A WOMAN'S QUESTION.

Do you know you have asked for the costliest thing
Ever made by the Hand above—
A woman's heart, and a woman's life
And a woman's wonderful love?

Do you know you have asked for this priceless thing
As a child might ask for a toy?
Demanding what others have died to win,
With the reckless dash of a boy.

You have written my lesson of duty out,
Man-like you have questioned me;
Now stand at the bar of my woman's soul,
Until I shall question thee.

You require your mutton shall always be hot,
Your socks and your shirts shall be whole;
I require your heart to be true as God's stars
And pure as heaven your soul.

You require a cook for your mutton and beef;
I require a far better thing;
A seamstress you're wanting for stockings and shirts—
I look for a man and a king.

A king of a beautiful realm called home
And a man that the Maker, God,
Shall look upon as he did the first
And say, "It is very good."

I am fair and young, but the rose will fade
From my soft, young cheek one day:
Will you love me then, 'mid the falling leaves,
As you did 'mid the bloom of May?

Is your heart an ocean so strong and deep
I may launch my all on its tide?
A loving woman finds heaven or hell
On the day she is made a bride.

I require all things that are grand and true,
All things that a man should be;
If you give this all I would stake my life
To be all you demand of me.

If you cannot do this, a laundress and cook
You can hire with little to pay;
But a woman's heart and a woman's life
Are not to be won that way.

THE LIEUTENANT'S PRISONER.

Charles Parker, being a young man from the East, and a newly-fledged graduate of the military academy, he was not looked upon with sublime awe by the frontiersmen around his Arizonian post, and certainly not with a fearful respect by the military.

The frontiersmen, from their proud height of dyspepsia and dirt, recognized tidy Mr. Parker only as a "tenderfoot," while the old officers and soldiers were naturally slow to concede military merit to a youngster who had escaped death or court-martial for a shorter period than themselves.

In reality, Lieut. Parker knew very little of the energetic West as it is materialized around Fort McDowell, and what little he knew did not swell him with pride. It was his idea that if knowledge is power, knowledge of Arizona was only mule power and not to be coveted. He was not in deadly fear of that truculent creature, the Arizonian, in a red shirt, but if he had chosen an individual to stand betwixt the wind and his nobility, the gentleman in the carmine camisa would not have obtained the situation. His life was not totally without charm, for he was in love with the colonel's daughter, one of those charming young ladies found only in army circles, who have all the polish of their more fortunate city sisters with a seductive frankness and abandon developed in their Bohemian existence.

It was arranged between Miss Helen and Parker that when he could get leave, it should be for a wedding journey. It was the peculiar charm of this arrangement that it was made without the colonel's assistance or knowledge. Lovers must have their secrets. A lover without a weighty secret would cut as poor a figure as a secretless statesman.

However, the chances of Parker's getting a furlough were slim. His captain was on an indefinite sick leave, having a splendid time and entering heartily into business, while his first lieutenant was engaged in Washington on some onerous duty which required peculiar talents and considerable "influence."

"One officer," said the law, "must be with the troops," and when the law uttered these words, it ignored the astute captain and powerful first lieutenant, and pointed with its crooked finger at our friend, Mr. Parker.

The morning when history finds him, the lone lieutenant, acting as post adjutant, was sitting at his desk in the colonel's office, gravely referring official papers to himself in some of his many capacities, such as quartermaster, commissary, ordinance officer, post treasurer, chief of scouts, overseer of schools, or perpetual officer of the day. By his formal words one would have thought him on very frigid terms with himself. Instead, for instance of saying, "Parker, will you take a squint at this!" he wrote: "Respectfully referred to Lieut. Parker, who will take the action required."

Meantime the colonel was knitting his brows over the order from headquarters.

"What do you think of that?" he said at last, handing the paper to Parker.

The young man read the order, but made no answer. He liked to have his opinion asked, but he did not suppose that his crude ideas would be of value to an officer of so much greater experience.

"What do you think?" repeated the colonel mildly.

"I suppose it'll have to be done;" said the lieutenant vaguely, not knowing on what point a reply was wished.

"Yes," mused the colonel, "but how? This says he is supposed to be at Sanford, but the description is vague to make a search on."

"Oh, that," said Parker, "why, I think I know the man already. I saw him last summer when I was surveying the line from Gila Bend to Tuscon. He keeps a saloon in Sanford."

The colonel shook his head.

"I was going to send for an old officer, but if you can identify the man you'll have to go. Humph! Not a very pleasant or easy duty"—and he looked hard at the young man's smooth face—"it's worse than Indian fighting. Maybe I had better have an older officer go with you."

"If you think it necessary."

"I don't," said the colonel, instantly determined by Parker's look; and he wrote in pencil the draft for an order:

"Lieut. Parker will proceed directly to Sanford, Arizona, with a detail of six men, and arrest escaped military convict, John Devine."

"Just have that published."

Parker hesitated; but as the responsibility of the arrest was to depend upon him, he determined to speak.

"If that order is published, word of it will go to this convict by the 'underground,' and he will give me the slip."

"Suppose you were to go away without an order," said the colonel; "that would excite suspicion as well."

"Let it be a false order."

"It wouldn't do any good. When these fellows see a soldier, they are on the alert, order or no order. They know the soldier is after some one, and they send the word on by their underground for the benefit of whom it may concern. You will have to take the chance of traveling as fast as the news of your coming."

But Parker had an idea. He thought he could entrap an Arizonian as easily as if he had worn a red shirt from infancy.

"I learned something," said he "last summer when I was down there. When they knew I was surveying I could have had as many blacklegs in my society as I wished. Mr. Devine himself waited on me at his saloon. Send me down on telegraph business."

"Good!" cried the colonel. "Make out an order to examine the line and publish it here. You will have the real order in your pocket,"

In half an hour the ambulance rolled out of Fort McDowell into the long road across the desert. The soldiers were in good spirits over a holiday. Very true, they carried carbines and revolvers, but in Arizona carbines and revolvers are as readily associated with good spirits as cheerfulness with beans and big grocery bills in New England.

The travel brought them to Sacaton on the Gila, where Parker had been the summer previous. When the people learned his present errand he was hospitably entertained, and no warning of his coming was sent forward. But in conversation with the Indian agent, to whom he revealed his true orders, he learned that the convict, frightened by previous rumors, had sold his saloon and was about to leave. This rendered an arrest a matter of double difficulty and danger.

Under the circumstances, although the next day was Sunday, Parker determined to push on. At six o'clock Sunday morning the ambulance was on its way with a drive before it of eighteen miles. Parker, half a mile from his destination, put off his unconcern and ordered the driver to stop. Then he pulled the true orders out of his pocket and read them. The soldiers exchanged glances. They thought the young lieutenant would not take things so easily if he knew the desperate character of his business. More respect was visible in their faces when he gave his orders. They perceived from his tone that if any one faltered it would not be the "boy."

"We will drive into the plaza in front of Smith's. Devine will probably be in some saloon opposite. I shall go across the plaza to the saloons. You will loaf along, fifty yards in the rear, with your carbines. I will let you know when I want you. Now drive on."

Arrived at Sanford, these directions were carried out to the letter. A small, but hard looking crowd gathered around the ambulence.

"Hello, lieutenant!" said Smith, the town shyster, coming out. "What is it?"

"Telegraph," replied Parker, for all to hear. "I have come to see what you can put up for it."

"Good," said Smith, while a murmur of approbation went through the crowd. "I'll take you round to see the people. Have the man put up the rig."

"Can't stop long enough. I'm going on to Florence to get their ideas. Driver, keep the team here. You men can go where you please, but be back in time to start."

The ruse having succeeded so far, Parker and Smith walked across the plaza to the saloon, while the men followed aimless along, carrying their carbines on their hips.

"Come in and have something," said the hospitable Smith, when they crossed the square; "help you talk business."

Parker accepted, and they went in. The saloon consisted of two rooms. In the front room were two or three loungers, but from the back room there issued various sounds, which gave evidence of a crowded table of gamblers. Parker gave his order, and placed himself so that by turning his head he could command a full view of the back room. Then he looked for his men. They were already at the saloon door. They played their part well, for they seemed only waiting for their superior before they took a turn at the bar. Parker poured out a generous glass, and turned his eyes and glanced in the back room.

Directly in front of him at the opposite side of the table sat Devine. At the word "lieutenant" the convict raised his eyes and met Parker face to face. His first instinct being to escape recognition, he resorted to the clumsy device of dropping his glance and slouching forward his sombrero, Parker looking at him absently, turned to the front of the saloon, and still holding up his glass, made the signal. Then, without drinking, he set the glass down, and walked directly to the door of the gambling room. He did not know what tragedy would follow his words, but he said—

"John Devine, I want you!"

A dozen pairs of eyes were turned toward him and a dozen hands sought for the every-ready "guns;" but the pistols were not drawn. Almost immediately the men assumed a look of welcome, and seemed tacitly to acknowledge that they had mistaken the intruder.

"Hullo, lieutenant!" cried two or three, in a frantic effort to set themselves right. "Hullo! Come in, come in. Glad to see you. Barkeeper, something for the lieutenant. Come in."

"Thank you," said Parker, wondering what new deceit this greeting was meant to cover. "I'm on business, and business comes first. Come, Johnny, I want you."

"What! want Johnny? What's he done?" they cried, in grieved surprise. "Now, lieutenant, you don't want Johnny, do you?"

Parker made no answer, but kept his eye warily on the crowd.

Devine threw down his cards, as if in despair, saying—

"All right; I've got to go. This thing has been hanging over me for a year, and I'm glad it has come."

"But don't be in a rush," cried the others; "don't be in a rush, lieutenant. Have a drink. Come in and sit down. We ain't seen you in years."

Parker was so dumbfounded by this continued politeness that he looked about for the cause. It was evident. A big sergeant stood behind him with two cocked revolvers aimed at the crowd, and on each side of the door were soldiers with pointed carbines.

The Arizona desperado understands the doctrine of chances as well as the rest of us.

Devine arose to follow. He looked mournfully at his big pile of chips.

"Who's banker?" asked Parker. "Banker, cash Johnny's chips. Sorry I can't let him stay so that you can have back at him, but the money's his."

The disappointed banker made the exchange.

While party were taking Devine to his house, where the convict wished to say good-by to his wife, a horseman passed them at full speed going toward Florence, a little town five miles to the east. The incident did not escape the unsophisticated lieutenant. He sent an orderly for the ambulence, and hurried Devine through his farewells. When the wagon drove up he was ready. Everybody was mounted. The convict had the appearance of being perfectly hopeless.

"Which way?" asked the driver.

Parker looked Devine keenly in the face and answered—

"Back through Sacaton."

The convict dropped his head and his hopelessness was no longer assumed.

"Our friend on the horse will prepare in his ambush for nothing, won't he?" said Parker.

"He just will," replied the convict, with a laugh.

That night at ten o'clock, having driven eighty-three miles since nine in the morning, the detail arrived at the fort and Devine was secured in the post guard-house. The colonel was delighted and surprised.

"In spoke," said he, "of having another officer here. I suppose I had better have him come now and give you a leave."

"Thank you," said the bold lieutenant; then he explained that leaves were best for wedding journeys, and so led up to a full revelation.

"In that case," replied the colonel, with a dusty, Arizona wit, "I will send for my other daughter, and give Helen a leave too.

Spelling Match.

Can you spell? Well, yes; almost anybody can spell. Then spell this, and make out what it means. If you can't, then pass it on to your next neighbor:

B-B-E-E-I-I-N-N-O-O-R-R-R-S-S-T-T-W

Don't say it out loud, but just whisper in your pretty neighbor's ear, that if she will place these letters in proper position she will have the world's great tonic, which will enrich her impoverished blood, put roses on her pale cheeks and make her strong and happy. Go to the nearest drug store with a dollar in your hand, and ask for Brown's Iron Bitters,

SOMETIME.

Sometime, my child, thou'lt know why bubbles float so gaily,
While breaks the bowl, e'en ere thy pastime's done;
Know why sweet roses fade, while scentless blooms grow daily—
Why storm-clouds veil, when earth needs summer sun.

Sometime, my child, thou'lt know why only sways the sapling,
While the great oak succumbs before the storm;
Know why the weakling with life's chances grappling
Stands, while the giant lies a prostrate form.

Sometime, my child, thou'lt know why bounties rich are given
To those who idly fritter them away,
While others, who, to us, have nobly striven
For God's good gifts, go empty on their way.

Sometime, my child, thou'lt know why hearts are ever thirsting
For waters hid, whose gurgle they can hear;
Why the Forbidden Fruit hangs o'er us ripe to bursting;
Why the Far Off cannot be the Near.

Sometime, my child, thou'lt know why tears should slowly trickle
From eyes that ill become the moist of grief;
Why friends we thought were constant prove but fickle;
Why life's a burden—death a sweet relief.

Sometime, my child, thou'lt surely guess the full, true meaning
Of life's perplexing problem. Cease to sigh!
Be steadfast, true! On hopes beyond be leaning.
Sometime, my child—not yet, but by and by!

An Old Prophecy.

Somebody has unearthed an old prophecy for the year 1886 of a decidedly uncomfortable nature. It appears that in the church of Oberemmel, near the city of Treveri, in Germany, there is a stone tablet some centuries old, on which is cut the prophetic verse—in prose it may be rendered: "When Mark shall bring us Easter, and Anthony shall sing praises at Pentecost, and John shall swing the censer at the feast of Corpus Domini, then shall the whole earth resound with weepings and wailings." Now it so happens that next year Easter falls on St. Mark's day, Pentecost on that of St. Anthony of Padau, and the Corpus Domini comes on St. John the Baptist's Day, June 24th. Here, then, are the first conditions of the prophecy fulfilled, so that now believers in prophecies and anxious-minded persons generally have only to sit down and think of everything disagreeable that can possibly happen to this poor old planet and the dwellers thereon between January and December, 1886. And really if the cyclones, and earthquakes, and epidemics, and "wars and rumors of wars" of the years 1882-3-4-5 are to be eclipsed, the prospect is not an agreeable one.—London Globe.

MY daughter when you note that the man who wants to marry you is just too awfully anxious to learn whether you can bake a loaf of bread or wash a shirt with Chinese dexterity, before you close the negotiations do you just fly around and ascertain whether that man is either willing or able to earn enough flour to make a biscuit, and if he has paid for the shirt he wants you to wash. Nine times out of ten, daughter, the man who only wants to marry a housekeeper can be kept more economically in the work house than in your father's house. Burdette.

THE Peabody Fund in London now amounts to $4,086,595. Up to the end of last year the fund had provided for the artisan and laboring poor of London 10,144 rooms, besides bath rooms, laundries and wash houses, or homes for 18,453 persons. The expense of the management of last year was only $5,670.

MRS. HILL, of California, raises pyrethrum, the plant from which the yellow insect powder is made. She has this year one hundred acres set in it. She has a water mill where the plants are ground to powder. Mrs. Hill is worth $500,000, which she has mostly made herself.

THE PROPOSED CHANGE FOR THANKSGIVING DAY.

The question of changing the time for the annual Thanksgiving celebration is being agitated. It is thought that if the President should fix an earlier date, it would be followed by the Governors of the States in their proclamations, and thus the change would be effected without any other special movements.

It has been suggested that the date of the "Landing of Columbus," in October, would be an appropriate time, as that event would be thus held in continual remembrance, involving conditions that would cover the entire ground, and prove acceptable on all sides.

The usual time observed, near the end of November, brings the occasion so near to Christmas as to divest the latter of much of the interest that inherently attaches to it, and thus detracts more or less directly from the most joyous, as well as most important festival of the church year; whilst the products of the soil are freshly gathered and in their greatest abundance in the month of October, and the temperature is of that moderate degree which invites to special outdoor observances.

Altogether the movement is in the direction of a much needed and most important change, of interest to many and disadvantageous to none. But in any case, until the churches in official form, make proper recognition of the day, it must stand apart as a mere secular observance, without any special binding character in its religious bearings.

THE CHOLERA IN SICILY.

ROME, Sept. 21.—Reports from Palermo to-day regarding the progress of the cholera show a distressing state of affairs prevailing there. Thirty thousand persons have fled from the city, all the shops are closed and the streets are almost deserted. There is a great scarcity of food and water, and the epidemic is increasing with frightful rapidity. The sanitary officials are attacked by the people every time they attempt to disinfect the houses where the disease prevails, and meet with great difficulty in carrying on their work.

In Parma during the past twenty-four hours there were six new cases of cholera and three patients have died, and in Rovigno two new cases and one death during the same time.

GIBRALTAR, Sept. 21.—There were thirty-seven new cases of cholera and fourteen deaths reported in the Spanish lines here yesterday.

ANOTHER EASTERN WAR CLOUD.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—The recent bloodless revolution in Eastern Roumelia, threatens to draw in the other disaffected provinces, and to involve an entire reconsideration of the territorial questions settled by the Berlin treaty. It is rumored that a conscription has been ordered in Belgaria, and that Turkish and Austrian troops are being mobilized.

THE devastation by prairie fires from Fargo to Bismarck far surpasses the destruction of any previous year. The amount of wheat burned in North Dakota the past week is immense. It is estimated that the entire crops of one hundred farms between Jamestown and Bismarck have been destroyed.

THE situation in Southeastern Europe is very much mixed. The little states are making preparations for defensive operations, and Turkey insists that she will assert her authority over Roumelia. The powers, with the exception of Russia, lean to the opinion that the Treaty of Berlin must be enforced.

THE SOUTHERN EXPOSITION.

Special to the Emmitsburg Chronicle.

LOUISVILLE, KY., Sept. 21, 1885.

Russia's exhibit here, attracts universal attention and study owing to the fact that every person appears to be interested in that great country which is now endeavoring to establish close and profitable commercial relations with this great Republic.

We are informed that Russia is a greater petroleum oil producing country than the United States and that the famous "Oil Region" of Pennsylvania must yield the palm to the country of the Czar. We were shown many samples of this oil in different conditions, and informed that it is not only a good oil for light and fuel, but is used as castor oil and for other medical purposes, as well as for preparing leather for boots and shoes and harness. It is also a splendid machine oil. The importation of this oil into France and England has almost crowded out the American petroleum and, indeed, for some purposes it is shipped to this country.

All ink manufactured and sold in Russia is in the form of a powder, and the ink is made by the user putting it in water. They learned the necessity of this from their ink freezing up.

Russia sugar is made entirely from beets and the common way of putting it up is in the shape of a cone weighing several pounds and called a "loaf."

The Russian cigarette smoker differs from the Frenchman and Spaniard in preparing his smoke. Instead of buying the tissue paper wrappers and rolling it around fine tobacco he buys long paper tubes and loads them up the same as you would ram down a charge in an old muzzle loading gun.

I was shown some very handsome gold and silver cloth, or tapestry, which is used in the adornment or furnishing of the rich man's home, also carpet so deep and soft that when you walked upon it you seemed to sink into it up to your knees.

In the manufacture of yarns and fast colored calicoes this country has no superior and the specimens exhibited are certainly very fine.

A grand piano worth $1,500 is on exhibition, and the Commissioner informed your correspondent that at the Boston Exposition a few years ago a similar instrument from the same factory was exhibited and over a dozen American orders taken and shipments made direct from Russia.

In the tanning of leather Russia appears to own valuable patents and hold secrets unknown to other countries. Especially is this so in the perfect preparation of horse hide, from which nearly all long-legged boots are made. No matter how poor a Russian may be he owns a pair of boots with legs reaching far above his knees.

At the close of the Exposition eight of the most costly articles exhibited, including the Grand Piano —altogether valued at $3,000—will be raffled off rather than ship the same back again.

On Tuesday and Wednesday you could notice an increased number of strangers in the city and the hotels, boarding houses, and private families were being taxed to their utmost to accommodate all. The additional attraction to the Exposition was Tobacco-Day—last Thursday, the celebration in honor of the sale of the 100,000th hogshead of tobacco. We thought that it would be impossible to have a bigger day than the 15th of September, when the Exposition was opened, but so far as processions and street demonstrations go, last Thursday was the day of all days in Louisville. There was a procession nine miles long, which consumed four hours in passing a given point. It was headed by the police and fire departments, and in it were floats representing every branch of industry. The tobacco trade was represented by huge floats picturing plantation scenes, the discovery of America, Sir Walter Raleigh giving Queen Elizabeth a leaf of tobacco, etc. The procession moved to the Exposition, where the 100,000th hogshead of tobacco was sold at auction for $2,023, or $1.70 a pound, the highest price ever paid for a hogshead. The total value of the sales of tobacco in Louisville this season is $12,000,000. Over 50,000 people attended the Exposition during the day.

Yours Respectfully,
W. D. B.

THE funeral of Bishop Lay of the Protestant Episcopal Church took place on Monday last, at Easton, Md., with impressive services.

SUMMARY OF NEWS.

SECRETARY LAMAR was sixty years old on Thursday of last week.

THE private fortune of Queen Victoria is reckoned up at $30,000,000.

THE number of letters posted in the world each year averages about 52,000,000,000.

FOUR hundred and thirteen species of trees are said to grow in the United States.

APPLES are so plenty in Manchester, Conn., that they are left to rot in the fields.—Phila. Star.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Toronto Globe, writing from Manitoba, says that a newcomer in that country finds it extremely difficult to become reconciled to the insect pests. A bull-dog fly, so called, is worse on cattle and horses than the mosquito. He says that he has spent six hours out of the eight one is supposed to sleep, fighting the pests. The bull-dog fly possesses a pair of animated pincers, and as soon as they strike they take out a piece of flesh. Ordinarily they do not trouble men, but on horses and cattle they are perfect devils.

A YOUNG son of Edward Turnback died at Hazelton, Pa., Saturday, Sept., 21st, from the effects of a hazing received last Wednesday at the hands of several of his schoolmates. The pupils of a public school to which young Turnback had just been admitted make a practice of initiating new scholars by making them run the gauntlet through two lines of ten to twenty boys on each side, they punching the victim with their fists as he passes through. They injured the little fellow so badly in the region of the kidneys that he died in great agony. No action has been taken in the matter, but it is likely an investigation will be made by the school authorities.

FLORIDA is the land of fruit as well as flowers. A paper of that State says: "Commencing with January, we have strawberries then and until late in June. Japan plums from February. Mulberries are ripe in April and last until August. Pineapples ripen in June and last nearly all the year. We have guavas from July until late the next spring. Of the various berries—dewberries, blackberries, and huckleberries—almost any quantity. Peaches from May 1 until July. Melons from June until late in the fall. Oranges—the best of the kind—from October until the next June, with lemons and limes, persimmons, pomegranates, grape fruit, grapes, and shaddocks.—N. Y. Sun.

Temperance people who think it wrong for doctors to perscribe alcohol, will be interested to know that a medicine has been found which may, in many diseases, be substituted for it. Dr. Burroughs, in the Therapeutic Gazette, states that nitro-glycerine as a heart stimulant is far superior to brandy, and may be given with confidence whenever the administration of brandy is indicated. Two drops of a one per cent. solution are equivalent to an ounce of brandy, and the effects of the drug are felt immediately. It creates no unnatural craving. The Doctor gives a detailed account of the cases in which he has employed it, and finds, after an extensive experience, that it is of great value in shock from accidents, faintness after surgical operations, failure of the heart's action due to chloroform for opium poisoning, asthma, and the collapse of fevers.—N. Y. Sun.

A VOLCANO has broken forth in the mountains sixty miles southwest of Bishop Creek. A party of frightened sheep herders rode into Candelaria a few days ago covered with dust and ashes, and with numerous holes burnt in their clothing. They reported that on Saturday they were startled by an unusual rumbling noise and trembling of the ground. At first they mistook the noise and rumble for thunder, but it was quickly followed by a tremendous explosion, and on looking up they were appalled at seeing a mountain not far away belching forth a column of flames and smoke several hundred feet in height. The air was soon filled with fiery cinders and hot ashes, which came down upon them in clouds. The affrighted men immediately drove their sheep to a place of safety, and rode to the nearest settlement with the startling news. Several exploring parties have gone to the scene of eruption. A bright pink glow noticed in the horrizon at Virginia City for several nights is believed to have been caused by the eruption.

FOUR venerable brothers Hightower, of La Grange, Ga., with an aggregate age of 304 years, have among them thirty-four children, sixty-one grandchildren and two great grandchildren, and it is related as remarkable that not one of the well-preserved brothers "ever took a dram in a barroom"—prefering probably to do their drinking at home.

THE amount of grain in store in the United States and Canada on Saturday last, as reported by the Chicago Board of Trade, was: Wheat, 43,157,183 bushels; decrease from previous week, 117,198. Corn, 5,319,918 bushels; decrease, 429,350. Oats, 4,082,868 bushels; decrease 243,669. Rye, 414,798 bushels; increase, 10,012. Barley, 141,945 bushels; decrease, 10,970.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 19.—Reports have been received here from fifty-nine cities and towns throughout the State on the result of the license question. Of this number twenty-two carried $500 license, thirty-six carried $200 and in only one town was a $350 fee adopted. The low license majority in this city is nearly 15,000. The result of the election throughout the State is a great surprise to brewers, as it was not thought that a dozen places would adopt the maximum figures.

A SIMPLE cure of sleeplessness has been advised by a Parisian physician for an American travelling through Europe who suffered from wakeful nights. The remedy was complete cessation of mental exertion in the evening, and the formation of a habit of retiring at the same time each evening. No letter writing, reading of excitable books was allowed, and the mind was placed in as passive state as possible. The American, who had been a victim of sleeplessness for years, returned home cured.

A MONSTER devil fish has been caught in the Gulf of Mexico, off Galveston, Texas. These creatures are rarely seen in the neighborhood, but lately a shoal came in shore, and after much trouble one was caught in a seine. It had to be dragged ashore by horses, as it weighed fully two tons. The catch proved to be a true specimen of the "Cephaloptera Vampyrus," the vampire of the ocean, and as it lay dead on the beach it exactly resembled an enormous bat or vampire. The fish was sixteen feet wide from the extreme edge of the pectoral fins and fourteen feet long, while the mouth was four feet wide, and was protected on each side by curious appendages like horns, with which it seized its prey.

GEN. U. S. GRANT'S PICTURES.

Do not read this notice, unless you care to read a proposition which, if you accept, will cost you something. I have an engraving made from an oil painting by a celebrated artist of Gen. Grant, for which he sat shortly after his trip around the world. It is in the opinion of critics the best picture of the Dead Hero in existence. The price of the engraving, 21x28 inches, on very heavy steel engraving board, is One Dollar and Twenty-five cents ($1.25), postage paid by me. So thoroughly am I convinced of the value of the engraving as a work of art, and its appreciation by the public, that I will mail to any address in the U. S., FOR INSPECTION, one copy, packed in a heavy paper box, upon receipt of 2c. in stamps to pay postage and packing, upon the condition that the party receiving same send me ONE DOLLAR ($1.00) upon receipt of engraving, if it is satisfactory, or return the picture to me if it is not considered worth fully the price asked. I have also a very handsome Cabinet Photo of Gen. Grant, hand finished, which I will mail on receipt of 25c. No album is complete without one. Liberal arrangements will be made with agents. The locality of the Reservoir is peculiarly interesting at this time. The works there are about completed, and the grounds are ready for the grass seeds, soon to be sown for their embelishment ; of course trees cannot be planted near the Lake, the roots would soon create leaks, but the forest trees on the hill sides adjoining help to set off the back-ground views.

Synod of the Potomac,

The Thirteenth Annual Meeting of the Synod of the Potomac of the Reformed Church, will be held in General Convention in Chambersburg, Pa., commencing Tuesday evening October 20th 1885, at 7 o'clock.

Persons of sedentary habits should now have a moderate warming of their sitting apartments, at least morning and evening. A room should not be heated of course, with proper ventilation much benefit will arise ; without it colds will surely come.

Messrs. Peter and Jacob Settlemyer, have had their tomb stones made and erected in the cemetery of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, which is to be their last resting place. The work was done at Mr. Wm. H. Hoke's well known establishment in this place.

Mr. Jushua S. Motter, lost a valuable horse the other week by reason of some irregularity of proceedings in his stall, and some days following he lost a hog by the prevailing disease. Fine Peaches.

Mr. James E. Baker has our thanks for a lot of very nice peaches, they are the product of a tree planted in 1876, the Centennial year, and it has borne fruit every year since the third year after the planting. He broke off a limb to which there were twenty-eight adhering peaches on reaching us.

Awful Incendiarism.

To set on fire the dwelling of an immortal soul with Alcohol is a great crime. Whoever administers Rum Bitters to the sick is guilty of it. The only medicine in existence which extinguishes disease, by removing all morbid matter from the system, is Dr. Walker's Vinegar Bitters, a tonic, yet free from Alcohol.

A Grand Glowing Scene.

Another sunset that was glorious in its rich colourings appeared on Wednesday eve, and at the same time the moon in its fullest brightness shone directly along the course of the street and illuminated every house. The scene was indescribably beautiful, occurring as it did, just when the gale of the day had passed away, and the air was calm.

We wish it may be understood once for all , that we are not responsible for sentiments expressed by Correspondents in these columns ; but every person will receive a fair hearing in answer to what they may deem objectionable representations ; provided only that the proprieties of language are duly observed, and personalities are avoided. We invite correspondence on subjects of general interest. But shall always endeavour to be just.

Robberies.

On Friday night of last week, Capt. Frank Lawrence, conductor on the E. R. R., left a tin box in the car with about $20 in money, and a lot of tickets in it, and when he went to the car on Saturday morning the box with its contents was missing. No clue has been found as to who committed the robbery. It is about time some vigilance was arranged in this community, before we are beset by a gang of thieves such as have been giving so much trouble in the neighboring counties of Washington, Md., Franklin, Adams, and York counties, Pa. Messrs. L. M. Motter and Geo. P. Beam have both lost a lot of chickens during the past week,

Killed on the Track.

As the early fast mail was going south on the Emmitsburg Rail Road on Monday morning, a mule belonging to Alonzo J. Mentzer happened on the track at the McCarren crossing, and was knocked off and immediately killed. The accident created some excitement among the railway men, from the fact that with careful management, and a straight course there is seldom any occurrence, to disturb the even tenour of the way.

The Ruddy Skies after Night Fall.

The recurrence of the sunsets that gave such lovely scenes in the heavens, prolonged beyond the twilight, about two years ago, and onward, has latterly given a renewal of the sights that produced so much speculation, and were attributed to the far off Pacific Volcanic upheavals. The cause of the peculiar light is still unexplained, and most likely will remain among the many mysteries that human wisdom cannot fathom. The meteoric theory is the most comforting to the inquisitive.

Arm Broken.

About 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, while Mr. Clem Guthrie, the well-known commercial traveler for Messrs. Smith, Van Natta & Co., was throwing a base ball at Savannah, he accidentally broke his right arm above the elbow. He was brought to St. Joseph on the evening train and taken to his home on Levee street, where surgical aid was furnished him. He has the sympathy of his numerous friends, and it is hoped that he will soon be out again.—St. Joseph, Mo., Daily Herald, Sept. 20th.

The Eclipse.

Precluded by a distressing cold, we were unable to turn out in the chilling air of the wee sma' hours of Thursday morning, but our vigorous reporter represents everything to have proceeded in the due order of the programme ; slowly and surely the shadow crept over the face of the Moon and the disk of darkness gathered until about 3 o'clock a. m., it reached its maximum, when the contrast between the brightness of the night hours preceeding, and the darkness that prevailed, was such as could be felt. It very rarely happens that the phenomenon appears under such favorable circumstances ; a clear night, the luminary about the mid-heavens, and then, everything is so invariably on time, that the contrast in sublunary affairs is fairly disgusting.

COMMUNICATED.

Mt. St. Mary's College, Sept. 16, 1885.
Editor of the Emmitsburg Chronicle.

Sir : I send you a few facts about the college. It has been renovated throughout. During July and August, masons, carpenters tin-smiths and painters were constantly at work, and many improvements were made. The number of students already arrived is unusually large, and all parts of the United States, Mexico and Central America, are represented. The seminary also is in a flourshing condition. The officers now comprise gentlemen long and favourably connected with this their Alma Mater ; the financial status is steadily improving, and the venerable institution bids fair to renew its youth.

Yours Truly,

E.

From the Compiler.

One day last week, as Amos Bennett, son of J. H. Bennett—who is the farmer at Virginia mills, near Fairfield, was harrowing, the horses became unmanageable and, turning around suddenly, threw him on the harrow, breaking his right leg near the ankle. Dr. A. P. Beaver was called in and rendered the necessary surgical attention.

Mr. Riley S. Harnish, a salesman in Mr. Schick's store for quite a number of years, has gone to Dayton, Ohio, to accept a situation in the large mercantile house of T. P. Joseph McCroskey, aged about 85 years, died early Tuesday morning at his home just beyond the railroad bridge at Monocacy Junction, from the effects of general debility. Mr. McCroskey was a worthy and highly respected gentleman. He was a native of Pennsylvania, and came to Frederick county when quite young. He settled at Woodsboro' and resided there many years, following the vocation of blacksmith. About two years ago removed to the place where he died. A wife and one son survive him. The funeral was held Wednesday morning and the remains were taken to Woodsboro', where they were interred in Woodsboro' Cemetery.

List of Letters.

The following letters remain in the Post Office, Emmitsburg, Md., Sept. 21, 1885 Persons calling will please say advertised, otherwise they may not receive them :

James A. Kirne ; Evaline M. Rowe ; Miss Mollie Shank, (2).

The County Agricultural Fair for Frederick County, it should be remembered takes place Oct. 13th, 14th, 15th and 16th. The farmers are urged to attend ; the display of horses, cattle, &c., will be the best ever exhibited on the grounds, and the household departments will present unusually fine exhibits. Races and other amusements of daily occurrence will be highly entertaining.

The Gettysburg Compiler entered upon its 68th year this week, it is ever a welcome exchange in our office, and cannot fail to be equally so, in the homes of its numerous patrons. It is always healthy in its tone, and is conducted with the wise discretion that comes of experience and an earnest intent to interest. May its prosperity be unfailing as the years advance.

A Child Swallows Gun Caps.

Monday a week, a little 4 year old son of Mr. A. L. Harbaugh of this place found a box of gun caps and strew them over the floor, a little 2 year old daughter seeing them succeeded in swallowing fifteen or twenty before detected in her quiet feast. An emetic was at once administered and the child thus relieved of the caps. For sometime thereafter it was very sick on the stomach but has recovered from the effects of the over dose.—Record.

A singular occurrence transpired on the farm of Mr. S. K. Foulk, of Huntington township, Adams county, one night last week. Two of his work horses, as usual, were out in a field, and the next morning were found both with a large slits cut in their abdomens with some sharp instrument, both at exactly the same place. From the one the entrails were protruding and the animal was instantly shot as it was considered of no avail to attempt to doctor the wound. Dr. May is at work on the other and hopes to save its life. Mr. Foulk cannot find any cause for the singular occurrence about the field, and although so far as he knows, free from enemies, cannot help but believe that it was the work of a knife in the hands of some fiendish scoundrel. The horses were both valuable animals.—Comet.

The great Peter Cooper once said : "In all towns where a newspaper is published, every man should advertise, even if nothing but a card giving his name and business. It not only pays the advertiser, but lets people in the surrounding country know that the town contains an enterprising, prosperous set of business men, bringing to it trade that never would come under other circumstances. There is nothing like a good little home paper to tone up a country town. It is without doubt, to the interest of every man doing business in the town to encourage and support his local paper. How ? As the subscription price of itself will not by any means support it, give to it your job printing, advertise in it, and, wherever possible, speak a good word for it. It is a poor policy of economy to suffer it to die out, simply for want of proper encouragement. Don't take down your sign so long as you want to do business."

DR. J. SHELTON M'KENZIE.

Oculist and Optician,

Graduate of the University of Edinburg, College of opthalmology, and Royal Eye infirmary has opened an office, in the Telephone Exchange Building, East Patrick street, Frederick, where he may be consulted by those suffering from disease or any difficulty of their eyes. Dr. M'Kenzie has made a special study of diseases of the eye and having had an active practice of ten years in Europe and America believes he can successfully combat the diseases which are so destructive to this delicate organ. All examinations are made with the opthalmoscope and other scientific instruments used in modern opthalmology. A correct diagnosis is made of each person's case and an accurate statement given of the exact condition of their eyes. In functional diseases of the eyes, where glasses are indicted, the doctor cuts grinds and adjusts them for each person thus insuring perfect vision, ease and comfort to the wearer. These glasses are free from the imperfections usually found in glasses, viz : Mud specs, cracks, flaws, waves, blisters, etc. They are made from pure quartz, very white and as transparent as the purest spring water. These goods are not put on sale in the shops. They are only ground and fitted to order. Thousands of people who are suffering with their eyes from over lachrymation, pain over the eye and through the globe, a dull heaviness of the eye itself, a morbid feeling as though there were sand imbedded in the mucous membrance of the lids, very sensible to light and air and a desire to partially close the eyes, or an incipient inflammation in the globe of lids. These and a great many more troubles may be cited which can be entirely overcome if the person so afflicted will consult an oculist who understands physical and physiological optics, the laws of light, refraction, etc. There are very few cases of eyes or vision but can be brought to approximate nearly normal vision with properly adjusted glasses. Testimonials of the most substantial character. Cases treated since the Doctor has been in town can be readily ascertained by any person who will take the trouble to inquire. Office hours from 7 to 9 a. m., 12 to 5 and 6 to 8 p. m. Aug. 15-1y.

The October Eclectic shows its usual taste in the selection of attractive articles from the English Magazines. The opening paper by Prof. J. Burdon Sanderson, discusses the subject of "Cholera, Its Cause and Cure," in a very suggestive and instructive manner. Theodore Child is represented by a very interesting article on the "Paris Newspaper Press," and Swinburne completes his brilliant study of the life and career of Victor Hugo, begun in the previous number. From Blackwoods we have a very racy collection of gossip under the title of "Reminiscences of an Attache." "Aristocracy in America" by Matthew Trumbull, furnishes a capital Social Study, and presents facts, the truth of which Americans will quickly recognize. R. C. Machray discources on "The Reil Rebellion in North-west Canada." Emile de Laveleye has a word to say of "Pessimism on the Stage," and contributes some stimulating thoughts on "Hamlet." Other articles of interest are a posthumous paper by Charles Lamb, and a brief discussion of "Death and Afterwards," by Edwin Arnold. Two capital scientific papers are "Fossil Food" and "The Birth of Mountains." There are other papers of interest, essays, stories, poems, etc., and the whole number may be accepted as an excellent example of an excellent magazine. Published by E. R. Pelton, 25 Bond Street, New York. Terms, $5 per year ; single numbers, 45 cents ; trial subscription for 3 month, $1. Eclectic and any $4 Magazine, $8.

Dewey, gives his experiences among the thrifty farmers along the Canada border in the State of New York, illustrated by scenes among the Thousand Islands, and a view of the Lachine Rapids, Joseph Harris, in his Walks and Talks, discusses with the Doctor and the Deacon, the Food of the Soil and of the Animal, the Farm Supply of Nitrogen and Nitrated, and kindred topics. W. Thornton, of Washington Territory, has an interesting article, comparing the feeding value of English beans and Indian corn. Henry Stewart discusses among other things, Southern Grasses, the Action of Rennet, Butter Packages, and Storing Potatoes. D. W. King furnishes an excellent plan for a Village School House, with details of cost and construction. Col. Weld has articles on the Guernsey Cow, at home and in this country, on Black Dorset, and Chester White Pigs, Kicking Cows, Breaking Colts, Sweet Butter, etc. There is a grand Ghost Story for the young folks, and The Doctor continues his interesting Talks, while the whole paper is full of convenient devices for all sorts of things, beautifully illustrated, and Natural History articles. The Household pages have as usual much to interest the ladies ; receipts, hints about decoration, etc., so that not only the general reader, but every member of the farmer's household, will find much of direct personal interest, and not least among them the "Basket" items, including answers to queries, and the "Humbug Columns" are important to everybody.

The Lock Up.

Under the skilful engineering of commissioner Snouffer the Louk-up was placed in its assigned position on Monday, where with a solid stone foundation to which it is securely bolted, it promises to resist all possible assaults of wind and other forces that may arise. We trust it may suit its intended purposes, and that the aims of the town authorities to discharge their unremunerative duties may after all prove to have been well directed. As the structure was not finished according to the instructions given, it was necessarily subject to the criticisms, that its appearance called forth. It was left standing some days in the hot sunshine when many entered, and found the atmosphere within its unventilated iron walls, next to intollerable. The experience and good judgment ofthe officials are to be respected, and we hope their final ararrangements may prove efficient and satisfactory.

The Correspondent of the Baltimore Sun from Hagerstown gives the following for September 20th :

From the Hanover Citizen.

On Saturday John Bole, a farmer living near Hill's Mills, was hauling grain in his barn. He took off his vest and laid it on the barn floor. In one pocket was a number of matches. While Bole was away after a load of wheat two pigs entered the barn and began tearing the vest. In doing so they ignited the matches. The fire spread rapidly in the loose straw, and the barn, with all the season's hay, a great quantity of wheat, three valuable horses, and $600 worth of farm implements, were burned up. Loss was $2,000.

A singular accident accurred at the tannery of Baugher, Kurtz & Stewart, in York, the other day in which John M. Tracy, the foreman came near losing his life. While working near a revolving vertical shaft, part of his beard, which was very long, became encircled around the shaft and rapidly drew his face toward it. With great presence of mind he caught his whiskers and pulled them out by the roots, thus releasing himself. This is the second time he had his beard caught by the shaft, and he proposes to have it shaved off after this accident. A similar accident to a man in the northern part of the State resulted in a broken neck.

Death of Aged Citizens of Carroll.

Westminster, Md., Sept. 24.—Joseph Moore, a prominent citizen of Carroll county, died suddenly this morning of apoplexy, at Union Bridge. Mr. Joseph Moore purchased in 1837 a tract of land known as "Rich Indian Garden," and laid out a portion of the village of Union Bridge west of the main street, which has been built up and greatly improved. In 1865 he sold the home farm, which he had inherited, and built a residence in Union Bridge, and married in 1871 Hannah P. Lord, of Troy, N. Y. Buttermilk for Calves and Pigs.

We are asked the value of buttermilk for swine and calves, and why it is not considered as safe to feed without any additional food, as skimmed milk. Buttermilk, if in good condition, has a value very similar to skimmed milk. It is slightly richer in fat, having 1 per cent., and slightly less albuminoid matter. It is figured at twenty-two cents per 100 pounds. It will produce a rapid growth on calves and pigs, if it does not derange the stomach. But buttermilk is apt to be in a strong condition of fermentation. This very soon produces a bad forms of scours, which, unless taken quickly, may end fatally. It is hardly safe to feed buttermilk without mixing one-half pound of finished middlings (what farmers call "canel") per gallon of buttermilk. If it is quite sour it should be boiled with the middlings. The heat will neutralize the acidity, but it will not be as valuable as before fermentation has eaten up some of the food elements. We often recommend keeping a little flax-seed on hand for use in checking scours, and it will be most useful here. Boil one quart of flax-seed in six quarts of water. This will become like jelly. Stir a little of this boiled flax-seed into that for the ration of each calf, or into that for several calves or pigs. The emollient effect of this is very soothing to the stomach. Feeders should not consider a few bushels of flax-seed as adding to expense, for it is worth all it costs, fed in small quantities, as promoting rapid growth. We always use this instead of linseed oil, for there is danger of getting impure oil, but the seed can be relied upon.—National Live Stock Journal.

A Sure Insect Destroyer.

A late number of the Journal of Chemistry believes hot alum water the best insect destroyer known. It says: "Put the alum into hot water and let it boil till all the alum is dissolved; then apply it hot with a brush to all cracks, closets, bedsteads and other places where any insects are found. Ants, bedbugs, cock-roaches and creeping things are killed by it; while it has no danger of poisoning the family or injuring property." The material costs but a small sum, and is perfectly harmless to human life.

TIMBER cut between June and September keeps sound longer than if cut in winter. The old rule was to cut in August, but any time will do while the foliage is full. The reason for this probably is that the leaves on the tree help to dry it more rapidly than it would if the leaves were removed. The hot weather of summer months is also more favorable for seasoning timber than fall or winter. In very early spring, while the wood is full of sap, is the worst time to cut timber for keeping.

M. R. PRIME, Esq., Girard, Pa., says he tested the relative value of Powell's Prepared Chemicals with three super-phosphates of high grade and costing $34.00 per ton. He had the best crop where he used the Chemicals, and hereafter shall use them exclusively. This preparation costs only $6.00 per bbl., a sufficient quantity to make one-half ton of complete fertilizer. Brown Chemical Co., manufacturers, Baltimore, Md.

KINDNESS to domestic animals means thrift and prosperity; abuse and neglect result in viciousness of disposition, loss of time unthrift, and reduction of market value. When this understanding becomes universal, man's happiness and prosperity will have been greatly augmented.

A SMALL quantity of carbolic acid added to paste, mucilage and ink will prevent mold. An ounce of the acid to a gallon of whitewash will keep cellars and dairies from the disagreeable odor which often taints milk and meat kept in such places.

A FARMER tells us that a remedy for colic in horses, which has never failed, is an injection of from one to two quarts of cold water (not too cold,) and that it is harmless, as well as giving instant relief,

TREATMENT OF BUNIONS.—Tincture of iodine applied locally will afford better results than any other remedy.

Miscellaneous.

The Habit of Waste.

Said a most successful merchant a day or two since to a lad who was opening a parcel, "Young man, untie those strings—don't cut them."

It was the first remark he had made to a new employee. It was the first lesson for the lad to learn, and it involved the principle of success or failure in his business career. Pointing to a well-dressed man of thirty years behind a counter, the merchant said: "There is a man who always whipes out his scissors and cuts the strings of a package in three or four places. He is a good salesman, but never will be anything more. I presume he lives from hand to mouth, and very likely is always more or less in debt. The trouble with him is that he was never taught to save. I told the boy just now to untie the string instead of cutting it, not so much for the value of the string as to teach him that everything must be saved and nothing wasted. If the idea can be firmly impressed upon the mind of a beginner in life that nothing was made to be wasted, you have laid the foundation of success."

The moral of this little incident is self-evident. A young man, well brought up, with a fair education, seeks employment in a business house. The habit of waste in little things is noticeable, and becomes a drawback on his value and usefulness to his employer. The disregard of saving strings and paper develops into a carelessness that runs through all his habits. He does not get on in the world because he is wasteful. Small sums of money slip through his fingers almost unconsciously, because they are small. He wastes time by the minute, without a thought of the old adage: "Take care of the minutes and the hours will take care of themselves."

Sitting in the counting-room of one of the oldest and most successful merchants the other day, we noticed that he cut off the blank sheet of the letter he was engaged in filing. The name of the man is a synonym of charity and benevolence, and his liberality in all good works is almost unbounded. His attention being called to what seemed an unusual proceeding, he said:

"Yes, it may strike you as singular to save these half sheets of paper, but I commenced life a poor boy in a country store, and this was one of the first lessons in saving little things that was taught me by my employer. He has been nearly half a century under the sod but I never do this without thinking of the good old man. I believe it was the secret of my success in life."

This saving of little things does not imply stinginess or meanness. It is the habit of saving instead of simply wasting. It is embodied in the motto, "Wast, not, want not."

THE French Academy has awarded the prize of 40,000 francs for a test to prevent persons being buried alive to a physician who has demonstrated that if, on holding the hand of the supposed dead person to a strong light a scarlet tinge is seen where the fingers touch, life is not extinct. No scarlet is seen if death has really occurred. Another test by Dr. Max Busch is contracting a muscle by electricity; if life remains the temperature will rise and be indicated on a small surface thermometer; in case of death the temperature remains unchanged.

"THAT boy of yours is not adapted for the undertaking business," explained an undertaker to the boy's father, who inquired why he had been discharged. "What's the trouble with him?" "He hasn't realized sense of what is due the afflicted. Day before yesterday Mrs. B. buried her fourth husband. I sent the boy up to learn what hour she wished the ceremony to take place, and he asked her what her regular time of day was for burying husbands. I expect to lose her trade entirely."

GIBSON, in his "Pastoral Days" says "the October day is a dream, bright and beautiful as the rainbow, and as brief and fugitive," while the poet Gray writes that in October "the forests rot, the weary rain falls ceaselessly, while the day is wrapped in damp." These poets must have struck different Octobers.—Philadelphia Call.

THE entire business portion of a Western town was reported as destroyed by fire, and when a charity association made inquiry, to render some assistance, it was discovered that a solitary saloon had been swept away.

OLD Mr. Bently brought home a painting which he exhibited to his wife with great pride. "There!" he said, "what do you think o' that? Cost only $3, frame an' all, an' it's a genooine—genooine—" "Rubbins?" suggested old Mrs. Bently. "No, 'taint Rubbins. H'm! begins with a C—chromo! that's it—a genooine chromo!"

"What influence has the moon on the tide?" the teacher asked John Henry. And John Henry said it depended on what was tied; if it was a dog it made him howl, and if it was a gate it untied it, just as soon as a cow or a young man came along. It is such things as this that make school teachers want to lie down and die every day at 4 o'clock.

AT a recent dinner, where the host was somewhat inexperienced, there was a lull in the conversation, and he, with a view to relief, asked a mournful looking man if he was married. "No, I am a bachelor," stiffly replied the sombre man. "Ah," said the host, warming to this subject. "How long have you been a bachelor?" There was another lull in the conversation.

"WHY don't you finish eating your hash, Tommy?" asked a Brooklyn mother of her boy, who suddenly laid down his knife and fork, as he caught sight of the servant dishing out ice cream.

"Impossible, ma," replied the lad.

"Why?"

"'Cause it's crowded out to make room for more interesting matter," answered Tommy, who is working in a newspaper office during his vacation.—New York Journal.

He Had an Answer.

The representative to the legislature from Calabash county his favorite attitude, glared upon the House, and, in low, deep tones of much deliberation, said, with great emphasis: "For what did my constituents send me here?" And then he glared again, brought down his brows and repeated in a voice of thunder, as he looked straight at the member from Blossom county: "For what did my constituents send me here?" Taking this as a direct appeal to him for important information, the little man in the baggy pantaloons jumped to his feet, and, with his right hand pointing to the zenith, said, in tones of great earnestness: "God Almighty only knows!"

Only Temperance Bitters Known.

VINEGAR BITTERS

PURELY VEGETABLE FREE FROM ALCOHOL

DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA

EUREKA

VINEGAR BITTERS

No other medicine known so effectually purges the blood of deep-seated diseases.

Millions bear testimony to its wonderful curative effects.

It is a purely Vegetable Preparation, made from the native herbs and roots of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol.

It removes the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health.

It is the great Blood Purifier and Life-giving Principle; a Gentle Purgative and Tonic; a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the power of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to.

The Alterative, Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Anti-Bilious, Solvent, Diuretic and Tonic properties of VINEGAR BITTERS exceed those of any other medicine in the world.

No person can take the BITTERS according to directions and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

Bilious, Remittent, Intermittent and Malarial Fevers, are prevalent throughout the United States, particularly in the valleys of our great rivers and their vast tributaries during the Summer and Autumn, especially during seasons of unusual heat and dryness.

These Fevers are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these organs, is absolutely necessary.

There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as it will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus forearmed.

It Invigorates the Stomach and stimulates the torpid Liver and Bowels, cleansing the blood of all impurities, imparting life and vigor to the frame, and carrying off without the aid of Calomel, or other minerals, all poisonous matter from the system.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Pneumonia, Dizziness, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are at once relieved by VINEGAR BITTERS.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, the Bitters have no equal. In these, as in all constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS has shown its great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to Paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take occasional doses of VINEGAR BITTERS.

Skin Diseases, Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Ulcers, Swellings, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations, Humors and diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of the Bitters.

Pin, Tape and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics, will free the system from worms like VINEGAR BITTERS.

Measles, Scarlet Fever, Mumps, Whooping Cough, and all children's diseases may be made less severe by keeping the bowels open with mild doses of the Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, this Bitters has no equal.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood when its impurities burst through the skin in Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when, and the health of the system will follow.

In conclusion: Give the Bitters a trial. It will speak for itself. One bottle is a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Around each bottle are full directions printed in different languages.
