

TREACHEROUS PULAJANES

Thirty of Them Killed and Sixteen Constabulary in Fleece Battle. Manila, March 28. - According to dispatches received here, the recent fight at Magtoon, Samar, between the constabulary and Pulajanes was the result of base treachery on the part of the natives. As a result of the fight 50 Pulajanes were killed and 16 of the constabulary were killed and wounded.

A dispatch received from Captain Jones, of the constabulary at Magtoon, says that on March 23 Governor Curry, Judge Lobinger and Superintendent of Schools Hoover arrived there and camped over night near the Pulajanes. The presence of the officials was made known to the rebellious natives, and their leader announced that he would surrender his force the next day. As a result of this promise, the Americans returned to the town of Magtoon, accompanied by Colonel Aguilar, a Pulajane chief.

The next day, Saturday, four chiefs of the Pulajanes, with over 100 men and 14 guns, appeared at Magtoon and lined up in front of the constabulary barracks. Between the barracks and the Pulajanes stood the group of American officials.

TWO KILLED BY GAS

Mother Took Seven-Year-Old Daughter With Her Into Death.

Philadelphia, March 24. - Clashed in each other's arms, Mrs. Harry B. Moore, aged 40 years, and her 7-year-old daughter, Thelma, were found dead in bed at their home at 536 North Allison street, West Philadelphia, death having been due to asphyxiation by illuminating gas. There was every indication found that the woman had carefully prepared to end her life and had taken the little girl with her into death. The bedroom had been carefully arranged, both were clad in fresh linen, and across the bed was stretched a piece of hose which had been attached to a gas pipe.

The police have been unable to find a motive for the deed. The woman's husband, who is said to be an assistant engineer on a tramp steamer, is at sea, and the neighbors know little of the family. A sum of money was found in the house, and the family appeared to be in comfortable circumstances.

SHOT ON HER WEDDING DAY

At Thought of Parting Father Fatally Wounds Daughter and Kills Himself. Everett, Mass., March 27. - Less than three hours before the time set for her wedding Pansy E. Townsend was shot and mortally wounded by her father, Joseph P. Townsend, in their home in this city. Townsend then ended his life with a bullet.

Miss Townsend was to have been married to Francis E. Perry, of Fort Myers, Fla. The only clue to the cause of the tragedy was a note written by Townsend. It read: "I have taken my daughter's life and my own. I do this rather than see her the wife of Francis Perry."

So far as is known Townsend had nothing against Perry and the supposition is that Townsend's mind was unbalanced by reason of his love for his daughter and his brooding over the prospect of separation from her. Miss Townsend was 25 years of age.

Bernhardt Played in Tent.

Dallas, Tex., March 27. - For the first time in her long career, Mme. Sarah Bernhardt played in a circus tent. The play was "Camille." The audience numbered 5000 persons, from all parts of the southwest. The tent had seats for only 4200 persons. The floor of the tent was not inclined, and the view of those who sat in the rear was somewhat obstructed. Despite these handicaps, the performance was carried out smoothly and was received with intense enthusiasm. Mme. Bernhardt was cheered when she made her first appearance and responded to many curtain calls. She expressed her delight at the reception given her.

By direction of the court the publication of the paper will be continued until further orders. The receivers were appointed on the petition of Wesley M. Oler, the largest stockholder.

The Dewey Passes Gibraltar.

Talks Of Tuberculosis Cows.

Dr. Leonard Pearson, of the University of Pennsylvania, delivered the sixth public lecture on milk at McCoy Hall Baltimore, before a large audience, in which were many women.

Dr. Henry Barton Jacobs presided and introduced the speaker, whose subject was "Tuberculosis of Cattle—What It Means to Public Health and How It May Be Controlled." After telling of the wide distribution of the bacteria in a stable in which are tuberculosis cows, he said: "Most of the danger can be avoided by sufficiently frequent and careful physical examinations of milk cows. Unfortunately, however, even this precaution is rarely taken by States or municipalities, and, indeed in most places very little, if anything, is done to protect persons from bovine tuberculosis. Among the exceptions is Massachusetts, which has the most complete system of herd inspection of any State, and the sources of the milk supply of Washington are rather carefully controlled. In Pennsylvania it is required under a law that cattle with tuberculosis shall be reported to the State Live Stock Sanitary Board, whereupon they are destroyed."

"We reckon now as tuberculosis every animal that reacts to the tuberculin test. This means practically every animal that is infected in any degree. Formerly only such animals were classed as tuberculous that showed physical signs of tuberculosis, and so only the more advanced and rather extreme cases were counted, the others having escaped detection. The tuberculin test has shown such an appalling amount of infection among the dairy cows of some regions that the extermination of such animals cannot be seriously considered. It would be highly unjust to the owners for the State to slaughter them without compensation, and for the State to pay for them would require an enormous and impossible appropriation. More than this, it is unnecessary. But the cost of exterminating animals afflicted with open or clinical tuberculosis—that is, tuberculosis that may be detected by physical examination falls within such limits as to make the plan feasible. In Massachusetts, for example the amount of indemnity for such cows amounts to about $23,000 a year.

"During the last four years considerable work has been done by the Live Stock Sanitary Board of Pennsylvania for the purpose of developing a practicable system for the immunization of cattle from tuberculosis. The principal of the system that has been employed is quite the same as the first employed and described by Pasteur for the vaccination of animals against certain infectious diseases by the use of attenuated but living virus of the disease to be prevented.

Marble Quarry Closed.

The Washington Marble Company, which for the past five years has been engaged in operating the marble quarries at Eagles Mills, Washington county, has directed that all work cease. The reason given is that the marble is buried so far under the ground, and the cost of unearthing so expensive, that the quarry can no longer be operated at a profit. As a result many men are thrown out of employment. A large sum of money has been expended by the company in developing the quarries. The equipment will be shipped to other plants controlled by the company.

A PROBLEM FOR THE HENS.

Since the American hen has been raised to the level of a national institution it has had to learn by harsh experience that rank implies obligation. The trouble began when the first brood of chicks was turned out by an incubator. On top of this came the chick's demand for dwelling places that are models of architectural excellence and convenience. In natural sequence patent breakfast foods and dinners a la carte followed, but with the inevitable results. So long as they lived a life of seclusion and quiet devotion to duty not much was expected of them but now that they have come to be recognized as being among the solid members of the community, with a definite financial rating, the hens have been compelled to recognize the underlying principle of give and take in modern life. For so much more invested in the way of culture and up-to-date luxury, so much more was expected in return.

The climax has come in a bill just passed by the Iowa legislature requiring hen's eggs to weigh a pound and a half to the dozen. The man who introduced the bill is a banker as well as a farmer, and, consequently, can be trusted to know what he is about. Being a banker he naturally has a taste for figures; being a farmer he can be depended upon to know something of the habits of the hen. Evidently, according to his calculations, the hen has not always lived up to her responsibilities, and the object of the bill is to bring the feathered creature up to a more serious realization of them. The bill merely requires that the eggs weigh the stipulated amount, but wisely leaves it to the hens themselves to devise the educational system by which they are to be made to arrive at a full understanding of what is expected of them.

Chicks that have just grown by the ordinary method could hardly be expected to know how to count, so the burden will fall upon the incubator chicks, who, being to a large extent self-made, will naturally be more alert mentally than the members of their kind who have not enjoyed the same advantages. By not requiring them to follow any man-made arithmetical system, the father of the bill was kind to the hens. They can do their counting any old way they please. All that is asked is eggs that will weigh two ounces apiece to make up the necessary twenty-four ounces to the dozen. But once addicted to counting by twos the chicks may learn to put two and two together, and then having learned to do sums, they might want to go into the banking business on their own account. Mere man has enough competitors now, and the possibility of the chick being added to the list is sufficiently appalling to deter any other legislature from following the precedent set in Iowa. - Adams American.

OIL IN ADAMS COUNTY

The Gettysburg Compiler says: The people of this vicinity are very much interested and somewhat excited over the fact that positive indications of oil have been discovered on the South Mountain, in Hamilton township, Adams county. Experts who have carefully examined the property state positively that for an area of a mile or more positive external evidences of oil can be observed, and the indications are really more favorable than they were at Oil City before the big strike there. A company has been formed and a limited amount of stock has been placed on sale with Mr. S. M. Bushman, cashier of the First National Bank of Gettysburg. Great fortunes have been made in oil, and in many instances the prospects were not as bright to start with as they are right here in our own locality.

This is a good opportunity to make an investment in a local proposition, and if oil is struck it will mean fortunes for those who are fortunate enough to be able to cooperate in this venture.

It has been learned from a reliable source that operations will be commenced as soon as possible, and the outcome will be looked forward to with great interest by the people of this locality. It is to be hoped that the townspeople and others in this vicinity will subscribe a good amount of this stock, for it would really be a shame to have this enterprise entirely owned by outsiders, and have the enormous wealth derived from same go elsewhere.

If this is a good thing, and it is, if indications and expert knowledge are of any value, the people of Adams county should certainly have an interest in the matter.

Shot By Police Chief.

At Friendsville, Garrett county, Chief of Police Chas. H. Liston attempted Monday night to place Lupton Frantz under arrest for some minor offense. Frantz took refuge behind the bar in Collier's hotel, and when Liston demanded that he come from behind the bar Frantz, it is alleged, made a move as if he intended to draw a weapon, when Liston shot him with a 38-caliber revolver, the ball taking effect in the right breast, making a dangerous wound.

Immediately after the shooting Chief Liston gave himself up to the authorities and was placed under bond for his appearance before the Circuit Court. Frantz has served several terms in jail and a Pennsylvania penitentiary.

The wounded man was taken to the hospital at Connellsville but is not expected to recover.—Sun.

FINE RESIDENCE BURNED.

The handsome frame home of C. James Orrick, on Water street, Cumberland, city, situated on a knoll, which was a part of the site of old Fort Cumberland, was destroyed by fire early Sunday morning, the family of Mr. James M. Sloan, Jr., son-in-law of Mr. Orrick, who occupied the house, escaping in their night clothes.

The loss on the house will reach over $6,000, partly covered by insurance. Mr. Orrick, president of the J. C. Orrick & Sons Co., purchased the residence and grounds from the late Mayor Hopewell Hebb, for whose use it was erected.

The fire originated from an electric wire between the ceiling and floor above the laundry, and the entire house was in flames before it was discovered. The fire was most spectacular. Mr. Orrick lost a fine library.

Into A Landslide.

Traffic on the new extension of the Western Maryland Railroad, between Big Pool and Cumberland, was blocked Saturday as the result of a big landslide Saturday morning not far from Dam No. 6. An eastbound freight ran into the obstruction, derailing the engine and several cars. Engineer G. W. F. Harr, of Hagerstown, who was in charge of the locomotive, was prevented from seeing the obstruction by reason of a curve. Members of the crew escaped serious injury, although they were badly jolted.

At the point where the slide occurred there is a large hillside, and some of the earth and rock shot over the track into the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal. Work trains from Hagerstown were dispatched to the scene of the trouble to clear the track.

Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup stimulates the liver and thoroughly cleanses the system and clears the pimples and blotches. It is the best laxative for woman and children as it is mild and pleasant, and does not gripe or sicken. ## Returns To Claim Fortune.

After an absence of six years, in which he lost all traces of her whereabouts, Miss Annie J. Slicer, daughter of the late Jacob Slicer, a prosperous farmer of Colona, Cecil county, has returned to her former home. Mr. Slicer died in 1904, leaving an estate valued at $25,000.

Miss Slicer was left an equal share with her brother, William T. Slicer, and without result. It was supposed that she was dead, and the Orphans' Court of the county would, in a short time, have declared her legally dead, as was done in the Wildman case recently. Miss Slicer, who left her home before the death of her father, is said to have been in New York city. Now that she has returned she will share equally with her brother in her father's estate.

One Would Think The Laxative Idea in a cough syrup should have been advanced long before it was. It seems the only rational remedy for Coughs and Colds would be to move the bowels and clean the mucous membranes of the throat and lungs at the same time. Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar does this. It is the Original Laxative Cough Syrup, the best known remedy for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Cough, etc. Tastes good and harmless. Sold by T. E. Zimmerman, Druggist.

DO NOT BE IMPOSED UPON.

Foley & Co., Chicago, originated Honey and Tar as a throat and lung remedy, and on account of the great merit and popularity of Foley's Honey and Tar many imitations are offered for the genuine. These worthless imitations have similar sounding names. Beware of them. The genuine Foley's Honey and Tar is in a yellow package. Ask for it and refuse any substitute. It is best for coughs and colds. W. Tyson Lansinger.

FAMILY ESCAPES FLAMES.

The family of Mr. Lewis Wilson was awakened at 2.30 o'clock Friday morning last to find the interior of the lower floor of their home enveloped in flames, at Havre de Grace. The fire is supposed to have originated from a wood stove which was set in an open fireplace.

The family was asleep at the time and had a narrow escape. In a few minutes the stairways were closed by the flames. Mr. Wilson lost all of his household effects and his gunning and fishing outfits, which consisted of guns, decoys, nets, etc., valued at from $500 to $800. He had no insurance.

The building, which is almost a total wreck, belongs to Mr. Murray Vandiver and the estimated loss is about $1,000, covered by insurance.

Much praise is given the Volunteer Fire Department for the manner in which it subdued the flames and kept them from spreading to the nearby buildings. The fire had gained such headway before the alarm was sounded that it was impossible to save any of the contents of the building.

His Own Death The Climax Of His Madness.

Walter Potee, 28 years old, who had been demented three months following an attack of typhoid fever, suddenly developed acute mania shortly before 2 P. M. Friday last week at the home of his mother, Mrs. Sarah Potee, in Brooklyn, Anne Arundel county, and shot eight persons.

Five of the victims were relatives, gathered to attend the funeral of a baby, and three were seriously injured. These three were taken to the Maryland University Hospital.

As a climax the maniac set fire to the house. His aged mother and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Sallie Potee, who had taken refuge in a summer house, barely escaped with their lives.

Potee's body, with a bullet wound in the left side of the breast, was taken from the burning building by Chief Shipley and several other city firemen.

It was known that the demented man had three pistols and a shotgun. The pistols were taken from his body, and several persons were wounded with the gun as they tried to get near enough to shoot him after he had barricaded himself in the house.

Many attempts were made to shoot the man, for it was not known then what had been the fate of the mother and sister-in-law.

How his wound was inflicted is a matter of conjecture. All three pistols found were loaded to their capacity, but many persons are of the opinion that the maniac might have had the fourth weapon and fired it.

The fire threatened other houses in the vicinity. This and the shooting wildly excited the residents of the town, who stood about trying to aid all the families in distress.

While the hydrating out of Potee's body was a heroic thing, the rescue of the body of the baby was equally so, for Harry Roberts, of Brooklyn, ran into the parlor and returned with the little white coffin in his arms while the house was in flames.

Another brother is on the verge of collapse at the home of Mr. Chas. E. Giencioni, in Brooklyn.

One would think the Laxative idea in a cough syrup should have been advanced long before it was. ## BOTH GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER.

End of Second Trial of Young Drug Clerk and A Negro Physician of Cumberland, Who Were Indicted For Causing The Death of Miss Jean Maxwell.

F. Wm. Hermann, young drug clerk, and Dr. John H. Tompkins, negro physician, of Cumberland, Md., under indictment for manslaughter in connection with the death of Miss Jean Maxwell at Cumberland June 2 last, were convicted in the Circuit Court at Hagerstown, Saturday last, a verdict of guilty on the first count, which charged Tompkins with committing the crime and Hermann with aiding and abetting, was returned at 3 o'clock, after the jury had been out two hours. The punishment for both offenses is the same, the maximum penalty being 10 years in the Penitentiary.

When the verdict was announced the wife of Tompkins became hysterical and later fainted, remaining in a semi-conscious state for sometime. She had to be removed from the courthouse in a cab, immediately afterwards Hermann and Tompkins were taken back to jail by Sheriff Diebert.

The Hermann-Tompkins case has been one of the most remarkable ever tried in Washington county. Miss Jean Maxwell, for some months before her death, was charged with being responsible, was the daughter of Joseph S. Maxwell, a wealthy manufacturer of paving brick. Miss Maxwell died from blood poisoning following a criminal operation, alleged to have been performed by Dr. Tompkins. The instance of Hermann. At the time of her death Hermann was engaged to be married to Miss Maxwell.

Following their indictment by the Allegany county grand jury, the travelers asked for a removal of the case. The trial was to have taken place in Hagerstown last November, but at the time Dr. T. W. Koon, the state's star witness, was ill with blood poisoning and the trial was postponed until the following term.

On March 6 the first trial began in Hagerstown and resulted in a hung jury. During the second trial, which was begun on Tuesday last week, it developed that one of the jurors at the first trial had been offered a bribe of $1,000 if he would bring about the acquittal of the accused, and, according to the testimony, he said he would do what he could to that end.

New testimony, some of which was of a sensational character, was introduced by the state at the second trial, and it was regarded as a foregone conclusion when the case went to the jury Saturday afternoon that a verdict of guilty would be returned.

Joseph S. Maxwell, the juror who is alleged to have been bribed by Hermann through a third party, before the first trial, and who mysteriously disappeared Wednesday evening of last week is still missing.

There were rumors that a motion would be made for a new trial and that the case might be taken to the Court of Appeals, but this is not regarded as probable.—American.

IN A TANGLE.

Opera House Improvements Cause Trouble.—Mayor Smith Said to Oppose Recent Act of Board of Aldermen.—Contract Awarded in "Secret Session."—Rumors of Injunctions.

Frederick, March 28.—Quite a stir has been caused by the action of the Board of Aldermen on Friday evening last. The Board had met in special session to confer over the proposed reassessment of town property. It was also expected that the Board would take some action upon the Opera House improvements. The "expected" event happened, but in an "unexpected" manner. Many representative citizens had gathered in the Board room to hear what the Board would do, but the Board met in an upper room of the City Hall Building, and it was stated were conferring about matters before them. The charter provides that all meetings should be public, but contrary to that provision the Board proceeded to take action upon bids submitted. Thereupon rejected all bids and proceeded in private meeting to award the contract to Charles A. Poole, contractor, for $12,000, making some changes in the drawings. Mr. Poole had been a bidder, his bid being $14,000. The vote was close, Messrs. Douglas, Lease and Hersberger favoring, and Messrs. Schell and Kindly opposing the making of the improvements. The gentlemen waiting below for the Board to meet in public session were disappointed when it was disclosed that the Board had acted in private. It is claimed by many that the act was illegal under the city charter and rumors of an injunction on the part of citizens were made upon the news. It is not denied that the Opera House needs improvements and needs them badly, but many are opposed to the sweeping changes contemplated and also that a contract for same was let without opening bids for a second time from other contractors. It is said that the Opera House can be leased for $1,500 per year, but as yet no lease can be made. Mr. Rhodes, the present manager, agrees to surrender his lease May 1st, next, the Board releasing him of all rental after April 1st. There is a probability that the Mayor may veto the act of the Board thereby setting the controversy. He is in favor of improvements, but at a moderate cost. It is suggested by the Board reconsider its action of Friday last and re-advertise for bids for all improvements, so the people will know just what the improvements will cost. He states that he will be guided in his actions by public opinion. If the improvements were made all the city will have to borrow the money and many are opposed to adding to the city's indebtedness.

DANGERS OF PNEUMONIA.

A cold at this time if neglected is liable to cause pneumonia which is so often fatal, and even when the patient has recovered the lungs are weakened, making them peculiarly susceptible to the development of consumption. Foley's Honey and Tar will stop the cough, heal and strengthen the lungs and prevent pneumonia. La Grippe coughs yield quickly to the wonderful curative qualities of Foley's Honey and Tar. There is nothing else "just as good." W. Tyson Lansinger.

For A Short Canal.

There is a movement on foot to connect the waters of Miles River and Broad Creek, which is a tributary of the Tred Avon River, by means of a canal at or near Royal Oak. A meeting was held at Royal Oak last Friday night at which there was a large attendance of the leading citizens of St. Michaels district, and many were enthusiastic over the plan.

The following committee was appointed to look into the matter: Dr. Samuel C. Trippe, Frank Harper, Philip M. Pastorfield, T. J. Hall, George M. Kilmon, E. T. LeCompte and Ormond Hammond.

The distance between the rivers at the point mentioned is very short, and it would cost but very little and would be the means of shortening the route from Choptank River to Baltimore, and would also be a big thing in the way of shortening the distances by water between towns lying on the Choptank and Tred Avon Rivers with those lying on Miles, Wy and Chester Rivers and the Chesapeake Bay, and would greatly facilitate traffic on these rivers to and from Baltimore.

LETTER TO CHARLES H. EMMITT, Maryland.

Dear Sir: The Fair Ground buildings, Cobleskill, N. Y., were painted Devco last year.

Two other-paint agents said the job would take 150 gallons (their price was 15 cents less a gallon).

Our agent said not over 125.

It took 115. We saved 'em at least $140 on paint and labor.

The American House, Tanersville, N. Y., was painted two coats last year; not Devco.

Mr. Charles Harner, across the street, put on one coat Devco.

Mr. Witte (American House) is sorry he didn't paint Devco. Haners one coat was better than Witte's two. Depends on the paint.

Yours truly

LA PLATA CHURCH BURNED.

Christ Protestant Episcopal Church was destroyed by fire at La Plata Sunday afternoon. It is supposed the conflagration was caused by some defect in the furnace.

Fire was made in the church in the morning to warm the building for the afternoon service, which was to have taken place at 3 o'clock. When the sexton went to open the church a short while before that hour the building was on fire. The fire department of the town was called into service, but the flames had made too much headway to be controlled, and in less than an hour the beautiful edifice was a mass of ruins. The building was worth about $15

THE ODD LITTLE GECKO.

A Queer Animal That Lives in Africa and Southern Europe. The gecko is an odd little creature...

This little gecko has so many strange ways and there is something so uncanny in his appearance that the people of the countries where he lives are rather afraid of him...

He is a little creature, with a broad flat head, like a snake, and a long body, with a narrow tail, with odd-shaped bits of skin arranged like scales along the sides of it.

He is a nocturnal animal, walking abroad at night and sleeping in the daytime. He moves with sudden rusies and without any noise whatever.

His odd name was given him from the queer noise he makes, which is something like the noise you would make to start a horse with.

LIFE IN ANCIENT GREECE.

No Remains Whatever of Grecian Domestic Architecture.

Of the domestic architecture of the Greeks nothing whatever remains, writes Jenn Schaeffer in the Architectural Record Magazine.

In ancient Greece private houses never had any architectural interest. A citizen of Athens or Sparta was too busy with state affairs to spend much time at home.

He wanted to be in the public place where he could find his friends and fellow citizens. Moreover, the climate allowed him to live in the open air during the greater part of the year.

It was on the agora that the citizens assembled in public meeting. It was there, from a rostrum, that the orators harangued the crowd; hence the need of a good voice and a clear enunciation; hence, too, the famous pebbles of Demosthenes.

It was in the open air that Socrates and the sophists held their discussions alongside the Illyssus, under the plane trees on a public place. It was in the academy gardens that Plato patronized and in open air gymnasia that the youths practiced their athletic games.

There was no reason d'etre for a domestic architecture with such a people and in such a climate. It is not necessary to have palatial administrative buildings for governing a people that live in the public places.

Besides, what significance would the term comfort, which is so full of meaning to us twentieth century westerners, living in cold, damp climates where fog, wind and rain prevail during half the year—what sense, we ask, would this word have for the robust Greeks of the fifth century B. C., whose children Aristophanes pictures to us on their way to school bareheaded, in spite of the falling snow, and shivering as they go?

PINEAPPLES.

The Way They Grow and How the Plants Reproduce.

Pineapples do not grow on trees. Imagine a plant four feet in extreme height from the trunk to the tip of leaves. A single stalk at the surface, but dividing at once into swordlike blades or leaves, fifteen in number, from the center of which appears a stiff, upright stem, at the top of which is the fruit.

This stem is short, and the crown of the fruit when fully grown is a foot or more below the points of the leaves. At the end of a year and a half from planting each plant produces a single fruit, even as a cabbage plant produces a single head. But the pineapple does not die after fruiting once. Down on the stem below the fruit and among the long narrow leaves a sucker appears. If allowed to remain this will soon become the head of the plant, and within another year it will yield another fruit.

This process may go on for a term of years. In the meantime, however, other suckers will make their appearance. These are broken off, and when stuck into the ground they put out roots and become other plants. Thus a single pineapple plant may produce a dozen or more others while it is yielding fruit from year to year.

Not For Stagners. "What is the world does that mean?" asked the traveler through a sparsely settled region on the cape. "There's no such place on my road map."

The man whom he addressed first took a leisurely survey of the traveler and his horse and then turned his eyes toward the weather beaten sign which bore the single word "Tolpin."

"That ain't a name," he said, with dignity; "it's just an indication. It means, 'To Long Pond one mile.'"

Strange Cure For Linnax.

Our forefathers were so fond of the whip that they seem to have regarded it as a cure for linnax and even for smallpox. The accounts of a Huntingdonshire parish, under date 1691, have the entry, "Pd. by charges for whipping a distracted woman, watching her and whipping her next day, 8s. 6d." and a few years later eightpence is paid for "whipping two people yt had the small-pox."
