COUNTY FAIRS.

The Agricultural Fairs have begun their exhibitions. There can be no better mode of promoting the general prosperity of a community, than the comparison of results in production and general economic endeavors that may be reached through such exhibitions, and agriculturalists, mechanics and others should improve the opportunities for their advancement. These fairs when rightly conducted give displays of the best skill, the most approved methods, and the most advanced modes of producing mechanical appliances of all sorts. The man who confines himself within the narrow bounds of his home surroundings, may be skilled in the ways of his early training, and may be a good farmer, a good mechanic, merchant and so on, but he cannot keep pace with the ever advancing tide of the world's activity, and is therefore by reason of antiquated ideas, machinery and modes of work unable to keep pace with the on going course of things. There can scarcely be any one so stupid as not to see the advantages of the improvements exhibited at the fairs, and every one should improve the opportunity to enlarge his fund of knowledge and to bring himself into sympathy with the spirit of the age. The fairs are not merely for show however; they open new fields of trade, and provide markets for things which not being brought to the public notice must remain unproductive. Emulation among farmers and mechanics must produce competition, and this last brings prosperity to those who comprehend the modes of introducing good inventions, good products, and the most perfect stock and other articles to the public. There may be and often are objectionable features about the fairs, such as the gambling features whereby the unwary are deceived; when the tests of horses degenerate into the licenses of the race-course, and when undue restrictions upon exhibits, limit the benefits to the few as against the competition of those unskilled in presenting their claims. There should always be some object to be attained in every article exhibited, and mere display without some objective aim in utility, art, or science should be avoided.

To gaze upon a monstrous pumpkin for example may gratify momentary curiosity, but the thing itself is useless, being neither food, nor conducive to ideas of the beautiful, why then encourage the production? and the same may be said of monsters in every relation. We want perfect horses, perfect cattle, perfect vegetables that may be consumed, and the most perfect productions of every sort, adapted to the sustenance of men and animals. The responsibility thus resting on the managers is great and should be felt throughout the course of their duties. Our County Fair will be held on the 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th of October. Its claims on the attention of the citizens of the County should take precedence of other Fairs, and should secure the attendance of all who can go.

THE LETTER OF ACCEPTANCE. President Cleveland's letter accepting his renomination for the Presidency made by the Democratic National Convention was published on Monday. Its reception by the county has been as usual in such matters, in accordance with the partiality of readers, depending on their party affiliations. The Democrats receive it with the highest encomiums. The Republicans look at it as a chance and give free expression to their disapproval when they conceive the opportunity exists. Those who read it with a view to being enlightened as to its purport, will find it fully equal to the President's best state papers. The language is clear and unmistakable and no one can fail to accord to him the highest patriotic aims, together with a comprehensive appreciation of the points discussed, indicating his elevated Statesmanship. Space at command does not even admit of our presenting a synopsis of the letter.

IMPURETIES of the blood often cause great annoyance at this season; Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, and cures all such affections.

WHAT SCIENCE HAS NOT DONE.

A truth that is worth remembering in this pushing age of invention is that the nineteenth century has not pulled aside, ever so little, the curtain that hides from us the invisible world. In all such attempts it is just as much baffled as was the darkest and most stupid century of the Middle Ages. We have never pushed the "gates ajar," except in a novel, and it is only a novelist who has attempted to go "beyond the gates," or the "gates between," or to fling the gates of the future "wide open." "Spiritualism is a fraud, and a vulgar fraud at that." Every second some one enters the world of shadows, but since the stone was rolled away from Joseph's new tomb no one has come back to us from the world of shadows. Ingersoll can see no further into the twilight than Cicero; both are hopeless and helpless at the graves of their loved ones. No Edison, even in these busy, inventive days, has found a telephone which can stretch its wire across a grave. No Ericsson has built a Monitor which can push its way into the unknown seas of eternity. Why is the future so jealously guarded? Why are not the prying eyes of to-day allowed to peer into to-morrow? Perhaps, to keep man humble and reverent, waiting and watching, expectant and hopeful, but unsatisfied with the present. For these reasons we can understand, in part, at least, why, in God's infinite wisdom, "it doth not yet appear what we shall be."—Golden Rule.

WEDNESDAY the 12th inst. was the anniversary of the Battle of North Point, and was observed as a municipal holiday in Baltimore. The day has long been known as "Old Defender's Day," and was celebrated with due solemnity. The usual dinner at Renert's was laid. The sole survivor of the battle able to move about Mr. James Chamberlain Morford who was 93 years old last Sunday was present, as also was Mrs. Elizabeth Sands who will be 100 years old, March 8, 1889, and who saw active service in her country's cause. Mr. Nathaniel Watts who will be 93 years old on November 10th next, was served with dinner at his house, 333 East Biddle Street. There were fifteen persons at the table, as Mr. Renert's guests, the nearest living relatives of the defenders, and representatives. Speeches were made by Mr. John T. Ford, Mr. Marine and Mayor Latrobe. There was also a celebration of the day at Patterson Park.

PROF. R. A. PROCTOR DEAD. Prof. Richard A. Proctor the Astronomer and lecturer died on Wednesday night in New York, in the Willard Parker Hospital of yellow fever. He arrived in that city on Monday night from Florida, where he had spent the summer at his place, Oaklawn, Marion County, Fla. There had been no cases in that county, and he was on his way to England to lecture. He was in the fifty second year of his age. He was distinguished as a voluminous writer on Astronomy, both in this country and in England.

AFTER a rain that extended with short intervals for about one week. The sun burst forth on Wednesday morning, to the delight of everybody that breathes. The rains were very general over the land and were attended with great floods, particularly in the south. At Atlanta, Ga., the waters arose higher than since 1840, and great damage was done in various localities.

REV. FRANCIS L. PATTON, D. D. L. L. D., the successor of Dr. McCosh, as President of Princeton College, opened the exercises of the 142d year of that distinguished seat of learning on Wednesday, and in his opening address defined a brilliant policy for the college, he proposed to increase the number of students to 1000.

GOVERNOR DAVID B. HILL was renominated by acclamation as the Democratic candidate for New York on Wednesday, and Gen. Edward F. Jones, for Lieutenant Governor. The convention made an emphatic endorsement of the Administration of Governor Hill, as well as that of President Cleveland.

If the political papers are to be believed. The changes from one party to another are going steadily forward. But somehow the balance is maintained. The aim seems to be to offset changes as they occur. Neither side is going to the "bow-wows" very rapidly as yet.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP.

Special to the Emmitsburg Chronicle. The military circles are a little perturbed over the possible result of the recent discussions of the Chinese bill and the Fishery question by Congress. It is thought by some through the political zeal of both the Democratic and Republican parties, they may not stop short of getting us into serious troubles with both England and China. There is one thing certain, that the Chinese bill would not have passed either house were it not on the eve of a Presidential election, nor would the President or any President rush to Congress such a retaliatory message, were both houses with him politically, although rejecting his treaty.

At this juncture it is difficult to divine to what extent the opposite parties in Congress may go in precipitating bills and measures for political campaign fodder. The interest in the great Tariff issue, as compared with the Fishery and Chinese questions, has become a mere pigmy, and will probably remain so until the Senate reports its Tariff bill. Private bills are still numerous in committee and on the calendars of both houses. The beneficiaries in the bills hope (without reason, it is feared) that they will be considered to finality this session. There is no excuse for this dilatoriness. They have had plenty of spare time to clear the calendars. Very many of those bills are meritorious. They dislike rejecting them; they have not the moral courage to pass them (which repales the Treasury) on the eve of election.

Interest in the National Baseball Club is waning here. The club has finally succeeded in obtaining first place at the tail end, and there probably will remain at the end of the season. The management of this club has been bad. The largest stockholder, who has been its president until his death last week (R. C. Hewitt) was rich enough to engage good material and furnish the capital city with a creditable team, and had he done so, the appreciative baseball lovers here would have cheerfully patronized the games with their even large admittance fees of fifty cents. With a good and well-managed club here, half of Congress would adjourn at 4 p. m. and attend.

WHAT IS SAID OF THE REPORTED CHINESE MOB AT CANTON BY OFFICIALS HERE. Assistant Secretary of State Rives said this morning that he saw no reason to disbelieve the statement that there has been a riot in Canton, China, growing out of the treaty trouble. "Nothing can be said as to the details of the affair," he added, "but such things have happened before and are likely to happen again."

"Canton is a good place to have a row in," said a Department official. "The people are very irritable, and when excited by the least cause will gather in mobs and frequently create a riot. There are very few English residents there, most of them being at Shanghai. The United States Consul at Canton is Hon. Chas. Seymour, who was appointed in 1882."

"Canton is a very large city—no one knows how large," said a Naval officer. "It is probably a little over the size of New York."

SUMMARY OF NEWS. MR. ENOCH PRATT, founder of the Pratt Free Library and a prominent citizen of Baltimore, celebrated his 80th birthday on Monday last.

MISS MARGARET L. CRUMPTON, M. D., who has just been elected a delegate from Pittsburg to the Pennsylvania Homeopathic Medical Society, is the first woman to be chosen as a delegate to a medical convention.

CHARLES I. DE BAUM, the absconding assistant cashier of the Park National Bank, who stole $110,000, was arrested in Canada, by Detective Sheldon, of Inspector Byrnes' staff, at a little way-station known as Staustadt Junction, within two hundred feet of the American line. Extradition papers are on the way from Washington to bring him here. ONE day last week a tramp went to the house of Mr. Sylvester McGuigan, near Level. The family were all away from home, with the exception of a little girl about 13 years of age. The tramp in an insolent manner demanded money. The little girl stepped into another room as if to get it, but returned instead with a double-barrelled gun in her hand. Presented the weapon at the tramp, she ordered him to leave, which he did at double-quick pace. The little lady has been highly commended for her courage.

DR. E. P. HAWLAND, a dentist, of Washington, D. C., was seized with hemorrhage of the lungs while in the waiting room of the Pennsylvania Railroad at Harrisburg, on Wednesday evening, and died before he could be removed to the hospital.

ON Sunday Martha Margaret Washington, colored, died at her home in Carlisle, Pa. She was one hundred years old, and the oldest colored woman in Pennsylvania. She was named after George Washington's wife, Martha Washington, but she never claimed the honor of shaking hands with George Washington or Andrew Jackson.

TRELLER MARLER, of the sub-treasury office, New York, says that "a certain way to tell good paper money from bad is by means of two small blue silk threads, which run through the good bill lengthwise, and which may be plainly seen by holding the note to the light. These are woven into the paper by a secret process, and have never yet been successfully counterfeited, the usual imitation being by means of a mark drawn across the paper."

JAMES FOGARTY, a young man of 23 years, died at the Gouverneur Hospital, New York, Monday. He was found unconscious in the street at an early hour Sunday morning. The point of an umbrella stick had been thrust into the man's right eye, and it had broken off so that a piece about two and a-half inches long remained in the head, penetrating through the frontal bone and lacerating the brain. He never recovered consciousness, and there is no clue to his assailant.

No Universal Remedy has yet been discovered; but, as at least four-fifths of human diseases have their source in Impure Blood, a medicine which restores that fluid from a depraved to a healthy condition comes as near being a universal cure as any that can be produced. Ayer's Sarsaparilla affects the blood in each stage of its formation, and is, therefore, adapted to a greater variety of complaints than any other known medicine.

Boils and Carbuncles, which defy ordinary treatment, yield to Ayer's Sarsaparilla after a comparatively brief trial. Mr. C. K. Murray, of Charlottesville, Va., writes that for years he was afflicted with boils which caused him much suffering. These were succeeded by carbuncles, of which he had several at one time. He then began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and after taking three bottles, the carbuncles disappeared, and for six years he has not had even a pimple. That insidious disease, Scrofula, is the fruitful cause of numerous complaints. Consumption being only one of many equally fatal. Eruptions, ulcers, sores, eyes, glandular swellings, weak and wasted muscles, a capricious appetite, and the like, are pretty sure indications of a scrofulous taint in the system. Many otherwise beautiful faces are disfigured by pimples, eruptions, and unsightly blotches, which arise from impure blood, showing the need of Ayer's Sarsaparilla to remedy the evil. All sufferers from blood disorders should give Ayer's Sarsaparilla a fair trial—avoiding all powders, ointments, and washes, and especially cheap and worthless compounds, which not only fail to effect a cure, but more frequently aggravate and confirm the diseases they are fraudulently advertised to remedy.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla, PREPARED BY Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

All That Small Farm

formerly owned by John W. Warner situated in Emmitsburg District, Frederick County, Md., and known as "SPRINGFIELD MILLS," being same land described in a deed from Mary E. Black, to said John W. Warner, duly recorded among the Land Records of Frederick County. This farm contains about 16 ACRES OF LAND, more or less, and the improvements consist of a GOOD DWELLING HOUSE and necessary outbuildings. There is a QUANTITY OF FRUIT upon the premises, and the land is well watered. Terms of sale as prescribed by Decree:—One-half Cash on day of sale or ratification by the Court; balance in one year, the purchaser giving his or their notes with security satisfactory to the Trustee and bearing interest from day of sale. Purchaser to be at all expense of conveying. JOHN B. THOMAS, Trustee, sept. 15-ts.

The Off Told Story

Of the peculiar medicinal merits of Hood's Sarsaparilla is fully confirmed by the voluminous testimony of thousands who have tried it. Peculiar in the combination, proportion, and preparation of its ingredients, peculiar in the extreme care with which it is put up, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures where other preparations entirely fail. Peculiar in the unequalled good name it has made at home, which is a "tower of strength abroad," peculiar in the phenomenal sales it has attained.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

is the most popular and successful medicine before the public today for purifying the blood, giving strength, creating an appetite. "I suffered from wakefulness and low spirits, and also had eczema on the back of my head and neck, which was very annoying. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I have received more benefit than I am very grateful, and I am always glad to speak a good word for this medicine." Mrs. J. S. SNYDER, Pottsville, Penn.

Purifies the Blood

Henry Biggs, Campbell Street, Kansas City, had scrofulous sores all over his body for fifteen years. Hood's Sarsaparilla completely cured him. Wallace Buck, of North Bloomfield, N. Y., suffered eleven years with a terrible variety of skin diseases, so bad that he had to give up business. He was cured of the ulcer, and also of eczema, by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1, six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass. 100 Doses One Dollar

Miscellaneous.

Foot Walks.

Foot-walks about house and garden, more especially in rural villages than on farms, are often so poor as to cause inconvenience, severe colds, serious diseases, and at times deaths, through feet and clothing wetted by walking through grass...

October Work on the Farm.

October work tells for all winter. The final harvests of the year are often the most important, and where so large a breadth of grain is sowed as in the case in some sections, the farmers have a busy time.

Economy in Fuel.

One of the most difficult things to teach a girl is economy in fuel. Nothing seems to satisfy but a continual piling on of coal. As soon as a little gas has been burned off a vigorous staking and a raking out of ashes follows; then the stove filled a new, touching and lifting the covers, which soon become red hot, and the process is repeated from morning till night.

How to Stamp a Letter.

"Out of the millions of persons who stamp letters daily, but few know the way to do the 'licking,'" remarked Mr. Alf. Oldham, the stamp purveyor at the Postoffice, yesterday.

Miscellaneous.

No Joke on Her.

A woman came down town the other day with a 'yearling' in a baby carriage, and when she reached a certain dry goods store she left the baby at the door and went in to trade.

By that time 'but' had become uneasy and was raising a row, and they sent in for the clerk to come and get him. The mother having gone home, he was obliged to follow her with cart and baby, the latter howling at the top of his voice and attracting general attention.

This delicate and dainty dessert is very easily and quickly prepared and is quite inexpensive compared with most recipes for fancy desserts.

Moonshine.

The best time for selecting seed corn is when husking. By beginning with the selection of such ears as are grown two on a stalk, of good size, low set down on the stalk and well filled out to the ends with deep grains, and continuing the habit from year to year, after some years most of the stalks in the field will either produce two good ears or one good ear and a good nubbin.

Select Seed Corn at Husking.

THE Wrong Article.—Customer (to jeweller)—"Here's the clock I bought of you the other day. It's of no earthly use to me, for it gains fully fifteen minutes an hour." Jeweller (examining clock)—"My dear sir, I beg a thousand pardons. This is one of our patent anticipatory time pieces, made exclusively for our billiard-room and livery-stable trade. Excuse the mistake. Anything you may select in the way of our regular citizen's clock we will exchange it for, with pleasure."

Japanese Oranges.

The Japanese seedless orange is now being introduced into California, and is attracting attention because it's dwarf variety is more hardy than ordinary kinds. The fruit, although small, is remarkably sweet. Should it thrive on this coast it will extend the range of citrus fruits, for it is claimed that it is hardy enough to resist considerable frost.—Pacific State Weekly.

"BRIDGET, has Johnnie come home from school yet?" "Yes, sorr." "Have you seen him?" "No, sorr." "Then how do you know he's home?" "Cause the cat's hidin' under the stove, sorr."

It is hard to decide which is the more pestiferous—the young bore who is forever bragging what he is going to do, or the old bore who is eternally bragging what he has done.

Humorous.

"This is a high-handed outrage," as the boy remarked when he found that his mother had put the cookies on the upper shelf.

"Yes," she said, "the waves in a storm remind me of our hired girls at home." "Hired girls, madam?" "Yes, they are such awful breakers."—Ocean.

OLD lady (to boy in shoe store): "Are your shoes all made on anatomical principles, boy?" Boy: "No, mum; they're all made on lasts."—Epoch.

THIS is the order which a little girl brought into a Lewiston druggist's store the other day. It was written on a dirty piece of note paper, as follows: "Mister Druggist: Please send ipecac enough to throw up a four-year-old girl."

"JOHN," said the wife tenderly, "promise me that if I should be taken away you will never marry Nancy Tarbox."

"Certainly, Maria," replied the husband, reassuringly. "I can promise you that. She refused me three times when I was a much handsomer man than I am now."—Chicago Tribune.

"My little five-year-old came home from church last Sunday," said Mr. Ed. Stevens, with, "Pa-pa, I can tell you what the preacher said to-day."

"Let's have it," I answered. "He said that Jesus was in the temple, and after awhile he put on his hat and went out on the sidewalk where a man lay sick, and he said to him, roll up your mattress and go home, and he went."

"Don't you find the life of a tramp very disagreeable?" "Not generally; but I'm very much down-cast to-day." "Really?" "Yes; I'm a victim of misplaced confidence." "How's that?" "Well, I saw a grocer wrap up a box of sardines and lay it on the counter. I grabbed for it and run. I loped about two miles before I opened it, and then I found a cake of soap. I had struck the wrong package. No, life isn't always a bower of roses."

A BROAD street mother reads a child's story paper regularly to her little daughter, and most of the tales are continued from week to week. The other day the little one heard the expression, "writer's cramp," and asked what it meant.

"It is a stiffening or cramping of the fingers, my dear," was the reply. "People who write a great deal often get it and have to stop writing for a while."

"Oh!" said the little miss, as a great light broke upon her perceptive faculties, "that's it, is it? I've often wondered why the writers of those nice stories always stop in such interesting places."—Philadelphia Record.

He Used to be a Boy Himself.

The other day a show came to Little Rock, and was shamefully imposed upon by Uncle Isom. While standing near the tent he saw a crowd of low-spirited boys grieving on account of financial depression.

"Does yer youngsters want to go to de show?" he asked. The boys responded in a noisy chorus.

"Well, come on, den. I ustber be a child myself, an' unlike de mos' men, I hain't forgot it. Count dose boys," he added, addressing the door-keeper. The man began counting, and by the time the boys had passed in, Isom was walking around talking to acquaintances from the plantations.

"Here," said the showman, "give me twenty tickets."—Little Rock Gazette.

A GENTLEMAN who had a little daughter of a very inquisitive turn of mind, invited a friend to dine with him. It chanced that the friend had just been divorced from his wife, and little Annie, who had heard something about it, was curious to know more. "Why didn't you bring your wife with you, Mr. Todd?" asked Annie when they were all seated at the table. The guest blushed and stammered, and said that he hadn't any now. Then Annie, in spite of admonitory scowls from papa and mamma, continued: "What did you get divorced from her for?" "Well, Annie, don't you think it is better," asked Mr. Todd, "when two people can't live happily together that they should separate?" "No, I don't," answered the child. "I think it is better to fight it out; that's the way my papa and mamma do."
