St. Bridget, so the story goes, was troubled because the women under her charge insisted on their right of proposing to the men. Accordingly she went to St. Patrick and begged him to settle the matter by fixing certain seasons in which women anight take the initiative. POE AND POVERTY.

The Poet Was Born to Need and Left It as a Legacy.

According to Charles Marshall mother, a gifted actress, was living in Richmond in the direst want.

Mrs. Poe's last stage appearance was in the Richmond theater in October, 1811. The theater burned on Dec. 26, and seventy-eight people perished with it. Poe's father had died in the spring, his younger sister went to live on Main street, in the Bird In Hand region, in a tenement cellar perpetually wet by the Shockoe creek, which then flowed through the middle of the street. Here the wretched woman contracted pneumonia and died. And from the past ninety. cellar the future poet, described as a 'baby skeleton," was rescued by Mr.

TWO COMPOSERS.

Rossini Was an Easy Worker, While Meyerbeer Was Strenuous.

Giacomo Meyerbeer went at everything ferociously. The work of composing made him restless, excitable and caused him many sleepless nights. This condition was always worst in the spring of the year. He did his best work when the wind howled, the rain poured down in torrents and humanity generally sought refuge indoors. During such natural upheavals the great composer was in his element. Deluged with ideas, his fingers charmed from the piano the rarest and most wonderful melodies. those on Mr. Ellis' list more died be-

Compared to Meyerbeer, Rossini was an easy worker and always ready with his pen. Some of his most charming compositions originated under the most commonplace circumstances. One day while the composer was still abed entertaining a few friends the poet Totala brought him the words to the celebrated prayer song in "Moses." Rossini read the text, and the poet, fearing some sarcastic remarks on the part of the former, said, "It took me an hour to write these verses."

"An hour to write such verses?" nyson, Borrow, Thackeray and Fieldcried Rossini. "I'll set them to music in a quarter of an hour." He asked for pen and paper, and in ten minutes, while his friends chaffed the author, the great maestre wrote that inimitable prayer song in his op-

Practical Demonstration. At an encampment of British troops in the East Indies one of the officers had a horse stolen, but the thief, missing his way, was detected and brought back. QUAY'S LIFE ENDS.

One Of the Most Powerful Figures In American Politics Goue.

Matthew Stanley Quay, senior Senator from Pennsylvania, slept peace fully into death at 2.48 o'clock last Saturday afternoon, at his home in the last year, which took a turn for the doctors diagnosed as chronic gastritis.

Senator Quay's illness began about a year ago. It was a recurrence of the latter part 1901 and the early days of 1001, when he was underfor re election to the senate.

For a time he seemed to improve and gave much of his time to out door exercise. Never a strong man physically, Mr. Quay prided himself on his endurance and believed firmly that outdoor life would restore him to health and give him years longer that took him to the Maine woods for several successive summers. roughing it.

His uncle, Louis McLane, who ourselves Mackay, Flood, Fair and O'Brien. He amassed great wealth, which he is now enjoying. His uncle, Robert M. McLane after whom he was named, was Governor of Maryland and afterward minister to France.

Mayor McLane was educated at private schools and entered the Hopkins ating with honors at 19. He won a post graduate scholarship, and continued for a year, relinquishing to enter the Maryand University to take up law. This was in the fall of 1888. He graduated in 1891.

Student and Lawyer

In the finale of college life Mr. Mc-Lane had a neck-and-neck race for honors with a fellow student--Charles W. Fossett, now of Milwaukee-the windup being almost a complete tie. There was a fraction of a point difference beween the two students, the fraction being slightly in favor of Fossett. The goal was a $100 prize. As the result was practically a tie, and as both had worked so hard to win, it was decided to give each a prize. The award was for the best general average made by the members of the class.

Quitting college Mr. McLane took up is profession in connection with his brother, Allan McLane, in 1891. Shortly after be was appointed assistant state's attorney and subsequently was promoted to deputy state's attorney, and four years ago was elected state's attorney. CHARGED WITH ARSON

Keys Proctor, a colored lad, aged 19 years, nearly white, was arrested at Boyd's, charged with setting fire to the residence of Mr. John W. Darby, at Buck Lodge, Montgomery county. The house was destroyed with outbuildings and part of contents, entailing a heavy

Treatment of Frozen Fruit Trees. Reports as to damage to fruit trees by frost, especially in New York and New England, have been somewhat conflicting. Professor Waite, pathologist in charge of investigations of diseases of orchard fruits, after looking over the situation in the Hudson and Connecticut river valleys concluded that the damage is mainly to peach, Japanese plum and pear trees, and the most serious harm is confined to the lower levels and pockets. FEMALE WEAKNESS

Fortland, Maine, Oct. 17, 1902.

I consider Wine of Cardui superior to any dector's medicine I ever used and I know whereof I speak. I suffered for nine months with suppressed menstruation which completely prostrated me. Palus would shoot through my back and sides and I would have blinding headaches. My limbs would swell up and I would feel so weak I could not stand up. I naturally felt discouraged for I seemed to be beyond the help of physicians, but Wine of Cardui came as a God-send to me. I felt a change for the better within a week. After nineteen days treatment I menstruated without suffering the agonies I usually did and soon became regular and without pain. Wine of Cardui is simply wonderful and I wish that all suffering women knew of its good qualities.
