THE RURAL PRESS.

From the earliest ages of civilization, it has been the custom of governments, as well as of individuals and associations, to encourage the progress of the Fine Arts, objects of benevolence and philanthropy; and such educational schemes as promoted the most public advancement.

In our old state of Maryland the course of events in this connection has been one of recognized liberality in favour of the Art. In time, however, untoward influences were exercised, that raised the compensation for the Legislative printing to such an extent that it was regarded exorbitant, and unduly extravagant, and which ultimately produced a general warfare upon its curtailment, and there ensued a reduction of the work, which, whilst it has been scarcely felt in the metropolitan, and other large establishments, has been not a little detrimental to the workers in the rural districts.

The course of trade and the power of capital, necessarily develop the largest and most powerful establishment of offices in the cities and large towns. In matters of legislation involving the printer's work, these establishments have been in a position to influence and obtain the passage of laws in such terms as have favoured themselves.

The rural printer, as is well known, is for the most part, editor, compositor, pressman, book-keeper, general solicitor as well as general manager of his establishment, and the more or less provident husbandman of his household; wholly absorbed in his personal duties, having no time to enter into combinations, to form cliques or to originate schemes for his own advantage, he is thus left to gather up as he may, the crumbs that fall from the tables of his more exalted professional brothers.

A convention of printers that should undertake to review the field of the general operations of the craft, actuated by the spirit of fair dealing and right and justice, could not be indifferent to the wrongs thus inflicted, and would seek to remove and adjust them; for unless it is positively intended to compel, if possible, the rural population to encourage at any cost, only the newspapers of the county-towns or of the cities, there can be no good reason why information of official and public interest should be obtainable only from those sources.

The printer's business is of course a matter of enterprise like unto other engagements, to a great extent, but the general consent concedes its position in no small degree above the petty conflicts of trade, and yet the enterprise manifested of recent years, has been very much like that of the big fishes against the smaller ones. It has been demonstrated over and over again that the best agency for the development of any community, externally considered, is the Newspaper, and the advancement is apparent, in accordance with the degree of favour and prosperity, extended to the paper. State and county affairs are advanced through this agency as in no other way.

Conservators of the peace and instructors in the various departments of daily life, they diminish crime, promote material progress and advance morality, benevolence and philanthropy. To encourage them therefore is at all points for the encouragement of the common welfare.

A RELIGIOUS BULLDOZER. That most sensational of modern revivalists, Rev. Sam. Jones of Atlanta, Ga., is a gospel of manifold eccentricities and abrupt surprises. His labors in the vineyard are popularly believed to have resulted in awakening the convictions and improving the morals of a certain class whose hardened hearts can only be reached by a preacher who possesses the lungs of a tenor, the tongue of a street fakir, and the general style and easy vociferation of an auctioneer.

The scene that followed was sensational beyond the expectations even of the revivalist himself. All over the hall men and women stood up, and a tempest of indignation seemed to let itself loose in an instant. Revivalist Jones received such a rebuke from his justly exasperated audience as he will not soon forget. Manners and morals fit well together, and even a popular revivalist need not forget that the dissemination of the gentle and benign doctrines of Christianity is in nowise inconsistent with the character of a gentleman.

THE EDUCATION BILL PASSES THE SENATE. The Blair education bill, appropriating $77,000,000 for the cure of illiteracy, and $2,000,000 for the erection of school buildings throughout the United States in the next eight years, passed the Senate yesterday by a vote of 36 to 11.

The Blair education bill, appropriating $77,000,000 for the cure of illiteracy, and $2,000,000 for the erection of school buildings throughout the United States in the next eight years, passed the Senate yesterday by a vote of 36 to 11. When it passed the Senate before, the vote was 33 to 11, so that the measure has gained instead of losing favor in that body. Maryland's share of the $77,000,000, should her laws be found to be in accord with the requirements of the bill, would be $1,666,442—getting in the first year $151,494, in the second $216,421, in the third $324,641, in the fourth $281,357, in the fifth $238,063, in the sixth $194,779, in the seventh $151,494, in the eighth $108,210. The bill assumes, of course, a wide latitude for "the general welfare" clause of the constitution, and is a step in tracing the consequences of which the pessimist will find ample scope for his genius.

A BIG STRIKE. On Friday last there was a general street car strike in New York City. Every line in that City and Brooklyn was concerned, at least 15,000 men stopped work, hundreds of cars, trucks, drays and carts were overturned along the tracks; these were removed by the police. Disorder to some extent prevailed, there was hissing and yelling, a little clubbing, but no serious trouble and no one was seriously injured. Order was at last secured, and the difficulty was adjusted. The strikers secured $2 a day for 12 hours work. It speaks well for the government of the City that it could thus control the disturbance, and its efficiency presented a grand contrast with that of London at the riots there, of a few weeks ago. Since then the striking has become pretty general in the land.

ADDITIONAL POWERS TO THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

The movement looking to the enlargement of the powers of the Commissioners has assumed a shape that promises definite results. Mr. Ireland of Anne Arundel County has introduced a bill in the Legislature which reads:

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the following new sections to be known as sections A., B., C. and D., be, and the same are enacted and added to Article twenty-eight of the Code of Public General Laws of this State, to be known as "County Commissioners," so as to enlarge their powers thereby.

A. The said County Commissioners in their respective counties shall have control over all the public roads in the county, and may make rules and regulations for repairing, mending and perfecting the same, and provide for the payment thereof.

B. They shall have power to levy all taxes, or license fees upon dogs and bitches over two months old, owned, kept or harbored within said county, and to provide for the enrollment of said dogs and the collection of the tax or license fee thereon, and out of the annual aggregate of said collection they may provide for reimbursing owners of sheep or cattle for losses sustained by the killing of sheep or cattle by dogs other than those owned, kept or harbored by the owner of said sheep or cattle.

C. They may make necessary rules and regulations, fixing and paying bounties for the killing of hawks, owls, crows, minks, foxes, Wild-cats and such other and like destructive and harmful wild animals and birds.

D. They may make necessary rules and regulations as to the erection or a removal of gates and fences from and along the public highways.

SECTION 2. And be it enacted, That all Acts or parts of Acts, whether General or local, inconsistent with this Act, be, and the same are hereby repealed.

Rightly improved the occasion would be a good one for the printers not interested in the monopoly clique to secure more just and beneficial enactments in regard to the County Printing. The County Commissioners should control that work as regards their spheres of action.

Of course everybody will comprehend that the enlarged powers can be only such as are granted by the law.

EX-SENATOR CHAFFEE DEAD.

NEW YORK, March 9.—A telegram was received in this city this morning announcing the death at Purdy's Station, Westchester county, of ex-United States Senator Jerome B. Chaffee, the father-in-law of Mr. Ulysses S. Grant. Mr. Chaffee died of acute meningitis. He was born in Niagara county, New York, in 1825. He received an academic education, and became engaged in mining operations, in Colorado, where he was elected to the territorial legislature of Colorado in 1861, 1862 and 1863, serving as speaker of the House. The state legislature of the proposed state of Colorado in 1865 elected him a United States senator. He also served as territorial delegate from Colorado during three sessions of Congress. His term as United States senator expired in March, 1879. Senator Chaffee was largely interested in mining properties, and amassed a large fortune a part of which was swallowed up in the collapse of the firm of Grant & Ward.

JAMES T. HOLLAND the Texan who shot Tom Davis, in August last as he alleged for "trying to rob him," was acquitted after a seven days trial on the 5th inst. The jury made up its verdict in ten minutes after retiring from the box.

The Mardi Gras ceremonies were begun in New Orleans on Monday, and the reign of Rex was recognized with the usual pageantry and revelry.

SENATOR JOHN F. MILLER of California died at Washington City on Monday aged 55 years.

MARY BLECKER, relict of ex-Governor Horatio Seymour, died at the residence of Mrs. Roscoe Conkling at Utica, N. Y., on Monday. The late governor removed Mrs. Seymour from his country home to Mrs. Conkling's on account of her illness, and, while attending her, was attacked with his fatal illness. The deceased was the daughter of the late John R. Blecker, of Albany.

1842. A PROCLAMATION. 1886.

Know Ye All: Men, women and children—that the great staff of editors, who, headed by George Thompson, have kept the American Agriculturist at the Court for twenty-five years, are now re-enforced by Chester P. Dewey and Seth Green, the Fish Cultivator. We propose to add to the hundreds of thousands of homes, in which the American Agriculturist is read, and revered from the Atlantic to the Pacific as an old time friend and counselor. We are accordingly enlarging the HEALTH, HOUSEHOLD, AND JUVENILE DEPARTMENTS, and adding other features, so that it is to be, from this time onward, essentially a Home Periodical, as well as being devoted to Agriculture and Horticulture. Every person who immediately sends us $1.50, the subscription price, and 15 cts. for postage book, makes $1.65, and will receive the AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST for 1886, and the AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST YEAR BOOK, just published, a Compendium of every-day Law for Farmers, Stock-raisers, Business-men, Manufacturers, etc., embracing every one to his own lawyer. It is a large volume, weighing one pound and a half, and elegantly bound in Cloth and Gold. The American Agriculturist Agricultural.

Live Stock in March. The neglect of stock in the spring entails heavy loss all through the summer; especially is this true with those that have to carry the burden of spring work. Without making superfluous flesh, they should be gradually fed up and kept at work sufficient to harden them, so that when the plowing has to be done, they will be in good working order. You must not stint the supply of food to the cows that are fresh, or they will lose so much flesh that the milk yield will be materially cut down all through the summer, for the cow will look after her own flesh, before she will devote herself to the milk pail. Give the calves and young things generally, that generous care that surely starts them on a successful career. Neglect of the young is the first step toward shiftless farming. The cold rains and north winds of this month, are much more trying on all kinds of live stock, than colder and drier weather. For this reason keep all stock housed that can be. Do not allow warm days to deceive you into keeping the animals out at night, when they are likely to become painfully chilled.—American Agriculturist for March.

"Bohemian Oats."

Farmers in several parts of the country inquire as to the so-called "Bohemian Oats," and about the "Co." engaged in selling them. The old "Skinless" oat, was some years ago sold under the name of "Bohemian," and we are informed that the grain now sold is similar. The Skinless oat is a very old variety, that is valued in Europe, but has not met with marked success in this country. The present interest in these Bohemian oats, is not so much in their intrinsic value as a farm crop, as in the manner in which they are sold. The agents who go about the country selling these oats at ten dollars a bushel, induce farmers to purchase by a promise to sell for them, from their (the farmer's) crop, twice as many bushels as purchased, at the same price—ten dollars. The farmer is induced to buy ten bushels of the oats for one hundred dollars, by the hope of selling twenty bushels for two hundred dollars, and he thinks that this is guaranteed to him by a "bond," given him by the seller. This bond in spite of its abundance of green and red inks, its very broad seal (intended to look like gold, but is only Dutch metal), and the bold signature of a secretary, this "bond," so-called, has no more binding effect than a mere memorandum.—American Agriculturist for March.

Barn Buildings for Cold Section.

In parts of the country where deep snows fall, and severe weather prevails for several months, structures which may be well adapted to milder climates, would be really of little use. In Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, the association of the dwellings, wood-sheds, well-house, tool-sheds, and barns for horses, cattle, sheep, and styes for pigs, are very intimate—as we have often observed with interest. They are frequently so connected that the farmer may go from one to the other, doing the entire round of his morning work, and the good wife can go to the wood-shed and well, though the snow-banks should be six feet high at every door, without once encountering a shovefall. The buildings, however, were usually rather costly, and the growth of many years. On the western prairies, where cheap structures are often all that can be had, the same necessities for protection against snow and a low thermometer exist.—American Agriculturist for March.

PLANT at least one tree in your yard, as poultry need shade as well as sunshine. Plant plenty of sun-flowers. The seed is not only relished by fowls but is also productive of health.

ON a large farm it is rarely necessary or best to confine fowls in summer. If given free range they will do as much good in destroying insects as they can do of injury.

To keep mold from rising on cat-snip or pickles, add a tablespoonful of ground horseradish to every quart.

THERE is something in omens, after all. A man who, under protest, made the thirteenth at a banquet, has just died. The banquet took place forty-three years ago, but the man has died, all the same.—Norr. Herald.

AGENT: "Want to get your life insured? Why, you have one foot in the grave now."

Irishman: "Och, sure an' that's the reason. I want to get me loife insured to kape the other wan out out of it."—Judge.

WHEN a man dies suddenly "without the aid of a physician," as an Irishman once said, the coroner must be called in. If a man dies regularly after being treated by a doctor, everybody knows why he died, and the coroner's inquest is not necessary.

"Yes," said the tidy housekeeper meditatively, "I think I will have to put some ashes on the pavement. Half a dozen people have broken their legs there this month, and to-day I came very near slipping down and spilling a whole dozen of eggs."

It was a young wife who, traveling with her son, an infant, wrote to her husband as follows: "We are doing first-rate, and enjoying ourselves very much. We are in fine health. The boy can crawl about on all-fours. Hoping that the same may be said of you, I remain, etc., Fanny."

ESTELLE, Dak., Bee: "Mamma," said a little Estelle girl, "what is that man doing over there on Mr. Thompson's porch? He has been sitting on the steps for two hours, and hasn't moved." "That, my child, is a house painter. He is painting Mr. Thompson's house by the day."

SOME persons entertain the opinion that "the bodies of persons struck by lightning do not become corrupt." If this theory should prove to be correct, no man should be nominated for Congress unless he could show a physician's certificate that he had been struck by lightning.—Norristown Herald.

A LITTLE girl, a regular attendant at one of the Presbyterian Sunday-schools of St. Paul, went out with her mother to spend the day. A young lady, a visitor likewise, asked her what church she attended. "I don't know exactly," the little girl replied, "I'm not a Methodist and I'm not a Baptist. I guess I must be an advertisement."

A MINISTER forgot to take his sermon with him to church, and his wife discovering the mistake, sent it to him in charge of a small boy, who was to receive ten cents for the job. Presently he returned for the money. "You delivered the sermon, did you?" she asked. "No, mum," he replied. "I jest giv it to him; he's a deliverin' of it himself."

SENATOR MASON'S little boy accompanied his father one day to the barber's shop where the senator had his boots blackened by a colored man. The next morning the senator heard this much of a conversation being carried on by the young man and his little sister: "An' did you know zat nigger mens had black breef?" "No, Does'em?" asked the little girl. "Yes; I sawed it yesterday. A nigger man des blowed his breef on papa's boots an' made 'em all black."
