GERMAN BAPTIST MEETING.

A large number of delegates to the annual meeting of the German Baptists to be held in Frederick city next week, have arrived. Frederick will be full to overflowing with visitors, but she will be equal to the occasion, and the delegates will be well taken care of. Our county seat is widely known for its hospitality, and it never fails to show strangers that it well deserves that reputation. Frederick will be the center of a number of attractions this summer, and if she fails to profit through them, it will be due to a lack of energy on the part of her business men.

THE FEMALE LEPER.

Nothing definite has yet been done by the health officers in the disposition of the female leper at the Johns Hopkins Hospital, who recently went to Baltimore city from Allegheny City, Pa. It is the general impression that the woman will be returned there. A special despatch to the Baltimore American, received Wednesday night from Allegheny, stated: "Superintendent James McLaughlin, of the Allegheny Bureau of Health, is not in the least worried over the report that the Baltimore health officials were about to return to Allegheny Mrs. Mary Sampson, the woman whom the Johns Hopkins Hospital physicians pronounced a leper. 'If the disease is leprosy,' Major McLaughlin says, 'that is a good reason why Mrs. Sampson could not be returned. No railroad would undertake to carry any person affected with such a complaint, as it would be clearly a violation of the state laws. Baltimore is her native place. She has lived the greater part of her life in that city, and all her friends and relatives reside there. There is no reason why she should be sent back, to be a charge on the Allegheny City authorities.'"

FIRE IN FROSTBURG.

At 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon Mr. George Whener threw some "excelsior" into the furnace of his dwelling, on Broadway, Frostburg. The flame from the lighted material flashed back and set fire to a pile of the same stuff, and this in turn set fire to the kitchen of his residence. The building being a frame structure the fire spread with great rapidity. Mr. Whener endeavored to extinguish the fire himself, but without avail. The signal for the volunteer fire department was given, which was responded to with alacrity, and through their exertions not less than $100,000 worth of property was saved, as the buildings on that side of the street adjoining the Whener property were frame structures. Mr. Whener's building was insured for $1,500 and was worth $4,500. His loss amounts to about $2,500. A beautiful silver service worth $200 was destroyed.

THE WEALTH OF MARYLAND.

Mr. Michael G. Mulhall is generally acknowledged to be the greatest statistical expert of the world. He is the personification of accuracy. For this reason his study of the statistics of this country have an unusual importance. He has divided the United States into five sections and he has included Maryland and the district of Columbia in the middle division, along with New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware.

He makes his contrasts between 1850 and 1890. In 1850 Maryland's wealth was $219,000,000. In 1890 it was $1,085,000,000, which means, of course, that it is, we stated a few days ago, about $1,200,000,000 today. In 1850 the average per inhabitant was $373, while today it is $1,042, an annual increase of $27.10 per inhabitant. This is large, but it is below the average for the group of states, which is explained by the fact that the manufacturing development of Maryland has been comparatively recent. Our people have just begun to see that the future of our state in the making of wealth lies largely in manufacturing. If Mr. Mulhall had taken the increases of the past fifteen years, he would have given Maryland a place beside both New York and Pennsylvania.

These figures are interesting at this time, not only for the information they contain, but especially for their relation to the new tax basis. The final figures of the reassessment have not been added officially, but enough is known to enable us to state as a certainty that the tax basis of Maryland, including the city and all the counties, will be about $660,000,000. With the wealth at 1,200,000,000 it can thus be seen that less than fifty cents of every dollar in Maryland pays direct taxes. But this need discourage no one, for in most of the other states the proportion that escapes is much larger. —Baltimore American.

DIAMOND IN A FISH'S CRAW.

The Savannah News says: "Somebody lost a diamond setting in the ocean at the black fish banks and it was recovered Sunday by Mate Frank Finster, of the tug Riggs. A large crowd was fishing from the Riggs, and fish were biting fast. Nearly all of the bait was exhausted and some of the fishermen were cutting up small fish for bait. Mr. Finster cut the head off a little black fish and the bright spark rolled out on the deck. Several gentlemen who were waiting for a piece of bait saw the flash of the diamond as it came from the throat of the fish and every one was struck with wonder at the occurrence. On further examination and a closer search for more diamonds the little jeweled fish yielded up a small conk and a good-sized boiled shrimp. The shrimp had evidently been taken from a fisherman's line, as several of the party had been using shrimp for bait. The diamond found in the fish is about a three-fourths carat. It was probably lost overboard from a ring while its owner was fishing and was caught and swallowed by the fish as it reached the bottom of the sea."

$6,000,000 IN MORTGAGES.

First and second mortgages, to the amount of three million dollars each, from the Columbia and Maryland Railway Company to William L. Marbury, trustee, to secure the issuance of 3,000 bonds, of $1,000 each, and secured by all the property and franchises of the company, were filed for record in the clerk's office of Superior Court Baltimore, Wednesday. In the resolution adopted at a meeting of the stockholders, held June 1, it is stated the company has incurred great indebtedness in the assumption of the obligations of the Baltimore and Catonsville Construction Company, has made other contracts for the completion of the work abandoned, and will, of necessity, be compelled to make other contracts. The second mortgage is to retire the old mortgage of the company. The mortgage bonds to be issued bear date semi-annually, the first to date from December 1, 1896, and to be retired December 1, 1941; the second dated June 1, 1897, and redeemable June 1, 1947. They bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent.

Electric lighting will cost New York city $1,226,000 this year, Philadelphia will spend $647,000 for the same purpose; Brooklyn, $370,000; Washington, D. C., and St. Paul, Minn., $175,000 each; St. Louis and San Francisco, $100,000 each; and Buffalo about $125,000.

President McKinley formerly opened the international commercial conference in Philadelphia and also made an address to the American Medical Association, which is meeting there.

MANY PEOPLE TIRED OF LIFE.

Suicides were numerous Wednesday in New York city and vicinity. Wolf Cohen, a small shoe dealer, in Rivington street, who was married only a fortnight ago, found himself in financial straits and took carbolic acid, with fatal results. The same drug was used in two instances in Brooklyn, William H. Lloyd, aged fifty-four, succumbing to its effects, while Henry Wickern, nineteen years of age, will survive his suicidal experiment. Edward H. Seal, aged twenty-seven, also of Brooklyn, killed himself with laudanum. Policeman Theodore Lappert, of Newark, N. J., because of domestic trouble, shot himself through the heart. A Sheephead Bay race-track hanger-on, known only as "Army Red," was found dead beside the roadside near the track, with a horse liniment bottle, from which he had drank, by his side.

In New York city, Mrs. Sarah Armor shot herself in the left breast, fatally, because her daughter had fallen into disgrace. Emil Schmidt, a silk weaver, of New York city, hanged himself in the cellar of his home. Lee Guy, a Chinaman, is dying in a hospital from the effects of opium poisoning, taken with suicidal intent. Mrs. Orange D. Petty, a widow, aged seventy-four years, of Orient Point, L. I., was found dead in her room Wednesday, an empty laudanum bottle suggesting that an overdose of the drug, taken either to relieve pain or with suicidal intent, had ended her life.

Makes life misery to thousands of people. It manifests itself in many different ways, like goitre, swellings, running sores, boils, salt rheum and pimples and other eruptions. Russell, of Chicago, has been co-operating with the health office and physicians in applying the new remedy, the contention being that it is superior to anti-toxine given to the medical fraternity, through the German specialists.

Their secondary effect is to keep the bowels open and regular—not to constipate.

AN OLD-TIME VIRGINIA MANSION.

"Marmion," in King George county, Va., the old Lewis mansion for several generations, is being repaired and beautified. The interior of the parlor of this residence was painted many years ago by a Hessian soldier and is still one of the most beautiful and unique pieces of work to be seen in that section—so rare and artistic that it attracts every eye. It is there that the family portraits, family Bible, clock and the sword of Washington remained until removed to Mount Vernon recently. The family now owning and occupying "Marmion" being among the nearest living relatives of "the Father of his Country," some of the most interesting Washington relics in existence may still be seen there.

Notice was served on a citizen of Frederick recently that unless he fed two horses of his that were starving in a stable he would be presented for cruelty to animals.

Foxes are said to be plentiful along the Potomac River below Williamsport. They have their dens in the cliffs on the capal side, and several have already been caught in traps by hunters.

Tossed on the foaming billows.

You may never have been, but if you cross the Atlantic, no matter how smooth the water may be, without sea sickness you are well, a lucky voyager, that is all. Old tars who have spent their lives on the ocean waves, who were almost born, so to speak, with their "sea legs on," suffer now and then from sea sickness in very tempestuous weather. Sea sickness, tourists, commercial travelers and yachtsmen say that there is no finer safeguard against nausea than Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and it has been equally reliable as a preventive for invalids who travel by steamship and railroad, and who sometimes suffer as much from these conveyances as ocean travelers. Biliousness, constipation, sick headache and disorders of the stomach caused by oppressive climatic influences or unwholesome or unseasonable food or water, always yield to the Bitters speedily. This potent medicine also remedies rheumatic, kidney and nervous disorders, and the affections incident to increasing years.

"Havebeen" Defeated by "Wouldbe."

Another interesting game of ball was played on last Saturday afternoon on the ball grounds, near town, between two "pick up" nines. A number of those composing the teams had possibly not played any ball since their school days, while some of the other members of the nines are known as adept (?) players, thus it will be seen that the teams were composed of both ordinary and poor players, but their intentions being good, they put forth their best efforts, and every man worked diligently for the success of his team. This is what made the game interesting to the large audience that had assembled to witness the contest.

For the want of better names we will designate the teams "Wouldbe" and "Havebeen," which, no doubt, are very appropriate names. At the end of the game the score stood 32 to 11 in favor of "Wouldbe." The teams were composed of the following players:

"Wouldbe"—Thaddeus Zimmerman, s. s., Charles Hoke, 3d b., Chas. Bowers, p., Fred. Rider, c., Wm. Sellers, 2d b., V. Rowe, 1st b., Samuel Rowe, c. f. and l. f., John Zacharias, r. f., Lewis Higbee, l. f. and c. f.

"Havebeen"—Charles Jackson, c., J. Slagle, p., J. H. Stokes, 3d and 1st b., Eugene Zimmerman, 1st and 3d b., Pius Felix, 2d b., Isaac Bowers, 2d and c. f., P. G. King, c. f., Jos. Rowe, s. s. and 2d b., George Friley, l. f., Joseph D. Caldwell, s. s. and 2d b.

Umpires—Luther Zimmerman and Annan Horner. Scorer—Gehr Seibore.

Mt. St. Mary's Defeated Thurmont.

Communicated.

Notwithstanding the ringing of cow bells and the blowing of fish horns and the yelling of a large crowd, the Mt. St. Mary's base ball club easily defeated the Thurmont team on Ascension day, May 27, by a score of 7 to 12. Although the Thurmont boys put up a good game, they were shut out until the fifth inning, when a wild throw by the catcher to second, to catch a man stealing, and another wild throw by the center field man to third, allowed the first run to be scored. The features of the game were a catch by right fielder C. Anders, and the battery work of Mt. St. Mary's. The two teams played as follows:

Mt. St. Mary's—J. Breighner, 3rd b., J. Little, 2nd b., S. Wetzel, 1st b., J. Baker, p., W. Bennett, ss., G. Baker, c., A. Rife, l. f., W. Kelley, c. f., G. Wagner, r. f.

Thurmont—Shafer, c., Dorsey, p., Hetterly, 1st b., Loy, 2nd b., Lidy, l. f., Root, c. f., Anders, r. f., Wloskey, 3rd b., W. Root, ss.

Earned runs, Mt. St. Mary's, 9; Thurmont, 0. Struck out, by Baker 10; Thurmont, Dorsey 3. Hits off Baker, 4; Dorsey, 17. Two base hits, Breighner 2, Kelley 1. Double plays, Breighner to Little, Little to Wetzel, Loy and Hetterly. Bases on Balls off Baker, 1; off Dorsey, 4.

Two Ladies Badly Hurt.

Mrs. Charles Hess and Mrs. Samuel Shoemaker, of Harney, met with quite a serious accident Saturday while returning from a Christian Endeavor meeting at Oxford, Pa. The horses they were driving took fright, the buggy was upset and both ladies were thrown out. Mrs. Hess was badly bruised and was unconscious for several hours. Mrs. Shoemaker had her collar bone broken besides being badly bruised about the face and head. Drs. Simpson and Gardner rendered the necessary aid.

Novena.

On last Sunday, Father Manley announced to his congregation that the Novena in honor of St. Anthony of Padua, whose feast falls on the 13th of June, would begin on Friday, June 4th. Those who can not attend the nine days devotion at St. Anthony's Shrine may make the Novena at home by reciting some prayer each day, in honor of the Saint, and attending the closing public exercises to be observed at the Saint's Oratory on Sunday, June 13.

The devotion known as the "Novena" is a very ancient form of prayer in the Catholic Church. It consists in observing some devotional exercises for the nine days previous to a Saint's feast and communicating on the festival itself. The Novena may begin so as to finish on the vigil of the feast, or on the morning of the Saint's day. For example those who make the Novena in honor of St. Anthony may begin either on the 4th or 5th just as they wish.

The feast of St. Anthony will be solemnly observed at the Mountain Parish.

A Father's Mad Deed.

Made insane from grief by the recent death of his wife and by insomnia, Edgar C. Harris, a letter-carrier, shortly after dawn Wednesday morning made an attempt to kill his four children as they lay asleep in their home, 1724 Ashland avenue, Baltimore, and then, turning his pistol upon himself, inflicted wounds which are deemed fatal.

Ada Harris, his youngest child, aged six years, died three hours afterward, the bullet having entered her left temple and imbedded itself in the base of the skull. She never regained consciousness.

George Harris, aged twelve years, was instantly killed in his bed, the bullet having passed through his brain from the back of his head and imbedded itself in the frontal bone.

Ella Harris, aged fourteen years, lies seriously wounded in the Johns Hopkins Hospital, but it is expected that she will recover. The bullet entered her left arm pit and made its way to the back, having presumably been turned aside by a rib.

Edgar Harris, aged nine years, was burned by powder upon the back of his head, but escaped death by lying still in his bed until his father had fired into his own brain the last shot in his pistol.

The father lies unconscious in a ward of the Johns Hopkins Hospital, with no chance of recovery, according to the opinion of the hospital physicians.

Tuesday night at half-past 10 the four children had gone to bed secure in their trust of their father, who was even then meditating their murder. The house is a narrow three-story one on the north side of Ashland avenue, east of Broadway. The two girls slept together in a room at the head of the stairs on the second floor, and, since the death of the mother, February 17, the two boys had slept with their father in one bed in the front room of the same floor, the two rooms being separated only by a narrow landing at the head of the stairway.

The father had always been liked by his friends for his genial disposition and intelligent manner, but since the wife's death many of them had noticed that he was pre-occupied, while some, so they stated Wednesday, had suspicions as to his sanity, remembering that his father died at Spring Grove Asylum about twelve years ago.

At 8 o'clock Wednesday morning several neighbors who chanced to glance out of the windows saw Harris walking up and down the pavement in front of his house, hatless and coatless and strange in his manner, once or twice sitting down on the pavement. Later it was noticed that he had reentered the house and nothing more was thought of his behavior until the occurrence of the tragedy awoke them to a realization of the fact that had they accented him earlier in the morning murder might have been prevented.—Sun.

Only a Dream.

Once a man had 1800 bushels of wheat which he sold, not to a single merchant, but to 1800 different dealers. A few of these paid him cash, but far the greater number said it was not convenient then, but would pay later. A few months passed and the man's bank account ran low. "How is this," he said, "My 1800 bushels of wheat should have kept me in affluence till another crop is raised, but lo! I have parted with the grain and have in its stead only a large amount of small accounts, so small and numerous and scattering that I cannot get around and collect fast enough to pay expenses." So he posted a public notice, and asked all who owed him to come and pay quickly. But only a few came. The rest said, "Mine is only a little matter and I will go and pay one of these days," forgetting that though each account was very small, when all were put together they meant a very large sum to the man. Things went on till the man got to feeling so badly and rolled and tossed about so in his efforts to collect that he fell out of bed and awoke, and quickly running to the granary found his 1800 bushels of grain still safe. He had only been dreaming and had not sold his wheat at all.

MORAL.—The next day the man went to the publisher of the country paper and said: "Here sir, is the pay for your paper and when next year's subscription is due you can depend upon me to pay promptly. I stood in the position of the editor last night and I know how it feels to have one's hard earned dollars scattered over the country in small accounts." And the editor smiled and said: "How strange. You are the first man who ever seemed to look at this matter from my standpoint."

Is your subscription due?—Ez.

COVERED THEIR GRAVES WITH FLOWERS.

The beautiful custom of strewing flowers on the graves of the soldier dead, in recognition of the honorable service they rendered to their country in the hour of its need, was carried out in this place by the members of Arthur Post, No. 41, G. A. R., on last Saturday morning, according to the programme published in last week's issue of the CHRONICLE.

The Memorial Day exercises were held in the Public School Building, and all the available space in the three large rooms was occupied by an appreciative audience.

The exercises were opened by Singing the chorus—"Decoration Hymn." Rev. W. Simonton, D. D., then offered prayer, which was followed by the singing of a male quartette, entitled—"Peacefully Sleep 'Neath the Roses and Lillies," by Dr. Jas. W. Eichelberger, Major O. A. Horner, Lewis Higbee and Charles R. Hoke.

Maj. O. A. Horner then read President Lincoln's address, delivered at the dedication of the National Cemetery, at Gettysburg, on November 19, 1863. The address is as follows:

"Four score and seven years ago, our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Now, we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation, so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battle-field of the war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting place for those who here gave up their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. But, in a larger sense, we cannot dedicate—we cannot consecrate—we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly carried on. It is rather for us to be dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we hereby resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that from this day forward, we shall have a new birth of freedom; and that this government of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth."

After the reading of the above address, Major Horner introduced to the audience the speaker of the day, Rev. Charles Beinewald, pastor of the Lutheran church of this place, who delivered the Memorial address. Mr. Beinewald's speech was patriotic throughout and was well received, being one of his best efforts.

At the conclusion of Mr. Beinewald's address, the exercises were brought to an end in the school building, by the Choral Union singing, "Dropping from the Ranks."

The parade was then formed in the following order: Chief Marshal and Staff, Emmitt Cornet Band, children representing the schools, carrying flowers and flags, Arthur Post, No. 41, G. A. R.; Sons of Veterans, Massasoit Tribe, No. 41, I. O. R. M., Emmitsburg Council, No. 53, Jr. O. U. A. M., Speakers, Ministers and Citizens in carriages. The order of march was down Main street to Kerrigan's alley, thence to Green street, and then to Gettysburg street, where the parade halted and the graves in the Catholic cemetery were decorated by the school children under the direction of a committee from Arthur Post. The parade then moved to the square and up Main street to Zacharias' alley to the Lutheran church, where the exercises were continued as follows: Chorus—"Let Them Rest," Choral Union; followed by the reading of the Grand Army Ritual by Maj. O. A. Horner, Past Commander, Department of Maryland, G. A. R.; Benediction, by Rev. W. C. B. Shulenberger, after which the graves in the Lutheran cemetery were decorated by the school children. The parade then moved to the square where it disbanded. The other cemeteries in town and the surrounding country were decorated by committees from Arthur Post.

WHO SHOULD ASK CREDIT.

(Written for the Chronicle.)

This question may be called impertinent; on the contrary it is a very pertinent one. As it involves the status of both of the buyer and the seller, the one has to sell, the other wants to buy. If all paid cash there would be no need of such questions. So many need time on their purchases that the accommodation is all on one side. If the seller was wholly dependent upon these credit buyers for funds to meet his payments, his disappointments would be greater than they are. Many business houses have gone into bankruptcy because their debtors failed to pay, indeed this is a reason given daily for houses failing, whilst others have by the skin of their teeth escaped. Ask any business man how much he has lost by the credit system? He can show you old ledgers with enough unpaid accounts to start another house or buy a farm, or will tell you all my assets are in this ledger, and they are not collectable. Some of these debtors are fully able to pay, but no, the law exempts them, and they feel free. Some are in comfortable circumstances, whilst their creditor is not. Yes, he is poor, because these ungrateful debtors have not paid their bills.

Will an honest man avail himself of the advantages under this law? Will he refuse to pay when they get able?

He should show himself purer than to accept such a discharge from his debts. So long as a man lives he should consider himself bound to meet his obligations. Many persons claim to forget and amounts they owe, but these same persons, do not forget small bills? Why should they forget small bills?

How insidiously do some get into the confidence of others, to get merchandise, or what not, on credit, and then when the advance is made, they do not have gained, justifying themselves that he cannot make them pay. They gained a victory for how long? If they have a conscience it will not stand such treatment, for when upon their knees which, some will do, and do not through form, (what a pity,) still when in that reverent position how can they help thinking they justly owe and do not pay, or when they sing some song of praise, it must be to praise themselves for their honesty, and not for the credit of their dues. All the forms of all professions will not justify this act, and he or she who commits such wrongs are unworthy the name they bear.

The trouble is, there is a chronic disposition to be dishonest, it crops out in so many forms of bad practice and dealing that we must be on the alert at all times.

After the experience of every body in the credit business, with so many unpaid bills, legion in number, thousands in amount. Who are to give credit? Some may say to every honest person. All their unpaid bills were purchased by honest persons. It would have insulted the very meanness, much less the polished, to have hinted they were not honest. The fault was not with the seller, it was the buyer. They knew their paying ability, and when they purchased beyond that they were straining a point. So many live beyond their income, that the creditor must bear part of the expense of their extravagance. A person contracting a bill not knowing where the money is to come from to pay, is not worthy of credit. Persons who are without permanent residence, often stop off at a town, wearing good clothes, (unpaid for at the last stopping place), conduct themselves genteelly, and warm themselves into the good graces of business houses, run up a bill and by and by skip, leaving the memories of their winning ways.

Strangers ought to pay cash always. Many cases might be cited to prove the inequality of the credit system, but on credit articles they want, without any intention of paying for them. The change from promiscuous to special credit, has been growing gradually until it will eventually be cash only. The abuse of the credit system has damaged the standing of the poor and honest man. He may need credit and be honest, but the suspicion that he may follow in the steps of a long train of others who were thought worthy of credit. The former school boy, who repays on the honest poor man today. The past unkept promises to pay cannot be repeated, because mistrust prevails instead of confidence, and it drives business nearer the cash system.

Another class who cannot support their family, and spend for drink half their earnings, are not the safest men to give credit.

Notwithstanding the many drawbacks to get credit, if men would establish a truthful, honest and sober character, when they ask credit, they will have no trouble obtaining it, if he lacks these qualities, he is not worthy of credit.

The sober, industrious man seldom lacks friends, and knowing this why not to all try to establish such a character, not only for themselves but for their families, as the family is affected for good or evil by its head. Therefore it behooves the father to build up a reputation for his family.

How often do we hear it said of such a man, such a man who has paid his debts, upon the strength of this, his sons are under ban, the influence of the parents' character follows the children through life. Honesty is not only the best policy, but it is right, and every person should know that, thus relieving the good from the curse, due those only who practice wrong. The only persons worthy of credit are the honest. This character being established, will secure it. That being the position in our debt, let us all be honest, and pay our debts. We honor a brave man always. Let us all be brave enough to do right always.

We are all benefactors who give credit. Some men owe their success to the aid given by the men in the credit business. Often these benefactors, who they get on in life forget the friend who took chance with them when they were poor, and show their lack of appreciation for past favors. If there is a man who owes his friendship to another, it is the friend who had a friend to interest himself in him, when all the risk was on one side. How poor must such persons feel in their own estimation when they think of the friend in their need, they have deserted, now, that they are able to pay as they go.

Once again, let us all be honest, but nothing suits them now. Once they would deal only with this friend, now they scarcely know him. Were these persons worthy of credit. Let them decide it from a conscientious standpoint.

There are legions who owe bills contracted when the debtor was poor, who are able to pay now. Some can retire and live at ease, have incomes fortified that no law can touch them, and call themselves independent. This is wearing other people's boots, prominent at other people's expense, other people furnishing their comforts.

Shame on such independence. What disposition have these persons made of their conscience? People generally wish to pay something and get a discharge for the future, but in these cases it is not so. On the whole who is worthy of credit? Judging from the appreciation shown, the only safeguard for the business men is to organize a board of credit and black list every person not coming up to the requirements, thus saving in the future, and protecting themselves against losses as heretofore.
