EASTER FASHIONS.

Last Sunday was a typical Easter day, the balmy air and glorious sunshine bringing a glow of happiness and hope to every heart.

The churches everywhere, with their triumphant choral services, and lovely floral decorations, attracted crowds of earnest worshippers, anxious to take part in the crowning festival of man's redemption. The custom of celebrating the Easter Season with offerings of flowers, is a very beautiful one, and that its beauty touches a responsive chord in every human breast, is evidenced, by the almost universal eagerness, even among those who have little sympathy with churchly observances, to secure and display flowers of some sort at Easter-tide.

It does seem strange however, though not more strange than true, that Flora should claim a place in the observance of the Easter season and struggle for prominent display wherever her votaries are gathered.

The choicest novelties of the milliner's and dress-maker's art, vie with nature's lovely decorations in producing beautiful effects, or startling surprises, and fashion, this season, seems to have gone even beyond herself in the production of effects, which challenge surprise if not admiration. There is a grotesqueness about the general get-up of a fashionable young lady, at this time, which it is hard to reconcile with one's ideas of good taste, and which sets dignity and gracefulness at defiance, and more than that, makes the victims look miserably uncomfortable.

If a picture of a young lady, costumed as many were in all our cities on Sunday last, had been published a few years ago as a burlesque on fashionable attire, it would have been considered too far beyond a possible reality, to have any point at all. The idea of adornment in dress, is or ought to be, so far as possible, to the attractiveness of the person.

Can sleep's that make the wearer appear fully a yard wide across the shoulders, surmounted by a collar that stands up around the neck so high, that the head barely clears its edges, and projects above it very much as that of a turtle's out of its shell, and on which the dainty "love of a bonnet" seems to sit, together out of place, make a symmetrical picture, even if the dress skirt, the redeeming feature of the present style, does fall in graceful folds around the figure?

Surely a woman of good taste, ought to be able to modify a prevailing fashion, as to make her attire becoming and attractive without appearing either singular or old-fashioned!

A little independence in this matter, particularly among those possessing social influence, might have the effect of keeping fashion within the bounds of good-taste and could not fail to win admiration as well as respect, even among those who are in the habit of accepting any absurdity which is sprung upon them as a mandate of the fickle goddess, whose rule extends, in some form or other, over the whole civilized world.

The merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla is proven by the many wonderful cures it is accomplishing. It is just the medicine for you.

TERRORS OF THE SEA.

LOS ANGELES, CAL., April 6.—The steamer Los Angeles, from San Francisco, arrived at Redondo yesterday afternoon, having on board Captain Drummond and the crew of the four masted steel British ship King James, called laden for Newcastle, England, previously reported abandoned on fire about 20 miles off Point Conception, where the first mate and sixteen men have already landed.

The captain and his companions were picked up off Huamanga yesterday. Their boat, when it left the burning vessel, contained sixteen men all told, but four were drowned by its being capsized on the following day. Besides the captain, the saved are: John Mueller, seaman; Edward Flint, sailmaker; and John Speyer, apprentice.

The man lost are the captain's son, Davis Ireland, second mate; William Drummond, third mate; John Christy, cook; Oliver Robinson, apprentice; John Johnson, William Spence, Peter Peterson, John Williams, William Balle, Stephen Brandt and Frank Keaton, seamen.

The boat was capsized during the evening of March 31 and four of the occupants were drowned. The captain's son and the remainder of the crew climbed upon the keel of the burning vessel, and clinging to it, were saved from drowning, but the boat was full of water and they remained to their waists in water fourteen hours, when the men, worn out, exhausted and chilled, began dying. One after another they passed away until finally, including the captain's son, were dead.

The dead were passed overboard, and the boat was relieved by this means that those living were able to sail her. All the provisions, oars and rigging of every kind were lost.

When picked up by the Los Angeles yesterday the captain and the three remaining members of his crew had been five days without food or water. They were so weak as to be unable to stand or walk, and had to be lifted from the boat.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O., Sold by Druggists, &c.

TEN MEN SUFFOCATED.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., April 3.—By the explosion of a lamp in the hands of a Hungarian, ten men lost their lives at the Shamokin shaft, near this place, on Sunday. The dead are: Joseph Burt, single; John Gray, married; John Burt, married; Frederick Nicholas, single; Frank Shupis, single; Nicholas Dutah, married; John Kugel, single; John Brennan, single; John Kugel, married; Michael Brennan, single. The ill-fated miners were residents of Shamokin and Springfield, a small village adjoining the borough.

The burning oil set fire to the roof of the mine, and the efforts of the miners to extinguish the flames were unavailing owing to the inadequate supply of water. An airway shaft connects the No. 10 vein with the red ash vein, which is situated directly over the former one.

Hurriedly notifying the miners on this life the engineer was signaled and the light to the surface commenced. Once out some of the men thought of the air passage leading to the red ash vein, and knew that were the occupants not notified some would be suffocated. A band of rescuers was lowered, and when the cage stopped, the red ash vein, 200 feet from the surface, the men found the tunnel filled with smoke which had come up from the lower level. A couple of rescuers jumped to the cage and tried to walk through the smoke, which grew denser every minute. A few dead men were stumbled over, and the men reluctantly retreated and returned to the surface, where they were notified that the tunnel could not escape as there were no exits at this particular side of the life.

The cage was again lowered and a force of men started in to explore the tunnel. It was risky work as a sulphur explosion was feared. With every step the men took they pressed forward and finally reached two corpses wrapped in each other's arms. They were the bodies of the Brennan brothers. One dozen yards further on lay John Ryan. He was dead. Three feet away from him lay the remains of Shupis and Ginter. The gruesome search continued until every part of the vein had been explored, ten dead men being the total find. The mine is still on fire.

INUNDATION OF A MINE.

Three Lives Lost at the Laurel Hill Colliery at Hazleton.

HAZLETON, Pa., April 4.—Another mine horror occurred yesterday just on the outside of this city. The mine is known as Laurel Hill, and is operated by Pardee Brothers. The nature of the accident was almost a repetition of the Jamesville disaster of two years ago, when eighteen men were drowned.

The accident was caused by David Williams firing a blast in No. 19. Immediately after the blast went off a terrible roar was heard and an immense body of water rushed down No. 19 breast, filling it to the roof. Williams was caught in the flood and undoubtedly perished.

It has been definitely ascertained that three men are in the mine. They are Thomas Hudson, W. L. Trembath and Richard Williams. The latter is dead beyond a doubt. There is a faint possibility that the other two may be rescued alive.

HAZLETON, Pa., April 6.—The chambers worked by the missing miners, Williams, Trembath and Hudson, were examined yesterday afternoon by the rescuers, but no trace of the men was found. The hope of finding either of them alive is gradually fading. It is supposed that they were carried back towards the face of the gangway by the rush of water and slush.

Two Miners Killed.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., April 6.—William Donelson was instantly killed by a fall of top coal in No. 4 shaft yesterday. He was 23 years old. Barney Misch, a miner at No. 2 colliery, at Bantionwood, was crushed to death yesterday. He was a rock miner and had sent a bucket of rock to the surface insecurely fastened. When a hundred feet up the shaft the fastening parted and the entire load fell upon Misch.

Another Mine Accident.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., April 5.—A terrific gas explosion occurred in the air shaft in the Shamokin shaft, last evening, burning Thomas Jenkins and Peter Buecher in a frightful manner, the former, it is feared, fatally.

A Battle at Antlers Imminent.

PAIRS, Tex., April 6.—A battle at Antlers, or Fort Locke, is now considered inevitable. Forty men have left Atoka to join the militia, and forty followed them to John Locke. The Cherokee militia are at Goodland, awaiting their call to battle. The militia, the former, it is feared, fatally.

Will You Ann Arbor Road.

TOLEDO, O., April 6.—Chairman Taylor, of the Ann Arbor strike committee, stated yesterday afternoon that suit will probably be brought against the railroad company by the strikers for $50,000. It represents the difference between the annuities scale adopted in the Ann Arbor strike of two years ago and the amount paid by the company.

A Boy Murderer Gets Twenty-five Years.

DENVER, April 6.—Antone Wood, the 11-year-old boy murderer, who killed Joe Smith for his watch and gun, was yesterday sentenced to twenty-five years in the penitentiary at hard labor.

Mormons in Conference.

SALT LAKE CITY, April 5.—The semi-annual conference of the Mormon church began today at the Temple. The conference of the Temple begins tomorrow and runs on to April 13 inclusive.

A Single Tax Convention.

NEW YORK, April 6.—The national committee of the Single Tax League of the United States has called a national single tax conference to meet in Chicago Aug. 23.

Thirteen Young Ladies Injured.

RALEIGH, April 5.—A collision occurred between two switchback elevated cars at the fair grounds yesterday, and thirteen young ladies were injured. It is thought two girls died. They were scholars of St. Mary's Female college.

Held for Criminal Negligence.

JACKSON, Mich., April 6.—When Maurice P. Gill, the man who is held responsible for the escape of Murderer Latimer, was brought before Justice Palmer on a charge of criminal negligence he waived examination.

Over a Hundred People Killed.

SOFIA, April 4.—A dispatch from Gudria, in the Caucasus, states that a Russian church collapsed during a terrible storm, and that more than one hundred worshippers were killed.

A Desperado Shot.

SPRINGFIELD, S. C., April 6.—Emmanuel Williams, a young white desperado, was shot last night on a Carolina Midland train by an officer who was attempting to arrest him.

Leadville's Populist Mayor.

LEADVILLE, Colo., April 6.—In the city election at Leadville, Populist Mayor and five out of twelve councilmen were re-elected.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRES.

Over a Million Dollars Worth of Property Destroyed.

CUMBERLAND, Md., April 5.—A few minutes after 6 o'clock last evening, a fire broke out in the rear of a building, supposed to be of incendiary origin, was discovered in a shed in an alleyway, near the very heart of the city. Fifteen business houses, a boarding house and restaurant and seven dwelling houses were destroyed. While the fire was at its height it was dropping in a light match in a frame structure in the southern portion of the city. Twelve buildings were completely destroyed before this second fire was subdued. As nearly as can be estimated the total loss is about $1,500,000.

PITTSBURG, April 4.—Allegheny City was visited by a fire last evening which destroyed about $400,000 worth of property. The principal sufferers were: Libhardt & Oiler, brewers; the Godfrey and Clark Paper company, and the H. J. Heinz Pickle company, besides a number of small property owners.

BRADFORD, April 2.—The Higgins Hotel, a three-story frame structure, located at the foot of Main street, opposite the Buffalo Road, was destroyed by fire. Five persons were burned to death or drowned in the creek and twenty-five or more were injured, two at least fatally.

WILKESVILLE, April 6.—At 5:50 o'clock last evening a warehouse, owned by the Dittling company, containing 12,000 barrels of whisky, caught fire and was totally destroyed with its contents. The loss is estimated at $30,000.

PERKINSBURG, Va., April 7.—A destructive fire broke out in the rear of a building on Sycamore street, near Bolling Brook, last night. It soon enveloped the entire block. The loss cannot be estimated.

A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

A Young Wife Killed and Her Father Mortally Wounded.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., April 6.—A terrible tragedy occurred on the highway between Morganfield and Sturgis, Ky., yesterday, which resulted in the killing of Miss Abbie Oliver, and the fatal wounding of her father and mother. The circumstances are these:

Harry Delany, a clerk in a drug store at Morganfield, suffered a severe cold and cough, and he decided the propriety of the unborn child, and the law was sought, but the case remained unsettled. Mr. Taylor Oliver and Mrs. Oliver and their daughter drove to Sturgis from Morganfield. The Oliver five live in Sturgis. They crossed Morganfield about 11 o'clock at night and went to the drug store where Delany is employed. Mr. and Mrs. Oliver went in and covered him with revolvers, a sharp shot and told him he could either marry the daughter or die. He complied, and they started at once to drive back to Sturgis and on the highway three miles from Morganfield were met by four armed men on horseback. The latter were friends of Delany, and they demanded that he be released. On refusal, regular battle began. At the first shot Delany jumped out of the carriage and ran to his friend's house.

Mr. Oliver was mortally wounded. Mrs. Oliver was shot through the fleshy part of the arm. Delany escaped unhurt. Mrs. Delany died at 4 o'clock. It is reported that before she died, Mrs. Delany gave birth to a child.

PRESIDENTIAL FAVORS.

Illinois, Missouri, South Dakota and North Carolina Recognized.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The president yesterday sent the following nominations to the senate: James O. Broadhead, of Missouri, to be envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Switzerland; Bartlett Trapp, of South Dakota, to be envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Austria-Hungary; Eben Alexander, of North Carolina, to be envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Greece, Roumania and Servia.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The president sent the following nominations to the senate yesterday: James S. Ewing of Illinois to be envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Belgium; Thomas F. Crittenden of Missouri, to be consul general of the United States at the City of Mexico; Louis C. Hughes of Arizona, to be governor of Arizona; William T. Thornton of New Mexico, to be governor of New Mexico; William B. Maize of Ohio, to be survivor of elections for the port of Columbus, O.

Beyonding a Conspiracy.

TOLEDO, O., April 4.—The United States court room was crowded yesterday to hear the decisions of Judges Ricks and Taft in the two cases growing out of the Ann Arbor strike. Judge Ricks' decision in the cases of the eight engineers and firemen charged with conspiracy and sedition, and delivered and breathless attention. The court held that the engineers, Lennon, inasmuch as he had been twice ordered to move the cars by the officials of the company, and did not do so, he was guilty of disobedience. The other seven men were discharged. In the Arthur case the decision, which was written by Judge Taft, granted the injunction against the strike, and declared that if the members of the Brotherhood, in obedience to rule 12, boycott freight, they "become guilty of criminal conspiracy against the Chicago."

HARRISON ELATED 3-4 of Chicago. CHICAGO, April 5.—The Chicago Times says: Harrison held his plurality up to 17,000 in a total vote of 185,000, and all hopes of a turn in affairs had vanished. The north and west town tickets seemed safe for the Democrats, and there was hope of their carrying the south. Crocker's vote figured for little more than the Socialists.

The Spanish Cakes Opened.

MADRID, April 6.—Queen Regent Christiana, with King Alfonso XIII and other members of the royal family, opened the court yesterday with the usual brilliant ceremonies. Among the distinguished foreigners present were the Duke of Edinburgh of Austria, daughter of the late Crown Prince Rudolf, with his suite.

Four Killed on the Rail.

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill., April 5.—Four men were killed and a number of others seriously injured in a collision on the Evansville Southern railroad near here. The dead are C. A. Culp, an engineer; James Hamlin, a fireman; Hugh Woods, a fireman; Scotty Welch, a miner.

The Rezer Deal.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 6.—Dan Donovan, of Cleveland, who was defeated in his bid with Joe DuBois of Syracuse, at the May Day Tuesday night, died yesterday afternoon. The defeated pugilist never recovered consciousness after the last and decisive blow was struck.

Martial Law for the Boston Nation.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Secretary Hoke Smith yesterday received a telegram from Indian Agent Bennett, in which he recommended that the Choctaw nation be placed under martial law. He believes, he believes, is the only way in which peace can be maintained.

MARYLAND MATTERS.

BALTIMORE, March 31.—The 123-ton gun, which was sent by Krupp, of Essen, Germany, for the World's Columbian exposition, will be fired from the steamship Longwell, which is en route from Baltimore to this country at Sparrow's Point, near this city, tomorrow.

PORT DEPOSIT, March 31.—At Otter Creek Junction, yesterday, an empty box car was demolished and a coal car damaged. The W. S. Lantz was yesterday test and half way through the box car, in which two tramps were stealing a ride. The tramps were very badly frightened. The flagman was injured, but not seriously so.

BALTIMORE, April 4.—Admiral E. Steven, vice president of the United States, formally opened the bazaar of the Maryland Society of the Sons of the American Revolution last night at the Fifth regiment armory. The proceeds of the bazaar are to aid in the erection of a monument to the Maryland soldiers of the revolution.

CUMBERLAND, March 31.—Colonel Porter, superintendent of construction of the West Virginia Central railroad, has forty men engaged in changing the line of the Baltimore and Annapolis bridge, from about twenty miles east of Cumberland. Within the next two weeks 700 men will be put to work on the bed of the proposed extension of this road east.

BALTIMORE, April 5.—The all night race between the Bay Line steamers Georgia and Alabama, from Annapolis, Va., to Baltimore, resulted in favor of the Georgia, the arriving ten minutes earlier than the new vessel this morning. It is generally conceded that the Georgia is still the fastest boat in these waters. Her run last night was completed in eight hours and ten minutes.

OAKLAND, April 2.—A great many robbers have been committed in this section within the past two weeks. At the little town of Egan, twelve miles from Oakland, the storehouses of Julius Scherer and W. S. Lantz were yesterday test and half way through the box car, in which two tramps were stealing a ride. The tramps were very badly frightened. The flagman was injured, but not seriously so.

BALTIMORE, April 6.—The 123-ton Krupp gun is still in the harbor of the Longwell. The vessel has been here nearly three weeks, and the Maryland Steel company is paying a forfeit of $100 per day until the cargo is removed. The vessel was loaded in three days at Hamburg. Cer in a day were found in the big stores at Sparrow's Point, and it now looks as if the mammoth gun will not be raised before Saturday.

WEVERTON, March 31.—One of the most destructive fire incendiaries that has ever occurred in this section was that which destroyed the barn on the farm of the late George Edward Stonebaker, near Weverton, wasington county, last night. The barn, together with nine horses, four cows, twelve tons of hay, a lot of corn, several farm wagons, bays and carriages and all the agricultural implement and several hundred dollars' worth of new lumber were destroyed.

FREDERICK, March 31.—The family of Mr. Lewis Main, including himself, his wife, and son and a daughter, were suddenly and severely stricken down by a few days ago with a sickness having all the symptoms of poisoning. A physician was summoned and since then they have been under medical treatment. Several relatives on visiting the house yesterday or two later were also taken sick in a similar way. The cause of the sickness has not yet been discovered.

GALENA, Md., April 1.—Fire yesterday destroyed twenty frame buildings out of about 150 in the town, causing a loss of $25,000. Among the buildings burned were the stores of W. T. Hyland and W. T. Woods. The fire broke out in Mr. Woods' store. He started out to fight the flames, leaving the draught on his stove, which became overheated and set fire to the store. The cause of the fire is under investigation.

BELAIR, April 2.—In a small way which occurred at Bynum Station, two miles from Belair, on Saturday, when Cyril Johnson, a driver of a stage, drove a few days ago with a sickness having all the symptoms of poisoning. A physician was summoned and since then they have been under medical treatment. Several relatives on visiting the house yesterday or two later were also taken sick in a similar way. The cause of the sickness has not yet been discovered.

UPPER MARIETTA, Md., April 1.—The reward of $1,000 offered for the arrest of the murderers of Mr. Francis Blackader, who was killed on Sunday evening last, is crowding this place with detectives. The fourth arrest was made yesterday. It was that of a boy named James Alfred Barber, a son of Dan Barber, already arrested, who was charged with being a party to the murder of Blackader.

HAGERSTOWN, March 31.—Sheriff Brumbaugh, Deputy Sheriff Clarkson, of Hagerstown; Constable Samuel Pennel, and six citizens of Sharpsburg, yesterday attempted to evict a family named Nicolson, consisting of one landlord and two men, brothers and sisters, from a farm house three miles south of Sharpsburg. They succeeded after a sharp and determined battle. The brothers were armed with guns and the sisters with knives. The brothers were badly beaten. Deputy Sheriff Clarkson being knocked senseless by one of the women. Assistance arrived and the men were overpowered and handcuffed and the women were dismissed.

BRIDGEMORE, April 6.—A wedding that had excited a good deal of interest in social circles for some weeks was solemnized last evening at Grace Episcopal church. The parties thereto were Mrs. Key-Mitchell, the widow of the late Mr. Key-Mitchell, and Mr. Edwin Key-Mitchell, son of the Rev. R. J. Keeling, of Virginia. The ceremony was performed by Mr. Keeling's brother, the Rev. Stewart Keeling. Mrs. Mitchell is a well known figure in Baltimore society, and is connected with some of the best families of Maryland. She is the mother of two children, Mr. Wal or Mitchell and Miss Rob Mitchell. Within the past year Mrs. Mitchell has been engaged to Mr. George Taylor, but owing to certain family complications the wedding has been postponed. Mr. Robert Lee Keeling came to this city on yesterday with his sister, Miss Rose Keeling, now Mrs. Sallison Hatcher, of Washington. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Keeling left for their home in Maryland. Mr. Keeling gave a farewell luncheon today at Rembert's hotel to the following gentlemen: Mr. Sallison Hatcher, of Washington; Mr. Robert Garrett, Mr. James H. Preston, Mr. W. B. Peters, Mr. Mitchell, of the Rev. Edwin Key-Mitchell, of Virginia; Mr. Edwin Key-Mitchell, of Virginia; Mr. Thomas A. Fitzpatrick, Dr. Bryson Wood and the Rev. Stewart Keeling.

Fire in the Mountains.

EXTENSIVE forest fires have been raging in the Catocin mountains, near the Catocin Furnaces, during the past few days. Hundreds of acres have been burnt over, and a large amount of valuable timber destroyed. On Tuesday and Wednesday nights the fire could be seen plainly from this place, and many of our citizens spent much time in trying to locate it.

Endorsed for Postmaster.

Will not be Changed.

ON last Saturday a meeting of the Frederick County Agricultural Society
was held at the court house, in Frederick, to take action on a proposition to change the present life membership organization to a stock company. The object of making the proposed change was to secure the annual State appropriation of $1,000 to regularly incorporated agricultural societies and to do away with the privileges granted to life members, which consists of the free admission of members to the fair, together with their wives, minor children and servants. A new constitution and charter was submitted for adoption, but after a lengthy and excited discussion,
they failed to receive the two third majority, which is necessary to make the change. It is thought that the matter will not be brought up again during the present year.

LETTER FROM ROCKY RIDGE.

What charming bright weather for Easter-tide, which was quickly observed in our locality.

The weather is delightful, the green fields, with chirping birds and buzzing bees, all show signs of a new resurrection in nature.

Rev. G. Whitmore occupied the pulpit at 2 p. m. Sunday, April 2nd, and discoursed eloquently upon the subject of Christ's Resurrection. The music by the Reformed choir was exceedingly pleasing to the ear; especially the duet, "Drifting Away," rendered by the Messrs. Waeche, with Miss May Smith and Miss Carrie Waeche, alternating at the organ.

Among the visitors during Easter at this place, were Mr. R. E. Fairick, of Washington, D. C.; Mr. S. Long, of Mechanistown, now clerking for Rouzer, dealer in general merchandise
at that place; Messrs. Wm. and Ed.
Waeche, of Baltimore, the former a clerk, and the latter attending Business College.

Mr. S. Green, teacher of the public school at Adamstown, spent Saturday and Sunday among friends here, having taught school at Rocky Ridge last year.

Several of our citizens have been sick
during the past week, and the physician
reports a number of sick people. Mr.
Willie Black, who has been confined to bed for the past two weeks, we are glad to report improving.

There are yet a few movings. On Tuesday, Mr. El Harman vacated this place as merchant, and moved to the farm of Mr. Mott Morrison, near Emmitsburg.

On the same day, Mr. Clem, of near Double Pipe Creek, moved into our village.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became a Girl, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

ST. EUPHEMIA'S SCHOOL.

The Artistic Specimen Work by the Pupils of the above school will be exhibited at the Columbian Exposition.

Several months ago the committee on School Exhibits for the Great Columbian Exposition to be held at Chicago, this summer, issued circulars to the principals of all the schools in the United States, asking for specimens of work of the scholars to be displayed at the World's Fair. The Sisters in charge of St. Euphemia's School in this place, recognizing the ability of their scholars to compete favorably with the pupils of the other schools in the country, decided to give their pupils an opportunity of displaying their talents, and there is no doubt, but that the result is far beyond the expectations of both teachers and scholars. On Wednesday we had the pleasure of viewing the work, which has been executed by the scholars of the above named school, and which will be sent to the Columbian Exposition in a few days, is the finest work of the kind we have ever seen.

The specimens of the work are beautifully bound in three volumes. The work of the boys and girls in separate books, and preceding the work of each pupil is a fly leaf containing the name of the author and also the grade of the class. The penmanship is beautiful;
and the illustrations and map drawings,
which are in water colors, are as near perfect as can be made by hand.

The entire work was completed in a little over three weeks, and Sister Rose Noyley, with her corps of thoroughly trained assistants have every reason to feel proud over their magnificent work, knowing that their labors have not been in vain. We congratulate the scholars upon the excellent manner in which they executed the work assigned to them, feeling confident that it will compare favorably with the specimens
from any other school.

The following is a list of the names of the pupils who executed the above work, with the grade of the class, and the studies of each scholar:

EIGHTH GRADE.

Specimen pages written by the following pupils for the Columbian Expon-sition: Misses Emma Short, Kate Hann

The senior boys' specimens consist of grammar, arithmetic, physiology, rhetoric, literature, philosophy, history, geography and geography, arithmetic, algebra, geometry and book keeping, short hand and typewriting. The different sciences are correctly illustrated
by means of pen pictures, which enhance and adorn the book, at the same time showing the artistic skill of the following pupils: George Nusscar, Eugene McCarthy, V. P. Lawrence,
James Dorozone, Charles Martin,
Frank Martin, Romanus Grindler, Harry Hoke, Norman Hoke.

FIFTH GRADE.

Specimen pages of pupils of fifth grade

Rider, Richard Zacharias, Joseph Kreitz,
and Joseph Stouter.

WORK OF THE COLORED PUPILS.

St. Euphemia's School has an apartment for the instruction of colored children, and the specimen work executed by these pupils displays remarkable skill. The class work by the colored pupils of the fifth, fourth, third,
second and first grades, consists of a re-cension of dictation, penmanship, Bible history, United States history, geography, grammar, language lessons, arithmetic, practical accounts, penmanship, object lessons, primary drawing.

Fifth Grade—James Ed. Landers,
Rose Mitchell, Clara M. Hill.
Fourth Grade—Joseph Mitchell, Au-
gustina Landers, Annie Craig, Mary Constance, George Parker, Stella Hill,
Olivia Beatty, Nellie Brown, Mary E.
Williams, Rose Williams, Rose Hill,
Louise Brown, Annie McIlhenny.

Third Grade—Simon Milberry, Frank
T. Brown, Charlie Mitchell, Augustin
Ross, James Brown, Eddie Craig, Hilary Dittler.

MT. ST. MARY'S COLLEGE NEWS.

Stereoscopic Exhibition.

Rev. Father O'Hara treated the members of the faculty, seminarians, and students, together with many visitors, among which were Father White, of Emmitsburg, and Mr. James Malloy, of Wilmington, Del., to a grand stereoscopic exhibition, on Wednesday evening,
March 26, in the College Music Hall.
The views were appropriate to Holy week and Easter-tide, being taken entirely from the incidents in the life of Christ. The masterpieces of sculptors and painters both medieval and modern were shown, and Fr. O'Hara explained each view in an agreeable manner giving its history, author and connection with the life of Christ in an interesting way. Fr. O'Hara prefaced his remarks by saying that while the scenery is of the world, it is as possible and while he had succeeded in part, yet they were small in comparison with the numerous paintings and pieces of sculpture extant on the subject in the great museums and gal-eries scattered all over the world. At all events we were treated to the works of such masters as Michael Angelo and Thorwaldson in sculpture and to the works of such a galaxy of painters as Murillo of Seville, Jordaens, Morano, Raphael of Florence, Morris, Van Hoffman, etc., and numerous modern French and German artists of repute.
Of Thorwaldson's works, we were shown the four pieces known as the Four Evangelists, St. Matthew and the Younger, St. Mark and the Lion, St.
Luke and the Kine, and St. John and the Eagle, and "The Holy Family." Fr.
O'Hara gave descriptions of each and also their history. Many views of The Madonna and Child were given, the principal of which were those of Murillo at the Labor of Love, St. John Michael Angelo's famous "Madonna of the Chair" and The Madonna of a recent German artist which took first prize in the French Salon. Others of Murillo's work, "The Virgin of Sal-ville, The Agnes Dei, The water of Life and The Immaculate Conception were shown. Morano's "Song of the Angels" suggested by Gen. Wallace in Ben Hur is one of the finest sacred paintings ever produced in America. The An-unciation and Christ walking on the waters, by Jordaens, The Transfiguration, of Raphael, together with the painting of Dore and Leonardo da Vinci were among the finest exhibited. Father O'Hara closed his exhibition with these two great paintings which once seen can never be forgotten "Eve Homo"
and "Mater Dolorosa."

The students and those present testified their appreciation of Father O'Hara's kindness by the warmest applause. They feel doubly grateful for his continued efforts to please and instruct. Surely we are fortunate in having the pleasure of listening to the lectures and viewing the beautiful illustrations of this season's series.

Persons.

Rev. Edward J. Hart, of Bowling Green, Ky., who was ordained from the Seminary in 1891, spent several days with us during the week. Tuesday he and Father O'Hara made a short visit to Gettysburg. Father Hart is looking well and seems to enjoy good health.
May he continue so!

Mr. John Madden, '92, at present a medical student of Harvard, is visiting his friends at the college.

Mr. Michael Morley, '88, paid a flying visit to the College, Tuesday.

Mr. William H. Seton, of Seton Hall
College, visited the college last week.

During Easter week we had a number of visitors among whom were the following: Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Robertson, of Baltimore, Md., Mr. A. W.
Cooper, Misses Lida A. Loney and Josephine Baker, of New Orleans, La., Misses Rose Matthews, M. A. Brennan, L. Banton and Mrs. M. A. Banton, of Philadelphia, Pa.; Misses C. E. and V.
Douglas, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Mr. W. R.
and Mrs. A. E. McLoskey, of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Seton, of Emmitsburg, Md.

The Holy Week services for Friday,
Saturday and Sunday were equally impressive with those of Wednesday and Thursday. The singing of Te Deum
Thursday and Friday afternoon was conducted by Mr. Connel and Mr. Waterson, the same quartet singing the Third Lamentation and the psalm Miserere mei, as on the previous day. Night and morning prayers in the church on the hill were conducted by Dr. Allen. The singing of hymns Sabbat Mater, Magnificat and Benedicite
being especially fine. In the services
Good Friday the following participated:
celebrant, Father Brown; deacon, Rev.
Mr. Jordan; sub-deacon, Mr. Martin;
solist, Messrs. J. Gallagher and Cotter; cross-bearer, Mr. McCreary; chancellor, Messrs. Monaghan and Mc-Carthy; masters of ceremonies, Messrs.
McHugh and Hartkopf. The Passion was sung by Messrs. Jordan, Martin and Walsh. Saturday's services embraced the blessing of water, fire and the paschal candle. Father Tierney was celebrant, assisted by Father Brown as deacon and Mr. Hartkopf, sub-deacon;
solist, Messrs. Curley and Hill, th

FRIDAY, APRIL 7, 1893.

SOME SEVERE WINTERS.

The winter of 1740, according to the reports that have come down to us, has never been equalled since for cold and snow. If a man did not drive a horse and sleigh from Harrogate, near New York, to Cape Cod," as told, it is quite sure that Narragansett Bay was frozen over, and the sea south so far as the eye could reach. Early in November the cold came, and the snow with it, so that, with the exception of a few days in December and again in January, the earth was covered till well into spring. On the tenth of March the snow was three feet deep on the level in the woods.

Twenty years later there was another severe winter. This was the time of the sledding wood across the ferries from Narragansett, and the ocean freezing fifty or sixty miles out, nearly to the Gulf Stream, which seems to have failed in its warming powers that year. The little town was as short of wood as Palissy the potter, in his worst days, and the poor people were driven to the same resource. They burned the interior fittings of the houses.

We have also to return to books for a description of the great Christmas storm of 1811. Until recently there were those living who could tell the story of the cold and snow and biting winds that brought death not only to flocks and herds but to men. "Shepherd Tom" has left an account of the finding of an Indian squaw under the snow, "sitting bolt upright on a stone leap, with her chin resting on both hands, and her elbows on her knees, looking for all the world as natural as life, only the poor old squaw was frozen as stiff as an icicle."

And also of Joseph Candall, of Portsmouth, "who became so exhausted and bewildered while but a few rods from his house, in what is now called the 'Glen,' that he gave up striving, and sat down in a deep gorge a short distance south of the mill, where his corpse was subsequently found under a snow bank."

The cattle died from cold, but the poor sheep loaded down with the snow that settled in their heavy fleeces, and must have slowly starved. "Shepherd Tom" speaks of one belonging to his father's flock that lay under a snow bank for twenty-one days, and was finally discovered by the "breathing hole" in the top of the bank, and rescued alive. It was this sheep restored to health, but with its fleeces nearly all eaten off in the days of imprisonment, for which the farmer's wife made a suit out of her husband's cast-off garments, a comfortable device, but one that kept its wearer in some days further loneliness before the flock got used to their tailor-made member.

It is interesting to read by the same author, the account of flocks getting into the sea during the storm. The unhappy animals, for which no sheds or shelters of any kind were provided, blinded by the sleet and driven by the wind, would circle around to get on the lee side, until they drifted to the shore and were crowded into the water. The region of the "King's highways" was not a good place for farmer or flocks in a winter storm. The only way of saving mutton and fleeces was to cut the throats of the sheep, for it was almost impossible to stop the movement of the dazed creatures.

The winter of 1820 was another severe one, when the usual genial winter climate of Southern Rhode Island was changed for one that might fit Canada. Three great snow falls in one week piled up the deepest drifts that the oldest inhabitants had ever seen. "Shepherd Tom" tells of it as from ten to thirty feet deep in the hollows, and in a walk of ten miles, looking after his herds and flocks, he was obliged to go full three-quarters of the way on his hands and knees. The easiest part of his journey was on the shore, walking on the edge of the breakers, at times half knee-deep in water, and having to climb over a sea wall of snow three and four feet high when the tremendous breakers that were lashing the coast threatened to overtake him.

Those were bracing days for the farmer in those thickly settled regions. Then, as now, New England weather was variable.

"The sun was shining mellow and bright when it went down, and the air was imbued with such a Gulf Stream softness that one might seemingly bathe in it." But the next morning the farmer was making his way to the relief of the animals "by beating to and fro against the sleet, as a vessel makes its way." In this storm some few years after that of 1820, the snow was so dense that the sheep were smothered in it.—Newport News.

Mr. JONES has just had a birthday. It marked an epoch in his life, and in that of Mrs. Jones, too, and neither of these excellent people will be likely to forget it very soon.

Mrs. Jones had been mysteriously busy embroidering something which she kept wrapped up in oiled silk. Then at times her eyes would fall on Jones with sort of tape-measure glance, as if taking dimensions and questioning whether something would fit. Smiles of satisfaction would also chase each other across her face as she gazed.

"I wonder what she's up to," mused Jones, "a four-in-hand for me to hang myself with, or another smoking jacket only fit to be buried in. I do hope Providence will avert any such calamity."

He changed his mind and took up another course of thought, when Mrs. Jones asked him which he would prefer, could he have his choice, a gold-headed cane or a rosewood revolving desk.

"Maria's been saving up her money," he said to himself. "I'm in luck this time."

The morning of his birthday came, and at breakfast Mr. Jones found his present in a small package at his plate. He unrolled it savagely, and saw a blue satin ribbon with red letters and some clasps attached.

"You've always needed one, dear," said Mrs. Jones, as she regarded it with admiring eyes.

"What is it?" growled Jones. "What's the name of the object?" "It's a napkin-holder, Jephtha. You put the band around your neck."

"Not if I know it."

"And the silver holders—"

"Keep the crumbs from—"

"What are these letters?"

"They are French, dear—"

"Oh, the English language gave out, did it?"

"And wish you bon appetit."

"Bon, what?"

"It means good appetite, you know—"

"No, I don't know! And if you think I'm a pug to be rigged up in harness, you're away off, that's what."

"But it's only to wear at meals," apologized Mrs. Jones.

"I'm out of the bib age, Mrs. Jones, for good and all."

"I think you're very unkind, Jephtha," retorted Mrs. Jones; "it's a real shame!"

"I should say it was, Maria. Look at me," continued Mr. Jones, savagely. "D'you suppose I'd sit here and eat with that bon-apetit thing around my neck? Not much! I can make a fool of myself in one language, but I ain't going to do it in two."

Mrs. Jones sobbed as she laid the relic away in the china closet, while Jones muttered feebly:

"Another household idol smashed into smithereens!"—Detroit Free Press.

A COLD of unusual severity developed into a decidedly decided catarrh in all its characteristics, threatening a return of my old chronic malady, catarrh. One bottle of Ely's Cream Balm completely eradicated every symptom of that painful disorder.—E. W. Warner, Rochester, N. Y.

WHEN I began using Ely's Cream Balm my catarrh was so bad I had headache the whole time and discharged a large amount of filthy matter. That has almost entirely disappeared and I have not had headache since.—J. H. Sommers, Stephentown, Conn.

Plan Worn Out.

This is the way a tired Georgia editor puts it:

"We are plum worn out with these people. A man gave us a hen for one year's subscription. The hen proved to be a good layer, and now—hanged if he ain't suin' us for the eggs, on the ground that they were not in the bill of sale!"—Atlanta Constitution.

TEMPERANCE.

I BELIEVE that within the portals of every saloon, invisible to the eye of mortal, there stands the awful responsibility of the worst that can happen to man or woman. Not one good act that will live in the memories of men, that will find a place of honor upon stone, marble or brass, has ever been done by a man besotted with drink. It never ennobles, it always degrades. It never brightens, but always clouds the intellect. It never makes a man strong or enduring, it always weakens and lowers him. One poor man begins to sell liquor among others well to do, and in a short time he becomes wealthy and the rest poor. The wives of the drinkers wear rags, while the wife of the seller of liquor wears silks.—Terence V. Powderly, in Seraphon Index, reprinted in Journal of Knights of Labor.

"Give Me a Drink."

There's my money—give me a drink! There's the clothing and food and fire of my wife and children—give me a drink! There's the education of the family and the peace of the house—give me a drink! There's the rent I have lobbied from my landlord and innumerable articles I have from shop keepers—give me a drink! Pour me out a drink, and yet more—I will pay for it! There's my health of body and peace of mind; there's my character as a Christian. I give up all—give me a drink! More yet I have to give! There's my heavenly inheritance and the eternal friendship of the redeemed, there, there is all hope of salvation. I give up my God! I give up all that is great and good and glorious in the universe! I resign all forever that I may be drunk!—Catholic Review.

If a Sunday-closing bill could be passed in England, it would set free from Sunday toil between two and three hundred thousand barmaids and barmen who now work about fifteen hours a day for seven days.—Union Signal.

Henry W. Grody's Arrangement of the Liquor Traffic.

To night it enters a humble home to strike the roses from a woman's cheek, and to-morrow it challenges this republic in the halls of Congress. To-day it strikes a crust from the lips of a starving child, and to-morrow levies tribute from the government itself. There is no cottage in this city humble enough to escape it—no palace strong enough to shut it out. It defies the law when it cannot evade it. It is flexible to cajole, but merciless in victory. It is the mortal enemy of peace and order, the despoiler of men and terror of women, the cloud that shadows the face of children, the demon that has dug more graves and sent more souls unshriven to judgment than all the pestilences that have wasted life since God sent the plagues to Egypt, and all the wars since Joshua stood beyond Jericho. It comes to ruin, and it shall profit mainly by the ruin of your sons and mine. It comes to mislead human souls and to crush human hearts under its rumbling wheels. It comes to bring gray-haired mothers down in shame and sorrow to their graves. It comes to change the wife's love into despair and her pride into shame. It comes to still the laughter on the lips of little children. It comes to stifle all the music of the home, and fill it with silence and desolation. It comes to ruin your body and mind, to wreck your home, and it knows it must measure its prosperity by the swiftness and certainty with which it wrecks this world.—From a speech delivered at Atlanta, Ga.

Convincing a Juror.

"And you don't believe in capital punishment?" asked the rural justice of the juror.

"No sir, I don't."

"An' nothin' could convince you?"

"John," said the justice to the bailiff, "grease that rope an' swing him up, an' may the Lord have mercy on his soul!"—Atlantic Constitution.

Ta tea Too Luxurious.

Passenger in the crowded street car.

"Hold on, conductor. There's no room for another passenger in here."

Conductor (with scorn). "Room? Who said anything about room? Just shove along there and let him in. What do you want for a nickel, anyway?"—Chicago News-Record.

Something of a Curiosity.

Kentucky elects but one Republican member of Congress, Mr. Wilson, who lives up in the mountains. Said Mr. Wilson not long ago, in a talk on experiences: "One night I was at a hotel in Lexington, talking with some friends in the office, and incidentally it was mentioned that I was a Republican and a member of Congress. Later in the evening, when I was about to retire, a man with a diamond in his shirt front and the general air of a fakir of some sort came up and spoke to me.

"Excuse me, mister," he said, "but din I understand that you was a republican?"

"Yes," said I, curiously.

"And a Kentucky congressman?"

"Yes."

"And air you a white man?"

That made me a little hot, but I kept my temper and said I was.

"What pay do you git?"

"Five thousand dollars a year."

"That's about a hundred a week, ain't it?" he said, making a mental calculation.

"About that."

"Are you going to be busy this summer?"

"Well, not so busy but that I might undertake something else if there was money in it."

"Come over here a minute," he said, moving off toward a corner.

"What is it?" I inquired, when we had got away from everybody.

"It's this," he said earnestly. "I'm traveling with a circus as a sideshow man, and I want a curiosity for the Southern circuit. If you'll come with me for the season, I'll plank down fifty a week and expenses, and you won't have a thing to do but make a little speech tellin' who and what you are, and I'll agree to git you back in time for Congress in December. Is it a go?"

The man was in such dead earnest that I couldn't resist the offer, but I respectfully and firmly declined it.—Detroit Free Press.

CATARRH CURED
Dr. H. H. B. Stouter, D. C., Feb. 1, 1888.
In the winter of 1877 I suffered very seriously from Catarrh, failing to obtain relief from any of the remedies I used. I was very much distressed, and my nose, head and throat were soon relieved. I kept a bottle in the house for a cure of a bad cold and find it invaluable.
