that milk is a very prolific source of transmitting disease germs from impure food, and especially from impure water.

DOUGHNUTS—"Raised" doughnuts or doughnuts with yeast powder are improved by the addition of corn starch. One tablespoonful of this substance should be allowed to about as much flour as would knead an egg.

Miscellaneous.

Rattlesnakes.

"Rattlesnakes are getting mighty scarce," said Uncle Joe, of Pittston Penn., to a Philadelphia Times correspondent. "Everybody who sees one kills it, if he can, and taking them with what we catch, leaves but few in the mountains of Luzerne county. There's no use in killing them that I can see. They won't hurt anybody if let alone. You might walk within two feet of one and he couldn't hurt you if he wanted to. All this talk about their jumping through the air at you is all nonsense; a snake, to strike, must be coiled up, and must have his tail on the ground. The result is that he can't strike a distance greater than about one-half his length. I have seen thousands of them strike and never saw one strike any different from any other. Another thing is that he always springs his rattle when he is about to strike. If the snake sees you coming he will run for his den but he won't make any noise about it. If he doesn't see you till you are right over him he will flatten right out and try to escape notice, unless he thinks you are going to attack him, and then he will coil and strike. It is when he flattens out that he can be caught by quietly but quickly placing the flat end of a stick or cane on the back of his neck. This has to be done carefully and skillfully. If you press down too hard you will break his neck, as that is his weak point. If not hard enough he may be able to bite you. After securing him with the stick, you must catch him with your left hand just back of the head, and then with a pair of short scissors cut out his fangs. There are two on each side of the upper jaw, and they are hinged so as to lie along the roof of the mouth when it is closed. They drop down and are ready for business when the mouth is open. It is certain death to touch the point of one of these fangs while cutting them out. They are almost as sharp as a cambric needle, and still they are hollow, and through a hole in the tooth comes the poison. Once get the fangs out and they can bite with their saw teeth, but with no more harm than any ordinary snake. Take away the fangs and they become very much subdued, and will submit to almost any kind of handling. Sometimes I leave the fangs in for a doctor who wants to experiment with the poison."

The Reason Why.

My son, there's nothing on earth so mysteriously funny as a newspaper advertisement. The prime, first, last and all the time, object of an advertisement is to draw custom. It is not, was not, and never will be designed for any other human purpose. So the merchant waits till the busy season comes and his store is so full of custom he can't get his hat off and then rushes to the newspapers and puts in his advertisement. When the dull season gets along and there is no trade and he wants to sell goods so bad he can't pay his rent, he takes out his advertisement. That is, some of them do, but occasionally a level-headed merchant puts in a bigger one and scoops all the business, while his neighbors are making mortgages to pay the gas bill. There are times when you couldn't stop people from buying everything in the store if you planted a cannon behind the door, and that's the time the advertisement is sent out on its holy mission. It makes light work for the advertisement, for a chalk sign on the sidewalk could do all that was needed and have a half holiday six days in the week, but who wants to favor an advertisement. They are built to do hard work, and should be sent out in the dull days when a customer has to be knocked down with hard facts, and kicked insensible with bankrupt reductions and dragged in with irresistible slaughter of prices before he will spend a cent.

That's the aim and end of an advertisement, my son, and if you ever open a store don't try to get them to come when they are already sticking out of the windows, but give them your advertisement right between the eyes in the dull season, and you will wax rich and own a fast horse, and perhaps be able to smoke a good cigar once or twice a year. Write this down where you'll fall over it every day. The time to draw business is when you want business, and not when you have more business than you can attend to already.—Bridgeport Post.

Humorous.

BLIZZARDS will never be popular. They put on too many airs.

"WHAT striking likenesses," exclaimed a pedestrian when a photograph show case blew down on him.

"No, sir, I don't hire out to that farmer. His confounded fences are all barbed wire, and I can't get a minute's rest on 'em."

"Way do leaves fall to the ground?" asks a poet. It is because they can't fall anywhere else. They have got to fall somewhere.

"EVIL cucumbers corrupt bananas," is the way a little girl repeated the text. She was quite right, as her little brother's stomach-ache after dinner testified.

"Know anything about life in the West?" said Mr. Stone. "I should say I do. I was tarred and feathered twice in Missouri, and rode on a rail in Kansas."

A COLOGNE firm have caused the arrest of a man who has been imitating their goods. Of course the man had no right to make a counterfeit scent.—Yonkers Statesman.

An old lady to professional street Arab—"Do you go to Sunday school, little boy?" "Naa." "Are you a Protestant?" "Naa." "A Catholic?" "Naa." "What are you then?" "Merican."

Says an astronomer to a bright-eyed girl, when talking of rain-bows: "Did you ever see a lunar bow, miss?" "I have seen a bean by moonlight, if that is what you mean," was the sly rejoinder.—Ex.

A SMALL boy testified in a justice's court that the affray took place on a Sunday. "How do you know it was on a Sunday?" "Because that day I had to go to the side door of the saloon to get beer for dinner."

"PAPA," said a little boy, looking up from his Sunday school lesson, "are all our deeds in this world recorded?" "Not always," replied the old man, who is a real estate lawyer. "I lost $350 once by failing to record a deed."—New York Mail and Express.

"On, yes, mum, indeed it was, mum. You know it stormed last night and lightning always sours milk." "But how could the lightning of last night affect it if it was not milked until this morning?" "Well, I guess the cows must have been struck, mum."—Phila. Call.

One Case Expected

Struggling Surgeon—"No, dear, I cannot go calling with you tonight."

His Wife—"But you promised that you would."

"I know it, dear, but our finances are very low and I must not lose a chance to get a fee."

"But what chance will you lose? No patients have sent to you for a week."

"I know it, dear, but I expect to be summoned for a very important surgical case, perhaps a broken leg, before the evening is over."

Where to?

"Across the way. Mrs. Brown over there is house cleaning, and I just saw Mr. Brown going home with a step ladder."—Phila. Call.

Clues all Around.

A boy about twelve years old reported to a policeman the other day that a robbery had occurred at the house under very mysterious circumstances. The sum of $25, which was in a china vase on a bracket, had taken wings.

"Were any of the doors or windows found open?" asked the officer.

"No."

"Any visitors in the house who might have taken it?"

"No."

"And you haven't picked up any clues, eh?"

"That's the trouble, sir—there's clues till you can't rest. I want to go off and camp out, and dad thinks I cribbed the money. Dad wants to go to Chicago, and marm thinks he's got the boodle. Marm wants a new summer wrap, and dad says she clawed them ducats for sure. The hired girl is going to be married next week, and dad and marm and me believe she raked in the stake to go on a bridal tour. Tell you what, mister, when I see how many clues can be picked up on a little case like this it makes me anxious to know which of us will come out on top."—Detroit Free Press.

DR. JOHN BULL'S
Smith's Tonic Syrup
FEVER and AGUE
Or CHILLS and FEVER,
AND ALL MALARIAL DISEASES.

The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT cure of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to cure if the directions are strictly followed, and cured out in a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure, if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order. Should the patient, however, require a cathartic medicine, after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic, a single dose of BULL'S VEGETABLE FAMILY PILLS will be sufficient.

BULL'S SARSAPARILLA is the old and reliable remedy for impurities of the blood and Scrofulous affections.
