ON ANTIETAM BATTLEFIELD.

A monument to the memory of the sons of Maryland who were the blue and the gray, and who fell in the battle of Antietam, was dedicated on Wednesday, in the presence of thousands of people.

Distinguished men from both sides in the conflict of 38 years ago joined in helping Maryland to carry out the idea of a reunited country by honoring the dead sons of the State who fell in opposing conflict. Great throngs were present at the exercises of the day. Thousands gathered from the surrounding country, traveling in vehicles of all descriptions, which were packed upon the highways and in vacant fields near the monument and the National Cemetery at Sharpsburg.

Across the Hagerstown pike from the monument and in front of the old Dankard Church, which stood out prominently in a glistening coat of whitewash, was erected the speakers' stand. The old church, with its memories of the fierce conflict which surged around it during the Civil War, was the center for curious visitors. About it were grouped big dining tents and smaller tents for receiving the visitors.

Governor Smith, Adjutant-General Saunders and a party of the Governor's personal friends were the first of the official visitors to arrive upon the scene. They inspected the monument and its surroundings and then awaited the coming of the President, who arrived later from Washington.

President McKinley and his party reached the battlefield in a special train of three private cars over the Baltimore and Ohio and the Shenandoah Valley roads from Washington.

With the President were secretaries Root, Long, Gage, Wilson and Hitchcock, Attorney-General Griggs, Private Secretary Cortelyou, General Longstreet, Mrs. Longstreet, Col. J. W. Fairfax, Gen. Joseph Wheeler, Admiral Melville, Gen. E. A. Corman, Gen. A. W. Greely, Gen. H. V. Boynton, Surgeon-General Sternberg, Colonel Bingham, Senators Daniel, Lodge, Kean, Fairbanks, Clark (Wyo.) and Hawley, Representatives Geo. B. McClellan (N. Y.), Mahon (Pa.), Brosius (Pa.), Baker (Md.) and Denny (Md.).

Senator McClellan met the members of the party at Hagerstown and accompanied them to the monument. President Benjamin F. Taylor and William Gibson, of the Monument Commission, accompanied the Presidential party from Washington. They were joined later by Subtreasurer Sloan.

The party made a tour of the battlefield in "busses" and returned in the special train after the exercises. All the guests of the State were entertained at luncheon in a big tent which was set up near the monument.

Addresses were delivered by President McKinley, Governor Smith, of Maryland; Hon. Elihu Root, Secretary of War; Gen. H. K. Douglas; Gen. James Longstreet; Senator Daniel, of Virginia; Hon. George B. McClellan, son of General McClellan and others.

The great solar eclipse was observed with unusual success in various parts of the South. The government had expeditions at Barnesville, Ga., and Pinehurst, N. C.; the Johns Hopkins University had observers at the latter place, and other universities had expeditions at various places, all of whom secured good photographs and valuable scientific data.

CAN COMPETE FOR FOREIGN TRADE.

The American manufacturers are boasting of their ability to undersell foreign manufacturers in their own markets, while they cannot do it at home without protection. It seems that we can grind wheat into flour cheaper than other people can. Of this the Chicago Record says:

It is predicted in London that unless conditions change American flour will soon compel the closing of the mills of England. In France American flour is able to pay the high tariff duties and profitably compete with French-milled flour. It is claimed that American millers can grind the wheat into flour cheaper than British or French millers. A comparison of the ordinary flour mills of European countries with those of the United States carries out this assertion. Long ago in this country the old-fashioned grist mill gave place to the merchant mill and the roller process took the place of the grinding process. Water power and steam engines of the most efficient and economical character are being used as a motive power. In fact, in America the milling industry has been reduced to the most economical methods. Judging from the London statement, there is a feeling in England that the ability of American millers to compete with those of England is in some degree due to the favoring discriminations of railroads. It is not clearly stated that these discriminations are conceded by the English railroad companies, but this statement is continually made.

A Card of Thanks.

I wish to say that I feel under lasting obligations for what Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has done for our family. We have used it in so many cases of coughs, lung troubles and whooping cough, and it has always given the most perfect satisfaction, we feel greatly indebted to the manufacturers of this remedy and wish them to please accept our hearty thanks.—Respectfully, Mrs. S. DORR, Des Moines, Iowa. For sale by T. E. Zimmerman & Co., Druggists.

GERMANY A MONEY-LENDER.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The State Department has received from Consul General Guenther, at Frankfurt, some statistics showing the amount of German capital expended in the transoceanic countries. The report states: "Germany is rapidly rising in importance as a money-lending, as well as a money-making, nation. It has hundreds of millions in various portions of the globe. In North Africa Germany has invested nearly $3,000,000. In South Africa the German element has lost its identity as part of the empire, immigrants having taken on new citizenship. Investments in Cape Colony are estimated at nearly $10,000,000; in the Transvaal at $170,000,000; in East Africa, $23,000,000; in Asia, exclusive of Turkey, $160,000,000 has been expended; in Mexico the figures are $95,200,000; in Central America, $59,500,000; in the West Indies, $50,500,000.

"In South America the investments are estimated at $261,800,000; in North America, at between $952,000,000 and $1,190,000,000. Altogether, the German empire has nearly $2,380,000,000 working for the welfare of its citizens in various parts of the world."

CHICKEN GETS $500 MEAL.

George Foster, an elderly and wealthy farmer in Richmond, Mo., near St. Louis, was feeding his chickens recently. He was shelling the corn for them from the cob with his fingers. One of the many chickens caught sight of the $500 diamond ring which he has long worn. Thinking this more promising than corn the fowl picked at it. The diamond was broken from its setting and the chicken swallowed the stone.

In his astonishment Foster lost sight of the diamond-eating chicken, and now for the life of him, he cannot locate it. Mr. Foster would like to have his diamond back, but can see no way to recover it except by killing his 300 chickens, all of fine breed.

SENATOR WELLINGTON, of Maryland, addressed the Senate in favor of passing the Teller resolution expressing sympathy with the Boers, and in the course of his speech accused the United States Government of being in alliance with Great Britain.

INDUSTRIAL MATTERS.

The improvements the George's Creek Coal and Coke Company will make at the new mining town of Farmington, which they have established near Fairmont, include 200 dwelling houses and a four-story brick store building. A number of the dwellings have already been completed. The plant will be one of the most complete in the world.

An extensive land deal was made in the vicinity of the company's new holdings last week, a tract of 23,000 acres passing into the hands of Pennsylvania capitalists, the price ranging from $5 an acre upward, according to location. The land is on the new survey made by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad down Fishing Creek.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company is now building the Raccoon Creek railroad from Newburg on the main line up Raccoon Creek to Austen, four miles. The new road is being built to accommodate the Austen Coal and Coke Company, the Orr Coal and Coke Company and the Gorman Coal and Coke Company, Senator Gorman being interested in the latter. The road taps a new coal field of 35,000 acres.

Work is now being vigorously pushed on the cut-off. A large gang of Italians is working in the neighborhood of Patterson's Creek and a force of colored men commenced work at the other end.

CARGO OF PURPLE ORE.

PHILADELPHIA, May 28.—An interesting cargo from Asia Minor, consisting of purple ore dug on the site of the ancient city of Telmessus, has arrived at this port by the Norwegian steamship Earnford, from Macri. The entire consignment is to be used in the manufacture of paint. The loading point of the Earnford was a small place in the Gulf of Macri, fifty-two miles east-northeast of Rhodes. The entire cargo was dug out of an amphitheater, which historians say had a seating capacity of 20,000 persons. By volcanic eruptions a large part of the town was destroyed, and the earth in the vicinity transformed into a mass of ore, for which there is a demand from all parts of the world.

The loading place was an open roadstead, there being no wharves in the vicinity. Vessels make fast to trees on the banks of the gulf, to prevent being driven out to sea while loading their cargoes.

GAMBLING DEVICES.

State's Attorney Glenn H. Worthington, having his attention called to the large number of gambling machines in Frederick county which have recently been introduced here, states that the operation of them is in violation of the law against gambling and anyone keeping or in any manner managing the machines for use, or any person who shall have any interest in the profits of the machines, is amenable to the law.

The penalty is a fine not exceeding $500, one-half of which goes to the informer, or one year's imprisonment in the county jail. The State's Attorney has advised those who are operating the gambling devices to discontinue their use immediately or suffer the penalty of the law.

A single microbe contains the germ of the most malignant maladies. The blood is the means by which microbes are sent on their deadly mission. Small at first, the microbe soon becomes a giant. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the arch-enemy of all germs of whatever nature. Its small doses master these microbes by dissolving and passing them off as refuse of the system.

Rather Absent-Minded.

A West Hoboken, N. J. man started to build a chicken coop the other morning. He constructed the floor first and then stood on it and nailed up the side boards from the inside. After he finished the work to his satisfaction, he found that he had left no place by which he could get out, the only opening in the coop being all right for a chicken, but hardly large enough for a man. The coop was uncovered, but he could not climb up the sides and he was not able to pry off any of the boards with his hammer. So he had to shout for help. After the neighbor who heard his cries had finished laughing he demolished a part of the coop and the builder was set at liberty.

WHAT ONE MAN FOUND OUT.

Indeed it hasn't been one man, but thousands, and not men alone, but women and boys and girls and even children that have found out that many a headache was in reality an eye-ache, caused by strained eyes, brought on by eyes that should have been protected and helped by proper glasses.

And just a word about glasses: The eye is a peculiarly delicate organ, so sensitive that you should never allow anyone to prescribe glasses for you whom you don't know to be eminently fitted by study and years of experience. Some disorders of the eyes require the professional treatment of an oculist, while many defects can easily be remedied by a careful, experienced optician.

We are opticians, not oculists, but we are careful, experienced and thoroughly reliable. We will examine your eyes free of charge, and furnish you with the proper glasses at a moderate cost, or if your eyes need an oculist's attention, we will frankly tell you so. No one but a member of our firm examines your eyes here, hence you can be sure of the most scientific, painstaking methods only being employed.

CONSTABLE ASHBRAUGH has entire control of the "race track," and will manage it to the best interests of the town. On last Saturday night two gentlemen speeded their horses on West Main street. They are now "stock-holders" in the race track.

Governor Smith has set July 27 as the date for the hanging of Robert T. Wyatt for the murder of Capt. Oliver M. Cault, of the sloop Dream, of St. Michaels, and August 3 as the date for the hanging of Amos B. Smith, colored, for the murder of Sadie James, colored.

CARDINAL GIBBONS will visit Frederick June 10 and confirm a large class in St. John's Church. A public reception will be given him in St. John's Library on Monday evening and a lawn fete held on the campus by a committee of ladies of which Mrs. L. Victor Baughman is chairman.

CUT HIS WIFE'S TOE OFF. Because Ann, wife of Frederick Polk, colored, of Iron Hill, Md., has been complaining of a corn on her toe, Frederick seized her Tuesday morning while at the wood-pile and cut the toe off. Both are over 90 years of age.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

The following have been appointed trustees of the public schools in this place: Dr. R. L. Annan, M. F. Shuff and Oscar D. Frailey.

It is reported that an effort will be made to have school grounds in this place, enclosed with a neat fence.

THE LABOR ORGANIZER.

While the striking Maryland miners, having exhausted their little savings, are compelled to accept alms, the organizer is walking about wearing a pink negligee shirt, carrying a gold-headed cane and living on the fat of the land. There are many queer things about a strike.—Fred. News.

PAPER MILLS BURNED.

At an early hour Monday morning fire destroyed the paper mills of York Haven Paper Company, at York Haven, eleven miles from York, Pa. Loss $100,000. Origin unknown. About 150 employees will be thrown out of work temporarily. The building was of brick, 150x125 feet in dimensions. Fully insured.

MR. HARRY B. WITTER stated that in the box which he sent to State Entomologist Johnson on Sunday, 13, were nearly a thousand pea lice, and only three larvae of the "lady beetle." Mr. Witter knew that the latter were enemies of the pea louse, but did not think they could eat so many lice as were in the box in so short a time. According to State Entomologist Johnson's letter, however, the larvae managed to get away with the entire lot of lice before the box reached him.

LAST fall I sprained my left hip while handling some heavy boxes. The doctor called on said at first it was a slight strain and would soon be well, but it grew worse and the doctor then said I had rheumatism. It continued to grow worse and I could hardly get around to work. I went to a drug store and the druggist recommended me to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I tried it and one-half of a 50 cent bottle cured me entirely. I now recommend it to all my friends.—F. A. BABCOCK, Erie, Pa. It is for sale by T. E. Zimmerman & Co., Druggists.

DUG UP A SKELETON.

While razing an old house preparatory to commencing work on the tunnel on the Baltimore and Ohio cutoff to be built between Patterson's creek and Pinto, workmen found under the floor a skeleton, believed to be that of a boy about 16 years old. The house stood between Plum Run and the old furnace and it is not known who occupied it last. No one is able to offer a solution of the mystery. The skeleton was re-interred by the workmen and the place marked. The skeleton had been buried about two feet below the surface.

BLUE AND GRAY.

The blue and gray joined hands in the observance of Memorial Day in Cumberland. The business houses all closed at noon. Wednesday morning committees from Tyler Post, No. 5, Grand Army of the Republic and James Breathed Camp, United Confederate Veterans, decorated the graves in the various cemeteries. In the afternoon the two organizations, with the Spanish War veterans, the South Cumberland Band leading, marched to the Academy of Music, where the formal exercises were held. The memorial address in behalf of James Breathed Camp, Confederate Veterans, was made by ex-Congressman William M. McKaig.

MOUNTAIN RESORTS.

The managers of the Cumberland Valley and Maryland Telephone Companies met at Blue Ridge Summit and arranged for connecting by telephone all the mountain resorts about Pen-Mar. The Maryland line has now been extended to Thurmont, where it connects with the Westminster system, which will shortly be built to Baltimore. The Cumberland Valley's line extends east as far as Konersville. This line will be built on up to Monterey and Blue Ridge Summit and there connect with the Maryland's line. An exchange will be established on the mountain, probably at the Summit. Work on these new extensions will begin in a few days.

DELEGATES TO CONVENTION.

The Emmitsburg District Democratic primary meeting was held in Spangler's Opera House, last Saturday evening. The meeting was called to order by Dr. J. B. Brawner, chairman of the District Central Committee. Mr. E. S. Toney was elected chairman of the meeting, and Mr. E. H. Rowe, secretary. The delegates appointed to attend the County Convention which will meet in Frederick tomorrow, follow: Edw. S. Toney, Dr. J. B. Brawner, C. T. Zacharias, W. H. Troxell, E. H. Rowe, John T. Cretn, Dr. John McC. Foreman, Eugene L. Rowe, John T. Long, J. Henry Stokes, Isaac Bowers, Dr. James A. Mitchell, E. L. Frizell, M. F. Shuff and Wm. Morrison.

ALLEGED MOONSHINER.

William Pritts, aged 63, was arrested last Saturday by internal revenue officers, charged with operating an illicit distillery in the Glades of Garrett county. It is charged that he has been a moonshiner for 20 years and always successful in dodging arrest. His two sons were arrested last fall and are now in jail. The father was wounded at the time, but he escaped. It is said an old charge against him of killing Hostetter will be revived.

Pritts denies that he was engaged in making moonshine for 20 years, nor has his boys, in whose case the jury last week disagreed. He says he knows nothing of the Hostetter murder. He says Hostetter was no enemy of his and there would be no reason for murdering him. He has friends, it is said, who can furnish unlimited security.—Sun.

AFTERNOON OF MEMORIAL DAY.

Quite a number of persons remained in town all day on Memorial Day, for the purpose of attending the Free Entertainment previously announced to be given on the Public Square in the afternoon of that day. The programme for the occasion was carried out as advertised, with the exception of the time for the beginning of the entertainment.

The Harney and Emmitsburg Cornet Bands paraded the streets playing choice musical selections, nearly the entire afternoon.

It was after 4 o'clock when the Rev. D. H. Riddle stepped out on the porch of Hotel Spangler and introduced to those assembled Charles Duncan, Esq., of Gettysburg, a member of the Adams county bar, who had been secured to deliver an address. The speaker was attentively listened to and frequently applauded. His speech was highly patriotic.

Later in the afternoon Prof. Brinkerhoff, of Gettysburg, arrived with his phonograph and entertained the audience with four selections. After which there was an intermission until 7 o'clock, when the instrument was again brought into use and kept running until after 10 o'clock. The machine attracted a large number of people to the Public Square, who highly enjoyed the selections given.

VERDICT "NOT GUILTY."

The trial of John F. Bateman, suspected of being implicated in the death of Hoskin Morris, colored, on December 6, 1899, occupied the Circuit Court for Charles county Saturday. The prisoner elected to be tried before Judge George C. Merrick, sitting as the court alone. The evidence showed that the negro was last seen in company with the prisoner, when they left Owen's Mill together. Bateman was shortly afterward in Port Tobacco and stated to a number of persons that Morris fell out of the ox cart and was run over and killed. The State endeavored to prove the killing by a blow with a brass knuckle found on the prisoner when he was arrested. Drs. Digges and Owen testified that while it was possible, it was not probable, that death resulted from any such cause. The court adjudged Bateman not guilty. Congressman Sydney E. Mudd was counsel for the accused.

ON TICKET OF LEAVE.

The trial of Walter Angell and Harry Feeser, charged with the robbery of Judge Harry M. Clabough's country home, "Autrim," near Taneytown, on the night of April 7 last, was set down for last Saturday in the Circuit Court for Carroll county. Both young men were on bail for the sum of $500 each. Feeser failed to respond when called and his bail was forfeited. His father was his bondsman. Angell, who was present in court, pleaded not guilty. The case was proceeding to trial by a jury, when his lawyers consulted and a plea of guilty was entered, in which he asked the mercy of the court. Judge Clabough, who was present, and a number of other citizens testified to the former good character of Angell, whereupon the Court released him on a ticket of leave.

AGE LIMIT FOR PENSIONS.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock has rendered a decision which will be of interest to a certain class of pension claimants. The question arose under the statute giving a pension to children under 16 years of age at the date of the disabled father's death, and under the statute limiting the time for filing claims for pension. The Secretary holds that section 4702 of the revised Statutes, granting a pension to minor children, does not require that the application therefor be made before the child attains the age of 16, and that the act of March 3, 1879, limiting the time for filing claims for pensions is not applicable to claimants who were under 16 years of age on July 1, 1880.

In consequence he directs the Commissioner of Pensions to proceed with the consideration and decision of these claims in all instances where the claimant was under 16 years of age July 1, 1880.

SUDDEN CALL.

George E. Powell, aged 74 years, who had been ill with the grip and who was supposed to have recovered, was walking in his yard Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock, in Berlin, Md. He hailed one of his neighbors, saying he felt better and stronger. Then he said: "I am falling." He fell, and died instantly. By thrift and economy he had acquired a fair competency. He was a prominent citizen, popular and highly esteemed. He leaves one son and two daughters, all married, and a widow, to whom his death came with such a blow that she is greatly prostrated. Mr. Powell was buried Tuesday afternoon in St. Paul's Cemetery, Rev. S. Gibson Gantt, his pastor, officiating.

A CHURCH NURSERY.

The Baltimore Sun of Monday says: "A church creche, or nursery, is to be established in connection with the Seventh Baptist Church for the benefit of mothers who are prevented from attending church services by the care of little children. Rev. Dr. J. Howard Eager, the pastor of the church, has secured the consent of the deacons of the church to the undertaking, and all that remains to be done is for the members of the Ladies' Society to carry into effect the plans Dr. Eager has suggested.

These include the appointment of a committee of eight ladies from the society, who will be in charge of the creche on successive Sundays, each member of the committee superintending it in turn. This committee will employ a reliable nursemaid, one who has had experience in caring for children and one who will know what to do in an emergency. The actual care of children will be intrusted to the nurse. The member of the committee who happens to be in charge of any particular day will be expected to be at the church some time before the hour for the service to begin, to meet the mothers and to see that the children are given over to the care of the nurse.

"The room in which the little tots in the Sunday-school have their services will be turned over to the babies. Contributions for toys have been asked for from the children of the church, so that the children can be entertained while their mothers are enjoying the sermon and the church music. Cots or mattresses will be added to the equipment, so that if the children want to take a nap they can do so with some comfort.

"Dr. Eager plans to open the creche as soon as the necessary arrangements can be made. If it proves successful he proposes to let it develop eventually into a kindergarten which will take the place on week-days of the Sunday nursery. Dr. Eager got the idea of the church creche during a long residence abroad."

SHOOTING CASE.

Samuel Ridgely, who was arrested last Thursday in Baltimore pursuant to a telegram from the Sheriff of Dorchester county, is charged with assault upon Lawrence Davis, colored, who is now confined in Cambridge Hospital suffering from a wound in the thigh. He was wounded on Monday while the vessel was lying near the mouth of the Potomac river and did not receive medical assistance until it reached Cambridge.

Ridgely fired at Davis once in the morning, the load carrying away a piece of his hat, and later in the afternoon shot him in the thigh when Davis was but five feet distant. Ridgely, who was acting as captain of the schooner Kate McFamara at the time, laughed when the wounded man fell to the deck and was carried to the cabin by his companions. He neglected to notify the authorities of the wounded man's condition, and although the wound is not serious yet Davis has suffered much pain. When the Sheriff attempted to make the arrest the man escaped in his boat and was not overtaken until he reached Baltimore.

HARNEY ITEMS.

HARNEY, May 30.—The home of Mr. Andrew Stonesifer was saddened on last Sunday by the death of his wife. In the morning Mrs. Stonesifer was feeling well and was out on the porch. In a few minutes she went into the house, complained of feeling bad, and before medical aid could be secured her form was cold in death. Interment took place on Tuesday morning at the U. B. Cemetery. The services were conducted by Rev. J. O. Clippinger.

Mr. Chas. H. Kemper met with a serious bicycle accident on last Sunday. He was on a tour notifying the friends of the above deceased, and between Littlestown and Harney the front fork broke off at the steering head, giving Mr. Kemper a very hard throw and injuring his face very badly.

Our band took part in the Memorial Day services in Emmitsburg, on Wednesday.

Mr. Wm. Bricker will succeed Mr. Glenroy Hess as clerk in M. R. Snider's store.

This week's visitors are Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lightner, of Baltimore; Gust Heubner, Miss Cora Z. Herr, and Mr. Zeigler, of York, Pa.

MEMORIAL DAY.

Interesting Services—Music, Speech and Flowers.

Notwithstanding the threatening condition of the weather on Wednesday morning, the Memorial services were well attended. People from various sections of the surrounding country came to town early in the morning to take part in the services and witness the commendable custom of decorating the graves of the honored heroes, who have passed to their reward, with garlands of nature's sweet scented flowers.

The memorial services, which were under the auspices of Arthur Post, No. 41, G. A. R., were held in the Opera House, beginning shortly after 9 A. M. Mr. James B. Black, Commander of the Post, called the meeting to order and made a few remarks appropriate to the occasion, after which the programme was carried out in the following order: Singing, "America," by the Emmitsburg Choral Union; Invocation by D. H. Riddle, pastor of the Presbyterian church; Singing, "Sweetly Rest," by Choral Union.

The orator of the day was Rev. Charles Reinwald, pastor of the Lutheran church. Mr. Reinwald spoke as follows:

"It seems like a dream that almost four decades have come and gone since the message of Fort Sumpter's fall electrified the North.

"The day of nullification acts, compromises and shadowy subterfuges had gone forever by.

"Secession appealed to the stern arbitrament of the sword so soon to flash and fall on many a fiercely contested field.

"Promptly, the flower of American manhood flocked from the mountains and surged from the valleys to decide an issue now trembling in the balance. Battalions in blue went forth to try armed conclusions with legions of gray. It was a time that tried men's hearts as our veterans can readily recall.

"The great centers of population first heard the bugle call, but their rural friends were by no means last getting into line beneath the folds of the old flag. The news ran through the ranks of North and East and West faster than the fiery cross traveled through Scottish highlands.

"The farmer left his plow in the furrow, the mechanic his bench, the merchant his counter, the student his books, and hastened to the nearest recruiting station. State vied with State, and city with city, in sending her blue-clad boys to the front.

"Then it was the dreadful notes of preparation were heard in all quarters. 'Pathetic scenes were witnessed—even such as move hard hearts and bathe bronzed faces with tears. For patriotism, like religion, calls for no scant sacrifice.

"Anguish and suffering made large demands in the dark days of '61 and '5, as mothers girded their boys to the fray, giving a tearful farewell blessing, then turning to their closest to weep and pray. The young wife gave her husband—speeding his steps to the scene of battle—thereby consigning herself to the harder sacrifice of suspense and solitude. The maiden surrendered her lover, praying, amid tears, for a safe and quick return, but fearing the reverse, which so frequently came too true.

"In those exciting days of the war's impulse and imitation men had no adequate sense of the serious strain to be endured by the government of this fair Republic. The country of Washington and Webster was passing through the fire of a crucial test.

"Not a few, indeed, had surmised that the war would be of brief duration. Perhaps a few months at most. A few skirmishes—some minor perils on the far flung battle line—and then the flash of victory, crowned with the applause of friends. Alas! Such was the dream of many a soldier who was doomed to struggle for life in the hospital—pray for home—at least for one more caress and kiss from loved ones, ere his eyes forever closed in the prison pens of Libby or Andersonville! Little did he dream on the day of his departure from home—what are the fearful demands of war, the sting of defeat; the heart sickness of hope deferred.

"You veterans have been recollections of those days. From the first fight at Manassas, all the way to the fall of Richmond the days and weary months pulsated with the story of suffering, siege and sacrifice. It is not my purpose to dwell upon scenes and battles that are now the possession of impartial history—whose pages lie open and accessible to all.

"Appomattox came, and then the angel of peace returned the sword to its sheath; there to rest a third of a century, until two years ago its blade gleamed again in the light of a new triumph.

"This is Memorial Day. As such it brings its message—a reminder of our debt and duty. The service here and in the Silent City of the dead bears upon it the will of the old soldier and the hearty concurrence of a unified people.

"We witness once again the swift passing of the years—the G. A. R. on guard. The badge of your army, the blue blouse, the stars and stripes, the martial music, are all eloquent and of easy interpretation. But instead of the equipments and accoutrements of camp and battle we see fragrant flowers, the emblem of a people's grateful love. Storm and siege, and shock of arms, the bivouac of the tented city, have all yielded to the sweet ministries of peace. Unity and fraternity now prevail with an influence more potent than armies or cannon.

These memorial days are teaching our generation the cost of sacrifice endured, the value of unfettered freedom. In its conception and ceremonies, this day is honorable to the dead and creditable to the living.

"Other nations have not been wanting in their tributes and memorials, their tombs and tablets, and arches in honor of generals and admirals, but it has been reserved for this land and age to provide a grateful offering for every private soldier as well.

"When the Civil War closed we had one million soldiers in the field. Our losses on the field of battle, by disease and exposure, reached the appalling figure of four hundred thousand. During more than the third of a century since Appomattox, your comrades have been drawing about them the drapery of a soldier's couch, so that today the dust of the majority now sleep on the mounded field. Year by year the G. A. R. is becoming less and less in evidence, more and more in memory. After a few more years—the evolution of a few more events, your Post Room will be vacant, and every command of cavalry, infantry and artillery will be a memory.

"As on this May day fond hearts lay fragrant flowers on the graves of your comrades who sleep beneath a miniature flag, may we not amid the impressive memories of the day, hear the tribute of a poet's heart: 'Not man nor monarch half so proud as he whose flag becomes a shroud.'

"It will revive and deepen the sentiment of the old Latin poet who wrote: 'Dulce et decorum pro patria mori est.' To die for one's country is sweet and honorable.

"The memory of your valor and achievement will never die. Great deeds and great names are imperishable—ineffaceable. They survive the mad display of riches, defy the iron tooth of time, and like a granite monument piercing the clouds, throw the lesson of their shadow across the plain.

"Sentinels of bronze and stone have been deployed all over the country, but chiefly on the historic battlefield, as for example, Antietam, where this day are assembled thousands of your comrades to dedicate their shaft.

"The student of history will oft-times reflect upon the sacrifice of war's imperative demand. To the passing through the monument of the sculptors' art will perpetuate the story of what you did; the unstinted measure of a soldier's devotion.

"To-day, in the twilight of this century that holds the annals of your military life and fame, we again acknowledge our debt to our army and navy. Our national renown shines in a blaze of glory on both land and sea. We offer our sympathy to the maimed and wounded; to the widow and orphan. We, too, would lay a tribute of felicitations on the head of the living boys in blue, whose forms and step respond quickly to the word of command.

"Pericles bade the Athenians ever to remember Marathon, because that victory made Athens the greatest city of ancient Greece. When we remember that Wm. E. Gladstone said America is to become the world's educator in free institutions, let us not forget our national heritage. Our wars have been sanctuaries of sore affliction. Slavery, like a slimy, sinuous serpent, coiled its venomous folds for more than two centuries about our social and political fabric. To administer the death blow, laid cities in ashes, furrowed the valleys and hills with graves, and bathed a nation in tears. Offences must come, but woe unto that man by whom they come.

"We congratulate you veterans that you have escaped the common foe that has deprived you and all of us of comrades and friends, who are with us, no doubt, in spirit.

"Our country has grown to twice its population when you went forth in your youth, to preserve its life.

"The flag you never foresook but always upheld, has gained many more stars, and ever through the days signals forth new messages of devotion and duty. As you love it and linger beneath its folds, fail not to read and heed its import.

"While there are tears for the dead, there are cheers for the living."

"As we stand to-day beside the soldier's tent whose door has inward swung, let us thank God for devotion unto death.

"Sleep, comrades, sleep in rest. On this field of glorious arms, where foes no more molest. No sentry shot alarms you here. Ye have slept on the ground before, And started to your feet. At the cannon's sudden roar, Or the drum's redoubting beat. But in the calm of death, No sound your slumber breaks, Here is no fevered breath, No wound that bleeds and aches.

"All is repose and peace, Untrampled lies the sod, The shouts of battle cease, It is the truce of God. Rest, comrades, rest and sleep, The thoughts of men shall be As sentinels to keep. Your rest from danger free, Your silent tents of green, We strew with fragrant flowers, Yours has the suffering been, The memory shall be ours."

At the conclusion of the address, the Choral Union sang "Scatter the Flowers," which brought to a close the services in the Opera House. The parade was formed in front of the Opera House in this order: Harney Cornet Band; Arthur Post, No. 41, G. A. R., eighty children carrying flowers; Emmitsburg Cornet Band and citizens.

The Parade.

The parade, with Mr. Jesse Claggett, one of Col. Roosevelt's Rough Riders, attired in the uniform he wore on that memorable day when the Rough Riders met their famous charge up San Juan Hill, in Cuba, as chief marshal, moved down East Main street to Gelwicks' alley, thence to Green street, up Green street to the Catholic Cemetery, where a halt was made and the soldier's graves were decorated by a detail from Arthur Post. The line of march was then up Main street to the West end, returning to Zacharias' alley, to the Lutheran Cemetery, where the programme was continued as follows:

Singing, "Our Heroes," by Children; Reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, by Commander Jas. B. Black; Reading of the Grand Army Ritual; strewing the flowers by the children; singing, "Let Them Rest," by the Choral Union; Benediction, by Rev. W. C. B. Shueberger, which brought to a close the highly interesting services.

The graves in the various cemeteries in the surrounding country were decorated by committees from Arthur Post.

FREDERICK COUNTY BONDS.

The County Commissioners opened sealed proposals Monday for the purchase of $188,700 of 31 per cent. Frederick county coupon bonds which were authorized to be funded from 4 per cent. bonds by the Legislature at its late session, and awarded the whole amount to Baker, Watts & Co., bankers and brokers, of Baltimore, at 103.16. The others who submitted bids for the whole amount were: Townsend, Scott & Son, bankers, Baltimore, at 101.54; Farson, Leach & Co., of New York, at 101.15; W. J. Hayes & Sons, bankers, Cleveland, Ohio, at 100; Cahn, Hoblitzell & Co., Bankers, Baltimore, at 101.16; Farmers and Mechanics' Bank, Frederick, at 101.02; Fidelity and Deposit Company, Baltimore, at 100.

These bonds will bear date July 1 and be payable 40 years after date to bearer, redeemable, however, at the pleasure of the County Commissioners at any time after the expiration of 20 years from their respective dates. The coupons will be payable semi-annually, January and July of each year, and will be receivable by the Treasurer of Frederick county in the payment of county taxes. The bonds will be exempt from all county and municipal taxation. They will be issued in sums of not less than one hundred dollars and not more than one thousand dollars, the denominations to be fixed by the Commissioners. They will be ready for delivery July 2, on or before which day the cash must be paid for them.

The bids received for small blocks were: Fredericktown Savings Institution, $50,000, at 100.26; Fredericktown Savings Institution, $50,000, at 100; John R. Jones, $2,200, at 101.15; J. C. Engelbrecht, $3,000, at 103; C. M. Gilpin, $1,100, at 100; H. C. Trundle, $1,500, at 101; W. T. Haller, Baltimore, $5,000, at 100; Hammond Urner, attorney, $80,000, at 103; George E. Hankey bid on $3,800 worth in seven blocks, ranging from 101.50 to 103.05.

WATERMELONS.

How to Grow Big, Fine Ones on Black Waxy Land.

Select a well drained piece of land; then break it as deep as you can three or more times; then check it ten feet apart. Next, with a hoe pull off the first top four inches for about fifteen inches in diameter; pull it all out on one side; then pull out the next four inches deep to the other side; then mix about one-half a gallon of well rotted, pulverized manure in with the surface soil in the bottom of the hole made, and then put the subsoil on top. Put a stake in each hill to locate them later. Enough hills for melons to supply a family can be made in two hours by one man.

Be careful not to put too much manure in a hill or too strong manure. If hen manure is used, half a pint to a hill is all that is permissible. Plant several seeds, six to ten, in a hill, and as soon as they are up plant more, so as to provide as well as you can against frost, bugs, etc., preventing a stand. As soon as the vine gets to running one or two inches, pull up all but the thickest one. Leave permanently but one in a hill. In cultivating plow deeply and be sure to give back in plowing to the vines, cultivating among the vines with a hoe. After they get to running stick up pegs for the tendrils of the vines to cling to, so the winds will not then blow them about. Keep them pruned as you would grapes; by not permitting too many running branches to a vine; by cutting off the surplus runners with the hoe, and be sure to cover the wound by pulling dirt over it. If very large melons are desired you can originally make larger holes and thereby use more manure, and allow but two melons to a vine.

Breaking the Surface Crust.

Very often a heavy dashing rain falls upon the lately sown field before the plants appear. The soil, if of a clay formation, forms a hard crust and often is so dense that the plant cannot break through. If it does get up it is doubled and twisted and not healthy looking as it would be if the conditions were normal. All the farmer can do to it in some manner break this crust. A light, slanting-furrow harrow will do it, but perhaps the most effective tool is the field roller. It not only levels the surface in a proper manner for harvesting the crop, but the pressure of roller breaks the surface soil in small atoms. The plants that are already through the soil now have plenty of room to grow without pressure, but those not through come up at once. There is plenty of air and sunlight admitted, and rain can easily reach the roots to give the plant new life and vigor.

A New Pest.

A new webworm seems to have appeared in Australia and there are fears of its being introduced into this country. It attacks cabbage and other cruciferous plants, being particularly injurious to turnips, beets and the like. The larvae hatch from eggs that have been laid in the heart of the cabbage and other vegetables and cause the leaves to twist and consequently result in a misshapen and stunted plant. Paris green, one pound to one hundred and fifty gallons of water, ought to be effective, and has been in the limited number of trials reported.

Bottomless Pots for Violets.

Six-inch flower pots are cut off at the bottom, leaving the brims three inches deep. These, containing the violets, are set one inch in the soil out of doors. The plants make a healthy growth, producing more flowers and fewer runners than those given ordinary culture. They can also be watered without wetting the foliage, thus lessening the danger of damping off and overwatering.

Color of Daffodils.

Where marked differences were made in the color of daffodils analyses were made of the different soils in which they grew. It was found that the intensity of the color increased with the percentage of organic matter, phosphoric acid, lime and peroxide of iron. It was not determined whether all the increase of color was due to the presence of large amounts of these compounds or only a part of them.

Root pruning is frequently necessary with all fruit trees where the ground is very rich, producing excess wood growth and but very little fruit. First remove only the ends of the large feeders, but if this does not accomplish the purpose, prune more severely.

Mr. C. S. Pope, of New Hampshire estimates the cost of evaporating apples at four to five cents per pound and five to six pounds can be made from a bushel. He thinks it would not pay to evaporate the fruit if it could be sold for 25 cents per bushel or more.

Poor parchment paper should never be used in packing butter. It is much more profitable to buy the best grade, although it costs considerably more.

Over 1,000 houses in London are tenanted by people who are popularly supposed to be haunted. Poor, blighted and London!

TABLE FADS.

Latest Decorative Oddities—Coffee in Glass Cups and Saucers.

In silver plate it seemed as though we had everything that was useful, but now some one has designed a handsome silver pie dish, the intention being that the pie should be sent to the table in the ordinary pie dish, which is quite concealed by the silver receiver. When there is no pie, the same silver dish may be used as an ordinary dish for fruit.

A novelty whose usefulness may not be so generally recognized, yet which will be appreciated by persons who strive after artistic table effects, is a breakfast set of silver, including tray, egg cups, butter dish, toast rack and salt and pepper bottles.

An oddity in a jam dish is a glass one with a silver butterfly poised at the side of the dish. The dish is lifted more easily by means of the outspread wings.

A silver egg boiler has been contrived, by means of which the breakfast eggs are cooked at the table. The alcohol lamp is placed just beneath the egg-shaped silver receptacle into which the eggs are dropped for boiling. On the stand are little silver projections, on which egg cups to match the set are ranged and into which the eggs are dropped as they are cooked.

Some of the sets are provided with little glasses filled with sand and marked to show the three, five and ten-minute limits for boiling.

For very fashionable folks are dishes fitted with electric lamps, which may be shaded according to the prevailing color at the table. Wires are attached at the electric current in the dining room, and when the dishes are used are easily connected with the lamps in the dishes. One of the handsomest of these dishes is a fruit basket with five hanging lamps.

A new idea in the culinary line is a frying pan ingeniously supplied with an asbestos lining, which prevents the contents from burning while cooking. With this frying pan goes a basket attachment in which food needing special care is placed for cooking. There are side pieces so that the food in the basket may be easily drained, and the handle is put on so that it is not heated with the other food.

It is now fashionable to serve tea or coffee in glass cups and saucers. A frame of silver that will accommodate six cups and saucers has a handle like a basket.

Dressmaking Troubles.

Those who make their own dresses no doubt think their lot is hard, but it is nothing to that of the wealthy who can afford to wear fashionable materials.

Mrs. Howard Gould has recently had a case in the courts in New York where she was a defendant in a suit brought by a dressmaker. Mrs. Gould claimed the garment did not fit and consequently she refused to pay for it. Evidently the judge thought she was right, for he decided in her favor. But the dressmaker will continue the case and try to get it before a jury. The amount involved is only about $75, but Mrs. Gould claims she will not be swindled and the dressmaker avers she will not be imposed upon. And there you are.

Good Soup.

All soups should regularly be made with cold water. Our object in a soup is to draw out the nourishing portion of the meat, and unless the latter is raw the nutritive matter will not dissolve. Hot water scalds the outside and keeps the juices in. Even then, beef soup is not nourishing, but stimulating. When we cook we rob the soup of nourishment, but we have to avoid germs. Clear beef soup is good for preparing the stomach for what is to follow. Oyster bisque is very nourishing and wholesome and is excellent for children.

Nice Dessert.

Heat a cupful of fruit juice—for instance, canned or evaporated orange—with an equal amount of water; when boiling, stir in three even tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, mixed smooth with a little cold water, boil ten minutes, sweeten to taste, remove from the fire, then beat in the stiffened whites of three eggs and a half spoonful of salt. Turn into a mould, and when cold, turn out and eat with whipped cream or a soft custard made from the yolks of the eggs.

J. Q. Hood, Justice of the Peace, Crosby, Miss., makes the following statement: "I can certify that One Minute Cough Cure will do all that is claimed for it. My wife could not get her breath and the first dose of it relieved her. It has also benefited my whole family." It acts immediately and cures coughs, colds, croup, gripe, bronchitis, asthma and all throat and lung troubles. T. E. Zimmerman & Co.

TO PREPARE FOR PARIS

WHAT TO READ BEFORE YOU GO TO THE FAIR.

How to Add Wonderfully to the Interest and Value of the Trip—One of the Best Methods of Cultivating the Memory.

"Are you going to the Paris Exposition?" asks Margaret E. Caldwell in the April St. Nicholas; and assuming that you are and that you are a girl, she gives you some useful hints. All over the land, she says, young girls are beginning to plan a trip to the Paris Exposition. By means of tourists' clubs, with low rates and monthly payments, many girls of small means, girls who earn their own living, will be able to go. To these, and especially to such of them as have traveled a little, a few suggestions may prove helpful.

Do your looking up and reading now, while you are at home and have the time. But if not used to solid reading, do not plunge boldly into a French history that goes back beyond the days of Charlemagne, and then feel sad and discouraged when you discover that you cannot remember the names and dates.

Read the story-books of travel. But read them intelligently. When you see in one something about "poor Marie Louise, whose history was one of life's riddles," if you do not know why her history was one of life's riddles look it up. Find out all that you can about her strange career.

When you read something about "Marie Antoinette's Swiss cottage," and the trouble that it caused, do you feel interested to know what the trouble was, and why a Swiss cottage caused it? Then, about Marie Antoinette herself. Are you familiar enough with her story to make your visit to the Tuileries a double pleasure because you can, in fancy, people it, as you walk, with the gay throng who once made history there?

Unless you know the story of the people who made the history of these places, you are seeing only wood and stone; you are missing the best—the vital, breathing part, the life. Every girl who has clearly settled in her mind any facts of French history, who knows anything about the life-stories of France's famous people, or about the places where the history was made or the lives lived, will find that her knowledge has added wonderfully to her enjoyment of the trip.

And now for another suggestion. Cultivate the habit of observation. If you are weak in this, begin to do it to develop your powers. Many persons came back from the World's Fair at Chicago with their minds all a confused jumble. Ask them what they saw, and they would invariably reply, "Oh, I saw so much that I really can't remember any one thing." The objects that they saw made on their brains no more lasting impression than on the retina of their eyes. They knew that they "had a lovely time," and often were "dreadfully tired," and that their "hotel was bad," and, apparently, that was nearly all that they did know. Not being used to observing, they had seen so much that they were not able to assimilate anything. Many people go through picture galleries in the same blind way. They see so many pictures that no single one impresses them sufficiently to take its place on "memory's wall." Make up your mind that you will notice well. Make up your mind that you will remember the best of what you see.

The girl who goes to the Paris Exposition leaving no one behind for whose benefit she is sight-seeing, is poor indeed. Surely each of you has some one to whom you wish to write, to whom you wish to describe your trip so well that it will be her trip. If you have such a friend, and if you think of her when you see anything that specially interests you, and if you say, "Now I will tell her about this—she will enjoy it," you have found the best method of cultivating the memory.

Not What She Expected.

A young lady of the city who is somewhat noted for her coquetry was talking a few days ago to one of her numerous beaux.

"Oh," she said, in a most pitiful tone of voice, "nobody loves me."

As she paused for reply the young man said with that tenderness which always appeals to the feminine heart: "I am quite sure that somebody does love you."

Her face brightened very perceptibly as she said with a great deal of interest:

"Wonder who on earth it can be. Do you know?"

"Oh, yes," he replied. "God and your mother."—Memphis Scimitar.

Owned It All.

John L. Blair in his earlier days owned a western railroad along the route of which he established a series of lunchrooms at which employees of the road were to be charged 50 cents and all passengers 75 cents. Mr. Blair once dined at one of these places, and concluding his meal, laid down a half-dollar. "Hold on!" cried the cashier, "you don't belong to this road." "I know that," replied Mr. Blair, "the road belongs to me."

Anti-Climax.

"My proudest boast," declared the lecturer, who expected his statement to be greeted with cheers, "is that was one of the men behind the gun!"

"How many miles behind?" piped a voice from the gallery.—Philadelphia Press.

Not Necessarily Heard.

"Of course, you have heard 'Lohen-grin'?"

But what a question is this to ask a woman who moves in the best society and subscribes for a box at the Metropolitan Opera each season!—Puck.

The Wheat Problem.

Sir William Crookes of England, in a recent address said that the greatest problem of the times is the wheat demand and supply. Sir William is much afraid that we shall soon be obliged to eat something else—not so good—as a substitute. In late years the consumption of wheat in the lands inhabited by whites has increased both actually and relatively—that is, not only has the population demanding wheat as a food increased greatly in numbers, but there is also an increase in the amount of wheat demanded by each component of that population. In 1871, according to the undisputed figures here given, there were 371,000,000 bread-eaters in the world. In less than thirty years that large figure has grown to the enormous total of 516,500,000. This last sum is increasing at the rate of 6,500,000 a year. Since 1885 a smaller and smaller addition has been made to the total wheat acreage of the world year by year.

Great Britain is at the mercy of her enemies unless she can master the seas in order to permit the free importation of grain into her territory—from America in case of a war with Europe—from Russia, India and Egypt in case of a war with America. All munitions of war fade into complete insignificance in comparison with the most important of all—food. Ships and cannon, infantry and cavalry, are alike powerless if the men are not properly fed. If the enemies of England were ever able to put an efficient blockade upon her coasts she would have to surrender through starvation in a few months.

The United States is little less interested in the question. If some relief is not found, the present low rate of increase in the wheat production of the country and the high rate of increase in the population and consequent wheat consumption of the country must soon equalize one another. From that it is only a matter of months before America, too, must depend upon importation of her supply. Slight temporary relief can be found in Alaska, in British Columbia, in the higher altitudes of Mexico and in irrigation within our own borders, but the great part of the land which is suited to what is already under cultivation and all such relief can only be of the most temporary nature. What is true of wheat is true of all the other grains grown for human food in a slightly less degree. Indian corn, rye, barley and all the rest of the foods from which bread of one sort or another can be made are in precisely the same predicament.

The remedy lies in better and less wasteful farming. The mean average yield of wheat to the acre in the United States is only twelve bushels. In the United Kingdom it exceeds twenty-nine bushels, and in Denmark it is nearly forty-two bushels. The use of fertilizers must increase in order to increase the yield in America.

The Foreign Trade.

Our trade with Japan and China is gaining rapidly. During the year 1899 the value of the merchandise exchanged with these two countries, including the port of Hongkong, reached as high as $87,305,685. These figures were decidedly in excess of any previous record. The value for 1898, ten years before, was little more than half as large, amounting to only $43,249,167. The four years following 1899 witnessed a steady increase that finally culminated in 1898 with a record of $90,281,386, the highest up to that time. In the fiscal year 1894, during which our imports were greatly curtailed as a result of the prevailing financial depression the trade dropped to $51,513,149. During 1895 there was a recovery to $57,559,859 and for each subsequent year the returns showed an important increase.

Of the $87,305,688 valuation placed upon our trade with Japan, China, and Hongkong during 1899, $47,815,035 represented the imports into the United States and $39,490,653 the exports from this country. The excess of imports over exports amounted to $8,324,532. Formerly the excess was much larger.

By comparing the figures for 1899 with the figures for 1898 it is evident that the imports were greater than the exports. In the decade ending with 1899 there was a gain of $28,333,150 or 25.5 per cent. in exportation, while the increase in importation amounted to only $12,613,365, or 36 per cent. During the last five years, in fact, the imports disclosed an actual falling off of the value for 1899 being $1,164,131 less than that for 1894, which was recorded at $48,979,166. Our exports, on the other hand, amounting to $10,302,819, were more than doubled during the next three years, showing a gain of $20,187,834.
