VOLUME IX.

With this issue we begin the ninth volume of the EMMITSBURG CHRONICLE. Its past record must stand as the criterion by which to judge its future course. We have nothing therefore to present in the way of promises to enlist favor, and go forward with the assurance that the same devotion to duty that has marked our course in the past will characterize it hereafter. We aim to give our friends a fair reliable presentation of the local and general news of the day, and a carefully prepared course of comments upon practical subjects in our editorial columns, the whole constructed and sent forth under our immediate supervision. Home-made work throughout, without any misleading adjuncts of wretched and disgusting cuts, often only caricatures of the subjects said to be represented, or the machine work of manifold issues scattered far and wide in the same words, regardless of the public interests.

We have proven that our village and its vicinity is abundantly able to support a newspaper, as the vehicle of its business activities; the medium of its communication with the outer world, and a source of mental advancement; it but remains for those who are interested in the progress of affairs to come up to the full measures of the facilities for so doing, which we bring to their doors. Give us the full support of our dealers and we can readily meet the requirements of our position and keep our facilities for work up to the first class order, and add continually such improving advantages as the advancing business may require. We ask no personal favors, but claim the recognition of our work on the part of those for whose business advantage we have inaugurated and carried it onward. It is too late to argue in favor of advertising, the whole world illustrates the point—what works so successfully elsewhere, must prove beneficial here. Those who appreciate home-work and are desirous for home-progress must readily perceive the need and the propriety of encouraging ours in that view.

We earnestly trust that every friend of our enterprise will feel interested to add to the number of its subscribers, and by every laudable means aid us in building up the business, the moral, social and intellectual interests of this our lovely valley.

We employ no agents, we send forth no delusive inducements; our work proceeds upon the basis of fair and regular prices, with equal justice to all.

The constancy of the encouragement of our friends in the past has been a matter of felicitation to us, and we continue the course of our duties in the firm hope, that as heretofore we shall not only retain but enlarge the field of our operations.

The EMMITSBURG CHRONICLE is furnished at the low price of one dollar a year when paid in advance. We trust that every subscriber will avail himself or herself of the terms thus stated, which whilst directly advantageous to them, at the same time relieve our wants and give efficiency to our work.

CARDINAL GIBBONS AT HOME.

His Eminence Cardinal Gibbons Archbishop of Baltimore, arrived in that City on Tuesday afternoon, 29th, last, on his visit to Rome, to receive his Cardinal's hat and full official investiture.

He was welcomed at Baltimore by thousands; the out pouring of the Catholic Societies and other citizens was immense. Addresses of welcome were made by Mayor Hodges and Mr. Charles J. Bonaparte. There was a large procession, over 8,000 persons taking part therein. At the close of the procession, impressive religious services were held in the Cathedral. Altogether the reception was an ovation, to the distinguished prelate whose learning, piety, amiability and commanding abilities call forth the respect and esteem of all without regard to creed or party.

It is reported that hidden treasure to the value of $25,000,000 sterling has been discovered in the palace of a deceased Vizier at Rabat, Morocco. The Sultan, it is said, has confiscated the treasure and is having it conveyed to the imperial coffers.

THE TOWNSHIP QUESTION.

In anticipation of the calling of a convention to revise the Constitution of Maryland, there have been frequent intimations of the line of policy intended to be set forth in the action of the convention, among other suggestions is the one to foist the Township idea upon the people.

It may be well to discuss the subject and no doubt its bearings will in due time be laid before the people in such forms as to call forth earnest consideration and well estimated conclusions in the premises. Governmental policies have determining results grounded upon climatic considerations, as well as those more directly social. The same line of action may not work equally well in all sections. There are always certain traditions, a certain order of thought, and other considerations that make up the ruling principles of states and divisions of a country. The ideas that have governed for a long period, tend to perpetuate themselves, and nothing but the most imperious necessity should justify hasty or ill considered changes in them.

Living as we do within sight of Mason's and Dixon's line, and therefore having a ready view of the workings of the Township government of our sister State, Pennsylvania, we have abundant opportunity to note the effects of this arrangement, yet fail to see, that in the matter of roads, the collection of taxes, or social well being, our neighbors have anything to boast of as an advance on our home order of proceeding.

It may be well therefore to note particularly how far the invitation to the proposed change may be influenced by recent settlers from other parts, who desire to retain in their new positions, the customs to which they were formerly attached. The points to be determined are, will the system really advance our interests? will its adoption consist with the traditional line of policy that belongs to us as Marylanders? In any case, it may be well to move slowly in the premises and be sure we're right before we go ahead.

A community, all of whose members are Colonels, Captains, etc., all officers, may be slow in exhibiting economic advances, so essential to its material progress.

Mr. W. W. CORCORAN the venerable philanthropist was suddenly paralyzed in the left arm and left leg at Washington City on Monday. His condition at the latest accounts was regarded favorable. He was 88 years old, December 27th last.

Mr. Corcoran has not only founded and endowed the Corcoran Art Gallery in Washington, and the Louise Home and given the Oak Hill Cemetery to the cities of Washington and Georgetown, but his contributions to the Ascension Church in Washington City alone aggregate upward of $50,000, and he has made liberal donations to other churches in the District of Columbia and innumerable charitable institutions. His gifts in sums of $1,000 and upward had aggregated over $6,000,000, and his private charities in smaller sums had amounted to fully $1,000,000 more. He gave $5,000 to the great monument fund. Since then he has given $5,000 to the earthquake fund in Charleston and $500 to the fund for Mrs. Logan, in addition to many smaller contributions to the needy. The news of his serious illness will cause widespread grief, especially among the poor in the District, whose constant friend he was.

THE MONUMENT UNVEILED.

The monument erected by the Society of the Army and Navy of the Confederate States, in the State of Maryland, to the memory of Col. Harry Gilmer, was unveiled at London Park near Baltimore, on Monday. The monument is twelve feet in height, and rests upon a base of Baltimore county lime stone. The shaft is of Italian limestone. On the front is inscribed: "Lieutenant Colonel Harry Gilmer. Born January 24, 1837; died March 4, 1863." It has also the Maryland coat-of-arms and the cavalrman's sword crossed in relief. The opposite side contains an inscription eulogistic of his heroism, religious faith and domestic virtues. On another side is a memorial tablet to his wife.

HON. WILLIAM A. WHEELER, ex-Vice President of the United States, died at his home in Malone, N. Y., on Saturday morning last, in the 68th year of his age.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

Special to the Emmitsburg Chronicle. The last congress perpetrated one stupendous lift on the pockets of the people before it adjourned.

President Cleveland seemed to have had the fishery question on his head at the time the bill was presented or it never would have been signed.—He is at this writing, by the way, up in the Adirondacs in the state of N. Y. looking after the fishing interests, seeing that no Cannuck gets down there to interfere with American fish. Well, the bill which I referred to was one giving a kind of roving commission to a lot of congressmen to wander around Washington, and its surroundings, to discover the unknown quantity of what the twenty-five, or more thousand Government clerks in the various departments, were driving at.

Their ostensible business is to measure with a tape-line the amount of work the clerk does. To show what a ridiculous job that they are pretending to do at the expense of the people I will mention a case or two: In the War department they have a division denominated the "Rebel archives." In this division are musty old rolls of officers and men of the Southern army during the late war, some made on old brown wrapping paper and all sorts of other kind of paper such as they could at that time catch on to. A claim may come up from one of the other departments, of a man south claiming indemnity for certain losses incurred as a union man. This claim is referred to the "rebel archives division."

A clerk is put to work to find out whether the claimant was ever in the rebel army. He will go to work with a step-ladder aided by a messenger in the shape of a dilapidated African if he can find one and such other paraphernalia as can be pressed into service to hunt up the name of the applicant and his previous standing. It may take all of one day or several days to get through with this search and report. Now what will the Congressional committee be able to tell Congress about what this clerk was doing all this time with not a scratch of a pen scarcely to show?

In the Patent office, Land office and Pension office, the same state exist. One case may be disposed of in twenty minutes, while others may make it necessary to have long and laborious searches, so that no earthly record can be kept of what the clerk has been doing who is on the work.

The great national drill closed with what its propagators called a loss.

A rough estimate of the financial outcome of the Military Drill is as follows: Expenses, including prizes, $60,000. Receipts for privileges and admissions, $30,000. Amount paid in on guarantee fund, $25,000. Amount to be assessed on subscribers to the guarantee fund, $5,000.

Showing an estimated loss to the promoters of the enterprise of $60,000.

The following is the rank of the various organizations participating in the National Drill just concluded and the prizes obtained by the winners:

Regimental—First Regiment Virginia N. G. (sole competitor); prize, a magnificent stand of colors (United States flag, regimental flag and guidons), with gold, silver and bronze medals to the officers. Battalions—1. Washington Light Infantry; prize, $3,000. 2. Louisville Legion of Kentucky; prize $1,500. 3. Fifth Rhode Island. Company—Each company was put through 82 movements, the maximum of perfection in each case being 10. The following table denotes the percentage secured by each company:

Company D, First Minnesota, $2,500 73.6. Bolkan Rifles, $1,500 73.4. National Rifles, $1,000 71.6. San Antonio Rifles, $500 69.6. PICKETT's men after all will attend the re-union at Gettysburg, in July. At a meeting held in Richmond, on June 1st, the famous division reconsidered their action at a previous meeting to abandon the proposed visit, and determined to have the re-union in July, and let the matter of the monument bide its time. The meeting further resolved to erect a monument over the grave of General Pickett on Gettysburg Hill, in Hollywood Cemetery, near Richmond. This change is due to the gallantry of the Philadelphia Brigade.

SUMMARY OF NEWS.

HUMORS run riot in the blood at this season. Hood's Sarsaparilla expels every impurity and vitalizes and enriches the blood.

MR. JAMES G. BLAINE, his wife and two daughters sailed on the steamer Ems of the North German Lloyd for Southampton on Wednesday.

DR. MORELL MACKENZIE, of London, on Wednesday performed a second operation upon the tumor in the Crown Prince's throat, and successfully removed another portion of the growth. The spirits of the Crown Prince were much raised by Dr. Mackenzie's assurance of a cure. His visit to England during the Queen's jubilee is now assured.

Salt Rheum

The agonies of those who suffer from severe salt rheum are indescribable. The cleansing, healing, purifying influences of Hood's Sarsaparilla are unequalled by any other medicine. "I take pleasure in recommending Hood's Sarsaparilla, for it has done wonders for me. I had salt rheum very severely, affecting me over nearly my entire body. Only those who have suffered from this disease in its worst form can imagine the extent of my affliction. I tried many medicines, but failed to receive benefit until I took Hood's Sarsaparilla. Then the disease began to subside, the skin cleared, and now I am entirely free from the disease, my blood seems to be thoroughly purified, and my general health is greatly benefited." LYMAN ALLEN, Sexton N. E. Church, North Chicago, Ill.

"My son had salt rheum on his hands and the calves of his legs, so that he could not walk. He took Hood's Sarsaparilla and is entirely cured." J. B. STANTON, Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

From 108 to 135 "I was seriously troubled with salt rheum for three years, and receiving no benefit from medical treatment I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I am now entirely cured of salt rheum; my weight has increased from 108 lbs. to 135." MRS. ALICE SMITH, Stamford, Conn. "If you suffer from salt rheum, or any blood disease, try Hood's Sarsaparilla. When I visited Carl Burr's place to "sample" Aladdin, by Jay Gould, with a view to driving him through the Eastern Circuit, I saw his brother Caxrot trot the last half of a long track and face a strong breeze in 1:17, drawing a driver weighing 200 lbs. There is no doubt in my mind that he can enter the 2:30 circle. He is a majestic looking bay stallion, upwards of 16 hands high. His gait, form, carriage and disposition, coupled with his breeding, eminently qualify him for a sire of trotters and carriage horses.—E. C. WALKER (Veritas). Jan 1-6m

IMMENSE ice-bergs are floating around in the Atlantic on their summer excursion no doubt, people go North to cool off; the bergs come down well—to melt away.

ICE-CREAM weather is one of those contradictions of nature that always disturb the natural course of things. Happily it occurs when cultivated persons cannot otherwise help themselves than to laze in the cooling admixture.

WHAT are cloudy, damp, cool Sundays in summer time intended for anyhow? We had that sort last time, and all nature seemed under restraint, particularly the young folks, who are wont to manifest their gratitude for genial skies by abiding in their gracious smiles.

At the election held by the Emmitsburg Water Company on Monday the 6th inst. the following directors were elected for the current year: I. S. Annan, L. M. Motter, Maj. O. A. Horner, Jas. A. Elder, E. L. Rowe, E. R. Zimmerman and J. Thos. Getwicks.

Trim the Trees.

There are places where the boughs of the trees hang too low on our streets and obscure the light of the street lamps or obstruct the view. The authorities by making the case a nuisance can provide for its removal as in other matters under the town charter.

The Tax Levy.

The County Commissioners for Frederick County at their session on Wednesday fixed the tax rate for the current year at 58 cents on the $100—seven cents less than last year. The levy for the year will be at least $40,000 less than ever before.

The Leaven Blowed Out.

Governor Beaver has vetoed the bill for erecting a monument at Hanover; also the Meade and Hancock, and Jennie Wade Monument bills for Gettysburg. This veto thus, that vaulting ambition may overleap itself, yet no one doubts the objects were deserving.

When the sun shone forth on Wednesday afternoon it came as the presence of a long absent friend, and everything that had life greeted the solar warmth that must now take the place of the continuous rain of a week. The outlook now is for the clearing of the grass crop and the maturity of the saving grain.

We are indebted to Mr. S. Gamble for a dish of nice green peas for dinner to-day and also some fine head lettuce proving to our satisfaction, that he not only raises the largest and finest strawberries offered in any market, but is able to compete with the most skillful gardeners, in the cultivation of nutritious vegetables.

A FINE Traction Engine passed through this place on Thursday evening. They are the most wonderful things to draw that can be found. It was eventful, and what with its whistle, its bulk and the rumble of its weight, it drew the whole village to the front, nearly as fully as did the Circus on Saturday.

Clean Wheat for Seed.

Farmers who take the trouble to clean their wheat well from rye, cockle and other weeds, will find that it will find sale for it at an advance over the market rates for such wheat, from our less fortunate neighbors to the north and east of us, where the crop is a partial failure.—Mail.

The Middletown Register states that the receipts of milk at the South Mountain Creamery, in that place, for the month of May, aggregated 153,400 an average of 5,900 pounds per day for twenty-six working days. These figures show a large increase in the receipts of milk, as the aggregate for March was only 67,600 pounds, and for April 103,338 pounds.

Masonic Hall Burned.

The Masonic Hall in Sharpsburg, Washington county, was burned early Wednesday morning. The cause of the fire is unknown, but it is supposed that persons attempting to rob a store room in the lower part of the building set fire to it. The total loss is about $6,000; partly covered by insurance.—Sun.

Dr. LEWIS H. STEINER, of Maryland, will be the Centennial orator at Franklin and Marshall college commencement, June 15. He is the curator of the great Enoch Pratt Free Library in Baltimore. Dr. Pepper's eulogy of Franklin and Judge Hughes' eulogy of Marshall will be delivered at the Court House in Lancaster, on the 14th inst. Ex-Secretary Stenger, ex-Governor Hartraft, Major H. Kyd Douglas, Governor Beaver, Congressman Samuel J. Randall, State Superintendents Wickeshaup and Higbee and the presidents of half a score of Pennsylvania colleges are among those whose names figure in connection with the exercises of commencement week at Franklin and Marshall.

Antoinishing Success.

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive, at least to try one bottle, as 80,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your Druggist about it. Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in the United States and Canada.

AMONG the names of political aspirants in this city mentioned in connection with the state's attorneyship are those of Carlton Shafer and Wm. Wilcox, democrats, and Wm. H. Hinks, E. S. Eichelberger and F. C. Norwood, republicans. Mr. Carlton Shafer is also spoken of in connection with the nomination for State Senator from Frederick.

Our thanks are due to Mrs. W. S. Guthrie for a nice treat on Tuesday in which our entire office had part. It consisted of nicely buttered buns fresh from the griddle (?) and a liberal wash-down of buttermilk, with the foam still working, and the whole was graced with a dainty roll of golden butter. It is good and pleasant besides to forget care, the weather, and life's worries, and feast on the fatness of the land!

Our citizen's should consider the idea of inviting new industries to our village. Enterprise makes a town; with the conveniences of water, so readily applied to machinery and those of the railroad, &c., there is no reason why this community should not enter upon a line of progressive development. Let that creamery have an immediate start, other projects will follow if some one leads.

The Republican State Central Committee held a meeting in Baltimore on Wednesday and resolved that a Republican State Convention be held in Baltimore city on Wednesday, August 24, 1887, to nominate candidates for Governor, Comptroller and Attorney General. Primary elections and county conventions are to be held to elect delegates to the convention, times and places to be fixed by the State Central Committee.

Lost.—"I don't know where, I can't tell when, I don't see how—something of great value to me, and for the return of which I shall be truly thankful, viz.: a good appetite."

The First National Bank of Hagerstown. This institution has been made a United States Depository in which the government officials of Washington county, Md., and Berkeley county, W. Va., will hereafter make deposits, instead of sending their funds to Baltimore. Under the law the bank deposits $45,000 government bonds with the U. S. Treasury, and as soon as the deposits exceed $40,000, forwards the excess to the Treasury.—Mail.

More Light. We respectfully submit to our Town Commissioners, that with coal oil at 10 and 15 cents at retail, it is small economy not to light the street lamps, every dark night, moon time or not. At this time of the year every body that can, goes forth at night, and if in the dark at the risk of broken bones. Not a payer will complain about reasonable charges for lighted streets, and evil doers will hesitate to work in the light.

For a time my life was despaired of. My trouble was with the Kidneys, Liver and Bladder—also Constipation. Finally I used Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, and in my opinion it saved my life. I make this statement to save those who suffer as I did.—A. J. Gifford, Lowell, Mass. Druggists: $1. Send 2-cent stamp to Dr. David Kennedy, Rondont, N. Y., for his book on Kidney, Liver and Blood disorders. Mention this paper.

By the Esophagus. It is an old saying that the nearest way to a man's heart is down his throat; feed him well and his best sensibilities will be at once animated his conduct. This point was finely illustrated at the meeting of our Farmers' Club in April (reported in this issue). The members who were slow to give in their adhesion to the cultivation of vegetables, fruits, &c., succumbed to a man in the presence of, and by the taste of the rich supply of garden productions served by their host. We wish the club could have seen the strawberries Mr. Samuel Gamble brought to this office on Tuesday, not single specimens, but baskets of them, some double, triple, and the most of them nearly as large as hen's eggs. We exhorted him to continue his efforts and not stop till he reaches at least the size of lemons. Think how many to fill the basket? and what fun to gather them. That sort will sell by the gallon and the peck so readily, or by the piece—say 4 for 10—and if you had a quarter of an acre (or a small plot and a little donkey would do all the work. But the idea is only limited by personal ambition and can be extended to other berries, grapes, peaches, plums, pears, apples, etc., etc. A man determined to do anything will inform himself and act with decision of purpose. We don't think either of our friends Donoghue or Byers would do well at picking berries on a hot day, but have never a doubt either of them could supervise the work on several acres. Why not as well raise one or two hundred bushels of onions as but one or two bushels in a season?

Trouble Ahead. When the appetite fails, and sleep grows restless and unrefreshing, there is trouble ahead. The digestive organs, when healthy, crave food, the nervous system, when vigorous and tranquil, gives its possessor no uneasiness at night. A tonic, to be effective, should not be a mere agent, nor are the nerves to be strengthened and soothed by the unaided action of a sedative or narcotic. What is required is a medicine which invigorates the stomach, and promotes assimilation of food by the system, by which means the effects of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a physical organism, are strengthened. These are the effects of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine whose reputation is founded firmly in public confidence, and which physicians command for its tonic, ant-bilious and other properties. It is used with the best results in fever and ague, rheumatism, kidney and uterine weakness, and other maladies.

FARMERS' CLUB MEETING.

MAY 7, 1887.—The Blue Mountain Farmers' Club met at the residence of D. S. Gillelan. Roll called, and all present except G. G. Byers, H. F. Maxell and Wm. S. Guthrie, who were fined. Minutes of the preceding meeting read and adopted. The subject, "Can gardening and small fruits be made profitable?" was generally discussed.

John Donoghue opened the discussion by saying, it was a big question, and that farmers should not take much interest in it. He is fond of all kinds of vegetables and could have them at very little cost if he would just attend to them, and they are always profitable. Farmers should pay more attention to it themselves, and not leave it entirely to the women. He would recommend practical gardening, such as asparagus, cabbage, celery, &c., that by so doing we could raise more than one half our farms than we do now off of the whole of them. Fruit culture would pay us much better than gardening, if we would have our farms set out in fruit trees, such as plums, quinces and peach trees, the latter to be of a late quality.

J. W. Troxell, said we should devote more of our time to the raising of vegetables and fruits. He never works in the garden himself, but has men to spade it, and do the cultivation with a horse. We should have our gardens long and narrow that we can work them with a horse, manual labor is too expensive. If we would raise more vegetables and do away with so much animal flesh, it would be much better and more healthy for our families. He does not see how we could make it profitable to market; that we cannot compete with the Eastern shore men. Trucking is also very tedious, this stooping and picking is very laborious and expensive. If we could raise late fruits and get them into market it might be made profitable, but he even doubts it then, but the time has come when we have to go to mixed farming, that the raising of grain does not remunerate. In conclusion he would ask if there was any remedy to make damson trees bear, he has tried everything he knows and also his quinces will not mature but remain knobby and scrubby.

A. Weybright also thought we should pay more attention to raising vegetables, that there was a time long ago, when we might have made some money out of peaches, but now so many persons have got at it that there is nothing in it. A. H. Maxell, tends the garden himself and intends to keep it clean, he has also about three acres of land that he intends farming himself, and wishes to know from the Club what he can put in it that will pay him the best.

L. P. Shriver said he raises a considerable quantity of vegetables, that every person should pay attention to them; tomatoes are edible any time of the year. He raises a great many potatoes and always plants them early. They yield better, and that raising potatoes is profitable.

J. R. Ohler never worked in the garden till this spring and does not like it. He thinks the raising of vegetables and fruit would not be profitable except for family use.

Prof. J. B. Kerschner said we have a home market at our tables for our vegetables, they tend to give us a healthy change of diet, we must have vegetables from the fact they are essential to our health. It is an absolute necessity that we have such things, and that the raising of them would be profitable. We have berries, why not convert them into jelly, everything of this kind has become so adulterated that people are afraid to buy them in our public markets. It would bring a remuneration to us and also to the merchant who handles them.

W. S. Guthrie admitted that he is a poor farmer and a worse gardener, he thinks we should raise enough for home use, but it would not be profitable to raise for sale. He thinks that small fruits could be made profitable.

S. G. Ohler knows by experience that to be without vegetables is hard living. He has his garden long and narrow and works it with a horse he thinks raising peaches pays when they bring fifty cents a bushel, at home, that it is better than raising wheat at seventy-five cents a bushel if we would make peach raising a business and ship them fresh it would pay.

D. S. Gillelan says, it is certainly profitable to raise vegetables and fruits. He would rather quit raising wheat, than give up his garden stock. He likes to work in the garden and does it with a horse. He does not think it would pay to raise these things for sale, only for family use.

R. E. Hockensmith, does not think that raising these things for sale outside of home consumption would be profitable, from the fact, that we cannot compete with other sections of the country in getting them into the market early. The first fruit and vegetables always demand the highest price. Later, prices decline, and continue so to do until it barely pays the shipping. Hence he does not see how it could be made profitable, especially being a distance from the market.

President Jos. Byers said, he never worked much in the garden, but that it is profitable to raise vegetables for home use, and that we do not use enough vegetables, and too much strong meat; we pay considerable Doctor bills which might be saved if we would use more vegetables, and not so much strong meat, there are millions of dollars worth of potatoes used in our large cities. We can raise them just as well as they do in Maine, and it would be profitable. Peach growing late would be profitable if we should raise them, and we can do it just along our mountain, there is no better land in any country adapted to the growing of fruit. He is in favor of making jelly and selling it pure to our home merchants, and let them introduce it.

At this point the good Hostess announced dinner. Though there was considerable discussion before as to the profitability of raising fruit, when they gathered around the well filled tables, and especially before they left them, there was not a dissenting voice, even those who a few moments before maintained that it was not profitable, admitted squarely they were beaten, besides the many other things to tempt the appetite, there was a variety of the different kinds of fruit, which was much enjoyed by the Club. We must not forget Anna, the young daughter of our host, who, to show her appreciation of the farmers and that they were heartily welcome at her father's residence, formed a large wreath with her own hands, and hung it above the entrance door, upon it was produced in large letters "Welcome Farmers."

Those words certainly produced an effect on the Club, inasmuch as it did not get through with the business of the afternoon session in time to go home before supper. Just before the President called the Club to order after dinner, Prof. J. B. Kerschner's son, Elzathun, sung and played a piece composed by himself for the benefit of the Club, he was loudly applauded.

The Club was again called to order, when Robert Shriver offered a young Jersey Bull, belonging to B. F. Shriver, of Westminster, to this Club for sale. Moved and seconded that we pay the communication of Mr. Shriver on the table. John Donoghue made a stirring address relative to the proprietor as a farmer. Moved and seconded that we appoint a committee of three to consider the Creamery question, the President appointed D. S. Gillelan, S. G. Ohler and A. Weybright. Moved and seconded, that we appoint a committee to consider the Phosphate question. The President appointed D. S. Gillelan, J. W. Troxell and J. S. Motter. The Club gave a vote of thanks to Rev. Dr. Higgs, through Prof. J. B. Kerschner, for his kindness in sending us several copies of the Agricultural Report of Pennsylvania. Moved that we meet at the residence of J. R. Ohler on Saturday, June 4th, 1887. Subject "Inquiry." Adjourned. R. E. HOCKENSMITH, Secretary. J. S. MOTTER, Assistant Secretary.

Brilliant Wedding at Niantic, Illinois. Miss Millie Seelig, daughter of Mr. Amanda Seelig, was married on Thursday evening, May 26th, 1887, at Niantic to Mr. Frank H. Hobs, of Emmitsburg, (son of Mr. Joseph Hobs), lately residing in Omaha, Nebraska. The church was crowded with friends of the bride. The bridal party entered at half past 8 o'clock, and advanced up the center aisle to the strains of the Mendelssohn wedding march, played by Miss Linda Kizer. First came four little maids—Annie Nottelman, Lucy Hall, and Mande and Ruth Seelig, followed in turn by Walter Pritchett and Miss Ida Shepherd, George Wacker and Miss Ella Dingman, the bride and groom. Messrs. Will Masters, and Thos. Pritchett, officiated as ushers. At the conclusion of the ceremony the party were driven to the residence of Mrs. Seelig, where the wedding supper was served. Covers were laid for fifty guests. The bride was attired in a very pretty dress of soft white material, trimmed with lace. She wore a corsage bouquet. The bridesmaids were similarly attired. The bride received many handsome presents. Mr. and Mrs. Hobs departed for Omaha, where they will go to housekeeping in their own home. Mr. Hobs is a prominent contractor and builder of Omaha.

Our subscription list has had a continually enlarged course in the year just ended. We never parade such matters and take it as a hopeful indication, of further advances in the time to come. Our friends may also be encouraged to lend a helping hand to that end. There is always work ahead in our business, and scarcely any end to the developments it may reach. The question is simply one of the means to promote the highest efficiency; additional machinery, the fullest supplies of materials, complete furniture, &c., make up the requirements of a printing office. Thus any one can see the need of prompt payment in what relates to it, that every emergency may be met. Our's is a home-made paper, and we have just grounds to expect the work of our community in its line. The inducements we claim, are the lowest rates, for the quality of our work, and the certainty of its execution as promised and the general absence of expense in its delivery. Specimens of work always on exhibition at this office, and prices given to applicants. Always the lowest, and equal justice to all.

Catterpillars.

Just now is the time to begin the destruction of these pests. Nip the evil in the bud; break up the nests while you can, and by every means possible. Run a small iron rod into a corner and fasten the rod to a pole; thrust the cob near by the nest and wind the latter onto the cob; if this don't effect the object, pour coal oil over the cob and burn out the settlement. Some persons fire gun powder through the nests; this adds fun and noise to the work. Let no guilty one escape!

List of Patents.

The following patents were granted to citizens of Maryland, bearing date May 31, '87 reported expressly for this paper by Louis Bagger & Co., Mechanical Experts and Solicitors of Patents, Washington, D. C. Advice Free.

John Cornelius, Oakland, stamp-extractor.

H. R. Robbins, Baltimore, steam-heater for railway cars.

Charles Selden, Baltimore, multiple-telegraph system.

Jail Delivery Frustrated.

A plot was discovered in the Westminster jail on Monday night in time to prevent the escape of several prisoners. Mrs. Lynch, wife of the sheriff, heard a noise and went to the gate, where John Bowers informed her that some of the prisoners were trying to dig out of the jail. With the aid of a stove-raker they had one of the stones under the window in the closet nearly out. Those concerned in the scheme, it is said, were Augustus Miller, George Taylor and W. W. McFarland. All have been convicted of larceny. McFarland is from Baltimore, and was connected with the robbery of cars on the B. and O. R. R.—Sun.

The Remarkable Cures. Which have been effected by Hood's Sarsaparilla are sufficient proof that this medicine does possess peculiar curative power. In the severest cases of scrofula or salt rheum, when other preparations had been powerless, the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla has brought about the happiest results. The case of Miss Sarah C. Whittier, of Lowell, Mass., who suffered terribly from scrofulous sores; that of Charles A. Roberts, of East Wilson, N. Y., who had thirteen abscesses on his face and neck; that of Willie Duff, of Walpole, Mass., who had hip disease and scrofula so bad that physicians said he could not recover, are a few of the many instances in which wonderful cures were effected by this medicine.

STORY OF A PISTOL.

BY ELLA EDWARDS.

When I was about twelve years old I decided that I was old enough to own and carry a pistol. Other boys not as tall as I was could boast the ownership of a pistol; so one evening, as father was drawing on his gloves, I astonished him by asking permission to buy a pistol.

"A pistol! Whom do you want to shoot?"

"No one, sir. I only want to learn to shoot properly."

"What do you call proper shooting, my son?"

"Hit what you aim at, of course."

"Indeed, some people hit things they do not aim at."

"Certainly, but I should try to avoid blunders."

"My son, I don't think you have any real need of a pistol."

"But, father, suppose I should meet a mad dog or a—gorilla."

Father smiled. "John," said he, "I am a great deal older than you, and I have never met either a mad dog or a gorilla; whenever I do I will get you a pistol, not before."

Where there is a will there is a way. My will was good enough, if I could only contrive the way; so I kept planning over and over how to get the coveted treasure. After I went to bed I lay awake thinking of nothing but a pistol. I had been in bed about thirty minutes when there came a rap at my door; supposing it was mother, I said "Come in." What was my astonishment to see a pistol walk in. I rubbed my eyes to assure myself that I was not asleep; then I sat up in bed.

"How do you do?" said the pistol, walking up and seating himself on my bed. I stammered out something about not expecting company.

"Of course, it is an unusual hour for callers, but knowing how much you wanted a pistol, I felt it my duty to come immediately."

"I believe I prefer a dumb pistol," I faltered.

"Ha! ha! one that won't fire, with a gorilla within two feet of you."

"I—I mean, sir, one that can't walk off and leave me, you know."

"Well," said the pistol, "I did not suppose you would want me; no one does when he hears my story. It is a very sad one, and I never tell it to any one but boys."

And without further delay he began: "When I was quite young, a very foolish father bought me for his son John. He was about your age and size. He was very kind to me, handled me tenderly, kept me well polished, fed me well, took me with him almost everywhere he went, except to school. This the principal positively forbade; but as my education was born with me all completed, I did not care about going to school. I was allowed to go to all the horse-races, fairs, circuses, etc. I even went to church once when the twins were christened, and when Miss Bess was married I occupied a place on the mantel where I could see the wedding ceremony. Ah! those were happy days."

Here the pistol stopped as if unable to continue.

"Will you please finish your story Mr. Pistol," I ventured to remark.

"Ah, yes; I was thinking of the last time I accompanied my young master. It was the night of the Fourth of July. We went out to have a good time. All the boys were out sending up sky-rockets, etc. In the midst of the fun, two of the boys got into a quarrel about some fire-crackers. My master was called up for a witness. One of the boys disputed his word; this brought on another quarrel. My master called the boy a liar, whereupon the boy struck my master; then, oh, the horror of that moment!—my master drew me out of his pocket, and before I could utter a remonstrance, fired! There was one piercing shriek. The boy fell dead at my master's feet. Then the horrible cry of murder rang out. My master dropped me and fled for his life. I tried to conceal myself under the sidewalk, but I was found and brought into court as a witness against my loved young master. I was forced to speak the truth, and after a long trial the jury brought in a verdict of 'Guilty.' Oh, it makes me heart-sick whenever I think of it. How white my young master was, and when the verdict was rendered he fainted. Then the father cried out: 'Oh, it was all my fault. If I had not bought that cursed pistol! Oh, my poor boy! Then everybody began to cry. That was the last time I ever saw my beloved master. Since then I have had several owners. The next one shot himself in the leg by his careless handling of me. The next one fired me off accidentally in the house and scared the baby into fits. My next owner, in trying to kill a chicken for dinner, shot his neighbor's pet dog, and had to pay ten dollars to keep it out of a lawsuit. The next man who got possession of me came near killing his wife, supposing her to be a burglar. Just now I don't belong to anybody; my last owner lost me after paying eight dollars for me. I was born an unlucky creature. I don't think I was ever any real use to anybody. On the contrary, I have been the direct cause of a great deal of trouble. I have caused the death of one person, imprisoned one, wounded a third, threw the baby into fits, killed a pet dog, made enemies of friends, narrowly escaped killing a man's wife, cheated a man out of eight dollars, and have never had a chance to kill a mad dog or a gorilla. I'm a dangerous companion for boys. Parents have no business to buy pistols for the careless handling of passionate boys."

Just here somebody gave me a vigorous shake and mother said: "How sound you do sleep, John. Will you never wake up this morning?"

When I went down father asked me if I still wanted a pistol. I told him no; I'd rather have a tin rattle.

"But if you should meet a mad dog or a gorilla, what could you do with a tin rattle?"

"About as much as I would with a pistol; throw it down and run."

I am now forty years old. I never did own a pistol; never had any use for one. I have never met either a gorilla or a mad dog. I'm thankful that Mr. Pistol came and told me the story of his adventuresome life, or I might have owned a pistol and been a murderer.—The Housekeeper.

Remedying a Fine.

An Irish weaver just imported from the Emerald Isle, took to his employer, in Kilmarnock, Scotland, lately, the first cloth he had woven since his arrival.

Upon examination, his employer detected two holes in the piece, within half an inch of each other, and told him he must pay a fine of a shilling for each hole.

"And, please yer honor, is it be the number uv holes, or be the size of them, that ye put the fine on us?" said Paddy.

"By the number of holes, to be sure."

"And a big hole and a small hole is the same price?"

"Yes."

"Then give me a hould uv that piece," replied Paddy.

It was handed to him, when, with his fingers, he deliberately tore the two small holes into one, triumphantly exclaiming:

"Be the piper o' Moses, an that'll save me a shilling anyhow."

Attractive Homes.

There is use in beauty. It makes home attractive, its exterior more respectable, our lives happier, our disposition sweeter, and our social and domestic intercourse more refined. By all means plant some little thing of grace to temper the rugged surroundings of the front yard. Its silent, though eloquent language will speak to the visitor or the passer-by a word of eulogy for you. The least flower or shrub will be some attraction; a curved path winding between trees to the house, mound of stones and shells, with the ivy trailing over them, the flowering shrub or the turf of fern, all such things are attractive, and form a pleasing object for the eye of even the most indifferent beholder.—American Farmer.

PUFF PUDDING.—Beat six eggs, add six spoonfuls of milk and five of flour, butter some small pans, pour in the batter, and bake them quickly; turn out and eat with butter, sugar and nutmeg.

Humorous.

THE position of a Judge is an exceedingly trying one.

A LAWYER may not be at all fastidious in dressing, but no one likes to come out in a new suit any better than he does.

A MAN with a wheelbarrow on the sidewalk is not very popular, but he generally carries everything before him.

A LITTLE girl in a primary school was asked to tell the difference between the words "foot" and "feet." She said: "One foot is a foot, and a whole lot of foots is a feet."—Harper's Bazar.

"JOHNSON, who do you take after in height, anyhow?" "W'y, I doan know, I'm suah. Hain't none ob my folks tall 'cept dat oldes' boy ob mine, an' recon I mus' take arter him."—Harper's Bazar.

It is related of Dr. Franklin that when he was last in London, he was walking one day with a pair of spectacles on belonging to a friend. He kept them on, pretending they would help his eyes. Passing along a porter ran against him.

"D—d your spectacles!" said the coarse fellow. Whereupon the Doctor, laughing heartily, said—

"There, my friend, you see what I said was true; for if I had not had the spectacles on, he would have d—d my eyes."

Pat and the Cart.

A Hibernian, fresh from the Green Isle, having sufficient means to provide himself with a horse and cart, (the latter kind he probably had not seen before,) went to work on a public road.

Being directed by the overseer to move a pile of stones near by, and deposit them in a gully at the side of the road, he forthwith loaded his cart; drove up to the place, and had nearly finished throwing out his load "by hand," when the "boss" told him that was not the way—that he must tilt or dump his load all at once.

Paddy replied that he would know better next time.

After loading again, he drove up to the chasm, put his shoulder under the hub of the wheel, and upset cart, horse and all into the gully.

Scratching his head, and looking doubtfully at his struggling horse below him, he observed that it was a mighty expeditious way, but, "Begorra, it must be mighty trying to the baste."

The Old Man Had to Wait.

On a Michigan Central train the other day, as the "butcher" came into the car with a basket of oranges, an old man, whose wife sat beside him, was very anxious to buy half a dozen, but she waved the boy on with:

"He can't have 'em. He never eats one without the juice runs down on his shirt bosom."

"Shoo! but I want two or three, Hanner," he protested.

"You behave yourself. You want to get cramps and raise a great row, don't you?"

The boy soon returned with boxed figs, and the old man beckoned to him and began to lick his chops.

"Pass right on," said the woman to the boy. "He hain't eat a fig for thirty years, and I guess he can go thirty more."

The boy passed on and returned with peanuts. The old man was ready for him, but the wife protested:

"He can't eat 'em. It's been ten years since he had a tooth in his head, and he'd have to swallow 'em whole. No, Reuben, you let peanuts alone."

Twenty minutes later the boy was back with candy packages in which there were prizes, and the old man exclaimed:

"I'll hev one o' them or—bust!"

"Then you'll bust," she replied, as she motioned the boy to pass on.

"It's agin the Lord and the law to take chances, an' you wouldn't g't nothing now."

"But I'm going to buy suthin', Hanner."

"Well, you wait. You can't have ice cream nor lemonade, and if he comes with popcorn or butter-milk don't you dare to raise a fuss. Just you wait. We'll be in Detroit at 6 o'clock, and then if there happens to be a grocery handy by, you can buy six herrings for five cents. Herrings is something to stand by you, Reuben, and the heads and tails will keep months away and are good for warts. We've got 'em old for gowgaws, Reuben. What we want is the wuth of our money."—Detroit Free Press.
