THE BLOOM-MARTIN MARE.

Written at the Sign of the Mount by the eminent author, Dan McGinty, and dedicated to the Nightmare.

Yez may talk av yer bosses, their winnin's an' losses, their riders an' bosses, their records an' gate.

Their pedigree hoary, their sire an' dam's glory and every d— story you wish to relate;

But there's none av the group av thin, none in the throup av thin—in the shym or the soup av thin—has such sway fair.

As that spryved monstrosity, glandered pro-cessioned, farced, verbotised Bloom-Martin mare.

There was Timplo, the Flora, the Maid an' Aurora, aich of which held her own in a way hard to hate.

There was Payrole an' Nora, an' Dexter an' Cora an' Maud S. begorra! av all the most fate.

And thin there was others with sisters an' brothers that on money, slathers, on thru' an' at fair.

But all av their stealings were but prater peelings to the thumping expulse of the Bloom-Martin mare.

This rare hide-bound creature with dispeptic fugure would seem to besayeh yer fer blankets an' fade.

But thin she is schamin' an' plannin' and framin' an' possibly dramin' av jokes she has played.

Her pride was attested when she was arrested an' sold an' invested in cow-damaged corn.
For thin she brought action against thavin' faction, an' she got satisfaction as shure as yer born.

Begoh, she's a Bloomy! I say to her, "Hoony, ye'll surely go lony if yer don't take care.
Per wid lawyer an' Kermel, director an' Journal, the raygons infernal can hardly compare.

Yer sold an' yer chartered, yer seized an' yer bartered, begoh! yer'll be martyred, an' all will be lost."

She sneezed me neighing, "Let up on yer bray-ing! Have yez heard of the Bloom-Martin mare paying cost?"

THE SUGAR MAPLE.

The sugar maple is one of the finest of the deciduous leaved trees of North America. It is by far the noblest of the American maples, although the silver maple develops occasionally a greater trunk girth, and it is perhaps the noblest of all the maples, although the sycamore mple of Europe in the mountain valleys of the Tyrol is, when at its best, a tree second to none of its class in spread of branches and dignity of port. But the European maple lacks the lightness and brightness of foliage and the gracefulness of inflorescence peculiar to the sugar maple, while it assumes in autumn none of the brilliant colors which our American tree takes on at that season of the year and which makes it then the most conspicuous feature of the landscape wherever it abounds.

The elm, to many people, is the characteristic tree of New England, because, perhaps, more than other trees, it was selected by the early settlers to stand sentinel over their homesteads; but the sugar maple is hardly less characteristic of New England, and of all the Northern States, where it is almost everywhere a very common tree, growing on hillsides and in valleys, and of late years so generally planted by the roadside, that it is now more often seen than the elm, which is a more fastidious tree than the maple about its nourishment, more easily affected by drought, and a far more inviting prey to noxious insects.

The sugar maple economically is one of the most valuable American trees. The wood it produces is heavy and hard, close-grained, tough and strong. It has a surface which can be highly polished, so that it is an excellent and much esteemed furniture wood, especially those peculiar forms with twisted and contorted grain known as bird's-eye maple. It is from the wood of this tree that American shoe lasts are made in preference to that of any other, and it is used in the manufacture of hundreds of other objects, great and small, from the keel of a boat to a shoe peg.

The New Englander who wants to burn better fuel than that afforded by the sugar maple must use hickory. The Indians knew the value of the sap of this tree, and soon taught Europeans how to convert it into sugar. The production of maple sugar was once a far more important industry comparatively than it is now, although the crop is steadily increasing in bulk and in money value.

The sugar maple has one characteristic which very few American trees, except some of the oaks, share with it to the same degree, and one which, when American forests are managed with the view of getting from them all they can be made to produce, will make it one of the trees most generally employed in the operations of scientific silviculture. It has the capacity to germinate and grow to a considerable size under the more or less dense shade of other trees. Young sugar maples form sometimes in the northern counties of this State, in northern Michigan and other parts of the country where this tree is common, the larger part of the undergrowth which has sprung up in the deciduous forests. These self-sown plants, in spite of the shade which, of course, checks their growth, grow with a good deal of vigor and reach a considerable height. The beech in Europe possesses the same power of growing for many years under and among other trees, and it is for this reason that the beech is one of the most valuable subjects in all European deciduous forest operations looking to natural forest succession—the prime motive of modern scientific forestry. The sugar maple is a far more valuable tree in the material which it produces than the European beech, and American foresters, when we have them, will have good cause for congratulating themselves in the possession of a subject so valuable and so easily managed.

Garden and Forest.

Some Peculiar Plants.

A peculiar plant in the government botanical garden, says a Washington letter to the Boston Transcript, is the so-called barber plant, the leaves of which are used in some parts of the East by rubbing on the face to keep the beard from growing. It is not supposed to have any effect on a beard that is already rooted, but merely to act as a preventative, boys employing it to keep the hair from getting a start on their face. It is also employed by some Oriental people who desire to keep parts of their head free from hair, as a matter of fashion.

Also found in the botanical garden is the "ornel plant," which is so designated because it catches butterflies and kills them for sheer sport. Its flowers attract the poor little flutterer by the honey it offers, and when the victim lights upon it it grabs the butterfly by the head and holds it fast until the captive dies. Then the flower drops it on the ground and lies in wait for a fresh unfortunate. A curious-looking tree from the Isthmus of Panama bears a round red fruit as big as an apple, which has this remarkable faculty, that its juice rubbed on tough beef or chicken makes the meat tender by the chemical power it possesses to separate the flesh fibre. One is interested to observe in the botanical greenhouse three kinds of plants that have real consumption of the lungs—the leaves, of course, being the lungs of a plant. The disease is manifested by the turning of the leaves from green to white, the affection gradually spreading from the spot until, when a leaf is all white, it is about to die. Cruelly enough, as it would seem, the gardeners only try to perpetuate the disease for the sake of beauty and curiosity, all plants of those varieties that are too healthy being thrown away.

A Centenarian Banker.

In Lansingburg, N. Y., resides Mrs. Deborah Powers in her hundredth year, as smart as a cricket.
Since the death of her husband she has been the managing head of the Powers Bank, one of the oldest private banking institutions in this section. She also attends to household affairs. An Afghan, just completed by her busy fingers, is on exhibition at a church fair. Mrs.
Powers shows but few marks of her great age.—Scientific American.

The following is an extract from a real composition written by a small school-boy in New Jersey.
The subject given by the teacher was the extensive one of "Man."

Here's what the small boy wrote:
"Man is a wonderful animal. He has eyes, ears, mouth. His ears are mostly for catching cold in and having the earache. The nose is to get sniffles with. A man's body is split half way up, and he walks on this split ends."

TO HUSBANDS.

We will assume that in providing a home for yourself and the woman you have shown all the honor in your power to bestow, by choosing her above all others to be your lifelong companion, you have had her comfort and pleasure constantly in view. Inasmuch as she is naturally expected to spend her time and energies in making the most and best of what you have provided you will not, I trust, allow her to be too much hampered by your own individual preferences. It will afford her infinitely more pleasure to discover them, and to surprise you with her forethought for your comfort. Nothing so belittles a man as for the wife to be constantly shaping her household matters according to his dictation. That she should find her pleasure in doing things with a view to his, is a becoming and widely ambition, quite different from any degree of timidity in arranging her affairs for fear of his disapproval. It is your wife's province to govern her household according to her own ideas, and if she is incapable at first she will undoubtedly learn better by experience than by continual appeals to anyone else. Nothing so dwarfs anybody's judgment as being in constant peril of the over-ruling judgment of others. I have the deepest compassion for the woman who labors faithfully in the home interior, when she says in a meek matter-of-fact way, referring to some purely domestic matter, "I want to do thus, or so, but husband won't let me." Who is your husband, pray? Is he any better qualified to judge of the fitness or propriety of what you should or should not do than you are? If so try to see it as he does, in which event you will no longer want to do that thing; but if it is a mere matter of differing opinions, the wife's wishes should by all means prevail within the home. If you respect yourself in the slightest degree, never allow your wife to feel that you stand between her and the exercise of her own free will.
Loving concession to each other gives proof of the most sincere devotion, while the assumption of control is pretty good evidence that self is the first consideration. "Actions speak louder than words," and no husband who arrogates to himself supreme control over his wife's affairs need try to persuade himself that he does it for her good; he simply does so to gratify his innate love of lording it, and he will in the end fail to gain the affectionate consideration for his wishes so delightful to the true husband and father, although he may have succeeded in impressing the power of his will upon every member of his household. Only a sincere and consistent respect for the rights and privileges of your wife will insure your growing together as you grow older. I say it advisedly, that a large proportion of married people grow apart. They are tied by so many bonds which both recognize and respect and which stand to them and to the world in place of the true oneness with which they entered upon their married life, that they are hardly aware themselves of the tides that are carrying them apart. It is, nevertheless, true that unless the tenderness for each other which characterized their earlier association, is maintained throughout all the trials and tribulations which are sure to beset them, married people will allow other interests to come between them. Therefore would I urge upon you husbands not to presume too much upon the letter of the law that gave your wife into your keeping; rather let the spirit of it govern you, leading you to acknowledge manfully all her right in the home and elsewhere.—Ceres in the American Farmer.

Do not pray for easy lives. Pray to be stronger men! Do not pray for tasks equal to your powers.
Pray for powers equal to your tasks! Then the doing of your work shall be no miracle. But you shall be a miracle. Every day you shall wonder at yourself, at the richness of life which has come in you by the grace of God.

KEELY'S WONDERFUL MOTOR.

A Scientific Student Helps to Elucidate the Great Mystery.

From the New York World.

There is, to the mind of an engineer, a peculiar fascination about your article on the Keely motor.
It suggests three things: First, that there is nothing new under the sun, for the force that Keely is trying now to use was used about 1451 B. C. with eminent success. Second, that our City Fathers were wiser than they knew when they suppressed street bands, for we now see that they might at any moment have struck the "chord of the mass" of the City Hall or the Pulitzer Building. Third, that our navy is too large for our wants while we have Mr. Keely on the list or can make him Secretary of the Navy.

In the light of Mr. Keely's explanation of the power of any given chord of sympathy we see that the sixth chapter of Joshua contains nothing that excited any wonder in the minds of the great engineers of that day. What I cannot help admiring is the great skill with which Joshua managed to get the right chord. The men with the trumpets were to walk all around the city every day for six days and to beat their horns all the time. On the sixth day one can easily see that they were so sick of the job and had tried so many different chords to vary the monotony that they could produce every note that a horn was capable of. The making of every man but the trumpeters keep his mouth shut—"not even a word passing their lips"—for five days, was a stroke of genius. Those familiar with prison life are well aware that on holidays, when the men are allowed to go out in the yard, the first thing they do, especially the colored men, is to try every form of yell and warble as a glorious relief to the long period of hushed voices and of whispered confidences. It is very easy to believe that on the sixth day, when the horns ran the entire gamut and the men all shouted at once, every possible chord was struck at some time or other in the general uproar.
That the chord of the mass of the walls of Jericho was hit upon during the day goes without saying, and no miracle is needed to explain their falling down.

The whole science of naval warfare is revolutionized by Mr. Keely's rediscovery of this ancient engine of war. All we need is a few row-boats to go out as bumboats to foreign men-of-war while they lie at anchor in their own ports. The officer in charge has only to tie a silk thread to the rudder and play his mouth-organ until a slight rise of the vessel in the water shows him that he has struck the chord of the mass, just as Keely does with his weights in his jars of water. He then notes in his book that the second stanza in "Boulanger's March" is the chord of the mass of the French ironclad La Terrible.
These books will have to be carefully indexed, and when any foreign power comes to shell New York, as soon as the name of the ironclad is signalled from Sandy Hook a phonograph will be loaded with the right chord and sent in a submarine boat to the enemy's side. The iron-clad will then rise out of the water, just as Keely's weights do, and it can be kept

DECORATION DAY A LEGAL HOLIDAY

The proclamation of Gov. Jackson declaring the 30th of May a legal holiday in Maryland, "to be known as Decoration Day," is issued in pursuance of an act passed at the last session of the Legislature. The 30th of May has been observed every year as the occasion for decorating with flowers the graves of Union soldiers who fell in the war between the States, but has not heretofore been a legal holiday. The act originally included "Arbor Day," and the 12th of September, "Old Defenders' Day," but these were stricken out, and the bill as finally passed referred only to Decoration Day. In his proclamation the Governor requests the people of the State "to abstain from all unnecessary labor and join in some form of observance of that day, more especially in the decoration of the graves of our gallant dead."

The new State election law, embodying the most prominent features of the Australian system of secret voting, was successfully applied at the municipal election at Cumberland on Monday. Although it was not known that the law applied to this election until eleven days previous, and the arrangements for holding it had to be hurriedly made, the working was very satisfactory.

HON. JOHN G. CARLISLE, ex-speaker of the House of Representatives, was on Saturday unanimously elected U. S. Senator from Kentucky, to succeed the late James B. Beck.

The readers of the CHRONICLE will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. ## BLUE RIDGE SUMMIT ITEMS.

BLUE RIDGE SUMMIT, May 20.—Captain Randolph Norwood U. S. Army, retired, is once again installed for the season in his comfortable quarters here, which he erected two years ago. It is rumored that the Captain contemplates investing some capital and giving considerable attention to raising an improved breed of horses;—or in Western parlance, "he's agoin' to start a horse ranch." He owns a large area of land in this neighborhood and the natural advantages for such an enterprise might scarcely be improved upon; and as the past thirty years of the Captain's life have been spent in active cavalry service, it would seem that he is eminently qualified to make a success of the prophesied venture.

Speaking of horses recalls the case of D. B. Martin vs. constable John Rodgers. At the instigation of "The Great Prosecutor of the South Mountain," Rodgers seized and sold a mare supposed to be the property of Adam Bloom, but which really was Martin's animal. Hence the suit, which was settled previous to the time fixed for trial; the Great Prosecutor, as usual, paying a liberal price for the brute with incidental expenses thrown in.

Among those registered at the Clermont House last week were Francis T. King, John Curlett, J. B. Henderson, Mr. Alfred C. Farrant and wife of Baltimore, Mr. Joseph Lyons of Washington, D. C., Wm. F. Miller of Rocky Ridge, and Capt. Smith of York, Pa. Capt. Smith is an able and energetic engineer and his occupation at the present time is locating and re-establishing some of the ancient landmarks, boundary lines, &c.

It would seem as if the old stereotyped excuse—"gone home to look after his fences"—which is frequently advanced as a reason for the absence of high political dignitaries from their proper station, no longer prove available. For it appears that very recently a prominent and enterprising citizen of Gettysburg had quite an imposing fence, boards, posts, and all, removed by certain parties and conveyed by rail to the station known as Jack's mountain. To be sure it was done at about midnight, or as the light-fingered, housebreaking fraternity would put it—between days. But notwithstanding this, the owner of the fence was on his premises and in a position to properly protect his property. From this it does not appear that the presence of the owner insures safety to his property.

This outrageous and somewhat novel procedure is by many attributed to the R. R. Co. I refrain from giving the full elongated cognomen of this corporation lest I might inadvertently place the word "Company" after the words "Western Extension," which would be considered a grievous if not a fatal error. So to speak of it simply as the Tape-worm Road seems the safer plan. The prevailing opinion appears to be that this corporation purloined the fence and conveyed it to the above designated point, where it was dumped off. But I, as well as some others, think this is stating the matter rather broadly. It would not be the least surprising to learn that certain officials connected with the railroad were instrumental in the theft and removal of this property, (and this may have been entered into and accomplished without the least knowledge of the corporation as a body,) to gratify some spiteful animosity or in a spirit of revenge.

It is to be regretted that this new corporation is so heavily handicapped, as it unquestionably is, and is also unfortunate that some of its officials are so universally unpopular. Every new enterprise of any magnitude as it progresses naturally meets with many obstacles which, with even the kindest and best intentions, may not be avoided or overcome. It is quite unnecessary to invite these objectionable features, as in several instances this corporation seems to have done. And it is to be hoped that in view of the many suits for damages, &c., now entered against this R. R. Co., that this recent charge may prove, so far as the corporation is concerned, unfounded. At the same time the whole procedure appears strongly tainted with local coloring.

Hon. David McConaughy, with Mrs. McConaughy and Miss Mathews of Gettysburg arrived at the Clermont on Saturday.

Redly the freight shines through the room. Chasing away all the shadow and gloom; Light-hearted children are prattling in glee; Father is as happy as can be. For the wife and mother who suffered so long, Is getting her health back and soon will be strong.

And who is so happy as she is to-night, As she thinks of the shadow that's taken its flight— The shadow of disease that darkens so many homes, and makes the life of wife and mother one of terrible suffering. How pleased we are to know that at last a remedy has been found for all delicate derangements and weaknesses peculiar to women. It comes to cheerless homes with "glad tidings of great joy." Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has done for women what no other remedy has done, or can do, and it is not to be wondered at that women who have been cured by it are so enthusiastic in its praise. It is the only medicine for women sold, by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers of satisfaction, or money returned.

THE 3,500 employees of the National Tube Works Company at McKeesport, Pa., who struck ten days ago for a ten per cent. advance, have presented a modified demand calling for an advance of from 7 1/2 to ten per cent., and an early settlement is probable.

Farmers from different sections of Washington county report that the prospects for a good wheat crop were never finer.

W. F. Crane of Laurel, Prince George's county, committed suicide at Albuquerque, New Mexico, Tuesday. His mind became unsettled from business troubles.

Statements submitted at the monthly meeting of the B. and O. directors showed increased net earnings on all lines both east and west of the Ohio river.

The dwelling house of Harrison Smith about five miles northwest of Hagerstown, was unroofed by the storm Tuesday evening. The gable end of the house was also blown in.

Because of the failure to apply the new State election law at a recent election at Hagerstown, the validity of the bonds, upon the issue of which a vote was taken, has been questioned.

The property on the corner of Church and Walnut streets, Hagerstown, has been purchased for eleven thousand, five hundred dollars, by the Cumberland Valley Railroad Company, who will convert the building into a grain elevator and warehouse.

The Hagerstown Mail suggests a joint Tariff Reform Picnic, by the Democrats of Washington and Frederick counties, at Pen-Mar early this summer, and thinks that such a number of people can be gathered at that point as has not been seen at any political meeting for many years.

The game of base ball played at Woodsboro' last Saturday between a nine from Rocky Ridge and the Woodsboro' team resulted in a victory for the latter by a score of 26 to 4.

Mining for lead and other ores is becoming quite lively in this county. Several parties have leased land to mining companies, and the work, as far as it has progressed, promises well.

The appointment of Mr. J. W. Kaufman as deputy naval officer of the Port of Baltimore has been confirmed, and Mr. Kaufman resigned, as a member of the Legislature from Frederick county.

Messrs. Jacob Moffet and Frank Simons, of this county, who invested in an ice manufacturing plant at Roanoke, Virginia about a year ago, have sold the same to a party of northern capitalists for $50,000.

Burkittsville has become a local option place of its own accord, but how long it will last we cannot say. The two proprietors of the saloons there have failed to renew their license.—Banner of Liberty.

Geo. T. Day, a well-known colored school teacher of this county, has begun the publication of a weekly journal at Backstown, under the title of Maryland Agitator. The purpose of the new journal is to advance the interests of the colored race in Maryland.

MAN wants but little here below, But wants that little strong. This is especially true of a purge. The average man or woman does not precisely hanker for it, as a rule, but when taken, wishes it to be prompt, sure and effective. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets leave nothing to be desired in point of efficacy, and yet their action is totally free from unpleasant symptoms, or disagreeable after effects. Purely vegetable, perfectly harmless.

BASE BALL AT THE MOUNT.

The second championship game of the season, between the Presidents and Reverses, two second nines of Mt. St. Mary's College resulted in a victory for the Presidents, by a score of 10 to 9. The game, which was an exciting one all through, was replete with heavy hitting, fine fielding and daring base running. The third and decisive game between these teams will take place very soon, and it will be a contest well worth witnessing, for each nine has now won a game.

In this game there were several brilliant plays, among which may be mentioned Ingoldby's short stop work, Farrell's pitching, Travers's fine catch in left field, the first base playing of W. Seton and McConnell, and Watkins admirable playing on second. Messrs. Monnot and W. Seton led the batting for their respective sides.

Of course Mr. Cramer's new horse is a good one. He got it from the reliable firm of McNair & Patterson, this place.

Sons of Veterans.

The sons of ex-union soldiers of Emmitsburg and vicinity have held two meetings recently and resolved to form a camp of "Sons of Veterans" at this place. They have applied for a charter and will be organized and mustered in the near future. They will hold a meeting at Grand Army Hall, tomorrow evening, the 24th inst., to arrange for Memorial Day.

The R. R. Extension.

The Middletown Valley Register of last week copies the article from the Chronicle of two weeks ago on the "Extension of the Emmitsburg Railroad," and adds:

The above refers to a movement which it is known here is in progress, and when all things are ready our people will doubtless likewise be called together in public meeting to take action. To our view the prospect for a railroad into the valley was never more auspicious than now, but very much, of course, will depend upon the encouragement and support given the enterprise by our people.

With Emmitsburg the prospects are also very bright, and with proper encouragement from our people the new road will be secured.

Mining for Lead.

The Union Bridge News, of last Saturday, says: "As reported two weeks ago, Miss Lizzie Cox and brother have leased the greater part of their farm near Beaver Dam Church, Frederick county, to a mining company. For the past two or three weeks six or eight men have been at work making excavations in various places in a rocky knoll a few hundred yards south of the farm buildings. Capt. Gillinham, of Baltimore, is in charge of the operations, and Joseph Brightner, a man of considerable mining experience, is foreman of the hands. Several large openings have been made and some rock blasted and removed. Thus far about a ton of very valuable ore has been obtained, besides considerable rock of less richness. Several rich and heavy nuggets have been found, one weighing about 100 lbs., seemingly almost pure. The object of the search was lead; but besides this mineral, silver, copper and iron are found. The extent of the mineral deposit cannot, of course, be ascertained until shafts are sunk to a greater depth. We understand that some very promising indications of mineral have been found on the adjoining property of Mr. John Garber, and that he is about to lease part of his farm also."

Herb Pad, Disinfectant and Corative.

Aunt Rachel Speer's discovery of the disinfecting herbs she uses in her pad, and with which she makes the tincture for wetting the pad is the greatest blessing to the human race. There is nothing that equals it for disinfecting the air in front of the face of persons who wear them. Small Pox, Cholera, Yellow Fever, Diphtheria and a number of other diseases caught by breathing the poisoned air will be prevented by wearing the Aunt Rachel Herb Pad. The vapor from the pad dispels the germs or microbe from before the face and you inhale the pure air along with the herb vapor, which is a curative of lung diseases. Ask your druggists for Aunt Rachel's Herb Pad, or write to her at Passaic, N. J. It has prevented La Grippe to all who have worn them.

MT. ST. MARY'S COLLEGE NEWS.

Elocutionary Contest—Purcell Lyceum Debate—Should Capital Punishment be Abolished?—Approaching Mock Trial—Another Base Ball Challenge.

Intense excitement has prevailed among the students for the last two weeks about the Elocutionary Contest for the gold medals which are to be awarded at the Commencement next month.

The contest which is a preliminary one, took place on Wednesday afternoon in the College Study Hall in presence of Rev. Edward P. Allen, D. D., Pres., Rev. J. J. Tierney, Vice-Pres., the other priests and professors of the house, the seminarians and students. There were in all twenty-four competitors, out of which the ten best were to be chosen to take part in the final contest which takes place as usual, on the Eve of Commencement.

Taken as a whole the exhibition was decidedly meritorious and reflects great credit on Prof. Ernest Lagarde the instructor of Oratory. Several of the participants displayed histrionic talent of a high order, and gave promise of great things hereafter in the field of elocution.

The successful contestants were: John F. Seton, Emmitsburg, Md.; Lewis L. French, Baltimore, Md.; Emmet L. Farrell, Blacksville, S. C.; Joseph Cavanaugh and Joseph Ingolsby, Boston, Mass.; William Cross, New York City; F. Hugh Lee, Easton, Mass.; Joseph Malone, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Chas. H. A. Watterson, Pittsburg, Pa., and William McConnell, Lambertville, N. J.

During the intervals some soul-stirring airs were dispensed by the College brass band, under the leadership of Prof. Kochenbach.

The Purcell Lyceum had its final debate last Thursday and the question discussed was the abolition of capital punishment.

Unquestionably the best essay on the subject was that of Mr. Eugene E. J. McDonald of Jersey City, N. J., who spoke for the affirmative. This gentleman's English would stand the test of a severe criticism and argues well for his future literary career. The other two speakers for the affirmative, Messrs. James Hearn, Boston, Mass., and Charles L. Monnot, New Orleans, La., supported Mr. McDonald admirably, each sifting a vast array of facts and figures in defence of their proposition. Mr. Monnot especially deserves great credit, as this was his maiden effort and he acquitted himself splendidly.

The contradictory of this proposition was defended by Messrs. D. A. Behn, Pittsburg, Pa.; E. F. Prendergast, Rondout, N. Y. and Sidney H. I. Sappington, Liberty Town, Md. While all did their work well, the first gentleman in particular exhibited great skill in his argumentation doubtless due to the fact that he has had considerable experience in the public forum.

The debate over, the critic decided that from the arguments adduced, Capital punishment should not be abolished.

The Purcell will give its mock trial on Thursday the 30th inst., at which time the Society will adjourn sine die. Great preparations are making for a creditable exhibition, and judging from the indictment, the general plan of the trial and the persons appointed to take part, the Purcell will close this year in the very apogee of its fame.

A challenge for a game of ball has been received and accepted from the Gettysburg team, by the "Reveres" of the Mountain. The game is booked for next Thursday afternoon, and nothing preventing will be played on that day, on Mt. St. Mary's College diamond.

The strangers are said to be good ball players and as the Reveres have a strong battery and a good in and out field strengthened much by recent practice, an exciting game is anticipated.

Mr. T. D. Keeler of Washington, D. C., visited the college on Wednesday.

The amount she will receive is not as yet known.

Lookout For This Fraud.

It is reported that sharpers are traveling in the country in some of the interior counties of this State, buying up walnut stumps and paying for the same at the rate of $1 apiece. When he succeeds in making a trade he reaches for his wallet and finds that he has nothing less than a $20 bill, which he gives the farmer and receives in return $19 in change. After he leaves, the farmer tries to pass the bill, when he learns that it is counterfeit. Lookout for them.—Ex.

The entire structure, both inside and outside will receive three coats of paint. The work it is expected will be completed in about six weeks.

Dangerous Sport.

Attention has been called before through these columns to the danger arising from small boys shooting at the yards and alleys in town with foxtrot rifles, but still the nuisance continues. On Monday evening an accident occurred from this source which might have proved serious. Ernest, a ten-year-old son of Mrs. M. E. Adelsberger was shooting with one of these rifles in the alley adjoining his mother's premises, when a stray bullet passed through the board fence enclosing the barnyard of the Lutheran parsonage, and struck Rev. Luther DeYoe in the left shoulder. Fortunately the bullet struck the arm in such a way as only to cause a flesh wound, and Mr. DeYoe has suffered no serious inconvenience from the accident, but this should serve as a warning to parents against allowing their children to go around shooting with these dangerous noiseless guns. We have recently heard complaints from different people about this nuisance, and more than one person reports having heard the whizz of a bullet unpleasantly close to them while in their back yards, and as the guns are noiseless, were unable to tell where the shot came from. The authorities should take immediate action on this matter.

Don't Go Off Before you are Ready.

Particularly on a long journey. Be fully prepared. You cannot be, for you are, unless you are accompanied with the traveler's and tourist's safe accompaniment, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, most genial of appetizers, assimilators and promoters of digestion. Against sea sickness, malaria, cramps and colic, boggles of badly cooked or unwholesome food and brackish water, nervousness, increased by travel, chronic biliousness and constipation, the Bitters is a sovereign preventive. It imparts a relish for food not attributable to your taste, and prevents it from disagreeing with you. Never was there such a capital thing for the unfortunate traveler who is in a quandary of the food and drink, as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It is a sovereign preventive. It imparts a relish for food not attributable to your taste, and prevents it from disagreeing with you. Never was there such a capital thing for the unfortunate traveler who is in a quandary of the food and drink, as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It is a sovereign preventive. It imparts a relish for food not attributable to your taste, and prevents it from disagreeing with you.

We are indebted to Mrs. S. R. Grindor for some very fine lettuce and spring onions.

The Guardian Hose Company of Mechanicstown has accepted the invitation of Arthur Post, G. A. R., to participate in the Memorial Day service at this place.

What Became of Simon's Fence.

It was thought that the difficulty over the northern boundary of the McClellan property, recently purchased by Simon J. Diller, had been definitely settled when the matter was adjudged by the court. The deed was offered and was accepted. Simon then had a fence made within the lines laid down by the decree of the court, but it did not remain long. The Western Maryland Railroad officials notified him to remove it, but no attention was paid to the notice.

Some time during Thursday night the entire fence, posts and all, was removed. By whom it is not definitely known, for no noise was made by the workmen. It can be seen at the railroad station on Jack Mountain. Simon is now building a stone wall on the same line. It is probable that some litigation will be the outcome of the trouble.—Star and Sentinel.

Improved Street Lamps to be had at Last.

The new Board of Town Commissioners organized on Friday night, by the election of Jos. Snouffer as President, James O. Hoppe, Clerk, Philip D. Lawrence, Treasurer and Michael Hoke, Street Commissioner. The only business transacted at this meeting was the passage of an order to inquire into and arrange for improved street lamps. Go it gentlemen, every good citizen will back you in this movement, and you've made a good start. 'Tis far easier to start right than to get right after starting wrong. Give us good lights and your names will be handed down to posterity as public benefactors.

A new lamp was tested on Thursday night, and worked finely. It was placed in front of Mr. J. Thos. Gelwicks' store and lighted the street as far up town as this office. These lamps are so arranged that they can be set to go out at any time desired. Last night it was lighted about 8 o'clock, set to burn four hours, and shed its brilliant light over the street until mid-night.
