WOMAN WINS $2,500.00.

Mrs. Herbert Tetlow, Washingtonville, O., Secures First Prize in Lion Coffee Contest.

Toledo, O., July 21, (Special)—Probably no one was more surprised than was Mrs. Herbert Tetlow, Washingtonville, Ohio, when the postmaster delivered to her an envelope containing a certified check for $2,500.00, signed by the Woolson Spice Company of Toledo, Ohio.

This good fortune is the result of an estimate made by Mrs. Tetlow in accordance with the Lion Coffee premium offer to those coming the nearest to estimating the 4th of July attendance at the World's Fair.

The total paid attendance at the St. Louis Exposition on July 4th was 139,659.

As Mrs. Tetlow's estimate was exactly correct, she was given first reward. Mrs. Tetlow sent in only six estimates.

M. K. Hassinger, Lamona, Pa., received the second prize of $1,000.00. E. B. Roseboom, Frankfort, O., and James Ashcroft, Raleigh, N. C., each received $500.00 prizes. In all, 2,139 prizes, amounting to $20,000.00, were awarded.

Throughout the last six months Woolson Spice Company has been publishing in the leading newspapers of America an offer of $50,000 in cash prizes. The $20,000.00 just awarded is in their World's Fair contest. Another $20,000.00 will be given in the same way to those who make the best estimates of the total Presidential vote to be cast next November. This contest is awakening great interest throughout the country, and Lion Head trade-marks are being eagerly sought after, some persons offering to pay as much as five cents apiece for them.

The progressive methods of advertising and profit-sharing adopted by the Lion Coffee people are sure to add to the popularity of this already well-known and widely sold product.

All told 11 people in Maryland won prizes.

STORY OF A BILL.

Judge Prewitt Has Kept It During Forty-two Years.

County Judge W. H. Prewitt, who now lies critically ill at his home, in Danville, Ky., with very little hope of his recovery, has in his possession a $20 bill which has connected with a pathetic story of the Civil war.

While gathering together and arranging his personal effects, in company with several friends on Tuesday, he pulled from an old box a $20 bill, yellow with age, and remarked: "This must not be spent during my lifetime."

He then related the following story: "Just after the battle of Perryville I found two young Confederate soldiers—two boys about 17 and 18 years of age—lying wounded upon the field. I took them to my home then in the neighborhood of the battlefield, and took care of them for several weeks, until they recovered from their wounds. One morning a company of Federal soldiers surrounded my house and took us prisoners to Danville, where they kept us for several days before taking the boys to prison. When the lads were about to be taken away they gave me this $20 bill for taking care of them. I refused at first but they insisted that I take the money, for it would be taken from them anyway, and I might just as soon have it as anybody. I finally consented. They gave me the bill and bade me good-by as they went to prison. This was 42 years ago."

said the judge, "and I have never heard nor seen anything of the young soldiers since, but I have kept this money. Many times I have been broke and in need of a dollar, but I never had a desire to spend that bill. Here it is; it belongs to them."

WHAT A MAN DOES DURING A CENTURY.

Some Interesting Statistics Deduced From Life of Mr. Abraham Bell

How often does the ordinary individual stop to consider the time spent in the usual routine of daily occupations, or how these seeming few moments multiply into days, weeks and even years, in the course of an average life, until they total a figure that is both stupendous and amazing? There are probably but few persons who realize what this means in the life of a centenarian, but for the edification of its thousands of readers the American gives below she approximate statistics on this subject, based on the life of Mr. Abraham Bell, who resides at Collington avenue and Baltimore street, Baltimore, and who recently passed the one hundredth milestone of his journey through life.

Assuming that he has been a man of regular habits, as he states, Mr. Bell has spent many years in the different vocations of domestic life. Ordinarily the average human sleeps eight hours a day. On this basis Mr. Bell has passed 33 years and 30 days of his life in somnolence, and dreamland. If he ate 3 meals a day, consuming 30 minutes to dispose of each, he spent 6 years and 93 days at the dining table and ate 109,575 meals.

In dressing and undressing the aged gentleman has occupied nearly two years of his life.

In the 80 years that he has shaved himself Mr. Bell has performed that function at the rate of three times a week, 15,600 times, and has consumed about 11 years in performing the operation.

At a consumption of three pounds of food a day—a fair average for a person with a hearty appetite—the centenarian has digested about 164 tons and 725 pounds of foodstuffs. If he drank a pint of coffee or tea a day, he has swallowed 652 hogs-heads and 15 gallons of drinkables.

In the daily pursuit of his profession for about 60 years he was engaged in his work as a plasterer, he worked about 16 years and 160 days.

In walking to and from the scene of his daily labors and in other strolls Mr. Bell rolled up, at the average of five miles a day, a total of 30,000 miles. In walking this he spent about 1 year and 53 days. He encircled the world once and has made 5,000 miles on his second journey. This remarkable man was an inveterate smoker and chewer, and for many years used an entire 10-cent plug of tobacco every 12 hours. Assuming he chewed such a piece of tobacco, weighing four ounces, for 75 years, he consumed 6,844 pounds of the weed. If he smoked on an average three cigars a day for the same number of years he reduced 82,134 cigars to ashes.

Since he retired from active occupation some 25 years ago, Mr. Bell has passed his life in serene quiet. Thus in recuperation and the duties and pleasures of his earlier life the gentleman has passed the remaining 30 years of his long existence.

While these figures cannot be ascertained to any precise degree of exactitude, they are as near correct as mathematics and the general knowledge gleaned of Mr. Bell's life can make them, and the observers of these facts can spend many interesting moments in similar deductions from their own lives.—Baltimore American.

CONSUMPTION IN JAPAN.

Consumption is a rare disease in Japan. Even in winter coughs are of rare occurrence, and this despite the fact that the real Japanese do not heat their rooms with anything more than an hibachi—a tiny charcoal stove—that does not send the temperature of a room up to any appreciable degree, but serves mainly for heating tea, for warming the hands or for supplying the fire for a cigarette or pipe for the men of the household. When Japanese women wish to feel warmer they add clothing, just as they would do when going out into the street. The Japanese look upon full, deep breathing as being the most vital function in life.

CRUCIFIX NOT FADING.

Crowds of Curiosity Seekers Try To See Abbott Parker

Morristown, N. J., August 7.—The mystery by which a reproduction of the Crucifixion was imprinted upon the back of Abbott Parker after he had been struck by lightning at Morristown Friday afternoon remains unsolved tonight.

Evidence that Parker was never tattooed is being uprooted at nearly every turn. Parker is still in a private room at All Souls' Hospital, and there learned of the reports that he had been tattooed before being struck by lightning. No one is allowed to see him, but through one of the nuns in attendance he branded the stories as untrue and remains firm in the statement he made after recovering consciousness.

Dr. James B. Griswold, who attended the man and declared from the beginning that no tattooing had been done, felt happy to have his statements corroborated by Edward Gravel, an expert tattooer. Certain doctors of Morristown had spread the story that the man was tattooed, and it was for this reason only that Dr. Griswold allowed the tattooer to see him and convince the credulous that they were wrong.

All day Sunday the hospital was besieged by curiosity seekers, but none was allowed to see Parker and the wonderful transformation that had taken place on his back. The sisters stated that Parker was doing nicely and that the picture was as plain on his back as it was Friday evening. They declared that they were at a loss to explain what they called a miracle, and the doctors who have seen it are mystified.

Charles Simpson who says he is a cousin of Parker, who left Boston with him two weeks ago, was found at a boarding house on Market street. He declared that the occurrence was the most wonderful he had ever heard of. He had known Abbott Parker since boyhood and never heard of him having been tattooed. During the ten days they had been in Morristown Parker, who is an excellent swimmer and loves to be in the water, never let a day go by on which he did not take a swim. Simpson accompanied him on every one of those occasions and never saw a sign of such a thing on Parker's back. School boys were swimming in the same place, and the crucifix would have attracted their attention as being wonderful.

Among the many visitors from the hospital were agents from museums, but their efforts to see Parker proved fruitless. He is fast gaining strength, and though his back is still sore in places he has been able to sit up several times.—Baltimore Sun.

TEXAS STEERS ALL GONE

There was a time when the "Texas steer" breed of cattle covered the grazing grounds of the Southwest. They were the descendants of the long-horned cattle that the early Spanish explorers and adventurers brought from their homes across the seas. Hundreds of thousands of them ranged the unfenced pastures, rendering little more than a small tribute of hide and tallow to the Mexican or beef to the Indian. Finally the cowboy came into existence, and these wild denizens of the plains were dragged from their high estate and became the subjects of sordid commerce. These cattle were rough in appearance and usually brown, dun and black in color, there being no deep reds and roans. Their horns, however, were their really distinguishing features. These were certainly immense, often from 4 to 5 feet across from tip to tip. They were naturally wild brutes. Some of them never could be rounded up, but had to be shot in order that the others might be got under some kind of control. There were in every herd a few fighters which the cowboys called "mossheds." They would fight viciously among themselves or with the other cattle, and would frequently gore the horses of the cowboys to death.

The long horns have now practically disappeared. Their place has been taken by graded and thoroughbred cattle of a much larger size and value.—Kansas City Times.

THE REINDEERS OF ALASKA.

The Wisdom of Their Introduction Is More Than Apparent

The wisdom of the government's efforts to introduce the reindeer into Alaska grows more and more apparent every day. In the near future these animals will be found to be of immense value in the opening up of the country. The country is especially adapted to these animals, owing to the immense amount of long white moss, covering about 400,000 acres in Alaska, which they feed upon. In using dogs the natives have to take along fish for food, but with the reindeer all they have to do is to turn them loose, and they will immediately paw away the snow and find their moss food. In order to familiarize the Eskimos with these animals the missionary stations at which they are being educated have taken up the plan of showing them how to properly care for and use them. The great drawback has been in obtaining the reindeers. All along the Northern Siberian coast, where they are so numerous it is difficult to get the natives to part with them, owing to their superstition about the animals, and those which were obtained were secured through barter. Notwithstanding this a herd of 6,000 was collected, and these are rapidly increasing in numbers. The government is now spending $25,000 annually in the education of the Eskimos in the care and use of these valuable animals. The capacity of a reindeer for team work is remarkable. As their hoofs are very broad and the body light, they are able to travel over the snow's crust without breaking in. They can carry a sled of 600 pounds from 50 to 90 miles a day, and it is found with relays at every 50 miles, the mails can be carried at the rate of 200 miles per day. If the mineral industry continues to grow 50,000 teams of reindeers would not supply the demand.

HE STOOD THE TEST.

Made His Best Girl Understand How He Loved Her

She looked up at him with fondly questioning eyes.

"How much do you love me?" she said.

Her lover paused in doubt. Words failed him for the moment. Finally he spoke.

"I love you," he said, "as much as Bryan loves to talk."

"That is a good deal," she replied, "but it is not enough."

"Then I love you as much as Carrie Nation likes to see her name in print."

"Very good, but"—

"I love you as much as Alfred Austin's poems are feeble."

"Splendid, but still not enough."

"I love you as much as Pierpont Morgan loves a railroad combination, as the Beef Trust loves its profits, as the theatrical syndicate clings to rotten plays"

"You are getting very warm," she replied.

He raised his head proudly.

"I love you," he said, "as much as Theodore wants to be President."

And she fell into his arms with a loud cry.

"My darling," she exclaimed, "your love is indeed the real thing."

GIVE THE DOG A CHANCE

The summer problem of the dog is here again and a mad dog scare pervades. It is not the natural tendency of man to hate or fear the dog. Probably no other animal holds a firmer place in man's esteem. The friendship of the dog for man is conspicuous for its faithfulness. The dog gives much in faithfulness and asks little. He constitutes himself the protector of the children, the guardian of the house. He is at hand when peril threatens. He has thwarted the villainies of man, and he has saved the property of man. He is the ever-ready servant who asks only the reward of a kind word.

And yet how often man misunderstands the dog. He fancies that the dog has been driven to madness, when, in fact, there is only exhaustion or irritation under the fierce heat of summer. Frequently the dog's simple quest for a drink of water is misunderstood. Even a harmless fit is likely to throw man into a panic, and the dog's life is forfeit. For, like man, the dog is subject to the eccentricities of summer and to the conditions of climate. There are times when the dog is entitled to man's consideration and his patience. He is at all events too good a friend to be put out of the way because of me suspicion.—Chicago Inter Ocean

GETTING RID OF MOSQUITOES.

Texas Town Shows It Is Possible To Exterminate The Pests.

Laredo, Tex., is proof that it is possible to rid a town of mosquitoes. In order to do this concerted action is necessary. The people of Laredo are working on this theory, and it costs a citizen of that border town a fine of from $5 to $20 every time young mosquitoes are found about his premises.

It is pretty well established that the germs of yellow jack are carried by mosquitoes. Mosquitoes are bad enough, but yellow fever is worse, and the health authorities in this little Texas town believe that both can be avoided by enforcing certain simple laws of sanitation.

The people of Laredo have learned that a swamp of marsh is not necessary to the propagation of mosquitoes, but that the insects are hatched in a thousand and one places not ordinarily thought of.

If your next-door neighbor throws a tin can into the back yard and rain water accumulates in the can and remains there for even a few hours, the result is likely to be a small swarm of mosquitoes on your premises within a surprisingly short time. Cisterns and barrels of water pools or rain water standing in gutters or in flower pots are favorite places for mosquitoes to breed. The obvious advice is: Get rid of the water or cover it with a screen.

The difficulty is, of course, that it is impossible to secure concerted action to fight mosquitoes according to this method, except under stress of great public danger. In Laredo there would be no crusade against mosquitoes were it not for the fact that the health authorities and the people generally are convinced that the insects transmit the germs of yellow fever.

It has been declared by the City Council of Laredo that all wells, cisterns, tanks, reservoirs and other water containers which are not either coated with oil or protected by screens are public nuisances, and the persons on whose premises they are found are liable to a fine in the police court.

Moreover, the law is being enforced. The result is that mosquitoes are practically unknown in that town. The same is true in several other Texas towns along the border.

A Terrible Death Leap In The Darkness.

It is estimated that 100 lives were lost by the crash of part of a train through a trestle over an arroyo, or usually dry mountain stream, known as Steele's Hollow, near Eden, Col.

The disaster occurred about 8 P. M. Sunday, but news of it did not reach the telegraph lines until Monday morning.

A torrent, fed by rains, had suddenly appeared in the arroyo and had undermined the trestle. The locomotive and the baggage, smoking and chair cars fell into the stream.

Only four persons in the wrecked part of the train were saved. Nearly all the victims were residents of Colorado.

Strikebreakers Clubbed Kansas City, Mo., Aug.—A mob of 200 men and boys, packing-house strikers and their sympathizers, stopped an incoming train carrying strikebreakers at Riverside, Kan., tonight, drove the non-union men from the train with clubs, threw their baggage into the Kaw river and set fire to the car.

The police extinguished the fire before any damage had been done. No arrests were made.—Sun.

Several days ago a little girl residing at Lonaconing found a lot of letters belonging to her grandfather written many years ago. The collection was shown to L. Spier, a Lonaconing merchant, who found that the stamps were valuable, and when they were turned over to a stamp collector they netted the little girl $20.50.

MARYLAND'S BRAVE STAND.

State Represented by Handsome Building At The World's Fair Despite The Destruction Of Baltimore When The Appropriation Bill Was Up For Passage.

By ALBERT JONES.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 9.—The difficulties attending the passage of the bill appropriating $40,000 for the erection of the Maryland state building can hardly be realized by the average reader. The state at the session of the legislature of 1902 had appropriated $25,000 for this purpose.

The extension time in which to complete the mammoth undertaking gave the various states the opportunity to ask additional aid for their state buildings and general exhibits.

Just as the bill appropriating $60,000 was ready to pass both House of the Legislature, Baltimore, the principal city of the state and of the south, was visited by one of the most terrible conflagrations ever known in the history of nations.

The entire business portion of the city was destroyed. In two days millions of dollars worth of property was swept out of existence, and yet in the midst of the tears and sorrow of her people there was a demand that the proud old Commonwealth should take her stand amid the other states of the nation.

With the same Spartan courage, evinced in colonial and revolutionary days, her legislature passed the bill appropriating $40,000.

Gen. Baughman, chairman of the commission, at once called the body together and steps were taken even at so late a day to erect and furnish a building on the grounds of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition at St. Louis.

Every commissioner lent his assistance to this great work. Emmert and Elliott were selected as architects. Gen. Baughman and Mr. Elliott repaired at once to St. Louis, placed their plans in the hands of builders and finally awarded the contract to Broderick at a cost of $18,000.

Within an astonishingly short time the building was put up, and on the 18th of June the contractors were ready to hand the building over to the commission.

The exercises attending this occasion were of a most interesting character. The Maryland commission and the friends accompanying them from the State were the guests of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition; Gov. Dockery of Missouri and Murray Carlton of St. Louis, the President of the Maryland Club.

Maryland will have her state day on the 12th of September at which time Gov. Warfield and his staff, besides many influential citizens of the state will attend and appropriate ceremonies will be held.

Maryland appropriated $10,000 towards the agricultural display, $7,000 for her mineral exhibit, and $700 for the establishment of a training school for nurses exhibited by the Johns Hopkins Hospital.

The Maryland State Building is beautifully situated on Constitutional Avenue, between the buildings of West Virginia and Oklahoma, facing almost due South and surrounded by grand old forest trees. It is of modern classic design, very boldly treated. In plan it is a parallelogram, 100 feet long by 40 feet wide, with a recess on the front 10 by 55 feet, forming a loggia richly decorated in colors. The building is under the management of Mrs. Fisher, commissioner and hostess and Albert Jones, representing the Maryland Commissioners.

On the walls of the Maryland building are hung the following portraits, of historic interest and value:

Henrietta Maria, wife of Charles First of England, who gave the grant to Lord Baltimore, and the Lord most graciously named the province for her wife; by Florence Mackubin.

Francois Scott Key, author of "Star Spangled Banner."

Cecil, Second Lord Baltimore, founder of the colony of Maryland.

Anne, wife of Cecil, Lord Baltimore, daughter of Thomas, Lord Arundell.

Hon. A. P. Gorman, U. S. Senator.

Hon. Edwin Warfield, Governor of Maryland.

Hon. John Walter Smith, Ex-Governor of Maryland.

A fine picture by Florence Mackubin, "The Burning of the Brig 'Peggy Stewart,' in October 1774."

Fine portrait and miniature of the Hero of Santiago, Admiral Winfield Scott Schley.

His Eminence, Cardinal Gibbons; by Florence Mackubin.

Fine painting of "The Battle of North Point, 1812."

A photograph of the patent creating Sir George Calvert, Baron of Baltimore in 1624.

A photograph of the confirmation of arms to Sir George Calvert, Knight, dated third of Dec., 1622.

The originals of the photographs are in the possession of the Maryland Historical Society.

To the collection also contains numerous photographs of fine Baltimore structures and views taken in various parts of the state.

The Maryland commissioners are: Mrs. Marie A. Fisher, Mrs. Frances E. Lord, L. Victor Baughman, Francis E. Waters, William A. Marburg, Franklin P. Cator, Henry K. McGrath, William H. Grafflin, Wesley M. Oler, Thomas H. Robinson, Jacob M. Pearce, Orlando Harrison, Frederick P. Stieff, and Frank N. Hoan. Samuel K. Dennis is secretary to the commission.

SENATOR GEO. C. YEST DEAD

After lingering for weeks between life and death former United States Senator George C. Yest, died at Sweet Springs, Mo., Tuesday. Senator Yest was born at Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 6, 1830.

In 1853 moved to Georgetown, Missouri.

In 1865 elected to Missouri Legislature.

Joined Confederates under General Price in 1861, but chosen to Confederate Congress in the fall and later elected Senator.

Resumed law practice at Sedalia, Mo., in 1865.

Elected United States Senator in 1878 and served continuously until March 4, 1903.

Married in 1865 to Miss Sallie E. Sneed, of Danville, Ky., who survives him, with three children.

SURGERY IN CITY STREET. Williamsburg, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Ambulance Surgeon Ludwig, of the German Hospital, in an effort to save the life of a man who had both legs crushed at the knees by a trolley car, performed two operations in the street at Flushing avenue and Grand street this morning.

The victim was Thomas Walsh, a machinist, 35 years old, who was taken to the hospital in a dying condition. Pending the arrival of Dr. Ludwig, Walsh was pulled from under the car. He bled profusely and on the appearance of the Ambulance surgeon he saw that the only hope of saving the man's life was in amputating both legs. The operation was performed on the spot, many persons assisting.

Women screamed and fainted at the sight and great excitement prevailed. Walsh was then taken with all haste to the hospital. By that time his condition had become critical and it was said he would probably die.

A Sweet Breath is a never failing sign of a healthy stomach. When the breath is bad the stomach is out of order. There is no remedy in the world equal to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for curing indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders.

Mrs. Mary S. Crik, of White Plains, Ky., writes: I have been a dyspeptic for years; tried all kinds of remedies but continued to grow worse. By the use of Kodol I began to improve at once, and after taking a few bottles am fully restored in weight, health and strength and can eat whatever I like. Kodol digests what you eat and makes the stomach sweet. Sold by T. E. Zimmerman.

Needle in Her Body 30 Years. West Chester, Pa., Aug. 9.—Today a physician of Berwyn removed a portion of a darned needle from the left knee of Mrs. Davis T. Thomas which has been in her body for 30 years.

It was an inch and a half long, and because it caused her considerable discomfort it was decided best to remove it.

The needle penetrated the right knee and wandered over near the left knee during the 30 years' travel.

Miss M. Dougherty, of Rochester, N. Y., was severely injured in stepping out of an automobile in Central Park. She slipped and the crank caught her hair, tearing her scalp off.

Boy Dragged To Death By Mule. Robert McMillan, aged 16 years, son of Hugh McMillan, Lonaconing, was killed Tuesday afternoon by a runaway mule. He was a driver in the American Coal Company's Jackson mine and, having finished work was returning his mule to the stable when the animal became frightened and ran away.

Young McMillan became tangled in the harness and was dragged to death, life being extinct when the body was picked up. His body was badly torn and mangled.

CONTAMINATED WATER

The Typhoid Fever Epidemic at Mount Savage

Dr. John S. Fulton, of the State Board of Health, in speaking of the typhoid outbreak at Mount Savage, Md., said: "We have made an examination of the water, at the request of the local health board, and have found the water supply greatly contaminated. The State Health Board has not been called upon by the local health officer to act in this matter. The local authorities are perfectly competent to deal with the outbreak. If the local authorities want any assistance from the State Board of Health we stand ready at all times to render any assistance that may be required. Until this board has been requested to act by the local board we are in a position of statu quo."

This declaration was made by Dr. Fulton on individual representations made to him from Mount Savage of the alarming stage reached by the typhoid fever epidemic. Drs. Murray and Quarles are locally laboring day and night to control the disease.

Ten sources of water supply have been condemned as polluted, and other analyses are pending. All analyses have been made by the State Board of Health from samples forwarded by Dr. Murray, of Mount Savage. The discovery of the original source of infection was due to Dr. Murray, the local physician, and but for his prompt action in closing the spring it is thought the whole town would have been laid low.

Twenty nurses are needed to meet the exigencies of the hour. Owing to the lack of trained nursing one of a family has repeatedly contaminated the whole. In spite of every precaution on the part of the physicians, the people do not seem to realize the necessity of using extreme care.

Gloom was cast over the entire community by the death of Mr. Matthew Campbell, the second victim of the fever. Mr. Campbell was a most valued employe of the Union Mining Company, of which ex-Gov. Lloyd Lowndes is president and H. Crawford Black, of Baltimore, is vice-president. Mr. Andrew Ramsey, owner of the Mount Savage Enamelled Brick Works, is now dangerously ill of the fever and his condition was reported extremely grave.

FAIRFIELD ITEMS.

Fairfield, Aug. 9.—Mr. Henry Keener, our weather prognosticator, has predicted that we will have dry weather from Aug. 20, to continue several weeks.

Mr. Ellis Musselman, who is in business at Washington, D. C., is spending a few days at his home in Fairfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Carson and family visited at Fountindale, and were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Martin.

Uncle Tom's Cabin show came off in Fairfield last Thursday. The parade was fine; the show was good.

Mr. John Shully and sister, Miss Belle, are visiting in Franklin county.

Miss Kate Keady, of Fairfield, is visiting at Orttanna.

Miss Alice Hoke, of near Emmitsburg, and Miss Mamie Miller of Reading, were recent visitors at Fairfield.

Mr. James Sanders, of Fairfield, had a picnic last Saturday at Oak Grove, which was largely attended.

The Lutheran Sunday school, of Fairfield, will hold their annual picnic on Thursday, August 18, in Mr. Taney's grove, near Fairfield.

Huckleberries have been selling in Fairfield at 8 cents per quart, 7 cents in the country. They seem to be plentiful in the mountain.

Dr. W. G. Dubs reports a great many sick horses.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Row, of Fairfield attended the reunion at Mont Alto park. There was a large crowd of people there.

Mr. R. F. Sanders contemplates going West in the course of one week. Mr. Sanders intends to buy property if he can suit himself.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Bigham and family, of Washington, D. C., are spending a few days among their friends in this section of the country.

Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Smith and daughter and Mrs. Miller, a sister-in-law of Mrs. H. Hartman, are spending several months with Mr. and Mrs. H. Hartman. These ladies are from Florida. They received a letter from Florida last Saturday stating that they have rain every day and the mosquitoes are so plentiful one can hardly stand it.

Two of Mr. John Kugler's daughters, of near Abilene, Kansas, are visiting among friends in this section. Mr. Kugler formerly lived in this community.

Mr. Howard Harbaugh, mail carrier, has gone to St. Louis to attend the Fair.

Mr. Philip Stansbury and daughter, of Maryland, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hill.

Rev. J. F. Mackley, of Fairfield, took up 100 bushels of potatoes of a small lot of ground. They were very large. The crop will be the largest we have had for some time.

GOOSE AND MILK CAN WRECKED BY A STORM.

A severe windstorm prevailed in the vicinity of Williamsport Wednesday afternoon. On the farm of Judge James Findlay five acres of corn was destroyed, the stalks being broken off close to the ground. Half of the apple crop was blown off the trees.

John T. Gossard, the tenant, states that during the storm a goose and a large milk can were swept off the ground and carried around the house. One eye of the goose was knocked out and it was otherwise injured. Adjoining farms were also damaged. Rain fell for over an hour, flooding the lowlands. Mr. Gossard and his hands were in the field and saw the storm coming. They fled to the barn, reaching the building as the storm broke.

JUDGE PARKER NOTIFIED.

On Wednesday Judge Alton B. Parker, was notified at his home, Rosemount, at Esopus, N. Y., of his nomination for the Presidency by the Democratic National Convention. The notification address was made by Congressman Champ Clark, of Missouri. Judge Parker responded with a speech, which was the first since his nomination, and is of greatest importance, because it declares his views on the public questions before the country in this campaign. The following are some of the most important points in Judge Parker's speech:

"After nominating me and subsequently receiving a communication declaring that I regarded the gold standard as firmly and irrevocably established, * * * the Convention reiterated its determination that I should be the standard-bearer of the party in the present contest. This * * * I shall ever esteem as the highest honor that could be conferred upon me."

"It must be confessed that in the course of our history executives have employed powers not belonging to them."

"Constitutional guarantees are violated whenever any citizen is denied the right to labor, to acquire and enjoy property, or to reside where his interests or inclination may determine."

"There are but two powers in government—one the power of the sword, the other the power of the law."

"The present tariff law is unjust in its operation, excessive in many of its rates and so framed in particular instances as to exact inordinate profits from the people."

"The common law as developed affords a complete legal remedy against monopolies. * * * While this is my view of the scope of the common law, it should be made to appear that it is a mistaken one, then I favor such further legislation within Constitutional limitations as will give to the people a just and full measure of protection."

"It is difficult to understand how any citizen of the United States, much less a descendant of Revolutionary stock, can tolerate the thought of permanently denying the right of self-government to the Philippines."

"We should confide our international activities solely to matters in which the rights of the country or of our citizens are directly involved."

"I shall not be a candidate for, nor shall I accept a renomination."

Myersville Merchant Declares The Young Man Is The Burglar

George H. Koogle, aged 20 years, son of Capt. Jacob Koogle, a farmer near Myersville, was given a hearing before Magistrate Eckstein Monday in the town hall at that place and held in $2,000 bail for the action of the September term of court, charged with attempted burglary of the store of Mr. George H. Bittle at Myersville, and with assaulting with intent to kill Mr. Bittle.

Mr. Bittle, who was struck three times by bullets fired by the burglar, was propped up in bed while he gave his testimony. He fully identified Koogle as his assailant, saying that he had seen him early in the evening, noticed his attire and peculiar walk, and as the night was a bright moonlight one he had no trouble in recognizing him. He also identified a watch chain, charm and rings which had been stolen from his store June 9, which parties had returned to him within the past few days, stating they had bought them from young Koogle.

Goods which had been stolen from other stores and identified by their owners were returned by parties who stated that they had purchased them from Koogle.

The young man denied that he was the burglar, claiming he was home on the night of the shooting, and in this he was borne out by his sister, who said he returned home about 10.30 and she saw him go to bed.

DWELLING BURNED

Two Elderly Persons in Very Great Trouble

The tenant house on the farm of Hiram Rensburg, three miles south of Middletown Frederick county, occupied by William Grove and his sister, was destroyed by fire during the prevalence of a thunderstorm Monday morning. Mr. Grove is nearly blind and his sister does not hear well. When Mr. Grove was awakened by the flames the fire was burning along the comb of the roof over the kitchen. He made his way to his sister's room and aroused her and then awakened Mr. Rensburg, whose house was only 100 feet distant. Nothing but a few pieces of household furniture and some bed clothing was saved. A grandfather's clock, which was sold on Saturday to Dr. A. A. Lamar, of Middletown, for $50, was saved. Mr. Grove lost $90 in cash. He was unable to save any of his clothing. Fire fell all over the home of Mr. Rensburg, but a slate roof prevented their igniting. The barn, 150 feet distant was saved. The house was valued at $1,000. Insurance, $300.

Fine Tomatoes.

Mr. Edward McNulty, the successful gardener at Mt. St. Mary's College, sent to THE CHRONICLE office Wednesday morning a lot of the finest tomatoes we have seen this season. Among the lot were three of the Ponderosa variety, the combined weight of which was four pounds. These tomatoes were not only large, but are smooth, firm and have a fine flavor. Mr. McNulty also sent a fine cluster of Sparks Early Anders. There were ten of these tomatoes on one stem. This is also another fine variety being entirely free from wrinkles.

A HOLD-UP IN CUMBERLAND.

Masked and Armed Robbers Secure Money At Cumberland.

Three masked men entered the Silver Spring clubroom, in the Dreyfus Building, North Mechanic street, Cumberland, last Friday morning about 12.30 o'clock, and with drawn revolvers, held up and robbed Geminio Madera and Joe Sentello, Italians, and William Simpson, colored, who conducts the club dining-rooms, relieving Madera of $400 in Italian money, $80 in gold, $20 in bills and a gold watch; Sentello of $40 in money and his watch, and Simpson of his watch overlooking some money the latter had stuffed in his pocket underneath his watch.

The holdup was the boldest ever committed in Cumberland, and is thought to have been the work of the same men who robbed, beat and shot William Offman at Frostburg several days ago, and who attempted to rob a confectionery store at Narrows Park several days ago, at which time a dozen shots were fired into the store.

As soon as the robbers were through with their work at the Silver Spring Club rooms they left the rooms and ran up the alley and a side street to the railroad. An alarm was given and the police gave chase. Officer Baker got close to the robbers and was shot at by one of the men, the bullet grazing his head. The men ran up the railroad, however, and escaped in the darkness. They kept the masks on their faces as they ran, and could not be identified.

Madera is from Myersdale and was on his way to Italy. He had gone to the clubrooms with two women. When the masked men appeared they ordered the men inside to throw up their hands, and compelled the women to face the walls and put their hands as high as possible.

Men answering the description of the masked men as to size, dress, etc., were on Paet street earlier in the evening, making close inquiries as to the habits of Jacob Ritter, the amount of money, etc., carried by him. Two suspects were arrested, but were released later. Every portion of the city is being closely patrolled for the robbers.

One of the watches and a mask worn by one of the robbers was found Friday in a yard on Polk St. At 4 o'clock Friday morning three men who acted suspiciously, called up Dr. McFidelity, at Ellerslie, one of the men had a wound on the head dressed. They claimed they had been chased out of some place and that the man was injured in jumping out.

POSTOFFICE ROBBERY.

Work of Burglars At Mount Airy And Damages by Fire.

Robbers at 2 o'clock Monday morning blew open the safe in the postoffice of Mt. Airy, and robbed it of $300 worth of postage stamps and several dollars in currency. The postoffice is in the drug store of Dr. Walter R. Rudy, in the center of the town, along the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. The burglars effected an entrance by prizing a window open with tools they got from the Baltimore and Ohio repair shops. The safe door was blown off with nitro-glycerin and was found lying on the floor Monday morning. The explosion was heard by a number of persons who were aroused from their sleep. John W. Wilson, proprietor of the hotel, attracted by the noise, went out into the street and walking within 100 feet of the postoffice, but as he saw no one, concluded, as did others, that the noise was caused by the passing of heavy trains. When Dr. Rudy opened his store Monday morning he found the contents of his safe had been ransacked and all carried off in a mail sack. He stated that everything indicated that the work was that of professionals.

Fire destroyed several stables and outbuildings in Mt. Airy Sunday, Wilson's Hotel and Ruland's bakery took fire, and it looked as if the town was to undergo another conflagration as serious as it did a year ago. The Frederick fire department was called upon, but the flames were extinguished before they started for the scene. The loss was $2,000 partly covered by insurance.

STRAW RIDE.

On Thursday evening of last week the young people of Dry Bridge and vicinity enjoyed a very pleasant straw ride from that place to Franklinville, and spent a most enjoyable evening at a festival there. When the wagon arrived at Dry Bridge promptly at the appointed time, 7.30 P. M., it found all of the invited guests awaiting it, except two, who sent messages of regrets, stating their sad disappointments at not being able to be present, on account of having been called away at the eleventh hour to attend to some special business.

Those present quickly filled the wagon, and very soon found themselves enjoying a ride on a springless vehicle, through the cool evening's breeze, and reached their destination much sooner than expected. After spending several hours at the festival they started home in the same jovial manner in which they had set out, and reached home at an early hour, feeling much refreshed and regretting that they had not further to go. Those who participated in the enjoyment were Misses Agnes Rosensteel, Alice Kelly, Dora and Vernia Hahn, Ada Warner, Jennie, Emma and Rose Lingg, Mrs. Thos. Jacobs, Messrs. Newton Shiar, Ernest Warner, Harry Roddy, George and Harry Lingg.

Williamsport Refuses Franchise
The Commissioners of Williamsport on Monday night refused to grant a franchise for town waterworks to a company composed of home and outside capitalists represented by Abraham Roth. Col. Charles A. Little, town attorney, informed the officials that under the present charter the town could not grant the franchise without additional legislation.

CATHOLIC SUMMER SCHOOL.

Instructive Lectures—Social Features—Consist of Entertainments, Coaching Parties, Etc.

The work of the second week of the Maryland Catholic Summer School, at Mt. St. Mary's, added much lustre to the lecture course, and also inaugurated the social features.

Prof. C. Monaghan, of the Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C., gave a most interesting course of five lectures on commerce during the week. The Professor has a marvelous store of information on this subject, most of it gained during his lengthy term as Consul from the United States to Germany and Austria. The lectures were all forcible, instructive and brilliant.

At the close of the Pedagogic Course the members gave Dr. Harren a unanimous vote of thanks for his helpful and interesting presentation of the Principles of Education.

Through the efforts of the President of the Women's Chapter and her assistants, the social side of the Summer School has made a very auspicious beginning.

On Monday and Thursday evenings progressive euchre was indulged in by the members. The prizes at the first one were won by Misses Walsh, Eagan, Fortune.

The winners at the second were Dr. Haaren, Misses Eckenrode, Fortune, Hemler.

On Tuesday evening a dance was entered into with much vim by all. The more sedate members making the hall vibrate as they stepped forward and backward, and fro in the Virginia Reel, whilst the mazy waltz and stately two-step gave the younger element the enjoyment so dear to every youthful heart.

An entertainment was given on Wednesday evening in which Dr. Harren, Miss Roselle, Dr. Eagan, Dr. Vallette, Miss Brown and Miss Emma Moore took active parts. These names are a guaranty in themselves, so needless to say the entertainment will long be remembered by all fortunate to be present.

On Tuesday morning, August 2nd, a coaching party left the school bound for historic Gettysburg. The ride through the peaceful Blue Ridge country and thrifty Pennsylvania farming land was as perfect as congenial company, good vehicles, fine roads and happy hearts could make an excursion.

The first stop was at the well-known Eagle Hotel, where a substantial dinner had been provided for the party.

The lively anecdotes told by the members, in which the English, French and German languages were mingled in the most informal manner, put the party in good humor with themselves and the rest of the world. But all good dinners, as well as many good things, come to an end, and the members were not sorry to obey the call and start for the battlefield. There are twenty-five miles of asphalted roads in and around the old field, which make riding and sight-seeing an easy matter.

The gratitude of the Nation is shown in the 428 monuments which decorate the grass-grown arena.

The drive through the National Cemetery, crowned by the beautiful monument erected by a grateful nation to honor its unknown dead, and dedicated by Lincoln in his world-famous address, was reverentially quiet.

Songs and jests enlivened the return trip and closed with a vote of thanks to Miss M. Schoolfield for planning so successfully the day's outing.

Among those in the coaching party were: Father Tagesser, Des. Vallette, Haaren, Eagan, Prof. Monaghan, Misses Schoolfield, Walsh, Eagan and Fortune.

On Monday Dr. Wm. Fletcher, rector of the Baltimore Cathedral and president of the Summer School, arrived. He was accompanied by Mr. Wm. Gallery, the secretary.

In the evening a reception was tendered to the Rev. President by the members of the School and the residents of Mt. St. Mary's.

Father Tagesser, in his own and his parishioners' name, welcomed the distinguished president. Dr. Vallette ably seconded this welcome in the name of the Summer School.

The Rev. President expressed his pleasure and gratification in being selected to guide a movement devoted to such noble aims, and in a brief and comprehensive manner outlined the usefulness of such assemblies to the public.

CABBAGE PESTS.

Trouble With Root Maggots—Prevention and Cures—Plant Lice.

By D. F. SMITHSON.

Root maggots give considerable trouble to cabbage growers in many sections of the country. The cabbage or radish maggot and the onion maggot, which may be treated as practically of the same species, cause loss to cauliflower, early cabbages, turnips, radishes and onions. Experiments carried on last summer at the Canada experimental farms with the object of producing early tobacco and vegetables of high quality are interesting in this connection. An enclosure was made of a light framework of wood six feet in height and covered top and sides with cheesecloth. Within this were planted tobacco and various kinds of vegetables. This cheap protection not only hastened the maturity of plants, but wholly prevented the attacks of various insects. Radishes, onions, cabbages and cauliflower developed well and were entirely free from root maggots. There was no trouble from cucumber beetles, so destructive to the various cucurbits. This fencing device seemed a sure means of securing perfect condition in vegetables such as cauliflower, cabbages, radishes, onions and others of moderate height that usually suffer from insect predations. Instead of the tent, gardeners could use an easily made light framework three feet high and three feet wide for single rows in a garden.

CABBAGE MAGGOT. (1-3, maggot and pupa case; 4, fly; 1, 2 and 3 enlarged.)

Another application sometimes used in the same way is a half teaspoonful of a strong decoction of pyrethrum powder. It is poured around the roots of each plant after drawing the earth away right down to the rootlets. The earth is then pushed back again. Disks of tarred paper are considered one of the best preventives. Plant lice of various kinds have been very abundant during a few seasons past. The cabbage and the turnip have their particular pest in this, known as Aphis brassicae. John Fletcher, the Canadian entomologist, recommends that the insect be looked for when cabbage plants in gardens are being cultivated, and as soon as the first colonies appear, which will probably be late in July or in August, they should be attended to at once before they increase in number. While oil soap, a pound in six gallons of water, or the ordinary one to nine dilution of kerosene emulsion, if sprayed thoroughly, will destroy the aphids. In turnip fields, where by far the greatest amount of injury is done, those engaged in thinning and hoeing should be constantly on the watch for infested plants, which may at that time be hoed out and destroyed. This will in many instances be sufficient to prevent the occurrence later of a serious outbreak. The eggs of this insect are laid on the turnip tops late in autumn. This suggests the advisability of plowing down deeply all tops which are cut from the roots at the time of harvesting in autumn, so as to destroy the eggs. In fields of cabbages where also eggs are laid the same practice should prevail when the cabbages cannot be fed or are too poor to store for feed purposes.

Root Obstruction to Drains. As far as known, the roots of grasses, grains and annual field crops do not obstruct underground drains, but this is not the case with some trees. Among them are the willows, water elm, tamarack and sometimes the soft maple, which in a short time will fill the drain with a mass of root hairs, even when they are growing fifty feet distant from the line of the drain. Some field drains under ordinary conditions contain no water during a considerable portion of the growing season. Those drains which are fed by springs or have a continual flow through them are more subject to obstruction from the roots of trees than drains which are dry for a part of the year.

Where there is reason to suspect that there will be difficulty with tree roots the joints of the tiles near the trees should be securely cemented. It is safe to say that all willows and water elms growing within fifty feet of any tile drain should be destroyed irrespective of the flow of water in the drain.

One radical difference between a boy and a girl is that the girl can get enthusiastic about a troop of cherry blossoms without thinking of the cherries.—Somerville Journal.

His Mistakes. "I pity the man who can't learn anything from his own mistakes. Now, that's one thing I can do," said Bragg. "Ah! You're always learning something that you don't want to know."—Exchange.

CASTORIA. The Kind You Have Always Bought.

Small text about Castoria advertisement.

DAIRY TALK.

To Improve the Herd First Find Out What Every Cow Is Doing.

I began nine years ago, buying six of the best common cows I could find. I paid $50 apiece for them. I worked along and used scrub bulls and raised a few calves for three years, but I did not get ahead any for the reason that I had no means of knowing what my cows were doing. I mean by this that I did not keep an account with each cow to see what she was doing.

Six years ago I began to keep an account with my cows. I bought a set of scales and put them in the tie-up, and from that time to the present every cow has had to stand on her own records. I bought a registered Holstein bull and began to raise my own cows. Today I have about forty cows and heifers, and last fall I won fifty ribbons at the Bangor and Lewiston fairs.

My standard when I began was 2,500 quarts a year, and today my two-year-old heifers are averaging 4,000 quarts a year and my mature cows about 5,000 quarts.

I am able to get $10 apiece for all my grade heifer calves when a few days old as against $5 when I was breeding from scrub bulls. My grade bull calves sell readily for from $5 to $10, at the same age, to feed for veal, or raise for steers. I have never sold any of my registered heifer calves because I am getting my whole herd into registered stock, but my thoroughbred bull calves sell at $30 and $40 when dropped, and I sold one at five months old for $50.

Now, the only way to ever get started was in knowing first what every cow was doing. Lots of cows start out with a big mess and dry up in a few months, so that they do not pay for their keeping. I sell that kind as soon as I find them out, but I never could find them out if I did not weigh their milk.

I produce milk for a condensed milk company. They buy milk by the pound, so I do not test my milk for butter fat, but they test all the milk they buy about once a week, and they report that my milk tests on an average about 4 per cent, and that, they say, is good enough for them.—A Maine Dairyman.

Soft Corn in Beef Making.

Having investigated the feeding value of soft corn in beef production, the Iowa experiment station arrived at the following among other conclusions: That soft corn grown on the college farm in 1902 and containing 35 per cent of moisture at the beginning of the test, pound for pound, on a water free or dry matter basis, was fully equal in feeding value to mature corn grown in 1900 when used for fattening cattle.

That cattle fed on such soft corn made nearly as heavy gains and finished equally as well as those fed on mature corn grown in 1900.

That when soft corn similar to that used in this test could be purchased for 30 cents per bushel, the prevailing market price, gains on fattening cattle could be made at a cost of 3.03 cents per pound less than when mature corn, costing 50 cents per bushel, the prevailing market price, was fed under similar conditions.

Spruce and Pine. It has been found by the Danish Heather Improvement society that in planting trees on barren, sandy coast stretches spruce will make an excellent growth on these waste areas in the immediate vicinity of mountain pine, even if the soil is practically free from food materials. The root system of the spruce trees has only a poor development to the side where there is no mountain pine, while to the side where such a tree stands a strong root system is developed that intertwines with the roots of the pine, often coming in immediate contact with these.

There appears to exist a relation between these two kinds of trees which is of benefit to both. If the pine is cut down while the spruce is still young, the latter will die or make a sickly growth. If, on the other hand, it is not cut until after several years, the spruce will not only survive, but appears to grow faster than would have been the case if the pine had been left standing.

In the Medicinal Garden. The world's fair has a strip of land 150 feet by 40 feet wide devoted to medicinal and drug plants. The plants are labeled to show the scientific and the common names, the parts used in medicines and their properties. The grass family occupies the first position in the field and includes in this exhibit the most valuable member and one of the most worthless from the farmer's standpoint—namely, corn and couch grass, the comstarch and silk furnished by the former being used in medicine, and the running rootstock of the latter, a source of much trouble to the farmer, also possessing medicinal properties.

Golden seal, a native plant for the root of which a great demand exists and which brings a good price, will also be found here as well as another plant which has caused a flurry in the market on account of short supply—namely, the Cascara sagrada tree, the bark of which is employed medicinally.

Shading Strawberries. Two years' tests in shading strawberries at the New York experiment station give little encouragement to the practice. With the exception of two varieties known principally as forcing berries there was little increase of yield or advance in time of ripening, and the quality was unfavorably affected. The only advantage was in larger size, and this would not compensate for the added expense of shading in field culture.

Amusing a Boston Baby. Mrs. Benster—Mr. Johnson, won't you please amuse the baby for about five minutes? Mr. Johnson (not of Boston)—I'm afraid I don't know how, Mrs. Benster. Mrs. Benster—Just talk a little. She always finds your western grammatical peculiarities so amusing.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Implement of Warfare.

There is a story of a privateer's crew of forty to fifty men capturing a Turkish galley with 500 seamen and soldiers on board by means of a swarm of bees judiciously thrown among the unexpectant ones. However this may be, there are enough authentic instances of strange methods of attack to provide amply sufficient material for the casuist in deciding what is fair and what unfair in war. Burning naphtha, boiling lead, birds, carcasses of men and horses, Chinese stinkpots, besides the implements already mentioned, have all been used for offensive or defensive purposes in actual warfare.

Frank of the Lightning.

In 1844 a fishing smack off one of the Shetland isles was struck by lightning during a fierce storm. The bolt first struck the mast, which it splintered completely. It then passed to a watch in the pocket of a man sitting close to the mast and completely melted it. The man not only was unharmed, but he did not know what had taken place till he took his watch from his pocket and found it fused into a mass.

Windmills.

"I never knew till now why this was such a windy country," said the bright little girl traveling through Illinois. "And have you discovered why?" asked her father. "Of course. See all the windmills on dropped, and I sold one at five months old for $50."

MRS. CECILIA STOWE, Orator, Entro Nous Club.

176 Warren Avenue, CHICAGO, ILL., Oct. 22, 1902. For nearly four years I suffered from ovarian troubles. The doctor insisted on an operation as the only way to get well. I, however, strongly objected to an operation. My husband felt disheartened as well as I, for home with a sick woman is a disconsolate place at best. A friendly druggist advised him to get a bottle of Wine of Cardui for me to try, and he did so. I began to improve in a few days and my recovery was very rapid. Within eighteen weeks I was another being.

KAMPAR.

A tin mining advance, with a kepeja of a mining kongsi two and a half miles on the Cheroot path, were set upon by three Macaos on the 24th instant, who spoke both Kehl and Macow, armed with parangs, who relieved them of about $80 in cash. The kepeja had often seen these robbers in Gopeng, and can identify them. The robbery was reported at the Gopeng police station at 5.30 P. M. on the 24th, and a sergeant, a lance corporal and a Chinese detective, accompanied by the kepeja, proceeded to the scene of the robbery, and on arriving there at 6.30 P. M. saw three men hiding in the jungle, who seeing the search party scooted. The lance corporal gave chase and succeeded in capturing one of the robbers. The other two men managed to make off and hide in the jungle, as darkness had set in and they could not be seen. The robber who had been arrested gave the names of the two other robbers as Lim San and Lo Qui, and he stated that he worked in a mining kongsi quarter of a mile from the scene the robbery. The search party proceeded to the kongsi and arrested one of the prisoners. The other prisoner was found early the next morning hiding in some lalang and was soon captured. This was very good smart work on the part of the police.—Penang Straits Echo.
