A NEAT BUNKO GAME

HOW THE MAN WHO THOUGHT HE KNEW IT ALL WAS FOOLED.

A Scheme That Worked the Way the Betting Went and Gave No Clue as to How the Tip Was Passed or Break or Not to Break the Jug.

"It's a good thing for us, I suppose, that whenever we get it all settled and arranged in our minds that we're too over-enthusiastically bright and crafty to be 'done' by anybody we usually get a fall that takes the perkiness out of us," said a Washington department store buyer who makes frequent trips to New York. "Up to a certain day last week, for example, I had a pretty thorough understanding with myself that there was no old kind of a New York bunko game that I'd bite on. I'd been going to New York too often and for too long a time for anything like that. Well, listen.

"A week ago Monday morning last I was standing after breakfast on the Thirty-sixth street side of the Marlborough hotel, in New York, taking a sun bath for myself and mapping out my programme for the day. Two or three other men were standing near me doing the same.

"Our attention was lazily enlisted as we stood there by the spectacle of a boy wearing a chef's cap and apron recklessly swinging an empty crockery pitcher above his head. The boy was rigged up like a hotel kitchen apprentice.

"What infernal whelps most boys are, anyhow!" remarked a sporty looking man standing near me to a plain looking individual who was standing alongside of him. "Now, just look at that cub fooling with that pitcher. It's a cinch that he'll drop it and smash it to smithereens before he gets to Seventh avenue."

"Oh, I dunno," was the reply of the plain looking man. "I guess the kid knows what he's about. He's got a pretty good clutch on the handle of the pitcher. He'll hang on to it all right."

"Bet you five he drops it before he reaches Seventh avenue," was the quick response of the man with the sporty look.

"I guess I'll take that bet," answered the plain looking man, and he produced the five. The sporty looking citizen peeled a V from his roll and both men put up their money with the uniformed carriage opener stationed outside the Marlborough. Then they took up the jog together toward Seventh avenue to keep an eye on the boy, who was still swinging the pitcher wildly. I held my ground and watched the proceeding. It looked like a pretty good bet for the plain looking man until, when the boy was only about ten feet from the corner of Seventh avenue, the pitcher flew out of his hand as he was trying to make a singularly difficult piece of juggling with it and was dashed into a hundred fragments on a doorstep. The sporty looking man and the plain looking individual returned to where I was standing and the former took the two V's from the stakeholder with a grin, saying:

"I thought sure I was going to lose out on that when the kid got so near Seventh avenue without anything happening to the pitcher."

"Two days later I was standing alongside a hotel at the corner of Eighth avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, in Harlem, waiting for a downtown electric car, when I saw that same youngster, with the identical kitchen apprentice's toggery, going along Eighth avenue, again wildly swinging a pitcher. Then I cast my eyes about me, and there, only three feet to the left of me and leaning against an L stanchion, was the sporty looking man. He blinked lazily at me when he saw that I had observed the boy with the pitcher.

"What infernal whelps most boys are, anyhow!" he said to me in precisely the same words and the same tone he had used in making the remark a couple of days before to the plain looking man who had lost his V. "Now, just look at that cub fooling with that pitcher. It's a cinch that he'll drop it and smash it to smithereens before he reaches the next corner."

"What a foxy way this fellow has of making a living!" I mused. "But I'll just give him a little run for his money, so I will."

"That's the betting end of it, I said aloud to the sporty looking man, 'that I'd be willing to take myself.'"

"Oh, well," he replied laughingly, "any old thing to pass the time away. It's about an even thing one way or the other, I suppose."

"Just about," said I.

"Well," he said good naturedly, "then I'll bet you a V that he doesn't smash it before he reaches the next corner."

"You're on," said I, and we put up our five spots with the news dealer on the corner.

"This," said I to myself as I fell into step with the sporty looking man, "is like wheeling grand ma out of a nickel for cookies. There's no way that this crafty con man can pass the tip to that kid not to drop that pitcher, according to the usual frame up, without my getting next to the dodge and calling him down on it. I think I see a new five dollar bet for myself this afternoon."

"My reflections along this pleasant line, however, were interrupted. The boy was already crossing the street, still swinging the pitcher wildly and whistling merrily. He reached the other side and went right along his way, taking tremendous chances with the pitcher and whistling with all the fervor of youth, and I had lost.

"How had the sporty looking man passed the signal to the kid not to drop the pitcher on that occasion? I give it up. I didn't stop to inquire of him. I felt too cheap to stop for any purpose whatever, but eying on board the downtown surface car with a whole lot of the kids of conceit coming out of me."—Pittsburg Press.

HESSIAN FLY.

Causes of an Outbreak and Practical Methods of Combating It.

From a study of Hessian fly outbreaks in Ohio it seems that two factors which conduce most to such outbreaks are a scarcity of the parasites that hold the fly in check and a warm October, and these factors must work in conjunction. It does not appear that ordinary conditions of lack or abundance of rainfall play an important part.

From an entomological standpoint it is possible to avoid injury from the fly by very late seeding, but in average seasons the risk of winter injury to wheat sown sufficiently late to avoid the fly appears to be quite as great as the risk from the fly.

Nether manure, fertilizer nor what is known as good husbandry seems to have any effect in reducing the ravages of the fly. On the contrary, the better the conditions under which the seedling is done the more wheat plants are placed at the disposal of the fly. It is true, however, that when the seeding is deferred to a late date careful preparation and fertilization of the soil will do much toward enabling the plants to endure the winter.

The more practical method of combating this pest would seem to be when danger from fly is apprehended to sow a part of the crop at a moderately early date—say from about Sept. 15 in the lake shore counties to about the 18th along the Ohio river—then watch the young plants closely for the minute, reddish eggs of the fly. If none is found when the plants are ten to twelve days old sow the remainder of the crop, but if the young plants are found to be considerably infested wait another week before sowing.

Another method which might commend itself to some would be to make several sowings a few days apart in the hope that some of these would draw the main attack of the fly and thus save the others. It has been repeatedly observed that wheat sown one day may be severely injured by the fly while that sown the next day may escape, the apparent explanation being that the first sowing has drawn the full force of the fly attack and thus protected that sown later. For this outcome to be realized it is evident that the first sowing must be large enough to furnish plants enough for all the flies. We have not observed that the one-tenth acre plots used in our early and late sowings had any appreciable effect in protecting the large fields adjoining. The practical farmer would much rather lose all the wheat on one-third of his acreage than to lose one-third of the wheat on all his acreage, and if by sacrificing a part of his crop in this manner he could save the remainder he would gladly do so.

Either of these methods offers the great practical advantage that in case of a full infestation becoming evident the wheat can be turned under and thus the spring brood of flies materially curtailed.

A Cheap and Handy Device.

An Iowa Homestead correspondent gives a little sketch and explanation of a very simple device for stretching wire. Get a fork of any tough wood four or five feet long, split one end to place the wire in and begin twisting. Wire may be perfectly stretched in this manner.

A WIRE STRETCHER.

Vine Tramps, or Leaf Hoppers.

From midsummer to autumn in increasing amount the leaves of grapes are affected by a little jumping insect commonly known as the tramps, or leaf hopper, which works in enormous numbers on the under side of leaves, causing them to appear blotched and scorched or covered with little yellowish or brownish patches and eventually dry up, curl and fall. The deprecator is a very minute insect, not exceeding one-eighth of an inch in length, and has a peculiar habit of running sidewise when disturbed, like a crab, and dodging from one side of the leaf to the other. It jumps vigorously, like a flea, but also takes flight, rising in swarms when the vines are shaken. If examined without being too much disturbed they will be noticed thickly clustered over the under surface of the leaves, busily engaged in sucking the juices of the plant. Any remedy is difficult. An exchange advises to leave no rubbish in or near the vineyard and spray with kerosene emulsion early in the morning or late evening when weather is cool. It is said that the emulsion "should be diluted with nine parts water."

Setback to Sheep From Dipping.

Dipping sheep often results in a slight setback, but it is seen from experiments by Gillette in Colorado and by the bureau of animal industry in the District of Columbia that the claim that lime and sulphur dips give a greater setback than other dips is erroneous. In both the western and the eastern experiments the sheep treated with lime and sulphur averaged the greatest gain, the sheep treated with tobacco the second highest gain, while the sheep treated with carbolic dip showed the lowest gain.

Agricultural Notes.

Late sowings with ammoniacal copper carbonate or soda bordeaux mixture are advised by the Ohio experimental station for grape rot.

THE TOWN OF YAFU.

Famous in History and the Most Interesting Spot in Palestine.

Yafu is a little town that was many times destroyed alike by Jews, Assyrians, Egyptians, Greeks, Romans and Turks. It was to Yafu that Hiram, king of Tyre, sent the cedar wood "in fletes" which from there were taken to Jerusalem for Solomon's temple. Jonah sailed from this little town to Tarshish when fleeing from the face of the Lord. It was in Yafu that the humble Dorcas lived her life of good deeds and upon her dying was raised to life by Peter. To this shore the great Richard Coeur de Lion swam, girded in armor, fighting for Christendom, and won a victory for the crusaders over the Arab. Bonaparte left a memory of his cruelty here by his massacre of several thousand prisoners and the poisoning of some persons afflicted with the plague. Simon the tanner's house, where Peter learned that all nations were acceptable before God, is one of the few sights to be seen in Yafu. In the courtyard there is a large well of spring water, and from the roof of the house a most beautiful view of the surrounding country presents itself. Another site of interest in the town of Tabitha, which stands in the garden of the Greek monastery, close to an old fountain, among the orange groves and fruit orchards. Of all towns in Palestine, Yafu is one of the most interesting for its antiquity and its strange mixture of the oriental in its most primitive form with European civilization gradually admitted.

Turtles Tenacious of Life.

The way cats cling to their proverbial nine lives is well known, but the average turtle will make a tougher stand than nine ordinary cats. Perhaps boiling will kill a turtle at once, but any other method seems hopeless.

The severed head of a snapping turtle will bite for an hour after separation from the body. But more wonderful is the indifference of the green turtle of the West Indies to mutilation. A party of naturalists lately returned give an account of an experience which proves beyond doubt that the green turtle's indifference does not lie in its head.

A green turtle found on the beach turned and made for the water. One of the party severed its head with an ax and turned the body around. The headless turtle ran, then stopped and turned toward the water again.

Melba in a Temper.

When Mme. Melba first tasted the sweets of fashionable life a Boston woman of fashion captured her for a dinner. The Boston woman loaded her guest with attentions, and after the dinner she said to Melba, "You will give us a little song tonight, dear Mme. Melba?" But the songstress refused. The Boston woman pleaded and said petulantly: "I am quite sure my guests will be disappointed. Really you are quite unkind." This infuriated the high spirited singer, and she answered: "My terms as a dinner entertainer are $2,000. You may see my manager if you want me to sing for your guests." Then Melba got her wraps and went away in a frenzy of anger.

What He Missed.

"An old negro living in Carrollton," relates the Bosworth (Mo.) Star-Sentinel, "was taken ill and called in a physician of his race to prescribe for him. But the old man did not seem to be getting better, and finally a white physician was called. Soon after arriving Dr. S. felt the darky's pulse for a moment and then examined his tongue. "Did your other doctor take your temperature?" he asked. "I don't know, sah," he answered feebly; "I hain't missed anything but my watch as yit, boss."

Some Familiar Quotations.

"Alliteration's artful aid" was spoken of by the little read poet Churchill. "The pink of perfection" was originated by Oliver Goldsmith; so were "Measure, not men," and "Man wants but little here below," how wants that little long? Gray, the author of the "Elegy," is responsible for many popular phrases, among them "Full many a gem of purest ray serene," "To waste its sweetness on the desert air," "This pleasing, anxious being," "The paths of glory lead but to the grave" and "Whose ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to be wise." Dr. Johnson gave us "Who lives to please must please to live." He also said, "Who drives fat oxen should himself be fat," in which there is more sound than sense.

BET PULP SILOS.

Low Cost Arrangements For Keeping Sugar Beet Pulp.

Sugar beet pulp accumulates in large quantities at the sugar factories, and it is evident that an economical use of a material with so low a feeding value depends upon an inexpensive method of handling and storing it. In a recent bulletin of the California experiment station are described silos that are believed to possess the desired requirements for preserving the pulp, since they confine the required quantity in a small space, reduce the exposed surface and may be strongly built at a comparatively low cost. It has been observed that when a pile of sugar beet pulp is exposed to the weather the surface decays to a depth of six or eight inches, forming a crust which protects the remainder. In the silos described this fact is taken advantage of. One form consists of a large open bin with sloping sides built on the surface of the ground, the other of a trench or excavation with sloping sides and a flat floor covered with plank.

Silo A may be made of refuse lumber and of any size to suit the convenience of the feeder. That shown in the figure was 12 feet wide, 80 feet long and 8 feet deep and would hold about two car loads of pulp. The silo B is simple and inexpensive and may be convenient by made by excavating a passage through or in the side of the hill. It is recommended that the bottom should always be planked and provided with means whereby the water may be easily and quickly drained from the pulp. The planks should be set up well from the ground and be far enough apart to leave a crack between them after they have swelled. The sides may or may not be planked, but less pulp is lost if they are covered with boards. A silo of this sort was 600 feet long, 50 feet deep, 20 feet wide at the base and 80 feet wide at the top. The bottom only was planked and had a gutter under the floor which thoroughly drained the pulp. It was filled by means of carriers which brought the pulp directly from the sugar factory. Small silos can be readily filled by driving a wagon alongside of the top of the silo and shoveling the pulp into it. It is not necessary to cover either form of silo with a roof.

But Clover.

Replying to an inquiry as to whether bur clover will be profitable on land newly sown to Bermuda, where the Bermuda is not doing well, Southern Cultivator says: Bur clover will do well on your Bermuda. You can sow in September or October. September will do best. About two bushels of seed to the acre will be a good quantity. You need not run the harrow over it. The rain will fit the seed to the soil, and that is all that is needed.

Points of Quality in Milk.

The following points should be observed by even the most humble dairyman to insure getting a quality of milk on the market that will not be turned down by the buyer:

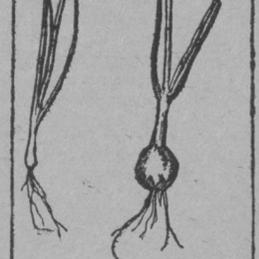

First—Keep the cows clean, for it pays with the cows.

Second—Stir up no dust at milking time.

Third—Take special care in washing and sterilizing tinware and strainers.

Transplanted Early Onions.

As a result of a test of transplanting early sowings of onions American Gardening submits a picture made June 23 from samples of plants grown on Long Island. The large plant is from seed of Prizetaker sown under glass early in LATER SOWING AND EARLY TRANSPLANTING in January and transplanted in April, and the smaller one is the same variety shown in the open ground early in April.

"Do you think after this exhibition," remarks the grower, "that I shall ever bother to plant seed in the open again?"

LEGALITY OF THE BOYCOTT.

The legality of the boycott is going to be passed upon in a practical way by the United States courts. A case of unusual interest to the business and industrial world, as well as the world of labor, has just been brought at Bridgeport, Ct., by a firm of hat manufacturers of Danbury has entered suit against the national officers of the American Federation of Labor and the national officers of the United Hatters of North America, and against 250 members of these organizations, residents of Danbury, who were formerly in the employ of that firm. The plaintiffs allege that because they refused to employ only union labor in their factory, upon demand of the union in 1901 their goods were boycotted both in the United States and in Canada, and that in 1902 the union men in their employ were called out on a strike. The plaintiffs ask damages in the sum of $250,000. The plaintiffs claim further that the trademark of the United Hatters of North America is employed by the defendants to further the sale of hats made by union labor, to the detriment of the employers of non-union hatters, and that the journals of the American Federation of Labor and of the United Hatters of North America have been used to denounce the goods of the plaintiffs. Action is brought under the provisions of the Sherman Antitrust Law, an act to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraint and monopoly. As there will probably be little question as to the facts in the case, the adjudication of the cause in the courts will be of interest with reference to the effect upon the legality of the boycott.

Dieting Invites Disease.

To cure Dyspepsia or indigestion, it is no longer necessary to live on milk and toast. Starvation produces such weakness that the whole system becomes an easy prey to disease. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure enables the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all of the wholesome food that one cares to eat, and is a never failing cure for indigestion, Dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. Kodol digests what you eat—makes the stomach sweet. Sold by T. E. Zimmerman, Drug-gist.

A Will and Three Weddings.

In Warsaw a banker died and left his entire fortune to whichever of his three nieces—daughters of three different brothers and sisters—married first. The parties interested in this provision were present when the will was read, and all of them took immediate steps to secure the prize. By presenting special licenses and taking other unusual measures it was found that the earliest possible time for a wedding to take place was at 8 o'clock on the morning of the tenth day after the will had been read. Before noon on that day all three nieces appeared at the notary's office with certificates showing that they had all become wives between 8 and 8:15 o'clock that morning, though not one of them had even been engaged when the will was read. All three claimed the fortune, and the case solved the difficulty by dividing it into equal parts.

BIG YEAR FOR APPLES.

Shipments Last Week Reached a Total of 75,000 Barrels.

All records for the exportation of American apples to Europe, Germany, France and the United Kingdom are being broken.

In the remembrance of the oldest fruit exporter there has not been so much demand for American apples as at present.

The fruit crop of the British Isles, France and Germany were a complete failure this year because of an unparalleled drouth, and the older countries have been obliged to appeal to the American markets.

Every big liner that is going to sea is taking away immense loads of apples, most of which came from New York and Virginia.

A fruit merchant said that he never knew of such a demand for Yankee apples, and that the season was weeks ahead.

The steamship companies are charging 2 shillings and sixpence, equal to about 62 American cents, a barrel for carrying the fruit over.

The chief grades of New York apples being exported are Baldwins, Kings, Northern Spy and Greenings.

The Virginia favorites are York Imperial, Albemarle Pippins, Winesap and Ben Davis.

The Virginia favorites are York Imperial, Albemarle Pippins, Winesap and Ben Davis. The King is a fine, large, red apple, and is much sought after by those foreign fruit buyers who can afford to pay the price.

In Germany the better grade of American apple is selling at $6.50 a barrel. The Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse left for Bremen last week with many thousands barrels, the Noordam for Rotterdam with another big consignment, and the Lorraine took away an immense shipment for Paris.

The shipment is so great that coopers are unable to make barrels with sufficient rapidity, and even if they were the farmers could not pack the fruit as fast as it is wanted.

TO USE VOTING MACHINES.

Voting machines will be used at the coming election in New Jersey and machines have been distributed in advance to familiarize voters with their operation.

The working of the machine is as follows: At the approach of a voter an election officer manipulates a knob on the outside of the machine and the voter enters the booth, drawing from the left to the right a handle which hangs suspended before his face, the operation simultaneously closing the curtain behind him and placing the voting apparatus in action.

To cut the ticket it is necessary to vote "straight" first and then check off the candidates desired to be cut by means of a lever directly over the name.

The moving back of the curtain lever registers the vote and locks the machine until it is released by pressure on the official knob.

A MOB IN WALL STREET.

Several hundred messenger boys and young men mobbed a coachman and a footman, clad in the latest livery Wednesday afternoon, while they were waiting for their mistress in Wall street, near Broad, New York.

Brokers crowded the stone balconies of the stock exchange when the uproar began and cheered on the mob to greater efforts.

For more than a week the boys in Wall street have been much interested in the rig of which the coachman and footman had charge.

The footman was a lad of about 13, and it was he that suffered the most, for every boy that could reach him tried his best to bespatter the white breeches and knocked off the tall hat the lad wore.

The police appeared half an hour after the coachman and his companion had been pestered.

CHAINED TO FLOOR FOR NINE YEARS.

A dispatch from White Plains says: Despite the protests of residents about Croton Lake against Margaret Ryan, an insane woman, being chained to the floor by her mother, Mrs. Ann Ryan, the lunatic is still a prisoner.

For four years Miss Ryan, who is 42 years old, and who has been a lunatic for nine years, according to her mother, has been chained to the kitchen floor day and night to prevent her from running away.

Mr. Carpenter has known Miss Ryan for thirty five years. He says that at times she talks rationally. "She told me," he said, "that she was perfectly willing to be chained to the floor and that she had no idea of running away.

The mother of the prisoner says the grand jury has no right to look into her affairs and if the jury orders Miss Ryan to an asylum she will fight against it.

TWO SHOT TO DEATH.

HUNTINGTON, W. VA., Oct. 6.—The village of Devon, in Mingo county, was the scene of a street duel yesterday in which both the duelists, leading citizens of Mingo county, were killed.

About a year ago Andrew Farrell and Jacob Lawson had a dispute over a timber deal, and yesterday when the men met face to face, both on horseback, Lawson held his horse directly in the middle of the narrow street, refusing to give an inch to Farrell.

Farrell reached toward his hip pocket, and Lawson instantly made a similar motion. Revolvers were drawn and the two men began firing at each other.

Farrell was shot through the left breast twice, but both bullets missed his heart. He died inside of five minutes.

Entered as Second-Class Matter at the Emmitsburg Postoffice.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1903.

FREDERICK COUNTY PHONE 33

Hagerstown Fair next week.—Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Comptroller Hering has distributed the public school tax for the quarter beginning October 1.

Dorchester county now has an Independent Democratic as well as an Independent Republican ticket in the field.

Miss Virginia May Dixon and Mr. Carl Lynn Thompson, of Martinsburg, were married in Hagerstown by Rev. E. T. Mowbray.

John Alexander Dowie has started a branch of his church in Hagerstown, with Rev. Gideon Hampton, of Philadelphia, in charge.

In Frederick Mrs. Emma C. Poole was granted a partial divorce from her husband, John W. Poole, and awarded the custody of their son.

The Socialists of Washington county are very aggressive. One of their candidates claims they will poll 1,800 votes there in November.

Ex-Archbishop John P. Poe has announced his candidacy for the United States Senate in the event of the election of a Democratic Legislature.

The regularly constituted Republican convention of Prince George's county met at Upper Marlboro and endorsed the ticket nominated by the Muldow convention.

The Western Maryland Railroad Company has strung copper telegraph wires between Cherry Run and Cumberland, connecting with the West Virginia Central system at that place.

Mr. Alex Biley brought to this office a sprig of an apple tree, which was a real curiosity. It contained 11 apples, and they occupied only 3 1/2 inches of the twig.

Hagerstown Bank stock, par value $15, gold at auction for $38 per share; Hagerstown Fair Association stock, par $25, for $35 per share; Conococheague turnpike stock, par $10, for $7.20 per share.

Miss S. A. Winter respectfully invites all to her opening of new Fall and Winter Millinery, Ladies and children's hats stylishly trimmed. Newest things in face veiling. Opening days every Friday and Saturday.

The Western Maryland paid $1,375 for a right of way through the lands of Sylvester Summers, C. W. Roy Henderson, David W. Summers and Talbot D. Cassard. Seven and one-third acres of land were taken.

A conference between the striking employees of the M. P. Moller organ factory and the owner, Mr. Moller, was held but nothing was accomplished. The employees were offered their positions back, with an increase of wages, providing they went back as non-union men, but the workmen refused.

Messrs. J. William Miltendorf & Co., of Baltimore, and John L. Williams & Sons, of Richmond, Va., have found it necessary to ask temporary indulgence of their creditors. This has been brought about by the extraordinary financial conditions prevailing in New York and the violent drive made against Seaboard issues. The firms have appointed an advisory committee to report an appropriate plan of extension and they state that all difficulties will be tidied over.

FINE APPLES.—Mr. Robert Wantz, of near town, has our thanks for a basket of very fine apples, among which were four apples that weighed 3 1/2 pounds. Three of these were of the Lady Blush variety. There were also 5 fine apples, all of a different variety and all taken from the same tree; these were of the Baldwin, Winesap, Ben Davis, Red Stripe and Paradise variety.

Wreck At Oakland.—Wednesday afternoon there was a freight wreck a few hundred feet west of the Oakland Station. Seven cars, a caboose, two oil-tanks and four gondolas were demolished. Engine 1896 was damaged. A coal train collided with the rear of the eastbound pickup. Both tracks were blocked for three hours. No one was injured, but the brakeman of the freight had a narrow escape. He was riding in the cab of the engine, and had to jump to prevent being injured.

ATTACKED ON THE ROAD.—Mr. John Rickerds while on his way to Frederick, from his home near Frederick was attacked by four drunken men about 6 o'clock on Saturday evening. Mr. Rickerds stated the men, who were driving along in a wagon, met him in front of the residence of Mr. Wm. C. Neidig. They got out of the wagon at this place and attacked him. Mr. Rickerds knocked two of them down but was struck in the face by a third. Just then Mr. Rickerds says a team came down the road and the men got into their wagon and drove away. All of the men were unknown to Mr. Rickerds, but an effort will be made to catch them.

Religious Notices

On Sunday morning the services in the Lutheran Church will celebrate the Eleventh Anniversary of the present pastor, Rev. Charles Reipswald. Beginning on next Sunday morning services will be held in the Reformed Church as follows: Sunday School at 9:30; morning services at 10:30 o'clock, and evening services at 7 o'clock.

Bullets Met On Battlefield.

A special dispatch to the Baltimore Sun from Fredericksburg, Virginia, says that "B. T. Knox & Bro., of this city, have in their possession a curious war relic found on the Bloody Angle battlefield, in Spotsylvania county. This consists of two bullets welded together which met in midair flying in opposite directions. One is supposed to be a Confederate bullet and the other a Federal. Mr. E. L. Landrum, who resides on the Bloody Angle farm, has three bullets welded together, two having met and a third having struck at an angle at the same time."

BATTLEFIELD POLICEMAN INJURED.

Officer Spangler was up on the government observatory when a sudden puff of wind blew his hat off, carrying it into the branches of a near by tree.

With a view of recovering his headgear, the officer undertook to climb the tree, but the limbs proved too frail to withstand his weight and broke under him and he fell.

He was not seriously hurt though he was considerably bruised.

DESPERADOES CAUGHT.

Charles Barrett and Thomas Jones, of Tampa, Fla., evidently desperate negroes, were captured at Cumberland, Wednesday evening after they had attempted to bulldoze a bartender in wild Western style. On the corner of Baltimore and Centro streets, the busiest point in Cumberland, they drew their pistols, and the officers went after them. Barrett was captured at once, but Jones gave the officers a chase of fully two miles, and was finally captured lying close beside a lumber pile, his revolver in his hand ready to shoot. Chief MacDonald crawled up behind the man, and after a struggle, disarmed and captured him.

Death of T. C. Rudy.

Mr. T. C. Rudy, of the firm of T. C. Rudy & Son, died in Middletown Monday morning from the effects of a stroke of Paralysis of the brain. He was attacked in his store early last Friday morning and he continued to grow worse until the end came. He was in the 67th year of his age. He leaves a widow and four children, three sons and one daughter—Mr. Wm. L. Rudy, associated with him in business; Mr. Walter R. Rudy, postmaster and druggist of Mount Airy, Carroll county, and Mr. Frank N. Rudy and Miss Anna K. Rudy, at home.

Recovered Speech and Hearing.

Messrs. Ely Bros.: I commenced using your Cream Balm about two years ago for catarrh. My voice was somewhat thick and my hearing dull. My hearing has been fully restored and my speech has become quite clear. I am a teacher in our town.

L. G. BROWN, Granger, O.

The Balm does not irritate or cause sneezing. Sold by druggists at 50 cts. or mailed by Ely Brothers, 50 Warren St., New York.

New Bank Opens

The Citizens' Saving Bank of Thurmont opened for business Oct. 1, in a room in Mackley Bros.' building, which has been furnished with a burglar-proof safe and other fixtures. Dr. James K. Waters, president; Harry C. Cover, cashier; Coblenz & Waters, Attorneys. The directors are: Dr. Jas. K. Waters, J. Wesley Cressler, Charles C. Waters, Jas. S. Biggs, Thomas F. Eyer, M. J. Albaugh, Jas. T. Waeche, Harry C. Cover, Dr. E. C. Kefauver; Jas. O. Harne, M. Luther Cressler and Charles M. Mackley.

Verdict of $2,500 Damages

John L. Cullum, of Harford county, was awarded a verdict of $2,500 by a jury in the Circuit Court for Cecil county in his suit for $4,000 against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, which had been on trial for several days. The plaintiff alleged that he was injured by being thrown from the steps of a train by the train starting before he had a chance to alight at Bradshaw Station, in Harford county.

President To Give Memorial

President Roosevelt has signified his intention to place a memorial in the Memorial Lutheran Church, at Sharpsburg. On his recent visit to Antietam battlefield the President visited the church accompanied by the pastor, Rev. A. A. Kerlin, and expressed himself as delighted with the building and its purposes. A Pennsylvania regiment association also will place a memorial in the edifice, which now contains a number of tablets.

Church Needs A Member.

The First Lutheran church, of Carlisle, filed a suit to test the legality of a subscription alleged to be made to its recently erected building by John H. Gardner, a prominent manufacturer of that place. They allege that Gardner authorized the late Rev. H. B. Wile to place his name on the subscription list for $1000. Gardner paid $335. He is a prominent member of the church.—Star and Sentinel.

A Love Letter

Would not interest you if you're looking for a guaranteed Salve for Sores, Burns or Piles. Otto Dodd, of Ponder, Mo., writes: "I suffered with an ugly sore for a year, but a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured me. It's the best Salve on earth. 25c at T. E. Zimmerman Drug Store."

READY TO SURRENDER.

Mrs. Kate Kealy Influenced To Give Up Her Fort

Mrs. Kate Kealy, who held out so long against the Government forces and refused to abandon her little house in the Naval Academy grounds, has at last signified her purpose to surrender. This disposition was largely influenced by Chief of Police Francis T. Brown, of Annapolis. The property was acquired by the Government to enlarge the Naval Academy grounds but Mrs. Kealy refused to go even after all the surrounding houses were torn down. Then a marine guard cut her supplies and she was practically a prisoner. Tuesday night she sent for Chief Brown and authorized him to enter into negotiations with the Naval Academy authorities. She was advised to vacate the premises and then put in her claims, which she was assured would be duly considered. After some hesitation she stated she would move as soon as she could get quarters. She was under the impression that the Government owes her for the property. The truth is the money was paid to the rightful owners.

REV. KURTZ FINDS NEW FIELD.

Rev. Mr. Kurtz, of York, has found a mission field open to him. He recently contracted with the proprietor of a quarry to use the gospel car traction engine to furnish power for operating a drill and he has been engaged there for a week or more.

About 40 people are engaged in the quarry, some of them given to profanity. Rev. Kurtz succeeded in lessening the amount of irid expletives and then asked and received the permission of the quarry operator to conduct religious services while the men rested for a brief period after their daily lunch.

Each day shortly after the noon hour Kurtz climbs to a rock ribbed pulpit wrought by the hand of nature, and from that eminence exhorts the brawny laborers. Most of the men give Kurtz respectful attention, and some of them join with him in singing hymns.—Compiler.

He Learned A Great Truth

It is said of John Wesley that he once said to Mistress Wesley: "Why do you tell that child the same thing over and over again?" "John Wesley, because once telling is not enough." It is for this same reason that you are told again and again that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cures colds and grip; that it counteracts any tendency of these diseases to result in pneumonia, and that it is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by T. E. Zimmerman, Druggist.

DIED AT HAGERSTOWN.

A. Albertoni, an Italian railroad contractor of Roanoke, Va., died Wednesday morning at the Valley Hotel, in Hagerstown of heart trouble. He arrived there on the 4 o'clock train on the Norfolk and Western railroad, and was taken ill before reaching Hagerstown. He was removed to the hotel, and Dr. Charles B. Boyle was summoned, but it was seen that his case was hopeless. Mr. Albertoni realized that he was dying. He was aged about 45 years. He had been employed on the railroad for a number of years. He leaves a widow and several children in Roanoke. His remains were shipped to Roanoke. Deceased was a member of the Roanoke Lodge of Elks.

The Season's First Cob Corn

The first new cob corn of the season was received on the floor of the chamber of commerce, Baltimore, Wednesday. The corn was from Kent county, Md., and was in a very dry condition for an early arrival. The parcel sold for $2.00 per barrel, as compared with $3, the price paid for the first received last year.

DWELLING BURNED.

A frame tenement house on the farm of Philip Baker in Haver's district, was burned last Thursday night, together with all its contents. The house was occupied by a man named Patterson, and the fire occurred while he was away from home. The loss is $300, covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown.

SHOT IN THE LEG.

Wounded While Trying to Rescue A Young Woman

George Arnold, of Woolerys district, Carroll county, was shot in the leg Tuesday evening while attempting to rescue a young girl from two strangers in the woods near Ogd Summit School. Mr. Arnold says he was passing along the woods near the school house, when he heard a woman crying piteously for help. He saw a white horse hitched to a buggy standing near where the cries came from, and stopped his own horse and went to investigate. He found a young woman, or girl, lying on the ground with her feet bound together. He stopped to assist her, and as he did so two strangers rushed out of the bushes. One of them struck him over the head with a club, knocking him down. He got up and ran toward his vehicle, and as he was getting into it four shots were fired at him, one taking effect in his leg and the others passing through the body of his wagon. The shots were heard by several people living in that vicinity, and one person said that almost immediately after the shooting he saw two men carry a girl out of the woods and, placing her in a buggy, drive off at a furious rate. Arnold drove to Westminster and had the bullet extracted. He said that the woman and men were all strangers to him.—Sun.

JUDGE WATERS GIVES UP TRYING A CASE IN DESPAIR.

For the past week Belair has been considerably wrought up by the trial of Sevilla Neiman, charged with keeping a house of bad repute in Delair. All during the trial the courtroom was packed by an interested audience, not entirely drawn by curiosity, however, as a very large number of persons were summoned either on one side or the other. Chief Judge Fowler occupied the bench with Judge Waters during the taking of the testimony, which was concluded last Saturday. Monday was taken up in the argument and the case given to the jury that night. The next morning the jurors sent word to Judge Waters that they could not agree but he refused to discharge them, as he regarded the evidence of such a nature as not to render it difficult to reach a conclusion. The jury came in on Tuesday afternoon with a verdict of acquittal.

Immediately upon the conclusion of the trial the case of Louis G. Petri, charged with the same offense, was taken up. As he had been the manager of the hotel where the alleged offenses had taken place, it was difficult to obtain a jury, and Sheriff Reasin was dispatched into the county to summon tamenmen. Wednesday morning, upon the re-assembling of court, Judge Waters announced that the case would be discontinued, bail respited and the traverser was advised to get out of town as soon as possible.

CLIMATIC CURES.

The influence of climatic conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectation in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Trial bottles, 25 c.; regular size 75c.

Only A Very Few Published.

It is not possible for the proprietors to publish more than a very few of the numerous letters received in praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and telling of its remarkable cures. They come from people in every walk of life and from every state in the Union. The following from Mr. T. W. Greathouse, of Prattsburg, Ga., speaks for itself: "I would have been dead now but for the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It cured me of chronic diarrhoea after 7 years of suffering. I can never say too much in praise of that remedy." For sale by T. E. Zimmerman, Druggist.

Saves Two From Death.

"Our little daughter had an almost fatal attack of whooping cough and bronchitis," writes Mrs. W. K. Haviland, of Armonk, N. Y., "but when all other remedies failed, we saved her life with Dr. King's New Discovery. Our niece, who had consumption in an advanced stage, also used this wonderful medicine and to-day she is perfectly well." Desperate throat and lung diseases yield to Dr. King's New Discovery as to no other medicine on earth. Infallible for Coughs and Colds, 50c and $1.00 bottles guaranteed by T. E. Zimmerman. Trial bottles free.

Long Trip

Yesterday morning Mr. William Long and a Mr. Harbaugh, with six horses and a big wood wagon, started for St. Mary's county, Md., where they will haul lumber and wood on the "Forest Hall Farm," near Jarboesville, and owned by Mr. Joseph K. Hays, of this place. They were accompanied as far as Baltimore by Mr. R. S. Knode.

Yesterdays

Mr. Benjamin A. Richmond, of counsel for Western Maryland Railroad in case against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, stated some of the most important coal-billing book have not been produced.

FAIRFIELD ITEMS.

Fairfield, Oct. 6.—Mr. F. Shulley, of Fairfield, who works for S. W. Plank, in the butcher business at Taneytown, finds it quite a business place, although everything seems quite along the line, except on main street. Persons coming from S. W. Plank's meat shop has something to say about the good meat they get and the fine accommodations.

Mrs. Elizabeth Baird, of Taneytown committed suicide on Wednesday evening of last week, by hanging herself at her home, in that place. Mr. William Bankard, who had a room in the house, discovered the lady hanging in the hall dead. Mr. Bankard hurriedly made known his horrible find, and Dr. Birnie and a Justice of the Peace soon arrived on the scene. The Justice declared the case one of suicide and an inquest unnecessary. She had completed her day's work and sprinkled some clothes for ironing before ending her life. No one knew what caused her to commit suicide.

Mr. Beacher and wife, of Waynesboro, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Rowe. They will move to Atlantic City.

Rev. C. Ritter, at the Communion on last Sunday at Fairfield, took in 19 new members. The Church was filled to its capacity, being the largest Communion ever held in the church. Mr. Ritter has taken in 60 new members since he has had charge of the church, 6 months.

Mrs. Joseph Kittinger, who spent sometime with her daughter in Chicago, has returned home to Fairfield.

Mrs. Hartman, of Arendtville, is visiting her son, Mr. Harvey Hartman. Mrs. Rice, of Gettysburg, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hartman, of this place.

Mrs. Flocher, of Highfield, was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harbaugh, of this place.

A son of Mr. Charles Harbaugh, who was reported sick is improving slowly.

Mrs. Bob Watson, of Waynesboro, is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Riley.

Mr. C. A. Spangler, of this place is going west this week. His destination is St. Joseph, Missouri.

Mrs. F. Shulley, who is visiting at Reading and Womelsdorf, is enjoying her visit very much. She is enjoying a rest from work which is beneficial to her health.

Only A Very Few Published.

It is not possible for the proprietors to publish more than a very few of the numerous letters received in praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and telling of its remarkable cures. They come from people in every walk of life and from every state in the Union. The following from Mr. T. W. Greathouse, of Prattsburg, Ga., speaks for itself: "I would have been dead now but for the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It cured me of chronic diarrhoea after 7 years of suffering. I can never say too much in praise of that remedy." For sale by T. E. Zimmerman, Druggist.

Saves Two From Death.

"Our little daughter had an almost fatal attack of whooping cough and bronchitis," writes Mrs. W. K. Haviland, of Armonk, N. Y., "but when all other remedies failed, we saved her life with Dr. King's New Discovery. Our niece, who had consumption in an advanced stage, also used this wonderful medicine and to-day she is perfectly well." Desperate throat and lung diseases yield to Dr. King's New Discovery as to no other medicine on earth. Infallible for Coughs and Colds, 50c and $1.00 bottles guaranteed by T. E. Zimmerman. GEN. JOHNSON IS DEAD.

The Distinguished Ex-Confederate Passes Away in Virginia

Gen. Bradley T. Johnson, a native of Frederick, who became famous as an officer in the Confederate army and afterwards as a lawyer, died at the home of his son, Bradley S. Johnson, at Eock Castle, Goochland county, Va.

General Johnson was born in Frederick September 29, 1806. He was a son of Charles Worthington Johnson and Eleanor Murdoch Tyler and a grandson of Col. Baker Johnson. He was graduated from Princeton in the class of 1849, and finished his law course at Harvard in 1851.

The same year he married Miss Jane Claudia Saunders, of North Carolina. She was a daughter of Judge R. M. Saunders, who was a member of Congress, U. S. Minister to Spain under President Polk and a Democrat of national reputation. Judge Saunders was the originator of the two thirds rule in Democratic national conventions. Mrs. Johnson was a woman of refinement and high mental attainments, and her untiring efforts in behalf of the Confederate soldiers and prisoners made her name known generally throughout the South.

When 21 years old General Johnson was elected State's Attorney for Frederick county. In 1857 he was the Democratic candidate for Comptroller of the State, but was defeated. In 1850, 1850 and 1861 he was chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, and was a delegate to the Democratic National Convention at Charleston in 1860.

Soon afterward there were mustered into the confederate service at Harper's Ferry several companies which, with two companies that had entered the service at Richmond, formed the First Regiment, Maryland Infantry. Arnold Elzey was made colonel, Geo. H. Steuart lieutenant-colonel and Bradley T. Johnson major. The regiment was practically without arms or uniforms. Through the active efforts of Mrs. Bradley T. Johnson the state of North Carolina, of which she was a daughter, came to the relief with 300 Mississippi rifles. Later on, through the efforts of Mrs. Johnson, a supply of clothing was obtained, and with its new uniforms and the effective rifles, the regiment made a soldierly appearance.

In the early days of 1862 it was regarded as one of "crack" regiments, and was thanked in special orders by Joseph E. Johnson. In the first battle of Manassas the regiment took part in a movement that turned the right flank of the Federal army and caused the defeat of March 18, 1862. Colonel Steuart was made brigadier-general and Bradley T. Johnson was promoted to be colonel.

During the succeeding two years, Colonel Johnson served with distinction, and was early recommended by General Jackson for promotion to the rank of brigadier-general, which was not granted, however, until 1864. Upon the occupancy of Frederick by the Army of Northern Virginia, he was appointed provost-marshal. On June 25, 1864, Johnson received his commission as brigadier-general and was assigned to the command of a cavalry brigade of the late Gen. W. E. Jones. Briefly summarized, the most important engagements in which General Johnson took part were: First and second battles of Manassas, the fights of Jackson's famous valley campaign, the battles around Richmond, Chantilly and Germantown; and the activities following the retreat from Gettysburg, the affair at Martinsburg, the fight around Hancock Junction and the contest with Kilpatrick, the battles of Early's Maryland raid and the conflicts with Sheridan in the Valley of Virginia and a number of less important but dashing efforts here and there during his entire service. Few men in either army saw more active service or engaged in more conflicts.

At the close of the war General Johnson engaged in the practice of law at Richmond, Va., where he achieved success. He served as a member and President of the City Council and a Senator for the city of Richmond in the Virginia Legislature. During his term in the Senate he introduced and procured the passage of a law establishing a railroad commission for the State of Virginia, another law organizing a non-partisan police for the city of Richmond and one providing for new, complete and just registration of voters.

General Johnson made a specialty of constitutional law. In 1870 he returned to Baltimore and formed a law partnership with Mr. John P. Poe, whose wife was his cousin. Later this partnership was dissolved and General Johnson practiced in connection with his son, Mr. Bradley S. Johnson. About 18 years ago General Johnson gave up active work, and since then has resided in his Virginia home, about four miles from Olga, in Amelia county.

The Royal Month And The Royal Disease. Sudden changes of weather are especially trying, and probably to none more so than to the scrofulous and consumptive. The progress of scrofula during a normal October is commonly great. We never think of scrofula's hunches, contumacious eruptions, and wasting of the bodily substance—without thinking of the great good many sufferers from it have derived from Hood's Sarsaparilla, whose radical and permanent cures of this one disease are enough to make it the most famous medicine in the world. There is probably not a city or town where Hood's Sarsaparilla has not proved its merit in more homes than one, in arresting and completely eradicating scrofula, which is almost as serious and as much to be feared as its near relative,—consumption.

REWARD FOR HIGHWAYMEN.

The Harford road hold-up case—one of the most difficult the detectives have ever been called upon to unravel—has been abandoned by them for the present. Detectives Hogan and Dougherty worked all the possible clues to the end but found nothing that would lead to the identity of the perpetrators of the crime. They have a few lines out and, should anything develop, they will work along them, but if there are no new developments the case is ended as far as the Baltimore city police are concerned.

A reward of $400 has been offered by the Baltimore county authorities for the arrest and conviction of the criminals.

Killed By Horses Kick

Robert Newcomb, aged 22 years died at the Western Maryland Hospital, Cumberland, Wednesday, as the result of a kick by a horse. He was working at Steekman's blacksmith shop when he received the injury. He leaves a widow and one child residing at Winchester, Va.

All Stuffed Up

That's the condition of many sufferers from catarrh, especially in the morning. Great difficulty is experienced in clearing the head and throat.

No wonder catarrh causes headache, impairs the taste, small and hearing, pollutes the breath, damages the stomach and affects the appetite.

To cure catarrh, treatment must be constitutional—alterative and tonic.

"I was afflicted with catarrh. I took medicines of different kinds, giving each a fair trial, but gradually grew worse until I could hardly hear, taste or smell. I then concluded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and after taking five bottles I was
