BY GUY S. NUNEMAKER.

Co. G, 43rd Infantry, U. S. V.

June 19, 1901 .- We are drawing near to the 180th meridian, the international date line, and two days in one will be ours. When the earth is circumnavigated, starting from a point and continuing in an easterly direction until the point of departure is reached, then one day will have been gained. Sailing

West and a day will be lost. The watches will be set back twenty-four hours and the evening of June 19th will develop into the morning of June 19th. Eight days in one week, two Wednesdays in one week. Quite a peculiar occurrence, but perfectly natural and in compliance with universal laws.

At this point of the earth's surface and at this time of the year the days are long and the nights short. Darkness makes its appearance at eleven and is only temporary, as it leaves at two in the morning, and again we have day.

Wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street. New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I to CATARRH when neglected often leads feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this discressing disease. Yours respectfully,

O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE Co. Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle, and A. W. GLEASON,

DROWNED AT LAKE ROYER.

Miss Finafrock Lost Her Life By The Boat Upsetting-Search for the Body. Miss Mary Finafrock, aged 18 years, of York, Pa., a school teacher, was drowned at 4 o'clock Sunday evening while boating in Lake Royer, at Buena Vista Spring, on the mountain near ment which followed the boat was overturned, pitching them and Rinehart into the water. Miss Finafrock sank immediately. According to the testimony of some, she never rose again, while others say she came up once and struck the boat and sunk again, probably unconscious. Mrs. Wecker was in danger of drowning, but Edward Rottler, of Hagerstown, now working in York, swam to her side and managed to get her into the boat. Rinehart saved bathing when the boat upset. Twenty divers diligently sought for the body, search of Miss Finafrock's body, which The finding of the body of Miss Fina-frock was accomplished Tuesday morning after dragging the waters for two nights and a day. The body was re-covered by H. M. Martin and Edward McGonigle, of Waynesboro. They left equipped with dynamite, and drove to the lake, reaching there before the arrival of the two expert divers who had been summoned from Baltimore. Securing a boat they went to the spot where Miss Finafrock was drowned. Attaching about three pounds of dynamite to several hundred feet of insulatd wire they lowered the explosive ino the lake and attached the wire to a dynamo in the boat. The explosion terrific, muffled roar and disturbed the bosom of the lake perceptibly. In a few minutes the body of hauled it into the boat and went ashore They were paid the $25 reward at once.

This gentleman is familiar with all the intermountain roads, where the trains have to all but fly to reach some of their destinations.

"One might suppose that all roads would look alike to the experienced engineer, but they don't. Along some of the prairie roads an engineer can take a run on any new track almost as well as on one he has traveled for years and knows with his eyes shut. But here in the west it is different. Down in Colorado, where are some of the greatest monuments to the railroad builder that have ever been erected, an engineer has to travel over the roads sometimes for weeks with old, experienced engineers who know the track before he will be trusted with a train. It isn't a question of engineering ability; merely one of experience.

For one thing, a man does not last there as he does on a less picturesque, more prosaic run. It takes youth and strength and courage of a rare order to stand it all. The companies are the most appreciative in the world, for they realize how hard it is to get a good man, and they treat a good man right royally. But even this does not attract a surplus of the right sort.

"The principal dangers are in the heavy grades and in the sharp curves, though landslides are far from unknown. One must know his train and his road like a book to get through with his life on the Marshall pass, for instance, where you seem to plunge headlong down the mighty hill. Dollars In Odd Shapes.

Under the law a silver dollar may be a grain and a half over weight or a grain and a half under weight, and this "limit of tolerance" applies to all of our silver coins. In other words, they are not allowed to vary more than that much from standard. In the case of goldpieces, the limit is half a grain either way up to the eagle, a variation of as much as one grain being permissi-

Each dollar is first weighed on exquisitely delicate scales ed between two steel rollers again and again until it is flattened out and transformed into a thin strip of silvera sort of ribbon-a foot and a half in length. Then it is put beneath a little machine provided with several small punches, by which hundreds of tiny disks are purched out of the metal strip. Now, the object of this performance is to obtain samples of metal from all parts of the dollar, inasmuch as it is conceivable that one portion might be richer in silver than another. The little disks are shuffled together, and a few of them, taken at random from the lot, are subjected to an assay. Thus the fineness of the material of the dollar is ascertained with absolute accuracyand, the weight having been already determined, the value and correctness of that coin are perfectly known.

The sample pieces having been found correct, it is inferred that the entire batch of dollars is all right.-Saturday Evening Post.

Natural Waters.

All natural waters contain a greater or less amount of mineral matter in solution. Rain water has the smallest percentage of solid impurities of any, and therefore it is taken as the standard variety of soft water.

The terms soft and hard, however, as applied to water are scientifically onsidered purely relative. Water is usually reckoned to be Shrewd Thievery.

"Americans who go abroad must expect to be robbed right and left," said a young man who recently returned from a brief European tour. "One expects to be held up for all sorts of tips, but when the beggars follow you home you can't help feeling a sort of admiration for their ingenuity. "I went over on one of the Red Star line boats, and the first thing I did on landing at Antwerp was to go to the cable office and send a message to my mother announcing my safe arrival. I paid the toll and thought no more about it until I got home, when among my mail I found a letter from the Antwerp operator, addressed in care of my mother, saying that through an error he had not charged me enough for my cablegram sent on such and such a date, that he had been obliged to pay the difference out of his own pocket, and as his salary was very small and he had a large family and all that sort of thing he felt sure I would reimburse

"The amount was a trifling one, and I did send him a foreign money order. I have since learned from experienced travelers that I had been made the victim of a systematic form of robbery and that scarcely a cablegram is sent from the other side unless it is of a business nature that is not followed by some such plea from the European the youth of Daniel Webster. I was taking breakfast at the tavern kept by Daniel's father, Daniel and his brother Ezekiel, who were little boys "One day," said the old man, "while brother Ezekiel, who were little boys with dirty faces and snarly hair, came to the table and asked me for bread and butter.

"I complied with their request, little thinking that they would become very distinguished men. Daniel dropped his piece of bread on the sandy floor, and the buttered side of course was down. He looked at it a moment, then picked it up and showed it to me, say-

'What a pity! Please give me a piece of bread buttered on both sides; then if I let it fall one of the buttered sides will be up."

Where Americans Are Modest. The American is shy of proclaiming to the world his deepest sentiments and superstitions, if he has any. He prefers to take himself either as a joke or as a matter of business. Hence when he has a town to name he calls it "Smithville" or "New Bristol" or, as actually happened in the case of one town, "O. K." He may believe in a local ghost, he may love his wife, he may admire the view from his windows and pine when torn from the woods and mountains among which he passed his boyhood, but he does not want to put those emotions into the postoffice di- THE DATLY AMERICAN. rectory.-Washington Times.

FOND OF THE GIRLS.

The Love Affairs of the Father of His Country.

George Washington's love affairs began at a very early age, and he was to the day of his death "fond of the girls." The first sweetheart was one Mary Bland, with whom he fell in love when he was only 14 years of age. This is ascertained from an entry in one of his diaries, where he refers to her as his "lowland beauty." Having tired of Mary, he wrote to a friend that he had decided to "bury his chaste and troublesome passion," which, having done, he soon found himself enamored of Lucy Cary, a sister-in-law of Colonel Fairfax. His affection for this young lady lasted for some years, being only interrupted new and again by his natural Virginia passion of making love It is generally to the interest of an to every pretty girl whom he met.

In 1758 at Waynes Ferry, while traveling to Williamsburg with dispatches, he met his future wife, Mrs. Martha Dandridge Custis, the widow of Daniel Park Custis. We learn from history that she was young, pretty, intelligent and rich. He had been with her all of an afternoon and was to ride and then and there told of his love and asked her to become his mate for life. This time, contrary to his previou proposals, he was accepted.-Chicago Times-Herald.
