PRAYERS BEFORE BATTLE.

Personages.

One of the earliest records in history of a prayer before battle is that of Childeric, king of Ganl, a pagan, who before going into battle at Zuelpich, some 400 years after Christ, prayed to the God of the Christians to help him to victory. His foe was Attila, king of the Huns, and Childeric vowed if God would give him the victory he would embrace the Christian faith. The prayer of a Hungarian officer before one of the battles fought for the independence of Hungary in 1849 was as follows: "I will not ask thee, Lord, to help us, and I know thou wilt not help the Austrians, but if thou wilt sit on yonder hill thou shalt not be ashamed of thy children." This was the prayer of the "Fighting Pishop" Leslie before one of the battles fought in Ireland: "O God, for our unworthiness we are not fit to claim thy help, but if we are bad our enemies are worse, and if thou seest not meet to help us we pray thee help them not, but stand thou neuter on this day and leave it to the arm of the flesh."

The one offered before the battle of Edgehill by Sir Jacob Astley was: "Thou knowest, O Lord, that I shall be very busy this day, and if I forget thee forget thon not me," and then the com-mand followed, "March on, boys!" As King Edward advanced with his columns to Bannockburn he remarked to his aids, seeing the Scotch on their heard to remark: "Yes, but it is to the King of kings. These men conquer or

BEND LOW AND HARK.

Bend low and hark with me, my dear, How the winds sigh! A voice is on them that I fear— It brings the bygone days so near, Like a soul's cry.

Those whom we bury out of sight, How still they lie! Beyond the reaches of the light, Outside the realm of day and night— Do they not die?

Shall we unbar the long closed door, You, dear, or I? Could love be what it was before If we should call them back once more

Would they life's largess claim again? They draw too nigh?
O winds, be still! You shall not pain
My heart with that long hushed refrain As you sweep by.

The dead have had their shining day-Why should they try
To listen to the words we say,
To breathe their blight upon our May?

Yet the winds sigh.

CURIOUS THINGS USED.

Those Who Use Them Firmly Believe In Their Virtues-Drug Clerks Supply the Demand by Giving Harmless Substitutes and Charging Fancy Prices.

Being asked to tell something about the traffic in the fat of human beings the clerk grinned.

The fellow has unbounded faith in the virtues of man oil, and he simple cerate will do him just as much good as man oil. We often have calls for remedies as absurd as this. We always fill them—out of the simple cerate bottle if it be an oil, or some other harmless drug if it be something else.'

Investigation disclosed the fact that

Out on Milwaukee avenue rainworm oil and ant spirits are held in high re pute. The druggists have frequent calls for these remedies and they always fill use for all sorts of aches and pains, including rheumatism. The ant spirits are also taken internally. In a standard German pharmacopœia, Dr. H. Hager, in the edition for 1876, gives a formula for making the ant spirits. The directions given are to take ten parts of ants to two parts of alcohol. The ingredients are to be rubbed in a mortar and left to stand for two days. The resulting colorless liquid is then ready for use for rheumatism, paralysis and the like.

WHAT AILED M'CUE?

He Tried to Break a Ram of the Habit of Frightening the Ladies. Jim McCne, rancher, politician, phi-

"What's the matter, Jim?" inquired two or three acquaintances. "I'll bet any man in the crowd $20

"Well, to tell the truth, I did get jammed around a little. I've been breaking a ram of the butting habit. This ram was raised a pet, and that's what makes him so sassy. He knows who to tackle too. He won't touch a man, because he knows he'd get a fence rail frazzled out over his head, but a woman he will butt clear over into the next

He jammed me down against the fence, then backed off and hit me another crack, and then another and another, till he thought he'd broken every rib in ple cerate and charged a fancy price to my body. "The Christ of the Big Muddy."

"The Christ of the Big Muddy," also known as "Potter Christ," was a misguided individual who preached up and down the Missouri river about 25 years, particularly in the vicinity of Council Bluffs, Ia. He claimed to be the "Messenger of the New Covenant" as prophesied in Malachi, see iii, 1; also "The Deliverer," Romans xi, 26; "Everlasting Father," Isaiah ix, 6; the second Adam, the Lord from heaven, I Corinthians xv, 45. Besides the above he claimed several other divine titles, among them "Shiloh," "Morning Star," "Prince Michael," etc. He published a book entitled "Revelations Given by Inspiration of God For the Salvation of the Whole World." I have no record of what finally became of this eccentric individual. Some authorities list him among the "False Christs," but none that I have consulted tells where he was born or when and how he died.—St. Louis Republic.

Origin of the Term "a Card."

Here is an extract from a letter of C. W. Ernst: "Boston has added many words to our mother tongue. 'A card' meaning a personal statement in newspapers, is a Boston term and dates back to early times, when men paid their compliments to objectionable crown ministers by printing a 'card' in the newspapers. The idea took immediately, and is still popular. When Robinsen & Jones give their workmen a Christmas turkey each, the workmen are apt to put a 'card' in the local pacandy. In that case I give her some per. This odd use of the word originated worm lozenges. The drugs must give in Boston before the Revolution. BIG FALLS NOT FATAL

THAT IS, HERE IS A LONG RECORD OF JUST SUCH CASES.

Remarkable "High and Lofty Tumbling" by Men, Women and Children-From What Height May a Person Fall and Not Be Killed Thereby?

From how great a height may a person fall and live? This question was suggested by the experience of Dr. Heim, the Zurich professor, who told how he fell a great distance down a glacier in Switzerland and lived to relate his sensations. His aim was to prove that sudden death was not painful. The other phase of the question-how far may we fall unhurt—is just as interesting, however. The well known Alps wanderer, Sigrist, fell backward off the crown of the Korpfstork Alp, Switzerland, and landed on the rocks at the foot of the glacier. Of course his fall was somewhat broken as he bounded from spur to spur, but the fall was a great one nevertheless.

Of the persons who have fallen from balloons no record has been kept, but the accidents have been sufficiently dangerous to prove that a great fall does not always end human life. In July last The Post-Dispatch recorded the feat of a negro who, to escape punishment for stealing a ride, jumped over the Delaware bridge on the Erie railroad at Port Jervis. N. Y. He fell a distance of 80 feet, and though striking on his head in a bed of gravel covered only by six inches of water, he escaped serious in-

George Petorski, a young Polish boy aged 11, went out for huckleberries on the Honeypot mountain, near Port Jervis, N. Y. He ventured too near the edge of a cliff known as Eagle Nest, and, slipping on a stone, was hurled over. The descent is nearly perpendicular and the lad rolled and bounded over the jagged rocks a distance of 400 feet to the railroad tracks below. He was picked up torn and bleeding from a hundred wounds and unconscious, but still

That case had youth in its favor. Here is a case of age. Mary Cerma, aged 79 years, recently fell 30 feet from a window of 257 Camden street, Newark, N. J., and escaped with only a badly bruised hip. She lost her balance while shaking a dusting cloth from the window and fell upon hard ground in the housekeeper," he said at last.

was not injured in any way. Edward Christie fell from a scaffold which gave way at the fourth floor of a new building at Madison avenue and Seventy second street, New York. Although he fell four stories, he sustained no more than a fracture of the thigh and right arm. Christian Jensen, a painter, of White Plains, N. Y., fell from a ladder to the ground, a distance of 40 feet, and is alive to tell it. George Falley, 14 years old, fell through the fire escape of 772 Tenth avenue, New York, from the fourth to the first floor, and received not the slightest injury. Such is the elasticity of youth.

Express Messenger Edward Stevens of Water Valley, Miss., was dozing and fell from his car door. He was not missed until 25 miles had been passed. A message was sent back to the effect that he must have fallen from his car. A hand car was rigged up and several men started down the track to look for him. They found him three miles away, lying within two feet of the track, sleeping. He awoke as soon as they touched him and asked what was wanted. He said he had no recollection of falling, and imagined himself asleep in his bed at home. The train was running 40 miles an hour when he fell off. He was not hurt.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A GOPHER AS A HYPNOTIST. Held by Its Glittering Eye, a Rabbit

Awaited Certain Death. A gopher snake at Escondido has been the cause of much earnest discussion among local naturalists recently. The question discussed was, "Do Snakes Charm or Hypnotize Their Prey?" Ouo of the naturalists had the unusual but fortunate experience at Escondido of happening upon a large gopher snake just as the reptile was about to overcome a trembling cottontail rabbit and envelop the animal in its deadly coils. For some time the naturalist watched the snake's movements. It was within 10 or 12 inches of the apparently fascinated rabbit. Silently and almost imperceptibly the snake had wormed its way nearer and nearer to its victim. Its eyes glistened with an intense brightness. Not a movement did it make which might alarm the timid rabbit. The forked tongue, which to the eye of a human being is so repulsive and intended to be terrifying, appeared to exert an entirely different influence apon the mind of the innocent rabbit. This darting tongue either excited the victim's curiosity or caused the animal to so concentrate its mind on the snake's tongue as to throw that mind into a hypnotic condition of such strength that it could not break the spell and run away from impending death. The forked tongue darted out of the snake's mouth almost as regularly and rapidly as the needle of a sewing machine rises and falls in the cloth. The lithe body crept nearer and nearer. The rabbit was motionless. Its eye was fixed on the piercing eyo of the snake. Even the waving of the wind kissed shrubs about the rabbit failed to break the spell, and softly and slowly grim death in snake form wreathed its folds about the creature. Then was the spell broken. To the naturalist who watched the capture of the rabbit it appeared as if the snake had certainly fascinated the animal. As a gopher snake is not poisonous and has no well developed fangs, its only means of killing prey is by constriction. In order to catch an animal it seems almost necessary for the snake to fascinate the victim. —Washington Post.

Coes to Church Once a Year.

Of all Catholic sovereigns King Leopold of Belgium is assuredly the least devout. He goes to church and attends divine service only once a year-that is, on his namesday. A special service is performed in honor of the event at the ancient cathedral of Ste. Gudule, which everybody belonging to the male sex attends in full uniform. The king is received in grand ecclesiastical state by the prelates of the kingdom and by the clergy of the basilica at the main entrance, and marches in procession up the central aisle under a magnificent canopy to his seat within the chancel rails. He carries in his hand a gorgeously bound mass book, which he peruses with an appearance of devotion throughout the ceremony, and which on his return to the palace at Laeken is locked up once more out of sight until the recurrence of St. Leopold's day 12 months later. -St. Paul Dispatch.

DR. GROVE COMMITTED SUICIDE.

Dr. A. P. T. Grove, aged fortytwo years, of Dallastown, York county, l'a., took a dose of poison and also shot himself through the head early Monday morning in his room at the Eutaw House, Balti-

He was found by Manager Louis P. Samanni about noon. Mr. Samanni was notified by one of the bell-boys, who was sent to awaken Dr. Grove, that he had repeatedly knocked at the door, but had received no response. The hotel manager entered the room by means of a pass key and found Dr. Grove lying on the floor in a pool of blood.

The Doctor was then still breathing. Sergeant Singer was at once summoned and sent the wounded man to the Maryland University Hospital. Drs. S. C. Spruill and John R. Abercomble attended him, and found that besides a wound in the left temple Dr. Grove was suffering from a large dose of aconite and lavender, which he had evidently taken before shooting himself. He died at 5.40 o'clock in the afternoon without having regained conscionsness.

When he was raised from the floor in the room of the Eutaw House where he was found, the pistol with which he had shot himself was seen on the floor where he had fallen. One cartridge had been discharged from the pistol and the other four chambers contained loaded cartridges.

On a table in the room a bottle was about half full of aconite and lavender. If it was full originally, Dr. Grove must have drunk enough of the poison to kill him even if the pistol wound should not have proved fatal.

In the room in which he committed the terrible deed was found a piece of paper containing his name and residence, and also stating that he was "tired," and that he had been "fighting against a terrible feeling for the past two months."

SECOND STORY ADVERTISING. Value of Upper Windows For Catching stories of the west in early days. the Eyes of the Passing Crowds.

There is a man in this town who has probably devised more advertising schemes than any other New Yorker who is not a theatrical press agent, and he has never been known to use another man's idea but once. started. The one scheme that was not his own is the second story show window, but when he went into that sort of advertising he did it on such a scale that, although he is out of it now, the results of his short experience are seen all over the town.

The second story window as a means of advertising is used in a variety of ways, the most common being for some sort of exhibition of athletic or sporting goods. It is the outgrowth, without doubt, of the custom of putting cigar and cigarette makers, candy pullers and pancake bakers in the front windows of ground floor shops to attract the attention of passersby.

If such schemes worked well for shop, the second story ought to at- nerve. tract the notice of those across the street. If you have ever seen such a show, you must have noticed how well it worked. The crowd is never jammed up against the window, obstructing the street in front of the

The sporting goods men are able to make more of the second story show window than men in other business because their advertising arrangements are not studies in still life. A man or boy working a chest weight or a rowing machine or punching a bag will attract attention much quicker and hold it much longer than a stream of water passing over a water wheel and running through a filter. A good many men play of their goods, particularly along the lines of the elevated roads, but such displays cannot compare in success with the schemes of advertisers who employ men in their the eye and attracts attention. This show always collected a crowd in front of the hotel, but when there were added to the exhibition a piano player and a man who sat in the window and caught tin fishes out of a pail, the crowds got to be such a nuisance that the hotel men invoked the city ordinances which prescribe that such shows are nuisances. Then there was a compromise, and the show was toned down.-New York Sun.

KILLINGS BY WHOLESALE.

Most Violent of Civilized Countries. A homicide occurs every two hours in Italy. This was one of the many startling statements made by Baron Garofalo, a distinguished Italian criminologist, in a lecture delivered on "Criminality in Relation to the Education of the People" in the Roman college. His audience included Queen Margherita. In Italy the annual loss of life by homicide (usually by lethal weapons) numbers about 4,000 souls. Compared with France, for instance, she has 10 homicides a year for France's 1, and 35-for Denmark's 1. The Latin populations, indeed, in both hemispheres have a bad pre-eminence over the Teutonic in crime generally, and of these Latin populations the Italian is the Baron Garofalo proceeded to give the reasons why. In the first place, vendetta, which in Greece was heroism and in mediæval Europe a laudable custom, has lingered longer in Italy than in any other country; dueling, also, is more frequent in Italy than elsewhere.
