What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrup, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhea and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.
"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
Dr. G. C. Osgood,
Lowell, Mass.

Castoria.
"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. Archer, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
J. F. Kitchell and D. W. Kitchell,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.
"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
Dr. J. F. Kitchell and D. W. Kitchell,
Conway, Ark.

THE SUGAR-PLUM TREE.

BY EUGENE FIELD.

Have you ever heard of the Sugar-Plum Tree?
'Tis a marvel of great renown!
It blooms on the shore of the Lollipop Sea

In the garden of Shut-Eye Town;
The fruit that it bears is so wondrously sweet
(As those who have tasted it say)
That good little children have only to eat

Of that fruit to be happy next day.
When you've got to the tree, you would have a hard time
To capture the fruit which I sing;
The tree is so tall that no person could climb

To the boughs where the sugar-plums swing!
But up in that tree sits a chocolate cat,
And a gingerbread dog paws below—
And this is the way you contrive to get at

Those sugar-plums tempting you so.
You say but the word to that gingerbread dog,
And he barks with such terrible zest
That the chocolate cat is at once all agog.

As her swishing proportions attest,
And the chocolate cat goes cavorting around
From this leafy limb unto that,
And the sugar-plums tumble, of course, to the ground—
Hurrah for the chocolate cat!

There are marshmallows, gumdrops and peppermint canes,
With stripings of scarlet or gold,
And you carry away of the treasure that rains
As much as your apron can hold!
So come, little child, cuddle closer to me,
In your dainty white nightcap and gown,
And I'll rock you away to that Sugar-Plum Tree
In the garden of Shut-Eye Town.

A WILD MAN'S PRISONER.
The Thrilling Story Told By a Maine Guide.

Nick Carraway always had a good story to tell, despite what he might say to the contrary. As boy and man he had passed the last forty years in Maine forests, and the most inaccessible portions of the wilderness were as familiar to him as the city we might live in would be to us.

"You see it was this way," drawing himself nearer to the fire and relinquishing his pipe. "It is only of late years that sports have been coming right along in sufficient numbers to keep a man going all the season, and before that time I used to do a power more trapping and hunting than I do now.

One of my favorite bits of country was up above Katahdin. For two seasons I camped at the base of the mountain, in townships 14, right where the branch of the Allagash would round it.

"My camp was one of the best I ever had. The back wall, the two sides and the top were composed of solid rock; the front I made from logs felled for that purpose, and my smoke escaped by means of a stone chimney. At the time I am speaking of I had with me as companion a fine Bengal hound that a pard gave me, and I reckon that same dawg saved my life, though he wasn't perhaps aware he did.

"One day, when it was getting a bit late in the year and I was preparing my evening meal, after a purty long tramp, the door of my dog-out was suddenly opened from the outside, and, looking up, I saw standing before me the strangest looking creature ever mortal set eyes on.

"A man, yes! a man; but so tall that, though the doorway was past being six feet high, he had to stoop to get in, and a toger of a most wild and ferocious appearance. His hair fell in clotted masses about his shoulders. His beard nearly reached to his waist. His long, muscular arms were bare, showing a multitude of scars and deep scratches, and though it was midwinter his only clothing was a blue shirt patched with tent canvas, a pair of deerskin breeches and rough-made moccasins. In his hand he carried a long-barreled, old-fashioned rifle, and at his belt hung a bare-bladed hunting knife. His finger-nails were fully an inch long and looked as if they had been used to dig up earth with.

He gave a sort of grunt when I asked him to take a seat, but neither moved in nor out.

"Now, then," I called to him, 'time to eat'; haven't much variety, but there's plenty of it, such as it be, and being hungry I started in to help myself. Still, to my surprise, my visitor, didn't speak or move, and getting a little tired of this I did not press him any more, and I guess that fetched him, for before I had taken many mouthfuls he came forward and began to devour the meat eagerly, never using a knife or fork, but tearing it to pieces with his hand, then cramming a great hunk o' bread down after it. My, how he did eat.

"Getting up I started in to clear away the things, noticing that as soon as I moved he took up his old position against the door. For some little time I dodged round, tending to this thing and that thing, thinking my new acquaintance would most likely get up and go about as sudden as he came. Then, when I'd got all fixed up, I turned round and reached up to a peg for my rifle, tending to give it a bit o' a clean, too, but to my surprise it wasn't there. Swinging round quicker than greased lightning—for I knew that gun o' mine didn't get down off that peg on its own account—I looked 'cross'd at the stranger. He was there, sure enough, and beside him, too, stood my Winchester, but how he got it without my knowing or catching him I couldn't think—probably when I was tending to the fire.

"Here was a purty mess; what did he mean by taking my gun, who was he and where did he come from?"

"Say! I said, making a step toward him, 'that's my rifle there, ain't it? Hand it over, will yer? I want to give her a shine.' Then the next thing I knew I was a-looking down the barrel o' his gun, that the cuss I'd just entertained was pointing at me.

"Five, ten, ay, nearly fifteen minutes passed, while all the time I was growing more doubtful as to how it was all going to end. Then his lips seemed to move, and he uttered a sort of noise like an Injun 'd make when his tongue's split, drawing his knife as he did so and laying it on the floor. At first I didn't tumble to what he meant, then his knife in his belt and drew it out again, motioning me to do the same. Yes! that were it, wanted me to give up the only weapon I had, and when I did not see the force o' this and told him so, he just grew terrible, shut his teeth together with a noise like a steel trap and fingered that there firearm in a way that soon made me comply. I was just in the tightest hold I'd ever been in. There, I said, 'take it,' and I pitched my pelt-skinner on the ground in front o' me. P'raps it was well I did, for it sort o' pacified him, as after he'd reached and got it he lowered his gun, though he still held on to it, as he leant with his back to the doorway.

Hours passed like this and night-time came. So long as I didn't move he was all right, but if I stirred the least bit that loamat brought the musket to his shoulder and just looked h-l at me. 'Long about 1 o'clock in the mornin' he 'lowed me to throw more wood on the fire. Then I took the chance to stretch myself out on the bar skin, for I felt so dang tired I could hardly keep awake. This, after muttering a piece, he didn't object to, and when I opened my eyes it was daylight and there sat that cuss just the same.

Just then my dawg, who had been coming in and out through a hole in the front timbers cut apurpose for him, brought me in a rabbit and lay it at my feet, as I'd trained him to do; this attracted the madman's 'tention, and, cocking his gun agin, he made a motion which said plain enough, 'Hand that over here.' With a healthy curse, said quiet though to myself, I pitched it to him, and shoot me if he didn't start to tear the skin off with his teeth and eat it raw as it was, using COUGH SYRUP—Yes I am tired of hearing and seeing the word; yet if you want a good, reliable, pleasant-to-take, Cough Syrup, and a large bottle for the money, ask your druggist for Dr. Fahrney's and take no other.

It was announced in New York that $3,500,000 in gold will go out Wednesday on the German steamers. Mint Director Leach, in his report, gives the approximate value of gold product from the mines of this country for the past year at $33,000,000, and of silver at $8,000,000 ounces, at average values aggregating $50,750,000.

His Faith Well Founded.

BISSELL, O., Nov. 29, 1892.—I desire to say that I have great faith in Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for the cure of throat and lung troubles; also for croup.—E. W. McCOLLUM. There is good reason why Mr. McCollum should have confidence in this remedy. It will cure a severe cold in less time than any other treatment. There is nothing that will loosen and relieve a cold so quickly. It will not only cure croup, but if used as soon as the first symptoms appear it will prevent the attack. 50 cent bottles for sale by C. D. Eichelberger, druggist.

On last Saturday, Mr. James S. Musgrove, bought the John Kimmel property, located on the mountain, west of this place, which was sold at mortgagee's sale, for the sum of $350 00.

As a household remedy it cannot be excelled.—Mr. L. E. Brockett, 450 Church St., Norfolk, Va., writes: "I suffered a great deal from nervous headache, sore throat, etc., and found no relief until I tried Eucalypti Oil. I now recommend it to my friends as a household remedy that cannot be surpassed."

A scientific party was given at the residence of Mr. J. L. Hoke, in this place, on Thursday evening, by a number of young ladies and gentlemen. The evening was pleasantly spent in playing games of all kinds, and about 10 o'clock, the guests were invited to the diningroom where refreshments were served. Mr. Hoke entertained the company in his usual hospitable manner and the evening was greatly enjoyed.

The Modern Cavalier.

Has tastes medicinally, in keeping with other luxuries. A remedy must be pleasantly acceptable in form, purely wholesome in composition, truly beneficial in effect and entirely free from every objectionable quality. If really ill he consults a physician; if constipated he uses the gentle family laxative Syrup of Figs.

Attacked by a Horse.

The wife of Mr. George Freeze of Mechanicstown, was seriously injured by a horse on Monday last. She had taken a bucket of water into the stall for the horse, when it attacked, pawing and biting her. Her screams attracted some of the neighbors and she was extricated, but not before she had sustained painful injuries.—Clarion.

List of Letters.

The following letters remain in the Post Office, Emmitsburg, Md., Feb. 20, 1893. Persons calling will please say advertised, otherwise they may not receive them:

Mrs. Emma Atkinson, Miss Katie Bens, Mrs. Earlack, R. S. Harrison, James Hahn, Harry Shriver, Lershen Shriver, M. Wilson.

S. N. McNAIR, P. M.

Look Out for Him.

A man is traveling through the country trying to swindle parties with a contract for wire fences. He offers to give enough wire to fence a ten-acre field if the parties will sign a contract to take the agency for the wire. The contract is where the swindle comes in, for if read closely it turns out to be a promissory note for $150, after a few words have been erased with oxalic acid.—News.

We acknowledge the receipt of a copy of an address delivered by B. Howard Haman, Esq., before the Maryland Convention for Good Roads, held in Baltimore on Jan. 12, 1893. The address is printed in pamphlet form and contains a map showing the location of the dredging and tonging of the oyster grounds in the Chesapeake bay and its tributaries. A synopsis of Mr. Haman's speech was published in the CHRONICLE several weeks ago.

The convention called by Gov. Brown, to consider the tax question in Maryland and to assist the next General Assembly to formulate an assessment bill, was held in Baltimore, on Tuesday. Gov. Brown delivered an address, setting forth his views in regard to taxation, after which the convention adjourned to meet on March 1st, at which time the question will be thoroughly discussed. The meeting was largely attended.

Advertising Started It, Merit Made It Popular.

Dr. T. P. Hubbel, who is engaged in the drug business at Wolcott, Vt., says: "Advertising started the sale on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy here, but it now sells on its merits, and all who use it speak highly of it." When troubled with a cough or cold, give it a trial and you will be none the less pleased with the result. It is also a certain cure for croup in children. 50 cent bottles for sale by C. D. Eichelberger, druggist.

THE lecture at St. Joseph's Catholic Church, in this place, on last Friday evening, was not as largely attended as the one given on the preceding evening, owing to the inclement weather. The subject was, "The Life and Journeyings of our Saviour," and was illustrated with beautiful pictures thrown upon the canvas. These lectures were given by Messrs. R. J. Hoffman, of Philadelphia, and W. M. Beard, of Reading, Pa., and were both highly interesting and instructive.

Communicated.

Last Friday afternoon Baltimore was visited by a regular Western blizzard. Wind, snow and hail. The snow fell so rapidly that it made the running of street cars almost impossible, they were side tracked all over the city, and many citizens suffered terribly in trying to get to their homes or places of shelter. On Sunday night a regular cyclone struck the city, accompanied by thunder and lightning, snow and sleet.

The ground hog's reign is over, no one will look for, or believe in him again.

The First Law of Nature.

This self-preservation is acknowledged to be, and people who adopt against the encroachments of disease a genuine medicinal safeguard, accredited by experience and the sanction of physicians, afford a happy illustration of the wisdom of the saying, in the health they restore and continue to enjoy. Among maladies, against the growth of which Hostetter's Stomach Bitters affords efficient protection, diseases of the kidneys and bladder are fraught with the utmost peril and exhibit great obstinacy when opposed by ordinary means. The Bitters can and will subdue them. No testimony is stronger than this. Used at the outset and persistently, the best results may be expected. This medicine also eradicates liver complaint, constipation, dyspepsia, malaria, rheumatism and nervousness.

Crown Stock Food will prevent all the ills that dairy cows are heir to.

Wind and Snow Storm.

On Sunday night a severe wind storm passed over this section of the country, although very little damage was done in this neighborhood. At the residence of Mr. H. J. Keilholz, about one mile southwest of town, the wind blew one of the large barn doors off, and that no other damage was done to the barn, seems to be a mystery. In town a few bricks was blown from the top of one house.

In Carroll county the storm took the form of a cyclone, and did an immense amount of damage to dwelling houses, barns, sheds, fencing, etc. The gale on Sunday night is estimated to have entailed a loss of about $15,000 in Westminster. The cyclone was from west to east, and about a half mile in width. The damage in Westminster was confined to that portion of the town west of the railroad, and the Western Maryland College, which stands on a high hill sustained the greatest damage. The tin roof of the young ladies' dormitory was rolled up by the wind and carried away. The young ladies were in their rooms at the time, but had not retired. Their beds were showered with bricks and mortar. The damage to the building is estimated to be about $1,500. The steeple on the Reformed church was torn down, the organ was damaged and the memorial windows were broken. The roof was blown off of the house of Mr. Thomas Bankard and the porch carried away. The flying roof struck a shade tree in the square, breaking it off about a foot from the ground. The barn and outbuildings belonging to Mr. J. R. Eader, were demolished. The memorial windows in the Lutheran church were damaged and many other buildings and sheds were greatly injured.

The storm was general throughout the State, causing much damage in the different counties. Snow began to fall on Tuesday night, and continued until Wednesday morning, when the wind commenced blowing a terrific gale and continued throughout the day. The snow drifted, closing all the roads running north and south, making travel almost impossible. About noon Mr. David Fisher, an ex-County Commissioner, of near Loy's Station, who had gone up in Pennsylvania to attend the funeral of a friend, and whilst returning home on Wednesday got into a snow bank, a short distance from this place, and was shovelled out by Mr. Wm. Wivell and sons. Mr. Paul Lawrence, who left this place, on Wednesday morning with the mail for Gettysburg, was unable to get back until Thursday evening.

On Thursday morning the road supervisors with a number of men, commenced shoveling roads through the drifted snow, and by evening the roads were nearly all opened sufficiently to allow people to travel.

Many people came to town with shovels in their sleighs, and when they would come to a snow drift they would get to get through, they would get out and warm themselves by shoveling snow.

Messrs. W. W. White and the Zimmerman Brothers, who live a few miles north of this place, opened the road leading from town to the Lower Track School House, in Liberty twp., Pa., with a large drag, drawn by eight horses. After they finished opening the road, they came to town with their drag, and drove through our streets, with a man riding each horse.

ROCKY RIDGE ITEMS.

Rev. J. H. Barb will occupy the pulpit in Mt. Taber Church on next Sunday, at 10:30 o'clock.

The weather is very unpleasant at this writing. Snow fell on last Friday, which again reminds us that winter is not past.

Miss Lizzie Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Miller, of Union Bridge, was married at the home of her parents, on Wednesday the 15th inst., to Mr. J. Wright Barrick, a prominent farmer of Rocky Ridge. The parlor was tastefully trimmed with evergreen, and decorated with potted plants and flowers, a large bell made of flowers was suspended from the ceiling, and promptly at 2:30 P. M., the bride party appeared under the bell and were met by Rev. R. S. Patterson, of Woodsboro, Md., who performed the ceremony in the presence of a large company of relatives and friends. The bride wore a gown of tan English tweed, trimmed with cotelle silk, and carried La France roses. The bride was attended by her two sisters, Misses Annie and Mattie Miller, who wore ashes of rose dresses, trimmed with cotelle silk, and carried Marchal Niel roses. The ushers were, Messrs. Maurice F. Miller and Elmer D. Bucky, of Union Bridge; Robert E. L. Barrick, of Rocky Ridge, and Charles Claiborne, of Baltimore. After the collation, the bride and groom, amid a shower of rice, took the 5:37 o'clock train for Baltimore, intending to visit Washington and cities in West Virginia and North Carolina. The happy couple were the recipients of many valuable and useful presents, among which were: $500 from the bride's father; $50 from the groom's parents; China tea set from the sisters of the bride; $5 from Miss Emma Weybright; 2 counterpanes, 8 silver soup ladles, silver carving set, 6 silver oyster forks, 3 lamps, 2 silver berry spoons, dozen silver teaspoons, dozen fruit plates, half dozen bone dishes, silver oyster set, a pretty berry set, a bronze clock, dozen solid silver teaspoons, dozen napkins, several pairs of towels, Jersey calf, several handsome tablecloths, wall pocket, several tidies, 2 pairs of blankets, etc. Upon the return of the bride and groom they will be given a reception at the home of the groom's parents, near Rocky Ridge.

MT. ST. MARY'S COLLEGE NEWS.

The Societies.

The Carroll Lyceum held its regular meeting Thursday evening, in the Library. After the calling of the roll, the Critic gave his decision, which had been held over since the last meeting, in favor of the negative side on the debate, "Resolved, that the island of Hawaii be annexed to the United States." The program for last meeting was as follows: Debate, "Resolved, that the peaceful annexation of Canada would be beneficial to the United States." Those debating were, for the affirmative: Messrs. T. McTigh, '95, A. Malone, '95 and Edw. Ferguson, '96. For the negative: Messrs. Wm. Donovan, '96, M. Perault, '95 and P. Martin, '96. Messrs. McTigh, Donovan and Martin did exceptionally well. The debate was decided in favor of the affirmative. Mr. Hicks, '96, proposed a change in the By-Laws relating to the bringing forth of new arguments by debaters while summing up. His proposition being put in the form of a motion, was carried, thus changing the By-Law so as to read, "no speaker in a debate will be allowed to bring forth new arguments while summing up points previously submitted." The Carroll Lyceum seems to be really in earnest in its work. The debates are interesting and their subjects living questions. The declamations also are of a high order. Messrs. Wm. Lavin, '96 and John Mc Morrow, '96, declaimed respectively, "The Pilot" and "Now." The work of both gentlemen elicited great applause. Next meeting will be devoted to general declamations.

The Carroll.

The Carroll Lyceum held its regular meeting Thursday evening in Carroll Hall. Fr. J. B. Manley was elected and accepted the office of Critic. Mr. James McKenna, '97 was appointed Censor for the next four meetings. There was no regular program given. We expect great things of the members of the Carroll Lyceum this session. There is excellent material in it and this should be worked up. The officers are capable and earnest. Now let us see what progress shall be made.

Notes.

Rev. Wm. O'Hara sang High Mass and preached in Gettysburg, Sunday.

He went to assist Fr. Boll who is sick. Rev. J. B. Manley met with an agreeable surprise last week. He was the recipient of a very beautiful set of hand-made vestments. What makes the gift all the more interesting is that Father Manley knows not whence it came nor whom to thank. He certainly appreciates the valuable gift and earnestly desires to return his grateful acknowledgments to the donor.

We had a holiday Wednesday in honor of Washington. The stars and stripes floated proudly from the top of the flag-staff.

Sporting Notes.

During this dull season when out door sports cannot be indulged in to any great extent, what a boon it is to have such an orderly and well kept Billiard Hall to sojourn in to order to while away an hour or more at that most fascinating game—billiards. What a pleasure it is to a lover of this graceful sport to hear the metallic click of the balls and to see the ever-changing positions they take imitating in that respect the life of man. That this sport has many enthusiastic admirers can be readily attested from the number that congregate in the Hall whenever it is opened. Among the members are some that are aptly styled "fends" from the fact that they never seem to tire of the game. Really some of these "wielders of the cue" would not know what to do with themselves if they could not have their little game every day. Well, at all events, it is a source of great enjoyment to the boys during the tedium of this wintry weather.

A play-room entertainment was given by the boys on Wednesday night, Washington's Birthday. Songs, speeches, recitations, music, etc., beguiled the time, and helped to make the evening pass off very pleasantly. Among those taking part were: Edward J. Donahue, '95, who sang in his happy and effective style, several comic songs, "Tim Murphy," "Mary and the Lamb," etc.; George K. Bigley, '95, who recited in a mirth provoking manner, "How Moses Counted the Eggs," and "A Boys Composition on Noses," Thos. F. Saunders, '97, singing the "Wild Irish Boy" very effectively; James Joyce, who elicited great applause by his rendition, in a voice which made the rafters shake, of "They Wouldn't Do It Now," John E. Doyle, '95, who sang in his usual pleasing way, Hoyer's famous songs, "The Man that Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo," and "I Was Not the Only One," he also sang with chorus accompaniment, "Johnny Doyle," James Lierney, '95, as chorister, adding much to the effect of the song by his able assistance of facial expression and artistic gesticulation; James McGuirk proved himself fully equal to the occasion when called upon, by singing in a sweet voice, several popular songs. He will make a good second tenor for the Glee Club. Edw. Ferguson delighted all by his well-known parody on "The Bowerly." Francis Donahue also sang a very clever local adaptation of this song. James Malloy and J. J. O'Brien also sang several songs which were greatly appreciated.

The Plain Truth.

Is good enough for Hood's Sarsaparilla—there is no need of embellishment or sensationalism. Simply what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that tells the story of its merit. If you have never realized its benefits a single bottle will convince you it is a good medicine.

The highest praise has been won by Hood's Pills for their easy, yet efficient action. Sold by all druggists. Price 25 cents.

A PALACE FOR SATOLI.

Emmitsburg Suggested As One of the Most Suitable Locations.

The following article clipped from one of the Baltimore papers will be interesting to a good many of our readers: The announcement that an official residence is to be built by Catholics of the United States for Mgr. Satoli, the Apostolic delegate, is being discussed with great interest by Catholics. It was said that Bishop Ryan, of Buffalo, has been made treasurer of a fund with which to erect the palace, and that Catholic societies and congregations generally throughout the country would be asked to contribute.

Treasurer Thoron, of the Catholic Club of New York, says that if such a residence is built the choice for its location would probably lie between New York, Washington and Emmitsburg, Md. Contrary to the general opinion, it is said that Mgr. Satoli has no intention of making the Catholic University in Washington his permanent home. However he was not consulted with reference to the building fund.

Speaking of the merits of the three cities, Mr. Thoron said:

"It seems quite unlikely that Buffalo would be selected in any case. Washington would scarcely be the appropriate place for a number of reasons.

"Emmitsburg has been looked upon as the most neutral point that could be agreed upon." There is a pressure to have New York chosen, although Washington, the capital of the country, is the place that naturally suggests itself as the most suitable.

FAIRFIELD ITEMS.

Mr. Samuel Grove, of Hanover, made a business trip to this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hoke, of Nebraska, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Shertzer.

Miss Mamie Shertzer, who has been spending sometime at Mount Holly, has returned to her home in this place.

Mr. William Dubs, of Highland twp., showed your correspondent a relic, in the shape of a spinning wheel, made in 1813, 80 years ago. Mrs. Dubs has also a cream jug, some 70 years old. Mr. Dubs is one of your handy men, he can turn his hand to anything. He is also a horse doctor and keeps all kinds of horse medicine on hand, and any person having a sick horse should give him a call.

The election in Hamiltonban township, Pa., on Tuesday, resulted in the election of the entire republican ticket. The Democrats were not in it. The following are the names of the gentlemen elected: Judge of Elections, Geo. E. Sanders; Inspector of Elections, T. Calvin Will; Supervisors, Curtin McLaughlin and James W. Moore; School Directors, Peter Keady and Emanuel E. King; Tax Collector, James A. Currens; Auditor, Christian Frey; Clerk, C. Grant Bingham.

Struck a Church.

Considerable damage was done by Sunday night's gale in Washington county. Zion Evangelical brick church, near Clearfork was partially demolished. The gable end of the building fell in while prayer meeting was in progress. Forty persons were in the building. The pulpit and organ were crushed and the debris of the falling wall scattered over the building and the worshippers. The floor gave way in one place and a pile of bricks fell through and seriously injured George Barnhart, who lived in the basement of the church. A portion of the roof was also torn off.

At Greenestle the gale blew two empty freight cars from the Cumberland Valley siding on to the main track, where they were struck by a north-bound passenger train about 11 o'clock Sunday night. The collision resulted in damaging the locomotive, totally wrecking the cars and blockading the road. C. C. Plack, express messenger, was injured in the arms.—Sun.

Two Men Instantly Killed.

On Wednesday morning, Elias Hoover and Martin Burns, were instantly killed at Magruder's crossing, on the Western Maryland Railroad, near Chewsville, Washington county. Hoover and Burns were in a two-horse wagon, with John Sneckenberger riding the saddle horse. They warned the driver that a train was approaching and he attempted to draw the horses to the side of the track, but they became frightened and rushed across the track just as the horses cleared the rails, the engine struck and demolished the wagon, throwing Mr. Hoover to one side, and Mr. Burns to the other side of the track, instantly killing both men. The bodies were placed in the baggage car and taken to Hagerstown and placed in charge of an undertaker. Mr. Hoover was a about 50 years of age and leaves a wife. Mr. Burns was 32 years old and unmarried.

Honor from the G. A. R.

Major Horner, as well as Arthur Post, of this place, received a compliment in his selection as Junior Vice-Commander of the Department of Maryland, G. A. R., at the recent Encampment in Baltimore, as the positions of Commander, as well as the Senior and Junior Vice, are usually claimed by the larger Posts in the Department. We also understand it was quite a surprise to the Major as he was not an aspirant for the place, and received nearly the entire vote of the Encampment. The Junior Vice-Commander, by its virtue of his office, is member, and entitled to a vote in the National Encampment, which will meet this year at Indianapolis in September.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Death of Abram Rhodes.

Mr. Abram Rhodes, aged about 60 years of age, died on Elm street, Hagerstown, Tuesday morning. He had been in very feeble health for some time, having been paralyzed. To avoid the journey up and down stairs he slept on a cot on the lower floor, and when the family came down Tuesday morning they found him dead. The family moved to town about two months ago from Downsville, and Lewis Rhodes, of that place, is a brother of the deceased, as is also David Rhodes, of near Emmitsburg. A wife and several children survive Mr. Rhodes.—Herald and Torch Light.
