THE CHINESE WAR.

The state of things in China at this time, is one that we, being so far removed, not only in geographical position, but in spirits, feelings and habits, cannot fully realize.

That so large a portion of the people whom we have been accustomed to regard as mere machines, in the hands of their rulers, should be in open and successful revolt against the government is in itself a startling announcement, but when added to this, we hear of the wholesale butchery of foreigners, the indignities and cruelties inflicted on all who bear the name of Christian, indignation and horror almost forbid credence to the terrible story. More than this, there is every reason to believe that the government secretly connives at these atrocities.

The spirit of opposition to foreigners which for thousands of years kept the Chinese behind their impregnable wall, unseen and uncontaminated by the presence or the influences of "outside barbarians," still exists in this people even though their gates have been of late years opened to foreigners, and the missionaries of the Christian religion, though allowed to teach and work among their people, have always been distrusted by the government which is now, it is said, secretly encouraging the rebels in their brutal attacks on the Christians.

THE CALAMITY THAT HAS FALLEN ON CYRUS W. FIELD.

The sad fate which has overtaken Cyrus W. Field in his old age challenges the sympathy of all who know the sterling character of the man and have admired his career as one of New York's most public spirited citizens. His wife died, his daughter lying at the point of death and his son in such a position that nothing but confinement in an insane asylum can save him from a felon's cell.

If Edward M. Field has been insane during all his reckless and fraudulent money transactions, his partners have certainly been blameable in allowing him to control such vast business interests without even looking into affairs or apparently caring where the vast sums of money went, which were secured from other people, the loss of which has ruined all connected with him. Surely some one is responsible for not stopping a madman's career, before he brought poverty and disgrace on an honored family and financial ruin on all with whom he was associated.

It is gratifying to note that the interest in making a creditable representation of the State of Maryland and its resources at the World's Fair in 1892, is growing daily. The Legislature at its coming session should be impressed with the necessity of making a liberal appropriation to that end, so that our glorious old Commonwealth may be able to stand in line among its fellow-states and before the visitors in a fitting manner as one of the most important states of the union. That Governor Brown will heartily favor and assist in this matter is assured by the lively interest he has always taken in the welfare of his native State.

Miss MARIE DIEHL, daughter of the late Rev. Dr. Geo. Diehl, has assumed charge of the Frederick Examiner, in which position she succeeds her father. The Chronicle extends its best wishes and gladly welcomes another woman to the fraternity of Frederick county editors.

FIVE WERE KILLED.

Terrible Explosion of a Dynamite Factory in New York State.

New York, Dec. 3.—An explosion occurred at the dynamite factory in Haverstraw yesterday afternoon and the shock was felt for many miles. Five men were killed, as follows: John Wadsworth, engineer of the works; Peter Carossa, Joseph Williams, Joseph C. Adley, workmen at the dynamite works, and Perry Lonsberry, of Sing Sing, who was in a boat near the shore. The bodies of the four workmen were terribly mangled.

A man who was in the boat with Lonsberry at the time escaped uninjured. The building, which was blown up, was a frame one, 50x150 feet. The building was set on fire by the explosion and burned for several hours. The shock from the explosion was felt twenty miles away. A number of other buildings containing dynamite about 150 feet from the scene of the explosion were not injured. The property belongs to the Clinton Dynamite company, of which William Foss, of Haverstraw, is the manager.

Elmer Nash, the foreman of the works, was a short distance away and escaped unhurt.

Glass was broken by the shock in Rockland Lake, Nyack, Sing Sing and other nearby places. The cause of the explosion is not known at present.

In Sing Sing, five miles away, and on the other side of the river, the explosion was severely felt and did a good deal of damage. Windows in many houses were broken and people rushed into the streets with the belief that an earthquake had occurred.

AN AFFLICTED FAMILY.

Edward M. Field, the Bankrupt Broker, Declared Insane—Cyrus W. Field, Now Penitent, and Lying at the Point of Death.

New York, Dec. 3.—Edward M. Field, who, it is asserted, is responsible for the wreck of the brokerage firm of Field, Lindley, Weichers & Co., has been committed by Judge David McAdam, of the superior court, to Vernon house, a private asylum for the insane at Mount Vernon, as a madman, dangerous both to himself and the public. Mr. Field was taken to Mount Vernon by train. He was accompanied in the carriage to the asylum by Dr. Frank H. Ingram and Dr. Matthew W. Field. On the train Mr. Field had little to say. He appeared dazed. When the party entered the carriage he made no resistance. At no time did he display any violence. When they reached the asylum Dr. Ingram prepared to receive him. The necessary formalities were quickly concluded, and then Drs. Ingram and Field left Edward M. Field in the asylum.

One of the physicians, in speaking of Mr. Field's case, said he was not prepared to answer the question of Mr. Field's insanity. He said he went with Mr. Field as a friend of the family. From the statement made by this physician it does not appear that Mr. Field is a violent or violent lunatic. The physicians say his case is not incurable. Vernon house, the asylum to which Mr. Field was committed, is a private institution at Mount Vernon, and is in charge of Dr. William D. Granger, who founded it about a year and a half ago. Sheriff Gorman said that the commitment of Edwin M. Field to an insane asylum overrides the order for his arrest, and that his instructions not to arrest the other members of the firm of Field, Lindley, Weichers & Co., had not been countermanded.

According to a published story Edward M. Field recently appealed to his father, Cyrus W. Field, for assistance to prevent the failure of the firm, all of his resources having been used up. His father refused to assist him, and authorized him to take certain securities from his strong box (or safe deposit vault) for that purpose. The son, however, took every negotiable security not prevent the firm's downfall. An attempt was made to corroborate that story, but it was found somewhat difficult to do. Enough was learned, however, from authoritative sources to show that all probabilities were true. The most intimate friend that Cyrus W. Field has said that it was quite true that Mr. Field was absolutely penniless at this time. It is believed that all that time before this fresh trouble did not exceed $400,000, and of that not a dollar was left. How much Edward M. Field succeeded in getting from his father in the manner described is not known, but it is said to have been $300,000.

The condition of Cyrus W. Field has taken a change for the better. Dr. Fuller thought the outlook was favorable, and that ultimate recovery was by no means to be despair of. "Mr. Field," Dr. Fuller said, "is in no immediate danger of death. He is listless and apathetic, and in the face of great misfortune, quite indifferent as to whether he dies or not. In fact, I believe he would welcome death as a happy release from his troubles." Rev. Dr. Henry M. Field and David Dudley Field, brothers of the stricken man, are at the house constantly. While gratified at the improvement in Mr. Field's condition they have no hope of his recovery. Dr. Field says that a cure is not necessary, particularly mental. But it is impossible to keep Mr. Field from brooding over his troubles. Of itself the death of his wife was enough to prostrate him, but when following this shock came the astounding revelations concerning the methods of his son's firm and the knowledge that that son was insane and had dissipated the family fortune, the wonder of it all is that Cyrus W. Field is alive today.

LAUNCH OF THE CRUISER NEW YORK.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2.—Cramp's shipyard presented a lively scene early this afternoon when the United States steamer New York, the largest of the cruisers thus far launched, took her first dip in the waters of the Delaware. There was a large and distinguished company present to witness the event.

THE NEW YORK BEFORE THE LAUNCH. Including the vice president and Mrs. Morton, Secretary Tracy, Secretary Noble, Secretary Rusk, Miss Rusk and numbers of their friends, besides senators and congressmen.

Among the New Yorkers present, headed by Captain Ambrose Snow, president of the New York board of trade, were such substantial commercial and financial pillars as James Talcott, William Irwin Martin, Judge William Henry Amos, George L. Pease, General Ferdinand P. Earle, Seth E. Thomas, G. Waldo Smith, Lloyd I. Seaman, William D. Stewart, William Brookfield, Jordan L. Mott, George L. Norton, George J. Sabin, John H. Norton, William H. Wiley, James H. Seymour, Aaron Vanderbilt, E. S. A. de Lima and William H. Webb.

Disappointment was felt when word was received that President Harrison, who had hoped to see the launch, would find it impossible to attend. The regret caused by this announcement was lessened some what by the presence of Mrs. Harrison and other members of the White House family. Invitations numbering nearly six thousand were sent out, but not much over half that number attended. The yard was thrown open to the public, and countless vessels were drawn up in front of the great launching vessel. The guests of the assembled hosts, crowding into every point of observation, was a thrilling one. An immense pavilion had been erected, with a seating capacity of 1,500 persons, from which an excellent view of the launch was obtained. The guests of honor assembled on a large platform built around the prow of the new ship.

Promptly at 2 o'clock 500 workmen began hammering away at the blocks from under the keel to the stern. The keel was the last act, and the logs, feeling the tremendous weight and down into the water glided the mammoth cruiser. At this interesting moment Miss Helen Clifford Paige, the daughter of J. Seaver Paige, of New York, broke a bottle of champagne on the prow of the gigantic war vessel. The same time saying, "I christen thee New York." It was exactly 3:41 when the mammoth vessel slid into the water amid the plaudits of the multitude. After the christening ceremony, the visiting guests were invited to a grand banquet given by the Cramps.

The dimensions of the new cruiser: Length of water line, 380 ft. 6.5 in.; breadth of beam, 61 ft.; mean draught, 23 ft. 3.5 in.; displacement, 8,150 tons; maximum speed, 30 knots; range, 12,000 miles; complement (officers and men), 475; bunker capacity, 1,500 tons; coal endurance (total capacity), 13,000 miles.

Her coal endurance is calculated at ten knots, and she is steamed twenty-four hours. Under natural draught, and at that speed, not allowing for barnacles, she can circumnavigate the globe.

Her buoyancy and stability are protected by a partial belt of nickel steel armor, another of water excluding material and a protective deck. In addition to this she has three other complete decks and a flying deck or bridge, upon which the boats are stored. The armor of the protective deck is of varying thickness at different parts of the vessel. It extends four feet nine inches below the water line amidships, and one foot above it, when the vessel is at her normal draught. At the center of the ship the deck slopes and is there covered with an additional thickness of three inches.

The New York will carry six eight inch rapid fire guns, eight six pounders, four gatlings and six torpedo tubes.

One peculiar feature of the new cruiser is her great collective horse power, which is 18,000. This is 8,000 more than that of any vessel now in the navy. There are four separate engines, two of these work the shaft for the starboard screw and two that for the port. It is so arranged that these engines can be disconnected and the vessel allowed to cruise under half power.

The New York will be fitted out as a flagship and will have every modern convenience, including artificial ventilation, complete electric lighting and arrangements for the use of 10,000 amperes capacity, furnishing electricity to 700 incandescent lights. Her cost to the government is nearly $3,000,000.

The Graves Jury Completed.

DENVER, Dec. 3.—The effort to secure a jury in the Graves murder trial was continued yesterday afternoon. A large number of men were examined, and at the close of court there remained one yet to be chosen. This one was agreed upon this forenoon. District Attorney Stevens then started the opening speech, which will occupy the remainder of the day.

Don Pedro Sinking.

PARIS, Dec. 3.—The condition of Don Pedro, ex-emperor of Brazil, is exciting the gravest apprehensions. He has since continued to grow worse. The child is complicated with diabetes.

The December Eclectic is supplied with articles of interest on a variety of subjects. A paper on "The Demoralization of Russia" gives a picture of society rotten through and through. Christie Murray completes his studies of Australian Life, and Frederick Harrison has a few words on the Eternal Woman Question. A brief account of Austrian Life by Baroness Nyevelt he read with interest. Mrs. Betham and French, and there's a study of Henry James. Justin McCarthy estimates Parnell with a generosity mixed with justice. James Sully has a paper entitled "Is Man the only Reasoner?" and another article by Dr. Louis Robinson has the suggestive title of "Darwinism in the Nursery." Mme de Belloc contributes a paper on the Brothers Goncourt and their Friends, and Professor Gore, the astronomer, furnishes poems, and essays on a variety of topics. This issue is on the whole one of exceptional value and interest.

TOWSON, Md., Nov. 27.—The Baltimore county school board met at Towson. Messrs. John B. Kidd and David E. Hoover asked that a public school be established at Lohr's mills, in the sixth district. The board ordered that the school be opened by Commissioner Shambarger. It is to be known as school 9.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Nov. 27.—The Washington county grand jury after being in session for eight days, concluding its labors and was discharged. Twenty-seven true bills were found. Among these was an indictment against George S. Shiffer, a well known and prosperous farmer, of Beltsville, who was charged with setting fire to the barn of D. S. Shiffer, his cousin, in August, 1890. He was taken before Judge Stake, in the court house, and there gave bail in the sum of $5,000 for his appearance at court. The arrest of Mr. Shiffer is a surprise to the entire community, and his prominence in the county attracts a great deal of interest to his case.

It will be remembered that D. S. Shiffer is the man whose horses were poisoned several years ago in the very barn that was afterwards burned. Last June Mr. D. S. Shiffer found in his cornfield some poisoned food and coffee. These he gave to a Mrs. McKernan, a woman who worked for him. She made bread of the flour, and she, her husband and four children, who ate of the bread, were taken very sick. One boy died from the effect of the poison. The fact that D. S. Shiffer is such a frequent sufferer at the hands of some malicious person or persons during the past few years has awakened considerable sympathy in behalf of this county.

Trouble Over a Railroad.

A large force of workmen began laying the third track of the B. and O. Railroad through the town of Brunswick on Monday morning about 1 o'clock. A protest from the town council was served on them to prohibit the work on the ground that the company's charter does not allow a third track through this street in the town. No attention was given to this and the men were ordered to work. A crowd of citizens opposed the work and for awhile they tore up the track as fast as it was laid. The number of workmen soon became too great for any successful opposition and the track was placed in position. During the trouble pistols were fired and dynamite exploded. When the track was being laid in front of the Red Men's Hall building a stick of dynamite exploded in the hand of Willard R. Bond, son of John R. Bond, terribly lacerating his right hand and his head. His hand was amputated by Drs. Ransom and Elgin. At the time of the accident he was leaning out the window of the hall. Everything has since been quiet, but the citizens are very much excited over the affair and more trouble is anticipated. The ground over which the dispute arose is a street in the town and the citizens object to having it entirely covered with tracks.—Sun.

Something for the New Year.
The world renowned success of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and their continued popularity for over a third of a century as a stomachic, is a remedy more wonderful than the welcome that greets the annual appearance of Hostetter's Almanac. This valuable medical treatise is published by The Hostetter Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., under their own immediate supervision, employing chemists and physicians. It is running about 11 months in the year on this work, and the issue of the same for 1892 will be more than ten millions, printed in the English, German, French, Welsh, Norwegian, Swedish, Italian, and Spanish languages. Refer to a copy of it for valuable and interesting reading concerning health, and numerous testimonials as to the efficacy of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Send for a copy of the Almanac, astronomical calculations and chronology, etc., which can be depended on for correctness. The Almanac for 1892 can be obtained free of cost, from druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the country.

Keep your eyes open: 25 cents buys Salvation Oil, the greatest cure on earth for pain.

Tourists to Yellowstone Park next season might encounter a northwestern blizzard. If they are wise men they will take along a supply of the famous Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

18 Pounds of Blood
Is about the quantity nature allows to an adult person. It is of the utmost importance that the blood should be kept as pure as possible. By its remarkable cures of scrofula, salt rheum, etc., Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven its claim to be the best blood purifier.

For a general family cathartic we confidently recommend Hood's Pills. They should be in every home medicine chest.

Mountain View Cemetery.
The Mountain View Cemetery Company of this place, has through its president, Henry Stokes, Esq., filed a deed of trust in the Clerk's office at Emmitsburg, in favor of Eugene L. Rowe, Esq., trustee. This procedure was adopted in order to relieve certain legal complications and to facilitate the reorganization of the company. It is understood that the Company's property will be sold and that the purchasers will continue the use of the same for cemetery purposes without impairing the rights of the present lot holders, whose interests are protected in the deed of trust.

November Weddings.
Mr. Harry E. Krise of Frederick was married last Wednesday to Miss Minnie Martin, daughter of Mr. Jeremiah Martin of Loy's Station.

Mr. Brock Shaw of Frederick, who is well known in this place, was married on Thanksgiving Day to Miss Jennie La Motte, of Manchester.

Miss Maggie R. Hanley, formerly of this vicinity, was married on the 26th of November to Mr. George W. Stansbury of Westminster. The ceremony took place in the parsonage of St. John's Catholic church, Westminster, and was performed by Rev. Theodore D. Meade of Taneytown.

They Helped Their Neighbors.
The Taneytown correspondent of the Westminster Sentinel says:

A portion of the old plank road west of town, near the Frederick county line, was in such bad condition that the farmers could not haul a full load over it. The supervisor having it in charge said there was no money in hand to spend on it. So some fifteen or twenty farmers from Frederick county, who haul their produce over the road to market, came over with their teams and hauled stones and gravel and repaired it in its first-class condition. Now, while Carroll county can boast of the lowest tax rate in the State, Taneytown district can boast a good road made by Frederick county farmers.

More Chicken Stealing.
Chicken thieves are again becoming annoying in this neighborhood. On Monday night, Mrs. Long who lives on the Mountain side near Mr. F. B. Welty's, was relieved of twenty-five fine fowls and the thieves left no trace by which they could be followed. On Tuesday night Mr. John Eline, living on Rowe & Hoke's poultry farm at Poplar Ridge, heard a noise among the fowls and supposing the same to be caused by thieves, Johnnie got his gun and scattered a load of shot over the surrounding country that will be long remembered by all within hearing of the report. Unfortunately John had over-estimated the strength of the gun when loading it, and while nursing a bruised face his sorrowful gaze is now and then drawn towards his wrecked weapon of defense.

MT. ST. MARY'S COLLEGE NEWS.

A Beautiful Statue for the Grotto—The Musicale—Foot Ball.
Rev. James J. Dunn of Meadville, N. Y., class of '62 sent us a beautiful statue of Our Lady which he desires to have placed in the "Old Grotto." The Statue is a votive offering in commemoration of Fr. Dunn's Silver Jubilee which he celebrated on the 23rd of last October. On the base of the Statue is stamped the years 1806 and 1891.

Fr. Dunn received Tonsure and Minor Orders at Erie, Pa., July 19, 1865, from Rt. Rev. Josue M. Young, a former student of Mt. St. Mary's. He received Subdiaconship and Deaconship at Mt. St. Mary's Church, Emmitsburg, Oct. 26th and 27th, 1865, from Rt. Rev. John Timon, Bishop of Buffalo, N. Y. He received Priesthood also in the Mountain Church Oct. 28, 1866, from Rt. Rev. John Quinlan of Mobile, Ala.

Wednesday evening, Thanksgiving Eve, a musicale was tendered the class of '92. Under the management of Mr. Wm. A. Cullen it proved an entire and artistic success.

The St. Cecilia Orchestra opened with the overture "Plantation Gens," and was followed by Mr. Joseph Gormley in the pleasing vocal solo, "Happy Moments." Mr. Emmett Farrell recited in very strong style "The Wrecker's Oath" and Mr. Wm. Kerrigan in the well received cello solo, "Alice, Where art Thou," preceded the "Crown of Gold" overture by the orchestra. A well played violin solo by Prof. Kochenbach, "Revere," closed part I.

Mr. Cullen rendered a brilliantly executed piano solo, "Polka De Concert," and responded to an encore with "Wild Flowers." The St. Cecilia Orchestra played "The Approach of Spring" waltzes and then Mr. Wm. F. Casey with his banjo, was received with a loud burst of applause. He played the "Patrol Comique," and being called out a number of times, favored the audience with several new selections, ending up with his famous trick banjo solo. A piano duo "La Tendresse" by Prof. Kochenbach and Mr. Cullen, was followed by Mr. Fernando Echeverria in Longfellow's "Sancti Spiritus." The nocturne "Op. 51" by the orchestra closed part II.

Part III was opened with the prettily played "Patience," an overture which was deservedly applauded. A violin duo by Messrs. Kochenbach and Grasselli came after the stirring recitation, "The Trump" by Mr. Jno. F. Seton. Messrs. Casey and Grasselli made the audience very enthusiastic by their clever rendering of two banjo duos, and then came the great hit of the evening, Mr. Cullen's beautiful vocal solo "Watching." Mr. Cullen repeated three times in response to clamorous applause. The march, "Kameke" by the orchestra closed the first entertainment of the season. After the recital, Rev. Dr. Allen congratulated the gentlemen who had favored them.

The second of the series of class-games was played Thursday between '93 and '95. The former had a very easy time of it scoring 12 to 0 in the first half of 45 minutes. By mutual agreement the second half consisted of twenty minutes but again '93 shot out her opponents, scoring 10 for herself. Final score '93, 22-'95, 0. The two eleven's:

'93.	Position.	'95.
Gormley	Left end	Nagle
Gordon	Right end	McDonnell
Grasselli	Center	W. Rice
Lakin	Right guard	Carroll
Baldwin	Left guard	McDonnell
J. Carroll	End	Frederick
McDonnell	Quarter	Burkhardt
Cashman	Right half	Ryan

Grasselli played a good game at center. Cashman and Dorley broke through the rush line repeatedly. McDonnell made several good runs around the end. Farrell played an excellent game at quarter. Pendegast played a plucky game for his side. Holloway, Ferry, Brogan, Horkistis and McGhee played very well. Gordon and Carroll distinguished themselves as usual.

The Junior's fence from the President's building to the lower fence is being torn down, thus giving to the Senior division both sides of the big hand-ball alley.

TO EMILY.
[Horace's Odes Book I, No. 22.]
What cares the man, whose heart is pure,
For darts and arrows of the Moor?
Through burning sands his path may tend,
Hydæstes and Caucasus lend
Their gruesome horrors, fables old,
Fantastic terrors, thus to mould;
And yet, the man with conscience free,
Can laugh to scorn their trickery.

When I rolled, all free from care,<
Mid Sabine groves without a fear,
And Emily I sung of thee,—
When lo! a wolf appeared to me.
A monster fearful in its size,
With trothful mouth and glaring eyes,
Through lion-nursing jaws it roared,
Or Danian wood no creature roves,
So fearful to the human eye,
As that which passed me idly by.
Then place me where no summer breeze
Revives the fields, or fans the trees;
Where angry Jove his lightning hurls,
And earth and sea in tempest whirls;
Nath'r torrid heat or polar cold,
H'll sweet Emily behold.
The inclement clime will not destroy
The bliss of my surpassing joy.
And homeless there, my soul shall burn,
And there, e'en there, my heart shall turn
To thy sweet smile and thy sweet voice,
And of thee dreaming still rejoice.
Mt. St. Mary's '93.

Commendable.
All claims not consistent with the high character of Syrup of Figs are purposely avoided by the Cal. Fig Syrup Company. It acts gently on the kidneys, liver and bowels, cleansing the system effectually, but it is not a cure-all and makes no pretensions that every bottle will not substantiate.
