Surprise. The country journalist, having concluded his work of devil, printer, book-keeper, job printer, reporter, editor, press hand, mailing clerk, solicitor, compositor, and ad solicitor for the day, had sat down to study out what string to pull to get enough money to meet a note of $14,38 coming due next Saturday, when a man he did not know came into the office and sat down without being asked to do so. For a minute he looked around the place and at the presiding spirit of it before he spoke. "You are," he sam slowly, "the proprietor of this establishment, and it s a newspaper office?" "It is," replied the wondering editor.

"It's a durn shame," he went on, going down into his pocket, "here's two dollars, and I'll send you in a cord of wood and a bushel of apples and four gallons of cider next week." Then he got up and went out without so much as saying "good-by" and the editor gazed stupidly at the two-dollar bill on his knee.

He Knew How to Advertise. An original form of an advertisement comes from Russia, where a shopkeeper posted up the following

"The reason why I have hitherto been able to sell my goods so much cheaper than anybody else is that I am a bachelor, and do not need to make a profit for the maintenance of a wife

The result was that there was such a run on the shop that in the course of a few days this shopkeeper had made enough money to pay the expenses of his wedding on a very lavish scale.

BEARS SLY AS FOXES.

They Throw Lumps of Ice at Walruses to Stun and Capture Them.

In his native home the polar bear does not often meet with small boys anxious to treat him to buns and other dainties. The consequence is that Bruin has to devise many curious ways of securing his food, and none are more strange and interesting than that related by two trustworthy travelers in Greenland, that country of strange

In the summer time, when the snow is off the ice of the ocean shore and from the fore to the hind legs. This is islets, the seals can be plainly seen as called the wing, and it enables the black dots on the ice, probably asleep, but always near their holes, which lead down through the thick ice to the water below, and into which they can throw themselves by the least movement. Bruin, seeing one afar, walks was formed 19,000 white men, women up as near as he deems safe, and then and children have been slain in Indian begins crawling on his wary prey.

The seal, if the weather be sunny and pleasant, takes short naps, relieved by shorter moments when it is scanning the vicinity for signs of the enemy's approach. During these times death itself, with eyes apparently closed, though really a corner of each is kept open, and in this way he hopes the seal will take him for a heap of snow, an appearance which his coat readily helps him to assume.

During the naps he creeps forward with greater or less rapidity, according to his nearness to the seal and consequent fear of being seen or heard. When but ten or twelve yards away. and the seal is in the depths of a good nap, the bear rushes upon him, and with a single blow of his powerful paw knocks the smaller brute senseless and so far away from the hole that he cannot escape by that way, even if the blow received is not immediately fatal.

In winter time the ice is covered with snow, and this is hollowed out by the seal into a snow house, covering the hole in the ice and connecting at the top of the dome with an aperture about the size of a shilling, called the blow hole, for it is through this that the seal breathes when he is in want of fresh air.

Here the bear watches for many a long hour, if necessary, and when the snorts of the seal are heard he crushes in the fragile dome of the snow house with his paw, impaling the seal on his curved claws, and proceeds to practically demonstrate how polar bears can aware that there is any connection besubsist in an arctic winter.

HOW NUGGETS GROW.

A Chemist Shows That Gold Exists in a Soluble Form.

gets which are found in the river gravels of Klondike and other auriferous regions have been brought down by the rivers direct from the reefs in which the gold originally lay.

Many practical miners and scientific men, however, have long been of opinion that this cannot be the case, for no masses of gold of so large a size were ever found in the reefs themselves. They believe, on the other hand, that the nuggets have grown where they are now found, just as a crystal of salt will grow in a strong brine; but with so insoluble a substance as gold it was difficult to understand how such growth could take place. Experiments carried out in Australia have shown that decaying vegetable matter will cause the deposition of gold from solutions of gold salts, but these salts are not known to occur in reefs.

The mystery is now solved. A Slavonic chemist named Zzigmedy has just shown that gold itself can exist in a soluble form. By acting on a slightly alkaline solution of a gold salt with formaldehyde and submitting the product to dialysis, he has succeeded in obtaining gold in a colloidal condition, in which state it is soluble in water and may be precipitated by the addition of common salt.

It is probable that some of the gold in quartz feefs exists in this condition. It is washed out by the rain, carried away in solution by the rivers, and deposited in the river gravels wherever there is anything containing salt to cause its precipitation. In the course of ages a large nugget may in this way be formed.

The Flying Fox.

The flying fox is a very curious inhabitant of the forests near Moreton Bay in East Australia. It lives in flocks and moves generally toward the dusk of the evening, and the noise produced by the heavy flapping of the so-called wings is very singular. The flocks like quiet places, where there are large Araucarian pine trees, with an underwood of scrub and creepers. The foxes hang in vast numbers from the horizontal branches of the pine trees.

When there is a clear space among the trees, an enormous number of the animals may be seen, and their noise can be heard, for directly they see anything unusual they utter a short bark, hill, to hurl the missile down upon the something like the sound made by young rooks. Often every branch is crowded and the flying foxes are seen stun him that Bruin could rush in and either flapping their wings and holding on with their hind feet, and with their head downward, or snarling and fighting for places.

Suddenly the whole take to flight and them.

The creature is not a true fox and there is a fold of skin which reaches pteropus, as the animal is called, to float and turn in the air.

Cost of the Red Man.

Since the United States government wars and affrays and about 30,000 Indians, at an expense to our government of $807,073,658. To this immense sum must be added the civil expenditure of the government on behalf of the Indians, which, between 1776 and 1890. the bear is very quiet and as still as amounted to $259,944,082, making a total of $1,067,017,740 for civil and military expenses in connection with the noble red man.

Beauties of Morro Castle.

El Morro is one of the grandest possessions in all Cuba, not as a fortress, but as a curiosity. The damage done the castle proper by our navy could be repaired for $50,000. Its construction and mysteries are wonderful, and the scene from Morro ridge is unsurpassed in Cuba. Our guard there has explored it pretty thoroughly, but has not yet discovered the entrance to the subterranean torture rooms.

A Spoonament.

In Rappahannock county, Va., they lately had a "spoonament." All the participants were ladies. They rode on horseback at a fast gallop, each holding a dinner spoon with an egg in it. The one who rode three times around the arena without dropping the egg was crowned queen of the spoonament. A world of fun was had by both participants and spectators.

Mrs. Eva E. Tutts, in her position of Secretary, Treasurer and General Manager of the Long Beach and San Pedro (Cal.) Electric Company, is another example, and a brilliant one, of the successful woman of business. Terminal Island, which has since been added, makes a brilliant showing at night, with its long row of wharves and sidewalk lights and its brilliantly illuminated clubhouses and cottages, whose lighting has been installed by Mrs. Tutts.

In 1896 she incorporated a company under her personal management, of which she is President. In speaking of her plant Mrs. Tutts said: "Our plant is small, but it is a model one. A WONDERFUL CLOCK.

The Nearest Approach to a Perpetual

Motion Machine Tet Discovered. A Kankakee county, Ill., man is the possessor of one of the most wonderful clocks in the country. This clock is as near a perpetual motion machine as any piece of mechanism yet designed. The owner is not a perpetual motion crank, but is a jeweler named Peter M. Ravenskilde of Cabery, a town in the southwestern portion of Kankakee county. The clock is the product of many years of study and labor and considerable expense. It keeps accurate time and will run for a year without the least attention from its owner.

The clock proper is run with a wheel 60 inches in circumference. From the outer surface of the circumference was suspended 120 cups, each one-half inch in diameter and a third of an inch deep. Each of forty of these cups, which are successive, contain steel balls three-eighths of an inch in diam-

Every minute and a half as this wheel turns by the weight of these balls one of them falls out of its cup, rolls down an inclined plane 20 inches long, when, by its own weight, it reunites a broken circuit of electricity and is again elevated by a little car traveling along a steeper inclined plane to the top of the wheel, where it falls into a cup which stands vertical for a short time. After the car discharges its cargo it returns to its original station from its own weight. From the time one of these balls is dropped into a cup until it is again dropped into another cup it travels 36 inches. Thus the work done by all the balls is equivalent to one ball traveling over one mile a day, 400 miles in one year, and during the lifetime of a person living threescore years the distance around the globe.

The electricity used is generated in an ordinary storage battery, which does not require any attention for fully

LETTER FROM EGYPT.

John Berry, a young negro, aged Dr. McSweeny Writes in His Usual Interesting Style of His Voyage Across

The Ocean. CAIRO, EGYPT, Feb. 26, 1899. DEAR CHRONICLE :- As I noticed how interested your readers were in Father Manley's account of his ocean trip, allow me to give our friends and neighbors some idea of mine. We left New York Feb. 14th, in a crowded condition, the steamer that was to have sailed the week before being laid up with a broken wheel; still I had the good fortune of a room to myself during the eighteen stand what a privilege this was when 1 tell you that mine was the lower shelf, and there is a certain feeling of uneasiness in having a total stranger in the upper one, especially should he be taken with what is delicately alluded to as mal de mer. So the crowd didn't trouble me, unless for the walk on deck being a little less free; no slight consideration perhaps for a mountaineer. These steamers are very beautifully furnished, and although the Aller is seven years old, she showed up very well. The scene at dinner (7 p. m.) brilliant company, and the band disbesides this we had the upper deck nade and the young folks dance to the the best medicine money can buy. music that was furnished for an hour or two longer. And so on. There was some sea-sickness, for a Norwester chased us to the Azores; doubtless the same storm that was piling up your interfered with our enjoyment of these beautiful blue isles of the sea, which we sailed along for many hours, and may have had something to do with the sudden breaking of something in the machinery on the 12th of February during the hum and pleasure of the dinner hour. Some looked suddenly pale, for it is a serious thing after all this sailing over five miles deep of water on a & inch iron plank with ten thousand horses jerking you eighty times a minute through the stormy waves. Of course we didn't have the horses in propria persona, but our screw gave a stroke equivalent to their united pull. Ours was but an ordinary ship however; the Kaiser Wilhelm Der Grosse had as many horses (equivalently) as would stand four abreast from Payne's Bridge to Gettysburg Court house, jerking her along ninety times every sixty seconds. Your schoolboys may reckon up the number of horses in this latter case. After eight hours at the mercy of the deep, we got things righted, but lost one-third of our power, and so finally lost a day of our proposed plan. Still we got into Gibraltar on Monday, 13th, at noon, and enjoyed the scenery and climate of this most wonderful of all fortresses, which England holds, and nine o'clock. This might well be used as an example of the height of impudence in international affairs. Of course Spain treats Morocco likewise, holding Cetua, but then those others are semi barbarous infidels.

Passing the Balearic Isles we coasted France, passing Toulon, Cannes, Nice, and all those places so nice to read about in winter, and saluted the birthplace of Columbus on the 16th, going ashore at Genoa. Here while resting in a very pretty square in the shade of full-leaved trees and surrounded by splashing fountains and many colored flowers, and thinking on the noble life of one of Italy's multitude of great men whose statue overlooked us,-we read of your terrible blizzard. The contrast was very great indeed; Genoa is much farther north than Emmitsburg, but we have no transcontinental Alps at home to give us an Italy so high | Jacob Bowers, departed this life. She gentleman got ready to lead the service he could not overcome a sudden impulse to rush up stairs from the diningroom, and pay tribute to the great Pagan Sea-god. So that settled it. You see we were sailing between Scylla and Charybdis, and things were a little rough and unreliable. Nevertheless even if one could forget the Great Creator whose voice dwelleth in the "mighty tone" of the deep, and whose power heareth and swelleth in its motion, the sight of Etna that impressed us all and held our gaze fixed for three hours was enough to hold the mind and imagination entranced in the contemplation of the Divine majesty. And so we priests recited the prayers of the church, aided to raise our hearts to the Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the Lord by the sight of another of His California Fig Syrup Co., illustrate church, aided to raise our hearts to the wondrous works. How to Make a Cement Floor.

To make a cement floor dig out 5 in. deep and fill in about 4 in. of this with broken stone, as in preparing for macadamizing a road. Mix the cement with sand and water, so that it will be quite thin and will run easily. Let it fill all the openings and cover all the stones. Allow this to set. Then give the whole a coating with a trowel the same as in cementing a cistren, using one part of cement, to three parts of good sand. A floor built in this manner will last indefinately if the cement used is first class.

Keep Cows in Clean Stables,

Keep cows in clean stables, and be-fore milking brush them thoroughly so that the milk will not be contaminated by bacteria introduced through dust settling in the pail. Milk can be kept clean without much difficulty if good stables are provided.

Good Drainage.

Good drainage is absolutely necessary for success with creamery or cheese factory. The odor that sometimes comes from the factory prejudices the customer against the product.

Will Calves Inherit Tuberculosis? The evidence is nearly all against it. Records of post-mortem tests of hearly 2,000,000 calves butchered in European markets show only 1 in 200,000 to have inherited tuberculosis.

Avoiding Disease in Poultry.

The hen is more subject to disease than any of our domestic animals, nor is this strange when it is considered that she is forced to work constantly nearly all the year in the production of eggs, when naturally she would lay but a few more than her wild sister, who lays only enough for one or two broods a year. It is usually the old fowls that are most subject to disease, and even then it is due to mismanagement, such as lack of pure ai,r clean water, wholesome food or exercise. Fowls fed argely on corn and con-fined at night in close quarters cannot long remain in perfect healtn. It is plain, therefore, w., animals in confinement are much more likely to be sick than those on the range. The best plan to prevent fowls from ailing is to keep them when in coninement as nearly as possible to their nabits on the range. In feeding use a variety of grains, green foods, bone and meat, with plenty of pure water and plenty of fresh air at night. Avoid frowding them while in the house and turnish them as much yard room as essible, together with a scratching shed in winter. In case any of them are sick from any cause, at once put tnem by themselves, away from the rest of the flock. Only by constant study of their likes and dislikes can poultry be made to pay large profits.

Care of Young Trees. Go over the young orchard and if iny of the trees have been bent over by the wind, as young trees are apt to be, straighten them by the use of 1 heavy piece of timber with cushioned erotch set under the lower limb on the side the tree bends. Have the lower end of the timber square, push the tree is straight as possible and fasten the imber in place at the bottom with strong stakes. In a little while the coots will take hold firmly.

MANKIND

Some men use the deep ministerial tone of voice in talking of everything from expansion to the buttons off their underwear.

Every woman has a vague idea that all her husband does every day is to open his office, read, smoke and count his money. Old men go to a great deal of trouble dyeing their mustaches, considering that they fool neither women nor death. A man can forget that a woman is

Loneliness is the greatest foe a woman has to fight. Every field of labor seems more fer-

From the walls of a woman's ward-robe hang tufted pads breathing blossom whiffs of violets, and every least nook for feminine finery holds a suggestion of violet fragrance. Even in the unhappy ages when people knew nothing of the bath and its rejuvenating properties, noted beauties foundout the secret of preserving their loveliness by abhitionary aids. Isabeau of Bavaria heard that chickweed was good for the skin and had enormous decoctions brewed from it, in which she bathed daily. Diana of Poitiers was another cleanly coquette, and plunged into a tub of rain water every morning. The eighteenth century beauties like. wise believed in bathing; but they put all sorts of odd infusions into the water to improve the skin—such as the bullion in which the veal had been boiled, water distilled from the honey extracted from roses, a preparation of almonds, melon juice, the milky juices of green barley, linseed distilled with Mexican balm dissolved by the yoke of an egg. These remarkable decoctions were freely used by the ladies at the courts of Louis, before the Revolution.

Queen Marie Antoinette made liberal use of the bath, putting into the water wild thyme, laurel leaves, marjory, and a little sea salt.

Marie Czetwertynoska, the Russian beauty who exercised so great an influence over Czar Alexander I., used to bathe in Malaga wine

She had never used anything but pure water on her face, and always "All right, ma'am," replied Bridget. pure water on her face, and always kept to a very simple diet, even when her table was loaded with good cheer for her guests

She remained equally attractive to her last hour, although in her youth she had been one of the prettiest women of her time. Her daughter, Mme. de Blocqueville lived to be just such another white-haired beauty and was noted in her old age for dressing with consummate taste and elegance.

Where Care Is Required. A woman who wished to have an old gown stiffened with hair cloth engaged to do the work a general utility woman who could do anything in the way of sewing. There was nothing she could not do, and do very well. She put in the haircloth, put fresh velve-teen on the gown, and the owner thereof congratulated herself that it was so well done. The haircloth was put in smoothly, the bottom of the skirt was not pulled out of shape, and the velveteen was not drawn in a way to make the skirt gather, faults that incompetent individuals frequently commit. But the after results were not so good. Before long the skirt began to show here and there a black hair on the outside, sometimes a long one, sometimes a short one. It was untidy, and they were pulled out. Then there were more and more which were also pulled out until a good part of the haircloth was gone and at last most of that remaining had curied over and lay in a wrinkled bunch between the lining and the skirt. Haircloth should be put in most carefully and every edge stitched or bound, and the whole firmly fastened into place, or there is sure to be trouble in the end, and more than double the work that might have been put in in the first place.

Two Bright California Girls. California has two shepherdessesnot of the Dresden china variety but clad in overalls, boots and jumpers, with guns instead of crooks. The two are Gussie and Louise Lahm, aged respectively eighteen and nineteen. They have always lived in Mendocino County. Their father "took up" 10,000 acres of land there and started a sheep ranch. He taught his daughters to ride, shoot, tend sheep and perform other arduous pioneer duties. On his death the girls assumed sole charge of the great sheep ranch, now valued at $50,000. Despite their rough life and many hours a day spent in the saddle cases a certain annual sum to the own- engaged in man's work the girls are gentle and thoroughly feminine in manner and are held in the highest respect throughout the whole county.

There Is Much Excitement in Editorial Life in the West.

Tuesday afternoon last, as we were busy at our editorial table, a stranger entered and began firing at us with two guns. We were too surprised to death. do any dodgirg, and our nearest pistol was ten feet away. It was all over in fifteen seconds, however, and the shooter had fired twelve bullets without even grazing our hide. There were two holes in the back of our chair, three through the stovepipe behind us, and a wall received the other bullets. We rose up after awhile and took the man by the neck and slammed him around until he begged for mercy. He gave his name as Elkins, and said he was on his way from Salt Lake to Prescott. When he arrived here it struck him to try an experiment. He had a curiosity to know whether an editor would fight, and what an editor

That was the first time we had sat down without a gun within reach for five years, and nobody need plan on the idea that we will do it again. Had we been "heeled" Mr. Elkins would now be sleeping with his forefathers. Nevertheless, he got enough at our hands to satisfy him that the editorial fraternity of Arizona is not to be walked on, and that any experiments with the craft may result in springing the bear-trap.

AND Monthly Edition of Living Age. "THE LITERATURE OF THE WORLD." 1899.

FIFTY-FIFTH YEAR.

The Publisher of THE ECLECTIC MAGAZINE begs to announce that the Magazine has been consolidated with the Living Age, and, beginning with the number for January, 1899 will be issued under the title of "The Eclectic Magazine, and Monthly Edition of The Living Age."

The new issue of the Eclectic Magazine will be increased in size to 160 pages monthly, a change which will give to the subscribers 192 more pages of reading matter annually than hitherto. While the Magazine will contain practically the same kind of material as formerly, some changes and additions will be made, which it is believed will largely enhance the value of the publication. To the selection from British periodicals will be added original translations of some of the most noteworthy articles in French, German, Spanish, and Italian reviews. A monthly supplement will give Readings from New Books, and an editorial department of Books and Authors will give the latest news in the literary world.

The magazine will bear the imprint of the Living Age Company, Boston, and E. R. Pelton, New York, and subscriptions may be sent to either address. ress Articles from the Ablest Writers in the World will be found in its pages.

The following list gives the principal periodicals selected from, and the names of some of the well known authors whose articles have recently appeared in the Ectetric.

Leader of Newspapers, like any other originator or pioneer, is never contented except in

The Foremost Position.

When "The Philadelphia Record" untook inneten years ago to demon trate that the best of morning newspapers could be made and sold for one cent, publishers were generally skeptical. But the world of readers was not asleep. Consequently "The Record" was not long in reaching a commanding position, and, improving upon this, its circulation and influence were finally recognized among the foremost of America's great journals. Hence the compliment of imitation which is now paid to it in every city of note from the Atlantic coast to the Mississippi Valley. Every city worth mentioning now has one or more good one-cent morning soliles, though so recently as only 19 years ago. Philadelphia and "The Record" stood alone is this respect.

News Concisely Published without the omission of any essential feature is still the BEST NEWS, not-withstanding the once prevalent tenden-cy to pad it and stretch it out.

The Busy Man's Paper therefore, still originates, still leads, and publishes MORE NEWS to the column than its neighbors of larger dimensions.

THE DAILY AND SUNDAY With their several inimitable and always instructive features in addition to the day's news from all the world, are now almost unrivaled in circulation as in good qualities. With an average daily circulation of over 186,800 copies, and an average of about 120,000 on Sundays, "The Record is still, regardless of all imitation, easily a leader of leading newsnapers. A paper so good, with 10 to 14 pages for one cent, is still very properly a favorite. Though low in price, it is never cheap, but spares no expense that will give its readers the very best and freshest information of all that's going on around them.

THE DAILY EDITION Of "The Philadelphia Record" is sent by mail for $3 per year, or 25 cents per month. The price of the daily and Sunday issues together,

EVERY DAY IN THE YEAR Holidays and all, is $4 per year, or 35 cents per month. Address the Record Publishing Company, Record Building, Philadeiphia, Pa. THE Baltimore American.
