

CHEAP LABOR NEEDED.

D. A. Ray, of the Interstate Commerce Commission, who was executive officer of the Hawaiian Commission last fall, has left Chicago for Honolulu to continue the work of both that body and the United States Coast Survey, which remains uncompleted.

"The mission upon which I am engaged is of a twofold nature," said Mr. Ray before leaving. "The problem of the islands is in a complicated condition, which will require the greatest patience and the most careful investigation to unravel."

"We understand no Chinese have been imported into the islands since the flag was raised last July, but we do know that a great many Japanese have been landed. The conditions under which the raising of sugarcane, coffee and rice must be carried on for a fair profit are such that cheap labor must be obtained from some quarter of the world, and if our contract labor law is made applicable to the islands in the territorial or colonial form of government or by Congress, a great hardship, amounting to the practical killing of great industries will result."

"My instructions are to investigate more fully this question and present a report to the commission before Congress meets next December. It is my opinion that the results of my inquiry and the facts obtained by the members of the commission and personal observation will cause the modification of the immigration laws as applied to the islands to the extent of allowing the importation of Japanese and foreigners other than Chinese, under contract, with the restriction that they are not to be brought from the islands to any other part of the United States."

PRESBYTERIAN REUNION.

The committee of arrangements for the Presbyterian reunion, which is to be held at Pen-Mar on Tuesday, July 25, have about completed arrangements for the reunion. The Rev. R. G. Ferguson, D. D., president of New Wilmington College and former moderator of the United Presbyterian General Assembly, has been secured as one of the speakers. Two or three others of equal prominence will be secured. Among others it is hoped to have Rev. W. W. Moore, D. D., of Richmond, Va., professor of didactic theology in the Union Theological Seminary of Virginia. A large number of the finest singers of Harrisburg have been secured, and, in consequence, the music will be of a very high order.

MEDALS FOR DEWEY SAILORS.

It is stated at the Navy Department that every man attached to the Olympia, Boston, Baltimore, Concord, Raleigh, Petrel and McCulloch during the battle in Manila harbor, regardless of rank or station, will receive a medal of honor.

Two civilians on the McCulloch during the battle rendered active assistance in serving the guns, and they also have been included in the list of those entitled to the medals.

ADMITTED TO BAIL.

Luther Bair, who shot Harry L. Jones in the breast at Pen-Mar on May 30, was given a hearing before Justice Rippe of Hagerstown, last Friday afternoon and held for the November term of court. His bail was fixed at $900, which he gave, his father and brother becoming his surety. Bair's hearing was delayed on account of the critical condition of Jones whose recovery is considered miraculous. The bullet pierced his lung and is still in his back. A hearing could not be held until Jones was able to be present. It is Jones' desire not to prosecute Bair.

A DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

Matthew Pratt and Joseph Raines, farmers, living four miles west of Pulaski, Va., became involved in a quarrel Sunday over a sheep. One word brought on another, until finally both men drew revolvers and commenced firing. Pratt was instantly killed and Raines died of his wounds Monday morning. The men had been on bad terms for some time. Reports are conflicting as to the first cause of the trouble.

Pratt's father was tried at Pulaski two years ago for horse stealing and this probably led to the dispute on Sunday, as all parties were interested in the trial.

DRYING PREPARATIONS simply develop dry catarrh; they dry up the secretions which adhere to the membrane and decompose, causing a far more serious trouble than the ordinary form of catarrh. Avoid all drying inhalants and use that which cleanses, soothes and heals. Ely's Cream Balm is such a remedy and will cure catarrh or cold in the head easily and pleasantly. A trial size will be mailed for 10 cents, large for 50 cents. All druggists keep it. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren Street, New York.

TITLE TO HOTEL PROPERTY.

Mrs. Eugenia I. O. Neal, widow of Samuel S. O'Neal, of Baltimore, has filed a suit in the Circuit Court for Washington county, asking the appointment of a trustee to convey the Cascade Hotel property near Pen-Mar, the title of which is in the name of her husband, to herself. The bill alleges the property was purchased with her money. He left a will which leaves the property to her for life and afterward to her heirs.

IN A LIVING TOMB.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 20.—Ignatz Cosmos, a Polish miner, has been shut in a living tomb since 10 o'clock Monday morning at the Caylor's Colliery, Plymouth, and between him and liberty are hundreds of tons of coal. Whether he will be reached while yet alive is a problem which three shifts of men, keeping at the work of rescue, are continually trying to solve.

Cosmos was doing some special work at what is known as "Kelly Patch," a dangerous part of the mine, when the crash came. He was in a rock cross-heading, which is solid. The cave was of the coal between the heading and along the only exit from it, so that before he can be reached a passage must be made through this fall. Cosmos was aware of the danger, and that is why he went alone.

The cave-in fills up the entire passage-way, and the mass of coal is so loose that the volunteers who responded to the call for help are building a narrow tunnel through it, propping it up with heavy timbers. So narrow is the tunnel that only three men can work in the face of it at the same time, but as soon as they are exhausted other men take their places. The work has not lagged a minute since it commenced.

Although the men are making good progress, they have been driven back four times by falls, and twice narrowly escaped being caught. This morning some of the men say they heard knockings on the wall, indicating that Cosmos is alive.

EDUCATION OF NEGROES.

Missionary Association, though its secretary, Dr. A. F. Beard, is in receipt of reports from many of its educational institutions in the South, especially in Georgia and South Carolina, showing an increased disposition on the part of the whites to attend the commencement exercises of the various schools of the higher grades for the black.

Such attendance has been made by business men, school committees and teachers of the whites and public officials who have expressed sentiments favorable to the idea that the good and substantial elements of both sides in the South have identical interests in maintaining law and order, and all that appertains to the good of the society, the church and the government. Good citizenship, it is declared, can be obtained and exemplified only by a people industrious, moral and intelligent, and no race troubles have been or will be traceable to the schools of the association conducted as they are.

Attendance on these commencement exercises, it has been said, is an earnest of white sympathy with the education of the negroes.

LACE CURTAINS,

Housekeepers with thoughts of home decorations will be interested in this short talk on Lace Curtains. This is cleaning up time on Spring patterns by the manufacturer's agents. We being rather large operators in the disposing of quantities our notice was called to such a clean up, with the result that we put on sale this Tuesday, June 6th, until sold, over at a very considerable reduction on the former price. We will mark them with both the selling price at the regular cost, and the quick moving price at the "clearing up" cost—so that you can more fully see just how much you save on this purchase. As some of the lots are small, the sooner you avail yourself of this buying opportunity the better the choice will be.

G. W. WEAVER & SON.

A GRAND

Opportunity is now presented to the people of Gettysburg and the surrounding country, to visit our elegant new store, (Centre Square,) and examine the wonderful bargains being offered in Clothing, Hats, Shoes, and Gents Furnishing Goods.

We are after the trade of all who need anything in our line, and are offering "Sledge Hammer" arguments in the way of low prices, in order that you may deal with us. We will not misrepresent any of our goods, all we ask of any person is a right to a share of their custom. Expenses are sure in a large establishment like ours, but profits can only be counted on goods sold. A quick profit is the best, be it ever so small. We know this and always make the "Almighty dollar" act as our agent when purchasing stock from the manufacturer, and spot cash is the watchword that guided us through ten years of almost unparalleled business success. Our customers wants are always in view when we buy stock, and we always mark goods with Rock Bottom Figures, thus making a bargain of every article in our stock. If you come from a distance by rail to examine our stock the money you save in purchases will be more than equivalent to a

FREE RIDE

We do not wish to brag, but certainly our great success is the very best evidence that Square dealing, and business-like methods, have been shown in all our transactions with the public.

Now, when we are asking for an increased share of patronage, it would be suicidal for us to misrepresent our stock. We have a large and most complete line of Clothing, Gents Furnishing Goods, Hats, Shoes, and we have also added a large and most complete line of Ladies Wraps, etc., and in spite of the advance in the prices in various grades of goods, we have decided to increase our popularity by offering everything at figures that will compel all to acknowledge us as the "Leaders in Low Prices." If you need anything in our line come to see us. We are always glad to show goods. The prices marked on them will do the rest. If you trade with us, there will be no use to go for bargains, as we guarantee every article in our establishment to be a genuine "Money Saver," and hope by uniform, courteous treatment to merit an ever increasing patronage. Very Respectfully,

A LITTLE BOY SHOT.

Frank Ernest, aged 14 years, son of a widow residing in Brunswick, was arrested and held in $200 bail, charged with shooting and wounding David Roeder, aged 13 years, in Brunswick Monday morning. Ernest claims that the shooting was accidental. The wounded boy was sent to the Johns Hopkins Hospital, in Baltimore, where it was thought he would recover. Roeder left his home to go after cherries and met Ernest on the way. He showed Ernest the pistol, taking the loads out, and, after replacing them, Roeder states he told him he was going to shoot him, which he did. The bullet entered near the naval. Roeder is a son of A. H. Roeder, an engine man on the Valley Division.

Is the Steam Locomotive Doomed? Men who know say that in the next ten years steam locomotives will disappear and electric motors will supplant them. They also say that with the new motive power trains will rush along at a minimum speed of 100 miles an hour. This will prove a blessing to those who wish to go quickly from one point to another, but no more so than Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has proved a blessing to those who wish to go quickly from sickness to health. The Bitters act at once on stubborn cases of dyspepsia, indigestion, biliousness and liver complaint. They improve the appetite, quiet the nerves, and induce sound, refreshing sleep. The trial of a bottle will afford convincing proof. Sold at all drug stores.

PAINFULLY BURNED.

Herbert Keely, employed at the Cumberland Valley Railroad stockyards in Hagerstown, was painfully burned about the face and head by the wick blowing out of a lighted torch which he was holding. The flames ignited his hair and before he succeeded in putting them out by rolling on the ground he was very seriously burned. He is now under the care of a physician.

MURDER BEATEN.

John Shober, aged 17 years, son of Casper C. Shober, was brutally beaten last Saturday night by John Roman and Joseph McCusker, of Hancock, employes of the Cumberland Cement Mill.

McCusker and Roman were drunk and fighting in the road, near Narrows Park, when Shober and his friend, Andrew Hart, who happened by on their wheels, dismounted to see what was wrong. The two fellows, after being separated by an outsider, attacked young Shober. He was badly beaten about the head, his hair being pulled out, and he was kicked in the ribs until he spit blood. Young Hart was also struck. The men were pulled off the boys by outsiders and were themselves badly thumped. They are now in jail.

HAGERSTOWN EXPECTS THE GUN.

Mayor E. M. Schindel, of Hagerstown, has received a letter from Lloyd Lowndes, Governor, in reply to the one sent by the Mayor and Council requesting that the captured Spanish cannon which will be loaned to the State of Maryland be turned over to Hagerstown. Governor Lowndes did not promise to send the gun, but promised to give the matter his careful consideration, as Hagerstown made the first application for the gun, and based its claims on the fact that it sent more soldiers to the war than any other community its size in the United States, and the people in Hagerstown fully expect the trophy ordered to that city.

SELLING WITHOUT LICENSE.

Justice Ward Monday afternoon held nine well-known merchants of Hagerstown, each in $1 bail for the action of the Grand Jury. They were arrested by Constable Rowland for selling without a State or county license. It is said one of the merchants has had on State or county license since 1896. Another, who recently went to Hagerstown, said he did not know it was necessary to take out a license. The excuses given by the other men is that they forgot to take out licenses at the proper time. The licenses for the year expired on May 1. The maximum penalty is $100 fine and costs. The magistrate does not have the power to dispose of the cases, but simply fixes the bail for the action of the grand jury.

THE PEN-MAR TROLLEY.

At a meeting of the directors of the Waynesboro and Pen-Mar Trolley Company, Civil Engineer J. Reilly Weaver submitted profiles and estimates of the two routes under consideration. The advantages greatly in favor of the pike route, and that was adopted by unanimous vote. The finance committee, which was reorganized with C. F. Welby as chairman, was instructed to open the subscription books at once and to proceed to place $50,000 of stock. As soon as this amount is subscribed, it is the intention of the company to begin the grading and push the work ahead to completion. The balance of the money required to complete the road—$100,000—has been guaranteed by Baltimore capitalists, who have agreed to take bonds to that amount.

HIGH SCHOOL ALUMNI.

Mr. G. Lloyd Palmer, principal of the High School, entertained his pupils most pleasantly on Tuesday evening, June 13th.

An organization was formed called the High School Alumni Association with Miss Sallie Miller, a graduate of last year, as the first Alumna. After this the evening was devoted to social enjoyment. A reading by Mr. Palmer, recitation by Mr. Riddle—a guest—and some games. The pupils were then invited to the dining room where a table loaded with good things awaited them.—toasts, quotations and speeches followed. The evening was thoroughly enjoyed by all present and will remain a green spot in the memory of the High School. The evening closed with three rousing cheers for the principal.

A PLAN THAT FAILED.

A bold attempt to escape from the Elkton jail was cleverly nipped by Sheriff J. Ross Conoly on Thursday morning last, the facts of which got out Sunday for the first time. The prisoners who were in the plot were Nelson Biddle and Vaughn Harvey, young white men charged with attempt to kill John Rogers, of Oxford, Pa., and John St. Clair, colored, charged with larceny. The sheriff suspected something wrong for some time past, and on Thursday morning let it be understood that he and his deputy, William McAllister, would be away from home that day. This information was imparted to the three prisoners, who were allowed the freedom of the jail-yard, which is surrounded by a 30-foot stone wall. A small outbuilding was carried toward the east wing of the wall and a ladder was made from several pieces of board which, when placed upon the outbuilding, permitted them to reach the top of the wall. A rope, which was fastened from the inside, was in readiness to allow the prisoners to reach the top of the wall. Biddle was on the top of the wall and St. Clair was in the act of going up the ladder when a trusted prisoner rapped on the jail door and notified the sheriff, who blocked the scheme. William Rasin, colored, a prisoner whose term will shortly expire and who has had the freedom of the premises outside the jail, was the one who kept the prisoners posted as to the movements of the jail officials.

THE END OF BERRY.

John Berry, the negro murderer of Miss Amanda Clark, was hanged in the jail yard of Upper Marlboro last Friday. The drop fell at 10:28 o'clock A. M., and the body was taken down at 10:42. Death was due to strangulation.

The young negro, from the time of his arrival at the jail in Marlboro last Thursday night up to an early hour Friday morning, manifested but little interest apparently in his position. It was shortly before midnight that he told the night guard, John Martin and Harris Martin, that he believed he would go to bed. He looked out of the cell window for a moment, and turning again to the guard, said: "Well, I guess I can sleep. I did the killing, and suppose I ought to suffer for having killed Miss Manda." Pausing for a moment as if reflecting, he continued, "Well, everybody has to die, and it's only once, and it don't make any difference to me." He then leisurely disrobed himself and, tossing himself on the cot beneath the jail window, turned his back to the night watch and apparently fell asleep.

It was about two o'clock A. M., when he turned over and complained of the intense heat and, what seemed to be worse, a swarm of mosquitoes, which having been attracted by the light in the cell, gave great annoyance to the prisoner. The guards dimmed the light and attempted to beat the insects out, after which Berry again lay down to sleep.

At 4 o'clock he arose for the second time, and addressing Keeper Martin, said: "Well, if it hadn't been for the mosquitoes, I would have slept pretty well." After inquiring the time, the prisoner dressed himself and then devoted some time to his rosary and reading his prayer book.

At 8 o'clock Father Trinkhams called at the jail, and Berry seemed to be greatly pleased with his coming. The priest remained about twenty minutes with the prisoner, and told him he would be back to accompany him to the scaffold. It was on the priest's departure that Berry's nerve or bravado showed the first sign of wavering. His breakfast was brought into the cell about 9 o'clock, and it was a tempting repast of beefsteak, sausage and eggs. Berry looked at the food a moment and then began to eat, but certainly not with keen relish. He stopped suddenly, and, thanking the keeper, said he had finished. This sudden stoppage may have been due to the fact that a messenger just arrived had brought a suit of new clothes, in which the prisoner was to be hanged. Berry's quick eye fell upon the bundle, and he asked what it contained. He was told and seemed pleased that he was to be the recipient of such a gift. He at once put on the new clothes. Sheriff Robey handed him a white shirt, turned down collar and a black butterfly cravat. Berry arrayed himself in the garments and said he regretted he had not a glass in which to look at himself.

It was 10 o'clock when Sheriff Robey, accompanied by Deputies James K. Tigh, A. B. Suit and J. A. Clark, entered the jail yard. This was the signal for a crowd outside, numbering several hundred persons, to make a rush for the entrance. They were prevented from entering, however by the sheriff, who after admitting the representatives of the press, closed the gate, telling those in waiting that they would be let in at a proper time.

As Berry stepped out into the yard, he faltered for an instant as his eyes rested on the crowd that surrounded the scaffold. In an instant he turned his looks toward the scaffold. In that second he seemed to take a complete survey of the instrument of death, and then with a fairly steady tread, ascended the steps unaided and took his position on the trap.

Deputy Clark fastened Berry's legs with a stout cord. Deputy Tigh placed the rope around his neck. After adjusting the knot properly, Berry was asked if he had any statement to make. In rather an indistinct tone he replied, "No, sir; I have nothing whatever to say."

Deputy Sheriff Tigh descended the steps, and when about half-way down the staircase signaled Sheriff Robey that all was ready. In an instant there was a "dull thud," the trap swung back and the criminal shot downward the length of the rope. For a moment after the fall his limbs twitched slightly, and his shoulders moved upward. It was but a moment. His feet then hung down, and there was not a visible motion of the body other than the swaying.

High School Commencement

FOUR GRADUATES.—A PLEASING PROGRAMME WELL RENDERED.—ADDRESSES, ETC.

The second annual commencement exercises of the Emmitsburg High School were held in the Opera House Tuesday evening. The stage was specially arranged and decorated for the occasion with flags, flowers and pictures, and above the platform were the words, "Class of '99" in large letters.

The Opera House was crowded with a large and appreciative audience, consisting of the parents, relatives, friends and well-wishers of the young pupils.

Those who occupied seats on the platform were: Rev. W. C. B. Shulenberger, Rev. Charles Reinwald, Dr. Robert L. Annan and the teacher, Mr. G. Lloyd Palmer, and the members of the graduating class.

The programme, from beginning to end, was rendered in such a highly pleasing manner as to call forth frequent applause from the visitors, and those who expected to hear a programme well rendered were not disappointed.

Mr. Palmer, the teacher, is certainly deserving of much praise and congratulation for the successful manner in which the graduates performed their parts, for their every act displayed evidence of thorough training and discipline, reflecting credit upon themselves and their faithful instructor.

The graduates were: Mr. Kremer J. Hoke, Mr. George S. Gillelan, Miss Anna Adelsberger and Miss Maud Derr. The programme follows:—Selection—II. Trovatore, by Mandolin Club; Invocation by Rev. W. C. B. Shulenberger; Salutatory—"Life," by Mr. George S. Gillelan. Mr. Gillelan in the course of his remarks said:

"We have assembled this evening in this formal and recognized mode of dismissal. Without this our course would not be complete. It is a period in our lives we have looked forward to as of much importance. Life is not mean, it is grand. God made it glorious. Around it He spread the glory of the universe, all that is magnificent and grand. Many pass through life without knowing where they are, or what they are doing. Let your eyes and ears be always open so that you may gain advantage every day. Life is undervalued by a great majority in mankind. Sometimes a man will work steadfastly and earnestly, and become famous for wisdom and skill. The world only illustrates that a man may do if he takes hold of life with a purpose. Some because they have had misfortunes sink with discouragement. Never be cast down by misfortune.

"I believe man has himself to blame if he don't succeed in life. The greatest mistake men make is, they don't use good sense in judging what they are fit for, but take what they want, and not what they deserve.

"None of us may ever prove to be a Lincoln, Grant, Edison, or a Dewey, but we can be men and women true to an earnest purpose in life, and by perseverance win for ourselves a place in business, and society that will be a source of pride to our parents, our teacher, and our classmates. What we have done is the result of constant stimulation by our teacher. When we faltered he came to our assistance, and with a helping hand, roused our drooping energies and beckoned us on by explanation, but from now on his duties cease. Circumstances may mark out the line of march, but as soldiers of fortune we must carry our own knapsacks, face the difficulties of life, and press upward and onward."

Music—"Home Is the Word," by the Choral Union. Class History was the subject of Miss Anna Adelsberger, who said in part:

"One bright September morning, a dozen years ago, a class of about fifteen little children assembled for the first time in the Public School House now the Junior Order Hall. Their hearts were filled with hope and fear, everything was so strange and new, and home and mother seemed so far away. The teacher was so kind that they forgot their fears, and soon the little stragglers were busy with books and slates. Looking back, all the days for several years were filled with sunshine, and with occasional sunshowers, such as occurred when one of our number attempted to regulate Miss Hallie's clock.

"The same children together passed second, third and fourth grades, but when they reached the fifth changes came, some fell back, some removed, and a few years later 'the boatman pale' carried the fairest of all 'over the river and they beckon to us from the other shore.' Some have graduated with honor in schools of our own and of other States. When we entered the sixth grade in the new school house but five of the original class were left. One of these is now a successful teacher. Of those who joined us from time to time only two entered High School with us. Then began earnest hard work for six of us. And after many days of delight and sunshine and some of storm and tempest, four of us will to-day have reached our goal and with reluctant feet and sad hearts will leave the school room and bid adieu to schoolmates and teacher.

"We organized a society for mutual enjoyment and improvement, and sometimes we debated on the most important events of the day.

"Could we have spared the time to visit Washington and gained an audience with the President?—The white man's burden' would not have been so heavy, for our men should have had good beef to eat, and the Cuban War would have ended at an earlier day and the Philippine War would not have been, for we would have hurried our preacher through his studies and by his eloquence he would have persuaded the Philippeans that we sought to take possession of their hands, just as we did that of the Indians for their own good, and they would have welcomed our soldiers as brothers.

"Our history would not be complete without acknowledging the encouragement and pleasure we received from the frequent visits of our commissioner, the trustees, the ministers of the various churches and the many friends of the school. In so small a school no class stands alone and all our schoolmates have been pleasant and have helped us to enjoy our brief periods of recreation, and brief indeed they were, for our teacher was always faithful in season and out of season; always ready to assist us in the early morning, at noon or recess, and after school."

Music—"Cradle Song, by the Mandolin Club. Miss Maud Derr's subject was entitled "Prophecy," a few extracts from which follow:

"We as schoolmates have arrived at this period when we separate, and the ways of life open before us. What will the future bring to us? In a dream, as it were, I see the leaves of life turning upon their pages. I can read the possibilities which lie before us. Kremer, for you see a brilliant career as an educator, if your success is to be measured by what we have seen of your power to instruct when serving as a substitute in our school room.

"But now I see another bending over his book. He has a rod in his hand, he believes if you spare the rod you will spoil the child, and so for a year or two, George undertakes to teach the young ideas how to shoot. Teaching, however, will not be your final vocation. In a few years I will see you in a medical school of some kind.

"Several years have passed and in a distant city a lady is hurriedly entering a hall. A placard placed on the outside gives notice of a lecture. The subject, "Wedlock." In my dream, I enter the building, and whom do I see on the platform but Anna, my schoolmate. She has not changed much in appearance, perhaps a little older. The subject is one that seems to be very interesting to the greater part of the audience. As I enter she is uttering these words: "Some say marriage is a failure, but I would rather hear not these words, not that I have any experience myself, but I am trying as I have been all these years to find a man, to find a man, I say, who would accord to women equal rights with man in the battle of life. But the dream is over and we are still the young men and maidens of Emmitsburg High School, completing the course which ends our school days."

Music—"Good Bye Loved Ones," by the Choral Union.

The valedictory was delivered by Mr. Kremer J. Hoke, who said in part:

"It is with mingled feelings of pride and sorrow that I stand before you this evening to make this farewell address. It is a privilege because I have that privilege to say 'farewell' for the class of ninety-nine; a sorrow because we must bid farewell to schoolmates and school days.

"The man who is going to a far off land, bids farewell to friends and home, but does that word have the same impression on his feelings, as it does on those of us to-night? Ah no! my friends! he can hope that a time will come, when he can return to home and friends; but our school days can never return, neither can we be to our fellow pupils what we were once. Our school days here are over and when we look back over those days we see three long years of hard study—long when we think of them in study; but short when we think of them in pleasure. There were times of trials and troubles, and thanks to the unceasing care of the one, who has guided us safely through, but with all these, there were pleasures, which will long be remembered. We are now in the dying twilight of the nineteenth century, yet a short time, and we shall witness the dawning of a new one, and who can tell what it has in store for each and every one of us. Heretofore we have had our way planned out for us. To-morrow, we shall step out on that broad tide of life, on which so many are struggling for success.

"Soon we shall be separated far from one another. Soon there will be others to take our places in the school—new faces seen there—ours be forgotten and time roll on the same as before; but wherever we may go there will be a place in our hearts that is held sacred with the love for the loving ones we knew so well and the school house by the way. In after years, when we return to the school house, strange faces will greet us, time will have wrought its change, there will we see the desks in which we sat, the pictures on the walls will be familiar to us, but alas! those who were so dear to us will be gone and our thoughts will wander back to a time when we were there and to those, who trod those floors and from whom we were now separated. Then will we feel and know the meaning of the immortal words of the poet: 'How dear to my heart are the scenes of my childhood, when fond recollections presents them to view.'

"Soon we will be passing down the stream of life, and each one will be called to take his place in the silent halls of death, so while we linger here let us endeavor to grasp the opportunity while it is before us. We can build fairy castles and fill them with all one's heart can desire, but likely we will see them fade away before our eyes. We will find the world is with us when we succeed, but knows us not when we fail.

"And now, dear teacher, we bid you farewell. It is sad for us to leave you, but you have seen fit to graduate us and we must go. You have labored hard for our success and our success has been your success. Your interest in our success has linked us closer to you and it pains us to leave you. Farewell! and may your vocation in the future be crowned with success.

"Dear schoolmates we bid you farewell. A few more months and some of you will step into our places. Your labors may seem difficult, but be faithful and the time will seem short. A few more years and you will follow us, so now I bid you a sad and last farewell.

"Dear classmates, I bid farewell to you. We have been associated for the past three years, and mingled our thoughts together. We soon must separate and say farewell to one another. May the pleasures we enjoy to-night never be clouded by the sorrows of a mispent life. That temptations will visit us we pass through life, is certain, but may we have courage to withstand them so, that when we reach the 'dark valley of the shadow of death,' our fidelity to principle will be a light that will pierce the veil of obscurity and mark the way to the Great Unknown."

The address to the graduates was delivered by Rev. Charles Reinwald, who gave the young graduates some wholesome advice.

Music—"Good Night," by the Misses Helen, Ruth and Bessie Hoke.

The diplomas were awarded to the graduates by Mr. E. R. Zimmerman, president of the Board of County School Commissioners. Mr. Zimmerman delivered a short address, in which he called the attention of the audience to the noble work being done in this county by the High Schools, and incidentally remarked that many of the graduates are now teachers in the public schools, and whose work in training the young, is equal to those who received their instructions in schools of higher prominence; that in this county there are seven High Schools, all of which are doing excellent work, and that the interest in these schools is steadily increasing with each succeeding year.

The Class Ode was sung by the Choral Union and the pupils of the school. The Benediction was pronounced by Rev. W. C. B. Shulenberger, which brought to a close one of the most successful years in the history of the Emmitsburg High School.

"You May Bend the Sapling, but Not the Tree."

When disease has become chronic and deep seated it is often difficult to cure it. That is the reason why it is best to take Hood's Sarsaparilla when disease first shows itself—in pimples, headaches, indigestion, or other troubles which tell of poor blood, weak stomach or disordered liver or kidneys. This great medicine regulates the whole system. It never disappoints.

MURDER TRIALS TO BE REMOVED.

ROCKVILLE, Md. June 19.—The impression prevails today that the short delay which will be gained by removal of the cases of Aronstead Taylor and John Brown for the murder of the Rosensteins at Sidell, Montgomery county, will be taken advantage of.

Robert B. Peter, counsel appointed by the court to defend Taylor, received a letter Monday afternoon from James Fechtig, of Baltimore, informing him that he had been employed by Taylor to defend him in the coming trial. A short time ago Senator Boic and Mr. G. M. Anderson, counsel appointed to defend Brown, received a communication from George A. Pearce, Jr., another Baltimore attorney, stating that he had been retained by Taylor to defend him, and that their services would not be needed. Judge Henderson stated that, should Brown or Taylor express themselves as having retained these gentlemen when brought here to attend the special term of court, to be held June 26, he would excuse the counsel appointed by the court from any further responsibility in the premises.

Mr. Fechtig, in his letter to Mr. Peter, stated that he had the required affidavit prepared to present to the court asking a change of venue, on the ground that his client would not be able to receive a fair and impartial trial in Montgomery county. The case therefore will be removed to Frederick county for trial, where the same judges will sit upon the case as if tried in Rockville. The removal of the trial to Frederick county, it is thought, will do much to prejudice the cases. The petit jury has been summoned for June 26.—Sun.

A WATCH RECOVERED.

One of the two gold watches stolen from the residence of A. E. Glisan, in Cumberland, two weeks ago, when a series of robberies were committed, was found by the authorities of Youngstown, Ohio, where Lewis Curtley, colored, is under arrest. The watch was found in Curtley's satchel. On the inside of the case was the inscription, "Howard W. Glisan, Christmas Night," which Curtley had tried to deface. Curtley was arrested in Cumberland about two months ago, with a satchel full of valuable jewelry, and silverware in his possession. It was believed the property was stolen, and Curtley was held for carrying concealed weapons, pending an investigation. The goods were returned to him after he had served his sentence, and upon his release the robberies were committed in Cumberland. Curtley was arrested in Baltimore at the instance of the Youngstown (Ohio) authorities, who notified Mr. Glisan of the finding of his watch.

FISHING CREEK CASE.

The attorneys for the Board of Aldermen of Frederick City filed their answer to the application of Dr. Eutaw D. Neighbors for an injunction to prevent the tapping of Fishing Creek to increase the water supply of the city. The answer says that in taking water from the creek in such quantity as will still leave in the creek an ample supply for the reasonable and customary uses of all the riparian proprietors other than mill owners. They further say that they have already made contracts with a number of mill owners along Fishing Creek for the right to tap the creek above the mills upon payment of a stipulated sum, and that they have entered into large contracts to convey the water to Frederick City involving a large outlay of money. The court is asked to dismiss the injunction. The merits of the case will be argued.

The city's contracts for this water, some of which have been completed, aggregate nearly $30,000.

CASTORIA.

For Infants and Children. The Kind You Have Always Bought Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Petter.

To freshen old furniture, wash in lime water; when dry, apply a coat of oil.

Wipe tarnished or fly-specked gas and lamp fixtures with a damp cloth; let dry, then cover with a coat of white paint; when this is dry, re-gild.

Cover pantry shelves and washstands in common use with oilcloth. As it becomes soiled, remove the bright colors and pretty patterns, and if occasionally wiped with a wet cloth, keeps clean and fresh.

When the mica in stoves becomes discolored take out the piece if possible, and put them in a vinegar bath for a few days; then polish with a soft dry cloth. They cannot be removed, rub with a cloth dipped in hot vinegar and polish as before.

To clean a piano, use lukewarm water, white castile soap and a piece of cheese cloth. Wash a small surface, work rapidly, and dry first with a piece of old soft cotton, then with a polish. Go over the woodwork in this way. These directions are given by a piano dealer.

When ink is spilled on a carpet or garment at once cover the place with a thick paste of white flour and water to the depth of an inch and let dry. Or take up with blotting paper, wash well in sweet or sour milk, then cover with white corn meal and leave twelve hours. For dry ink stains, soak in milk, and repeat the above several times.

To make a serviceable covering for a dining-room or kitchen floor, nail, wrong side up, an old Brussels carpet to the floor of the attic or outbuilding, then paint with a coat of linseed oil and burn umber. When thoroughly dry, give a coat of good varnish. Let it lie ten or twelve days. It should be tacked to the floor loosely, as it shrinks during the process. Clean the same as oilcloth.

To brighten gilt picture frames and ornaments, to a pint and a half of water add sufficient flower of sulphur to give a golden tinge; in this boil four or five bruised onions. Strain, and when cold pour the mixture over the gilt. Prepared gilding, carefully applied, will restore tarnished gilding. If broken or defaced, fill with putty before gilding.

A paint that dries quickly, for floors, is made by dissolving with heat three ounces of gum in three quarts of water. Stir well remove from the fire and beat in three pounds of yellow ochre. With a new whitewash brush apply a thick coat. When dry, apply a coat of boiled linseed oil. To all a new hardener, mix one quart of turpentine and one pint of best Japan varnish.

A novice can paint a window sash nearly as well as a professional by using a piece of tin the size of a pane with a handle. Wipe off any adhering paint with a cloth moistened with kerosene. To imitate frosted glass put some putty in cheese cloth and twist the ends to form a pad, then with it pat the glass until well covered with a milky white stain. When perfectly dry give a coat of good varnish.

Wash grained and varnished woodwork with cold tea. If the least bit of soap is necessary to remove finger marks around door knobs, or to clean window sills, rinse immediately in clear water. Soapy water frequently injures graining. In cleaning base boards a short handled mop will do excellent service and save great fatigue. It is also useful in washing the tops of doors that otherwise cannot be reached without a chair or step-ladder.

To wash a pillow or bolster, double a sheet and sew side and ends together, leaving an opening on one end a little more than the width of the pillow. Open pillow, sew the two together and shake the feathers into the sheet. Wash thoroughly in soapuds, rinse, wring with marble and dry in the sun, shaking often to lighten the feathers. Before returning the feathers to the tick, coat the inside of it with thick flour paste and let dry; or, what is better, rub the surface of the tick with molten beeswax, so the fluff and feathers will not work through.

Do not wrap silver or plated ware not in daily use in flannel; it contains sulphur, which is likely to tarnish it. Wrap in blue paper, and then in bleached cotton flannel, and enclose in heavy wrapping paper to exclude the air as much as possible. To polish silver that has become badly tarnished moisten a soft cloth in sweet oil, then with any tested polishing powder rub the silver until the spots have disappeared. Then rub with chamois skin and the powder, and finish polishing with a clean piece of chamois.

Try a mixture of benzine and powdered borax to remove rust from white cloth; for mildew, an application of white chalk and borax. Rub fruit, tea and coffee stains away more easily by dissolving a little borax in the boiling water that is poured through them. When upholstering furniture is infested with moths sprinkle it with powdered borax dusting it well into the crevices. To clean woodwork add a tablespoonful to a pint of hot water and use a flannel cloth. A nice latter for cleaning light woodwork is made by adding about a tablespoonful of the powder to a gallon of water.

For sifting to be used on whitewashed walls before papering, dissolve half a pound of glue in a little hot water, then pour it into a pailful of boiling hot water, stirring carefully until well mixed. Apply hot and let dry a few hours before applying the paper. Take great care to cover every part of the wall. Note that the part near the ceiling and baseboard is not overlooked, as there the moths are most likely to slip. A professional painter gives the following receipt for paste: For a medium-sized room, sift three pounds of wheat flour and mix it into a stiff paste with cold water; stir into it slowly two gallons of boiling water, stirring constantly until it swells and turns yellow. Wither wheat flour makes the best paste. A little carbolic acid is stirred to repel insects.

DEWITT'S Little Early Risers act as a faultless pill should, cleansing and reviving the system instead of weakening it. They are mild and sure, small and pleasant to take, and entirely free from objectionable drugs. They assist rather than compel. T. E. Zimmerman & Co.

BUCKLES AND CLASPS

For Collars and Belts They Are More Numerous Than Ever.

A pretty little fancy, which has not yet been followed except to become common, is the new collar clasp. When summer brings cotton frocks and shirt waists, and with them the prevalence of the ever pretty ribbon crush collar, these buckles and clasps will be found a delightful innovation and a vast improvement on the pernicious, temper ruffling looks and eyes of last season.

The collar clasp is simply a belt clasp in miniature. The designs are as many as the stars of heaven, from jeweled, dainty affairs, only appropriate for dress occasions, to the simple style of two clasped silver hearts or a true lover's knot of silver. The pretty flowered ribbons that are the glory of the sloop windows are sewed into these clasps long enough to go just twice around the throat and clasped in front. Plain white satin ribbon, double faced, too is pretty, with a gold or jeweled clasp, and the fact, which some persons do not seem to realize, that these ribbons, when soiled, may be washed with white soap and water, makes them particularly serviceable.

Some of the ribbon belts, too, are made long enough to go twice around waist. They are very becoming when the waist is slender enough to stand the added size. With the white or bordered or embroidered trimmed shirt waists, which promise to be very popular this season, these ribbon collars and belts will make a pretty finish, and an occasional pleasant relief from the severity of white or the faded and leather belt.

To go with the set for an occasion there are also great possibilities of ornamentation in the sailor hat bands. With the return of the straight around ribbon which is the best of fashion dictates for this summer, the practicability of changing ribbons on the hats is much increased. These match the collar and belt are saved into them, and two bits of hat elastic running from under the bow to the back end of the ribbon makes it possible to slip it off the hat when it is to be changed for another color.

Art of Living Down Tires. The people who stay young longest and are most attractive, whether young or old, are those who do things that they ought to do, not from a sense of duty, but because it is a pleasure.

The woman who stays up late at night to nurse a sick friend, or to finish a dozen shirts for the heathen, because duty alone prompts, while it is a weariness of the flesh only sustained from the severity of the work, she is doing herself and the relative, or the heathen wrong. She is dragging through a task which is repugnant to her, and she shows in her face before many years have passed, lines indicative of unnecessary worry.

Contrast with the nervous, hurried woman the wholesome, red-cheeked matron who "takes things easy." It is not necessary to neglect home or husband to this, for she does quite as much in her way as the woman who is always "rushed to death." The one who lives by conscience feels that she must do by her neighbors as they do by her, and consequently her friends receive invitations to dine at her house even when they find the hostess in a state bordering on nervous prostration. She must return the hospitality she has received at any cost, and if her income is limited she will make up the deficiency by overwork and overworry. Her friends know this, and it is a trial for them to dine at her house.

It is absurd to say that one hasn't time to take care of one's self or must not offer personal care than one receives. There is no charity that does not flow from love. If one makes undergarments for the heathens because she wants to, her complexion will not suffer.

It should be part of a woman's duty to beautify herself. A man's love may not wane because his wife has grown ugly, but it is apt to suffer if she has deteriorated into a nervous wreck.

TO START A POULTRY FARM.

Australian Ideas That are Practical in Any Section—Amount of Land Needed.

The first thing to be considered in starting a poultry farm is the site. This should be, if possible, on a nice slope; if the ground is level it should be drained.

The question of soil is an important one and should be considered. Some people think "any kind of land will do." There is a little truth in this, but not the whole truth. Grass land is the best, providing there is sufficient drainage, so that it will not remain damp after rain. The best soils are gravel or sand; and the best, as it keeps clean longer, sandy soil after every shower looks clean, through the rain washing the droppings into the sand. On clayey or sticky soils the droppings remain on the top and are damp for several days after rain.

With stiff, clayey soil poultry culture is a difficult task; with sandy soil we are more likely to be successful, for after a fall of rain all impurities are carried off and the yard seldom becomes foul.

If the poultry breeder raises his stock on stiff, clayey soil he will be compelled to dig and turn over his yards every season; on the other hand, sandy soils will not require to be turned over, and the result is that pens have a good coating of grass and the rainfall be fair most of the droppings will be used up by the grass after rain has dissolved it and washed it down to the roots of the grass.

As to the amount of land needed, it is just that area that can be taken care of and no more. In beginning a poultry farm it is always best to own the land or make arrangements for a long lease. It is better to have an acre from month to month or quarter to quarter, for no person cares to erect buildings, pens, yards, etc., on land that he might be asked to leave just when he had got everything into shape.

After securing the land, the first item is houses. These can be built near or far from the pens, and should be erected in such a manner as to be comfortable and warm during the winter months.

The most important part of a poultry farm is the floor; if this be not properly made, no matter how well the rest of the house is constructed, it cannot be suitable. A damp, uneven, or a damp house. The floor should be raised fully ten inches above the yard or outside ground. A good plan, when the house is erected, is to fill the house inside with broken stones, gravel or clean run, to a depth of five or six inches, then three or four inches of good stiff clay on top, well rammed down and sanded on top. Cement or asphalt makes a better and neater floor; still, the earth floor, made as we have said, of broken stones, etc., will suit just as well, besides being cheaper.

All poultry houses should be perfectly rain-proof, so that the floor will always be dry; if not, the atmosphere of the house can never be pure and healthy.

The size of the house will depend on the number of fowls the owner intends to keep. As a general rule, for a rooster and six hens of the larger South American, when a drier named Hooper made seven descents to a depth of over 200 feet, remaining at one time forty-two minutes under the water. An authority states that the greatest depth to which a man has ever known to descend does not exceed 220 feet; which is equivalent to a pressure of eighty-eight and one-half pounds to the square inch.

FANATICS IN NEW YORK

One Proclaimed Himself God and Found Many Believers.

In New York City, about 1832, a period of "great awakening" that began in the West and spread to many other sections among them one in Kentucky, whose members, in order to win heaven by making themselves as little children, used to crawl on their hands and knees in church, play marbles, trundle hoops, and other childish games, and in their maddest—one Matthews, a carpenter, having assumed the name Matthias, proclaimed himself to be God, the Father. He found believers, most of them ignorant, some intelligent, and proceeded much more rapidly than any other persons. He and his disciples claimed to heal the sick quite as successfully as the Scientists now do.

One of them, Mr. Pierson, a victim of religious delusion, claims that before the coming of Matthias, had endeavored under most distressing and pathetic circumstances publicly to raise his wife from the dead, accepting literally the verse of the General Epistle of St. James directing the sick to anoint and pray for over the sick, and praying that "the Lord shall raise him up."

Matthias, being eventually indicted for procuring $630 from Mr. Folger under the false pretense that he was God, able to remove sins, and would communicate the Holy Ghost to said Folger, the District Attorney entered a nolle prosequi for these reasons: To maintain the indictment, he said, I must prove that defendant's pretenses were false, and would deceive a man of ordinary intelligence and prudence, but no sane person would believe that Matthias was God. Matthias was, however, convicted on lesser charges.

Every Where You Think of It. At a small party the other evening these present were asked to name the most common end at the same time the most complicated action in the human phenomena, says the New York Times. Various answers were given, showing all degrees of observation and thought. Not one, however, hit upon the answer that the questioner had in mind, which was walking. What action is more common, and yet, how difficult of analysis! How many persons outside of some special course in physics at the universities can explain the phenomenon? Let somebody try. "Walking," once said Dr. Holmes, "is a perpetual falling, with a perpetual self-recovery. It is the most complex, violent, and perilous operation which we devise of our extreme danger only by continual practice from a very early period of life. We find how complex it is when we attempt to analyze it. We learn how violent it is when we walk against a post or a nail in the sidewalk. We discover how dangerous it is when we slip or trip and come down, perhaps breaking or dislocating our limbs, or overlooking the last step of a flight of stairs, and discover with what headlong violence we have been hurrying ourselves forward." All this is very true, as we all know, to our sorrow, still, the general autocrat has not explained the phenomenon.

The Color of the Ear. Everybody knows the fresh, wet smell of the earth after a rain, a smell noticeable at times, though less frequent, in the city. Dr. C. H. Nuttall has discovered that the smell is of microbial origin. He has not only found the bacteria and given them the pleasing name of "cladethrix ordiformis," but has produced them by artificial culture in which a dirty, discolored, aceticolor in gelatine. The microbes develop only in moist surroundings. In dry dust they merely remain latent or in a state of suspended animation.

The Diving Record. The greatest diving feat ever achieved was in moving the cargo of the ship Cape Horn, wrecked off the coast of South America, when a diver named Hooper made seven descents to a depth of over 200 feet, remaining at one time forty-two minutes under the water. An authority states that the greatest depth to which a man has ever known to descend does not exceed 220 feet; which is equivalent to a pressure of eighty-eight and one-half pounds to the square inch.
