3 N. Charles Street,

For Twenty-five Years an American Resident of Bombay.

Having just returned from India, I have read the accounts of the famine in American papers, I have seen the pictures, I have seen the conditions in the famine districts, and I can assure you that the actual state of affairs is much more terrible than painted or pictured. And the worst of it is that, even if the June rains are entirely favorable, no relief can be expected till the crop is gathered in October. Famine photographs frequently represent half starved and dying persons lying on the street or in some field. They are poor but self respecting people, who have never been the objects of public charity and have refused to go to famine relief camps until at last death has stared them in the face, and unbearable distress has driven them out in search of help. Weary and hungry, they have laid themselves down to rest and have died before waking. Not long before leaving India, while walking with a brother missionary at Ahmedabad, not far from his house, he pointed to a tree at the roadside and said: "The other day I saw the emaciated figure of a man lying, face down, under that tree. On going near and touching the body I found it already stiff and cold. Examining it more carefully, I found one side torn away, evidently eaten by jackals. A couple of rods away lay he dead body of an infant. A little farther on was found a woman, still live. She was the wife of the man and mother of the child. She, too, poor hing, died before she could reach the oorhouse, which stood within sight and call of the spot where these paient, helpless ones had fallen down to

A starving man is devoid of judgnent and of most of his natural feelngs. In April we received a group of amine girls. Among them was one who, although much emaciated, began to improve from the day she came to us. After a week she rapidly grew corse. In spite of everything that ould be done for her she soon died. We learned at last that, while she was o ill that we were giving her a few poonfuls of nourishment at a time, nising her gently, because she seemed mable to make any effort to help herelf, and even later, when she seemed mable to see or to speak, she had been lragging herself at intervals, when we vere absent, out into the garden, a disance of 50 yards, in order to get some green mangoes to eat. For the poor amine child they were deadly poison. She knew it, but the awful gnawing in er stomach made prudence impossible. The only effective preventive to e spread of plague that has yet been iscovered is inoculation with plague rum. Wherever an outbreak of the sease is imminent, inoculation sta-HINDOO PEASANT WOMAN IN HAPPY TIMES tions are opened. Doctors are sent to them; serum, instruments and everything needed for efficient work are provided, but the Hindoos have not taken kindly to this remedy. All kinds of wild rumors have been spread and have been widely believed to the effect that inoculation is most harmful; that it has been devised by the European doctors to punish the Hindoos for supposed disloyalty and as a means for destroying caste. In view of this the government offers two days' wages to every man, woman or child who is inoculated. I know a little fellow 8 years old, whose mother died and whose father is a helpless invalid. Hearing that money was paid to every person who was willing to be inoculated, this poor little lad presented himself at one of the inoculation stations. As soon as his arm was healed he went to another station, and this thing went on until the poor boy had actually been inoculated five times in each arm for the 84 cents he received and with which he supported himself and father for six weeks.

The government has already expended more than $47,000,000 in the free distribution of food to those who are unable to work and in employing the ablebodied at cash wages in the construction of reservoirs, irrigation ditches and other public works that will mitigate future droughts. In addition, there are generous and splendidly organized systems of private charity, the funds being supplied from every part of the civilized world and managed chiefly by American and European missionaries of long experience in India. It is the duty and privilege of every one to have some share in this sacred work of humanity. Gifts may be sent to Brown Bros. & Co., 59 Wall street, New York, treasurers of the committee of one hundred; William E. Dodge, chairman, and Dr. L. T. Chamberlain, executive director, by whom they will be cabled promptly to the responsible and representative Americo-Indian relief committee, under the chairmanship of United States Consul William H. Fee, at Bombay, with the veteran missionary, Robert A. Hume, as executive secretary.

The New York committee of one hundred on India famine relief co-operates with committees of the same name in Boston, New Haven, Baltimore, Washington, Indianapolis and other cities, each of which has charge of the work in its own section. The committee states that on receipt of a postal addressed "Committee of One Hundred, 73 Bible House, New York,"

THE SITUATION IN CHINA.

The Navy Department at Washrngton received a report from Admiral Remey, conveying the good news of a victory of the allied forces at Tien Tsin. The American losses in the battle were reported to be 215. The total losses of the allied forces, according to Admiral Remey's report, were 775, the Russians and Japanese suffering heavily. Captain Davis, of the marines, was killed. Majors Reagan and Lee, Captains Noyes, Brewster and Bookmiller and Lieutenants Naylor, Lawton, Hammond and Waidron were wounded.

President McKinley arrived in Washington, and discussed with the Cabinet the situation. It was decided not to call an extra session of Congress at present, but that the Secretary of War should avail himself of all the funds voted his department for other purposes to transport and equip the forces for > 1837. THE SUN. 1900. BALTIMORE, MD.

> THE PAPER OF THE PEOPLE. FOR THE PEOPLE AND WITH THE PEOPLE.

HONEST IN MOTIVE FEARLESS IN EXPRESSION SOUND IN PRINCIPLE.

THE SUN'S reports from all parts of the United States are unsurpassed.

THE SUN'S Cable Service is the finest known; the troubles in the Philippines and South Africa demand competent correspondents and vast expenditure of money and labor in getting the news. When you get THE SUN you get news and intelligent presentation of facts with it, as well as carefully prepared articles of editorial writers of highest standing. When you read a daily paper, whose principle recommendation is its cheapness, you get the dregs—generally the very poor dregs at that.
