A POEM BY KING LUDWIG.*

Believe him not honest, however his fame,
Who would in night assail thy friend's good name,
Though all the world this friend of thine decries,
Trust in him still, and give the world the lie.

Only the love that lives on to the end
Deserves Heaven's royal gift—a faithful friend.
The world no boon or blessing can impart
Of worth so priceless as a friend's true heart.

Of sacred power possessed, this magic stone
Works miracles for steadfast faith alone.
Tarnished it grows if doubt's breath pass it o'er,
And broken once no art can it restore.

Is such a gem intrusted to thy care,
Guard well the treasure—keep its luster fair,
Let the wide world within its compass vast
Be but the ring that holds in setting fast.

This one pure jewel 'mid the world's alloy,
Whose potent spell transforms its grief to joy.
Art thou a beggar of all else bereft,
Thou'rt rich and blest while one true friend is left.

Hast won the loftiest throne, thou'rt poor, indeed,
If no friend's heart respond to thy heart's need.

*The late unfortunate King of Bavaria was endowed with poetic gifts which he chose to hide carefully from the world. A collection of his poems exists in a luxurious edition of but a single volume designed for the author's sole use. The above lines are a close translation of a poem written by Ludwig's own hand. This poem, enclosed in a plain gold frame, hung above the writing-desk of the King's study in the royal palace at Munich.

REMINISCENCES OF A SUMMER TRIP.

[Written for the Emmitsburg Chronicle.]
I told G. that I intended to hunt up Mme. Tussaud's wax-works, for I had always said that when I visited London I would see this exhibition. G. expressed a polite surprise, evidently apprehensive that the fatigue of travel had affected my brain, and said she would take the time for something else. I explained that I knew nothing about Mme. T.

T. except that she was the mother of wax-works, and I wanted to satisfy my natural and commendable thirst for information on useful subjects.

To my surprise I found the wax-works arranged in a palatial building, marble halls, frescoed ceilings, luxurious hangings and furniture. The collection is splendid and interesting. All the kings and queens of England, beginning with Wm. the Conqueror, are there, natural as life, and many famous persons of modern times. All the costumes are historical, and give a good idea of the changes of fashion. Poets, philosophers, prelates, statesmen, reformers, soldiers, courtiers, and actors are there in their wonted dress. I approached a policeman standing in one of the archways, and was just going to ask him where I should find Victor Emmanuel, when I discovered that he too was wax. I was so glad that I had not spoken, though I saw several other visitors fooled by the old wax ladies and gentlemen that sit carelessly around on sofas, and seem to be looking with great interest at the exhibition.

The persons who now have charge of the wax-works are unwise in putting in so many new figures, for the collection will soon be so large that its interest will be weakened. There I learned the history of Mme. Tussaud. She was born in Switzerland in 1760, but being left an orphan she was sent to Paris, and was brought up by her uncle, M. Curtius, artist to Louis XVI. She learned the art of modelling in wax, and instructed the sister of the king. Mme. T. lived at the royal palaces till the Revolution, becoming acquainted with all the public men of the day. When the political changes deprived her of her position, she went to London and began to exhibit her figures, adding to them from time to time. She died in 1839, leaving the exhibition to her sons.

She is among the wax-works—a delicate-featured little old lady, in a black gown, shawl, bonnet, and veil.

Determined to see every thing, I descended the cellar stairs to the Chamber of Horrors. This room, hung with black muslin, is full of criminals, some of them standing in witness-boxes. There is also the actual French guillotine, a complicated looking affair. I did not linger in the Chamber of Horrors, not having any desire to examine these objects of interest. There is a Napoleon room connected with the exhibition, which contains many pictures and relics of the great Emperor, and altogether I was well pleased with my visit to Mme. Tussaud's.

One day G.'s friends invited us both for a grand gala-time. We had early luncheon at a fashionable restaurant, then drove up to Kew Gardens in the suburbs of London. They are the famous botanic gardens of the world, extending over nearly three hundred acres, containing all known trees and plants arranged in scientific and beautiful manner. The Gardens are open free to the public, and form a fine park for London. The grass is of that soft green hue which is rightly the pride of England. One of the buildings in the Gardens is called Miss North's house. It has five rooms, and the walls are completely covered with pictures of fruits and flowers painted from nature by Miss North, who travelled in all lands.

Leaving Kew, we drove about four miles farther, through Bushey Park to Hampton Palace. (By the way, people drive to the left in England, and I think all the railway trains run according to this rule.) Hampton Palace was built by the proud Cardinal Wolsey, but was afterward taken possession of by royalty. I don't know who lives there now, probably some reduced nobleman. The fine gardens and picture galleries are open to the public. The house is an immense, ugly building of brick, but palatial in its arrangements. In the gardens we saw fruit trees growing as vines against brick walls. We saw the glass house where the famous Black Hamburg vine has been growing for I don't know how many years. Its root is like the trunk of a stout tree, and the bunches of grapes are of enormous size. In the long twilight we drove back to the crowded thoroughfares, and ended the day with a choice dinner at the Criterion, the most sumptuous restaurant in London.

Though we were so much interested in London, its atmosphere was disagreeable and oppressive to us, and we were really glad to seek the pure air and salt breezes of the Isle of Wight. We left London a little before eleven o'clock one morning and took a southwesterly course, reaching Winchester in an hour and a half.

It is hard to realize how near to each other places are in that land. Places that I used to think were a long journey from London are at no greater distance than people travel daily to and from business in our country.

We had arranged to stop for an hour and a half at the old city of Alfred the Great, the fabled Camelot of King Arthur. We inquired the way to the Cathedral, and before reaching it we passed the Winchester Cross. Such crosses are found in the market places of many English towns, and are often called market crosses, or butter crosses. They are elaborate stone structures, not in the simple form of a cross, but something in the style of a Gothic turret. They were erected in olden times as pulpits from which proclamations were read and sermons preached to the townspeople.

The Cathedral is surrounded by an extensive Green, and an avenue of beautiful lime trees leads up to the door. The interior is magnificent. We were fortunate in finding an intelligent sexton who has been connected with the Cathedral for thirty years. He made our visit very interesting, showing us many varieties in the architecture, explaining how the rubbish of ages had been dug out of the crypt, making it the finest crypt in England, and telling us little anecdotes about the tombs. He showed us the old seats called misereres. They are in the stalls of the choir, and can be seen by removing the cushions and folding back the modern seats. The misereres are narrow little shelves, so balanced on hinges that they tip forward with the slightest movement. The monks were compelled to sit bolt upright during service, or else they were thrown flat on the floor. Stowed away in niches are little chests containing the bones of ancient Kings disturbed in their resting places. Wm. of Wykeham, the celebrated Bishop of Winchester, has a splendid chantry in the nave.

Two hours after leaving Winchester we reached Southampton, and embarked for the Isle of Wight. After a pleasant voyage of an hour we landed at Cowes, whence it was easy to make excursions to other parts of the Isle.

If any one wants to see the queerest little towns imaginable, old inns with the funniest names, picturesque churches and ruined castles, the loveliest green downs, tall cliffs with little ravines or chimes, hedges along every roadside, wild flowers and heather, silvery streams, and the whole country encircled by the dancing waves, let him go to the Isle of Wight.

The Queen had left just before our arrival, for, of course, she did not know we were coming. Some members of the Highland Regiment who had escorted her there, still lingered, going around in their hideous Highland costumes. A baggy flannel shirt with a sash, a short kilt skirt, and ugly bare knees may have been picturesque when such a dress suited its times and surroundings, but now it is disgusting.

Every night Pauch and Judy performed their domestic tragedy, assisted by the "wonderful dog Toby." I must mention one fraud in this enchanted Isle. The Black-gang Chinese is much visited by tourists, and little steps lead to it down the side of a perpendicular cliff. G. and I began to descend, in order to visit this wonder, but when we had gone down about half a mile I said I would give up the game, but I told G. I would wait for her if she wanted to press on. So I sat down on one of the rounds of what seemed like Jacob's Ladder, and enjoyed the view of cliffs and sea.

In the course of time G. came toiling back saying, "It's a perfect fraud; its nothing but a little scooped-out place in the rocks where the waves sometimes dash in." We began our toilsome ascent, and told the tale to other pilgrims who were journeying down. Some of them gave up the struggle, others went on to see for themselves, doubtless belonging to the class who would not be persuaded "though one rose from the dead."

On leaving the Isle of Wight we went to Salisbury, an hour and a half from Southampton. We arrived at one o'clock, our party being reinforced by one of G.'s friends. The afternoon was lovely, and we drove out over the desolate Salisbury Plain to Stonehenge. Hannah More's little story seemed very real to us, for we saw in the distance a Shepherd with his dog. Those mysterious, Hanging Stones rise from the Plain in bold relief, defying archaeologists to read their history. Some of the stones lie on the ground like fallen Goliaths; most of them stand in their places a short distance from each other, all forming a double circle. There are nearly a hundred stones.

We found there a picnic of Salisbury people, an artist, and a photographer, and an old man who did the honors of Stonehenge. We all looked like dwarfs beside the towering pillars. One short stone outside the circle is called the Sun Stone, and on the 21st of June the sun seems to rise just behind it. When the sun is fairly resting on the top, the beams fall on the Slaughter Stone inside the circle. All round the place are little burial mounds and barrows. The people of Salisbury still cling to the belief that Stonehenge is a Druid monument, and doubtless they repeat the theories of learned writers.

On our way back we drove through a lovely part of Wiltshire, seeing the great mound which is all that remains of Old Sarum, the original Salisbury. We stayed all night at a quiet little hotel in Salisbury, and the next morning we visited the Cathedral, which has a beautiful exterior, and the loveliest Green around it, perfect Cloisters, and a wonderful Chapter House.

After walking around the old town we took the train for London, whence G. and I started for Cambridge.

BATHING.
BY SUE H.

Of course a dirty person can be a Christian, and a clean one a villain; but it is a mystery to me how any one can have inward purity without personal neatness, if they have fair health.

Every one can not have bath-rooms and bath-tubs, but nearly every one can have the comfort of cleanliness by some management and exertion of self. "Habit is second nature," and if every child had learned to wash thoroughly from head to toes, would so many workmen now come from the hot field or shop, covered with the sweat and dirt of their labor, and lounge through the evening, or go to bed without bathing, or change of clothing? The majority would not endure this discomfort that makes them so offensive to themselves and others, if some woman had trained them to habits of bathing in boyhood.

But if one has the will. "It is never too late to learn." With a towel wrung half dry out of soap and water the whole person can be bathed in five minutes, of course if the work is dirty the hands and feet need a more thorough washing. Then the clothing can be changed and the working clothes shaken and hung up for the next day's use, the bathing towel washed and hung out to dry, all in a few minutes' time, without making extra work for the already tired housewife.

It would be folly to say it is not some work to do this, when to use the popular expression, "One is tired to death." But it pays, for there is a delicious sense of coolness and rest to the muscles that nothing else will bring, and a person must be very cross and tired, indeed, that does not feel pleasanter after bathing.

I do not advocate the risk of bathing in a cold room, or daily bathing during our Northern winters, unless the work is very dirty. When there is but one fire afforded in winter, the manager of the household can arrange it so that all the family can have some time in the week to bathe by that. Just before retiring, Saturday night, is a nice time, if it is convenient; but one should be very careful to be thoroughly dry and warm before going to a cold bed. Neither should anyone bathe entirely before going out in the cold, or after eating heartily.

This is a nice way for a sponge bath: Have a basin of lukewarm water, some soap, (a teaspoonful of baking soda in the water is very refreshing) a sponge or wash-rag and a towel. Slip down the under-clothing to the waist, put some soap or soda under the arms, because from their offensive secretions they need more thorough washing. Then wring your wash-rag half dry, and wash the face and neck; dry them thoroughly, then the arms, and the body; put the arms back and wash between the shoulders yourself; throw the towel over one shoulder and under the other arm and rub criss-cross; then the same way across the other shoulder and under the other arm, also across the small of the back. This will limber and straighten the muscles of the back and shoulders. Now put on the clothing and drop the clothing below the waist and wash downward to the toes, dry, and rub all the skin with the towel until it is slightly red and warm, and there will be no danger of taking cold. If one is in the habit of bathing it need not take more than fifteen minutes to bathe in this way.

washing with the sponge and drying with the towel is enough.

Making allowance for all accidents and violent diseases that make people stiff, I do not believe that in spite of hard work and rheumatism there would be so many stiff elderly people, that cannot get down to their feet or put their arms back of their shoulders, if they had always been accustomed to the bathing, rubbing, and twisting of a weekly sponge bath. No doubt the sponge bath is more work than the bath-tub; but it brings every muscle into play. They cannot grow fixed and stiff, when exercised in this way. Water should be used as the old doctor said his medicine should be, "Internally, externally and eternally." Hot water drunk freely during a cold is a great relief, and will often prevent congestion of the lungs. It is the best remedy for all kind of sprains and bruises, and relieves severe pain the quickest of anything, and will soothe nearly all of human ills, if it cannot cure them.

I saw lately an emphatic endorsement of my theory of bathing. Perhaps some Western people never heard of the old time superstition among some people living near the Atlantic coasts. It is said they believed every 26th of June, an angel descended on the ocean; and to bathe in it that day would heal disease. Until within a few years, the 26th of June has been a gala day, and the beaches were thronged by thousands of old and young from inland towns for bathing, or pleasure. Speaking of the decline of the custom, a writer in a local paper remarked; "People have learned that castile soap, and well water, is just as efficacious in healing disease as a single dip in the sea, the 26th of June."—Weekly Wisconsin.

True Business Principles.

It is as easy to be a rich man as a poor one. Half the energy displayed in keeping ahead that is required to catch up when behind would save credit, give more time to attend to business, and add to the profit and reputation of those who work for gain. Honor your engagement. If you promise to meet a man, or to do a certain thing at a certain moment, be ready at the appointed time. If you go on business, attend promptly to matters on hand, then as promptly go about your own business. Do not stop to tell stories in business hours. If you have a place of business be found there when wanted. No man can get rich by sitting around stores. Never "fool" on business matters. Have order, system, regularity, liberality, promptness. Do not meddle with business you know nothing of. Never buy an article you do not need, simply because it is cheap, and the man who sells it will take it out in trade. Trade is money. Strive to avoid harsh words and personalities. Do not kick every stone in the path; more miles can be made in a day by going steadily than by stopping to kick. Pay as you go. A man of honor respects his word as he does his bond. Aid; but never beg. Help others when you can, but never give what you cannot afford to, simply because it is fashionable. Learn to say "no." No necessity for snapping it out in dog-fashion, but say it firmly and respectfully. Have, but few confidants, and the fewer the better. Use your own brains rather than those of others. Learn to think and act for yourself. Be vigilant. Keep ahead rather than behind the time. Young men out this out, and if there be folly in the argument, let us know.

A New York school teacher explained to her pupils that the meaning of the word "measurment" was change, and called upon a boy to give a sentence in which the word was used. The archin promptly responded: "My mother sent me to the grocery store for the measurment of a five dollar bill."

Does that go without pairs, or not so warm as others. "I don't know," said the boy.

IMPURE ICE.

The following from the Scientific American, of March 17th, commends itself to the consideration of those who luxuriate in the free use of ice during the heat of summer. It is very important that we know whence the cooling substance comes on which so much of our comfort depends, and what is the ordinary condition of the water from which it is taken. For common refrigerating purposes, ice of any kind will answer, and as long as we refrain from putting it into the water we drink, there is no danger to be apprehended.

Those who are so situated as to be unable to secure ice formed on pure streams, can protect themselves entirely by using some of the many contrivances for cooling the water without putting the ice in it, but by surrounding the vessel in which the water is kept, with the ice, and in that case it matters not of what character the ice may be.

That ice does not purify impure water is a well known fact. In a report made by the State Board of Health of New York, on the purity of ice from Onondaga Lake, this is again conclusively proved. Into this lake is discharged the sewage of the city of Syracuse, amounting to 5,000,000 of gallons a day. At the time the inspection of this lake was made, there was a margin of from 1 to 4 ft. wide of black, putrefying organic matter along the shores. The analyses of the ice from this lake showed that it contained probably from 10 to 12 per cent. of the sewage impurities dissolved in the same quantity of unfrozen water of the lake. This ice also showed the presence of bacteria in great abundance, retarded somewhat in their growth by the ice, but not destroyed by it. It is, perhaps, needless to say that this ice was pronounced totally unfit for any purposes where it is liable to come in contact with food or drink.

The report, valuable for what has already been mentioned, is still more so by reason of the numerous references to instances in which impure ice has been the cause of dysentery and other diseases. The earliest of these was that at Rye Beach, N. H., reported by Dr. A. H. Nichols, of Boston, in 1875, in which there broke out among the guests of a large hotel at that place an epidemic of gastro-enteritis, caused by impure ice from a filthy pond. Another instance of sickness caused by impure ice, referred to in the report, is that of an epidemic of dysentery which occurred in 1879 at Washington, Conn., investigated by Dr. Brown, of that place, and by Dr. Raymond, of Brooklyn. The ice had been gathered from a pond which had been used as a wallowing ground by the pigs. Other instances are quoted of the injurious effects of impure ice upon the public health, and sufficient evidence given to show that, in the process of freezing, water does not purify itself. The report, taken as a whole, is a very valuable contribution to this subject, and a complete refutation of the old idea that all ice must of necessity be pure.

THE IMPORTANCE OF PARTIES.

Those, therefore, who call for the destruction of either or both of our present parties expose their ignorance as to the important service they are rendering. If it be said that they are corrupt, it is quite obvious that they are not more corrupt than are the people who compose them. And should they be abandoned, the worthy and unscrupulous men could not be kept out—they would be sure to push themselves to the front, if possible. In other words, the vicious element of society cannot be eliminated by any manœuvring. But an arch may be reconstructed, section by section, without demolishing the structure; and so a party may be readjusted to meet new issues, while all the time it does better work in sustaining the interests of the Government. The lessons of history are proof that parties themselves do change, and, indeed, are very quick to conform to a popular demand. The sudden abandonment of a political party is analogous to revolution in a Government, warrantable only in extreme emergencies.—LEVI PARSONS, in New Princeton Review for May.

An earthquake occurred on Tuesday in Arizona, extending throughout the territory, and even into California and Texas. A mountain peak disappeared, fissures opened in the earth, water appeared in hitherto dry places, a volcano burst forth from Whetstone Mountain in Arizona. Terrified people fled from their houses at all points, and much damage of buildings, &c., was made. The impress of unreliability in the reports lies in the remarkable fact that no personal injuries have been reported.

THE NEWSPAPER OF THE PERIOD.

Newspapers are "padded out," now-a-days, to a wonderful degree. Instead of the type being set up by compositors in the office, as formerly, very many newspaper publishers buy stereotype plates by the column, and fill one half or more of their papers with these plates, which are about as stale as a fortnight-old loaf, and as interesting as the contents of a ten-year-old almanac. Some have an entire sheet printed from this kind of matter, and call it enterprise! Three-fourths or more of the newspapers are using this kind of matter, because it is cheap. It is cheap, in more senses than one, and saves the expense of paying printers for type-setting. These stereotype columns are "illustrated," also, with cheap and unsightly cuts, which are often the merest caricatures of the subjects presented. A man may think he is contributing to the support of his home journal, and building up home industry, by taking his local newspaper, but he is doing so to a very limited degree, for much of the cost of production goes into the coffers of the city printing monopolists who produce this kind of ready-made literature or reading matter. Many of the city dailies, as well as the weeklies, are gotten up now on this patent, ready-print process. One dealer advertises this cheap newspaper material at 25 cents per column. The reason it is so cheap is, that it is multiplied by the stereotype process, and is used, perhaps, by several hundred papers at once. It is a very easy task to get up a cheap paper on this plan, but no such paper can rank as first class. A newspaper made up in this way sustains the same relation to the true journal that pinchbeck does to gold in the jeweller's art, or that oleomargarine does to butter, or the "pot boiler" to the finished painting in the artist's studio. It is a makeshift and a sham, and is entitled to no higher consideration than is accorded to all articles of that class.—Advocate.

HAILSTONES 13 INCHES ROUND.

The most destructive hailstorm ever known in the vicinity passed over St. Paul, Minn., on Monday afternoon. The weather was exceedingly sultry until about 6 o'clock, when a tornado sprang up. For a few minutes rain fell in torrents, and was succeeded by a remarkable fall of hailstones for about thirty minutes. Some of the stones were thirteen inches in circumference, and weighed from four to five ounces. One of them went through the thick plate-glass in the rotunda of the Ryan Hotel, shivering it to pieces. About one hundred and fifty to two hundred panes of glass were broken in each block, lumber piles were scattered and several frame houses on the outskirts were overturned. There is an unconfirmed report that a woman was killed by falling timbers.

A remarkable feature of the storm is that the mercury did not fall after the cessation of the rain. Nearly every public building in the city suffered more or less. The State capitol looks as though a galling gun had been trained on it. Many expensive memorial windows in churches are broken. The loss will aggregate fully $50,000.—N. Y. World.

The mystery of the murder of the young girl at Rahway, N. J., on March 26th last, still remains as dark as from the discovery of the crime. The jury of inquest finished their deliberation on Monday, and rendered the following verdict: "After careful consideration we find that the said unknown woman found dead on Central avenue, in the city of Rahway, on March 26, came to her death from stab wounds in the neck, severing the jugular vein. The said wounds were inflicted by some person or persons unknown to this jury."

"REFORM IS IN THE AIR."

The above was the leading sentiment of a Baltimore meeting last week. But that sort of reform will not meet the popular demand. The people want something tangible and that don't need a balloon to reach it.

The Queen of the Sandwich Islands has arrived in this country on a visit, preparatory to attending Queen Victoria's jubilee. She has never before been outside of her native kingdom. She is now at Washington City. On Thursday Queen Kapiolani attends a military parade at the Washington barracks, and on Friday will go on a government vessel to Mount Vernon and will dine in state with the President and Mrs. Cleveland that evening.

SUMMARY OF NEWS.

The steamer John Knox, from Glasgow for Montreal, has foundered near Channel, N. F. All on board are lost.

"CAN'T eat a thing." Hood's Sarsaparilla is a wonderful medicine for creating an appetite, regulating digestion, and giving strength.

MGR. CATALDI, the late master of ceremonies of the Vatican, bequeathed to the Pope his whole property, valued at 250,000 francs.

ADVICES from St. Petersburg say that after a fortnight's quietude the country is again in a state of uneasiness. Large armaments are being pushed forward with feverish activity. An order of the War Ministry points to the concentration of great masses of troops on the frontiers of Russia.

The statement of Treasurer Jordan for April 30, 1887, shows that at that date the assets of the Treasury of the United States aggregated $571,355,584, the liabilities $509,440,887, leaving a balance on hand for contingencies of $61,914,697. Among the liabilities is placed the $100,000,000, reserved for the redemption of greenbacks, and the $109,044,565, held for the redemption of notes of national banks that have failed or are going out of business. It is noted that 5,963,432 redeemed trade dollars are among the government's assets.

BRIDGET MORGAN, a kitchen girl in a Chicago hotel, while engaged Saturday evening in cutting some bananas from a huge bunch, which had recently been brought in, was severely stung in the right thumb by a tarantula, which was concealed in the fruit. Instantly her hand and arm became inflamed, and in a short time the entire limb was terribly swollen while the pain was most excruciating. Medical aid was summoned, and every device known was applied to allay pain and extract the deadly poison. The girl was then placed under the influence of stimulants and conveyed to her bed in a stupor. The physicians are hopeful of saving her life, but are by no means confident of recovery.

The Off Told Story

Of the peculiar medicinal merits of Hood's Sarsaparilla is fully confirmed by the voluntary testimony of thousands who have tried it. Peculiar in the combination, proportion, and preparation of its ingredients, peculiar in the extreme care with which it is put up, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures where other preparations entirely fail. Peculiar in the unequalled good name it has made at home, which is a "tower of strength abroad," peculiar in the phenomenal sales it has attained.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most popular and successful medicine before the public today for purifying the blood, giving strength, creating an appetite. I suffered from weakness and low spirits, and also had eczema on the back of my head and neck, which was very annoying. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I have received so much benefit that I am very grateful, and I am always glad to speak a good word for this medicine." Mrs. J. S. Snyder, Pottsville, Penn.

Purifies the Blood Henry Biggs, Campbell Street, Kansas City, had scrofulous sores all over his body for fifteen years. Hood's Sarsaparilla completely cured him.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

KASKINE (THE NEW QUININE.) NO BAD EFFECT. NO HEADACHE. NO Nausea. NO RINGING EARS. NO Cough. NO SICKNESS. NO PAIN. NO PURG.

A POWERFUL TONIC that the most delicate stomach will bear. A SPECIFIC FOR MALARIA, RHEUMATISM, NERVOUS PROSTRATION, and all GERM Diseases. FOR COLDS KASKINE HAS BEEN FOUND TO BE ALMOST A SPECIFIC. Superior to Quinine. Bellevue Hospital, N. Y., "Universally successful." Wallace Buck, of North Bloomfield, N. Y., was cured by Kaskine of extreme malarial prostration after seven years suffering. He had run down from 175 pounds to 97, began on Kaskine in June, 1886, went to work in one month, regained his full weight in six months. Quinine did him no good whatever. Mr. Charles Paxton, architect, 133 East 124th Street, New York, was cured by Kaskine of malarial prostration after three months after quinine treatment for ten years.

Mrs. J. Lawson, 141 Bergen St., Brooklyn, was cured of malarial and nervous dyspepsia by many years standing by Kaskine, the quinine treatment having wholly failed. Rev. Jas. L. Hall, Chaplain Albany Penitentiary, writes that Kaskine has cured his wife, after twenty years suffering from malarial and nervous dyspepsia.

Letters from the above persons, giving full details, will be sent on application. Kaskine can be taken without any special medical treatment. It is sold by all druggists. Sold by ELDER, Emmitsburg, or sent by mail on receipt of price. KASKINE CO., 54 Warren St., New York.

1887. CANTON. 1887.

By Jay Gould, 2.21— Public Trial, 2.19. Dam Lady Shipley, by Price's St. Lawrence, 2.35. Full Brother to Aladdin, 2.26— Public Trial, 2.21 1-5.

CANTON is a cherry bay, stands just 16 hands and weighs 1090 lbs. He has a full mane and tail; a good sensible head; a bright eye; powerful quarters; deep chest; legs clean and sound; is pure galloped; in disposition is as kind as any mare or gelding, and well commands the attention of all thoughtful breeders. For terms, extended pedigree or any further particulars, address W. R. TROXELL, MOTTER'S, MD. Chicago Horseman, December 3d, 1885.

When I visited Carl Burr's place to "sample" Aladdin, by Jay Gould, with a view to driving him through the Eastern Circuit, I saw his brother Canton trot the last half of a soggy track and face a strong breeze in 1:17, drawing a driver weighing 200 lbs. There is no doubt in my mind that he can enter the 2:30 circle. He is a majestic looking bay stallion, upwards of 16 hands high. His gait, form, carriage and disposition, coupled with his breeding, eminently qualify him for a sire of trotters and carriage horses.—E. C. WALKER (Veritas), Jan 1-6m

THE Alexander Bros., will appear at Eyster's Opera House in this place on Wednesday evening of next week, the 11th inst. This Company is now filling an engagement at Ford's Opera House in Baltimore, and is highly recommended.

IN the matter of house-cleaning, this week has seen the dust fly in this village, and everybody is ready to take a front seat in the evening hours. Spring bonnets have put forth and the young people, and some not so young, go up and down in untiring rounds.

VAL. S. BRUNNER, George W. Miller, Joseph Cronise, Joseph Hays, John Ronzer, Dr. T. E. Miller, George W. Dean, James McSherry and William W. Zimmerman have been elected managers of the Frederick and Emmitsburg turnpike road company for the ensuing year.

IT will be seen elsewhere that Mr. W. L. McGinnis needs 10,000 saw logs instead of the 5,000 he has been constantly sawing, and there is no need for delay in bringing them forward. He will need logs as long as his water power lasts, and that is the body of Turkey Run, flowing rapidly.

IF the enterprising persons who send items of news abroad to other papers, will just hand them into this office, they can depend on a correct record. The only correct record of our Town election that has yet appeared is given in this issue, and so it is always in all cases, Emmitsburg items are defective.

REV. DR. E. E. HIGBEE, State Superintendent of Public Instruction for Pennsylvania, will please accept thanks for a copy of the Report of the Secretary of Internal Affairs, of the Boundary of the Commonwealth, 1885, with voluminous maps accompanying the report. The documents are very valuable.

GEN. S. SPRINGER has the sale of the Cornelius Stump Pullers, and District rights, for either the sale or use of them, and will sell a District and a Puller for $300, or a Puller alone for $250. Every farmer should study his own benefit, and save his implements and clear his land. There is more money to be made with a Stump Puller in this District than can be made with a grain separator. Remember the stump crop has never failed as yet.

BLACK PILLS dispel melancholy.

Improvements.

Mr. Joseph Snouffer is having his residence repainted.

Mr. James V. Rider has cut down and enlarged the front windows of his mother's residence.

List of Letters.

The following letters remain in the Post Office, Emmitsburg, Md., May 2, 1887. Persons calling will please say advertised, otherwise they may not receive them:

Miss Mary Meline, Miss Sarah A. Michel, Miss Theresa Peddicord, Miss Mamie Peddicord, Mrs. Mary Slaman.

The centennial of Franklin and Marshall College at Lancaster will be celebrated the week beginning June 12 next. On Alumni day, Wednesday, June 15, Hon. W. S. Stenger will preside at the various exercises and the alumni dinner. On the same day Rev. J. Spangler Kieffer, D. D., of Hagerstown, and W. U. Hensel, Esq., of Lancaster, will deliver addresses.

It is a Curious Fact

That the body is now more susceptible to benefit from medicine than at any other season. Hence the importance of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla now, when it will do you the most good. It is really wonderful for purifying and enriching the blood, creating an appetite, and giving a healthy tone to the whole system. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is peculiar to itself.

Treasurer's Report.

The report of the Treasurer of the Corporation of Emmitsburg, printed in this issue, will be read with interest. It presents a gratifying view of the finances of the village and is certainly one of the most satisfactory reports of the kind ever laid before the citizens, and we congratulate the Burgess and the Commissioners upon the success of their efforts for the public good.

Lots of beef-cattle have been driven through our streets this week to the railroad. Some of them destined for Liverpool, all as fat as can well be, some about ready to burst their hides. To Editors restricted to bacon-sides and dandelion, with an occasional hard-boiled egg as a relish, it is fairly distressing to consider that such luxurious living is for the sole use of arrogant old John Bull.

Our town authorities will do well to turn their noses occasionally in the direction of the fish-mongers establishments. It has happened that the effluvia has been a dire nuisance, and it may occur at any time. Salt water, whether from fish-barrels or ice cream factories, decomposes rapidly under the sun's rays, and no residuum thereof should be allowed within the corporation. The free use of lime and copperas solution should be enforced.

I RECOMMEND Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy for Gravel. It cures me.—S. J. McCormick, U. S. Dep. Mineral Surveyor, Bliss Station, Idaho. My head and face was a mass of putrefaction.

Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy purified my blood and I am now well.—J. A. Parker, Sunderlandville, Pa. Price $1. Send 2-cent stamp to Dr. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y., for book on Kidney, Liver and blood disorders. Mention this paper.

The Fairfield correspondent of the Compiler says: "Last Tuesday afternoon, as the eastward bound freight train on the Western Maryland R. R. was passing the Dutrow farm, near Blue Ridge Summit, a young horse belonging to Chas. Dutrow being in a field close by the road, became frightened and dashed upon the track in front of the train.

There being a heavy down grade at that point, the engineer could not stop the train, but slowed up and made every effort to drive the horse from the track, but he kept on to the point where the railroad crosses the public road from the Summit to Sabillasville, on a long and high trestle, with a single plank walk laid between the rails, on which the horse started, and had passed almost the entire length safely, when the plank slipped to a side, throwing the horse and breaking three of his legs.

The beauty of the landscape is now conspicuous on all sides, but no where more inviting than in our lovely valley. Everybody who can should not fail to drive out, and take in the full inspiration of the scenes that everywhere loom into view. There are the eternal mountains that overhang, with the first trestle of the living green which soon will crown the heights; the groves scattered here and there, diversify the stretches of land lying the little hills among. The whole richly colored with the blooming peach and pear, plum and apple, various wild trees in variegated hues, to which the pines and the cedars lend a pleasing shading. Of the smiling green fields and the brooks by the way, it would require a poet's pen to do them justice. Go forth we say and feast your soul on the beauty of the season.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent of such maladies as Bileousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it.

A Procession.

Stephen Woodard (colored) was committed to the lock-up on Monday, by the Burgess, for disorderly conduct. The officer in charge got possession of Hunter's mill wagon, with the big dun horse attached, and Mr. Ed. H. Rowe as driver, conveyed the corpus delicti to the gloomy prison house, with the rag tag and bob-tail following in the rear. Steve "was glorious." "Not a drum was heard," &c.

How We Look.

With the Fountain on the square in full play, the flowers surrounding it brightly blooming; the gold fishes sporting in the water, and the street sprinklers operating on all sides, our village may be said to have opened its summer programme, and just think of it, the good people of Frederick can still view the Court House and its grassy lawn, through the dismal iron railing that encloses them. Some of these days reform may react on that party institution.

A Policeman Shoots a Colored Man.

About 9 o'clock on Sunday night, policeman Marshall F. Harding shot and almost instantly killed Joshua Herbert (colored) at Frederick, whose reputation was that of a disorderly character, long regarded by the police as dangerous. He had been using profane language and insulting ladies, when Harding told him to go away. He did so but soon returned and again became disorderly, when Harding told him he would have to arrest him, he started up the street, and Harding began firing at him. Three shots were fired without effect, when Herbert turned with a threat and received the fourth shot with fatal effect. Harding has been arrested.

Officer Harding was taken from jail on Tuesday and released in $3,000 bail, by Thomas Turner for his appearance before the grand jury. Col. E. C. McSherry, Edward Sinn and William W. Fleming are his bondsmen.

LETTER FROM ST. JOSEPH.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., April 30, 1887. MY DEAR FRIEND:—Since my last letter to you I have been thinking. I am still thinking, and wondering if it can be possible that this is the Western wilderness that took only thirty years ago, from two to three weeks of hard work, hard fare and a large amount of hard cash to reach. When the lumbering old Troy coach drawn by four spavined, (thorough-bred bays warranted on the bills), nags guaranteeing plenty of exercise to passengers to stretch their cramped limbs by walking up all of the hills; or by the more pleasant but hardly faster steam-boat, which slow as it was, will ever be remembered, for its luxurious and spacious saloon, its cotillion and its pleasant whist and euchre parties. The tables loaded with choicest viands, and the genial Captain polite and kind to all, to his friends a bounteous King. But I am dreaming and floating with Capt. Cabbie, and my friend Col. Motter, down the "Big Muddy" in the year 1856, and with a lingering regret, that this is all changed and gone for ever, I turn to a busier scene.

What has wrought this great change unparalleled in the history of the world? When I put my hand on the top of my head, and find it smooth and polished, the answer is, the sands of time are running out fast, and the world is trying hard to get a head of thirty-one years as Col. Motter and your humble servant reached the then small town on the banks of the great Missouri River, named after the patron Saint of its founder (Joseph Roubidoux) St. Joseph, and at once engaged in the sawing of native lumber, running three large circular saws, turning off about 15,000 feet of lumber daily. At these mills was saved the massive timber for erecting the bridges of the Hannibal and St. Joseph R. R., and this road was the first and for some years the only railroad west of the Mississippi River, and north of St. Louis. Kansas City then not in existence was only a boat landing named Westport. Omaha a town of some three hundred inhabitants. Hundreds of flourishing cities whose town sights were then wild prairies, unknown to the white man; the home of the buffalo, deer and wild horse now grow and flourish. Then the Indian roamed at will, and lighted his camp fires and pitched his tents or engaged in deadly strife with his brother tribes, as the whim seized him. The City of Denver, lying about 700 miles west of Saint Joseph, and containing a population almost equal to St. Joseph, having railroads reaching from the Atlantic to the Pacific, with branches extending towards every point of the compass, is said to be the most beautiful City in the world, glittering with treasures, and her beautiful buildings, ornamented with the gold and silver, dug up from the very foundations and cellars over which they stand, is only a few years old. The great State of Kansas knew of no rain in those days, and civilization shunned her sterile water, as the fore-named traveller flees from the plague. This to-day is a legend of the past, gentle rains fall regularly, vegetation flourishes where were formerly alkaline deserts, and not even pasture sufficient to last a grass hopper over night. I think however, that the fertility of Kansas is much over estimated and that many who are over-looking the garden spot of the world, and its very chess lands, (mean N. W. Missouri) and settling in that country of mortgages and heavy indebtedness, will soon awaken to the fact that they have made a mistake. Lands within thirty or forty miles of St. Joseph, inexhaustible in fertility, with good improvements can be bought just now, for twenty-five dollars per acre, with growing crops thrown in.

Yours truly,

Ed.

Mrs. HELEN SANGREE, who accompanied her husband, Rev. H. H. Sangree, to Germany a few months ago, has returned to her native place and is now with her grandmother, Mrs. Carl, of Hanover. Their infant child did not thrive in Germany and the return home was made on that account. Rev. Mr. Sangree will remain in Berlin at the University for some time yet, to complete his studies.—Herald.

The Masonic fraternity of the states of Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia will celebrate the centennial anniversary of the organization of the Grand Lodge of Maryland, at Baltimore on May 10th to 12th. An elaborate programme including parades, balls, banquets, orations, &c., has been arranged for the entertainment of the visitors. The street parade on the 12th will no doubt be a grand pageant.

The Death of Carlisle Camp.

An inquest was held on Saturday morning over the body of Carlisle Camp, who was shot on the night of the 23d of April. Mrs. Camp's evidence was taken, and a number of witnesses were examined, but the testimony was in substance about the same as that already published. The jury rendered a verdict to the effect that Carlisle Camp died from a pistol wound, the pistol being in the hands of some unknown person.—Sun.

Five following gentlemen were elected directors of the Mutual Insurance company of Frederick county on Monday: George Markell, Philip Reich, George W. Delaplane, James McSherry, David Frazier, Charles E. Trail, Joseph Cronise, Joseph G. Miller, Thomas R. Jarboe, James Hough, Z. James Gittinger and Samuel Dutrow. The board met in the afternoon and elected George Markell, President and Treasurer; George W. Dixon, Secretary; David Frazier, Agent; and Jas. McSherry, Attorney.—Examiner.

The Cadet Ship Examination.

The committee requested by Hon. Louis E. McComas to conduct a competitive examination to select a cadet from the Sixth Congressional District of Maryland to the United States Military Academy at West Point, met at Hagerstown on Tuesday. There were twenty-one candidates, James Francis McIndoe of Lonaconing was the successful contestant, rating 85.68 per cent. Wm. W. Blunt of Montgomery County took the second rank and will be the alternate if for any reason Mr. McIndoe should not enter the Academy. He rated 74.68 per cent.

The month of May came in on Sunday last with bright skies and an atmosphere that would have been genial, but for the remnant of chilliness that prevailed it. However, Monday made up for the defect, then everything was lovely as a May morning should be, and the whole matter was effectively guaranteed by the mysterious appearance of the organ-grinder on the streets, whose swelling notes gave a sweetness to the air, grateful to the ear. How is it, anyhow? Whence come these wandering minstrels? How do they, better than others, know the right moment to proclaim the period of the changed season? Tuesday was partially clear and very warm, the mercury standing at 90° at 4:30 p. m. Wednesday, though less warm than Tuesday was a real summer day. The air remained comparatively dry into the long hours of night but after midnight a heavy storm, accompanied by a most vivid electrical exhibition and heavy rainfall, completed the full development of the summer arrangements. These all gave Thursday a start that was genial to the last degree and stimulating to every growing thing.

We call the attention of our readers to The New Princeton Review for May, the contents of which are varied and of an exceptionally high order, all being from authors occupying the first rank in literature and scholarly attainments. Taine's searching analysis of the character of Napoleon Bonaparte shows the much worshipped French hero in a new and startling light; Noah Porter discusses "Physiological Ethics," and Ellis H. Roberts presents the "Moral Aspects of the Tariff." Levi Parsons has an able article on "The Uses of Political Parties," and Prof. Charles A. Young traces the development of science by the use of "Astronomical Photography." Prof. Boyesen writes of the general tendencies of "The New Literature of Norway and Denmark." Mrs. Rose Hawthorne furnishes a story entitled "A Touch of Sublimity," and the number throughout is a thoroughly interesting specimen of this admirable Review. The analytical Index of the Review is a feature that greatly adds to its value.

The Century Magazine for May has a fine portrait of Washington Irving which is fittingly accompanied by Clarence Cook's "Glimpse of Washington Irving at home," that will be read with a great deal of pleasure by the lovers of the genial author of Rip Van Winkle, and the many other dreamy beautiful Knickerbocker stories. "Finding Pharaoh," by Edward L. Wilson, is wonderfully interesting, and being followed by John A. Paine's "Pharaoh the Oppressor," and his Daughter, in the Light of their Monuments," makes the life and history of the misty far-away past, seem very real and near to us. "The Hundredth Man" is continued; there is an interesting account of the life and customs of the Apaches, by Frederick Schwatka, and an article on "The Chemistry of Foods and Nutrition," by Prof. Atwater; continuation of the History of Abraham Lincoln, a short story by Octave Thanet, entitled "Whitson Harp, Regulator," Memoranda on the Civil War, and the usual amount of War Literature, Topics of the Time, Open Letters, and an interesting collection of Brice-Brace. Published by The Century Co., 33 East 17th Street, N. Y.

An Emigrant Train Wrecked.

Shortly after 6 o'clock Wednesday morning a heavily loaded west-bound emigrant train over the Baltimore and Ohio railroad was wrecked near Hagerstown. Five cars were thrown from the track and nine or ten emigrants were hurt.

Physicians were summoned and when the train resumed its journey, accompanied the injured to Martinsburg. The derailment was caused by a broken flange on a car wheel.—Balto. News.

Church Improvement.

St. James Lutheran church, in this place, is to be enlarged and remodeled. The council and congregation on Sunday adopted the plan submitted by architect Dice, of Glen Rock, which includes a tower at the corner of York and Stratton streets, an extension of the building southward, stained-glass windows, and the removal of the gallery. Four hundred feet of increased room will be secured. The estimated cost is $4,000, of which about $2,500 was immediately subscribed. The improvement will be desirable in many ways—appearance, room and comfort.—Gettysburg Compiler.

The General Synod of the Lutheran Church of the United States, will meet in June at Omaha, Neb. The General Synod was organized in 1820 at Hagerstown, Md., with 113 ministers and 33,000 communicants of the church. The division of the Synod occurred in York in 1867 and from this division came the General Council, organized in November, 1867. At the last meeting of the General Synod in 1885, there were 23 district Synods, 875 ministers, 1,460 congregations, 150,000 communicants and 170,000 children and members in the Sunday school. Truly this Synod has made a remarkable growth.

It is nearly 122 years since Mason & Dixon passed along about one mile north of Emmitsburg, on the survey of the boundary between the provinces of Maryland and Pennsylvania. From the original field notes as given in the report of the Secretary of Internal Affairs, Pennsylvania, 1885, it appears that the parties, 1765, "August 6, crossed Pincy run." "August 21, crossed Monocacy road and passed Michael Miller's house and Henry Bower's house." "August 23, crossed Rock creek." "August 24, passed John McKinly's house and crossed Marsh creek." "August 26, passed John Evert's house and John Young's house, crossed Middle creek and passed Matthew Elder's house." "August 28, crossed Flat run, passed James Stephenson's house." "August 29, passed William Brown's house, crossed Tom's creek at the foot of South Mountain, passed Phenias Davidson's house." "August 30, at 87 miles and 75 chains, crossed Friend's creek in the South Mountain, passed John Cohorn's house."

PERSONALS.

We had a very pleasant call from Mr. Marshall Hyder of Atlantic, Iowa, who is visiting his parents in this place, on Friday morning, and were pleased to observe his healthful appearance, and to note his continued interest in this place and his former home, and particularly the fortunes of the EMMITTSBURG CHRONICLE of which he has been a subscriber from its start.

Mrs. M. E. Adelsberger and Mrs. T. J. Bond have returned from Philadelphia. Mr. Peter F. Burket has returned to McKeesport, Pa.

Mr. Francis P. Topper has returned from Gettysburg.

Mr. Geo. M. Morrison of Washington made a visit among his relatives near this place.

Mr. John L. McGinnis has returned to his home at Freedom, Neb. His brother Mr. Samuel D. McGinnis of near Graceham accompanied him and will reside at that place.

Rev. M. Kieffer, D. D., of Gettysburg, was in town on Friday.

Keysville Items.

From the rapid improvement which is prevalent in our little village, a traveler passing through might think it though in rather an embryonic state—a future London.

Mr. B. Poole has put a new paling fence around the lot opposite his residence, which greatly improves appearance. Mr. Poole owns a cow that has calved three times, and each time produced twins. The last two are a week old, very large and thriving finely.

Mr. M. O. Myers, who has bought Dr. Jacob H. Roop's property, has built an end to the barn and improved the yard to his dwelling.

Dr. J. H. Roop bought from Mr. Thos. Stevenson a tract of land on which he is rapidly building his new home. The barn is completed and in use, also a large cistern, one of the best in the country. The foundation for the house is dug and all the materials in readiness for its erection.

Mr. A. Forney, who moved here this spring from Double Pipe Creek, has erected an elaborate blacksmith shop, and the resonance of the anvil is heard far and near.

Mr. Wm. H. Fogle started for Illinois on Tuesday the 3rd inst., where he intends going into business.

Miss Anna R. Miller has returned home from a visit to relatives in Hanover.

Mr. Lee Myers of near New Windsor paid his brother, Mr. M. O. Myers, a short visit last week.

THE Effect of Mental Exhaustion. Many diseases, especially those of the nervous system, are the products of daily renewed mental exertion. Business avocations often involve an amount of mental wear and tear very prejudicial to physical health, and the professions, if ardently pursued, are no less destructive to brain and nerve tissue. It is one of the most important attributes of Hester's Stomach Bitters that it compensates for this undue loss of tissue, and that it imparts new energy to the brain and nerves. The rapidity with which it removes weakened mental energy and physical vitality is remarkable, and shows that life giving properties are at the highest order. It stimulates the vital system, and counteracts the effects of mental exhaustion, this potential medicine cures and prevents fever and inflammation, chronic dyspepsia and constipation, indigestion, nervous weakness and other complaints. Physicians also commend it as a most efficient stimulant and remedy.

The Town Election.

The annual election for Burgess and Commissioners of Emmitsburg was held on Monday, under such favorable conditions as made it practically an outdoor engagement. The polls were opened in the lower room of the engine house, with the big door entirely open. The election was without marked opposition, and yet the vote was large, to the credit of all concerned. William G. Blair, Esq., was re-elected Burgess; Messrs. Daniel Lawrence, Michael Hoke, Oscar D. Fraley, Daniel Sheets, Joseph Snouffer and Lewis D. Cook, Commissioners.

Number the Houses.

MOUNT ST. MARY'S, May 1, 1887. EDITOR CHRONICLE.—Don't you think it would be a good idea to number the houses on Main Street? The townspeople may not see the need of it, but strangers feel it, as the directions given them for finding parties, especially when there is no sign up, are sometimes very vague and oblige them to inquire again and again. After all it's no wonder, when you reflect that the street is closely built for over a half-a-mile.

The cost would be slight—probably one man would undertake the job for five cents per house—and the advantage gained would be considerable, both to business people away from the square, and to MOUNTAINERS.

The Daily Times.

Messrs. Kaufman & Markell of the Frederick Times began the issue of a new applicant for public favor on Monday. It is an evening paper at the low price of one cent a number. It is to be republican in politics, "but a studious effort will be made to render them (the editorials) void of offence or objectionable partisanship." What is wanted in Frederick is a home-made presentation of local events in clear terse terms, and not a mere copy thereof from the Baltimore papers; and such calm statements of political ideas as may not exclude the right to think from others. We believe the Times equal to the undertaking, and wish the esteemed proprietors success.

THE Walkersville Enterprise says:—The members of the Glade Reformed church are considering the question of a division. It is proposed to form another charge out of the present one; the Glade and Woodsboro congregations forming one, and Utica, Zion's and Pleasant Hill congregations the other charge. The labor of the charge is too much for one pastor and a division of the work would no doubt be for the best interests of the church.

The Maryland Classes of the Reformed Church will convene in the Glade Reformed church, at this place, on Friday evening, May 20, and will be in session nearly one week.

An Engine Thrown from a Bridge.

Engine 9 on the Baltimore and Cumberland Valley Railroad jumped the track while crossing the bridge over a dam near Shippensburg on Thursday last week. The engine fell on its side and Porter, the fireman, was thrown under it. Edward Motley, engineer, who was hurt about the head by being too sedulous in the locomotive, hurried to his rescue, and by reason of the mud in the bottom of the dam was able to pull him from under the engine. The water was about four feet deep. The cars remained on the track. The fireman was hurt about the shoulders, but not seriously.—Sun.

A Free Library for Frederick.

By the will of Mrs. Margaret C. Artz, formerly of Frederick, who died in Chicago on the 27th of March, the city of Frederick is to receive a magnificent gift for the purpose of the erection and maintenance of an extensive free library provided her daughter, Victorine T. Artz, dies single and unmarried. The trustees of the estate, who are Messrs. James M. Hood, David C. Winebrenner and Rev. E. R. Eschbach, are to be accountable to the authorities of Frederick for the dutiful performance of their trust. It is estimated that the real and personal estate of Mrs. Artz will amount to between four and five hundred thousand dollars. Mrs. Artz was a daughter of the late Michael Thomas. She removed to the West many years ago. Her surviving daughter is about forty-two years old and an invalid.—American.

Pulp Mill at the Ferry.

The contract for the machinery of the proposed paper and pulp mill at Harper's Ferry has been given out. The contract is that all machinery shall be delivered at Harper's Ferry by the first day of July, and it is confidently said that the works will be started up by the first of September. The pulp mill will be one of the largest in the world, capable of turning out forty tons of the finest quality of wood-pulp daily, and the paper mills will be of capacity enough to use it all. There are now between two and three hundred workmen in Tucker county, W. Va., engaged in getting out the wood from which pulp is made. The mills when in full operation will employ between six and seven hundred people.

A New Method of Tooth Drawing.

A dentist in Geneva has invented a new and ingenious process of tooth drawing. A small square of India rubber, pierced with a central hole, is pushed over the tooth till the upper part of the root is reached. The India rubber gradually contracts, pulls on the root, and the offending tooth is finally unloosed, without causing the patient any pain whatever. Four or five days are required to complete the operation. Very slight bleeding and a slight swelling of the gum are the only inconveniences experienced.—Bz.

What a rare nonsense! The Dentists of this place just end the whole agony before you can say "Jack Robinson" and it doesn't hurt 'em a bit.—Ed.

BLACK PILLS relieve palpitation.

About laying aside undergarments there is no rule that can meet all cases. There are rains to come with clouds that may make sudden changes in the air. The great point is to exercise prudence, when the body is thoroughly warmed and perspiration active, then the coat should be put on as soon as the exercise is ended. Don't sit around in a draught or the lowered temperature of the evening with garments removed, but observe such conditions that even a variation from the body may be slow and regular. To effect this walking gently will be most beneficial. The prudent man foreseeth the evil and governs himself accordingly.

From the Herald & Torch Light.

Mr. David Sprecher, a native of this county, committed suicide by shooting himself in Florida last Thursday.

On Saturday, the closing day of the Updegraff exhibition, over four hundred ladies attended the tea reception, and two thousand persons visited the exhibition during the day and evening.

Articles of incorporation of the Downsville and Hagerstown Turnpike Company were filed on Tuesday in the office of the clerk of the Circuit Court. The incorporators and directors for the first year are John T. Grimes, William Hunter, John H. Snavey, Simon Long, D. Huyett Stonebraker, David Long, George Downey, Isaac Long, Jacob E. Thomas, Isaac Summers, Jacob Roessens and Joseph Rowland.

THE FLOW.

Let them sing who may, of the battle fray,
And the days that are long since past,
Let them chant in praise of the far whose days
Are spent on the ocean vast.
I would render to these all the worship
you please,
I would honor them even now.
But I'd give far more, from my heart's full store,
To the cause of the good old flow.

How pleasant to me, is the song from
the tree,
And the rich and blossoming bough,
Oh, these are the sweets, which the rustic
greets,
As he follows the good old flow.
Though he follows no bound, yet his days are crowned,
With a triumph as good as I know.
As though Antler's head at his feet lay dead,
Instead of the good old flow.

Full many there be, that we daily see,
With a selfish and hollow pride,
Who the Plowman's lot, in his humble
cot,
With a scornful look deride.

Yet I'd rather take, a hearty shake
From his hand, than to wealthiness
bow;
For the honest clasp, of that hand
rough clasp,
Hath guided the good old flow.

All honor be, then, to these gray old men,
When at last they are bowed with
toil,
Their warfare then o'er, their battle no
more,
For they have conquered the stubborn soil.

And the chaplet each wears is his silver
hairs,
And ne'er shall the victor's brow,
With a laurelled crown, to the grave go down,
Like these sons of the good old flow.

Greenhouse and Window Plants.

Whether the greenhouse or the window-garden, plants that have done their best all winter are now being made ready for their season in the open air. While they remain within, the increasing heat requires that they have greater care
in ventilation and in freeing them from insects. Plants that are taken out in summer, if wanted to bloom in pots next winter, should be kept in the pots; if turned out in the open ground, they cannot be satisfactorily potted again. It is much better to start with new plants from cuttings. Such plants may often be plunged in the border, in the pots, with good results.

Pots that are set out should stand on a layer of coal-ashes to keep out worms. Such plants should be set in partial shade, but never under the drip of trees. Roots of dahlias and cannas, and bulbs of tuberose and gladioli, if laid in boxes of soil, exposed to the sun during the day, and taken in at night, may be appreciably forwarded, and ready to plant out. — American Agriculturist for April.

A Good Whitewash.

J. P. asks: "Will you please give receipt in your next issue to make a whitewash that will stand the weather, and also what to color with to make a deep slate color?"
Answer: Slake one-half bushel lime strain, and add a peck of salt dissolved in warm water, three pounds ground rice put in boiling water and boiled to a thin paste, one-half pound powdered Spanish whiting,
and a pound of clear glue dissolved in warm water. Mix these well together and let the mixture stand for several days. Keep the wash thin prepared in a kettle or portable furnace, and when used, put it on as hot as possible, with painters' or whitewash brushes. Color to suit by adding sparingly of a dry pigment. — Scientific American.

POTATO WATER is announced as a sure cure for rheumatism. A lady who tried it on her husband put on half a peck of potatoes in an iron kettle over the stove and let them boil all to pieces. She then, she says, by dint of much labor and extreme pain on the part of her husband, got him up and put his feet in "soak" in the water, and the pain was relieved as if by magic.

Cloths dipped in the hot potato water were then applied to his knees and other portions affected, and although the application almost killed him at first, so sensitive was the first touch, yet a moment's time saw the pain allayed, and the patient was soon enjoying a sweet sleep. His recovery was speedy,
and he has not had a severe attack
of rheumatism since.

A MAN told his tailor that he wouldn't pay for "that last epilepsy." It was discovered that he meant "bad fit."

Humorous.

THERE is a man in Illinois whose name is Joseph Gotobed. He is said to be of a very retiring disposition.

A YOUTH wishes to know "how long girls should be courted." Why, the same as short girls, of course.

I find a man who was honest and upright I don't go back on him because he cuts mit his knife.
— Carl Dunder.

The young lady who burst into tears has been put together again,
and is now wearing hoops to prevent the recurrence of the accident.

"Ye little spalpeen! I'll tache ye now niver to come home agin half drowned to yer poor ould mud-der till ye know how ter shym!"
— Wasp.

At the examination for the baccalaureate degree, the professor of physics asks the candidate, "What is the best insulator known?"
"Poverty," was the reply. — French Fun.

SYMPATHETIC clergyman to widowed parishioner—Was poor Brother Saltonstall prepared to go?

Consolled widow—Yes, indeed.
He was insured in half a dozen companies.

"SHE'S a small woman," said a youth of his mother, "but when she hauls off her slipper and says,
"Samuel come here this minit," we boys go just as though she weighed four hundred pounds."

"PA, have you got the hydrophobia?" "No, Bertie; what makes you ask that question?" "Well,
I heard ma say to-day that you got awfully bitten when you thought she had a fortune in her own name." — Harper's Bazaar.

"SPEAKING about the artist who painted fruit so naturally that the birds came and pecked at it," said the fat reporter, "I drew a hen that was so true to life that when the sage threw it into the waste
basket it laid there." — Peabody Reporter.

FATHER of Stupid Boy—"Professor, I want you to teach this boy
German and French."

Professor—"Why do you want the Germans and French to know what an ass he is? Isn't it enough that the English speaking races
should know it?" — Texas Siftings.

HEIN is a good example of one of those "spitting phrases," which crept into a recent issue of the Canton (N. Y.) Advertiser: "Mrs.
Theodore Caldwell was the recipient
Saturday of a beautiful floral offering in commemoration of the advent of her first born son, which came to her by express from Balti-

COAL Dealer: "Where's John?"
Driver: "He staid up to Mr.
Brown's."

COAL Dealer: "Why on earth did he do that? Doesn't he know we're short-handed?"

Driver: "I suppose he does, sir,
but he said he was weighed in with his load, and he had an idea he belonged to Mr. Brown."

AUNT SUSAN—"I want yer to talk to dis oblige, Parson Baxter." Parson Whangdoodle Baxter—"What's

Aunt Susan—"I'se afeard he am days ter swaller der whale." Parson Baxter—"I'se afeard I ain't

Susan—"Dis heah am a case for

"GET A BOARD." "What are you doing with that lumber?" cried
a steamboat captain to an Irishman who was staggering towards the boat, beneath the weight of a huge plank, just as the bell was ringing for the last time. "What am I doing? Sure wasn't it yerself as said,
"all you as is a goin', get a board,"
and isn't this an elegant one intirely?" said the hibernian, triumphantly, amid the laughter of the spectators. The captain gave him his "board" and passage that trip.

Not an Artist.

While the portrait of Judge Noah Davis was being presented to the Supreme Court the other afternoon one lawyer asked a member of the presentation committee:
"Can you tell me what artist painted this picture, sir?"
"It was not painted by an artist, sir," was the lofty reply. "It was painted by the President of the National Academy of Design."

THE LATE DR. J. G. HOLLAND'S OPI- ON.

A Physician Climbing the Editorial Stairs.

The columns of the newspapers appear to be flooded with "proprietary" medicine advertisements. As we cast our eye over them, it brings to mind an article that was published by the late Dr. Holland in Scribner's Monthly. He says:
"Nevertheless, it is a fact that many of the best proprietary medicines of the day were more successful than many physicians, and most of them, it should be remembered, were at first discovered or used in actual medical practice.
When, however, any shrewd person,
knowing their value, and foreseeing their popularity, secures and advertises them, then, in the opinion of the bigoted, all virtue went out of them."

Is not this absurd? This great man appreciated the real merits of popular remedies, and the absurdity of those that derided them because public attention was called to the article and the evidence of their cures. If the most noted physician should announce that he had made a study of any certain organ or disease of the body, or make his sign larger than the code size, though he may have practised medicine and been a leader in all medical counsels, notwithstanding all this, if he should presume to advertise and decline to give his discovery to the public, he would be pronounced a quack and a humbug, although he may have spent his entire life, and all his available funds in perfecting
his investigations. Again we say,
"absurd."

If an ulcer is found upon one's arm, and is cured by some dear soul of a grandmother, outside of the code, it will be pronounced by the medical profession an ulcer of little importance. But if treated under the code, causing sleepless nights for a month, with the scientific treatment, viz., plasters, washes, dosing with morphia, arsenic and other vile substances, given to prevent blood poisoning or deaden pain, and yet the ulcer becomes malignant, and amputation is made necessary at last, to save life, yet
all done according to the "isms"
of the medical code, this is much more gratifying to the medical profession, and adds more dignity to that distinguished order than to be cured by the dear old grandmother's remedy.

This appears like a severe arraigment, yet we believe that it expresses the true standing of the medical profession in regard to remedies discovered outside of their special
"isms." One of the most perplexing things of the day is the popularity of certain remedies, especially Warner's safe cure, which we find for sale everywhere. The physician of the highest standing is ready to concede its merits and sus-tain the theories the proprietors
have made—that is, that it benefits
in most of the ailments of the human system because it assists in putting the kidneys in proper condition, thereby aiding in throwing off the impurities of the blood, while others with less honesty and experience deride, and are willing to see their patient die scientifically, and according to the code, rather than have him cured by this great remedy. Yet we notice that the popularity of the medicine continues to grow year by year. The discoverer comes boldly before the people with his merits, and proclaims them
from door to door in our opinion much more honorably than the physician who, perchance, may secure a patient from some catastrophe, and is permitted to set a bone of an arm or a finger, which he does with great dignity, yet very soon after takes the liberty to climb the editor's back stairs at 2 o'clock in the morning to have it announced in the morning paper that "Dr. So-and-so was in attendance," and thus secures for his benefit a beautiful and free advertisement. We shall leave it to our readers to say which is the wisest and most honorable.
