PRESIDENT MCKINLEY SHOT TWICE.

HIS LIFE MAY BE SAVED.

The Chief Executive Murderously Attacked by an Anarchist While Holding a Reception.—The Assassin in Jail.

Hon. William McKinley, President of the United States, was shot twice while holding a public reception in the Temple of Music on the Pan-American Exposition grounds, Buffalo, N. Y., at 4:12 o'clock Friday afternoon, Sept. 6, 1901.

One bullet took effect in the right breast and the other in the abdomen. The first wound was not of a serious nature and the bullet was extracted. The second bullet went through the President's stomach and lodged in the muscles of the back. The second bullet was not extracted Friday night.

The President after the shooting was taken to the Emergency Hospital on the Exposition grounds, and later to the residence of John G. Milburn, President of the Exposition.

The assassin, it was learned by the Buffalo police, is Leon Czolgosz. He was born in Detroit and went to Buffalo from Cleveland.

Scene as He Was Shot.

Five minutes before the President was shot the crowd was in the most cheerful humor in the Temple of Music. The police had found no trouble of any kind, and when the President's carriage, containing besides the Chief Executive President John G. Milburn, of the Pan-American Exposition, and Private Secretary George B. Cortelyou, drove up to the side entrance of the Temple it was met by a mighty salute of cheers and applause.

The three alighted and were escorted to the door of the building.

Almost immediately a carriage containing Secret Service Men George Foster and Samuel R. Ireland drove up, and these detectives with several other Secret Service men entered the building together. Inside they were met by Director General Buchanan, who had arrived only a moment before, and he directed them as to where to stand.

In passing to the place the President took off his hat and smiled pleasantly to a little group of newspaper men and to the guards stationed in the place. To one of the reporters he spoke smilingly, saying:

"It is much cooler in here, isn't it?"

President Stood in Aisle.

The interior of the building had been arranged for the reception. From the main entrance, which opens to the southeast from the temple into the wide esplanade, where thousands had gathered, an aisle had been made through the rows of seats in the building to a point near the center. This aisle was about eight feet wide and turned near the center to the southwest floor of the temple, so that there was a passage dividing the south part of the structure into a right angle.

It was so arranged that the people who would shake hands with the President would enter at the southeast door, meet the President in the center and then pass on out at the southwest door. Where the aisle made the curve in the center of the building the corner had been decorated with tall palms and green plants, so the President stood under a bower. Both sides of the long aisle were covered with continuous strips of purple bunting.

Soldiers Were at Hand

From the southeast door and extending on up to and around the curve was a line of soldiers from the Seventy-third Seacoast Artillery on each side. These were interspersed with neatly uniformed guards from the Exposition police, under the command of Captain Damer.

When the Presidential party was within the building the soldiers came to "attention" and all took their places. The President was escorted to the center of the palm bower, and Mr. Milburn took a position on his left, so as to introduce the people as they came in.

Secretary Cortelyou stood by the President to the right. Secret Serviceman Foster, who has traveled everywhere with the President, took a position not more than two feet in front of Mr. Milburn and Secret Serviceman Ireland stood on his left, so that Ireland was the same distance in front of the President as was Foster in front of Mr. Milburn.

Was in Fine Humor.

Through this passage the people who would meet the President must pass. When all was ready, with detectives scattered throughout the aisle, the President smiled to Mr. Buchanan, who was standing near the corporal in charge of the artillerymen, and said that he was ready to meet the people. He was very pleasant and as he waited for the doors to open he rubbed his hands together, adjusted his long Prince Albert coat, and laughingly chatted with Mr. Milburn. Secretary Cortelyou gave a few last instructions to the officers as to the manner in which the crowds were to be hurried on through, so that as many as possible could meet the Executive.

Mr. Milburn ordered the door to open, and a wavering line of people, who had been squeezed against the outside of the door for hours, began to wend its way up through the lines of soldiers and police to the place where the President stood. An old man with silver white hair was the first to reach the President, and on his shoulder the little girl he carried received a warm salutation.

Organist W. J. Gomph started on a sonata, low at first, and swelling gradually to more majestic proportions until the whole auditorium was filled with the melodious tones of the big pipe organ.

The crowd had been pouring through hardly more than five minutes when the organist brought from his powerful instrument its most roaring notes, drowning even the scuffle of feet.

Fully half of the people who passed the President were women and children. To every child the President bent over, shook hands warmly and said some kind words, so as to make the young heart glad. As each person passed he or she was viewed critically by the secret service men. Hands were watched, faces and actions noted.

A Supposed Accomplice.

Far down the line a man of unusual aspect appeared taking his turn in the line. He was short, heavy, dark, and beneath a heavy dark mustache was a pair of straight, bloodless lips. Under the black brows gleamed a pair of glistening black eyes.

He was picked at once as a suspicious person and when he reached Foster the secret service man held a hand on him until he had gotten to the President and had clasped the Chief Executive's hand. Ireland was equally alert and the slightest move on the part of this man, who is now supposed to have been an accomplice, and for whom a search is being made, would have been checked by the officers.

The Assassin Enters.

Immediately following this man was the President's assailant. He was a rather tall, boyish-looking fellow, apparently 25 years old, and of German American extraction. His smooth, rather pointed face would not indicate his purpose in slaying the nation's Executive.

The Secret Service men noted that about his right hand was wrapped a handkerchief. As he carried the handkerchief, as if supported by a sling under his coat, the officers believed his hand was injured, and especially as he extended his left hand across the right so as to shake hands with the President. It was noticed that the person who was in front of the assassin held back, apparently to shield the young man, so that it was necessary for Ireland to push him on.

The organist had now reached the climax to the sonata. A more inspiring scene could hardly be imagined. Innocently facing the assassin the President smiled a smile of dignity and benevolence as he extended his right hand to meet the left of the supposedly wounded friend.

Two Rapid Shots.

As the youth extended his left hand he, quick as a flash, as if trained by long practice, whipped out his right hand—the one which held the pistol. Before anyone knew what was transpiring two shots rang out, one following the other after the briefest portion of a second.

For the first moment there was an awful hush. The sonata died instantly, the people stopped and could not breathe. Then there was pandemonium. The Chief Executive, it was known, had been shot.

The President drew his right hand quickly to his chest, raised his head and his eyes rolled. He swayed a moment, reeled and was caught in the arms of Secretary Cortelyou, to the right.

"May God Forgive Him."

Catching himself for the briefest second the President, whose face was now of the whiteness of death, looked at the assassin as the officers and soldiers bore him to the floor and said feebly and with the most benevolent look it is possible to imagine:

"May God forgive him."

The President was carried first one way, then a step in another direction. The excitement was so sudden that for a moment no one knew what to do. Finally someone advised carrying him inside the purple edge of the aisle and seating him on one of the chairs.

The bunting was in a solid piece. No one had time to produce a knife had he been able to think of such a thing. A couple of men tore the benches aside and trampled the bunting down, while Mr. Milburn and Secretary Cortelyou half carried the President over the line and into the passageway leading to the stage, which had not been used.

The President was able to walk a little, but was leaning heavily on his escort. In passing over the bunting his foot caught and for a moment he tumbled. A reporter extricated his foot, and the President was carried to a seat, where a half dozen men stood by and fanned him vigorously. Quick calls were sent for doctors and to the ambulance.

"This Wound Pains Greatly."

While seated for a moment Secretary Cortelyou leaned over the President and inquired:

"Do you feel much pain?"

White and trembling, the President slipped his hand into the opening in his shirt front near the heart and said:

"This wound pains greatly."

As the President withdrew his hand the first and second fingers were covered with blood. He looked at them, his hand dropped, and he became fainter. His head dropped heavily to his chest and those about him turned away.

Bore Himself Bravely.

The President's head then fell backward and he partially fainted. Mr. Milburn placed his hand back of the wounded man's head and supported it. This seemed to resuscitate the President and he sat stoically in the chair, his legs spread out on the floor, his lips clinched firmly, as if he would fight determinedly against death. He was giving the fight of a soldier, and more than one turned away trembling—all in the building trembled and shook, not from fear, but the tension—and remarked:

"He is certainly a soldier."

Assailant Overpowered.

While all this was transpiring the tragedy had not yet ended on the scene of the shooting. The shots had hardly been fired when Foster and Ireland were on top of the assailant. Ireland quick as thought had knocked the smoking weapon from the man's hand and at the same time he and his companion officer, with a dozen Exposition police and as many artillerymen, were upon the assailant. He was literally crushed to the floor.

While the President was being led away the artillerymen and guards cleared the building in a few moments of those who had entered to meet the Executive, but to do this it was necessary to draw their sabre bayonets and use extreme force.

Knocked Down By A Detective.

Foster had reached under the crowd and by almost superhuman strength pulled the intending murderer from under the heap. The man was grabbed by half a dozen guards and soldiers and by the Secret Service men who were near the scene at the time. Forcing the youth—for that is what he is—to the open, Foster clutched him by the throat with his left hand, saying:

"You murderer!"

Then he struck the assailant a vicious blow with his rock hard fist squarely in the face.

The blow was so powerful that the man was sent through the guard and went sprawling on the floor. He had hardly touched the floor when he was again set upon, this time by the guards and soldiers. He was kicked repeatedly until Captain Damer rushed in and drew back the guards. Foster made another attempt to get at the assailant, but he was held back, though he protested that he had full possession of his mind and knew what he was doing.

Collapsed After Crime.

The assailant was not given time to say a word. He was as white as his illustrious victim, and was shaking from head to foot. He had not the power to beg to be saved from the lynchers.

Weak with the excitement he was unable to stand on his feet, and he fell to the floor.

A half dozen guards, as many soldiers and several Secret Service men grabbed him—several at his feet, more at his head, but none to support his body. He was rapidly dragged over the floor up a short flight of stairs and into a room back of another to one side of the stage. There he was locked in with soldiers, guards and detectives, most of whom drew their revolvers ready to withstand any attempt that might be made by him.

This was a dramatic scene. The assassin had been hurled into a far corner of the room, where he lay in an apparently lifeless heap, his clothes torn, his face bleeding and his breath coming short. He shook all over like a mass of gelatine. His eyes rolled now and then to the ceiling and his limbs twitched nervously. Thus he was kept waiting until steps could be taken for removing him to a police station.

A conveyance was soon secured and Leon Czolgosz, the assassin, was hurriedly driven to the Buffalo jail.

FOR IVY POISONING.

One of the Best Remedies is Strong Soap-suds and Bicarbonate of Soda.

Poison ivy belongs to the sumac family, and derives its botanical name from the ancient Celtic "rhuidd" (red), and the Greek "toxicodendron," or poison plant. The origin of the poison, which causes great suffering to many people, was for a long time a mystery, as the plant itself contains no active poison, as do many plants, but it now seems to be certain that the plant nourishes -deadly bacilli, which enter the pores of the skin and give the poisoned parts the characteristic appearance.

It is said that some people cannot get into the neighborhood of poison ivy without suffering from the poison of the plant, while others can handle it without any ill effects. Many antidotes to the poison have been recommended, as it affects different people differently, and among the most efficacious has been strong soap-suds and bicarbonate of soda. One peculiarly painful result of rhus toxicodendron is that with many people the parts poisoned are liable to be affected for several years afterward at about the same period the disease was originally caught. This plant grows erect as well as recumbent, and in the former case is known as poison oak.

In addition to the aids of the druggist, however, nature is said to have provided a most efficient remedy for rhus toxicodendron poisoning, in the shape of a widely-spread flower known as "spotted touch-me-not," or "impatiens fulva." It is also called the "jewel weed," and is very abundant in the watercourses during June and July when the rhus toxicodendron and the rhus veneta are most poisonous. The color of the flower of the "spotted touch-me-not" is a deep orange, and the spots of it are a reddish brown. The lip forms a sac, not very much unlike the moccasin flower, and it ends in a curved spur. The seed pods burst if slightly touched, and scatter the seeds all around. To this peculiar property the plant owes its common name. It is called "noli-me-tangere" and "N'y touchez pas." The remedy is applied by expressing juices of the plant and applying the same to that part of the skin which has been poisoned.—Boston Transcript.

VETERANS IN LINE
CLEVELAND, Sept. 11.—The grand parade of the thirty-fifth national encampment of the G. A. R. was viewed by most of the 400,000 of the people of this city today and almost as many visitors.

The parade started soon after 10 o'clock from the intersection of Euclid and Case avenues, two miles from the center of the city, to the East. It moved for five hours. Ohio, the last in line, did not start till long after noon, and formed only half an hour earlier than that time.

Before half the procession had formed the advance departments had already finished and disbanded. It was a continuous parade, however.

The thousands of people in the reviewing stands and on the grandstands which lined Bond street in the Court of Honor saw a continuous parade six or eight miles long. The enthusiasm was tremendous. Old veterans pronounced it the greatest parade in the history of the G. A. R.

A feature that touched the veterans themselves was the flag formed by the grouping of children. Immediately in front of the marchers stood the grand stand, on which the school children were grouped in a huge American flag.

IN DEFENSE OF THE POTATO

A Worcester physician says that of all the articles of food commonly used there is no other that contains so little nourishment as potatoes. And the present potato famine, he says, is a blessing provided that it will lead us to adopt a substitute that shall furnish the body with more nutriment in proportion to the amount and relative cost.

The potato may be used in countless ways. It may be roasted or boiled for the use of man, woman or child, making a most delicious and salubrious repast; there is potato bread which makes the finest of toast; there are potato pie and pudding, both exceedingly good; potato yeast and potato starch; potato hair powder, equal to any if kept dry and perfumed with bergamot. Moreover, potatoes boiled and mashed fine in the water in which they were boiled, with a handful of Indian meal, make excellent fodder for the pigs; there is no better cow fattener than raw potatoes; they also make an excellent food for the horse, giving him a fine sleek skin, as though he had all the time lived upon luxuriant clover; they are an excellent substitute for coffee. Then there are potatoes saute, Lyonnaise, Italiene and what not else. A substitute for potatoes? Never!—Albany Journal.

GRIGGS OUTLINES PLAN

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 11.—Former Attorney-General Griggs said today that the talk of amending the Constitution to deal with the situation which arises out of the shooting of President McKinley is unnecessary.

"A law should be passed," he says, "making it an offence punishable by imprisonment for life to be a member of any organization that teaches the murder of public officials. It should be made a capital offense to attempt the life of the chief executive and the highest officers of the Government, whether it succeeds or not. This is not like ordinary attempted murder. The object of the crime is the subversion of the Government and is therefore aimed at every citizen of the republic."

H. C. WATKINS, sexton of the Methodist Church, Springfield, Pa., says: "My wife has been very bad with kidney trouble and tried several doctors without benefit. After taking one bottle of FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE, was much better, and was completely cured after taking four bottles." T. E. Zimmerman & Co.

OUR ARMY IN THE PHILIPPINES. The War Department has decided to bring the Twenty-third Infantry, now in the Philippines, to the United States on the transport Buford, which sails for New York via Suez on Sept. 15. The Kilpatrick, which sails the same day for San Francisco, will bring the Eighteenth Infantry. On her next trip, in December, the Kilpatrick will bring home the nine batteries of heavy coast artillery.

When these commands reach the United States there will be left in the Philippines about 43,000 officers and men. A further reduction of that force is not contemplated. General MacArthur and General Chaffee are of the opinion that about 40,000 men will be required in the Philippines for an indefinite period.

TWO WILL CASES.

When the Circuit Court met Wednesday morning Judge McSherry granted all the prayers of the defendants in the Plummer will case. The Judge said there was not sufficient evidence that undue influence had been practiced upon Mrs. Plummer, nor was the evidence that she was of unsound mind and incapable of making a will legally sufficient; hence the court instructed the jury to find a verdict for the defense. The case was on trial for five days. It was also tried at the February term of court, and the jury failed to agree after being out all night.

The will of Miss Marie Westling was postponed until next Monday. This involves an estate of about $135,000, of which $65,000 was left to foreign mission boards. Edgar H. Gans, of Baltimore, will defend Mr. William P. Mulsby in defending the executor of the will, ex-Senator Frank C. Norwood, who as a cousin to the deceased, is a large beneficiary under its provisions. The defense has arranged to have the evidence taken with a phonograph, as well as by the stenographers. The contestants, who are represented by former City Attorney Hammond Urner and Frank L. Stoner, are all cousins of Miss Westling and were given only small bequests.

FRANK LUCKLE, colored, who killed James Hoskins, colored, while defending Deputy Sheriff Davis, of Mineral county, West Virginia, was released by the grand jury, which considered the homicide justifiable.

For pimples, blotches, bad complexion Hood's Sarsaparilla is the medicine to take—it has established this fact.

negro superstition.

Many of the negro superstitions in Kentucky are quite interesting. An old philosopher told me with great gravity: "If you want peaches to grow, you must get mad. My old man and me had a spat, and I went right out and planted my peaches, and they come right up." Still another saying is that peppers to prosper must be planted by a redheaded or by a high tempered person.

The negro also says that one never sees a Jaybird on Friday, for the bird visits his satanic majesty to "pack kindling" on that day. The three signs in which negroes place implicit trust are the well known ones of the ground hog's appearing above ground on the 2d of February, that a hoe must not be carried through a house or a death will follow and that potatoes must be planted in the dark of the moon as well as all vegetables that ripen in the ground and that corn must be planted in the light of the moon.

Lord Southey's Guillotine.

The most eccentric action of an eccentric man was Lord Southey's cool arrangement for suicide by means of a guillotine. He had a magnificent one erected in the drawing room of his house in the Rue du Luxembourg at Paris. The machine was of ebony inlaid with gold and silver, the framework carved with artistic skill, the knife, sharp as a razor, was of polished and ornamented steel. Preparing for death, his lordship had his hair cut close, and, clothed in a robe of white silk, he knelt upon the platform under the knife before a mirror and pressed the spring which should release the knife. But the spring failed to work, and the would be suicide decided to give the guillotine a museum in order of making a second attempt to end his life. It is said that he made an annual pilgrimage to see the guillotine until the end of his life.

Laughter Saved the Ship. Humor has been credited with the saving of many things, but perhaps never before has a ship been saved by its judicious application. In a great storm many years ago a ship's crew were all at prayers, when a boy burst into a fit of violent laughter. Being reproved for his ill timed mirth and asked the reason for it, he said, "Why, I was laughing to think what a hissing the boatswain's red nose will make when it comes in contact with the water." This ludicrous remark set the crew laughing, inspired them with new spirits, and by a great exertion they brought the vessel safely into port—Liverpool Post.

Something to Remember. When a cough or cold is long neglected consumption almost invariably follows. Remember Mexican Syrup only costs 35 cents a bottle, and yet has proven in many thousand cases an absolute safe cure for coughs, colds and consumption. Taken in time it cures quickly. Children like it because it tastes so good. Insist on your druggist keeping it for sale. Beware of the seemingly miraculous cures it has effected, printed on the wrapper around the bottle.

A Pitiabie Sight.

What is more pitiable than to see a puny, delicate little child absolutely dying from neglect. There are many little ones, whose cheeks would grow rosy, whose eyes would grow bright, whose flesh would be plump and sweet, if only the worms that are gnawing at their insides were removed, which is easily effected with Mother's Worm Syrup, so nice to take that children ask for it. Also a cure for tapeworm in grown people. Try a 25 cent bottle.

A WORTHY SUCCESSOR

"Something New Under The Sun." All Doctors have tried to cure CATARRH by the use of powders, acid gases, inhalers and drugs in paste form. Their powders dry up the mucous membranes causing them to crack open and bleed. The powerful acids used in the inhalers have entirely eaten away the same membranes that their makers have claimed to cure, while pastes and ointments cannot reach the disease. An old and experienced practitioner who has for many years made a close study and specialty of the treatment of CATARRH, has at last perfected a cure that actually reaches the afflicted parts. This wonderful remedy is known as "SNUFFLES" the GUARANTEED CATARRH CURE and is sold at the extremely low price of One Dollar, each package containing internal and external medicine sufficient for a full month's treatment and everything necessary to its perfect use.

"SNUFFLES" is the only perfect CATARRH CURE ever made and is now recognized as the only safe and positive cure for that annoying and disgusting disease. It cures all inflammation quickly and permanently and is also wonderfully quick to relieve HAY FEVER or COLD in the HEAD. CATARRH when neglected often leads to CONSUMPTION. "SNUFFLES" will save you if you use it at once. It is no ordinary remedy, but a complete treatment which is positively guaranteed to cure CATARRH in any form or stage if used according to the directions which accompany each package. Don't delay but send for it at once, and write full particulars as to your condition, and you will receive special advice from the discoverer of this wonderful remedy regarding your case without cost to you beyond the regular price of "SNUFFLES" the "GUARANTEED CATARRH CURE." CHAINED FOR TEN YEARS

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails. The Rev. C. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., writes: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had over-spoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

Rev. Dr. Morris Wechsler, Rabbi of the Cong. Bnai Israel, New York, Jan. 8, 1901.

Des. TAFT BROS' MEDICINE CO., Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with Asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful. Very truly yours, REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.

Avon Springs, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1901.

Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York. I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can conscientiously recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease. Yours respectfully, O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

On last Friday whilst Mr. James Fitzgerald was feeding a horse grass at St. Joseph's Academy, the animal accidentally caught Mr. Fitzgerald's left thumb between his teeth, tearing the thumb nail loose, which caused a painful wound. KILLED HIS FATHER.
Tuesday evening Andrew Jackson, aged 45 years, was shot and perhaps fatally wounded by his 10-year-old son, James Jackson, at their home in Schleyville, a suburb of Frederick. After the shooting James Jackson and his brother-in-law, Benjamin Ford, escaped and have not yet been apprehended.

James Jackson and his wife, who have been making their home with his father, it is said, were preparing to move to Virginia. The father strenuously objected to this. He got some beer, in which they both indulged freely during the day. Being short of ammunition Jackson senior loaded his double barrel shotgun with some marbles for bullets and said he would kill anyone who attempted to induce his daughter-in-law to leave.

Her brother, Benjamin Ford, and Jackson senior became involved in a fight and the latter was getting the better of Ford. The son grabbed the gun from the corner and fired one load at his father. One marble lodged in his throat near the jugular vein, another entered his left breast near the nipple and another lodged in his left shoulder. Dr. Hedges extracted two of the marbles. The wounded man himself extracted one from his own shoulder before the physician arrived.

The young woman, who is only 18 years old, stood by and witnessed the whole affair. She said her father-in-law was the cause of the trouble.—Sun.

The train was going at a lively rate of speed near Poland Station, Anne Arundel county, when it ran under a wire strung across the track. McGinnis was standing on top of a box car and did not notice the wire until it struck squarely across the mouth. He was knocked down, and besides receiving injuries about the face had his tongue split. He was taken to a Baltimore hospital.

Don't Believe In Germ Theories.
In the Hagerstown City Council an ordinance was introduced, but not acted upon, to prohibit spitting upon the sidewalks and floors of street cars, public carriages and public buildings, the slaughtering of animals for food within the city limits from May 1 to October 1, and the keeping of hogs inside the municipality for the same period. Councilman George M. D. Brewer took a decided stand against the passage of the ordinance, saying this talk about hogs being unhealthful was all rot, as he was reared alongside of one and it did not affect his health. He didn't take much stock in the germ theories of the present day physicians, and held to the belief of the old school doctors. He is a butcher.

BOY DROWNED IN THE HARBOR
Howard F. Moon, son of Isaac Moon, 826 East avenue, Canton, was drowned Tuesday morning at the Lazaretto Guano Works, near the Lazaretto light-house. He was walking on one of the bulkheads when he fell overboard. Several persons saw the boy in the water, but thought he was one of a crowd of boys who frequently swim around the wharf. No one saw him sink, and it was not for some time that the boy was missed by his father, who was working at the guano works. The body was recovered by employees of the works and taken to his home. The drowned lad is one of a family of several children.

UNION SERVICES FOR PRESIDENT MCKINLEY'S RECOVERY.
It was an impressive service on Tuesday afternoon in the Lutheran Church in this place.

In accordance with the proclamation of Governor Smith, the pastors of the Reformed, Lutheran and Presbyterian Churches announced at the last Sunday morning service that this service of prayer for the President's recovery would be observed by the churches of our town.

Our public schools, with their respective teachers, attended in a body. It was an inspiration to both their patriotism and their piety.

The postoffice, stores, and places of business were generally closed from 2:30 to 3:45 p. m.

Rev. W. L. Orem, of the M. E. Church, Rev. W. C. B. Shulenberger, of the Reformed, Rev. D. H. Riddle, of the Presbyterian, and Rev. Chas. Reinwald, of the Lutheran, participated in the services.

A brief address, setting forth the occasion and cause of this solemn gathering, was made by Rev. Reinwald.

Never before in our Nation's history has there been a service similar to this. It is therefore without parallel or precedent in our history of a century and a quarter.

The choirs of our various churches combined their strength, which, with the very large and devout congregation, rendered the well-chosen hymns with telling effect.

It was a service that marks an epoch in the religious life of all whose patriotism and piety united in earnest and impetuous prayer to "Our Father in Heaven" to spare the life of our beloved Chief Magistrate.

GOV. SMITH'S PROCLAMATION.
On last Saturday Governor Smith issued a proclamation setting apart Tuesday, Sept. 10, as a day of prayer for the recovery of President McKinley, being the first executive of the various States to take such action. The proclamation is as follows:

Executive Department, Annapolis, Md., September 7, 1901.
Whereas, William McKinley, President of the United States, has been seriously wounded by an assassin while visiting the city of Buffalo; and,
Whereas, the death of the President would be a great calamity, not only to the people of Maryland, but to the whole land;

Now therefore I, John Walter Smith, Governor of the State of Maryland, do designate and set apart Tuesday, September 10, 1901, as a day of prayer for the President's recovery. And I do recommend that the people of Maryland abandon their regular vocations for at least a part of that day and assemble at their usual places of public worship and there make solemn supplication to Almighty God for the President's recovery from his wounds, and that the Divine Ruler of Nations may avert from this land, if in accord with his good purposes, the calamity which would come upon the people by the death of their Chief Executive.

And that it may please Him in His infinite mercy to strengthen and comfort his wife in this hour of tribulation.
Given under my hand and the Great Seal of Maryland.

Done at the city of Annapolis, on this seventh day of September, in the year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and one.

By the Governor,
JOHN WALTER SMITH,
Governor of Maryland.

Secretary of State, WILFRED BATEMAN.

POCOMOKE OIL FEVER.
Mr. Hendricks, of Pittsburg, who is responsible for the belief that oil exists in Worcester county in large quantities, is more and more confident, and is inspiring the community with hopefulness in the successful outcome of the experiments that are about to be made. It seems to be impossible for the general public to obtain the reason for his belief, but it is said he "feels" it and this peculiar "feeling" has even been communicated to one or two others who are interested in the venture. What is certainly true is that the stock of the Pocomoke Oil Company, which was formed recently to do some experimental boring, is in some demand. The maximum amount allotted to each subscriber is $100, and in some cases it is said whole families, including minor children, have applied for this amount each. One man who holds $25 of the stock refused an offer of $65. The promoters of the company are busy getting contracts with land owners in the "oil belt." The belt is supposed to lie to the Southeast of Pocomoke City, toward the Red Hills. The terms are liberal and the company agrees to begin operations within 12 months from the date of the contract. The whole county is sincerely hoping that oil will be found. It will be time enough, however, to form sanguine expectations when some decided result has been ascertained by a practical test. So far those embarking in the venture are doing so on a theory and on faith.

DIED IN HIS CELL.
Prisoner in Hagerstown Jail Takes His Own Life.

J. William Grant, in Hagerstown jail for killing Jacob Fuller and Policeman Murphy E. Flory last January, died in his cell Sunday evening. The general impression is that he died of poison. Sunday night Drs. W. B. Morrison, O. H. W. Ragan and H. S. Herman took out his stomach, which will be sent, together with a gelatine capsule containing a whitish powder, which fell out of the pocket of his nightshirt, to State Chemist Pennington, in Baltimore, for analysis. Justice Ernest Hoffman, acting coroner, directed that a jury of inquest be summoned to inquire into the cause of death. The jury was summoned by Constable Shaffer, with Edward M. Updegraff foreman. They viewed the body at the jail, examined one witness, Jacob Wheaton, colored, night watchman, and adjourned until Thursday, Sept. 12.

Grant for the past week or so seemed to be improved and in better spirits. Sunday morning a colored barber shaved him, and during the operation he fell asleep and was soon unconscious, in which condition he remained, excepting at infrequent intervals, until he died. Early Sunday morning he vomited and in the afternoon he frothed at the mouth and nose. His wife visited him last Friday but was not allowed to enter the cell. She spoke through the window in the presence of the guard.

Several weeks ago Grant was found suffering from similar symptoms, but his physicians then pronounced it an acute Bright's disease. Grant's body, after the autopsy, was removed to his home. He leaves a widow, who was a Miss Smoot, of Shepherdstown, W. Va., from which place they removed to Hagerstown 15 years ago, and three children—Guy, Lawrence and Edith. He was 52 years old and belonged to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

He was discharged from the service of the Cumberland Valley Railroad as engineer, and he blamed Fuller and Agent Samuel Long for his dismissal. He shot Fuller dead and shot at Long, a policeman. Flory was shot while going to arrest Grant.

Late Sunday night State's Attorney Poffenberger was at the jail, where the following note, written by Grant before his arrest, was taken from one of Grant's shoes:

"If anything happens attach no blame to anyone in Hagerstown. Was prepared before arrest."
In the same shoe with the paper was a piece of small wire about eight inches long, sharp at one end, which, it is thought, Grant used as a last resort to kill himself.

SHOT WHILE HUNTING.
While hunting squirrels along the Linaconing creek last Saturday morning, the eighteen year old son of Mr. Solomon Keeney, of near Libertytown, shot and instantly killed himself.

It is supposed that the shooting was accidental. Young Keeney was accompanied by an elder brother, who was not far away from him at the time the shooting occurred, but did not witness it.

The young men left home early Saturday morning and by 10 o'clock, the time when the younger brother was shot, had reached a point near Jones' mill, about three miles from Mr. Pleasant. When, after the fatal shot, the elder one sought his brother, he found the latter's body lying beside a log, with brain oozing from a large wound in the head. The gun was lying beside the body.

It is supposed that unfortunately young man sat down upon the log to rest, carelessly allowing the muzzle of the gun to point toward his head, and that while the gun was held in this position it was discharged.

Justice J. Francis Smith, of Frederick, was notified of the shooting and went immediately to the scene of the tragedy to hold an inquest.

SLANDER SUIT.
Benjamin S. Jones, of New York, has brought suit in the Worcester Circuit Court against his brother, Assyria L. Jones, claiming $10,000 for alleged slander. The suit is by titling and does not disclose the alleged slanderous words. The trouble is the outgrowth of a bill for injunction filed some weeks ago by Benjamin against Assyria to restrain the defendant from disposing of certain crops on the farm of the plaintiff occupied by the defendant, near Pocomoke City. The dispute arose from the fact that Benjamin claimed Assyria occupied the farm not on shares but was to be paid wages for his services, while Assyria claimed that he was a tenant on shares and entitled to a part of the crops which he was enjoying from disposing of. The suit is still pending.

Both parties are well known in the lower part of Worcester county, and are sons of the late Benjamin I. Jones, whose will was recently sustained by the Circuit Court against an attack by Benjamin and the widow of the testator.—Sun.

The Renewal of Strain.
Vacation is over. Again the school bell rings at morning and noon, again with tens of thousands the hardest kind of work has begun, the renewal of which is a mental and physical strain to all except the most rugged. The little girl that a few days ago had roses in her cheeks, and the little boy whose lips were then so red you would have insisted that they had been "kissed by strawberries," have already lost something of the appearance of health. Now is a time when many children should be given a tonic, which may avert much serious trouble, and we know of no other so highly to be recommended as Hood's Sarsaparilla, which strengthens the nerves, perfects digestion and assimilation, and aids mental development by building up the whole system.

PRESIDENT MCKINLEY SHOT TWICE.

Confident of the President's Recovery
The news dispatches from Buffalo concerning the condition of President McKinley are in the highest degree gratifying. Every indication points to his full recovery to health and strength. He continues to gain and the wound is healthy. Up to a late hour Wednesday night there was not a single unfavorable sign. Wednesday night Dr. Mynter said:

"We have bathed and fed the President and have moved him to another bed. His pulse shows that his blood is in a normal condition, and we feel that we can announce definitely there is not the least indication of blood poisoning."

The President was so cheery that one of the doctors remarked he would let him smoke a cigar before long.

Dr. McBurney said he had not decided just when he would return home. When asked as to when the President could be moved he said that no question as to this had arisen.

"If it was necessary," said the doctor, "he could be moved tonight. He could be placed in an ambulance, taken to the train, put on a lounge in a special car and taken to Washington. This is, so far as his condition is concerned, but there is no reason why he should not enjoy every comfort and take his time about it. It will not hurt him to remain a few weeks at Buffalo. The President is in a fair way to recovery, his condition is favorable and he is making good progress."

The attention of the physicians is now mainly directed to the care and treatment of the wound caused by the incision made in the abdomen when the operation was performed. This wound is progressing satisfactorily.

Leon Czolgosz, President McKinley's assailant, is still in jail at Buffalo. Czolgosz is a Pole.

Several anarchists have been arrested in different parts of the country, among them Emma Goldman, the anarchist leader whose words, Leon Czolgosz says fired his heart and brain to attempt the assassination of the President. She disclaims all but the slightest acquaintance with the President's assailant.

HARNEY ITEMS.
HARNEY, Md., Sept. 11.—One evening last week while Mr. James Black was in our town having cider made his horse became frightened at the whistle which one of the men blew that were working at the press. The horse fell to the ground dead. Fright was the cause of its death. The horse was a valuable one.

Mr. James Eckenrode, known as Uncle Jim, raised quite an excitement in town one day this week. He made fire in his store and in a few minutes the roof of the building was on fire. It is supposed to have caught from the pipe. Quite a large space was burned in the roof before the fire was seen, but through the efforts of the bucket and ladder company the fire was extinguished without further damage.

The funeral of Mr. A. Smith, which took place today was quite a large one. Over fifty teams followed his remains to the Piney Creek graveyard, where his body was laid to rest.

Rev. Beard, of Middletown, preached a Semi-Centennial sermon at the Mt. Joy Church on last Sunday, it being fifty years since the church was built. He also preached in the Lutheran Church, this place, Sunday afternoon.

DEMOCRATS ORGANIZE.

The Democratic county central committee met in the basement of the Court House, at 11 o'clock last Saturday morning for the purpose of organizing. Jacob M. Newman, chairman; Alfred Ritter and J. Roger McSherry, secretaries, and Samuel Wertheimer, treasurer, the old officers of the committee, were re-elected.

General L. Victor Bangham made an address in which he urged the Democrats of the county to go to work in earnest in order to win the most important fight that has been waged in the State for years.

The following resolution was passed by the committee:
"The Democratic Central Committee of Frederick County, Maryland, in session today, have heard of the attempted assassination and wounding of the President of the United States with great sorrow and indignation.

"They hereby desire to express to the wife and family of the distinguished sufferer their heartfelt sympathy and to them and to all the citizens of this country their earnest hope and prayer for his speedy recovery from this dastardly attempt upon his life."

NEGRO CAMP RIOTING.
There was considerable disturbance Sunday at a colored campmeeting at St. Augustine, Cecil county, which was attended by several thousand colored people from Cecil and Kent counties, Maryland, and New Castle county, Delaware. Deputy Sheriff William T. McAllister and a large number of deputies were present, but at times were powerless to preserve order. One man was shot and a number of others more or less injured. William Stephens and James Francis, both colored, were charged with making an attack upon Charles Reed, colored, who was shot, but the extent of his injuries are not known. Stephens was taken to Elkton Jail, but James is still at large. Garfield Hynson, colored, charged with conducting a speak-easy, several gallons of liquor being found in his possession.

George Call, a negro from South Carolina, who shot A. B. Wilson, a Baltimore and Ohio brakeman, at Hyndman, Pa., was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary and fined $100. FIRE LANES.

A Suggestion in Forestry From Southern New Jersey.

It is generally recognized throughout Europe that the construction of suitable fire-lanes throughout the forest conduces more to the prevention of great conflagrations than any other institution.

FIRE LANE IN A FOREST.

danger of great conflagrations very materially reduced. These fire lanes, in order to be efficient, must be wide, clean and well cared for; otherwise they are of little use.

Fire lanes may be constructed at slight expense in southern New Jersey. After the wood is cut it is necessary to plow three or four furrows along the edges and then to burn over the lane at times when there is no danger of setting fire to the neighboring woods.

The scheme which I have to suggest is that these fire lanes be constructed and kept in order in a way similar to the construction of state roads, which have been so popular of late.

A Queer Frontier Experience.

In narrating the frontier experiences of "The First White Baby Born in the Northwest" in The Ladies' Home Journal W. S. Harwood tells of a queer experience that befell the family in the first year after settling on a farm far removed from the settlements.

The winter had been unusually long and severe, and their stock of provisions ran low. It was a long distance to the nearest base of supplies, and communication with the outside world had been cut off.

Indians in the neighborhood one night broke into the granary where the wheat was stored and stole a quantity. In doing this a large amount of the broken glass became mixed with the wheat which the Indians left, so for many days, amid much merry story telling and many a joke and laugh, in spite of the serious situation, the family gathered about a large table in their living room and spent the short winter days picking over the wheat, kernel by kernel, in order to free it from the pieces of glass.

For this wheat stood between them and starvation, and none of its precious kernels must be lost. Their stock of flour had long since wasted away, as had most of their food supplies, so they boiled and ate the wheat without grinding. Relief reached them just in time to prevent a sad ending to the experience.

Arab and the Telephone. We had a party of Arabs along with us and took them all over a great newspaper office. Everything was wildly astonishing to them. They had imagined that the Koran contained all the knowledge and wisdom of the world.

They had the telegraph, the telephone, the electric fan and the printing press. The place was a veritable enchanters' castle to them. They would never have believed in the telephone if I had not called up their hotel and got one of their own party at that end of the wire.

Notes In Everything.

You are skeptical about the accuracy of this statement and ask why water does not leak from a bottle if there are holes in everything? The answer is simple enough—the drops or globules of water are bigger than the holes. Taking glass as an illustration, we find that air is about the only substance that can get through those holes.

A scientist proposes the following as an experiment: Place a ball in a bottle exhausted of air and hermetically sealed. The ball will not ring because the medium for conveying sound is not there.

Set the bottle aside for a few months, then try the ball again, and it will ring faintly, perhaps, but nevertheless there will be a sound. That means that the air has got in. It has made its way through the holes in the glass.

The incandescent lamp is a bulb of glass exhausted of air so that the slender filament may glow when the electricity runs along it. The air works its way in gradually and the light becomes less brilliant in proportion.

Nuts as Food. Nuts contain a large amount of nourishment, and owing to their oily nature digest easily. Eaten with salt they are palatable. Either as a dessert course or salted and used as a relish their value is the same. They are not expensive, for from the peanut through the imported varieties they can be bought in bulk at small cost.

The peanut has many good qualities to recommend it, and from its lowstate is coming to the front as an important item in dietetics. It is supposed to cure insomnia if eaten just before retiring. Salted, they are much cheaper than almonds. The small hickory nut, at a few cents a quart, can be used on the most economical table. The English walnut makes a very good salad blanching and used with celery. Filberts, almonds and Brazil nuts are more expensive, but as only a few are needed at a time the cost is not great.—Women's Home Companion.

Called Lorillard's Bluff. Heavy better as he was, Pierre Lorillard once met his match when he ran up against gray bearded James E. Kelly, who introduced bookmaking into this country.

"I'll just take a little of the conceit out of that saved off Irishman," said Lorillard to Wright Sanford, Newbold Morris, John Hunter and a few other congenial spirits.

"I'll lay $10,000 on my horse at that price, Kelly," said Mr. Lorillard in his princely fashion, expecting to see Kelly wilt and refuse to take the wager.

"Certainly, Mr. Lorillard." Then turning to his sheet writer, Kelly said: "$25,000 against $10,000, Pierre Lorillard, you're on."

The city council of Auckland placed a price on the head of every rat in the city, and a grocer's boy became a perfect Nimrod and slew about 30. At the risk of contracting the plague he carried his dead load, obtained the scalp money and came back jubilant to his master and told him how much he had made.

The Dictionary. If you want to be really interested, read the dictionary. It will tell you how very badly other people spell our language and, incidentally, what a tiny handful of words we each dip up out of its ocean.—Minneapolis Times.

Cleaning Furniture. Where a piece of furniture is very much soiled and requires to be cleaned and polished, first wash it thoroughly with warm soapy water, washing only a small surface at a time and drying it quickly by rubbing it hard with a dannel.

1837. THE SUN, 1901.

FOR THE PEOPLE AND WITH THE PEOPLE. HONEST IN MOIVE. FEARLESS IN XPRESS IN SOUND IN PRINCIPLE.

A newspaper is an educator; there are all kinds of educators, but the man who spends money judiciously and liberally is better able to impart his knowledge than the man who has little or nothing to give.

The Sun is the highest type of a newspaper. The Sun's motto is "Honest in Moive, Fearless in Xpress, Sound in Principle." It is the only newspaper published in the United States, Canada, and Mexico, South Africa, China, and, in fact, all over the world, make it an indispensable newspaper.

THE MARKET REPORTS and commercial features put the farmer, the merchant and the broker in close touch with the markets at Baltimore, Norfolk, Charleston, New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and other places which are prominent centers.

From now on the news of the world promises to be more interesting and important and national and political questions will be making probably the most eventful period in the country's history.

This, together with the corps of editors and reporters at Baltimore, Washington and New York, make The Sun invaluable to its readers.
