In the wonderful resurrection of the long-buried past which has resulted from the explorations in Egypt and Chaldea, especially in the latter, no phase of life seems likely to remain untouched. Trade and commerce are represented by thousands of contract tablets extending back to a period of more than 30 centuries before our era. Law may be studied from the contemporary records of all ages, and the new collection now on exhibition in the Babylonian room of the British Museum deals with a most important and interesting section of national life.

Herodotus, Strabo and other classical writers have testified to the immense fertility of the Mesopotamian Valley, where cereals yielded a hundredfold increase. It was, we know, the granary of the Persian Empire, but it was little imagined that there would be rescued from the ruins of a Chaldean city the complete records and statistics of a Board of Inland Revenue and Agriculture, which organized the affairs of the State at as remote an age as 2400 B. C.

A few years ago the trustees of the British Museum obtained a collection of several thousand tablets, in wonderful preservation, which related to the fiscal affairs of Southern Chaldea, under the rule of the second dynasty of Ur, and the perfectly organized system which they reveal is indeed astonishing. The tablets come from Sirpurra—the modern Tello, on the Shat-el-Hiewhich seems to have been the center of local government.

At the period to which these doc-"surveyors" and "tax collectors." Zimmerman, & Co., Druggists. The first essential of a system of taxation was an accurate survey and valuation of the land, and this we see had been completed.

From the inscription of Manishtsu, the oldest known commercial record, we have an illustration of this value of land by corn value. A field at 3,834 feddan has a corn value of 1,278 quarters; the money value is obtained by estimating the corn at one shekel a quarter gand the price of the land is, therefore, "3 talents 33 mana." The most interesting feature of the large account tablets dealing with the corn revenue here exhibited is the wonderful accuracy of the bookkeeping. Some of the large tablets contain summations of hundreds of thousands of quarters and calculations of minute fractions, yet the

The most that he could do was to watch her carefully through a long attack of illness, which at one time threatened to end fatally.

He attributed this to some poisonous substance which had passed to her handkerchief from the strap, and that was his diagnosis the moment he heard the story of the ride on the cable car. One Improvident Family. The minister in an adjoining Tennessee town was very much wrought up over the pitiful condition of a parishioner's family. He went to their home and, finding they were almost starving, decided that something should be done for them. He accordingly solicited cona liberal response, he promptly turned over the money to the suffering ones, thinking that all would be well.

Brought Down the House. On one occasion, when Arthur Roberts, the English actor, was performing the part of Captain Crosstree in the burlesque of "Black Eyed Susan" at Glasgow, he converted an awkward contretemps into a hit. In one of the scenes Crosstree enters supposed to be stage. In doing so Mr. Roberts accidentally came in contact with the scenery of the inn, bringing the whole set down. The curtain had to be lowered. "Mose," said Mr. Subbub "I and the vivacious comedian came to the front and said. RUBBER HISTORY.

NO. 2.

Man That Came With Columbus Saw Haitians Playing Ball.

"The world was a long time learning the uses and value of rubber." says H. E. Armstrong in Ainslee's. "For two centuries after the Spaniards saw the gum in the hands of natives of the new world it was little more than a curiosfty. Old Herrea, who went with Columbus on his second voyage, made a note of an elastic ball which was molded from the gum of a tree. At their games the nude Haitians made it bound high in the air. The Aztecs were familiar with the gum and called it wie, and from them the Spaniards learned to smear it on their coats to keep out the wet. They had crossed the seas for gold and never dreamed of a time when the sticky milk the uncouth Indians drew from strange trees would be worth more than the treasure of the "Jose, king of Portugal, in 1555, comes down to us as the wearer of a pair of boots sent out to Para to be covered with a waterproof gum. Yet 300 years were to elapse before a Connecticut Yankee should make a pair of boots of rubber which would not decompose. Dr. Priestly, author of a work on 'Perspective,' now forgotten, recorded that caoutchouc (pronounced kachook) was useful in small cubes for rubbing out pencil marks; hence the name rubber. The India linked with it refers to the savages who gathered it in the Amazon wilderness. Dr. Priestly's cubes were half an inch long and sold for 3 shillings, or 75 cents, aplece—a stiff price, for the finest rubber today is $1 a pound. Its price for ten years has ranged from 62 cents to $1.09.

"The conversion of the gum to useful purposes made but slow headway. The first waterproof cloth in 1797 was the work of an Englishman. It was tentative, and, of course, it would not stand heat. In 1823 Charles Mackintosh of Glasgow discovered naphtha and, dissolving rubber in it, produced a varnish which, when spread on cloth, made it really impervious to water. Most of the rubber used in the world still comes from equatorial South America, and the forests where the Indians gathered ule are as dense today and almost as little known to white men as in the time of Cortes."

Why They Were Selected. It has been recorded that General

Henry Knox, in 1783, was the "greatest" of 11 distinguished officers of the army, weighing 280 pounds. Noah Brooks, in his book entitled "Henry Knox," gives the following incident re-

Some system of notation has been used since time out of memory. The first record we have of it is of figures written with a stick on a flat surface covered with sand. Before that all calculations were made with pebbles, beans and the like. Even now the Chinese do their calculating with little stones or beads strung on wires, in a frame. The Romans first used vertical lines-I, II, III, etc.-to express numbers. The Arabic figures, which we commonly use at the present time, are Metaphor.

The Minneapolis (Kan.) Messenger says: "We once heard Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt eulogize Mrs. Stanton, Harriet Beecher Stowe and Susan B. Anthony as follows: 'These are the women who laid themselves down in the dust, as it were, to form a bridge over which you and I might go dry shod.'

"Once we heard the president of Brown university describe the old charter oak, first as a safety vault, then as a hearthstone, and at last he made a lightning change and brought out the old tree as the rudder to the ship of state. That beat anything we ever heard and the greater surprise, too, coming as it did from such a profound scholar."

Cheating the Cat.

The meanest man is around town in many guises and in considerable numbers, but the meanest woman is a recent discovery. She lives in Philadelphia, and for the sake of saving a cent a day she cheats the cat by giving inebriated and staggers about the her each morning a saucerful of milk, and after about two teaspoonfuls of it have been lapped up she dilutes the milk with water and continues to de so till evening. When remonstrated with by her husband recently she said: 'Well, the eat down't know the difference. It looks like milk, anyhow, and if I didn't thin it out for her we'd have to have 2 cents' worth for breakfast each day."-Philadelphia Record.

An Acquired Taste. "Yes, there is something in a name. There's my wife, for instance."

"What about her?" "Why, her first name is Olive, and I didn't like her at all at first."-Cleveland Plain Dealer.

FELONIOUS ASSAULT.

The northern part of Middletown Valley is greatly excited over a brutal assault which was perpetrated morning by an unknown white man, who afterward made good his escape. The victim was Miss Carrie Smith, aged 16 years, daughter of Mr. Stratton Smith, a well known farmer of near Pleasant Walk, a few miles north of Myers ville.

"Something New Under The Sun."

All Doctors have tried to cure CA-TARRH by the use of powders, acid gases, inhalers and drugs in paste form. Their powders dry up the mucuous membranes causing them to crack open and bleed. The powerful acids used in the inhalers have ntirely eaten away the same membranes that their makers have aimed to cure, while pastes and ointments cannot reach the disease. An old and experienced practitioner who has for many years made a close study and specialty of the treatment of CATARRH, has at last perfected a Treatment which when faithfully used, not only religious at once but representation. nly relieves at once, but permanently ures CATARRH, by removing the cause, opping the discharges, and curing all inmunation. It is the only remedy known science that actually reaches the afflictions.

How to Lie When Sleening.

The correct posture for sleep is to lie on the right side with the limbs stretched out to their full length and the arms either straight down by the body or in any comfortable position, provided they are not raised above the head. The mouth should be closed, and all the muscles of the body should be relaxed.

The lungs work with greater deliberation during the hours of sleep, and if the arms are raised above the head at this time and for any period the action of the heart drives the blood away from the arms and sends it to the head, frequently making one very restless when it does not prevent sleep entirely. -American Queen.

I don't think that it has a popular name. It is too rich for that. In the pharmacists' list it is quoted at $1 a grain, or $437.50 an ounce. The seed from which the drug is made grows in India and Brazil, as well as in parts of South Africa. This seed, tradition says, was once used by native chiefs as an ordeal. The ordeal generally resulted in the death of the man upon whom it was tried and so was considered as a great truth finder. The prepared drug is sometimes used now in prescriptions for the treatment of heart disease.

"Another drug which takes the palm for costliness is, curiously enough, the one which is perhaps the most widely known by name of them all to the general public-namely, musk. Its retail orice at the present moment is about $50 an ounce, $600 a pound apothecary, or 21/2 times the value of pure gold, 24 carats fine. It is obtained from the musk deer, a very rare animal, and is contained in a follicle, of which there is only one in each animal, so that an ounce of the drug represents approximately one of these precious animals. As it is largely used for scent, the demand constantly exceeds the supply, and the price has been steadily advancing. There is no reason why it should not go to $250 or $500 an ounce during the next few years, as the musk deer is gradually vanishing from the face of the earth."-Kansas City Jour-

Bread and Cheese. A couple advanced in years got mar-

The husband had a room in the house securely locked, the inside of which his wife had never seen, and, being curious as to its contents, she begged again and again to see the room. At last he consented, and, lo and behold, the room was full of whole cheeses! He explained matters by telling her that for every sweetheart he had in his young days he bought a cheese. His wife began to cry.

"Don't cry, dear," he continued. "I've had no sweetheart since I met you." "It's not that," she replied, still sobbing. "I only wish I had been as thoughtful as you and bought a loaf of bread for every man that kissed me. We could have had bread and cheese enough to last us all our days."-Lon-

Forever Settled.

She-That's because there are no feminine rascals!-Chicago Tribune.

Ingratitude.

"No. I won't give you a piece of my apple," snapped his sister. "And who was it," the boy inquired reproachfully, "that spoiled the piano so you didn't have to practice for a week?"-Philadelphia Times.
