A Very Curious Story.

A Page From The History Of A Saddened Life.

From The Philadelphia Weekly Times.

We had brought our chairs out on the lawn, for the night was hot and sultry. A low-hanging harvest moon spread its full radiance over field and meadow, and the heavy feeling of oppression rested on us all. We were but a small party, but entirely congenial. From boyhood up we had ever been close companions, and the only break had come when Alec had been sent to business for his house to a far-away Southern town, there to negotiate the transfer of a coffee plantation. At the time of his departure he was engaged to be married, and expected soon to return to claim his bride, but on arriving at his destination he found that certain business and legal formalities would detain him much longer than he anticipated. Writing home to his fiancée of his disappointment, she determined to go out to him, and by the next steamer she was on her way. That was years ago, and to-night was the first time we four chums had been together in all that time. We had heard, but in meagre details, the death of Miss Marvin soon after her arrival. Alec had come back, only to hasten off to some other place with an equally unpronounceable name, and we had supposed that by this time his sorrow was a thing of the past, and that he had some where in his travels found a wife to take Miss Marvin's place. On meeting him at the door it was evident to me that time in this case had proved but a sorry healer. The light-hearted, jolly boy was gone, and in his place stood a man stern and aged before his time with a questioning wonder in the gloomy eyes, that seemed forever seeking something or some one as they glanced cautiously about. He was sitting now puffing away at his cigar in moody silence. Tom, Dick and I were trying our voices on some old melody that seemed appropriate to the night, yet we did not let ourselves out, but sang rather in a subdued and sort of hushed way, as though we were afraid of waking some one. Just when we were about to start in on the third verse, Alec started up, and, in accents sharp with pain, said:

"For God's sake, fellows, shut up. Can't you see that music is driving me crazy. I hate minor music and I hate the moon."

Nothing our surprise, he continued: "Yes, I know I act like a lunatic, but when I tell you something I have been trying for years to solve you will know why it is I cannot bear that song or appreciate this moonlight."

He sat up straight, and something in his manner led us to believe that what he had to say was connected with that period of his existence of which we knew so little. Turning from one to the other, with a gleam of the old time companion in his manner, he said:

"Boys, what I tell you to-night I have never breathed to a living soul outside the tropics. Help me if you can; to solve a mystery that is driving me mad."

In hushed expectation we waited for him to begin. It was not long, though at first it seemed as though he had forgotten our very presence.

"When I was sent out to Mendoza five years ago, as you know, I was to return soon. The trip was delightful, my prospects bright and the expectation that on my return I was to be married to Miss Marvin, whom you may remember, gave to my thoughts a singularly happy turn and every thing was couleur de rose.

"The first night at dinner I noticed a girl sitting near me, who, from the very peculiarity of her appearance, attracted my attention from the first. She was unusually slender, with long, slim, beautifully manicured hands. Her eyes were black, small and restless. Her hair of the most extraordinary tint of red that I have ever seen. You smile; she was not beautiful, but if you could have seen as I have done, the slow, sweet, cruel smile; the rosy lips and small, sharp teeth, and the lightning movements of the slim hands and graceful head, you would not wonder I was charmed, awe charmed, that was the word.

Away from her I loathed the very thought of her, but once let her come toward me, with that graceful, undulating walk that was all her own, with the slim, white hand extended, her eyes fixed on mine, while that perfect smile hovered over the little, cruel mouth, I was her slave.

"I hated myself for it, I read long lessons to my wavering affections on their disloyalty to Bessie, and in the midnight hours swore that I would not meet her again while we remained on board. But all in vain. The charm of her presence was too much for me and the morrow found me by her side. Things of that kind progress so much faster on shipboard than in society. There is nothing else to do, and before I knew what I was about I had drifted farther than I dared to think of. She on her part seemed not so much to love me as to enjoy the torture she inflicted. Vanity was her ruling passion, though why I was chosen the victim to be sacrificed on its altar, God only knows. One night, it was just such another as this, we sat together in the shadow of a lifeboat looking out over the sparkling sea. On the morrow the trip would be ended, and I, away from her baleful presence could burst the chains that bound me and be once more a man. As if reading my thoughts, she slipped one white hand into mine and in a sort of dreamy whisper, she began:

"Alec, do you believe in a pre-existence? I do, and somehow to-night I feel as though I could look back into that state and see myself. Many times I've been in the same place before, always a jungle, deep, dark, impenetrable. I see great dead white and scarlet blossoms whose odor makes the very air heavy with a languorous perfume. I feel that I am there yet, see no one until a man with white drawn face approaches near my hiding place. Then all at once I feel a tremor steal throughout my being, fierce fire beats down upon my head. I clasp my body round that human form, and then I see that man enfolded in the coils of a writhing venomous cobra that springs from the branch above his head. Alec, am I that cobra?"

"Involuntarily I shuddered; her picture was so vivid. With a soft laugh she went on,

"You need not shudder. I find something enchanting in that picture; it is the way to kill, crush in a fierce embrace—and life is soon extinct. It is as I should do if you were false."

"Her eyes glittered as she fastened them on mine, and the slim fingers twitched convulsively."

"It is as I should do," she murmured, "but not the man, oh, no, that punishment would be too small. A death like that, crushed in my lingering embrace would be heaven to the man, but through the woman he should suffer."

"My thoughts flew to Bessie and I saw then—oh, so clearly—what a fool I had been to allow myself to be dragged into the net of such a woman, but on the morrow we would part and then it would be so much easier to break the news of my engagement by letter, and as I was soon to return to North America what harm could come of it. It was only an episode in the life on shipboard. We parted for the night, she more loving and tender than her wont, yet with a peculiar stealthy watchfulness of my actions that made me nervous. In the morning all was bustle and activity, and in the confusion we exchanged but a few hurried words and parted—I with a promise of many letters lingering on my lips and she with an odd little metallic laugh that rings through my dreams to this day. I put off telling her of my engagement, even by letter, until I had word that Miss Marvin was about to join me, owing to my stay being prolonged. Then I knew that I must no longer conceal the fact and sat down and wrote to my steamer companion a full explanation of my affairs and arose from my desk with a huge weight off my mind and my conscience.

"The moments seemed weighted, so slowly did they pass until the word reached us that the Mariposa was lying at anchor in the lower harbor. Bessie, my future wife, my bride to be, was only an hour away. No lover was ever more ardent, and it was not long before I was rushing like a madman down to the wharf to greet my darling. There I stood with the burning Southern sun beating down on my unprotected head unheeded, for a fiercer and more ardent flame was consuming my heart as I thought of the happiness in store for me. With the breaking off of my relations with my Southern steamer acquaintance a new life seemed to bound through my veins and an eagerness I could not conceal caused me to pace up and down in restless impatience on that scorching wharf.

"You can imagine when I tell you all this what my feelings must have been when just as the majestic vessel was within sight a voice at my elbow startled me with its well-known intonation, and turning, I discovered that my hope to escape from the awful enchantment of the steamer was a fleeting and evanescent fancy. Before me, with her eyes darting fire, the lips moving in the slow, cruel smile, stood the woman I had thought so far away.

"Your white Northern dove is coming, I see? Does it not seem a fitting climax that I, the east-off plaything of an idle hour, should be on hand to witness the warm greeting and the loving kiss, to hear the burning words of welcome, and knowing all, to realize what I have lost. Your letter was so kind, so just, how could I do otherwise than be on hand to share your joy and witness her triumph. You write, you turn your eyes about, ah, now my friend, again I see the jungle, again I see the white tortured face, and now I know it is yours—yours, and I am there, but where, but where!

"With a swift sudden movement as the steamer drew up to the pier she was gone—gone like a phantom as silently and curiously as she appeared, and with a cold perspiration starting from every pore I strove to be at ease and greet my bride.

"That night—ah! shall I ever forget it? Bessie and I, hand clasped in hand, sat on the moon-lit verandah dreaming those dreams that lovers love to dream until at last a silence sweet and tender had fallen upon us. At the end of the narrow pebbled walk a dark clump of tropical plants stood out in weird relief against the dazzling whiteness of that sultry night. Omnisciently burst into song, and a mandolin player in a near-by cafe strummed a sweet minor air.

"At last our revelry was broken by the approach of my servant, who in a whisper begged pardon for the intrusion, but said a lady waited for me in the little room I had turned into part library, part den and set apart for my especial use. With a lingering kiss on the sweet lips upturned to mine, I left her and went into the house.

"My God! that night. Finding no one in my room, I hastened out to seek an explanation of such unpardonable stupidity, when on the night air rang out one awful frightened cry that was smothered at its birth. Out into the moonlight I rushed, my brain on fire, my nerves in a tension of despair, for though I knew not what calamity had befallen one I loved so well, yet cold and icy hands were grasping at my heart, and a hundred mocking, smirking devils cried: "She is ours! She is ours!"

"Lying like one asleep, the startled servants and myself found all that remained to me of my bonnie girl; her golden hair unloosened by her fall, caught the moonbeams in its glorious caress, and over the pale face the cold, calm light fell in heavenly benediction.

"No marks were there to mar the beauty of the calm, young face. Hurriedly we looked about for the unknown assassin, who, coward that he was, had wrested from me the prize when I was not by to defend it with my life. No trace could there be found, but a servant later on informed me that down the shining gravel walk a cobra had been seen to glide away.

"Now you know why I hate a night like this, and now you know why, like a branded man, I wander o'er the surface of the globe with the mark of Cain upon my brow."

We sat for a long time in silence after he had gone into the house. At last in a voice he tried hard to steady Tom said:

"Poor old chap. I never knew he was such a hard drinker—his trouble must have driven him to it."

This explanation we tried to accept, but in our hearts we knew it was not drink, but a mystery we could not solve.

The CHRONICLE to-day enters a new year, and though still too young to boast of work accomplished or experience gained, it still too full of the spirit of "Young America," to stand quietly in the background and allow the fourteenth anniversary of its birthday to pass altogether unnoticed.

Therefore the CHRONICLE, on entering its fourteenth year greets its readers with the fearless independence which comes from a proper estimate of its position and a determination to work for the best interests of those on whose support its existence depends.

TWO HUNDRED DEAD.

PRAGUE, June 2.—An appalling accident has occurred at the famous Birkenburg silver mine, near Prizbram, in Bohemia. The accident resulted in the death of two hundred men.

In the first confusion it was believed that only forty men were missing, but a house to house inquiry among the miners' families revealed the fact that nearly 200 miners were left in the pit.

The flames were supposed to have been finally subdued at the time when the first rescuing party went down, but after fourteen bodies had been brought up the fire broke out afresh.

Immediately after the foreman's return with the remains of his party the fire started up again and despite the work of the engines, is still burning fiercely.

Thousands of men, women and children are in the fields and in the city and in the vicinity of the mine, and it is believed that many of them have been left in the pit and burned to death.

The cyclone was not exceeding two minutes in actual duration, but the work of destruction and death.

The telephone system, except one line wire, which is all right from end to end, is completely ruined, and the switch board at the Central office was taken a mile and dropped in a pond.

The Lutheran church, a massive frame building, one of the most substantial kind in the city, was taken up, turned completely over, and now stands with the floor upward, as solid, apparently, as if it had been built in that way.

In Harper, Kan, twelve people were killed and many more are unaccounted for.

Y., in 1867, and in 1869 he organized Company E of the First Eastern Shore Volunteer Infantry, serving three years. He was well known and esteemed in Caroline county as an excellent physician.

HAGERSTOWN, May 2.—Owing to some misunderstanding between the Cumberland Valley railroad people and the Baltimore and Ohio authorities, work has been stopped at Powell's Bend, below Williamsport, where a junction was to be established between the Cumberland Valley railroad and the canal. A bill was passed by the legislature on May 1st providing for this connection.

BEAIR, Md., May 28.—William Tobin was seriously injured yesterday while attempting to remove the belt of a portable sawmill in Mr. John B. Wyson's woods, near Beair. His arm was caught by the belt, and being drawn to the fly wheel, he was whirled around with it until the engine could be stopped, his head striking the ground at every turn. His arm was broken in two places and his hand injured.

Hargett; Fourth ward, John W. H. McCall; and fifth ward, Nicholas Fleming. The Democrats have already made their nominations for aldermen, and both parties have yet to name the candidates for mayor.

BALTIMORE, June 1.—Archibald Stirling, ex-United States district attorney, died of paralysis yesterday, aged 69. He was arrested at the breakfast table on Monday, and did not recover consciousness. Mr. Stirling has been in feeble health for several months. He was the son of the late Archibald Stirling, president of the Baltimore Savings Bank, and was married in 1855 to Anna Steele Lloyd, daughter of Daniel Lloyd of Talbot county. Mrs. Stirling died several years ago. Mr. Stirling was for several years a leader in the Republican party of the state.

ELKTON, Md., May 31.—Mrs. J. H. Ricketts of Porter's Ridge, Md., was murdered by burglars on April 13, 1891, and the alleged murderers have just been apprehended. They are Samuel, alias "Cockney," Fenner and James E. McCall, alias James H. Harris. Both are known as desperate burglars to the police of Philadelphia. They have been identified as the men who were seen in the vicinity of Mrs. Ricketts' prior to the murder. Fenner was arrested in New York, and Richard in Rochester, N. Y., both on the charge of burglary. They are being held for requisition papers, and when brought here will be charged with the crime.

DUNKIRK, Md., May 27.—On the 18th inst. Robert Shipley Jr., found the corpse of a man supposed to be between 28 and 35 years of age entangled in his side in a thicket of bushes and vines on a small island in the Chesapeake bay opposite the fishing creek, Calvert county. The man had light hair and blue eyes, and the body had evidently been in the water more than a month. The left side of the face was badly mashed. A gun was found in the man's hand, and the clothing was black, with a complete suit included a worsted and a flannel shirt. On the face were fine buttoned garters. It is not known where there were any papers on the corpse, the finding of which was reported to the authorities, but no inquiry was held. The remains were buried, but not sufficiently deep to prevent washing out by the rains and exposure to the ravages of dogs and birds of prey. Some of the residents of the vicinity suspect foul play, and urge that inquiry be made, at least with the view of identification, if possible.

The Reading's Purchase. PHILADELPHIA, June 2.—The Reading Railroad company has purchased from the Pennsylvania Warehousing and Safe Deposit company the extensive warehouses and freight cars covering the Metropolitan handicap, situated on Delaware avenue opposite Piers 33, 34, 35, 36, 38 and 39 south wharves. The Derby Surprise. LONDON, June 2.—Nineteen horses started in the Epsom Derby yesterday afternoon, and all well posted people were intensely surprised at the finish of the great race when the leader, a stallion, Lord Bradford's stable were seen in front on the unthought of colt Sir Hugo. Baron Hirsch's La Fleche (the favorite) was second and Bencanture third. The odds against Sir Hugo before the race were 33 to 1.

The Floods in Indiana. INDIANAPOLIS, June 2.—The floods in Indianapolis and vicinity have caused the loss of four lives at least. BLUE RIDGE SUMMIT ITEMS.

And now comes a voice from Iron Springs through the Gazette crying: "The statement that the agent of the Germantown Smelting Company is a sober truth. The Gazette might have gone further and mentioned the bills left behind, including some for labor."

We are unable to comprehend the meaning of sobriety in connection with truth; but to us the above statement, so far as it relates to the agent being "driven" appears like intoxicated truth, for it is incorrect; and the fifteenth and the last time we now state Mr. Canfield was "driven" away by no one, and that he was never approached by a sheriff. Any further statements to the contrary must be recalled to Hatfield himself. It is a matter of as little consequence as the unsigned document which did duty as a contract in these premises. Everybody around here knew last August that he left debts behind to him, and that they were not his. In fact one may safely gamble on it. Come to think of it, he never paid one cent for the rock he shipped to Germantown. In fact he advanced the play the jack open and captured the play.

Mr. J. B. Miller has sold his house close to Monterey Station to Benjamin Valentine. The latter will open a store where a choice supply of groceries, confectionary, tobacco and cigars will always be found.

An Affair at the handsome residence of Mr. William H. Corner of Baltimore, is about completed. In Norse mythology the elfs correspond with the beings we call Elves, only they are not of the diminutive size of the latter. They are noted for their charming disposition and great hospitality; consequently those who have been in the habit of dropping in at the studio cannot fail to perceive the appropriateness of the "Home of the Elves" as a fitting cognomen for the domain of Mr. Corner. Among the Baltimoreans at Clermont early in the week were Mr. and Mrs. John Gophart, Mrs. and Miss Potts, Miss Henderson, Miss Ferguson, Dr. Roach, and Walter Grimes. Among the Washingtonians were George H. H. Fisher, J. K. Joseph, Lyons and William Johnson.

Miss Findlay, Miss Mary Findlay and Mrs. Theodor Porter came down from Hagerstown and spent Monday at the city.

Why should we not make a small bet and keep up with the procession? Here is ours:

That neither Harrison, Hill nor Cleveland will receive the nomination at the coming conventions. And who receives the nomination of the ablest man in the Republican ranks, we feel positive that his nomination will be equal to a democratic victory.

In view of existing difficulties, we suggest the following ticket: The Live Railroad Magnate. For Vice President: The Proprietor of the Park House. This will be popular with both elements of the party.

STANDING, with reluctant feet. Where womanhood and childhood meet. 'Tis a supreme moment. 'Tis a critical hour. No maiden should attempt passing this boundary-line without the aid and assurance of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Its helpfulness in tiding over the perils incident to young womanhood, is universally acknowledged only to be made manifest within the hands of her daughter, anything that will prove more valuable in meeting all her requirements! Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is made expressly for all diseases peculiar to woman, and is the only medicine of its kind, sold through druggists, and guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case or money refunded.

A SERIOUS ALLEGATION. Pennsylvania's Ex-Treasurer Charged with Malfeasance in Office. HARRISBURG, June 2.—Ex-Senator Rantan, the Allegany county Republican leader, who has served four terms in the senate, is now charged with malfeasance in office as ex-Treasurer Boyer last night. A warrant was issued for his arrest and an officer dispatched to the late state treasurer's home in Philadelphia to serve it. Senator Rantan charges Mr. Boyer with having received 2 and in some cases 3 per cent on the $6,000,000 of the state's money which he had on deposit in different banks, and that a portion of this interest money was used to defeat the senator last Saturday. The balance was handed over to Quay for campaign purposes, says Mr. Rantan.

Mr. Rantan says he will prosecute Senator Quay and State Treasurer Morrison as soon as he returns from his western trip next week, charging both with misappropriating money belonging to the state and offering bribes during political campaigns. He says he will produce letters written by Quay in which he offers bribes and gives away party secrets, and a letter from Senator Rantan has employed the best legal talent, and is determined to push his cases to the end. He said: "Quay and several other party leaders have been after me, but with no success, but nothing will deter me from the course I have laid out."

The anti-Hill convention at Syracuse, N. Y., yesterday chose delegates to the national Democratic convention and adopted a platform highly eulogizing ex-President Cleveland and urging the wisdom of his nomination. The delegates, however, are un instructed, except to act as a unit.

Dyspepsia Few people have suffered more severely from dyspepsia than Mr. E. A. McMahon, a well known grocer of Syracuse, N. Y. Before 1871 he was in excellent health, weighing over 200 pounds. In that year an ailment developed into acute dyspepsia, and soon I was reduced to 162 pounds, suffering burning sensations in the stomach, palpitation of the heart, nausea, and indigestion. I could not sleep, lost all heart in my work, had fits of melancholia, and for days at a time I would have welcomed death. I became morose, sullen and irritable, and for eight years I was a burden. I tried many physicians and many remedies. One day a workman employed by me suggested that I take Hood's Sarsaparilla, as it had cured his wife of the same complaint. I did so, and before taking the whole of a bottle I began to feel like a new man. The terrible pain to which I had been subjected, ceased, the palpitation of the heart subsided, my stomach became easier, nausea disappeared, and my entire system began to come up. With returning strength came activity of mind and body. Before 8 Years I had regained my former weight and natural condition. I am today well and I ascribe it to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla."

N. B. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to buy any other.

The Methodists Adjourn.

OMAHA, May 27.—"Blest Be the Tie that Binds" was the hymn sung at the opening of the last day of the Methodist Episcopal General Conference. Bishop Fitzgerald was in the chair. The conference adjourned after the woman question just before the final adjournment. Dr. Hamilton offered an amendment to the report of the committee on the judiciary which was adopted. The words "must be male" were inserted after the words "lay delegates," wherever they appear in the discipline, and that unless three-fourths of the annual conference uphold it, then the law must be held to mean male and female both. The amendment was adopted by a vote of 240 to 160. This tends the matter to the annual conference, and the men must defeat the women two to one in order to keep them out of the next general conference. The women went wild with delight.

Crushed to Death in Their Home. TEXAS, June 2.—East Durango was wrecked by a frightful hurricane, not a house is left standing. The house of Thomas Wethers was crushed like an egg shell and Wethers, his wife and six children were instantly killed. A baby escaped unhurt, the only survivor. About twenty other people were injured, some fatally.

To Restrain the Reading. TRENTON, June 1.—The first important step in the war of the authorities of New Jersey against the Reading coal mine was taken yesterday afternoon, when Attorney General Stockton filed an information in the court of chancery denying the New Jersey Central's power to lease itself to the Port Reading Railroad company, or to become a dealer in coal. The information prays for an injunction to restrain the roads from doing any act whatever by virtue of lease. The chancellor granted a rule to show cause why the relief asked for should not be granted, and also granted a preliminary injunction.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

No. 5865 EQUITY. In the Circuit Court for Frederick County, sitting as a Court of Equity. Eugene L. Rowe, Plaintiff, against The Mountain View Cemetery of Emmitsburg, Frederick County, Maryland, a body corporate; Henry Stokes, Uriah A. Lough, Lewis M. Motter, Isaac S. Annan, Taylor Motter, Lewis A. Bollinger, William S. Guthrie and Jacob L. Hoke, Defendants. MAY TERM, 1892.

The Bill in this case is filed to have certain Real Estate, situated in Frederick county, near the Town of Emmitsburg, containing about Eight Acres of Land and conveyed by Rev. A. B. Kramer and wife to Henry Stokes and others, declared to be the property of the Mountain View Cemetery of Emmitsburg, Frederick County, Maryland, a body corporate, that said body corporate may be legally declared to be dissolved and the affairs of the same wound up, and that a decree may be passed for the sale of said real estate, excepting all such portions thereof heretofore devoted to or sold for burial purposes, by a Trustee or Receiver appointed by the Court, and that the proceeds of such sales may be divided among the parties entitled thereto according to their respective rights and for general relief.

The Bill States: That the plaintiff is a creditor of the Mountain View Cemetery of Emmitsburg, Frederick County, Maryland, a body corporate, upon a Judgment for the sum of one hundred and thirty dollars and fifty cents, entered in the Circuit Court for Frederick County at May Term, 1891, upon a note of said body corporate for one hundred and twenty-two dollars and seventy-one cents, signed by Henry Stokes, President of said Cemetery, 1891, and payable thirty days after date with interest from date for money loaned to said body corporate by the plaintiff, copies of which judgment and note are filed with this bill as parts thereof, marked respectively Exhibits A and B.

That on the Twentieth day of May in the year Eighteen Hundred Eighty-One, a certain agreement was entered into "by and between Rev. A. B. Kramer of the one part and Henry Stokes, Uriah A. Lough, Lewis A. Annan, J. Taylor Motter, Lewis A. Bollinger, Jacob L. Hoke, William S. Guthrie and Samuel Motter, who had organized themselves as a body corporate by the name and style of the Mountain View Cemetery of Emmitsburg, Frederick County, Maryland, of the other part," whereby the said A. B. Kramer "bargained and sold unto the said Henry Stokes, Uriah A. Lough, Lewis M. Motter, Isaac S. Annan, J. Taylor Motter, William S. Guthrie and Samuel Motter of the corporation of the Mountain View Cemetery aforesaid as such," certain real estate, situated in Frederick county near the Village of Emmitsburg, containing about eight acres of land, and in consideration of the sum of Seven Hundred Dollars, and the said A. B. Kramer covenanted thereon to "execute to the aforesaid parties as a company a good and sufficient deed, all of which will appear in a copy of a certain agreement filed with this bill as part thereof marked Exhibit C.

That on the Fourth day of January in the year Eighteen Hundred and Eighty-Two, the said A. B. Kramer and wife in pursuance of said agreement did convey said real estate to the body corporate, but through a mistake on the part of the draughtsman of the deed, the said real estate was conveyed to "Henry Stokes, Uriah A. Lough, Lewis M. Motter, Isaac S. Annan, J. Taylor Motter, Lewis A. Bollinger, Jacob L. Hoke, William S. Guthrie and Samuel Motter, directors of the corporation of the Mountain View Cemetery of Emmitsburg, in Frederick County, State of Maryland, as such," and the said directors in office as such, a duly certified copy of which deed is filed with this bill as part thereof marked Exhibit D.

That the charter of said body corporate recites that "the territory shall be bounded by the Northwestern boundary line of Emmitsburg and shall consist of the eight acres of land purchased of the Rev. A. B. Kramer, adjoining the lands of Joseph Hays, William Peoples and others. It being the one and a-half acre mentioned in said Exhibit D, a duly certified copy of which charter is filed with this bill as part thereof marked Exhibit E.

That the purchase money for the said eight acres of land, to wit, the sum of Seven Hundred Dollars, was paid by Lewis M. Motter, one of the directors and incorporators of said body corporate, who loaned the same to it and took its note for said sum of Seven Hundred Dollars, dated the Tenth day of January, 1891, and the said incorporators upon which a judgment was obtained in the Circuit Court for Frederick County at February Term, 1888, against all of said indorsers except J. Taylor Motter who was the said non-resident defendant in this case and the plaintiff files with this bill as part thereof duly certified copies of said note and judgment marked respectively Exhibits F and G.

That on or about the Eighteenth day of February, 1891, the said indorsers, to wit: Henry Stokes, Uriah A. Lough, Isaac S. Annan, William S. Guthrie, Jacob L. Hoke and Samuel Motter paid to the said Lewis M. Motter six-eighths of said judgment, interest and costs of suit, each of said indorsers having paid the sum of One Hundred and Twenty-Two Dollars and Seventy-one cents, the remaining one-eighth thereof having been abated by the said Lewis M. Motter as his share thereof.

That said Lewis M. Motter as plaintiff used by said body corporate to pay off of the said Isaac S. Annan's share of said judgment in favor of said Lewis M. Motter and was paid to the said Isaac S. Annan by said body corporate to reimburse him for his share of said judgment which the said Isaac S. Annan had paid to said Lewis M. Motter.

That said body corporate being insolvent did on the sixteenth day of November, in the year Eighteen Hundred and Ninety-one, execute a deed whereby the plaintiff whereby he conveyed all its estate and property of every nature, kind or description, real or personal, excepting from said grant the estates of all the then owners of burial lots which had been sold or conveyed for burial purposes, and the said plaintiff files with this bill as part thereof a duly certified copy of said Deed of Trust marked Exhibit H.

That the Circuit Court for Frederick County sitting as a Court of Equity in No. 5891 Equity, restrained by injunction the plaintiff from selling said real estate because the Trustee, the plaintiff, "if he should make a sale thereof could not bring a good and clear title to the purchaser;" and that the legal title not being in said body corporate.

That the said Uriah A. Lough recently, to-wit: on the sixteenth day of February, 1892, obtained a judgment in the Circuit Court for Frederick County against the said body corporate for his proportionate part paid on and in satisfaction of the said judgment and the plaintiff files with this bill as part thereof a duly certified copy of said judgment marked Exhibit I.

That on a small portion of said eight acres of land, in fact less than one-fourth of an acre thereof, has been devoted to burial purposes, lots therein having been sold and certificates therefor issued, and the said plaintiff files with this bill as part thereof a bona fide belief that it was the legal owner of said land and that the action and consent of the said Directors who are mentioned in said Deed from Rev. A. B. Kramer and wife and said deed lots are located together in one tract of land.

That although the legal title to said land is in the said Uriah A. Lough as Trustee, one of them, Samuel Motter, deceased, and through the charter of said body corporate provides that "all vacancies occurring among the Directors shall be immediately filled by the stockholders or otherwise as before provided by the vote of the remaining directors," as will appear from Exhibit B, yet the vacancy occasioned by the said Samuel Motter's death has never been filled and still exists, there being no stockholders as no stock has ever been issued, yet that the said land is in fact the property of said body corporate.

That the said body corporate is utterly insolvent and unable to pay its debts and has no property except said real estate, and that he has no adequate remedy except by the interposition of a Court of Equity.

That all of said Directors or Trustees believed that and acted as if the legal title to said land was in said body corporate, and that the full intention of all the parties to said deed from A. B. Kramer and wife, that the legal title thereto should be in said body corporate and not in said Directors as Trustees.

That unsuccessful efforts have been made to have the title to said land conveyed by said Directors as Trustees to the said body corporate in order to effectuate the intention of the parties to said deed, some of the said Directors or Trustees having refused to unite in a deed for that purpose unless said amount they claim said body corporate is indebted unto them.

That said land has depreciated in value and can not be sold for its full value, but that the indebtedness of said body corporate or for as much as such land or other real estate that the same should be sold and the proceeds of sale divided among those entitled thereto according to their respective rights and interests.

That the defendants all reside in Frederick County, except J. Taylor Motter, who resides in the District of Columbia and Wm. S. Guthrie, who resides in the State of Missouri. The Bill then prays:

That the real estate may be declared to be the property of the said body corporate, and that the body corporate may be declared to be insolvent and adjudged to be dissolved and the affairs of the same wound up.

That a decree be passed for the sale of said real estate, excepting all such portions thereof heretofore devoted to or sold for burial purposes, by a Trustee or Receiver to be appointed by the Court.

That the proceeds of such sale may be divided among the parties entitled thereto according to their respective rights and interests. For subpoena against the resident defendants. For an Order of Publication against the non-resident defendant.

It is therefore adjudged and ordered this 29th day of May A. D. 1892, by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, sitting as a Court of Equity, that the plaintiff cause a copy of this order together with a statement of the reasons therefor, of which this bill to be inserted in some newspaper published in Frederick County, once a week in each of the next seven days, giving notice to said non-resident defendants of the substance and object of this bill, and that they appear in person or by their attorney or by Solicitor on or before the thirteenth day of July, 1892, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

The Sun and the Earth.

Great magnetic currents traverse our planet, variable in intensity and direction, and subject to periodical fluctuations.

Our planet is in reality a vast magnet of enormous power, which Gauss has estimated as being equal to that of 8,464 trillions of bars of steel weighing each a pound and magnetized to saturation.

On the 1st of September, 1859, two astronomers, Carrington and Hodgson, were observing the sun independently of each other, the first on a screen, which received the image, the second directly through a telescope, when suddenly a dazzling flash of light broke forth from the midst of a group of spots.

Each observer noted the fact separately and was blinded by it for an instant.

Now, note the surprising coincidence: At the very moment when the sun broke into flames in this manner the magnetic instruments at the Kew observatory, near London, manifested a strange agitation; the magnetic needle leaped from side to side for an hour as if it had gone wild.

Moreover a part of the world, during that night and the following one, was waked in the light of an aurora borealis, in Europe as well as in America.

Violent perturbations were manifested, and in several places the telegraphic lines ceased to operate. How can we avoid associating one with the other these two curious events? Many examples of this same coincidence might be mentioned.

The conclusion then is that this correspondence between the state of the sun and terrestrial magnetism is not fortuitous but real, and that there is a magnetic connection between the sun and the earth.

Iron, we should remark, forms a considerable part of the sun.—Camille Flammarion.

Model Locomotive Engines. The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad has just placed in service on its Chicago Division three new passenger engines, built at the Baldwin Locomotive Works, after new designs furnished by the Gen'l Superintendent of Motive Power of the B. & O. Company.

The engines weigh 113,000 pounds, have driving wheels six feet six inches in diameter, cylinders 19 by 24 inches, and are without doubt the finest passenger locomotives running into the City of Chicago to-day.

Companions of these new engines have developed wonderful power and speed in hauling the famous Royal Blue Line trains, which run between New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, over the Philadelphia Division of the B. & O. Railroad.

The B. & O. has added over forty new, high class engines to its motive power equipment within the last sixty days, and others are under construction. While constantly adding engines of approved design and highest grade to its motive power, and passenger coaches of Pullman standard to its rolling stock, the B. & O. is also expending large amounts for additional second and third tracks and sidings, and improved facilities at terminal points.

By the time the World's Fair is opened for the reception of visitors the B. & O. will be well equipped to handle, expeditiously, the large volume of passenger traffic which will naturally seek this picturesque route from the Atlantic seaboard to Chicago.

Aunt Clara. "And so you heard your father say that he wanted a gun, and you are going to surprise him on the anniversary of his birthday by presenting him with one?"

Little Mabel. "Yes, I've never seen the kind that I'll get for him, but it must be just the thing for father. I'm going to present him with a pig gun."

How Sazodint is Made.

Sazodint is composed of castile soap, 14 ounces; glycerine, 14 ounces; alcohol, 14 ounces; soft water, 4 ounces; and oil of wintergreen, anise or cinnamon for flavor.

How to Eat Cucumbers.

Cucumbers should never be eaten without vinegar and pepper. Otherwise the large quantity of woody fiber contained in them would create indigestion and fermentation.

How to Use Coal.

Many a housekeeper complains that the coal supplied to her cellar is of different qualities. This happens very simply. When the coal is poured into the cellar the larger and heavier lumps roll to the sides and bottom, whereas the smaller kind stops in the center.

How Waves Are Calmed by Oil.

Owing to its inferior specific gravity oil forms a floating film, which defends the surface of the water from contact with the currents of air, and the friction between the winds and the waves is greatly diminished.

How to Strengthen the Eyes.

A simple and excellent plan to preserve and strengthen the eyes is this: Every morning pour some cold water into your washing bowl; at the bottom of the bowl place a silver coin or other bright object; then put your face into the water with the eyes open and fixed on the object at the bottom; move your head from side to side gently, and you will find that this morning bath will make your eyes brighter and stronger and preserve them beyond the ordinary allotted time.

How to Preserve Milk and Cream.

Put the milk or cream in bottles and place them in a saucetpan with cold water, which rise gradually to the boiling point. Then take from the fire and cork instantly. Again raise the milk to a boiling point for half a minute, and let the bottles cool in the water in which they were boiled.

How to Make Hens Lay in Winter.

Mix a portion of minced meat every day with their other food, and see that they have plenty of gravel, old plaster, or powdered egg shells to peck among. The latter may also be mixed with their food.

How to Remove Ink Stains.

Lemon juice readily removes ink from the hands. Diluted spirits of nitre, applied with a feather, takes ink spots from mahogany, which should be rubbed over immediately with a rag dipped in cold water, or a white mark will be left. Ink spots in linen fabrics should be wet with milk and covered with common salt before the articles are washed.

How to Relieve Rheumatic Pains.

Lime or lemon juice, used in liberal quantities, frequently relieves the paroxysms of rheumatism. One noted physician claims that by the persistent use of this simple acid for three days (all stimulating liquids being avoided) the most confirmed rheumatism will relax and the tone of the muscular and nervous system be restored to its usual character.

How to Cure Warts.

Touch the wart daily with a little lunar caustic or with nitric acid or acetic vinegar. The caustic and acids cause stains, which wear off in a short time; the stains scarcely discolor the skin. Applying the warts to the conductor of an electrical machine for several days in succession will also remove warts.

How to Purify Water.

A saturated solution of permanganate of potash will speedily cleanse foul water. About a teaspoonful to a hog's head should be used. Another method is to put a tablespoonful of pulverized alum into a hoghead of water and stir the water well. The impurities fall to the bottom and the water will soon possess nearly all the clearness and freshness of the finest spring water.

How to Play Backgammon.

The dealer and each side of the table have two or three cards. The object is to get as near nine as possible, and tens and court cards do not count. If the two first cards dealt do not together amount to five the player asks for another. If above five he does not. The sole question in doubt is whether a player whose two cards together make five ought to draw a third card or not.

A Novel Castor.

A useful castor of novel form is being used in England. It is intended to obviate the difficulties arising from the ordinary construction of castors where the roller is carried on a crank shaft arm which is easily broken off. The center pin of the roller bearing is fixed in a small plate rotating freely around a center pin secured in the body of the castor.

The plate named, when pushed round into any position, rests on the base of the castor, and as the center pin of the roller is free to move in any direction, the roller is supported in every position. It is, in fact, a well supported universal joint. The inventor is a great improvement on the old types.—Boston Transcript.

Steamed dumplings, with stewed chicken or veal, are an acquisition. Cook both these meats until nearly done, then make the dumplings like baking powder biscuits. Pour all out but a little of the water from the meats into another vessel for gravy, and use the remaining water in the pot on the next so they will not touch the water, and cook until all the water is boiled away.

Women Should Be Businesslike.

Why can't women be businesslike? The woman who asks for employment begins "I have two children to support, and you know that is uphill work, and so I am sure you will wish to let me do it."

How to Obtain a Letter of Credit.

Any first class bank will issue a letter of credit upon the receipt of the amount of the credit and a small commission. This letter enables you to draw any sum up to the amount of the credit from any of the bank's correspondents abroad.

How to Make a Welsh Rabbit.

The following is the old English plan: Melt a tablespoonful of good butter in a saucetpan and add about half a pound of rich crumbly cheese cut in half inch bits. Stir the mass over the fire, and while the cheese melts pour in a gill of old ale.

How to Tell Steel from Iron.

Aquafortis applied to the surface of steel produces a black spot; on iron the metal remains clean. The slightest vein of iron or steel can be readily detected by this method.

How to Demonstrate That Ice Has Heat.

Two pieces of ice can be quickly melted in a room cooled below the freezing point by rubbing them against each other.

How to Estimate What a Horse Can Draw.

A horse can draw on metal rails one and two-thirds as much as on asphalt pavement, three and one-third times as much as on good Belgian blocks, five times as much as on ordinary Belgian blocks, seven times as much as on good cobble stones, thirteen times as much as on ordinary cobble stones, twenty times as much as on earth road, and forty times as much as on sand.

How to Transplant Large Shade Trees.

In the autumn, before the frost comes on, dig a trench around the tree and cut the roots, but not too near the tree. Remove in the winter when the ground is frozen. Raise the tree with the frozen earth adhering to the roots. The whole mass is easily raised with levers on to a strong sled, when it can be drawn erect by horses or oxen.

How to Cleanse the Mouth.

There are few things more unpleasant than foul breath. This occurs in its most offensive form from decayed teeth and from mucus adhering to the walls of the mouth and throat, which has been decomposed by the gases and acids of the system. A simple and effective way to remedy this is to drop a few crystals of permanganate of potash into a tumbler of water, and gargle the throat at least three or four times a day.

How to Clean Marble.

A strong preparation for cleaning marble is fine pumice stone, newly slaked lime and verdigris, mixed thick with soft soap. Dip a wooden rag in this compound, and rub the stain one way. Then wash off with soap and water. Another excellent preparation is made of two parts of common soda, one part of pumice stone and one of finely powdered chalk, which should be sifted through a fine sieve and mixed with water. It is used in the same manner. Iron rust can be usually removed by rubbing with lemon juice.

How to Render Fabrics Incombustible.

Many deaths would be prevented if ladies engaged in household work would wear incombustible or non-inflammable garments. The process of so treating linens and cottons is very simple. Steep the goods in a 1 per cent. solution of sulphate of ammonia, or a 20 per cent. solution of tungstate of soda and then dry them. If they are now held in the flame of a candle or gas lamp they will not take fire. That portion of the fabric which was in contact with the light will become charred, but it will not inflame, and hence the burning stain will not spread to the rest of the garment. Steeping in borax and hot water will have a similar effect.

How to Restore Faded Writing.

Often the writing upon letters and other documents becomes faded and almost illegible. If they are of importance the writing can be easily restored by first covering it with a solution of prussiate of potash, and then adding, over this, some diluted muriatic acid. By this means the faded letters will assume a permanent and beautiful dark blue color.

The New York Tennis Club is noted for the excellence of its women players, of whom Miss Cahill's name takes the place of honor.

She is said to be superior to two-thirds of the male players, and has occasionally beaten one or two well known men players. She is a slight girl, agile and active, with a powerful constitution, and return a hard ball which is the delight and wonder of all tennis players.

The proprietors of Ely's Cream Balm do not claim it to be a cure-all, but a remedy for catarrh, colds in the head and hay fever. It is not a liquid or a snuff, it is easily applied into the nostrils. It gives relief at once. 50c.

I had catarrh of the head and throat for five years. I used Ely's Cream Balm, and from the first application I was relieved. The sense of smell which had been lost was restored after using one bottle.

I have found the Balm the only satisfactory remedy for catarrh, and it has affected a cure in my case.—H. L. Meyer, Waverly, N. Y.

To preserve picture frames from fading, wash with water in which soda has been dissolved—the proportion is not important.
