I HAVE taken, within the past year, several bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and find it admirably adapted to the needs of an impoverished system. I am convinced that this preparation, as a blood purifier, is unequalled.—C. C. Dame, Pastor Congregational church, Andover, Me.

A Warning.

The modes of death's approach are various and statistics show conclusively that more persons die from diseases of the Throat and Lungs than any other. It is probable that everyone, without exception, receives vast numbers of Tubercle Germs into the system and where these germs fall upon suitable soil they start into life and develop, at first slowly and is shown by a slight tickling sensation in the throat and if allowed to continue their ravages they extend to the lungs producing Consumption and to the head, causing Catarrh. Now all this is dangerous and if allowed to proceed will in time cause death. At the onset you must act with promptness; allowing a cold to go without attention is dangerous and may lose you your life. As soon as you feel that something is wrong with your Throat, Lungs or Nerves, obtain a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. It will give you immediate relief.

THE contractors began grading the extension of the Cumberland Valley Railroad at Bunker Hill, W. Va., on Wednesday, working both towards Winchester, Va., and Martinsburg. The road is contracted to be finished by July of next year.

Gored by a Cow. A few days ago when Mr. E. C. Wenschhoff was driving a cow home from pasture, she turned on him and knocked him down and gored him severely in the arm and leg. Fortunately his son was near by and came to his rescue in time to prevent serious injury.

CHILLS, dizziness, pains in the side and back, sleepiness, listlessness—in a word, a general torpor of the system—all these clearly indicate liver disease. Use Laxador in time to be cured. Sold everywhere. Price only 25 cents a package.

It WON'T BAKE BREAD.—In other words, Hood's Sarsaparilla will not do impossibilities. Its proprietors tell plainly what it has done, submit proofs from sources of unquestioned reliability, and ask you frankly if you are suffering from any disease or affection caused or promoted by impure blood or low state of the system, to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. The experience of others is sufficient assurance that you will not be disappointed in the result.

Prudence! Prudence! In medication, as in aught else, prudence should be our guide. Yet thousands cast it to the winds. Every new nostrum finds its patrons, the medical empirics of every false school have their gulfs. Every change in the gamut of humbug is rung successfully—for a time at least—the notes being furnished by the credulous. In happy contrast to the many advertised impostures of the day stands Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, now in its third decade of popularity, approved and recommended by physicians, endorsed by the press of many lands, sought and prized by invalids everywhere. It is an ascertained specific for and preventive of malarial diseases, chronic indigestion, liver complaint and constipation, checks the growth of rheumatism and neuralgia, is a peerless invigorant and useful diuretic. Nervous people benefit by it.

"DISEASES, desperate grown, by desperate appliances are relieved, or not at all." The point of wisdom is to check them before they reach so far by buying a bottle of Salvation Oil. Price 25 cents.

"Conspiracies no sooner should be formed than executed," and a cold should no sooner be taken than a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup should be bought and used according to the directions.

Death of Edward P. Hemler. COMMUNICATED. On Saturday morning last the news of the death of Edward P. Hemler proved a shock to his many friends and acquaintances. He had been sick but a few weeks, and his sudden departure from our midst gives it possible more sadness to the thought that our neighborhood has lost one of its "model" young men. This term may be applied to him in its fullest sense, for as a son, he was ever dutiful and obedient, and as a brother he lavished upon his sisters that kindness, respect and attention we see so lightly bestowed by the majority of our young men possessing sisters; their society seemed to constitute his chief enjoyment, and when mingling with outsiders, he was never known to select other than moral and virtuous companions. His steadfast hold on the true faith was readily told by strict practice of religious duties, and unto the end by the reception of the last rites of the church. Deceased was for several years a day scholar at Mt. St. Mary's College, and while there proved bright and intelligent, reflecting credit upon himself and his teachers by the success attained. A year or so since he became a contributor to the CHRONICLE, and his items under the title of "Mt. St. Mary's News" were anxiously sought by the many readers of that paper and their absence will each week prove a reminder of him. How true it is we know not the day or hour when our earthly pilgrimage shall end and we shall be called to render an account, but be the day near or afar it is to be hoped each one of us will be as well prepared as we feel safe in saying our esteemed friend was, whose obituary we note with sadness and regret to day. He was called off in the prime of youth, being in his 24th year. Funeral services were held on Monday, 9 a. m., at Mt. St. Mary's church where a solemn Requiem Mass was celebrated. His remains were interred in the Mountain Cemetery. The following gentlemen acted as pall bearers: Messrs. F. Walter, A. Walter, D. Roddy, F. Roddy, W. Shriver, Jr. and C. Manning, Jr. A father, mother and two sisters mourn the loss of the deceased, and have the sympathy of the entire community in their sad bereavement. May his soul rest in peace.

Found Guilty. Geo. Gingell for selling choice Liquors of all kinds. The Star says: Mr. Peter Boylan, foreman of a gang of men engaged at cleaning away dirt in Cluck's cut on the Western extension of the B. & O. R. R., near Orrtanna, recently discovered a hole drilled into a rock into which the root of a neighboring tree had penetrated to the distance of four feet, the entire depth of the hole; after extracting the root, Mr. Boylan charged the hole with dynamite blowing the rock to pieces, thus finishing the work commenced fifty years ago, with an article then unknown.

A LITTLESTOWN correspondent says an old man some miles north of that town conferred with a band of Gypsies and was told that any money he would place at a certain place on his farm would double itself over night. To test the matter he put $10 on deposit and next morning found as predicted $20. This so elated him that he went to bank and drew out $800 and made a like deposit, but to his dismay the next morning, luck had turned, the $800 was gone and so were the Gypsies.—Hagerstown Citizen.

Coal Ashes.

Solomon W. Jewett, of Vermont, says, in the Boston Cultivator: "I have discovered a new method of preserving apples, eggs, fence posts, etc., by simply covering the former with fine coal ashes. My plan is to spread a bed of ashes eight inches or more in thickness, and any size desired, upon the surface of the earth. Select sound, hard winter apples and cover the ash bed with them to within one foot of its edge on all sides. After placing one or two layers of fruit, throw on a slight covering of ashes, then more fruit, and so proceed until the desired quantity has been embedded. Then cover the bed to the depth of at least one foot with ashes, both fine and coarse. No injury will result from either rains or frosts. Coal ashes absorb and evaporate the moisture readily, and anyone can learn by observation. I have repeatedly made the test, and know that fruit can be kept sound in this way for a year or more, and at the end of that time will be as fresh as when put down. It must be used as soon as uncovered, however, for the action of the atmosphere will soon cause decay. Eggs can be packed in this manner during that part of the season when they are cheapest, and if newly laid, will keep perfectly fresh."

Wild Flowers in the St. K Room.

The flower mission people do well to remember that when Florence Nightingale herself was sick with Crimean fever the present of a nose gay of wild flowers sensibly hastened her recovery, and that she was frequently touched by the rapture of fever patients over bright colored flowers. Probably her first attempt at healing was a shepherd dog, whose leg was said to be broken, and whose master was about to hang "the best friend he had ever had." Miss Nightingale got the surgeon's opinion that no leg was broken, and that perfect rest would save the useful creature's life. She then went to work to reduce the swelling by wrapping it in warm wet flannels, the dog wagging his tale in grateful approval. The swelling was soon reduced, and the dog resumed his place as keeper of the flock, for whom he felt so responsible that even the Nightingale's voice could not call him away. He would only wag his tail and look up.—Boston Transcript.

The Planting of Trees.

Walter Scott, in "Heart of Midlothian," says: "Jock, when ye ha' nothing else to do, ye may be aye stickin' in a tree; it will be growing, Jock, when you're asleeping." The American people are just learning this lesson. The first "Arbor Day" was set apart in Nebraska in 1871. In one day 12,000,000 of trees were planted. The next year it became a legal holiday. Nearly 1,000,000 acres have already been planted under the new impulse. Nearly 700,000,000 trees are growing that but for Arbor Day would not have been planted. Benefactors are of many classes, but it is doubtful if any one more generously affects the world than the tree planter. Apple-Seed Smith was a noted Ohio character of early times, who always carried a bag of apple seeds with him, which he planted when he could, and gave to others to be planted. He is gratefully remembered. Tree planting should grow to be a national passion.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Keep Everything Pure and Clean.

Under the above caption one of our exchanges truthfully says: Money spent in providing for the cleanliness of the city and the protection of the people against epidemic diseases is never wasted. This is becoming more and more apparent in our chief cities, though here there are some people who appear to hold to the primitive ideas which obtained in the past. At no time in the world's history, unless it was in the very beginning, has so much intelligent thought and effort been directed to the sanitation of cities and the care of health. The accepted idea is now one of prevention rather than cure. It is known that disease loves filth and that the way to foil it is to keep everything pure and clean. In many American cities great attention is paid to the public health, and in consequence the death rate has been very materially reduced.

When a ghost eats green apples the natural result would be cholera in phantom.—Dansville Breeze.

Miscellaneous.

Walnut Cake.

Having promised this recipe to a friend, it occurred to me that I might as well put it in print, and thus at the same time be giving it to a large circle who at this season value anything new, that is good, in the cake line. It is a layer cake, and for the foundation any plain cake recipe may be used. The one we use is this: One cup of butter, two and a-half cups sugar, three and a-half flour; six eggs, beaten separately; once cup milk; two teaspoons baking powder; one lemon, grated, rind and juice. This is baked in two oblong rectangular pans, 7 inches by 12, and 1 inch deep (similar to old-fashioned pie-pans). While still warm, place one on top of the other, with the mixture given below between them, and frosting on top and sides.

MIXTURE.—One cup raisins; one cup walnuts, chopped very fine; then add cream till the mixture is a smooth paste.

ICING.—Whites of two eggs, beaten stiff; two small teaspoons powdered sugar; add a small pinch of cream of tartar, and flavoring to suit taste.

The icing to be spread before the cake is entirely cold, and when it is partially set marked off diagonally, forming diamond shapes for cutting; in the centre of each of these diamonds lay carefully a half of walnut, pressing them gently into the frosting.—American Farmer.

A BALKY horse is very provoking. Col. James R. Randall upon his arrival at Augusta, Ga., the other day showed how easily the trouble may be overcome. The horse in a street car balked and began to act ugly, so much as to frighten the lady passengers. The driver became very mad at the horse's behavior, and a male passenger proposed throwing sand in the animal's eyes. "Oh, no," said the colonel, "don't do that; it is unnecessary and inhuman. The poor beast only needs to be diverted. Tie a handkerchief around his foreleg and he will start off promptly." The driver agreed to try so simple an expedient, and the horse moved at once with the utmost placidity. As the animal started the driver snatched his whip, looked at the colonel and exclaimed, "If that don't beat the Dutch!"

One of Grandma's Visits.

A few months ago there was an addition to the family of Col. Percy Yergler, on which occasion Mrs. Yergler's mother, a venerable lady, spent several weeks with the family. A few days ago Mrs. Yergler received a letter from her mother to the effect that she intended to make another visit. "Is grandma comin' again?" asked little Tommy, making a disgusted face. "Yes, Tommy."

Boring Holes in Glass.

Any hard steel tool will cut glass with great facility when kept freely wet with camphor dissolved in turpentine. A drill bow may be used, or even the hand alone. A hole bored may be readily enlarged by a round file. The ragged edge of glass vessels may also be thus easily smoothed by a flat file. Flat window glass can readily be sawed by a watch spring saw by aid of this solution. In short, the most brittle glass can be wrought almost as easily as brass by the use of cutting tools kept constantly moist with camphorized oil of turpentine.

If only a few trees for fruit are to be planted always take advantage of any location that may be sheltered. It is the cold winds that damage the trees in winter, and especially peach trees. The south side of a barn, stable or out house of any kind will greatly assist in breaking the force of winds.

To get currant and gooseberry plants for next year take the trimmings, after the leaves shall have dropped, and cut them into lengths of eight inches. Set them out to the top eye, cover with a little straw after frost and work them in the spring. They will take root and produce young plants.

THE CENTURY MAGAZINE. WITH THE November, 1887, issue The Century commences its thirty-fifth volume with a regular circulation of almost 200,000 copies. The new period, with which its readers were most intimately acquainted. Under the caption Lincoln in the War.

The writers now enter on the more important part of their narrative, viz.: the early years of the War, and President Lincoln's part therein. Supplementary War Papers, following the "battle series" by distinguished generals, will describe interesting features of army life, ranging from Libby's narrative of personal adventure, etc., through Sherman's "War" and "The Grand Strategy of the War."

Except the life of Lincoln and the War Articles, no more important series has ever been undertaken by The Century than this of Mr. Kennan's. With the previous preparation of four years' travel and study in Russia and Siberia, the author undertook a journey of 15,000 miles for the special investigation here required. An introduction from the Russian minister of the Interior admitted him to the principal names and persons, where he became acquainted with some three hundred State exiles, Liberals, Nihilists, and others, and the series will be a startling as well as accurate revelation of the exile system. The many illustrations by the artist and photographer, Mr. George A. Frost, who accompanied the author, will add greatly to the value of the articles.

A Novel by Eggleston with illustrations will run through the year. Shorter novels will follow by Cable and Stockton. Shorter fictions will appear every month.

Miscellaneous Features will comprise several illustrated articles on Ireland, by Charles De Kay; papers touching the field of the Sunday School Lessons, illustrated by E. L. Wilson; and Western life, by Theodore Roosevelt; the English Catholics, by Mrs. van Rensselaer, with illustrations by Kennell; Dr. Buckley's valuable papers on Dreams, Spiritualism, and Clairvoyance; essays in criticism, art, travel, and history, by prominent writers.
