

SATURDAY, NOV. 12, 1887.

THE ELECTION IN OTHER STATES.

New York has gone Democratic by the largest vote since 1882.

Virginia will have a two-thirds Democratic majority in both houses of the Legislature.

In Ohio, Governor Foraker, Republican has been re-elected by a majority from 23,000 to 25,000.

THAT our readers may form an estimate of the intense work of the recent political campaign in New York. The following from The World of New York City, a journal that largely represented the defeated cause, is given.

A GREAT VICTORY.

The Democrats in this State have achieved a great victory—one that will beyond doubt have a most important bearing upon the Presidential contest. In spite of the George Labor movement, in spite of the very quiet Democratic canvass in the State, the entire Democratic State ticket is elected by a plurality which will probably reach that of Gov. Hill two years ago. It seems that the German Republican vote very largely came over to the Democratic side, and with the increased Prohibition vote much more than made up the disaffection caused by the Labor movement.

Considering that Mr. George received 50,000 votes in this city and Brooklyn alone, this is an extraordinary victory and one that Democrats may justly be proud of.

THE defeat of the call for a Constitutional Convention, precludes complaints for paying the taxes that should be paid by sundry corporate bodies now exempt therefor and ratifies the continuance all and singular the defects of the constitution as it is, and at the same time declares against its amendment, for the idea of Legislative amendments has been known beforehand to be impracticable. There were none but the most meagre attempts made to enlighten the people on the question, and the views against were simply personal considerations.

THE CROWN PRINCE'S THROAT.

The condition of Germany's Crown Prince is again eliciting great interest in Europe and elsewhere, and his present illness is regarded to be alarming. A new growth in his throat puts medical science near the end of its resources, and the Prince is considered a doomed man.

LOUIS LINGG one of the condemned anarchists recently in the Chicago jail, and who was to have been hung to-day, (Friday) blew his head nearly to pieces with a fulminating cap whose fuse he lighted with a candle about 9 o'clock, a. m., on Thursday. The remains presented a most ghastly aspect.

GOVERNOR OGLESBY of Illinois has commuted the sentences of the condemned Anarchists, Fielden and Schwab to imprisonment in the penitentiary for life.

SUMMARY OF NEWS.

It is virtually settled that Rev. Charles A. Berry, of England, is to be called to Plymouth church, Brooklyn.

Do you suffer with catarrh? You can be cured if you take Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier. Sold by all druggists.

THE Supreme Court of California has declared constitutional the ordinance of the town of Pasadena, Los Angeles county, which prohibits liquor saloons.

It is reported from Washington that Don M. Dickinson, of Michigan, will be appointed Postmaster-General, and Mr. Vilas transferred to the Interior Department.

THERE is a water famine along the B. & C. Railroad and many of the tanks have gone dry. Gondolas are being "chucked" with oakum for the hauling of water for locomotives at a number of stations.

ACCORDING to an estimate prepared at the Executive Department, based on the number of taxables in 1886, the population of Pennsylvania is 5,074,527, an increase of about 800,000 as compared with the census of 1880.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP.

Special to the Emmitsburg Chronicle.

Considerable attention is just now being directed to the Australian system of voting, which is said to be a success in every respect and renders fraud impossible. "This system does away with primaries by substituting a nomination by the voters when they register, each one then signifying his preference for candidates; when a stated number of voters for one person are registered, he becomes a candidate. Ballots are printed at the public expense containing the names of all candidates thus presented, and at the polls the voter erases the name of all except the candidates he desires to vote for. Secrecy of ballot and a system of checks on counting are other features of the plan."

A Treasury Department statement shows a net increase of $13,000,000 in circulation during October and a net increase of $14,000,000 cash in the Treasury.

Complaints of discrimination against the mercantile interests of New Orleans by the Vicksburg, Shreveport and Pacific Railroad in favor New York and Philadelphia shippers has been filed. It is said that freight charges are ninety-nine cents per hundred to Monroe, La., 310 miles, and eighty-two cents to New York, 1100 miles.

Fourth Auditor Shelly, in his annual report to the Secretary of the Treasury, calls particular attention to the prevailing method of the Navy Department in making payments on contracts, by which disbursing officers are required to pay out large sums of money on public bills, on which no action can be taken by the accounting officers until the vouchers come before them. This is usually several months after the payments have been made. He says that in case the accounting officers should be of the opinion that the payment was illegal, there is nothing to be done except suspend the voucher and hold the disbursing officer responsible, and since he has paid this money upon the order of the Secretary of the Navy, it would be arbitrary and unreasonable to require that he be made to refund it.

In view of the possible losses that may fall upon the Government from that system of payments, and the embarrassments to disbursing and accounting officers that must inevitably arise, and for the proper settlement of these accounts in accordance with the law, the Auditor suggests that steps be taken to have all demands for payments under contracts in the navy presented to his office for settlement, and that payments by disbursing officers be restricted to necessary current expenses, such as pay of officers and men, supplies needed for immediate use, expenditures on shipboard and purchases in foreign ports.

The Auditor suggests that accounts of the public property of the navy in the hands of officers of the navy and marine corps be rendered to the Fourth Auditor for settlement, and that he also be charged with the duty of auditing the disbursements on account of the naval observatory, hydrographic bureau and naval almanac.

The chief of ordnance, Gen. Benet, has made his annual report to the Secretary of War. He says that during the year ended June 30th, 1887, there were manufactured at the national armory 41,106 rifles and carbines. He advocates the adoption of a simple small bore magazine gun, but regrets that up to the present time no satisfactory arm of this description has been made. The improvement in marksmanship in the army is, he says, subject for congratulation, and the increased sum disbursed for ammunition and target material is money well spent.

He favors the adoption of devices contrived by Assistant Adjutant General Kelton for the safety and convenience of the mounted cavalymen, and the provisions of law making increased appropriations for putting the militia on a proper footing are, he says, wise.

Considerable attention is paid in the report to seacoast defenses, and mortar batteries are recommended as being the cheapest and most easily constructed of the many schemes devised. The Zalkinski dynamite gun and the Stevens dynamite shell are both highly recommended.

ALIC.

THE receipts of the Government for October amounted to $31,803,172, and the expenditures to $12,474,652, leaving an excess of receipts of $19,328,520. The decrease in the public debt for October is estimated at $14,050,000.

ROBERT T. SMITH, a farmer of opulence in Erie county, was roused early Saturday morning by the ravages of a pack of sheep dogs. With his son he started out with guns to rescue his flock. Stumbling over a log he fell and, discharging his gun, shot himself through the body. He died instantly.

THE safe of Baker & Co., merchants, of Winchester, Va., was blown open by burglars Saturday morning, and four hundred dollars in money and a number of valuable papers stolen. It is supposed the thieves secreted themselves in the warehouse before closing. A reward of five hundred dollars is offered for their apprehension.

THE universal encomiums showered upon Mrs. Cleveland form not only a gratifying laurel wreath for the President's wife but for American womanhood in general. The qualities which have won admiration are her unflinching good temper, affability and intelligence. It is indeed a happy circumstance that the leading lady of the land should embody, in so marked and charming a manner, the traits that have always been associated with American womanhood.—Jewish Messenger

THE purchase of a site for the new Protestant Episcopal Cathedral in New York was closed on Monday, the contract being signed by Bishop Potter and the Rev. Dr. Robert J. Nevins for the trustees. The property comprises three city blocks lying between One Hundred and Tenth and One Hundred and Thirtieth streets and Ninth and Tenth avenues. The price agreed upon is $850,000, of which $350,000 was paid down in cash. It is expected that the new Cathedral will cost between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000. Nearly one million dollars has already been subscribed. Mr. Wm. Astor sent his check for $100,000 a few days ago. The idea is to have the new Cathedral something after the style of Westminster Abbey. The committee on architecture, of which the Rev. Morgan Dix, rector of Trinity parish, is chairman, will procure plans as soon as possible.

THOMAS USTICK WALTER, LL. D., the celebrated architect, died on the 30th ult., aged eighty-three. His first important work was the new County Prison in 1831. In 1833 he made the original designs for Girard College. He was sent to Europe by the Building Commission of the institution, and on his return took charge of the college buildings, which were completed in 1847. His next great public work was the breakwater at Lagayra for the Venezuelan Government. In 1851 his design for the extension of the National Capitol was adopted. He was afterwards appointed Government architect and removed to Washington, where he remained until 1865. While in Washington he designed the extension of the Patent Office, Treasury, and Post Office buildings, the dome of the Capitol, the Congressional Library, and the Government Hospital for the Insane. During his private practice in this city he designed St. George's Hall, the Preston Retreat, and the Biddle and Cowperthwaite places on the Delaware River. At the time of his death he was Architect MacArthur's assistant in the erection of the Public Buildings.

The New Princeton Review for November, 1887, offers its readers a varied assortment of literary entertainment. The opening article on "Shelley," by Charles Dudley Warner, treats the much-criticized poet with more fairness of judgment than he has usually received, and makes the reader much better acquainted with the man, than he is likely to be from a study of his writings; George W. Hodge discusses the religious problem of the time, in "A Scheme for Church Reunion," whilst "The American Idea," as presented by George C. Eggleston, claims serious and earnest attention; J. Durand gives "American History in the French Archives," and William Nast, "Recollections of David Friedrich Strauss;" Marvin R. Vincent discusses "Dean Plumptre's Dante," and Grace King entertains the reader with "The Drama of Criticisms, Notes, and Reviews," and the American, Foreign, Literary and Scientific Record, make up the contents of the number. Published six times a year, by A. C. Armstrong & Son, New York. Terms $3 a year in advance.

Scribner's Magazine for November opens with an article on "Wagner and Scenic Art," by Wm. F. Apthorp, beautifully illustrated; "Seth's Brother's Wife," by Harold Frederic, is concluded; D. A. Sargent, M. D., furnishes an elaborately illustrated article on "The Physical Characteristics of the Athlete," there is a short story by Rebecca H. Davis entitled "Tirar Y Sult," Henry M. Field takes the reader on a trip through northern Africa, "In Grand Kabylia," and Olive Risley Seward relates "A Diplomatic Episode," which will be used with interest by those who care for governmental diplomacy and its results, whilst "The Viking Ship," by John S. White, if it does not furnish much reliable information in regard to the old Viking Myths, still shows the reader a great deal that he did not know before, and brings the dim and shadowy past into striking contrast with the bold, brilliant masterful work of our own time; Francis A. Walker discusses on the important question, "What Shall We Tell the Working Classes?" and a story by Margaret Crosby, "A Complete Misunderstanding," with several poems and other reading matter, make up the contents. Charles Scribner's Sons, Publishers, 745 and 745 Broadway, N. Y.

Catarrh

May affect any portion of the body where the mucous membrane is found. But catarrh of the head is by far the most common, and the most liable to be neglected. It cannot be cured by local applications. Being a constitutional disease it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, working through the blood, eradicates the impurity which causes and promotes the catarrh, and soon effects a permanent cure. At the same time Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up the whole system, and makes one feel renewed in strength.

"I used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh, and received great relief and benefit from it. The catarrh was very disagreeable, especially in the winter, causing constant discharge from my nose, ringing noises in my ears, and pains in the back of my head."

"The effort to clear my head in the morning by hawking and spitting was painful. Hood's Sarsaparilla gave me relief immediately, while in time I was entirely cured. I am never without the medicine in my house as I think it is worth its weight in gold."

"I was troubled with that annoying disease, nasal catarrh, and never found relief till I took Hood's Sarsaparilla." J. J. Bourne, Markburg, Ky. N. B. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla.

THE November number of The Century Magazine, which came to hand at the usual time, but was not noticed in consequence of our columns being over-crowded, is the beginning of a new volume, and as such, if taken as a sample of what is to be expected during the year, cannot fail to be satisfactory. The well known likeness of General Washington, which forms the frontispiece, is a fitting introduction to Mrs. Burton Harrison's article on "The Home and Haunts of Washington," which forms an important part of the reading matter, and is profusely illustrated; as is also "Mount Vernon as it is," by Mrs. Sophie B. Herrick; Kenyon Cox gives an account of the training and works of "Augustus Saint Gaudens," and Mrs. Schuyler van Rensselaer follows with a notice of his Lincoln Monument in Chicago; "The Graysons," a story by Edward Eggleston, is commenced, and George Kennan furnishes "The Last Appeal of the Russian Liberals." "The History of Abraham Lincoln" is continued; a new story of George W. Cable entitled "An' Larpe," is commenced, and "Sugar-Making in Louisiana" is described by Eugene V. Smalley; "College Composites," "Grant's Last Campaign," a story entitled "A Little Diner," by William H. Bishop, Topics of the Time, Open Letters, together with a large and interesting collection of Brice-Brace, make up the contents of this very attractive number.

Ringed Noises.

In the ears, sometimes a roaring, buzzing sound, are caused by catarrh, that exceedingly disagreeable and very common disease. Loss of smell or hearing also result from catarrh. Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier, is a peculiarly successful remedy for this disease, which it cures by purifying the blood. If you suffer from catarrh, try Hood's Sarsaparilla, the peculiar medicine.

From the Gettysburg Compiler.

The avenues on the battlefield have become so numerous that the Memorial Association has decided to call them after the leading officers who commanded in the various localities.

The hussos on the corn are thinner, the golden rod is yellower, and the lichens are darker in color this year than usual, all of which are signs of a mild winter. These will all go for nothing, however, if the goose-bone is opaque instead of clear.

Mr. Henry Stine, of the firm of Stine & Bro., at York, last week, went to his room to change his clothing, and was soon after found to be in a dying condition. When a doctor arrived, life had fled. Apoplexy is believed to have caused death. He was 33 years of age and unmarried.

Mr. George Shryock, of Liberty township, husked 210 bushels of corn and tied up the fodder in two days, on the farm of Mr. Philip Brown, in Hamilton township.

One day last week, on the farm of John F. Sharetts, in Cumberland township, John F. Sharetts, Wm. H. Sharetts, Henry Eyer, Jacob S. Sheets, Albert S. Wolf and Joseph McKinney husked 504 bushels of corn from sun-up to sun-down and tied the fodder.

Whilst walking over a street crossing at Chambersburg on Thursday night, Mr. W. H. McKinley, the well-known proprietor of the Montgomery House, fell and broke his left leg. For several years he has been lame from the effects of breaking the bones in his right leg.

James C. Reed, of Mount Alto, met with a terrible accident Monday morning. He is in the employ of the Mount Alto Iron Company, and was engaged at Pond Bank. While working about the ore washer the right sleeve of his coat was caught by the machinery and his arm dragged into it. In a second almost his forearm was crushed and bruised terribly. Amputation was necessary.

let that cold of yours run on. You think it is a light thing. But it may run into catarrh, or into pneumonia, or consumption.

Catarrh is disgusting. Pneumonia is dangerous. Consumption is death itself. The breathing apparatus must be kept healthy and clear of all obstructions and offensive matter. Otherwise there is trouble ahead.

All the diseases of these parts, head, nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs, can be delightfully and entirely cured by the use of Boschee's German Syrup. If you don't know this already, thousands and thousands of people can tell you. They have been cured by it, and "know how it is, themselves." Bottle only 75 cents. Ask any druggist.

The Election.

The election passed off in this place in a very quiet and business like manner, without any incident to detract in any wise from its just and fair conduct. The day was as calm and genial as the Indian Summer can produce and favored the polling of a large vote. The total registration of this District foots up 800 persons qualified to vote, and 741 votes were polled. As the tickets contained many names and the "scratching" was more than commonly extended, the officials at the polls were occupied in the counting until 2 o'clock on Wednesday morning. The following presents the votes cast for the different candidates:

For Comptroller—Baughman, dem., 421; Dixon, rep., 294.
For Attorney-General—Whyte, dem., 431; Miller, rep., 287.
For Chief Judge—McSherry, dem., 440; Hinks, rep., 277.
For State Senator—Shafer, dem., 428; Urner, rep., 294.

For a Convention, 299.

Against a Convention, 381.

Blanks, 63.

COUNTY RETURNS.

Even at this late hour (Friday noon) it is impossible to give the exact result of the election throughout the county. Capt. James McSherry's election for Chief Judge of 6th Judicial Circuit is assured. On Thursday it was conceded that the Republicans had elected their State Senator, State's Attorney, Sheriff, three County Commissioners and two Judges of the Orphan's Court. The Democrats claimed three and perhaps all the Delegate ticket, two County Commissioners, and one of the Judges of the Orphan's Court.

A report is in circulation to the effect that the vote of Woodville district has been protested.

STATE ELECTION.

The entire Democratic State ticket is elected by a majority estimated at from 10,000 to 12,000.

BALTIMORE CITY.

In Baltimore City 64,279 votes were polled for Governor, and Jackson had 6,750 plurality over Brooks. Whyte had 480 more votes than Jackson.

HOW THE LEGISLATURE STANDS.

The Maryland Legislature will stand, in the Senate, 22 democrats and 4 republicans; the House of Delegates will consist of 70 democrats and 21 republicans.

ADAMS COUNTY, PA.

The Adams County, Pa., election resulted in the success of the Democratic ticket, except that Jacob W. Taughnigh, republican, is elected sheriff by 219 majority.

Rev. Wm. H. Chapman, Pastor of M. E. Church, Georgetown, D. C., wrote us:—Having had an opportunity to test the excellent qualities of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, I hesitate not to say, it is the best remedy I have ever used in my family." For cough and whooping cough it is a sure cure.

Keep a Book.

There is often much inconvenience arising between those who borrow articles of use, and those who loan them. System in business always repays those who adopt it. Every farmer and miller and every one who loans anything should keep a borrower's book, and note in it the articles loaned, with date and the time of their return; if anything is missing, reference to the book will prove its location and save further concern in hunting for it. A strict account should be kept even to the most insignificant details or carelessness will invade the record.

A Handy Pocket Atlas.

An attempt to put in pocket size the contents of a large reference Atlas is usually accompanied by rough, inaccurate, and inelegant engraving and printing, but in the New Pocket Atlas of the World, published by Ivison, Blakeman & Co., 753 & 755 Broadway, New York, this is not the fact. Ninety-one Maps containing nearly every geographical point of interest throughout the world, are given, and each is a gem of the engraver's art. Delicately yet distinctly colored, these maps are exquisite illustrations of the best color printing to-day obtainable. While the Maps leave nothing to be desired by way of fullness, they are fully up to date, and show every recent discovery, or change of boundary.

One hundred and twelve pages of terse, well-arranged, and accurate information concerning every important country or state on the globe, follow the maps in this compact volume. In fact, the book is not only a comprehensive Atlas, but also a condensed Gazetteer of the whole world, and all put in an attractive and substantial binding, and sold for fifty cents. On the receipt of this sum the publishers mail it to any address.

THE Christmas number of Scribner's Magazine will contain double the usual number of illustrations, every one of which has been made from a drawing by some well-known and expert artist. A few of those represented are Will H. Low, William Hole, A. R. S. A., E. Swain Gifford, Howard Pyle, E. H. Blashfield, J. W. Alexander, George Foster Barnes, F. Hopkinson Smith and F. S. Church. The price will remain the same as usual—25 cents.

Sanitary Conference.

Dr. C. W. Chancellor, Secretary of the State Board of Health has issued a circular for a Sanitary Conference to be held under the auspices of the State Board of Health in Baltimore City, on Wednesday and Thursday next (16th and 17th of November 1887).

"The object of this conference is to awaken an interest in sanitary matters throughout the State, by bringing together for consultation all who feel an interest in public and personal hygiene, and who desire to diffuse among the people such information as may secure exemption from avoidable causes of disease."

"The authorities of towns, villages and counties, and citizens generally, especially physicians and clergymen, are cordially invited to attend and take part in the deliberations. All local boards of health, medical and pharmaceutical societies, associations of architects, engineers and plumbers, medical and other scientific institutions, railroad and manufacturing corporations, are requested to send representatives."

The Medical and Chirurgical Hall, N. W. Corner of St. Paul and Saratoga streets will be the place of meeting, at the hours of 10 a. m., and 3 p. m. The importance of the gathering cannot be over estimated and all who can should attend. Epidemics are ever hovering over us and the best means to avert their progress should be made known.

A Present For You.

As promised several weeks back, we publish at the top of the first column of this page, an order which will secure a free pattern, worth 25 cents. As this offer will only be made once, our lady readers should take advantage of it.

Prof. Loissette's Memory Discovery.

Prof. Loissette's new system of memory training, taught by correspondence at 237 Fifth Ave., New York, seems to supply a general want. He has had two classes at Yale of 200 each, 350 at Oberlin College, 300 at Norwich, 100 Columbia Law Students, 400 at Wellesley College, and 400 at University of Penn., &c. Such patronage and the endorsement of such men as Mark Twain, Dr. Buckley, Prof. Wm. R. Harper, of Yale &c., place the claim of Prof. Loissette upon the highest ground.

THE election having past with its vilification and dirty slanderous work, the people have a breathing spell in which to try and identify the candidates and others who but recently were so grossly photographed before them; the disappointed hopes and wounded ambition of many can seek comfort in private, and all who can find the wherewithal for thankfulness can now steadily look forward to Thanksgiving Day, so happily located to unite the lately disjointed elements of the social fabric. The world moves on, the victors and the vanquished may eat together.

Fire in Liberty.

Between 11 and 12 o'clock on Thursday morning of last week the one-and-a-half story log house owned by Chas. N. Penn and occupied by his uncle, William M. Penn, was destroyed by fire. The family had left the house early in the morning, and when the fire was discovered it had gained such headway that nothing but a portion of the logs was saved. The entire contents, worth from $75 to $100, were destroyed. There was an insurance of $100 on the house in the Frederick County Mutual, which will nearly cover the loss on the building.—Banner.

Common Sense.

Should be used in attempting to cure that very disagreeable disease, catarrh. As catarrh originates in impurities in the blood, local applications can do no permanent good. The common sense method of treatment is to purify the blood, and for this purpose there is no preparation superior to Hood's Sarsaparilla. That this peculiar medicine does cure catarrh is shown by the many testimonials from people who have found relief upon using it when all others had failed. A book containing statements of cures sent on receipt of two cent stamp, by C. L. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

THE Blue Mountain Farmers Club of this District, occupies an enviable position as an educator and mold of opinion, and its numbers and intelligence enable it to feed the farmer to new methods, and improved conceptions in practical agriculture, and economic improvements generally. To this end its investigations should command the consideration of the people.

The conviction has become settled that the past with its antiquated ways lies buried as to the years it represented, and its mummified state must give place to endeavors to meet the requirements of the present. To this end it is important to study the best methods of applying means to desirable ends. To institute new sources of activity with good judgment, and here the association has a field of influence.

We beg leave to suggest to the club the propriety of investigating the Peach growing business. Across the mountain they claim to have a belt of territory peculiarly favorable for the production of peaches and they are pushing the cultivation of that luscious fruit, with energy and profit. We do not believe in the belt theory, any further than that the grounds in cultivation favor the end in view, and we think thorough investigation will prove that the favoring condition is the absence of ravines, in the orchards, through which the cold winds might freely circulate to the detriment of the trees, and the presence of high ridges which defend them against the concentrated cold of the gorges, and viewing the subject in this light, have no doubt outside of the mountain world prove as favorable for cultivation as the other, if it were undertaken with earnestness and energy, and that our mountain lots would then be in demand.

Our water power also presents a fine field for improvement; get some enterprise started, and others will surely follow. The spirit of enquiry being aroused must produce good results. Earnest efforts discreetly made, are never lost.

Our Roads.

Now is the time for supervisors to begin mending the roads so that they will become compact and solid before the weather gets very wet. There is no use going over them, throwing a little fresh dirt here and there without draining them at all, or fixing any place permanently. The first running rain washes all this loose dirt away or makes a mud hole in the road. A great deal the best plan to pursue if there is not enough money to properly repair the entire road, is to permanently fix the worse places, instead of going over the entire road giving it a "lick and a promise."

Winter Care of Cows.

The arrangement of the barn and yard should be such as to reduce the labor as much as possible. Excessive warmth is not conducive to robustness, health or profit. If a man's horse is kept closed up and heated with stoves to a temperature of eighty degrees, and his food and drink are all taken hot with a view to preventing the effects of the cold and to insure more comfort, the dwellers in that house will become sick or diseased; the impure air will poison the blood; the warmth will relax the skin, dry it and open the pores, and the slightest draft will cause a fit of shivering and induce dangerous colds. It is in precisely such houses that sore throats, diphtheria, scarlet fever, and other diseases are so frequent, while in the house where the windows are thrown open to the breezes, and the cold, brisk, pure air is welcomed, and exercise and health give warmth, fed by the abundant oxygen of the fresh air coursing through the blood, there are health and vigor and comfort. It is the same in the dairy. Pleuro-pneumonia invades those herds which are kept in close, warm, unwholesome stables, and the dreaded tuberculosis finds there its prey; while from the wide airy stable, well ventilated and filled with pure cold air, the well fed cows will emerge to frolic in the snow, and enjoy themselves in the bright sunshine and the crisp air, when the thermometer marks down nearly to zero. Except in stormy weather, the cows should spend at least three or four hours every day in the yard, picking some rough feed and getting water and exercise.—American Agriculturist for November.

Poultry Suggestions for Autumn.

It is a great mistake to crowd too many fowls together in one apartment. A house six by eight feet, with a yard thirty feet square additional, will not accommodate over one dozen fowls. Board floors are better than earth. Board floors are always dry, and can be kept much cleaner and sweeter. An application of slaked lime on the boards is worth a dozen on the ground. If more board floors were used, less disinfectants and remedies would be needed.

What breeds of fowls are the best winter layers? All the hens that moult early, and all the early pullets well fed in the fall. Instead of trying to learn the variety or breed that makes the best winter layers, learn to feed and manage properly, and you will succeed with what you have.

A good morning meal in winter for poultry is chopped corn and oats, or wheat, mixed with boiling water. Don't make it sloppy, but dry and crumbly. Feed it warm. A pinch of salt and pepper may be added. Feed about sunrise; they will relish it then better than earlier. Feed at noon a sprinkling of parched corn, oats, or wheat, and at night all they will eat of entire grain of any of the above. Never give more at any time than they will eat up clean. Oyster shells are good for shell material.—American Agriculturist.

PRINCESS WILLIAM, who is likely to be no very distant day to be Empress of Germany, is a fair blonde, not beautiful, but decidedly attractive. She has a bright, smiling face, charming manner and plenty of tact. She dresses in good taste, and her figure is well rounded but slender.

A POUND of copperas, costing three cts., in a bucket of water, sprinkled from a watering-pot in the pig-pen, will produce a cheap and excellent disinfectant, and will also largely assist in preventing disease.—Maryland Farmer.

SIMON CAMERON, of Pennsylvania, born in 1799; James Bradbury, of Maine, born in 1805; Jefferson Davis, of Mississippi, born in 1808, and Hannibal Hamlin, of Maine, born in 1809, are the four oldest living ex-senators.

From twenty-five to forty car loads of grapes and pears have each week for some time been leaving California for the East. Chicago is the best market for California fruit and Denver ranks next.—Scientific American.

Miscellaneous.

A Defender of the Truth.

John Roach, the celebrated ship-builder was a strong character, the product of American institutions operating upon a man of unusual energy, self-reliance, and perseverance.

Suggestive anecdotes are now told of Mr. Roach's quaint remarks in defence of Christianity. Some years ago he was riding in the cars, reading a Monday morning paper, when a celebrated minister of loose habits of thinking and preaching sat down by his side. After a while, referring to one of the texts mentioned in the paper as having been preached upon the day before, he said:

"Mr. Roach, do you believe that?" "Yes."

"Why do you believe it?" "Because it is in the Bible."

"Do you believe everything that is in the Bible?" "Yes."

"Never had any doubts?" "No! The Bible was a great comfort to my mother, and sustained her in so many troubles that I know it must be true."

Then looking up, and seeing to whom he was speaking, he said: "It is you preachers that make doubts. Many of you are just like these Italian organ-grinders. They will grind out any tune that is wanted, fast or slow, grave or gay. And when I see how many of you are sowing doubts, I imagine I see you with the Bible strapped around your neck, turning and twisting and grinding out anything that is called for."

At another time he was talking with Ingersoll, he said: "Bob, you are doing a great deal of harm."

"No," said Ingersoll. "I am trying to set the people free from the delusion they are under; that is all."

"No, you are doing a great deal of harm. A great many people have to work hard; they have a terrible time all through life; they have a great many afflictions and no comfort at all, except the faith they have in the Bible, that God loves them, and that they will one day reach a heaven of happiness where trouble and sorrow cannot enter. And you are talking this hope away from them, and you ought not to do it."

It is said that Ingersoll, afterwards said to a friend: "I know I am right; but I felt ashamed when Roach talked to me in that way."

Jack's Ride.

A small pony had been given to little Jack, and his delight in the new pet and companion knew no bounds. The pony, however, had one fault—he refused to budge a step, with his master in the saddle, unless they way lay homeward. He could be led anywhere, but he would not be driven, except in the direction of the stable. One morning, a friend of the family met the boy trudging along, a mile away from home, leading the obstinate pony.

"Why, Jack," he cried, "is that you? How far are you going?"

"Just as far as I can," returned Jack, seriously.

"But why don't you ride?"

"I can't."

"Why, surely you know how to ride!"

"See here, Mr. Smith," said Jack, coming very close, and speaking confidentially, while he stroked the pony's nose. "I wouldn't tell anybody, but you." "What is it?" "I can't make Topsy stir a peg unless she's going towards home, and so I walk out just as far as I can with her. Then I get on and turn her round, and she gets over the ground, I tell you! You just sit here and wait half an hour, and you'll see me go by, lickety-out!"

A PHYSICIAN living on the seaboard thus writes: "Within the last five years, in a district embracing sixty square miles or so by the sea, I have noted the hour and the minute of no less than ninety-three demises in my own immediate practice, and every soul of them has gone out with the tide save four who died suddenly by fatal accident."

A good way to clean brass without scouring, is to dip it in sour milk or whey; or, scour with a woolen cloth dipped in ashes.

Humorous.

At the telegraph poles Grace was looking when she solemnly said: "I think those little glass things are the bottles that hold all the telegraph ink!"

It is said that Miss Susan B. Anthony has never forgiven her brother Mark for his infatuation with Cleopatra.

"I will add," continued the young man who was applying for a situation, "that I am a college graduate."

"Oh, that won't make any difference," was the reassuring reply, "if you stick to your work; and, besides, we want somebody about the place who is strong enough to carry in coal."

"There is your money, doctor, and I'm much obliged to you. I declare, my children are always meeting with accidents, and I ought to know how to treat them. Now, what would you do in the case of a broken arm?"

"Well, say ten dollars for setting and afterward the usual price, two dollars a visit.—Boston Courier.

He recently entered one of the humble cottages at this place, and spying over the mantel a cheap print representing the Virgin with St. Elizabeth on the one hand and St. Joseph on the other, and the inscription "Ave Maria" underneath, thus delivered himself to the master of the house:

"I am glad, sir, to see that nice picture in your house. I suppose you know what it means?"

The man looked seriously at it and replied: "Well, no, sir, can't say as how I do. That's the old woman's—she knows."

"O, yes," replied the "old woman," "I know the story of that. That man is using the woman in the middle will be 'ave her, and she is saying as how being married herself she can't, but won't be 'ave Maria?"

Pensylvania Butter in New York. Mr. Darlington has been selling butter to a New York lady who rated away up in the millions, but this lady suddenly quit buying and an explanation was asked for. The explanation was that Mr. August Belmont, the millionaire, had a herd of Jerseys, and she, the millionaire's wife, was getting her butter from him. Imagine the lady's surprise on being informed by Mr. Darlington that Mr. Belmont himself bought all the butter for his own family use from Mr. Darlington! In other words, he sold the Jersey butter to the New Yorkers at fancy prices, and paid just as good a price to a Chester county man for butter for his own use—with the odds, however, in his favor; for, while perhaps paying no more for the butter he used than he received for that which he himself manufactured, he was getting better butter by this process!—Lancaster New Era.

"I reckon I couldn't drive a trade with you to-day, squire?" said a "ginooin", specimen of a Yankee pedler, as he stood at the door of a merchant in St. Louis.

"I reckon you calculate about right, for you can't," was the sneering reply.

"Well, I guess you needn't get huffy 'bout it. Now here's a dozen ginooin razor straps—worth two dollars and a half; you may have 'em for two dollars."

"I tell you I don't want any of your straps—so you may as well be going along."

"Wal, now, look here, squire, I'll bet you five dollars, that if you make me an offer for them 'ere straps, we'll have a trade yet!"

"Done!" replied the merchant, placing the money in the hands of a bystander. The Yankee deposited a like sum.

"Now," said the merchant, "I'll give you a piece of the straps."

"They're your'n," said the Yankee, as he quietly pocketed the stakes.

"But," said he, after a little reflection, and with great apparent honesty, "I'll trade back."

The merchant's countenance brightened.

"You are not so bad a chap, after all," said he. "Here are your straps—give me the money."

"There it is," said the Yankee, as he received the straps and passed over the sixpence.

"A trade is a trade; and, now you are wide awake, the next time you trade with that 'ere squire you'll do a little better than to buy razor-straps."
