JOHN PAUL JONES' REMAINS FOUND

Body of Famous American Admiral Discovered in Paris Cemetery.

IDENTIFICATION IS COMPLETE

Paris, April 15.-The remarkable search which Ambassador Porter has conducted for the body of Paul Jones has been crowned with success by the discovery of the body and its identification by the highest French medical experts as unquestionably that of the famous American admiral who founded the American navy.

Ambassador Porter cabled to Washington announcing the successful results of his long and difficult search. The body is in a good state of preservation considering that the interment took place over 100 years ago.

Hundreds of wooden caskets were found but not until Wednesday were unearthed four leaden caskets which gave promise of containing the body of the admiral. Three of them bore plates designating the names of the deceased The fourth showed superior solidity of workmanship. No plate was found on this casket, and it is supposed it was removed when another coffin was superimposed on it. The leaden coffin was opened in the presence of General Porter. The body was found to be well preserved owing to its being immersed in alcohol. It was wrapped In a sheet with a packing of straw and hay. Those present were immediately struck by the resemblance of the head to that on the medallions and busts of the admiral

As was anticipated, no uniform, decoration or sword was found, as all such articles had been accounted for after the burial

The coffin is shaped like a mummy coffin, which coffins were common at that period, widening from the feet to the shoulders with a round top fitting

The face is clean shaved, all corresponding exactly with the descriptions, portraits and busts of the admiral. The linen is in good condition. One article bears the initial either "J" or an

The body was carefully packed. The limbs were wrapped in tinfoil, presumably for sea transportation, as indiested in a letter of the admiral's nearest friend and pall-bearer of his fumeral, Colonel Blackden, who said: "His body was put in a leaden coffin, so that in case the United States, which he had so essentially served, should

Finding that all the internal organs were singlarly well preserved, the doctors made an autopsy, which showed whistinct proofs of the disease from which the admiral is known to have Hied. The identification was pronounced complete in every particular.

ACCUSED OF PADDING PAYROLLS Several Scranton Officials Arrested On

Serious Charges. Scranton, Pa., April 18-B. T. Jayne, director of public works; C. V. Terwilliger, superintendent of highways and sewers, and E. N. Smith, an emplove of the department, were arrested at the instance of President J. J. Jermyn, of the Taxpayers' League, on the charge of padding payrolls. The accused demanded an immediate hearang, but the prosecution was not ready and the cases went over.

The information in the cases brought charges that different persons, among them Smith, drew money from the city for work they never performed, and that Javne and Terwilliger approved the payrolls, knowing of the fraud. Jayne's son, a high school student, is one of the persons, who, it is charged, drew money for work that he did not perform. Other arrests are expected.

KNOWLEDGE AND CULTURE. The Two Do Not Necessarily Walk Hand In Hand.

High marks in examinations depend upon a trained memory and a power of acquiring irrelevant information. Culture, on the contrary, is a sympathetic assimilation of the best in the realm of thought and achievement. Culture is a slower process and a deeper, and its reward strikes further in. Assimilation of the best that has been thought and accomplished affects not merely the brain, but the characterthe whole spirit of a man. Culture implies a soil plowed and fertilized, where whatever seed falls has the better chance for growth. Information even in vast quantities, so long as it remains mere information, used need not affect the manners nor the morals of a man; both may remain A cultured gentleman has external methods of getting on with his kind; he has the true sense of relationship, per's Weekly.

THE WOOLSACK.

It Is In the House of Lords and Yet Is Not a Part of It. It is a curious fact that the woolsack on which the lord charcellor sits in the British house of lords is not, strictly speaking, in the house of lords, and this is why when the lord chancellor rises to take part in debate he first of all moves away from the woolsack to his own place as a peer before he speaks. The fact, too, explains why noble lords who desire to avoid voting sometimes merely withdraw to the woolsack, where, not being in a parliamentary sense within the house, they are not counted in a division.

Again, though the lord chancellor is now invariably a peer, he is not necessarlly so, and as a matter of fact the past by commoners. In such cases the "thou" in France. The Way Liquor Was Smuggled Abourd One of Our Warships.

While on the China station in 1886 the master at arms' mess on the United States steamer Omaha was in a drunken and demoralized condition for several weeks. Try as he might the captain could not discover where the liquor was coming from. Finally all shore liberty was stopped, but the drunkenness did not cease. On the morning of sailing while the executive officer was near the port gangway watching the taking in of stores he asked what was in a large demijohn that came over the side with boxes and packages. He was told that it was vinegar. He pulled the cork and sniffed it. It was vinegar. Then his attention was attracted by the tag marked "master at arms' mess," and, remarking that the mess must be using vinegar for bathing, as he had already seen the same demijohn brought or to be is not for himself, but for aboard twice within that week, he ordered the officer of the deck to inspect ours; the other half is with God. Belgium as a Lace Center. Belgium has long been an important center of the lace industry.

The art of making lace spread through Flanders from France and Italy in the middle centuries owing to the splendid qualities of Belgian flax. and it was there that the wonderful duchesse lace was originated. Much of the so called Spanish lace-black, with its large roses and trailing design-was also made in Flanders, and for the last hundred years the cities of which is still given in the old tongue, Bruges. Ghent and Ypres have put on the market the three best grades of the modern valenciennes lace, each city having a distinct variation in design due to the differences in workmanship gradually introduced in the course of years in the three localities.

They were to have been met at the Pennsylvania railroad station on their arrival from New York by Mr. and Mrs. Heck. Failing to meet them at the station, Mr. and Mrs. Eckert went to the house, and the finding of the bodies of their daughter and son-in-law followed. Mrs. Heck's body was found lying on a couch. The body of the husband was on the floor, in a sitting posture, with the head resting on the body of the wife. The coroner's physician said Mrs. Heck had been dead about 16 hours.

The last seen of the husband alive was when he left the theatre about 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon, and the wife was seen for the last time about 5.30 Saturday, when a neighbor spoke to her. There was no note or other direct evidence found to indicate sui-

Coolly Relates How She Killed Husband, With Daughter Looking On. Reading, Pa., April 15.-The application for a new trial by Samuel Greason, under sentence of death for the murder of John Edwards, nearly four years ago, whose case has attracted widespread attention by reason of the stubborn contest which he has put up for his life, was heard in court. Greason was convicted over three years ago on the testimony of Mrs. Kate Edwards, wife of the dead man. She then said that he assisted her to kill her husband. On the eve of the date fixed for the execution of Mrs. Edwards and Greason, the woman declared that the man was innocent. He said that on a previous voyage he had fallen sick and was taken for dead and put into a sack for burial. A quartermaster had been put on to watch the body until it was time for the funeral. When the burial party arrived the quartermaster informed the captain that he thought the body had moved in the sack. The sack was opened, and Lazarus eventually, came to life again. Such was the story Lazarus told me. Lazarus was a thin man with a sallow face. He had an enormous appetite and appeared at every meal, to which he devoted his whole energies, The good feeding only seemed to add to his corpselike appearance. One evening, sure enough, when we were about halfway to our yoyage's end, he apparently died again. ATTRACTED TO MARYLAND.

Settlers From The West Flocking This Way .- New Corn Yield.

The influx of farmers from the West into Maryland territory is increasing daily. Up to date, according to Mr. Herman Badenhoop, secretary of the Maryland Industrial Bureau, the number of new settlers upon Maryland farm lands runs far into the thousands.

Recently so great has been the influx that the Western Maryland Railroad has appointed an industrial agent to look after the newcomers in its territory, a fact that is not generally known. The largest portion of these settlers come from the West, and are Swedes and Danes, the most desirable of all foreign farmers, according to those in a position to know. The tidings have gone forth that well as fruit and vegetables. Until re- Alley, which is one of the nearest boxes Maryland can raise wheat and corn as cently the idea prevailed in the West to the Mehrling home. This letter was that there was not much chance for cereals in this State. This supposition has now been disabused through the efforts of those interested in agriculture in Maryland, with the result that hundreds of acres of land formerly waste are now being cultivated by the most desirable class of farmers,

The corn crusade in Maryland, which has met with great success, has also attracted much attention in the West. In connection with this enterprise Secretary Wroth of the Baltimore Chamber of Commerce has this to say: "The effort being made to interest farmers in Maryland in methods which will result in very largely increasing the yield of corn in this State is sure to This has been the result where the advice has been followed, Iowa and Illin- which corresponded in every particular efit of the corps in getting uniforms. ois being particular noteworthy, and Pen-Mar will be open on Decoration the extension of the practice over the Day, May 30th, and every pleasant en- entire corn area of the United States

THE BELTED PLAID.

This Was the Original Dress of the Scottish Highlander.

The original dress of the highlander was the belted plaid. This was a piece of tartan cloth, two yards broad and four long, which was drawn around the waist in nicely adjusted folds and tightly buckled with a belt. The lower part came down to the knees in much the same manner as the modern kilt, while the upper part was drawn up and adjusted to the left shoulder, so that the right arm might be perfectly free. The upper part was in ten hours' total time can test every the plaid, which was used as a covering for the shoulders and body in wet weather, and when the use of both arms was required it was fastened across the breast with a brooch, often curiously enriched. A brooch was also used to fasten the plaid on the left shoulder. To attire himself in the belted plaid required on the part of the highlander no small amount of dexteri-The usual way was to lay it on the floor and after carefully arranging the folds to lie down upon it and then buckle it on. The lower end was fastened at the right hip. The utility of such a dress in the highlands is obvious, for the plaid rendered the man indifferent to storms and prepared to pass a night in the open air in the most inclement weather, while the loose undergarment enabled him to wade rivers or ascend mountains with equal ease. It was thus peculiarly adapted to the warrior, the hunter and the shepherd,-London Mail.

Some cowboys during the time when the prairie dogs swam across say that the stream was chock full of the little rascals for The thirsty cattle were either unable or unwilling to stick their mouths into the water through the moving mass of stock to a distant stream, but the Red river became clear of the repelling swimmers after blocking the useful drinking place for about a week. It was generally supposed that the dogs halted when they had reached the staked plains of Texas."-Kansas City

The march of improvement had begun and kept on steadily until toward the middle of the sixteenth century pins began to win appreciation so high that statutes were enacted protecting their manufacture, and rigid laws were passed prohibiting the importation of numerous minor articles, including pins, gloves, knives, tailors' shears, scissors and irons. Up to this period female dress was fastened with ribbons, laces, clasps, hooks and eyes and skewers of brass, silver and gold. The latter were, in fact, pins without heads,-London Globe.

Wild Flowers of Alaska. Up in "green Alaska," as John Burroughs found it, the predominating color of the wild flowers is blue. The wild geranium is blue and tinges the slopes as daisies and buttercups do with us, He speaks of "patches of a most exquisite forgetmenot of pure, delicate blue with yellow center that grew to the height of about a foot. A handful of it looked like something just caught out of the sky above." In another paragraph he speaks of the forgetmenet growing round an Eskimo encampment at Plover bay, within sight of the Siberian coast, that was scarcely an inch high, of deep ultramarine blue, "the deepest, most intense blue I ever saw in a wild flower."

Fish Out of Water,

Many people think that fish when taken out of water die because air has a fatal effect on them. The real reason, however, is that their delicate gill filaments or membranes become dry and stick together, so that no air can can pass between them. Thus they lose the power to imbibe necessary oxygen. and the circulation of their blood stops. The painful gasping of a fish out of water is nature's effort to free the passage through the filaments,

TESTING SEED CORN.

Practical Step Toward Eliminating Chance From Agriculture. By ALBERT N. HUME, Illinois Experi-

POINTS FOR SMOKERS.

Some Advice to Follow if They Must

Very few people are aware how much harm is done to young men by the aimost universal habit of cigarette smoking. The man who smokes cigarettes has one always in his mouth and is continually inhaling nicotine until the system is saturated with the poison.

The result of this practice is a catarrhal condition of the nose, throat and bronchi, a disordered and very irritable state of the nerves, a weak and rapid action of the heart and indiges-

If a man must smoke-and we admit the charm of the habit to those who have become accustomed to its soothing influences-let him choose a mild cigar and have certain set times for indulging. If he puts a certain restraint upon himself from the start in the matter of smoking, he will not overdo it, and there are few men who can smoke more than three cigars a day without injury .- Medical Brief.

MUSIC AND HUMOR.

An English Critic Says That the Two Cannot Be Linked,

There is little room in music for humor and no room at all for wit. When I hear some one speak of the wit of a Chopin scherzo I think, "My friend, you are slightly deranged mentally." In association with words there can be humor in music, as, for example, the prolonged low notes Handel gives to Polyphemus when he asks for a hundred reeds "for my capacious mouth." But the humor of Haydn and Beethoven in their instrumental works consists entirely of practical jokes-a sudden low C on the bassoon, a horn passage which no horn player can ever hope to play, a bass who enters a bar too soon or too late. The late Harold Frederic summed up the question beautifully. He said to me one day when I had not laughed at one of his stories: "Musicians have no sense of humor. When I was a young man touching negatives in a photographer's studio I was very musical. I had notes in my voice that couldn't be found in any piano in our parts. I had no sense of humor. Afterward I developed a sense of humor and lost my voice."-London Saturday Review.
