VIOTIM OF A RUSSIAN PLOT.

The news by cable on Monday of the forcible deposition of Prince Alexander of Bulgaria, is startlingly unexpected, and coming as it does, at a time when England has her hands full at home, certainly means serious complications for European affairs.

Russian trickery, which is at the bottom of the whole business, seems ready to stoop to anything likely to forward her ambitious aims, but it is just possible that she has overreached herself, in thus unscrupulously removing the monarch placed in power through her influence, for no other reason than his failing to prove the tool he was expected to be, and winning by his courage and independence of character, the confidence and respect of the people who were at first opposed to his authority; and who have now demanded his release and reinstatement in power.

That even Russia should have had the audacity to send a military force under its own private orders, to enter the palace of the king of Bulgaria at midnight, and compelling him to rise from bed and sign the papers declaring his abdication off a close prisoner, is almost too astounding for belief.

The provisional government which was then established, has, however, since been overthrown by the people, who at first believed that Alexander's abdication was voluntary, but have now learned the truth.

The importance of this step on the part of Russia can hardly be overestimated, as every country in Europe is interested in keeping the northern bear within some limited boundary. England has trouble enough near home, and is ill prepared to resist the Russian encroachments on disputed territory, whilst France, on the eve of another revolution at home, may be glad of an opportunity to divert the military ardor of the people, by a war against Russian aggressiveness, but Germany has shown no signs of joining the fray, and as England can't well do so, France will hardly engage alone in such a conflict, and it is hard to know what attitude the other powers will assume, but the war dogs certainly are howling ominously.

The following from the Balto., Sun of Thursday, presents a later phase of the above subject:

Another turn in the wheel is said to have taken place in Bulgaria, and the old ministry has been reinstated. The commander of the yacht on which the Prince was taken to Rani, in Bessarabia, having telegraphed back to the Bulgarian capital asking what to do with his prisoner, has been instructed to bring him back to Sofia. The revolutionists are having a bad time of it. Their provincial government has been overthrown and their leaders are in prison. Few princes can boast better evidence that they are wanted at the head of affairs than the events of the past week have supplied Prince Alexander. The popular feeling in his favor is so intense that the revolutionists have nowhere been able to withstand it. Should the Bulgarians succeed after all in getting their prince back from Russia, the sentiments of the Czar will be indescribable. It will be his second defeat.

The latest advice has been that Prince Alexander had been reinstated, and that the Czar claims to have had no knowledge of the conspiracy.

HENRY WARD BEECHER'S BROTHER SUICIDES.

The Rev. James C. Beecher, of Coscob, Conn., brother of Rev. Henry Ward Beecher and Rev. Thomas K. Beecher, committed suicide at the water cure in Elmira, N. Y., on Wednesday evening, by shooting himself through the head with a small rifle. He had been suffering under severe mental troubles for a number of years, and for time was under treatment at the Middletown (N. Y.) Asylum. He went to Elmira recently in the care of a special attendant. At the cure he appeared to be in pretty fair health, and enjoyed himself with others in shooting at a target on the day of his suicide, and during the evening, while conversing on the piazza, he suddenly went to his room, and taking a rifle placed the muzzle in his mouth and fired, killing himself instantly.—Balto. Sun.

REV. ALEXANDER J. DEYSDALE of New Orleans, La., was unanimously elected Bishop of Easton, at the adjourned convention which met in that Diocese on Thursday, August 26.

NEARING THE END.

The leaden-hued skies—with the dreaminess that casts its dull shadows over the face of nature, and the general expression of weariness on most countenances, proclaim that summer has nearly run its course. Restless in our energy and ever active in the pursuit of our callings, our American citizens have shown of late that they can be as earnest and persevering in seeking rest, as they are intent upon their occupations. From every quarter come the glowing accounts of persons whose aim in life of late has been to seek and obtain rest, and to try by doing nothing to secure a new lease of energy for the busy season, now near at hand. The railways, the water courses and every mode of travel has been called into requisition to supply the demand for the change of scenes that the rush has called forth. The choice of places is so great that every taste and the state of almost every purse has been fully met.

But when all is said, the great thing desired is a change of locality, and this more than particular surroundings, in most cases, determines the benefit. There are many cases beyond doubt where persons leave their healthful and comfortable abodes for public resorts in which with contracted spaces and many inconveniences they recreate under no small disadvantages, but all the same they accept the belongings of the situation, and deem it pleasure because they observe the law of the locality. It is in this way that the principle of rest and do nothing is carried out in its season just as the pertaining requirements of other seasons are observed in their times. To work through the passing months, or be immersed in the cares of trade is the necessity of existence, and the great looked for period is the calm time of summer when work and care and study are laid aside for the time; and the cooling shades, the invigorating air and the seclusion of quiet retreats, fill up the measure of time, that ends the lingering days of Summer.

THE ANARCHISTS CONVICTED.

The jury that has been trying the eight anarchists at Chicago, since June 21st, brought in last week a verdict of guilty of murder as charged in the indictment against August Spies, Michael Schwab, Samuel Fiddlen, Albert R. Parsons, Adolph Fischer, George Engle, Louis Lingg and fixed the penalty at death, and as to the eighth Oscar W. Neobe, imprisonment in the penitentiary for 15 years.

The crime was committed on the night of May 4th last, and consisted in throwing a bomb among the police, when seven of them and one citizen were killed and many others were wounded.

The revelation after the crowd retreated being about sixty persons, a large proportion of them being police men, lying dead, dying, or badly wounded.

The whole affair was one of deliberate preparation for murder, and the police literally walked into the death trap set for them. The bomb-throwing was the beginning of a scheme for the destruction of property, and the murder of all who opposed their designs.

These enemies of law and order, having taken their lessons against the peace of society, under the influences of the socialistic and agrarian combinations in Europe, came to this country and mistaking the liberal character of our institutions, that give free speech at all points, began to imagine that they could carry out their plans with impunity and found out that whilst our regulations secure personal liberty, they cannot be used in violation of good order, and that murder must bring the forfeiture of the life of its perpetrator.

The announcement of the verdict caused general applause throughout the land, the people everywhere seemed to breathe freer, seeing that the majesty of the law has been vindicated by the conviction, and that the disturbing elements of foreign growth, which have long been endangering the public peace, have received a check that must henceforth relegate them to the dens and the hiding places whence they emerged. The country will not be satisfied, until the entire unclean herd is removed root and branch.

As Mr. A. K. Cutting steps over the border from Mexico, a free man the Mexican and American troops can politely bid each other good day, with congratulations that no blood has run into the Rio Grande. In that respect the case has had a first-rate end.—N. Y. Sun.

DON'T GIVE YOUR STOCK AWAY.

Shipping the fowls to market and receiving eight and ten cents a pound, while paying fifteen and twenty cents per pound for beef, is a losing business. No matter what the fowls may be worth in market they are equal—pound for pound—to any other kind of meat that can be procured. When you buy beef you cannot always feel assured that it is from cattle free of disease, or that it is of prime quality, but if you will consume your surplus poultry on your own table you will know just what you are eating, and will not only avoid assisting to still further lower the price, but can kill them off as occasion requires. Farmers do not use poultry at home to that extent which they should, and they can very materially aid in preventing "gluts" in the market by refraining from selling at this season. The beef soon decomposes, but live poultry will keep till wanted. Hence, we say, "Don't give your stock away and buy beef, but consume the poultry yourself."—Maryland Farmer.

Noses Counted.

At the recent Prohibition Convention in Harrisburg, there were several counts as to the make-up of the body, the following is significant:

On motion, all clergymen delegates were requested to stand up and be counted. The count was made while the convention sang "Praise God from whom all blessings flow." One hundred and thirty-eight clergymen responded. When a call was made for lawyers, the count was 55. An excited delegate arose and said that it been charged that the prohibition party was a rich man's party. But it was a poor man's party, and "Now let's take account of the mechanics." On this 371 delegates stood up. [Cheers.] Then 27 teachers stood up and 19 doctors. When the undertakers were asked to stand up some one cried out "This is no funeral," and the Chair remarked, "The kind of undertakers we want to stand up are those who undertake to knock us out."

Great Desolation.

A terrible and very destructive storm visited the coast of Texas on Friday of last week, that extended 200 miles inland, and destroyed thousands of houses, and involved losses of many millions of dollars, and the drowning of many people. Indianola presented a very sad record, with fire among the ruins, 22 lives were lost and the town was 22 feet under water, great destruction. Galveston presents losses estimated at $250,000, the storm was the severest ever known there. $5,000,000 are the estimated damages, the wind reached a velocity of 85 miles an hour, and thus the record runs from various other parts. Systems of relief on behalf of the sufferers have been augmented.

THE Democratic State Convention of Pennsylvania, met in Harrisburg on Wednesday of last week and nominated Chauncey F. Black of York, as their candidate for Governor, and R. Bruce Ricketts of Luzerne for Lieutenant Governor.

Mrs. CLEVELAND touched the electric button at Prospect House, New York, on Monday, and set the machinery in motion at the Minneapolis Industrial Exposition, and thus its work was begun.

A CABLE message from Dr. Krueger, at Kiel, announced the discovery of Ninnecke's comet from the observatory at Cape Town, Africa. The following is the discovery position: August 20, 2h. 4m. 16s., Greenwich mean time; right ascension, 13h. 10m. 21.5s.; declination south, 1 degree 8 minutes 17 seconds. A CARRIAGE containing Senator Everts of New York, Charles C. Perkins of Boston and a daughter of Judge Stanley Matthews of Ohio, was accidentally overturned at Windsor, Vt., on Wednesday evening, instantly killing Mr. Perkins and severely bruising Senator Everts and Miss Matthews. Their injuries, however, are not serious.

BUFFALO, N. Y., August 23.—The American Association for the Advancement of Science continued its work to-day. The largest attendance in any section was in that devoted to geology and geography. Much interest was manifested in a paper of Prof. R. S. Woodward, of Washington, on "The Rate of Recession of Niagara Falls." The Professor has lately made a survey of the falls, and deduced figures therefrom which he explained at length. He said that the area of the rock worn away at the Horse-shoe Falls between the years 1842 and 1875 was 18,500 square feet. The time required to recede one mile is 2,300 years.

PROF. CALVIN E. STOWE, husband of Harriet Beecher Stowe, died Sunday morning at his home, in Forest street, of Bright's disease. He had been an invalid for nearly two years. Mr. Stowe was eighty-four years old, having been born at South Natick, Mass., on April 26, 1802. He was educated, first at Bradford Academy, in Massachusetts, and then at Gorham, Me., and, entering Bowdoin College, was graduated with honors, going from there to Dartmouth as tutor. He married first Miss Eliza Tyler, daughter of Prof. Tyler, of Dartmouth College, but she lived only a short time. Prof. Stowe then accepted a chair in Lane Theological Seminary in the suburbs of Cincinnati, and in 1836 he married Harriet Beecher, whose father, the Rev. Lyman Beecher, was one of the founders of the institution. In the same year Prof. Stowe was sent to Europe by the Ohio Legislature to examine the Prussian school system and ascertain if it was practicable for the public schools of that State. The trustees of the Lane Theological Seminary also commissioned him to collect a library for that institution.

A Mystery.

How the human system ever recovers from the bad effects of the numerous medicines often liberally poured into it for the supposed relief of dyspepsia, liver complaint, constipation, rheumatism and other ailments, is a mystery. The mischief done by bad medicines is scarcely less than that caused by disease. If they who are weak, bilious, dyspeptic, constipated or rheumatic, would often be guided by the experience of invalids who have thoroughly tested Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, they would in every instance obtain the speedy and reliable relief from rational medicine. This medicine is a searching and at the same time a thoroughly safe remedy, derived from vegetable sources, and possessing, in consequence of its basis of pure spirits, properties as a medicinal stimulant not to be found in the fiery local bitters and stimulants often resorted to by the debilitated, dyspeptic and languid.

A DESTRUCTIVE rain and hail storm visited Abbotstown and neighborhood on Friday afternoon. The flood was the highest for years, and again carried away the turnpike bridge at Noell's mill, one mile below Abbotstown. The damage to corn and tobacco is reported to be heavy.—Herald.

Solar Eclipse.

On to-morrow (Sunday), the 29th inst., there will be a total eclipse of the sun, but in this latitude it will be visible only as a partial eclipse. The eclipse begins August 29, 5 h. 54 m. 41 s. A. M., and ends 6 h. 41 m. 28 s. A. M. It will be total in the Atlantic Ocean in western Africa.

A Relic.

Whilst walking over the Gettysburg battlefield near the observatory on "Big Round Top," one day this week, Mr. C. S. Zeck of this place found a bayonet. We thought that all such things had been gathered from this famous field long ago, and are surprised to learn of this find 23 years after the battle.

Festival.

The Emmitt Cornet Band of this place will begin its festival on Thursday next and continue it for three days. Everybody appreciates the worthiness of the band, both for the excellence of its music as well as the individual worth of the members. Encourage their efforts to increase their efficiency.

It is stated in railroad circles in Hagerstown, that a movement is on foot to extend the Cumberland Valley Railroad, by way of its Potomac and Martinsburg extension, from the latter place to Winchester. The ground has been gone over recently by the proper officials, and it is understood the matter is assuming definite shape.—Suz.

LEWIS ELLIOT of Taneytown, son of Frank Elliot, whilst pitching around on a hitching rack, fell and broke his arm. Drs. Birnie, Motter and Kemp rendered surgical aid. Some of our town boys are given to this silly amusement; if they don't look out, it may require half a dozen Doctors to set them straight one of these days, and then the fun will be theirs.

New Postoffice.

A new Postoffice was established in this district, on Tuesday of last week, which is called Mr. St. Mary's P. O., with Dr. J. G. Troxell as Postmaster. It is located at Dr. Troxell's store between the College and Clairvaux. It has one daily mail which leaves this place about noon. This makes the fourth office in this district.

ON Monday of last week an eagle swooped down upon an eight-year-old son of Jere. Martin, of Hamilton township, Franklin county. The boy had walked to Centennial School House. While there the bird swooped down and seized him by the head, throwing him to the ground. The boy had a whip with a lash some three or four feet long and in the tussle with the bird the lash became wrapped around the eagle's neck. The bird then flew away, taking the whip along with it.—Star and Sentinel.

The Apple Crop.

The apple crop in Frederick county is one of the largest known for years, and doubtless this staple winter fruit will command but very low prices. The trees all over the county are groaning beneath their weight of fruit, and in many instances support must be given limbs to prevent serious damage to trees. The fruit generally is well developed and of good flavor, and is sound and perfect.—Union.

Clean Up.

As vegetation begins to die now, vines &c., should be promptly removed from locations near dwelling houses. Such materials are fruitful sources of malarial diseases, which getting a start at a given point may pervade a neighborhood. All slops and standing water should be disposed, by dissolved coppers, lime or covered with dry earth. So with the pig-pens and other out buildings. A little attention paid to these matters will result in health, comfort and satisfaction all around.

The Sunflower Contest.

The Banner of Liberty notes that Mr. B. V. Buckey, merchant of Frederick, counted the flowers on a stalk in his garden and found 71 of them, and adds:

That beats this section of the county, but we are sorry to inform friend B. that the following appeared in the Emmitsburg Chronicle of Saturday last.

"James Musgrove, Sr., who resides on the mountain near this place, has a sunflower stalk with 75 blossoms on it." P. S.—Since the above was in type we have received the following by telephone, which deposits all other sunflowers in the shade: "Master Walter Duddar, son of Mr. G. W. Duddar, of Unionville, has a sunflower stalk nine feet and nine inches high, which has on it over one hundred flowers." Deer 100 is rather indefinite, but perhaps there will be no occasion for a "re-count." It all depends upon "Havers" now.

Let there be a general count now, and send us the result. This part of the county must not be left in the shade on sunflowers.—En.

Capture of Taneytown Thieves.

On Saturday night burglars broke into the hardware store of J. Davidson & Son, at Taneytown, and made an extensive haul of pocket and pruning knives, razors and other valuable goods. In the same building reside Dr. C. Birnie, Mr. J. Davidson and others. From Dr. Birnie was taken a case of surgical instruments and a valuable thermometer, and from Mr. Davidson two pocketbooks one containing about six dollars in money, and the other some valuable papers. Every room in the building was entered and, although five men were sleeping in the house, not one was awakened. Entrance was effected through a side window.

On Sunday morning Mr. J. E. Davidson was informed of the burglary, and on investigation discovered a clue which led him and his friends to Littlestown, Pa. There the burglars were discovered in a strip of woods, playing cards. They were surrounded, captured, the stolen goods found on them, and were taken to Gettysburg and committed to jail to await the action of the Carroll county authorities. There were two of them. They refused to give their real names or any account of themselves.—American.

Advice for Hot Weather.

In hot weather water should be drank cool, but not iced, with the juice of quarter or a half lemon in it. Mineral water should also be drank with a dash of lemon. Water should always be swallowed slowly. It is not the stomach which is dry, but the mouth and throat. If you toss off a drink of water you throw it through your mouth and throat into your stomach without doing the former any good, while you injure the latter by loading it with what it does not require. Drink slowly, and keep the water in your mouth for a moment when you begin. If you work in a hot room in hot weather tie a damp cloth around your temples, and you will not experience half the cravings for drink you otherwise would. There is one blessing which will serve to carry us through a spell of hot weather without suffering, and that is a good common sense method of going slow and cease worrying at such dangerous times. The mind and the body must not be burdened too heavily when the thermometer is raging up among the figures which denote blood heat, and the calmer the mind is kept during such weather the cooler and healthier will be the body.—En.

THE September Eclectic comes again to delight those interested in the best foreign literature. The articles selected for the current issue are valuable, suggestive, and entertaining. Leopold Katscher's monograph on Taine is a brilliant study of the French historian, and opens the number. Two other fascinating literary papers are Palgrave's "Poetry Compared with the Other Fine Arts," and "Novelists and their Patrons," by Alex. Innes Shand. Augustine Birrell's review of the life and times of Edmund Burke will be read with much interest, and another powerful paper is that on "The Growth of the English Novel," from the Quarterly Review. Students of architecture will find room for cogitation in Mr. F. H. Baker's paper on "The Evolution of Architecture," and those who have studied the evolution of types and ideals in art will turn quickly to Charles Newton Scott's "Child-God in Art." Other important and suggestive papers are "The Drama of the Day," by Herman Merivale, and Mr. Jordan's article on "China." There are several poems and minor articles of a high standard, and the contents of the number as a whole will be certain to gratify readers of intellectual tastes, a class to which the readers of this magazine distinctly belong. Published by E. R. Pelton, 25 Bond Street, N. Y. Terms, $5 per year; single numbers, 45 cts.; trial subscription for 3 months, $1. Eclectic and any 4 Magazine, $5.

A Fire in Middletown Valley.

The two-and-a-half-story frame dwelling-house of Mr. Scott Kefauver, situated near Broad Run, in the southern part of Middletown valley, was totally destroyed by fire, with all its contents, last Friday evening. The fire resulted from a defective flue. The loss is $1,000, insured for $600 in the Grangers' Mutual Company of Middletown.—American.

Weeds.

The growth of all kinds of weeds this summer is something remarkable and is due to the continued wet weather. They have taken entire possession of some fields and unless they are cut before they go to seed, damaging results must follow. It appears that almost every kind of useful vegetation has now something to prey upon it, if not utterly destroy it, while the weeds grow right along with nothing to molest them.—En.

The Prohibition party, it is understood proposes making a vigorous campaign during the coming fall.

Luther-Day at Pen-Mar.

The reunion of Lutherans at Pen-Mar on Wednesday, September 8th, is noticed by the press generally and the indications are that the attendance will be very large. A number of Excursions from Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maryland and the District of Columbia are expected. The special exercises will begin at 2 o'clock, and consist of addresses of 15, 10 and 5 minutes by eminent speakers, interspersed with Music by select bands and choirs. The choir will render select anthems, and all unite with the hymns in singing familiar church hymns. Excursions will start from Baltimore and additional sections will be added along the line, so that all points may be accommodated. The usual excursion rates and time of the trains will be indicated by railroad posters.

A Large and Lively Industry.

We recently visited the wood-seat chair factory of Mr. Wm. DeFrehn at Williamsport, Md., who having established the business in Pennsylvania in 1854, and conducted it there for many years, on being burned out, located in Williamsport in 1883, to avail himself of the superior facilities presented at that place.

We were greatly interested in viewing the processes through which a "saw log" goes until it turns out a beautiful and comfortable chair, that may be sat upon in the establishment. There are perhaps twenty different styles manufactured. The factory stands near by the Aqueduct of the canal, whence it is called "The Aqueduct Chair Factory," and consists of several buildings, joined more or less closely by platform connections. The site is well chosen for the convenience of rafting lumber, and all other requirements of the business.

In the nature of things, we are not skilled as to the uses, the nomenclature, and adaptations of machinery, but when the combinations of pulleys, levers, rollers, &c., produce results like things of life, and all is safe around us, we are quite appreciative of them. Hence when we saw huge logs drawn out of the water and rolled into position with the apparent ease wherewith cordwood may be handled, and then ripped into slabs and boards, as if by simple sprints of the saw, we needed some moments to take breath.

Various points of interest respectively presented themselves: The cutting of the seats into the requisite lengths; to shape and hollow them out, (a single movement of a plane, running by steam, often doing the entire work), fleeing them or sandpapering in wholesale style, on large wheels rapidly revolving, claimed some time. The turning of the rungs, (a single lathe producing 1200 in a day), and all of them are smoothed and polished by machinery. The steaming and bending of the backs, arms, rockers, &c., the processes throughout, seeming like a work of magic. Ten to twelve dozens of chairs are daily made. Over 700 dozens have been sold within the last eight months, and the demand still increases. All are thoroughly finished in the buildings, painted when requisite, and completed in all respects.

Mr. DeFrehn has eight sons, and six of them are constantly at work in the factory. The pleasure of a visit to the establishment is enhanced at all points by the considerate politeness to interest and gratify the visitors, and each one carries away a sense of satisfaction therefrom.

How Is It?

The County Statement of Washington County, is published in all the newspapers of that county. Is the law in relation to that matter different there from ours? or are the Commissioners more liberal in its interpretation? or has the influence of the printers in the large towns been equal to securing for themselves through legislation a monopoly in the matter of informing the people of their public affairs? The righteousness of giving the widest publicity to such matters does not admit of argument, but the facts in the case are worthy of consideration and should not be overlooked by those who are interested in them.

A Good Move.

We are glad to know that our Board of Commissioners propose to pay considerable attention to the working of our public roads. A large amount of money is spent in various sections of the county by incompetent supervisors, and the board, in consequence of numerous complaints, will make some changes.—Republican Citizen.

Let the good work go forward. Give us supervisors, who are appointed by reason of their fitness for the position, without regard to any other considerations, and hold them to a strict account for doing well their work. This is a matter in which every tax-payer is interested and will appreciate. It is not the extent of road repairs that is made, but the excellence of what is done, that should be regarded.—En.

Agricultural.

By the popular phrase "running out," as applied to fruits, is commonly meant loss of vitality, quality, or fruitfulness. That some varieties have lost one or more of these qualities when grown in some localities by some men, seems very clear. That the same varieties, when grown in other localities by other men, are as perfect in fruit and foliage as ever, is equally clear. It would seem, then, that the question of deterioration is largely one of soil or treatment. It is quite natural for a fruit-grower to plant in better soil and take better care of strawberry plants that cost him thirty-six dollars, than if they cost him but two dollars and a half a thousand. It is just as natural for him to become less and less careful of the new varieties as they become more common. If careful selection and cultivation improve, it must also be true that neglect will deteriorate. The plants in a strawberry patch if allowed to do so will become matted together, each runner producing from two to five plants. The farther they are from the parent plant, the weaker will the new plants become. These end plants are smaller, less vigorous than the larger, and if planted a deterioration must be the result. In a propagation bed the runners should be cut off after the second plant has formed. This will place a great check upon deterioration.—American Agriculturist.

Hoven.

Take Care of the Tools.

A place for everything and everything in its place is a good, old adage, but it is sadly neglected by farmers. As a rule, farm tools are rusted out much more than they are worn out. Every tool should have its place, and be returned to it when it has been used, and it should be cleaned and kept bright and sharp. A rusty plow, shovel, spade or hoe is twice as hard to use as a bright one, and to get such a tool bright it should be ground on a grindstone, or scoured with a piece of brick and sand and water.

If the white of an egg is used instead of water for mixing the mustard, the plaster will not blister the most delicate skin.
