Best Time to Sleep. In view of the many changes which have been rung on the early to bed, early to rise idea, the following opinion from an eminent medical authority ought to be of interest. He takes up the old statement that an hour before midnight is worth two hours after and "Miss Mary McClosky, 872 West gives his opinion as follows: "I had an opportunity to make some study of this subject in my naval service during the late war. On shipboard, as is undoubtedly known to most of you, the ship's company-officers and men alike-stand four hour watches day and night, and to get the required amount of rest are obliged to get their sleep irregularly. To so arrange it that the same man shall not be obliged to take early or late watches continually, the 'dog watch' of two hours is interpolated, thus addthe results for over two years I could never discover that the watch, officers and men, were not as fully refreshed by their sleep as were the medical and pay officers, who stand no watch and have hours as regular as those of any householder." It seems to make but little difference to those who have given careful attention to this subject whether people sleep at one time or another, so that they get a sufficient amount of sleep. - New York Ledger.

The Troubles Travelers Have, Especially With Books and Maps.

Many amusing stories are told of the trouble American travelers have had with the custom house authorities in Turkey, especially with books and maps. In the old days one's baggage would be dumped down on the landing place at Constantinople, and a turbaned old Turk, tchibouk in hand, would go through a pantomime of examining one's effects, which would be abruptly brought to an end by the application of an appropriate coin to the palm of his Contact With It Brings Out a Peculiar hand. "Away With Melancholy,

And bid dull care avaunt," sounds very well in werse, but if you have a case of the "bines" caused by indigestion, with biliousness added on as an extra horror, you cannot say bey! on as an extra horrer, you cannot say bey! presto! and thus insure the departure of those abominable twins. The "proper caper" when thus troubled, is to seek the aid of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Thereafter you will speedily digast with ease an i est with appetite, and your liver will reassert its right to regularity. Not only this, you can retire without a horrible dread that the Washington monument will—in dreams—impose itself upon the pit of your stomach. If you feel premonitory symptoms of chills and fever, kidney trouble, or rhenumatism, summon the Bitters to the rescue without delay, "lest a worse thing befall you." It took two years to vinditinued to experience the indescribable cate his brother's name, but he did not feeling, vague, unapproachable, yet always there when in her presence.

One night I felt that I could no longer | Times-Herald. contain my feelings, so, on the banks of the river, on the very spot where first we met, I told her of my love.

And ob the river, on the very spot where AN ANECDOTE OF LINCOLN. And, ch, the effect! Fire seemed to He Measured Height With a Miner In a flash from her eyes and mouth and each undivided hair on her body was aflame. All the devil in her seemed to be let loose. Before my astonishment gave me a chance to act she leaped upon me and began to scratch and tear and gnaw and bite. And in the midst of all the horror and pain of it came that same indescribable feeling in the undiscovered place.

I was perfectly powerless to resist her murderous attacks, and any efforts on my part would have been useless, for I felt that my hour had come. Without pausing, she continued to scratch and tear at me until finally, feeling that I was in the act of taking my last breath, I opened my eyes to cast a last look upon this sad but beautiful world. Just then Miss Pussy seemed to have exhausted her vitality, for she fell back dying even as my last fluttering breath issued from my lips. And then my soul left its earthly dwelling place, and, hovering above, looked down on the scene of the late tragedy.

"Horribile dictu!" My own body lay there lacerated and torn, but the body of the devil's daughter had vanished into space.

Eager as I was to soar away to a betthe spot, but lingered around my poor good humored smile, said quietly: body in the hope that some kind mor-sure I am the taller. However, come up ial. But alas for all my hopes! At early dawn a strange looking man, tall and lean, with long hair and bony, slender fingers, came wandering toward our late trysting place. Suddenly he saw my body, and a trembling took possession of him, which he soon controlled, and lifting me gently by the tail, carried me for some distance until we came to a little house in the woods which seemed to be his own. My soul followed through space, eager to see what was to become of my body. This awful man, who, it seemed, was the commander in chief of an army organized for the advancement of music, took up a murderous looking knife and deliberately cut my poor body into bits. He cut in deep until he reached my very vitals, and as the knife touched these my soul gave a long, quivering out by Dr. C. E. Boynton. When fever but satisfied sigh, for he had touched the spot which had always responded to Miss Pussy's presence, and which, while I had lived, had always eluded my detection. He took up my vitals and cut them into parrow strips and strung them across the window to dry. Though my body and soul were really separated, so sensitive was my soul to any touch to these parts that each time a breeze swept across them my soul could not resist a crv.

These cries seemed to please the musician so much that he nearly went wild with excess of feeling. He manipulated the strings—which were my vitals -in all sorts of ways, and finally drew them taut over a peculiar piece of glazed wood and over this drew a rod in measured time. My soul moaned and sighed at each touch, but the musician seemed to know how to modulate and moderate my cries and at the same time to mingle with my tones others of such sweetness and pathos that the combined effect was heavenly and grand.

And thus it is that my soul has never its of economy. Possibly no better found a final resting place, for mingled | method of convincing the young folks with my sad tones are ever those sweet of the wisdom of looking after small and glorious ones, harmoniously inter- things could have been found than that mingled, making music which binds resorted to in the public schools of me to earth, holding me back even from | Brussels. The Outlook gives the result heavenly joys.

Pennsylvania Town. In the course of an article in St. Nicholas Mary Lillian Herr relates the following characteristic anecdote of Lincoln: Once while on his way to Washington as president the train stopped a little time in the town of Alleghany, Pa. Around the station a great crowd gathered, eager to see the new president. They shouted and cheered until Lincoln had to appear on the rear platform of his car. He bowed and smiled, but the crowd was so noisy he did not try to speak to them. Very near to the platform stood a miner, wearing a red shirt and blue overalls and carrying a dinner pail. Like the rest, he had stopped hoping to see Mr. Lincoln. The workman was almost a giant in size and towered head and shoulders above the crowd. No doubt he had heard that Lincoln also was very tall, and, encouraged by the friendly face, the workman suddenly waved his bare arm above his head and called out: "Hi, there, Abe Lincoln! I'm taller than you-yes, a sight taller!" This loud speech silenced the crowd by its boldness, and a laugh arose. But ter land, I could not tear myself from Mr. Lincoln, leaning forward with a ain't a wild animal I don't know what when you touched me on the arm I "My man, I doubt it-in fact, I'm and let's measure." The crowd made way and the workman climbed to the platform and stood back to back with the president elect. Each put up a hand to see whose head overtopped. Evidently Mr. Lincoln was the victor, for with a smile of satisfaction he turned and offered his hand to his beaten rival, saying cordially:

"I thought you were mistaken and I was right, but I wished to be sure and to have you satisfied. However, we are friends anyway, aren't we?"

Grasping the outstretched hand in a vigorous grip the workman replied: 'Yes, Abe Lincoln - as long as I live."

And He Gave Up His Fare to the Man Who Touched Him.

Stubbs is really not very absentyou $100 for any one of these that isn't minded, but when he is riding on a street car he makes it a point not to look at the conductor. Milton's Wives and Daughters.

Of Milton's three wives and his relations with them enough has been writ-It was a hard thing to be Milton's wife or Milton's daughter. He was stern, he was austere, he was self centered; his impeccable strength was purchased by a sublime and monotonous egoism, which is the name they give to selfishness in poets. Very chill must have been the life of his girls in that Puritan house, reading to the inwrapped Puritan father from languages they did not understand and taking down from his lips poetry they understood still less. Milton found them undutiful. Poor little "undutiful" daughters! Fathers had terrible conceptions of duty in those days. Did any one ever want to know Milton? Did any one ever not want to know Shakespeare? Doubtless there are Leader of Newspapers, readers of the Exeter Hall class who would have yearned for the godly company of the "great Christian poet." But, on the whole, how thankful one should be that Shakespeare was not a "Christian poet!"-Academy.

like any other originator or proneer, is never contented except in The Foremost Position.

When "The Philadelphia Record" untook inteten years ago to demonstrate that the best of morning newspapers could be made and sold for one cent, publishers were generally skeptical. But the world of readers was not asleep. Consequently "The Escord" was not long in reaching a commanding position, and, improving upon this, its circulation and influence were finally recognized among the foremost of America's great journals. Hence the compliment of imitation which is now pald to it in every city of note from the Atlantic coast to the Mississippi Valley. Every city worth mentioning now has one or more good one-cent morning dailies, though so recently as only 19 years ago Philadelphia and "The Record" stood alone is this respect.

News Concisely Published without the omission of any essential feature is still the BEST NEWS, notwithstanding the once prevalent tendency to pad it and stretch it out.

The Busy Man's Paper therefore, still originates, still leads, and publishes MORE NEWS to the column than its neighbors of larger dimensions.

RECORD With their several inimitable and always instructive features in addition to the day's news from all the world, are now almost univaled in circulation as in good qualities. With an average daily circulation of over 166,000 copies, and an average of about 120,000 on Sundays, "The Record is still, regardless of all imitation, easily a leader of leading newspapers. A paper so good, with 10 to 14 pages for one cent, is still very properly a favorite. Though low in price, it is never cheap, but spares no expense that will give its readers the very best and freshest information of all that's going on around them.
