A few days afterward, on my return from school, my eyes were delighted by the sight of an animal I had never seen before. It was a raccoon, which the young man, Jonathan, had killed and brought home in triumph. When skinned, he seemed to be one entire mass of fat and of a most delicate whiteness. I was overjoyed and went to bed early to dream of delicious steaks which the morrow would bring. Long before daylight I heard the family stirring, and the alacrity of quick footsteps and the repeated opening and shutting of doors all gave assurance of the coming holiday.

I was soon ready for breakfast, and when seated at table I observed that the place of Jonathan was vacant. "Where is Jonathan?" I asked.

"Gone to market," said they. "Market! What market, pray? I did not know there was any market in these parts."

"Oh, yes," they said, "he is gone to -, about thirty miles to the southward of us." "And what has called him up so nified and Never Rush. A font of type in the Chinese language requires 11,000 spaces, and in the large and spacious rack each word, instead of each letter, as in English, has a place by itself. There is also a peculiar grouping or classification of symbols into groups to further facilitate the mental labors of the typesetters. Thus, in the immediate vicinity of the symbol for fish would be found the symbols of scales, net, fins, tail gills. This simplifies the labor, which in any event must be so strenuous that is evident that the compositor's end of the Chinese newspaper should, if perfect justice ruled, be the highest

The compositor is a staid and dignif from symbol to symbol, picking up those which he requires with provoking calmness, the American compositor might well wonder when the work ould be completed, and to set up the type required for a small four page daily paper the constant labors of eight or nine skilled Chinamen are required for twelve or thirteen hours, the entire work in every department being the antipodes of the rush and whirl and marvelous celerity of the modern American publication. When the paper is set up, it is printed on an American press, but the type, the symbols, are all made in China.

PROFIT-SHARING WITH EMPLOYES. The plan just promulgated by the United States Steel Corporation for getting its employes interested in the business seems in some aspects a good one. It has been called a profit-sharing scheme, but this seems to be a misnomer. The only way in which the employes will le able to share the profits is to buy stock in the company, and upon the stock they buy they will, of course, receive such dividends as may be declared. That kind of profit-sharing is open to all who can buy the stock. But still the offer to the employes of the steel corporation seems to be a liberal one and a wise one. The plan is to enable each workman employed by the main company or any of the subsidiary companies to purchase preferred stock and pay for it by successive payments. The price is to be about the present market price, at which the stock is paying over 8 per cent. interest. There is also provision for bonus dividends to such employes as may holk their stock for not less than

In other words, the larger application resulted in the most satisfactory crop even though the plants did not economically use the larger amounts applied.

Plenty and Often Does It. The method of application may be partly responsible for the difference in the yields from the different quantities applied—that is, we find that the method of application, as well as the amount applied, exerted an influence upon the yield and marketable value of the crop. Averaging the number of marketable heads upon plots 2 and 4, upon which the nitrate was used in two top dressings, we find the gain to be 945 heads, while the average gain from plots 3 and 5, upon which the amounts applied were divided into three equal portions, we have a gain of 1,630 heads, or an increase of 685 heads, due to the third application, the distribution of was obtained from an extra 100 pounds highest selling price.

Mrs. Laura S. Webb, Vice-President Woman's Demo-cratic Clabs of Northern Ohio.

"I dreaded the change of life which was fast approaching. I noticed Wine of Cardui, and decided to try a bottle. I experienced some relief the first month, so I kept on taking it for three months and now I menstruate with no pain and I shall take it off and on now until I have passed the climax.'

Female weakness, disordered menses, falling of the womb and ovarian troubles do not wear off. They follow a woman to the change of life. Do not wait but take Wine of Cardui now and avoid the trou-ble. Wine of Cardui never fails to benefit a suffering woman of any age. Wine of Cardui relieved Mrs. Webb when she was in danger. When you come to the change of life Mrs. Webb's letter will mean more to you than it does now. But you may now avoid the suffering she endured. Druggists sell $1 bottles of Wine of Cardui.
