THE CHILD'S IDEA. A lady who was going into a store dropped a single red rose she held in her hand, and it lay on the floor when a thin-faced, ragged child stopped to look at it.

It was snowing still, sharp prickles of whiteness in the gloomy December dusk when Ninette Beauvoir was driven up to her cousin's house.

IN HONOREM BEATI BETRI PISCATORIS. Quite appropriate for a school of fishery! Norway has a very extensive industry!

When Mr. Trebleton came in at nine o'clock, he found Ninette still looking at the fire through eyes that swam like tears.

"What do other girls do who are 'brought out of their resources'?" she asked.

"What's the matter now?" said Mrs. Berry. "Why are you crying?"

"This lady," he said to her, indicating a stout female in black silk behind a tall desk, "will procure decent lodgings for you and put you in the way of employment."

"I am expected, I suppose," said Ninette, wondering why the woman did not open the door a little wider.

"What name?" she asked, looking at Mrs. Berry.

The woman stared, but Ninette had caught the pencil from her hand, and with two or three bold strokes, altered the whole character of the design.

"I don't know," confessed Ninette, rinsing. "But, don't you see—can't you comprehend? It couldn't be otherwise. It must come out so!"

"I am Ninette Beauvoir, your cousin's child," said she, rising with varying color.

"I have heard nothing of it," said Mrs. Berry, without opening the door a fraction farther.

"No, miss, he's not," still frigidly. "I will come in," said Ninette, trying to swallow the suffocating sensation in her throat.

"I can do nothing more for you," said the stout female at length, "unless, indeed, they can give you employment at the Decoration Rooms. It won't cost anything for you to go and see."

Killed by an Office Seeker.

Mr. Carter Henry Harrison, Mayor of Chicago, was assassinated in his home at Chicago, on last Saturday night, by an office-seeker by the name of Eugene Patrick Prendergast.

Prendergast's reasons for killing Mr. Harrison, are to the effect that he had been promised the corporation councilship and was refused that office.

In 1871 Mr. Harrison was brought out by friends as a candidate for county commissioner and elected.

In 1872 he was nominated for Congress on the Democratic ticket, but was defeated.

he started on a tour of the world, and was absent for sixteen months. What he saw on the circuit of the globe is felicitously described in a volume entitled "A Race With the Sun."

Last summer it was given out that Mr. Harrison was soon to marry Miss Annie Howard. The wedding was to take place in two weeks—November 14.

Mr. Harrison was a very popular man. He was often called in Chicago "Our Carter." He was tall, square built, with thin gray hair, full beard nearly gray, and piercing eyes, and was easily approached.

The World's Fair Closed. The World's Fair at Chicago, was officially closed on Monday, although visitors will be admitted to the grounds while the exhibits are being removed and the buildings torn down.

With the grand total of 21,477,213 paid admissions the World's Fair was closed. Though these figures represent the paid admissions during the time allotted by Congress in which the exposition should be kept open, yet it is calculated that at least 1,000,000 tickets will be purchased before the beautiful White City is dismantled and leveled to the ground.

After every debt of the World's Fair has been paid there will remain at least $1,000,000, and perhaps more, to be distributed among the stockholders. Treasurer Seeberger made this pleasant announcement Monday afternoon.

The Maryland World's Fair Commissioners have sent men to Chicago to pack the furniture, bric-a-brac and exhibits in the Maryland Building.

The Board of Bureau Chiefs of the Navy Department at Washington, has decided on a plan for the removal of the top-heaviness and instability of certain gun-boats whose condition has been a source of much worry and concern to Secretary Herbert and naval officers generally.

The plan of the board of bureau chiefs contemplates a lightening of the armament of the ships concerned—the Detroit, the Machias, the Montgomery and the Marblehead—and an addition of weight in the hull of each.

The alterations in the Detroit are also to be applied to the Montgomery and the Marblehead, which are sister ships of similar arrangement; but, as these last-named vessels are not yet completed in all respects, the alterations can be made with little trouble and expense.

Far and Wide.
Not on this broad continent alone, but in material breeding tropical regions, in Guatemala, Mexico, South America, the Islands of Panama, and elsewhere, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters affords to inhabitants and sojourners protection against malaria. The miner, the freeray arrived immigrant, the tiller of the virgin soil, and the laborer in the tropics, find in the superb anti-febrile specific a preserver against the poisonous miasma which in vast districts rich in natural resources, is yet fertile in disease. It annihilates disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, fortifies those who use it against malarial influences, and affords by outdoor exposure a refreshing warmth into a frame chilled by a rigorous temperature, and robs of their power to harm morning and evening mists and vapors laden with malarial germs, strengthens the weak and soothes incipient kidney trouble.

A PRETTY WEDDING.

Wednesday morning, Oct. 25, at 7.30 o'clock presented a beautiful scene, the occasion being the marriage of Miss Mary Eckenrode, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Eckenrode, and Mr. George Keepers, a well known young man of this district. Promptly at the appointed hour they entered the church at Mt. St. Mary's College, to the strains of the wedding march, which was beautifully rendered by Mrs. J. Henry Cretin. First came the groom and groom's-men, Messrs. Jos. V. Tyson, of Emmitsburg, and Hugh A. Roddy, of Frederick, cousin of the bride; and then followed the bride's maids, Miss Rose Eckenrode, sister of the bride, and Miss Mary Keepers, sister of the groom, lastly the bride who entered leaning on the arm of her father, advanced to the altar, where they were met by the groom. Rev. Edw. P. Allen, D. D., performed the ceremony. The bride was beautifully attired in a delicate shade of blue, trimmed in blue satin and white gimp, white felt hat and kid gloves. The bride's maids were dressed in steel, trimmed in white silk, with hat and gloves to match. The groom and groomsmen wore the conventional black. Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party were driven to the home of the bride. At 3 o'clock P. M., a sumptuous dinner was served. Those present were: Rev. Edw. P. Allen, D. D., Misses Mary Elder, Josie Elder, Mr. and Mrs. J. Henry Cretin, Miss White, Mr. and Mrs. McCaren, Mr. and Mrs. V. Eckenrode, Mr. and Mrs. H. Eckenrode. The happy couple were the recipients of numerous handsome and useful presents, among which was a beautiful chamber set from Miss J. M. Elder; a handsome lamp, presented by the groom's-man, Mr. Hugh Roddy; a clock by J. V. Tyson; a handsome bed room suit from the bride's mother, and beautiful rocker from the groom, and many others. In the evening a reception was held and quite a number of relatives and friends were present. At 10 o'clock all repaired to the dining room where the table was laden with refreshments.

The Knowledge Seekers.
The Chautauqua Society held its regular meeting on last Friday evening at the home of the Misses Hoke. On account of the inclement weather several members were absent. After roll call, which was responded to by quotations, the study of Roman History was taken up and for nearly one hour, the lesson (Rome under Kings) was discussed, and the way in which the members responded to the questions showed plainly that the lesson had been well studied. The legend of the founding of Rome is very interesting reading and it was very well discussed by the class. After the discussion of the history lesson, by the request of several members of the class, Miss Constance Kerschner recited that beautiful and thrilling poem of McCauley's "Horatius at the Bridge," which was enjoyed by all.

The study of economics was next taken up and discussed. The meeting, which lasted for nearly two hours, was very interesting throughout, and the members left, feeling that they had done credit to the lesson and also to themselves.

May the society be a benefit to every individual member is the wish of every one and let each member feel that its one great object is improvement, and if each one will enter into the work with that spirit, success will crown their efforts.

The society will hold an oyster supper in the near future. The meeting adjourned to meet to-night at 8 o'clock at the home of Miss Hallie Motter. The subject for the next meeting will be the "Roman Republic" and Public and Private Economics.

Sent to Montevue Hospital.
A weak-minded woman by the name of Francis Ryan, who had been staying at "Hayfield Farm," in this district, was arrested and taken before Justice of the Peace, Henry Stokes, Esq., in this place, on Friday last, who committed her to Montevue Hospital, at Frederick, on the charge of being disorderly and disturbing the citizens of the locality in which she lived. Constable H. E. Hann took her to Frederick the same day, where she was placed in charge of the officials of the above institution. It appears that the woman was weak-minded, although she talked quite sensible while at the Squire's office. She had been indulging in the habit of stonking people while passing along the road and doing other things which were quite unpleasant and annoying to the residents of that community. The school children were also attacked by the woman, many of whom were afraid to travel the road alone.

Harry Grove, son of Mr. Leonard and Grove, of Breathsdeville, is charged with throwing the stone, and has been arrested. He and Ollie C. Zeigler were passing across the farm of Dr. Jos. P. Chaney, with guns, hunting game. They met Mr. Miller in the field who ordered the young men off the land. The hunters replied that the farm was not Mr. Miller's and they would not listen to his orders. A quarrel and fight ensued in which Mr. Miller was badly hurt. The stone thrown at him knocked a great hole in his head above the ear, and fragments of the skull entered the brain. Drs. Edward Smith, Tyson, Constables arrested young Grove, who was in bed at his father's home, having just returned from Frederick county, and lodged him in jail at Hagerstown.

Opening Ceremonies of the Iron Bridge at Brunswick.

Saturday was an eventful day in the history of the flourishing railroad town of Brunswick, on the banks of the Potomac. The day had been set apart for the formal opening of the Brunswick and Lovettsville Bridge Company's massive iron structure across the Potomac. The town council some weeks ago appointed Messrs. John T. Martin, general foreman of the Brunswick yards, E. C. Shafer, of the Herald, J. L. Jordan, George Hogan, G. M. Swank, J. P. Karn, Wm. Schnauffer, Dr. J. S. Billogg, Dr. Fisk Elgin and Mayor Z. T. Brantner a committee to arrange a programme for the occasion, the bridge directors and the citizens to work in conjunction with the committee. The grand demonstration of the day showed how well they performed their duty.

The day was bright, with a bracing October breeze. From early noon till noon the people poured in by trains, vehicles, bicycles and on foot till the crowd was estimated at from 5,000 to 6,000. They came by the hundreds from Loudon county, Va., Berkeley and Jefferson counties, W. Va., and Washington, Montgomery and Frederick counties, Md. Quite a number of visitors were also present from Baltimore and Washington. The city was gay with bunting and flags, the business men vieing with each other in their decorations. The Maryland end of the bridge was adorned with flags, and from the Virginia end was suspended a large banner inscribed "Welcome to Dixie." The ceremonies of the day began at 2 P. M. by a parade through the principal streets of the town. The procession moved out Third street to Potomac avenue, down Potomac avenue to the public school building, where Brunswick Council, No. 21, Junior Order United American Mechanics, presented a handsome American flag to the school. The presentation speech was made by Mr. H. F. Winger, of Hagerstown who, in a brief address explained the cardinal principles of the flag. Mr. E. L. Boblitz, secretary and school examiner for Frederick county, accepted the gift on the part of the school, and to the patriotic air rendered by the Martinsburg Band the flag was floated to the breeze.

After Congressman McKaig's address the procession reformed and marched up Potomac avenue, down Market to the bridge, across the bridge to the Virginia side, counter-marching back to the Maryland side, where a number of addresses were delivered. Mayor Z. T. Brantner, in a few remarks, extended Brunswick's welcome to the assemblage and freedom of the city.

Mr. Buchanan Schley, of Hagerstown, made an eloquent address, in which he spoke of the great progress made by Brunswick in the past few years.

J. B. McCabe, of Leesburg, Va., Commonwealth's attorney for Loudon county, spoke in behalf of his county, which, he said, had always been identified in the business interests and prosperity of Brunswick, and which, with the connecting link the bridge had made, would more firmly bind them together.

At 6.30 P. M. the display of fireworks from the centre of the bridge took place and was witnessed by hundreds of people from both sides of the Potomac.

The first ground for the bridge was broken June 2, 1893, and the iron work was commenced June 26. Sixteen car-loads of iron aggregating 1,000,000 pounds, 75,000 square feet of oak lumber and a large lot of yellow pine was used in the construction of the bridge, which was practically completed October 16. No trouble was experienced during the building, as the Potomac was at its lowest point, and only once did it rise sufficient to cause a suspense of work.

The bridge is an over-head, top-beam brace, with floor suspended from the top beams, strong and well proportioned. It is composed of ten spans of 171 feet each, or in the aggregate 1,710 feet, 16 feet in width, with stout railing, hulk board and wheel guard the entire length and has a clear roadway of 18 feet. The total cost, including piers, right of way, &c., aggregating nearly $62,000.—Sun.

Large Potatoes.
Mr. F. A. Adelsberger, of this place, claims the championship for raising large potatoes this year. He planted his potatoes on the 14th of June last, and took up the crop on Oct. 15th.

The yield being about ten bushels, among which was one potato weighing 1 pound and 14 ounces. Of the entire crop, there are about eight bushels with not one potato weighing less than one pound. Mr. Adelsberger claims the distinction of having raised the finest and largest potatoes ever grown in this section of the country.

Back to the Old Place.
Mr. M. Hoke, of this place, who sold his interest in the Emmit House, in this place, to Mr. Geo. M. Steckman several weeks ago, has bought out Mr. Steckman's interest, and has again resumed the proprietorship of this well known hotel. Mr. Hoke took charge of the house yesterday. The livery stable attached to the hotel and conducted by Messrs. J. L. Topper & Bro., has been purchased by Mr. Jacob Smith, who will carry on the same in all its branches at the above stand.

MT. ST. MARY'S COLLEGE NEWS.

Foot Ball.
One of the best games of foot ball was played on the field this season was that of last Thursday morning between two teams composed of men from the first team and the scrub teams. The first team was divided, and men from regular scrub teams filled the vacant positions. These teams called themselves "Yale and Harvard." "Yale" team had the regular half back and "Harvard" had the full back and quarter. The teams lined up to play 30 minute halves. "Harvard" won the toss taking the ball, and in the first play gained 15 yards on the "phalanx" trick. McEighie took the ball round the end for 5 yards. McGinnis bucked the centre for 20 yards. Then a quick play followed, and McGinnis carried the ball over the line for a touch down. McEighie kicked the goal. "Yale" now took the ball to the centre of the field, and made a good gain on playing tuckles. But they failed to keep this up for some unknown reason, and lost the ball on the downs. "Harvard" took the ball, and fought their way down the field inch by inch, and made a second touch down one minute before time called. After a rest of ten minutes play was called. "Yale" took the ball, and tried the phalanx, and made a gain of 5 yards. Guilboy then took the ball around left end for 5 yards more, then bucked the centre for 3 yards. After several plays more it was third down with 15 yards to gain. Malone fell back for a kick, but when the ball was passed, Driscoll made a great play by breaking through the line, and catching the ball before Malone could interfere with him, he dashed up the field, and made a touch down. "Yale" took the ball to the centre of the field for the third time and tried the phalanx again, and gained 10 yards. The ball was then passed to Curley, who made a bad fumble, and lost the ball. McGinnis worked the centre for 12 yards. McEighie played left end for 5 yards, and Casman right end for 3 yards. Here "Harvard" lost the ball on a fumble, but "Yale" was not allowed to hold it long. Guilboy took the ball. Perant and Roken broke through the line and pushed him across the goal line for a safety. "Yale" started from the centre of the field with the flying wedge, and made a good gain. They then worked the tuckles for gains of 5 and 10 yards. When time was called, "Yale" was within 10 yards of the goal. The score was 18 to 0, favor of "Harvard."

The College Team's Hard Practice.
Captain Donovan has the team at practice every recreation, and there is good team work expected Saturday, when the team meets the Baltimore City College team. Mr. Jacob Wastler and wife, of Mechanics-town, are visiting Mr. T. A. Wastler and family.

Mr. T. F. Eyer, wife and little daughter, Hazel, returned home from the World's Fair on Thursday.

Last Thursday morning, whilst Herman, the 4-year-old son of Mr. Lewis C. Harbaugh, was standing near a wagon, the horses were started and threw him to the ground, striking his hand on the sharp edge of an ax, severing three fingers almost entirely from his right hand. Dr. C. L. Wachtler was at once summoned and dressed the wound, which is doing well at present.

The postmaster at this place was informed on Friday that a policeman at Chambersburg, Pa., had arrested three men at that place who had goods in their possession answering the description given in the Waynesboro Village Record, of those taken from the store of Mr. T. F. Eyer at this place, on last Thursday night, one week ago. Mr. Eyer went to identify his property at once, which he did to the amount of $36 which he brought with him home on Saturday morning. The culprits whose names are Miller and Myers had the goods packed secretly in a box at a small house owned by a man by the name of Herbert, about a mile from Chambersburg. The three men are now in jail awaiting further action of the law.

A great many people are complaining about feed being scarce and high. The way to be economical is to feed a mixed feed-out, hay or straw. Mr. C. J. Sef-ton has a feed cutter on hand. Every person should have one.

The G. A. R. Bean soup, at Fairfield, on last Friday night, was largely attended, considering the bad weather. There were about sixty ladies and gentlemen who helped to eat the army bean. The next meeting will be on last Friday night in November.

A citizen of Fairfield handed over correspondent an ancient document in the shape of a deed. It is 75 years old. The property belonged to William Miller, who sold it to Barnabas Bigham in 1818; in 1822 Mr. Bigham transferred it to Alexander Harbaugh, who sold it to the trustees of the Methodist church in Fairfield in 1829. A new church now stands on the ground. The trustees of the church in 1829 were: Hezekiah Vanorstale, John Hensal, John Kynett, Jr., Solomon Hetter and David Chamberlain. No doubt the names of the above persons will be remembered by many of the citizens of Fairfield. The witnesses to the deed were William McMillan, Jr., and Amos McGinley, Esq.

The November number of the Electric opens with a long but interesting paper on "Weariness" formerly delivered as a lecture by Prof. Michael M. Foster; "A Garden in Stone," inquires into the history and symbolism of certain leaves and flowers, as traced in Architecture from its early days. One of the most valuable of the selections in this number is Dr. Cowley-Brown's logical and earnest argument for "Via Media" in the Church. "Mars as a World," summarizes for the uninitiated many of the discoveries of the scientific few concerning that Planet. The anonymous article on "The Unity of Thought and Action" contains matter chiefly interesting to students of psychology. "The Banditti of Corsica" is a readable paper, showing that brigand age is as rife as ever in that island. Among the more literary articles are "The Letters of Henry the Fourth," "A Question of Taste" in which Mr. E. P. Benson discusses the tendencies of modern fiction, and the sketch reminiscent of Thackeray by Canon Irvine, which he entitles "A Study for Colonel Newcome."

The descriptive papers are numerous this month; there is a poem by Algernon Swinburne, a delightful "Character Note," and a careful selection of Miscellany.

The next meeting will be held at the School House on Friday afternoon, Dec. 15th, at half past one o'clock, when a fraternal of all the teachers in the district is desired. All friends of public instruction are invited to these meetings.

CARD. GIBBONS HONORED

THE CATHOLIC CLUB'S BANQUET TO HIS EMINENCE.

Vice-President Stevenson, Senator Gorman and Mayor Latrobe Honor the Occasion With Their Presence.

The recent joyous celebration of the silver jubilee of His Eminence, Cardinal Gibbons, had a fitting close in the banquet tendered him by the Catholic Club on Thursday Oct. 19. The attendance of high officials, and the presence of many non-Catholics was a delicate tribute to the highest esteem in which His Eminence is held by men of other beliefs.

As early as seven o'clock the banqueters assembled in the reception room of the Carrollton Hotel and awaited the arrival of the distinguished guests.

As Vice-President Stevenson and Senator Gorman entered, accompanied by the committee, A. L. Knott, D. A. Boone, Michael A. Mullin and Wm. P. Donnelly, they were conducted to His Eminence, who was standing in the centre of the room.

The orchestra played an inspiring march as the company entered the banquet hall, covers for two hundred persons having been laid in the large dining-room on the first floor, just to the east of the lobby.

The decorations were of a peculiarly fitting character. The bulbs of all the incandescent lights were enveloped in Cardinal paper, on the main table, and three others, extending the full length of the hall, were candelabra with red tapers.

The menu card was a handsome souvenir of the occasion. It consisted of a sheet of rich and heavy cream-colored card-paper, bent in the middle to form four pages.

As His Eminence rose to reply to the greeting of President Wheeler, he was received with warm applause. He said: "Your honored president began by congratulating me upon my health. I regret to say that my health will not permit me to speak as long or as vigorously as I would like to."

"Plato, the Greek philosopher, gave thanks for two things—first, that he had Socrates for a teacher; second, that he was born in a country so advanced in civilization as Greece. I, too, am thankful for two things: The first is that I have Christ for my instructor and guide, and second, that I have had the privilege of being born in and raised a citizen of the United States—a citizen of Maryland—of Baltimore."

my part, I would be sorry to see the relations between Church and State any closer than they are at present; for, if the civil authority built our churches or subsidized our clergy, they might want to have something to say as to the doctrines we teach, and we believe that the gospel should be free. I thank God that we have religious liberty.

"Foreign nations, while recognizing the liberties we enjoy, do not recognize our strength. Ours is a free country; we are a strong nation. The first thing that strikes a foreigner on reaching our shores is the absence of soldiers, such as he is accustomed to see abroad."

"Another mistake is made in supposing that because there is no union here between Church and State we are not a religious people. I maintain that no country in the world has a stronger religious basis than the United States."

Cardinal Gibbons then spoke incidentally of the length of time consumed in forming the United States Constitution, and brought down the house by observing that the framers of that instrument took almost as much time as the Senate now is doing with the silver question.

"I feel highly honored," he said, "by the kind mention of my name by yourself, and at having the opportunity of coming here and meeting your host [turning to Cardinal Gibbons] I have known the Cardinal for many years. I will not speak of him as a theologian. Others can do that better than I."

Richard M. Sherry then made the congratulatory address on behalf of the members of the Catholic Club. He said in part: "We are all Americans, proud of our citizenship in the greatest republic of the world has ever seen."

It has been often remarked that this glorious career from Parish Priest to Prince of the Church is typically American. Bit, in fact, the great majority of European Cardinals attain their rank by purely secular means, personal merit and personal achievement.

Several letters of regret were then read; among them one from President Cleveland; as follows: "Executive Mansion, Washington, D. C., Oct. 12, 1893.—The Catholic Club of Baltimore—Gentlemen: I desire to acknowledge with thanks the receipt of your invitation to attend the banquet to be given to Cardinal Gibbons on Thursday evening, the 19th, instant."

form of political government, each individual composing it eminent for learning and piety, with that mature judgment which results only from ripe practical experience of men and things and the administration of large affairs.

In it the Holy Father can find counsellors from every clime, in touch and sympathy with every race. A Lavigier to speak for Africa, a Manning for England (now both gone to their reward), a Hohenzollern, a Fürstberg or a Ledochowski for the Germanic and Slavonic people, a Richard for France, a M. van der Laan for the Low Countries, a M. van der Laan for Ireland, and last, not least, a Gibbons to speak for public Catholicism and the rights of the Catholic American working-man. We'll know how earnest and how successful have been his efforts at Rome to enlist the paternal sympathy of the Sovereign Pontiff in the cause of labor, and we know that from the date of his installation as Cardinal Priest of his titular Church of Santa Maria in Transteverim, so eloquently and forcibly proclaiming his admiration and loyalty for the government of the United States, he has never failed to lift his voice in support of our American institutions.

He teaches us by example, by his deeds as well as his words, and long after his earthly voice is still, he will continue to teach our children, and our children's children, to prize "our Christian heritage" and cling to the "Faith of our Fathers."

I have no words at my command, venerable father, ad quately to express the affection and reverence which the Catholic Club feels for their archbishop and I can only fulfill the function assigned to me by tending our sincere, heartfelt and filial congratulations upon this, your episcopal jubilee, the twenty-fifth milestone on this long road of well-accustomed duty. We thank our distinguished guests for honoring us with their presence this evening. We bid them a most cordial welcome and we ask them all to join us in these congratulations and in wishing a long life of prosperity, honor, and continued usefulness to the Archbishop of Baltimore, our American Cardinal.

It was not on the programme for further speeches at this point, but the assemblage insisted on hearing from Archbishop Ireland and called for him until he arose. "I do not know," he said, "whether or not you appreciate to the full value of the union you see typified here tonight, the union of the Catholic Church and America, the fraternity between the Church and the non-Catholics of the nation. The Vice-President of the United States comes here and takes his seat alongside the Cardinal. This spirit of fraternity between Church and State, is the result of the work of our American Cardinal. In this freest of democracies it was his providential mission to prove that the Catholic Church is at home—at home beneath the fluttering of the beautiful stars and stripes; at home in the most enlightened nation of the world—this, our Cardinal has given proof to all men, to all the world. He has shown that the Catholic Church is the best support of a free democracy and of civic virtue. The nation has been taught a lesson by him. I congratulate him for his work."

In response to calls for Mayor Latrobe he arose and said: "I consider it a great privilege to personally and officially congratulate Cardinal Gibbons on the occasion of his silver jubilee, and I have the honor of speaking for the entire population of Baltimore, when I propose long life, happiness and usefulness to the Cardinal. Archbishop Ireland says the Cardinal does not belong to Maryland, but to the United States," remarked the Mayor, "but I ask you gave him to the United States? [Applause.] Maryland has given much to our country. We gave the Star Spangled Banner; we gave Roger Taney—a Catholic, I believe—and last, and better than all, we have given Cardinal Gibbons. [Applause.] In the name of the State and the city, I congratulate the United States that they have been able to get from Maryland our distinguished son. Baltimore is proud of him. There is nothing that tends to advance the interests of Baltimore and the welfare of its people that Cardinal Gibbons is not always ready to participate in."

Several letters of regret were then read; among them one from President Cleveland; as follows: "Executive Mansion, Washington, D. C., Oct. 12, 1893.—The Catholic Club of Baltimore—Gentlemen: I desire to acknowledge with thanks the receipt of your invitation to attend the banquet to be given to Cardinal Gibbons on Thursday evening, the 19th, instant. I should be glad to mingle with those who on that occasion will testify to the respect and esteem which they hold for this eminent prelate, and regret exceedingly that the pressure of public business will prevent the acceptance of your kind invitation. Very truly yours, GROVER CLEVELAND."

Letters of regret were also received from Senators Gibson, of Maryland, and White of Louisiana; Congressman Rayner and Ruck, and Secretaries Morton, Hoke Smith, Lamont and Herbert, and Postmaster General Bissell, and the Catholic Club of Detroit. The assemblage then dispersed.

Mr. D. Webb Pain, of North Charles street, is preparing for His Eminence Cardinal Gibbons a scrap-book containing the accounts of his jubilee celebration, as published in the various leading papers throughout the country. Mr. Pain has sent out over 850 postals, and already has over 600 clippings on the subject. The book will be indexed and bound, and will, when completed, be placed in the Cathedral archives beside the scrap-book containing clippings descriptive of the Cardinal's elevation to the cardinalate in 1886, also prepared by Mr. Pain.

This assignment, said the reporter in the white duck trousers, who had been sent to write up a fire in a coal yard, "just suits me."

Editor: Always write your jokes on the thinnest paper you can get. Young Humorist: Why? So I can see through them.

Judge: "Have you any remarks to offer that might lead to a mitigation of your sentence?" "Prisoner: "Yes, I will thank you to have a sofa put in my cell."

Doctor: "Well, my fine little fellow, I was sure that the pills I left you would cure you. How did you take them, in water or in cake?" B: "I used them in my pop-gun."

George: "Is it true that a graduate soon forgets what he has learned at college?" "No, sir; it is not. I can play football just as well now as when I was at Yale."

"The Fleece seem to be very quiet people." "They are. Why, there was a fire at their house the other day, and Mr. Fleece insisted on their sending in a still alarm."

B.F.: "Roberts fell off a fifty-foot ladder and wasn't hurt a bit?" Baff: "Fifty-foot ladder? I don't believe it at all."

B.F.: "It's quite true; he fell off the bottom rung."

A man going shopping with his wife usually a woeful-looking object: his face always bears upon it the marks of despair. But that to some men a shop crowded with shoppers is a boon there is evidence in the following little story which is quoted from a foreign periodical.

As the story runs, a gentleman who had promised to meet his wife in a large establishment went there with the intention of doing so at low prices was making his way through the throng of women. Forced to pause for a moment near a counter behind which stood a pretty sales-woman, he blurted out: "Is there anything on earth that would reconcile a man to such a crowd as this?" "Yes, sir," was the quick reply, "Belonging to the firm."—Carper's Bazar.

STED RECEIPTS.

POACHED EGGS. Strictly fresh eggs only are fit to poach. The beauty of a poached egg is for the yolk to be seen blushing through the white, which should be just sufficiently hardened to form a veil for the yolk.

SAUCE PIGONNET. One tablespoonful of butter, one tablespoonful of flour, half teaspoonful of onion juice, half a teaspoonful of salt, an eighth of a teaspoonful of white or black pepper, half a pint of stock, stand it over boiling water to keep hot while you prepare the following: Put two tablespoonfuls of chopped onion, one gill of vinegar, one tablespoonful of capers, and (if you can get it) one tablespoonful of powdered tarragon leaves in a small porcelain-lined saucepan and simmer for five minutes; add to the above, stir continually until it boils and boil five minutes; strain and use.

PEACH TAPICAO. One cup of tapicoca, one quart-can or a quarter of a peck of stewed peaches, sugar to taste. Wash the tapicoca through several waters, then cover with cold water and soak overnight. In the morning put it on the fire with one pint of boiling water, simmer slowly until the tapicoca is perfectly clear. Put in the peaches and sweeten to taste. Serve very cold, with sugar and cream.

CURRENT CAKES. One quart of flour, one pint sugar, one-half pint currants, piece of butter the size of an egg, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Mix with milk to make soft dough, roll one-half inch thick, cut in cakes, bake in a quick oven.

For Malaria, Liver Trouble, or Indigestion, use BROWN'S IRON BITTERS

AN AUTUMN BREAKFAST.

Young housekeepers are apt to be perplexed at times, as to the ordering of the meals, writes Juliet Corson in a helpful article on "The Routine of the Household," in the October Ladies' Home Journal. It is for them, and for other housekeepers as well, that following receipts are given.

The breakfast may include: Mackerel with Maitre D'Hotel Butter Potatoes stewed with Cream Hot Egg Bannock French Breakfast Coffee.

While the fire is burning begin the preparations for breakfast by heating coffee, roasted in the bean, with just enough sweet butter to make it glossy—a piece as large as a coffee-pan is enough for each tablespoonful, four tablespoonfuls, an ordinary ground, for each quart of water. After the coffee is put to heat, make the bannock, and when that is in the oven grind the coffee; put it in the coffee-pot with a pint of cold water and let it gradually reach the boiling point; lift it from the fire for a moment to check the heat, and then replace it and let it just reach the boiling point several times. Meantime, boil a pint of milk; the hot milk and the hot coffee are to be poured simultaneously into the cups.

The egg bannock is made by sifting together a cupful of flour, an even teaspoonful of salt, a saltspoonful of white pepper, and a heaping teaspoonful of baking-powder; beat three eggs to a froth; stir them into the flour, and then stir in about a half pint of milk, enough to make a batter thick enough to support a drop let fall from the mixing-spoon; pour this batter into a buttered spider, cover it with a buttered tin cover or pie-plate and bake it over a gentle fire, shaking the pan and adding a little butter if the bannock sticks; when it is light-brown on the bottom slip it off on the cover and return the uncovered side to the pan; when both sides are brown it will be ready.

After the bannock is put over the fire, by a large salt mackerel, skin on, in a pan of cold water over the fire; as soon as the water heats replace it with cold, changing it until the fish is fresh enough; meantime, squeeze the juice of a lemon and chop a tablespoonful of parsley fine, or soak scalded parsley, and mix them with a heaping tablespoonful of butter, and after the mackerel is drained spread this butter over it and serve it on a hot dish. When the fish has been put on peel and chop some cold boiled potatoes, put them over the fire with enough milk to cover them, salt, pepper and butter to taste, and heat them, stirring often, until the other dishes are ready.

FREAKS OF THE WEST. An extraordinary freak of nature is reported at Rigdon, nine miles north of Elko, Ill., in the shape of a calf with two perfectly developed heads. It is helpful, playful, and it seems to have two separate and distinct appetites. Hardly less wonderful is the four-legged chicken hatched at Portland, Ind., some time ago. It is reported as extremely vivacious and self-assertive, and a long and useful life is fondly anticipated for the little quadruped. The extra legs come out just behind the others and doubtless will be found convenient for purposes of rest when the regular legs become tired. Too much praise cannot be bestowed on the faithful telegraphic correspondents whose tireless energy and unerring instinct the public is indebted for these remarkable facts.

Repairs Would Be Wasted. "Say, mister, don't you want yer front gate fixed?" "What's the matter with it?" asked the Georgetown man. "It gags like everything." "It does gag a little bit. But there's no use of fixing it now." "Why?" "Because," and he looked thoughtfully up at the big shade tree, "I have three daughters, all over seven-teen years old, and the engagement season is just opening."

ALLOW ME to add my tribute to the efficacy of Bly's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate, and in less than twenty-four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared and I was able to sing a heavy role in Grand Opera with voice unimpaired. I strongly recommend it to all singers.—Wm. H. Hamilton, Leading Bass of the C. D. H. Grand Opera Co.

Wanted Something More Substantial. Little Mary had been playing hard all the morning, and when the dinner bell rang she ran in quickly and took her place. She found only some flowers on the table. Looking at a dish of pansies placed near her she said "Pansies are awful nice, but oh, I wish it was hash."

The true test of civilization is not the census, nor the size of cities, nor the crops,—no, but the kind of man the country turns out.
