TRANS-SIBERIA

A Railway to Be Succeeded by Other Vast Trunk Systems.

A number of new railroads are contemplated in Asia. The lines now in existence have a total length of about 80.000 miles of which two-thirds belong to British India. The portions of the Trans-Caspian and the Trans-Siberian railways already constructed have a length of 3,200 miles. A number of European syndicates have obtained concessions for $3,600 miles of railroad in China, which will traverse regions rich in minerals and agriculture; many of these lines are already in progress of construction. The Chinese government about 300 miles of railway. These lines are very remunerative, especially that from Peking to Tientsin. Japan is well provided with railroads: the present length being 3,200 miles. French Indo China has at present only 120 miles, but the French possessions in Cochin-China, Anam and Tonkin will soon have 2,400 miles, mineral and agricultural resources. The Dutch Indies are well supplied. Java alone has 1,000 miles. There consequence; but Turkey operates 1,000 miles in Asia, and 600 miles more are in construction or projected.

inferesting to Men impelled by Gold Hunger-The Terrible Dead Horsa Trail-Up the Dangerous White

Of all the industrial auxiliaries which the closing century has seen set up on the American continent the railroad just finished from Alaskan tidewater into the valley of the great Yukon is the boldest and most difficult, and promises to be the most useful. A year ago the gold-besprinkled Yukon water-shed was accessible only to the hardy mountaineer and at the cost of much money, immense labor and serious peril. Of all those wire ventured up the Pacific through the Alexandria archipelago and Lynn Canal as far as Skaguay and Dyea at least a quarter turned back intimidated and disheartened, for in front NEGLECT is the short step so of them loomed the precipitous ceast Trail on the one hand, and on the other, only five miles north the Chilkoot Trail from Dyea, even more terrible, with its dreaded avalanches and its cemeteries of numerous dead at Sheep Camp. To cross the divide was at the risk of limb and life, for it involved hitching along a narrow and insecure shelf through a dark defile over a turbulent river and climbing rocky walls that defled almost any creature not armed "Here, waiter!" cried the camel, with claws. In Chilkoot Pass, back of Dyea, several scores of adventurous Argonauts had been buried beneath the tremendous slides of ice and rock from the summit, and the Indian trail from Skaguay over White Pass was populous with buzzards feasting on the carcases of a thousand horses which perished there in a single au-

> The narrow vale through which flows down to Lynn Canal the stream known as the Skaguay is one of the most humid portions of the earth's surface. It is carpeted with heavy moss, and the thick-set evergreens and tangle of dead trees are saturated with water and veiled with lichens of gigantic size and motley colorstorms of rain and by antincessant downflow of melted snow from the summits of mountains where winter makes its perpetual home. The chmate of the sea coast and adjacent islands is equable and mild, the winters being scarcely as cold as those at Washington, D. C.; but the valley of the Yukon is cold and forbidding, constituting a strange contrast.

To men impelled by gold hunger the coast range was only a temporary bugbear. American enterprise did not long remain idle in the presence "II'm, stranger," responded the of this menacing obstruction. Chilkoot Pass is nearly a thousand feet higher than White Pass, on account of which important fact the great stream of eager transit turned in the spring of 1898 from the former to the latter. But even here the Thlinkit Trail was so terrible that, while thousands of the hardier succeeded in getting over and setting their frail boats afloat on the Upper Yukon at Lake Bennett, a hundred every week turned back, appalled and disheaft-

> One of the visitors to Skaguay in the fall of 1897 strolled up the Indian path which had even thus early accumulated so many of the earcases of horses falling from the sloping rocks that it had borrowed from that circumstance the grewsome name of "Dead Horse Trail." He was a man of mature years, shrewd, strong, alert, fearless, and not unacquainted with personal exposure in Indian wars and hazardous enterprises-Mr. George A. Brackett, one of the early ploneers of Minnesota. He climbed the trail to the summit of the White Pass, and concluded that though almost inaccessible to horses and dogs, it was practicable to build a wagen read through the dark defiles and up the frowning acclivities. Wild With Eczema

Fire Could Not Have Been More Painful.

"After spending two years in taking all kinds of medicines that were suggested for eczema, but without avail, my mother was induced to take wonderfully gratifying. Her limbs had been terribly lacerated by the disease, and there were times when fire could not have been more painful. She was, in fact, almost wild. Two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla completely cured her, and not a trace of eczema was left." E. W. DECKER,

Eat Well, Sleep Well.

" Hood's Sarsaparilla has been a great blessing to me. I was weak, irritable, tired and nervous; had no appetite and was always sad and despondent. One day I got hold of a little book about Hood's Sarsaparilla. I looked it over and resolved to try a bottle. I was better before it was gone, so I kept on until I had taken five bottles. I can now sleep well, feel cheerful and can do all my work, including plain sewing, and I can walk two or three miles a day. I am 55 years old and now feel that life is worth living." Mrs. Emma Smith, 68 E. Mitchell St., Oswego, N. Y.

Critical Period of Life. "I took Hood's Sarsaparilla during the critical period of my life, and now, at the age of 60 years, I am strong and healthy. It is a great medicine for the blood. I find Hood's to be the best." Mrs. H. Pomroy, 22 Lansing Street, Auburn, N. Y.

The necessity for improvement in the type of cattle maintained on the average farm is apparent, and the practical way of bringing about such What makes it dark where all before world is hungry three times a day, improvement is the introduction and use of good bulls of various estab-Usked types. Those who are engaged in feeding for the great beef markets find increasing difficulty each year in rocuring steers of the requisite qual- Ah! for the time when at the dark overcrowded. "Oh," but you say, ity, and there is an equal necessity for animals better adapted for the purpose in districts where diary products find a ready market. The average butter product of the cows of this country does not exceed 130 pounds per annum; whereas it has been demonstrated time and again that it is possible to increase this output in large herds to an average of from 300

The better and far more particular branch of cattle growing durable way is to make four circles may be fellowed, the necessity for and cover the outside circle with breeding to good sires is obvious.

Some are deterred from grading up their cattle by the first cost of a bull of the right stamp. Indeed, on many farms the number of cows kept would not justify the purchase of a highclass sire. As a matter of fact, however, there is no expuse even in these cases in breeding to "scrub" or grade bulls. It should be a comparatively easy matter in any good farming community for two or three neighbors to join in the purchase of a first-class pedigreed male in such a way that the cost to each would be reduced to a comparatively small sum. The increased value of the first lot of calves from such a bull, as compared with a crop from an inferior sire, would much more than return the outlay the first year. The plan of forming syndicates or "pools" for such purpose is frequently resorted to in the case of stallions, and this same idea may be satisfactorily applied to the bull problem. The type to be selected must be settled by the particular requirements of different sections. In some cases it would be best to breed for a pronounced beef form; in others special dairy sorts may profitably be maintained, and throughout other portions of the country the dual purpose kind will be found best of all. In any case it will not be difficult to find a satisfactory bull for the desired purpose, and those who are unable to make the investment individually should take the matter up with their neighbors and arrange for the owner- with some smooth lining material or ship of a first-class bull in common. satine, then overhand them neatly The idea is, of course, not a new one. and fasten on either side with bows It has been adopted in a great many as in the picture. His brother, Judge Daly, who managed the sale, thought differently, however, and concluded to sell the collection right here in New York. He had a catalogue specially arranged to suit the London buyer and numbers of them sent across the ocean. Advertising matter was also inserted in the London newspapers. It is estimated that the property cost Mr. Daly about $197,000, and the total proceeds of the auction amount to $174,000. The action of Judge Daly would seem to be a wise one, for, if the bids offered by the London buyers are any brought a less amount by sixty per from other girls.—Puck. cent. if sold in that city.

Walt Whitman's Pride.

Whitman's grandmother was a Quaker, and the bard had been all his life used, Quaker fashion, to sitting in the house with his sombrero on, if it suited him to do so. One day, There are very been households in with a friend, he entered the gloomy seat in the obscurity, and for a moprobably just about to do so when an officious verger stepped up and requested him to take it off. Walt, a man of immense pride, not seeing fit to do so instantaneously, or being very slow in his mental processes, was taking the matter into consideration for a second when the verger knocked the offending hat off his head. Walt picked up the huge felt, and, doubling it together, smote the fellow vigorously twice or thrice with it on the head, and slowly left the church, the red-faced sexton following and threatening him with the law.-Boston Transcript.

An Irate Commandant.

Major Hayford Thorold, second in command of of the First Batallion, Duke of Wellington's Regiment, tells a story of his experiences in Matabeleland in 1896, when sent to restore order in a little township named Gwelo. On arrival there he found the acting commandant (an ex-storekeeper) in a state bordering on delrium tremens, so he had him locked up. The commandant, however, managed to break out and make his way to the telegraph office, whence he despatched the following wire: "Chamberlain, London: Man here named Thorold questions my sobriety. Who is Thorold? Wire at once to avert bloodshed."-The Argonaut.

THE PAPER OF THE PEOPLE. FOR THE PEOPLE AND WITH THE PEOPLE.

HONEST IN MOTIVE FEARLESS IN EXPRESSION SOUND IN PRINCIPLE.

A rewspaper is an educator; there are all kinds of educators, but the man who spends money judiciously and liberally is better able to impart his knowledge than the man who has little or nothing to stend.

The Sun's reports from all parts of the United States are unsurpassed.

The Sun's reports from all parts of the United States are unsurpassed.

The Sun's Cable Service is the finest known; the troubles in the Phillippines and South Africa demand competent correspondents and vast expenditure of money and labor in getting the news. When you get The Sun you get news and intelligent presentation of facts with it, as well as carefully prepared articles of editorial writers of highest standing. When you tead a daily paper, whose principle recommendation is its cheapness, you get the dregs—generally the very poor dregs at that.
