DR. FAHRNEY'S

TEETHING SYRUP

It is safe to give to babies a few days old, and its good effects in ordinary doses, are seen in children five and six years old.

There is nothing in the drug market that gives more universal satisfaction than Fahrney's Syrup. Thousands of physicians are prescribing it daily. An over dose is not dangerous—it will prevent cholera infantum if used in time—no better soothing syrup made—many testimonials give proof of these words—all dealers sell it for 25 cts. Sample bottle sent on receipt of 10 cts. Made only by Drs. D. FAHRNEY & SON, HAGERSTOWN, Md.

STOP. LOOK.

I have just received a large lot of PURE ALL RYE WHISKEYS for harvest and medical purposes, distilled by the well-known William Foust, at Glen Rock, York county, Pa., whose distillery was established in 1836. This Whiskey has no equal and is absolutely pure. Doctors recommend it as the best for medicinal purposes. Have high and low prices. Give me a call before buying elsewhere and be convinced.

HIS OLD YELLOW ALMANAC.

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

I left the farm when mother died and changed my place of dwelling. To daughter Susie's stylish house, right in the city street, and there was them, before I came, that sort of scared me, telling

How I would find the town folks' ways so difficult to meet. They said I'd have no comfort in the rustlin', fixed-up throng, and I'd have to wear stiff collars every week-day right along.

I find I take to city ways just like a duck to water, I like the racket and the noise, and never tire of shows; and there's no end of comfort in the mansion of my daughter.

And everything is right at hand, and money freely flows, and hired help is all about, just listenin' for my call, but I miss the yellow almanac off my old kitchen wall.

The house is full of calendars, from attic to the cellar, they're painted in all colors, and are fancy-like to see; but just in this particular I'm not a modern feller, and the yellow-covered almanac is good enough for me.

I'm used to it, I've seen it round from boyhood to old age, and I rather like the jokin' at the bottom of each page.

I like the way the "S" stood out to show the week's beginnin' (in these now-fangled calendars the days seemed sort of mixed), and the man upon the cover, though he wa'n't exactly winnin', with lungs and liver all exposed, still showed how we are fixed; and the letters and credentials that were writ to Mr. Ayer I've often, on a rainy day, found readin' very fair.

I tried to find one recently: there wa'n't one in the city. They toted out great calendars in every sort of style; I looked at 'em in cold disdain, and answered 'em in pity, "I'd rather have my almanac than all that costly pile."

And, though I take to city life, I'm lonesome, after all, for that old yellow almanac upon my kitchen wall. —Century.

A TRIANGULAR MIX.

I am a young lawyer, and had the reputation of being shrewd, and I do honestly believe that had I remained at the bar I might have been fairly successful. I had no idea of leaving it until Brown, of Brown, Smith & Jones, came to me and said:

"As you know, old Foss, our confidential man, is dead. We think it better to fill his place with a young man, and I have to offer it to you."

The firm had a private bank and dealt in stock. It also did considerable cargo insurance, placed loans, bought mortgages, shaved notes, and made money in other dignified and respectable ways. It had been doing business for twenty years, and was rated conservative and sound.

The only curious thing about the firm was the trio composing it. Brown was an old bachelor of 50. He was tall, angular and homely, and the only woman he could endure was his landlady. Smith was five years older and married, but had no children. He was short, fat and taciturn, never speaking to anybody when he could help it. His wife never went into society and Smith never entered a church. Jones was a little man, almost small enough to be called a dwarf, but with an awful dignity about him. He was over 40, a single man, but was popular supposed to be "looking around." There were rumors that some one had called him "the Napoleon of the West," and if he had any particular weakness, it was that of attending Thursday evening prayer meeting. No business matter, no matter how important, could prevent his regular attendance, although he took no active part in the exercises, and was never known to contribute a dollar to the church.

Having accepted the post I found my duties to be almost numberless. I opened the mail, sorted the letters, and attended to the correspondence. I "checked" on the cashier, verified all the balances, investigated all risks, hunted up the standing of all would-be-borrowers, and to a great extent had charge of the entire business. In less than a week I found that each one of the firm had his peculiarity as follows:

Brown would never open the mail. Smith would never answer a letter. Jones would never sign a check.

It took me a couple of years to fall into the ways of these strange men, but in spite of their eccentricities they were very good to me, and trusted me almost without limit. Everything had run along very smoothly, and nothing whatever had happened to break the routine, when something dropped from a clear sky. Our private offices were arranged so that I occupied the first, which was also a consulting room. Then each of the firm had a private office back of that, and each retired to it when not otherwise engaged. One forenoon, at 11 o'clock, while I was alone in the front office, a lady entered. It was rarely that a woman had any business with us beyond the teller's window, and I was considerably surprised at the presence of this one. She was about 25 years old, handsome as a picture, and I soon had reason to declare to myself that her manners were fascinating. She took my breath away, by inquiring if Brown was in. So far as the legends of the office went, he had never yet been interviewed by a woman, and I hesitated to reply to her direct question.

"I have business of importance with him," she continued, "and desire to see him in his private office. It is the first one on the left, I believe. Pray don't trouble yourself to announce me."

She went to the door and rapped. Brown opened it, and when he saw her standing there he turned pale and staggered back. She entered, and closed the door behind her, and was closeted with him a full hour. If I was dumbfounded at this action, I was almost paralyzed at his conduct as they came out. He was actually bowing and smirking, and trying to be gallant—the man who insisted that his landlady should never employ a female servant unless she was a hunchback or cross-eyed! He followed her through the room, and out to the door of the bank, and when he returned he was smiling blandly, and his lips were moving as if talking to himself. He didn't say a word to me. If he had I could not have replied to him, as I was completely knocked out.

After that day I noticed a marked change in Brown. He seemed to thaw out—to take more interest in life; and I caught on to the fact that he was writing private letters to some one. One day he added to my astonishment by calling me into his private room and inquiring if it wouldn't be a good thing for us to pick up a silver mine out in Nevada, providing we got a low figure and a sure thing.

The next astonishing circumstance happened a week later. I was out on the street at 11:30, an hour when every man of the firm was invariably closeted with himself, when I suddenly caught sight of Jones going into a hotel. Believing myself to be the victim of an optical delusion, I soon followed, and as I looked about the office the clerk beckoned to me and said: "Room 44—Mrs. Temple—silver mine?"

She has been to the office to call on Brown, and now she had probably sent word to Jones to call on her. I would have bet a hundred to one that Jones wouldn't have gone, even to close a deal in which there was a sure profit of $10,000, but there he was, sure enough, and I began to feel annoyed and uneasy. I was at the office when Jones returned, two hours later. He not only had a grin on his face, but he felt so good that he actually whistled a bar or two of a popular air. If anything further was needed to convince me that things were at sixes and sevens in the house of Brown, Smith & Jones the conduct of Smith furnished it. On a certain Wednesday morning he was twenty-eight minutes late. As if this were not enough he came in looking frustrated and excited. An hour later a boy brought a note which I carried to his room. It was addressed in a woman's hand, and within twenty minutes after receiving it he left the bank, evidently to keep an appointment. He had hardly gone when Jones came out to me and began to discuss business matters. This had never happened before, and I was regarding him with surprise and astonishment when he observed:

"If we could pick up a silver mine known by insiders to be worth a million dollars, and get it for about $30,000, it might be a good investment, eh?"

I mumbled something in reply, and he took three or four turns across the room and disappeared into his private office. At 1 o'clock Smith came in. He had forgotten his usual dignity of entrance, and he was so absent-minded that he hung up his coat on the wrong hook. He fidgeted and then observed:

"I have had an offer of mining property which promises great things. Did you ever hear of the Queen Anne mine of Nevada?"

I replied that I never had, and after sitting in a deep study for a while he also retired. He had evidently been to see Mrs. Temple, also. Mrs. Temple, then, was a woman who had a silver mine to dispose of. Of all men in the world whom I should have hesitated to approach were the three comprising our firm. Of all people liable to succeed with them a woman would be the very last. I couldn't make it out. It seemed to me that the natural order of things had been reversed.

Before the week was out Jones escorted Mrs. Temple to the theatre, Brown had taken her out for a drive, and there were well-founded rumors that Smith had sent her a bouquet. I then set to work to find who Mrs. Temple was. No one could give me any information beyond the fact that she was the widow of a Nevada mine owner, and that she had come East for the purpose of disposing of some mining property. She had charts and maps and diagrams of lands and mines, and seemed to be well posted as to the business on hand. It was, however, the general impression that she was a sharper or adventuress, with a man behind her somewhere, and it was further told me that Brown, Smith and Jones, individually and collectively, were infatuated with her.

I always wondered why she did not attempt to secure my assistance in her project, but she probably either mistrusted that I suspected her or she thought she could work her cards without my assistance. While each of the three partners knew that each of the others had been approached on the same subject—that of buying the mine—neither of them knew that the other had been done for by her fascinating ways. I have the strongest grounds for stating three separate and distinct beliefs:

First—that Jones expected to marry her.

Second—that Brown expected to marry her.

Third—that Smith had become so infatuated that he would have run away with her, leaving wife, business, and all.

Well, the proposition to buy her silver mine came up at the business meeting one morning. There was nothing in the looks or words of either party to lead one to mistrust that he had ever met her or talked it over before. It would have been proper to send some expert out to the mine to investigate and report, but she had given them the names of parties to write to, and it was agreed that if reports were favorable the deal should be closed. I now for the first time learned of the location of the mine. I had not only been on the site and knew the mine to be worthless, but had friends there who would attest the fact. Under direction of the firm, I wrote to the address given by Mrs. Temple. Acting on my own judgment I also wrote to disinterested parties.

While waiting for answers to these letters Brown suddenly asked the two other members to congratulate him, as he had decided to get married. They had hardly done so when Jones announced that he had also determined on the same step. Smith couldn't follow suit, having a wife already, but he flushed up and looked confused, and seemed about to declare that he was going to elope, but caught himself and stopped short.

Ten days had elapsed, and answers to my letters were expected every day, when I was sent to a town a hundred miles away on business which detained me two days. Returning at 10 o'clock on the morning of the third, I caught sight of Mrs. Temple entering the Second National Bank, where our surplus was on deposit, and on which all checks of over $1,000 were drawn. It struck me that the letters written in the name of the firm had arrived and the deal had been closed during my absence. I followed her in, and my fears were realized. Indeed, Jones came in after me to identify her. It was made or break, and as she presented the check I said to Jones:

"Let her wait until I can run over to our bank and return. Mr. Hespeth (to the teller), please delay payment until a trifling irregularity can be arranged."

Jones called to me and ran after me, but I did not stop to answer. On arriving at our bank I found three letters addressed to me from parties in Nevada. I took time to read only four or five lines of each, and then, calling on Smith and Brown to follow, hastened to the other bank. We had a lively row, I can assure you. The letters addressed to the bank made the mine out to be a big thing, but those from my friends stamped it as a fraud. It was finally agreed that the check should be returned, until further investigation could be made, and that afternoon the adventuress skipped, to be heard of no more.

I do not know how the partners settled it among themselves, but I know they had a private meeting, lasting over two hours. Perhaps each one of them candidly admitted that he had made an ass of himself, and promised better things in future. All I know is that when the meeting broke up affairs in the bank of Brown, Smith & Jones resumed their old-time routine, and the only allusion to the affair was made by Jones, who said: "Mr. Whitbeck, I am instructed to inform you that your industry and attention to business has not escaped our observation, and your salary for the next fiscal year will be $2,500."—Sun.

IT COMES TO ALL.

We have noted the death of prominent men, many having occurred very recently. The effect of these, some so very sudden and unexpected, has been to lead the secular papers to comment on the uncertainty of life. One incident is the cancelling of all of the engagements of Booth made for the season of '91-'92. Says the Lynchburg Virginian: How true it is that, "Man proposes but God disposes." The day he was taken sick Mr. Barrett, the great tragedian, wrote in regard to his strength, "I am a Hercules." Yet in three days he was worn of that boasted strength and as weak and helpless as the dead monarchs whom he had so often portrayed. The uncertainty of life and of all human calculations was never more strikingly illustrated than in this startling instance. Another notable circumstance about this letter was that it was to make arrangements two years in advance, for his 1893 season in Washington. But while this far-looking and reaching ahead was in his mind, and while the vigor of his body and pride of strength were the occasion of self-congratulation, like a flash the summons came and like the fleeting shadow on the mountain his life had fled. How true it is that the breath of man is in his nostrils and that he knows not what a day may bring forth.

Neuralgic Pains

And those troubled with nervousness resulting from over-exertion will be relieved by taking Brown's Brain Tonic, containing the best of the most refined medicinal ingredients.

WHAT GEN. BRYANT'S OFFER MEANS.

President Hood, of the Western Maryland, gives some strong reasons why the representatives of Baltimore should not part with that railroad at this time. He claims that the offer to purchase comes from the Pennsylvania or the West Virginia Central, or both, and that the object is to establish a connecting line for the delivery of the coal of West Virginia in Philadelphia, and to destroy the influence of Baltimore as a competitor of the former city for the traffic of the rich region through which the Western Maryland passes. Mr. Hood claims that even if the West Virginia Central is really seeking an independent coal line to Baltimore, it would be the most egregious folly for the city to dispose of the road to that company, because the West Virginia Central has already overpowered itself in its attempts to compete with the B. & O., and the Western Maryland, in such hands, would be sure to languish as a feeder to this city.

To summarize his arguments, he says to sell the road for the price proposed, or for any reasonable amount, would be to surrender a competing line, narrow the business territory of Baltimore when other cities are creating new channels of trade and extending and developing old ones wherever possible; to abandon the best section tributary to the city to a monopoly which would forever prejudice that section against, and alienate it from the city; to permanently block the Philadelphia and Reading, which would be a breach of contract under which that road spent $2,000,000, and it would also be a breach of contract with the B. & O.

President Hood then proceeds to show what the Western Maryland has accomplished in twenty years, and it is certainly a remarkable exhibit and well worth the study of those intelligently interested in the progress and prosperity of Baltimore. He punctuates the recent history of the road with figures, showing that wherever a short connecting link has been established it has been more than justified by the rapid increase in receipts and tonnage. In twenty years the earnings of the Western Maryland have increased 500 per cent., the net earnings 1,000 per cent., and the tonnage, which is really the most important fact for Baltimore, 1,000 per cent., and he predicts, if its independence is continued, that the connections now in contemplation will increase its tonnage 2,000 per cent. Colonel John R. Longwell, one of the most public-spirited citizens of Western Maryland, and one of the oldest and most efficient of the stockholder directors of the road, in a letter resigning his position on account of age, says that he has the fullest confidence in its future, provided the road is allowed to work out its present plans without embarrassment from those inimical to its interests, who are seeking every means to throw obstacles in its way.

The subject demands most cautious consideration. The sale of the road is not a mere matter of dollars and cents; for, unless a sum vastly larger than any now proposed is offered for the road, there can be precious little diminution of the tax rate, while a trade may be diverted from this city which it will be impossible to recover; for, as President Hood says, when the blunder is discovered, it will be impossible to repurchase the road or revive the traffic. While it will be good policy for Baltimore to avoid in future partnerships in railroad building, that does not furnish a reason for recklessly parting with what is almost certain to be a very profitable investment.—American.

The readers of the EMMITSBURG CHRONICLE will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. RAILROAD PROSPECTS.

It is understood that the projectors of the railroad between this place and Gettysburg look upon the recent transactions by which the G. & H. road passes into the hands of the Philadelphia and Reading company, as favorable to their scheme. There can be no possible doubt that the same will be a great benefit to our community if the connection is built, and that the new state of affairs makes the connection even more desirable than before, but that the Reading company will extend its line through here is out of the question, and if we mean business now is the time to act. We must go to work and get our line under way at once, before an extension of the Reading is proposed in some other direction. It is now only a matter of dollars, feasibility and advisability are terms no longer suited to the case. Delays are exceedingly dangerous at this time, we must have immediate action.

SUMMARY OF NEWS.

SAN FRANCISCO is flooded with counterfeit silver dollars.

READING Terminal has won its suit to enable it to condemn a site for its depot in Philadelphia.

FARM lands in the United States, taking the country as a whole, occupy 289 acres in every 1,000.

THIS country has one million miles of telegraph wires; enough to reach forty times around the globe.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is on the flood tide of popularity, which position it has reached by its own intrinsic, undoubted merit.

CITY TREASURER BARDLEY, of Philadelphia, has had his bail increased to $50,000 on a charge of embezzling over $450,000 of the State of Pennsylvania's money.

ISAAC DEUGLER, a merchant and postmaster at Oberlin, near Harrisburg, died Tuesday night from the effects of being shot by burglars who were trying to enter his store last Friday night.

TWENTY-ONE immigrants who arrived at New York on Sunday, among whom were five self-confessed ex-convicts, were debarré from landing and will be sent back to Naples from whence they came, on the same vessel.

MRS. W. A. UPTGROFF and her three children, all girls, aged from fifteen months to five years, were burned to death in their home in Topeka, Kansas, Wednesday. The mother was twenty-five years old. The husband and father is a teamster, and had left home to look for work.

EDWARD ZAIZER, living on South Hill, Iowa, heard a burglar in the house Sunday night. Getting out of bed, he ran into a burly fellow, who shot him in the abdomen, fatally, and then escaped. Fifteen years ago Zaizer's father was killed by a burglar in the same manner and in the same room.

WM. GRAVES, colored, and his fourteen-year-old son are under arrest at Nashville, Tenn., for the murder of John Collins, a fruit and market truck raiser. Collins had the boy in his employ, and smacked his jaws for leaving the fence down, and it is charged that the murder was committed for revenge.

The discovery has been made at New Orleans that the Louisiana law concerning attempts to bribe jurors is defective in providing no penalty. The counsel for the men indicted for jury bribing in the Hennessy case claim that the law applies to only grand and petit jurors, whereas the persons approached by the men indicted were talesmen.

THE United States cruiser Charleston arrived at Callao, Peru, Wednesday, eleven days from Acapulco, Mexico. Captain Remy reports that he has seen nothing of the Chilian insurgent transport, Itata, which he has pursued from San Diego, Cal., where the Itata escaped from the United States authorities after having been seized for violation of the neutrality law.

JUDGE LEONIDAS C. HOUK, Republican Representative in Congress from the second district of Tennessee, died on Monday. He had a prescription filled at a drug store on Sunday, but accidentally swallowed a strong solution of arsenic in stead. Antidotes were administered and he recovered, and his death was attributed to heart disease, from which he suffered, superinduced by the poison and excitement.

The tornado which passed over the northern portion of Audrian county, Missouri, Wednesday afternoon, of last week, killed three persons and seriously injured a score of others. A child was struck half a mile, but escaped alive. A horse was lifted over a house and landed a-quarter of a mile away. The feathers were stripped from chickens, geese and turkeys and hundreds of cattle, hogs and sheep were killed.

Increase the working capacity of your horses 50 per cent. by using Crown Stock Food.

Agents are now seeking lands in Maryland for the location of a large settlement of Bohemians. Another party from the blizzard lands of Dakota have been looking around for homes and are well satisfied with what they have seen of our State.

Fishing on the Potomac has been such a complete failure this year that gillers, trappers and seine haulers all alike declare that they have caught fewer fish than ever before, and that prices for those caught were not in proportion to the scarcity of shad and herring.

An unknown white man was ground to pieces Thursday night on the Western Maryland Railroad, near Pikesville. The remains were buried near where they were found. The body was disinterred and identified as Andreas Misak, a Hungarian, whose sister lives in Philadelphia.

The children of Mrs. Alice Dennis, who were bitten in Harford county by a cat supposed to be mad, are improving, and Dr. Whitford thinks it will not be necessary to send them to the Pasteur Institute, New York, for treatment, as no serious results are now apprehended.

James Knatz, a lad of twelve years, was accidentally shot and killed by the premature discharge of a cat gun at Lonaconing, Allegany county. One of the lad's companions was playing with the weapon, when it went off, the bullet striking the victim in the left breast and causing almost instant death.

Cardinal Gibbons was taken sick at the parochial residence of St. Mary's Church, Brytown, on Monday night with malarial trouble. His attending physician, Dr. Lewis C. Carrico, advised him to discontinue his visits through the lower counties of Southern Maryland until he can regain his usual good health.

John Nunemaker and his small son were out riding in a dog-cart a few days ago. The horse ran off and threw Mr. Nunemaker out of the cart. The boy fell between the axle and the bed of the cart and hung there, head downward, until the horse ran into Sharpburg, where he was caught. Mr. Nunemaker and his boy were only slightly bruised.

A controversy over a goat was decided in the city court at Baltimore on Wednesday in favor of Geo. H. Hughes, from whom the animal was replevined by Mrs. Anna Brauer. The jury assessed the value of the goat at $4 and Mrs. Brauer has the costs to pay, amounting $40.45. As application will be made for a new trial, the costs will be considerably increased before the case is finally settled.

The June issue of The Eclectic contains its usual quantum of attractive articles. "Talleyrand's Memoirs," which have excited great interest, are ably discussed by Lord Acton. Mr. F. W. H. Myers, well known as a student of psychology, is the contributor of a paper on "Science and a Future Life," and Mr. Edmund Gosse treats of the effect of democratic institutions on letters. Mr. P. G. Hamerton discusses the foundation of ethics in "A Basis of Positive Morality" with great acuteness and suggestive force. One of the treatment papers is by Erastus Wiman, who treats of the relations of Canada and the United States and the "Barbed Wire Fence" recently erected between them. Mrs. Priestley has something of interest to say on "The Realm of the Microbe," one of the great questions of modern science. Appropos of Italy, Mathilde Blind gives her reminiscences of the patriot Mazzini, and Mrs. Jessie White Mario, daughter of the great singer, enters into the conditions of the recent imbroglio with the United States. Literary sympathy will be keenly attracted by the symposium between Paul Bourget, Besant and Hardy, all eminent novel writers, on "The Science of Fiction." There are many entertaining lighter articles, stories, travel, sketches, poems, and popular-science papers.

DECORATION DAY week in New York was marked by special fraternization of Union and Confederate veterans.

An additional $2,500,000 is to be raised in Chicago by the Columbian exposition committee. A thorough canvass will be made among the wealthy citizens who have not yet contributed. It is expected to increase the amount to $5,000,000 later on either by a loan or a contribution from the national government. The additional amount is found necessary to carry out the constantly growing plans of the management.

BLUE RIDGE SUMMIT ITEMS.

BLUE RIDGE SUMMIT.—Mr. George H. Howard, of Washington, D. C., who some months ago bought a large tract of land of the late Mrs. Margaret Zielinger, has recently made a valuable addition to his property here by the purchase of eight acres of land from Mr. Washington Benchoff. The land in question is at an altitude of 1640 feet and comprises the famous lookout known as "Fremont's Peak." From this point the historical "Round Top" twenty miles away, may be distinctly seen. Martin's Lake gleams like a bed of sapphires in the valley below, beyond which, looking through the far-famed "Gap" the church spires of Taneytown are discernible. Glancing over the "Haycock" and Shover's Mountains—which really appear quite diminutive from this eminence, College Mt. and Hampton Valley are plainly seen. The Clermont House and Monterey Hotel, almost within pistol shot below, stand out boldly and add greatly to the beauty of the landscape. Blue Ridge Summit proper with its numerous picturesque cottages makes a pretty scene to the Southward, while the observatory, High Rock and other well known features of Pen Mar, form a pleasing panorama further to the west.

These and many other attractive sights are visible from Mr. Howard's land as it now lies quite unimproved. By felling a small quantity of light timber the beautiful new Buena Vista Hotel looms up in all its grandeur and the broad expanse of the Cumberland Valley, with Waynesboro prominent more to the right, greets the gaze of the astonished and delighted spectator.

It requires no stretch of the imagination to picture at an early day an imposing structure gracing "Fremont's Peak" for the comfort and convenience of summer boarders.

Mr. William Miller, of Rocky Ridge, Md., spent a few days last week with his brother, the popular proprietor of the Clermont House.

Miss Mollie Gladhill and Miss Mattie Benchoff, both pretty and popular belles of this neighborhood, spent a day last week in Waynesboro shopping.

Mr. Addison Graham will next week open a first class grocery store on the premises leased from Mr. David Miller in close proximity to the Monterey Railroad Station. This is a good site for a store and Mr. Graham will doubtless make a success of his venture.

Be Sure

If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar medicine, possessing, by virtue of its peculiar combination, proportion, and preparation, curative power superior to any other article. A Boston lady who knew what she wanted, and whose example is worthy imitation, tells her experience below:

To Get

"In one store where I went to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla the clerk tried to induce me to buy the other instead of Hood's; he told me their would last longer, that I might take it on ten days' trial; that if I did not like it I need not pay anything, etc. But he could not prevail on me to change. I told him I knew what Hood's Sarsaparilla was. I had taken it, was satisfied with it, and did not want any other."

Hood's

When I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was feeling real miserable, suffering a great deal with dyspepsia, and so weak that at times I could hardly stand. I looked, and had for some time, like a person in consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me so much good that I wonder at myself sometimes, and my friends frequently speak of it. Mrs. ELLA A. ADVERTISING.

We are firm believers in the efficacy of printer's ink. We employ it in various ways and methods, but we only use it to tell people of the good things we have and to attract attention to us. When people once get to the store we advertise with low prices and a proper stock—this is an advertisement that strikes home, and goes farther than ink, because unless backed by facts that are indisputable, it draws but once and don't have the desired result even then. Now in the matter of low prices how is it that in a majority of cases we are below other stores? This question naturally arises. Here is the answer. We have learned the secret of owning our goods at less money than our competitors. We aim to Buy them right and the rest is plain sailing. When we buy a bargain we sell a bargain.

Now, these in the main, coupled with the fact that everything sold must be satisfactory, has made us the leading merchants with sales double that of any store in Adams county. Our store is now filled with the choicest of everything and the prices make the sales.

THE Union Sunday School at Ohler's school house will hold a festival on Friday evening and Saturday afternoon and evening, June 5th and 6th. All are cordially invited.

MECHANICSTOWN has already a number of summer boarders from the cities, and the Clarion says one citizen of the place has received applications from about sixty persons seeking country board.

LIGHT rains on Friday evening, Saturday and Sunday, with a good shower Tuesday afternoon, were exceedingly refreshing and the drought may be considered broken. The farmers are happy over the increasing prospects for good crops.

MR. C. F. ROWE, Tax-Collector for the years 1888 and 1889, gives notice in another column that all taxes for those years remaining unpaid after the first of next July will be collected by notice and distress. See that your taxes are settled and thus save heavy costs.

THE Middletown Valley people are determined to push their railroad project forward to completion. It would be gratifying to see as much interest manifested in our contemplated road as exists throughout that community. Middletown is thoroughly aroused to the advantages it would derive from the road, and that the same will be built seems to be a foregone conclusion.

Scribner's Magazine for June opens with Franciscus Searcy's second article on the Great Streets of the World which describes "The Boulevards of Paris," Maria Blunt furnishes a short story entitled "Parson Joyce's Justice," the third article of the series on Ocean Steamships, by Wm. Notice to School Teachers.

School Examiner Glenn H. Worthington gives notice in another column of this issue that the annual examination of applicants for teachers' certificates and for free scholarships at the Normal School will be held next Wednesday and Thursday, June 3rd and 4th.

The Spring Medicine.

The popularity which Hood's Sarsaparilla has gained as a spring medicine is wonderful. It possesses just those elements of healthgiving, blood-purifying and appetite-restoring which everybody seems to need at this season. Do not continue in a dull, tired, unsatisfactory condition when you may be so much benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla. It purifies the blood and makes the weak strong.

List of Letters.

The following letters remain in the Post Office, Emmitsburg, Md., May 25, 1891. Persons calling will please say advertised, otherwise they may not receive them:

Master James F. Elower, Miss Annie Hammett, Miss Kate Izer, M. S. McKinney, Mrs. Matilda Shanbaker, S. N. McNAIR, P. M.

Lot Sale at Frederick.

Two hundred and fourteen lots were sold at the sale of the Frederick City Manufacturing and Development Company on Monday and Tuesday. The aggregate amount realized from the sale was $38,082. Among the purchasers were persons from Washington, Baltimore and Roanoke, Va., besides local residents. The sale was remarkable for the lively and spirited bidding. Prices were satisfactory and the citizens of Frederick are highly pleased with the result.

A Post Office on Wheels.

Last week two of Burkittsville's young men contracted to move the ex-post-office building, intact, to the east end of town. It was placed on wheels and drawn with horses, and was very successfully done. No contract has aroused such a universal interest in that town for a long time, as this one did. The building was placed on the vacant lot, opposite the stone church, and will shortly be occupied by Mr. William Hightman, as a grocery store.—Frederick News.

Maryland Classes.

The Maryland Classes of the Potomac Synod of the Reformed Church convened at Woodberry, last Thursday evening. The opening sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. Geo. L. Staley, and Rev. C. S. Slagle, of Westminster, was elected president, with Rev. G. A. Snyder, of Hagerstown, as corresponding secretary, and Rev. E. R. Deatrick, pastor of Trinity Church, Woodberry, stated clerk. Outside of the routine business of such gatherings the committee on minutes of the classes reported that three educational conventions had been held during the year and that seventeen students for the ministry are now enrolled within the classes. The report of the treasurer showed that $1,333.35 was paid to various interests within the bounds of the State organization. The Rev. C. S. Seagle was elected a trustee of the classes.

The following delegates were elected to the Potomac Synod, which will meet in Chambersburg, Pa., in October: The Revs. J. S. Kieffer, J. W. Santee, E. R. Eschbach, Conrad Clever, A. M. Schmidt, G. A. Snyder, A. S. Weber, L. F. Zinkhan, Joel T. Rossiter, Warren J. R. Carnahan, T. F. Hoffmeier, S. N. Hench, U. Henry Heilman, J. M. Mickley, C. S. Slagle, H. F. Dittmar, E. R. Deatrick, G. L. Staley, H. Ditzler, and Elders Ezra Willard, Jesse Dehoff, F. J. Davis, H. Schriver, Dr. G. T. Showers, A. C. McCordell, C. M. Keedy, Dr. L. Kemp, Charles H. Everhart, Goldsborough S. Griffith, L. R. Schnebey, J. W. Beachley, J. L. Harbaugh, H. C. Foltz, G. J. Ramsburg, W. J. Cramer, Jacob Saum, J. B. Albright, W. H. Lakin, John Utz, J. Koutz and W. E. Fisher.

No deaths among the clergy have occurred during the year. Three new churches have been erected, three remodeled and several are now being improved. The new hymnal was adopted with one or two dissenting votes. Mt. Pleasant, Md., was chosen as the meeting place for the May gathering.

A special committee was appointed to confer with the congregation at Sabillasville about building a church at Highfield and securing one preacher for both congregations. The pastorate at Sabillasville is now vacant. Brunswick, was enrolled as a new point for mission work.

Rev. U. H. Heilman, of this place, was re-elected Treasurer. The meeting adjourned at four o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Elocutionary Contest at the College.

The preliminary contest for two gold medals to be awarded for elocution took place in the Study Hall of the College yesterday afternoon, before the faculty and students. Nineteen contestants entered. The judges selected nine who will compete at the final contest which will be held on June 23rd.

All the competitors acquitted themselves creditably. The names of the successful ones, with the selections rendered, follow:

Wm. F. Cullen, Spruce Creek, Pa., "Order for a Picture"; Fernando Echeverria, Elizabeth, N. J., "The Miser Filly Punished"; Emmet L. Farrell, Blackville, S. C., "Curse of Regulus"; Jos. Ingoldby, Boston, Mass., "Speech of Patrick Henry before the Virginia Convention"; Wm. A. Kerrigan, Warren, R. I., "The Unknown Speaker"; Jos. A. Malone, Brooklyn, N. Y., "Barbara Fritchie"; Wm. McConnell, Lambertville, N. J., "Priceless Things"; Lawrence McBride, Paterson, N. J., "A Christmas Tale"; M. J. O'Shaughnessy, Jr., Huntsville, Ala., "Clarence's Dream"; Richard III.

Music for the occasion was rendered by the Mountain Brass Band.

The following gentlemen have passed the preliminary examination for the Gold Medal in Mathematics and are eligible to compete at the final examination to be held on the 10th of June: Henry King, Joseph Malone, John McGovern, Francis Roth and William Seton.

Seventeen essays were sent in for competition for the gold medal on electricity, from these the following six, which were of superior merit were selected for further consideration:

Francis Clarke, Fernando Echeverria, Charles Kessler, Joseph Lamard, John McGovern and James Rahilly. The names are arranged in alphabetical order.

Fourth Annual Statement Rocky Ridge Missionary Society.

This Society has now upon its roll about sixty members, of this number probably fifty may be called active members.

The dues have been paid in the most part, but it is to be regretted that it has not been done in a more cheerful manner. We also regret to note a less active interest than heretofore in the general welfare of the society, and that during a large part of the year the monthly meetings have been conspicuous by their absence. It is well, however, for those members who have the good of the society at heart, to take into account the bad weather, bad roads and unhealthy condition of the community; and not to judge too harshly. With the advent of spring we sincerely trust that regular meetings will again be held as we consider them of the utmost importance and of great benefit to all, and that in a reawakening spirit, the society may make a better showing in the future.

The annual report of the treasurer is as follows:

Balance in Treasury from '89 & '90, $ 57.4
Receipts from Festival,	37.17
" " Members,	32.81
" " Special Collections, 4.00	$76.72
DISBURSEMENTS.
Superintendent of Missions,	$10.00
Church Extension,	16.00

FAIRFIELD ITEMS.

Mr. Dunlap Paxton is visiting Rev. Wm. Paxton at Princeton, N. J.

George A. Kyner, Esq., of Gettysburg is the guest of Mr. Wm. T. Reed.

Mr. Michael Kugler and wife have returned from their visit at Lancaster, Pa.

D. R. Musselman, Esq., was chosen a juror for the supreme court which is in session at this time at Philadelphia.

Dr. A. P. Beaver has improved his residence by applying a coat of paint, which adds greatly to its appearance.

We have had a fine rain. Farmers who were plowing before the rain with four horses to each plow, find that they can do the same work now with two horses.

A special train was run over the W. M. R. last week, carrying the old gentlemen who surveyed the Tapeworm road, perhaps sixty years ago, and who wanted to view the road as it is, in running order, after lying idle so many years. I was unable to learn his name.

As previously announced in your columns, Rev. W. J. D. Shearer preached a memorial sermon last Sunday, at the Lutheran church. The members of the G. A. R. and Sons of Veterans turned out in uniform. They met at the Post headquarters, and marched to the church, the S. V.'s marching in front in two ranks until the church was reached, then forming two lines through which the G. A. R. boys marched in two ranks, passing up the aisle in single file and taking seats to the right of the altar. The choir sang several selections suitable to the occasion with the hymn America while the collection was being taken up. Rev. Shearer has the thanks of both organizations for his kindness in preaching such an able and appropriate sermon.

Through the Weary Hours

Of many a night, made doubly long by its protracted agony, the rheumatic sufferer tosses to and fro on his sleepless couch, vainly praying for that rest which only comes by fits and starts. His malady is one which ordinary medicine too often fails to relieve, but there is ample evidence to prove that the efficient blood purifier, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, affords the rheumatic a reliable means of relief. Check the malady in its incipient stages, when the first preliminary twinges come on, with this agreeable medicine, and avoid years of torture. Whatever be the rationale of the active influence of the Bitters upon this malady, certain it is that no evidence relating to its effect is more direct and positive than that which relates to its action in cases of rheumatism. Like all other purifying remedies, however, it deserves a protracted, systematic trial, and should not be abandoned because not at once remedial. It is equally efficacious in dyspepsia, indigestion and kindred diseases.

Lydia Pinkham and the Servant Girl Problem.

EDITOR CHRONICLE: Your article on the servant-girl question attracted my attention, but I disagree entirely with its sentiment; argument it has none. The sentiment is that women who can afford to pay ought to have tireless obedient domestics to do their household work for them.

I think that the health and morality of our people is very closely associated with their having enough to do at home, and I mean the women precisely, for even the wealthy amongst the men are full of a passion for business that keeps them always occupied, and indeed often injures them from overwork. I suspect that "Yours for health—Lydia Pinkham" sells very little of her remedies to our plain honest farmers and citizens' wives, and would probably become bankrupt in a short time, if servant-girls disappeared entirely.

A lawyer cannot hire, a man to take exercise for him, nor can a woman hire a woman to do her household work without injuring her own health; at least I think she would have better health and a happier home without domestic servants. Of course I don't allude to occasional "help." I admire the manners that existed when Abraham brought water to wash the feet of his guests, and the noble and beautiful Rebecca gave to drink to the patriarch's messenger and his camels.

I notice too that several of our ladies' pretenses were brought up by mothers who had to do their own household work, and I believe that our present chief executive and his wife began their married career without a servant, and I suspect 'twas all the better for them both.

Removed the Rock.

A colored man at Frederick, who wisely built his house on a rock, found that a corner of this natural foundation which projected into the cellar was a great annoyance. On Monday, after having secured the services of another colored man who is an experienced well digger, the two proceeded to remove the objectionable rock by means of a powder blast, despite the remonstrance of the wife the owner of the premises. The charge of powder proved too heavy and was discharged with an awful report, nearly wrecking the house. The News says: "It is needless to say that the point of rock was blown off, but at quite an expense to Jones."

In Henry & Johnson's Arnicin and Oil Liniment in combined the curative properties of the different oils, with the healing qualities of Arnicin. Good for man and animal. Every bottle guaranteed. For sale by James A. Elder, Emmitsburg, and A. C. Musselman, Fairfield, Pa.

SAVILLASVILLE ITEMS.

Mr. T. F. Eyer was in Waynesboro on business on Tuesday.

Mr. Samuel E. Harbaugh was in Hagerstown on Saturday.

Mrs. Sheffer, of Burkettsville, is the guest of her son, Mr. M. E. Sheffer, of this place.

Mrs. John Black, of Mechanicstown, recently spent a few days at Mr. David Crawford's, this place.

Mrs. Mary Hughes, of this place, was taken seriously ill a few days ago and is now lying in a critical condition.

Dr. C. L. Wachter and wife, of Eler-ton, recently spent several days with their son, Dr. C. L. Wachter, of this place.

Mr. T. A. Wastler and family spent Monday at Mechanicstown with Mr. W.'s mother, who is very ill, with pneumonia.

Mr. M. E. Sheffer, recently caught several large fish in a small stream near his house, by means of a loop made of horse hair.

Mrs. James Sepler and son, of Fairfield, and Mrs. Peter Eyer and daughter, of Gettysburg, were guests at Sanford Harbaugh's on Monday.

Mr. David Waganman has the credit of killing 105 large rats that kept within reach of his corn crib, at which place they have been feasting for some time.

Mrs. Anna Kipe returned home on Saturday, after a visit of several days with her daughter, Mrs. Edward Kipe, who has been very ill at her home near Keedysville, Washington county.

Mr. John A. Williar, a prominent farmer and noted teamster, who left this Valley about twenty years ago, making the State of Iowa his home, returned to this place on Saturday to visit relatives and friends. Mr. Williar's friends were highly pleased to see him and will endeavor to prevail on him to remain with them during the summer.

Dr. C. L. Wachter and T. F. Eyer accompanied Mr. Jacob Bowman to Baltimore on Tuesday, to have a growth taken from his mouth which was said to be cancer. The operation was performed by Dr. Chambers. After an incision was made in the face it was ascertained that three inches of the jaw bone would have to be removed. Mr. Bowman stood the operation well and was rapidly improving when last heard from.

Mr. John Waugh, living about 14 miles north of this place, was shot by his wife on Sunday evening. After retiring it is stated by her brother that she manifested uneasiness. Shortly before her bed and obtaining a revolver which was probably placed conveniently by her, fired at her husband. The ball passed through his skull above the ear and lodged in his brain. Dr. C. L. Wachter, of this place, and Dr. Snively, of Waynesboro, were summoned, but could render apparently little surgical aid. Mr. Waugh has remained in an unconscious condition ever since the shooting occurred. Constable Wm. F. Birely arrested Mrs. Waugh on Monday evening, and lodged her in the Frederick jail on Tuesday morning. Mr. Edward S. Eichelberger, States-Attorney, was here on Tuesday to obtain full particulars of the affair.

Belford's Magazine for June is, as usual very full of interesting reading matter. "The Wage System" is discussed by Eva McDonald, Rheta L. Childie furnishes a short story entitled "Polly and I were Sweethearts," "A Sexagenarian," in the second paper on "Physical Culture" discourses on "Walking for Health," "Genius and Morality" are discussed by Frederick T. Jones, "Foreign Trade and Reciprocity" are made the subject of an interesting article by Franklin MacVegh, and "Popular Science" is treated by F. L. Oswald, Ph. D. The Editorial Department embraces "The Speakership of the Next House," "The Tariff and the Farmer's Alliance," and the complete novel with which this Magazine always closes its monthly contribution to the reading public, is "An Impossible Story" called "A Bargain in Souls," by E. De Lancy Pierson.

Western Maryland Railroad Affairs.
The monthly meeting of the directors of the Western Maryland Railroad was held Wednesday, President Hood in the chair, with Geo. H. Baer, secretary. The general manager's report showed an increase of about $5,000 in receipts for April as compared with March, 1891. Director J. K. Longwell, of Westminster, resigned, and Mr. John M. Littig was elected in his place. Colonel Longwell in his letters to the directors and President Hood says active and energetic men are required in the board at this time, and he resigns on account of infirmities and extreme age. He says the road at present has the brightest future that has ever before it, and he hopes the management may be allowed to work out its present plans without embarrassment from those who are seeking to throw obstacles in the way. The board passed resolutions regretting the retirement of Colonel Longwell.—Sun.

"Quite likely." At this stage a newspaper reporter entered upon the scene.

"Let me prove it to you. Take the ordinary library edition of Dickens, Thackeray or Scott, and if you average up the amount of matter, page by page, you will find that a fair estimate would be 300 words per page.

"Wonderful!" said one. "Astounding!" said the second. "Not at all. Now, then, there are journalists that have been in harness from twenty to forty years.

"Save the mark!" "—in forty years just exactly 20,160,000 words or an amount of matter equivalent to 224 300 page novels, the work of any fifty ordinary novelist together.
