What is

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea-the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

Dr. G. C. Oscood, Lowell, Mass.

" Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the nerits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

A French Chef Wanted.

There was an interesting episode one day in a well known Washington cafe. The proprietor has a French chef in his employ, and the result is that the menu cards can be guaranteed to puzzle any American.

Two gentlemen sat at a table. One was from the west, and his French education had been neglected. The other had but recently come to Washington from Paris. After reading the menu the westerner said to the waiter: "I can't read French. Bring me a good dinner."

Meantime the Frenchman was trying to figure out the words. "Pardon, monseer," he said, "eet ees not ze Français. Eet ees not ze Eenglish. I know not what eet ees. Zere ees ze soup. Zat ees French for ze rat. I want not ze rat soup. Eet ees horreeble."

The proprietor heard it, and upon investigation found that his guest was correct. There is a new French chef, who understands the French language.-Washington Star.

Two Men In One.

A member of the Royal Chemical society, London, has recently demonstrated to the Society For Psychical Research a proof that man possesses two distinct consciousnesses. This he explains by the fact that persons under the influence of an anæsthetic, while not apparently conscious at the time of operations, are sometimes able, after a few days, to Every Piano Fully Warranted for 5 years. describe the exact details of the operation, instruments used, etc., although not informed as to these behand, comprising some of our own make fore or since. What he calls the but slightly used. Sole agents for the "workaday consciousness" was absent at the time, but the "subliminal consciousness" is that which was present during the operation, and which not only felt, but saw, what was going on. Hence anæsthetics would seem to postpone rather than destroy the functions of the latter tind of consciousness.

Your sun is always shining, And nature smiles on you; Your hills are crowned with gladness, Your valleys filled with praise;

Through all their halcyon days. O sunland! O southland!

O sunland! O southland!
Your warm winds woo me back,
I cannot stay from you away,
Nor take the traveler's track;
Though all the world be calling And waves a beckening hand,
I love you so, I cannot go

The Tadpole In Science. At the close of the last century Galvani astonished the world with the experiments he performed on frogs. There is no doubt but what his work, as far as the development of engineering was concerned, almost retarded the progress, at least for a very short time, but he has opened a field which to future generations may be of as much, possibly of more, importance than all the practical applications of electricity today. We refer to the physiological effects of the electric currents. Now, as we approach the end of another century, another experiment on tadpoles has been made, which in our minds' eye may have tremondous consequence. Dr. Waller has observed that tadpoles face the positive pole when an electric current is sent through the trough in which they live. This is certainly a remarkable fact, and we hope sincerely that this matter may not be taken up as a matter of ridicule or of play, for there may be hidden in this simple experimental fact a vast deal of knowledge; not that we want to prophesy, but on the face of it it does not seem impossible that this simple fact should be the commencement of a knowledge of electro-physiology, which in 100 years from now might in perfection be second to none of our descriptive sciences. -Max Osterberg in Electric Power.

Pursued by a Demon.

How many suicides, thick you, reader, have been committed by persons driven distraught and hunted to their doom by the demon of chronic ill health? Countless. For instance, we know, do we not, that hypochondriasis is a monomania—a sort of minor madness produced by chronic dyspepsia? Again, insomnia, or sleeplessness, often a result of the same cause, culminates in a derangement of the reasoning facuities. It is, therefore, of momentous consequence to prevent the arrival of disease at its chronic phase, when it daily and nightly scourges the sufferer to a dangerously uncertain goal. No medicine known to science, as a means of arresting the maladies to which it is adapted, exists equal to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Death of an Old Resident of Mt St. Mary's

The neighborhood of Mt. St. Mary's was startled on Sunday morning at about | Company. 8:30, when the report spread that an old woman had fallen dead on the road. doll's three o'clock tea. Miss Alice Annan assisted Mrs. Annan in entertaining the little people, and it is not too woman nad lahen dead on the load. On inquiry it turned out to be one of the oldest and most respectable residents, Mrs. Mary Robinson. She had much to say, in the estimation of the twenty five or more little falls. The the Dr. Brawner, who gave the certificate of twenty-five or more little folks—there never was a happier doll's party. The life and death of this venerable voman teach a fruitful lesson. In early life she came to this country a newly married woman. Her husband, James Moran, a hard industrious worker, af-College, leaving six children to her care. Faithfully and with christian courage children died young, the three of the children died young, the three others, two daughters and one son had grown up to womanhood and manhood when the Master called. About 24 years ago she remarried, her husband, George Robinson, was born in Baltimore. He was one of nature's nobleman, upright, industrious, faithful. Four years ago, he too, died suddenly of heart disease. During her widowhood the good old lady, struggled along and lived alone, and earned an honest livelihood at her humble home by the product of her barnyard.

Although of advanced age she never neglected her christian duties; for she may be said to have offered up her life in the performance of her religious duty. Many a fair weather christian would have found a plausible excuse to be absent from mass, but she, with the faith that characterizes her race, persisted in obeying the commandment to and, as on her way to church, she pass ed a neighbor, who offered to have her sent to church in a carriage, she said: "Oh, no, I will offer this up. I can walk and I must get in time to have my candles blessed." Mysterious ways of Providence! The very candles she was bringing as an offering to the church, were used to burn around her coffin.

Let us pray that it may be the beginning of "the perpetual light" that will "shine upon her."

"Speaking of hair restorers," said the western member, glancing at the bald headed man, "puts me in mind of a time when I would have been willing to give a couple of years of my life for something of that kind-when I was snowbound in the Sierras."

"Hold on! Is it that old story again? I think I will have to go." And the gentleman with the 11-2 inch eigar stub between his teeth walked out ostentatiously. "In the winter of 1879 I was with a party of prospectors in the Sierras," continued the man with a story for the benefit of those who remained. "There were three of us -an English professor, a Harvard graduate and myself. Snow began to fall soon after we got into the foothills, and we stopped at a log shanty built by some one who had been there before us. As we had provisions for two weeks we were not alarmed when it became apparent that we were snowbound, but at the end of that time the situation took on another aspect. We shot a deer after great toil and perseverance, but our efforts to secure other game were unsuccessful, and we were rapidly approaching a starving condition.'

"Where does the hair restorer come in?" asked the fat man. "Wait a minute; I'm coming to Visions of a and we looked on in breathless suspense while the Harvard graduate knelt by the side of the trap and cautiously peered under its edge. Then he arose. He did not speak, but his face told a tale of terrible disappointment. He gazed at the box a moment and with a mighty kick sent it flying in six different directions. The splinters fell to the ground, but bounding away amid the wreck was a large, fat 'snowshoe,' and he didn't stop. The Haryard man had not seen the white animal in the trap, and our last hope was gone. It had the bait."

"Well?" said the fat man inquiringly. "Well, what?"

"Why, I thought you were going to say something about hair restor-

A major of the new school backed this idea with enthusiasm (he was a black little man, full of notions), trick in a burst of candor. "Just look and he and Cottar accumulated a good library of military works and read and argued and disputed far into the nights. But said the old thing: "Get to know your men, nose?" asked McEttrick. Now, instead of blaspheming and swearing at a comrade and threatening to shoot him, they could take him apart and soothe themselves to exhaustion. As one man explained whom Cottar found with a shut eye and a diamond shaped mouth, spitting teeth through an embrasure: "We tried it with gloves, sir, for 20 minutes, and that does us no good, sir.
