MINE SHUT DOWN IS NOW COMPLETE

The Anthracite Workers Obey Scale Committee's Order to a Man.

SOFT COAL OPERATORS SIGN

Philadelphia, April 5.—There was a complete suspension of mining operations in the anthracite region in accordance with the order issued last week by President Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers of America, and the scale committee of that organization, with the solitary exception of the Peoples' Oxford colliery, an independent colliery near Scranton, which employs about 500 hands. This mine was kept in operation during the strike of 1902. Every colliery was open as usual and in readiness for the workers, but there was no response to the blowing of the whistles other than the appearance of the engineers, firemen, pumpmen and others whose presence at the mines is necessary to preserve them from injury and who were exempted in President Mitchell's order.

The action of the miners occasioned no surprise on the part of the operators who, while they offered work and protection to those who might desire to go into the mines, did not anticipate the acceptance of their offer. That the fact that most of the mine workers when they left the workings on Saturday took their working materials with them was indicative of their intention to remain away from the mines until ordered to return by President Mitchell. The best of feeling between operators and miners is reported from all sections, and the hope that a satisfactory agreement may be reached at the conference in New York is expressed by both sides.

Significance is attached by the miners to the fact that there is no apparent attempt on the part of the operators to import non-union labor, and they regard this as a favorable sign. The miners' leaders are careful to assert that no strike has been declared, the suspension being merely a business necessity, as the miners have no arrangement with the operators until the scale is adjusted by the committee.

During the day in several of the districts groups of men picketed the approaches to the collieries, but their presence was unnecessary, in the vicinity of Scranton most of the washeries produce only steam sizes from coal already run through the breaker and screened, and it is not likely that there will be any opposition from the miners to the operation of these washeries, as their production is insignificant.

In the anthracite region there are about 400 collieries, employing 160,000 men and boys. Most of these, about 150,000, are affected by the order to suspend work, the remainder being the engineers and others exempted by President Mitchell.

The only disturbance that marked the closing of the mines occurred at Moosic, a small town near Scranton, where John Shepherd, a civil engineer at the Consolidated colliery of the Pennsylvania Coal company, was shot in the hip by Anthony Copslok, a mine worker. Copslok had an argument with a mine guard, during which he shot at the latter. The bullet went wild and struck Shepherd, who was standing nearby.

During the day squads of state constabulary, a police body organized under an act of the last legislature, patrolled various sections of the coal regions, but found no disorder.

FIRST BLOODSHED

Civil Engineer Shot By Striking Miner at Moosic.
Scranton, Pa., April 5.—The first bloodshed of the anthracite strike of 1906 occurred at Moosic, where John Shepherd, civil engineer at Consolidated colliery of the Pennsylvania Coal company, an Erie working, was shot in the hip by Anthony Copslok, a striking miner.

There is a stockade about the breaker, and guards are patrolling inside. Copslok had some words with one of the guards, and Silas Randall, son of the outside foreman of the latter, came towards the striker in a threatening manner. Copslok drew a revolver and fired at Randall. The bullet struck Shepherd, who was standing by. The wound is not serious. The man who did the shooting escaped.

As was expected there was practically no mining of coal at any colliery in the Lackawanna region, except at the one non-union mine of the whole anthracite region, the Oxford colliery of the Peoples' Coal company.

The Erie worked seven washeries; the Lackawanna five, and the other companies one or two apiece. The washeries worked full-handed, or nearly so.

WILKES-BARRE REGION QUIET

Men Think Agreement Will Be Reached, But Operators Are Gloomy.
Wilkes-Barre, Pa., April 5.—In accordance with the order issued by President Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers, and the district presidents, not a colliery in the Wyoming Valley is in operation. The suspension is general, and no effort has been made to operate any of the large collieries. The Pettebone washery of the Lackawanna company near Scranton was operated with a reduced force, with no interference. Outside of this, the strike order was generally obeyed.

The conditions in this city, Plymouth, Nanticoke and Pittston were extremely quiet, no outbreaks being reported from any of these places.

The number of men affected by the suspension in this city will reach 26,000.

CONFERENCE IN SESSION

Neither Miners Nor Operators Will Predict the Outcome.

New York, April 5.—The second meeting of the committees representing the anthracite mine workers and their employers convened in this city. Neither miners nor operators would venture a prediction as to the outcome, as neither party is aware of what the next move of the other will be. Both sides are hopeful, however, and there is a feeling among those vitally interested in the struggle that some way out of the present difficulty will be found. This feeling is based on the fact that each side has only played its first card, and that the real negotiations have not as yet begun.

None of the miners' leaders would be quoted as to the situation, as shown by the first day's suspension, as they all admitted privately that the utmost harmony prevails in the region, and that rumors that thousands of men would not obey the suspension order have proved groundless.

The conciliatory spirit shown in the first meeting of the two committees is not expected to obtain in the conference. The operators are indignant over the action of the miners' union in forcing a suspension of operations, and from information gathered it is not unlikely that the miners will be told that their action was "extraordinary," as President Baer has already told Mr. Mitchell by telegram.

The district leaders of the mine workers, in defending their course, say the action of the Shamokin scale committee was justified, that no agreement or contract between the operators and the men existed after midnight Saturday.

OPERATORS SIGN SCALE

Strike of Soft Coal Miners Will Not Be Extensive.

Indianapolis, April 5.—Information received so far at the national headquarters of the United Mine Workers of America indicate that the strike of soft coal miners will not be extensive for any length of time, many operators already having expressed a willingness to grant the increased wages asked by the miners' union.

The prospective situation in the various fields, so far as could be learned, follows:

Indiana—Nearly all operators in the south end of the state and many in the center will sign the advance wage scale, according to the miners, but the operators' chairman says only a few will grant the advance.

Ohio—Six coal companies have declared their willingness to pay the 1903 scale.

Illinois—Many mines are in operation. Operators all over the state have expressed a willingness to sign the 1903 scale.

Western Pennsylvania—Almost all bituminous mines in Pennsylvania will grant the 1903 scale and resume operations soon.

West Virginia—No strike on. Iowa—Operators and miners meet today (Tuesday) when, it is expected, an agreement will be reached to reopen mines at once.

Michigan—Good prospect of settlement. Kentucky—No strike. Southwestern District—All the coal mines of Kansas, Missouri, Texas, Arkansas, Indian Territory and Oklahoma are idle, the 25,000 miners having struck. It is expected that numerous operators will sign the scale soon, although none has done so yet.

Pittsburg Signing Up
Pittsburg, April 5.—There will be no strike of the bituminous miners in the Pittsburgh district, and according to Francis L. Robbins, of the Pittsburgh Coal company, there will be a general resumption of work. Mr. Robbins officially announced that he had signed the scale of 1903, and among the other signers were the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke company, the Ellsworth Coal company, the Crescent Coal company, the Mifflin Coal company, the Peoples' Coal company, the Marine Coal company, the Steen Coal company, the Vestal Coal company, the Dilworth Coal company, and the Mansfield Coal and Coke company. These companies represent 30,000,000 tons, or over three-quarters of the coal mined in the Pittsburgh district.

The mines of the independent operators are shut down in the Pittsburgh district in conjunction with those in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. The independent operators met in this city and adjourned after passing a resolution to support the operators of the forenamed states in refusing to sign the scale.

Want "Jim Crow" Cars in Washington
Washington, March 31.—A bill was introduced by Representative Hefflin, of Alabama, to compel street railway companies in this city to provide and operate separate street cars for negro passengers, and to make it unlawful for street car companies to allow white and negro passengers to ride in the same car under a fine of $100 for each offense.

PLANNING TO OVERTHROW CASTRO

Revolution in Venezuela to be Directed From New York and Paris.

WEALTHY MEN IN THE SCHEME

New York, April 2.—The World says: "One of the largest merchants in New York said that arrangements are being perfected here and in Paris and London for a revolution in Venezuela which will annihilate Castro and open up that country to American capital and enterprise."

A number of rich New York merchants are said to be interested in the movement, which, the promoters declare, will involve the employment of 15,000 soldiers and the expenditure of $5,000,000 in the campaign. President Castro, if the plans do not go astray, is to be either expelled or destroyed, and a native Venezuelan is to be installed as his successor.

"In this connection it is said that Castro, anticipating a successful revolution against him sooner or later, has converted some of his alleged $40,000,000 fortune into cash and has sent it to America and France.

"Carlos B. Ferguereo, Venezuelan consul in New York, said at his home that he had heard such an expedition was being organized or promoted, but had been unable to learn anything definite about it. He said he had understood shares in the scheme were being sold.

"I would like to get hold of one of these shares," he said. "I will buy all that are offered."

"The consul inquired eagerly as to the point the expedition was to sail from.

"The expedition is to set out shortly from Europe in three large steamships, which are already under contract. They are to carry about 5000 volunteers, with the following quantities of ammunition: Eight thousand Mauser rifles of the latest pattern, 24,000 rounds of cartridges, 500,000 shells, 1000 officers' swords, 1000 army belts, 1000 officers' revolvers, 1000 officers' revolvers, 3000 machetes and swords, together with other supplies."

DEFEW STILL PROSTRATED

Hopes For Restoration to Health Have Been Disappointing.

New York, April 2.—The Herald says: "Promises that Senator Dufwess would return to his place in the senate by this time have not been fulfilled, for the reason that hopes of his family for a complete restoration of his health have been disappointed. He is still in retirement on the Elliott F. Shepard estate, back of Scarborough on Hudson, where he has been in seclusion for a month since he suddenly left Washington.

"So closely is the senator guarded that only a few persons living in the immediate neighborhood are able to say from their own knowledge that he is in the 'Villa,' as the house is known, in which extreme measures have been taken to check the rapid decline into which he has seemed for several months he has been falling. If any employes on the Shepard place is questioned as to the senator he answers either with a well-simulated stare of amazement or flatly denies that he has even heard a report as to the senator's whereabouts."

FATAL AUTO ACCIDENT

Crashed into Telegraph Pole, Killing Man and Injuring His Wife.

Philadelphia, April 3.—While riding in an automobile through Haverford, a suburb, E. O. Gowing, a member of the firm of Adams Brothers & Co., wholesale meat dealers of this city, was killed and his wife was seriously injured when the car crashed into a telegraph pole. Mr. Gowing failed to observe a rope that had been stretched across the road near a building operation. The rope tore the glass shield of the automobile from its fastenings, starting Mr. Gowing, who, in manipulating the steering gear, caused the machine to swerve. It crashed into a telegraph pole and was upset, crushing its occupants. Mr. Gowing died in a few minutes. His wife is unconscious at a hospital with concussion of the brain and internal injuries. Mr. Gowing was formerly Philadelphia manager for Swift & Co.

She is quoted as emphatically denying having used a private letter from President Roosevelt for the purpose of helping Archbishop Ireland. Mrs. Storer will not discuss the matter.

DOWIE DETHRONED; PROPERTY SEIZED

Serious Charges Made Against Head of Zion City.

WIFE AND SON DESERT HIM

Chicago, April 3.—John Alexander Dowie, head of the "Christian Catholic Church in Zion," has been deposed as a religious leader, suspended from membership in the church he founded, and shorn of his temporal possessions as far as they are located in Zion City, the home of his childhood, and warned to accept the situation quietly lest worse things befall him.

The active revolt against the leadership of Dowie was foreshadowed Sunday, when Overseer Voliva, who had been placed by Dowie in charge of the church, while he sought health in Jamaica and Mexico, announced that he would no longer accept orders from Dowie, who had, he declared, grossly mismanaged the affairs of the church. The members of the church, including the wife and son of Dowie, agreed to stand with him.

The first move looking to his overthrow was made Monday by Overseer Voliva, who holds a power of attorney from Dowie. In company with several other officers of the church, Voliva hastened to Waukegan, the county seat of Lake county, in which Zion City is situated, and filed for record a warranty deed transferring to Alexander Granger all the real estate held by Dowie in Zion City. He also executed a bill of sale to Deacon Granger putting him in possession of all of the personal property of Dowie, including his horses and carriages, books and even his bed. Later in the day Granger conveyed the same to Voliva, and at midnight the severance of Dowie from the church had been effected. Dowie had not only succeeded him as the head of the church, but was the holder of all of his property as well.

The following message was then sent to Dowie, informing him of the change in the situation:

"Dowie, Octlat, Jalisco, Mexico—Telegram received here and Chicago. Practically all, including Cincinnati representatives, endorse Voliva's administration. Speicher's reinstatement and Granger's retention, emphatically protesting against your extravagance, hypocrisy, misrepresentations, exaggerations, tyranny and injustice. You are hereby suspended from office and membership for polygamous teaching and other grave charges. See letter. Quietly retire. Further interference will precipitate exposure, rebellion, legal proceedings. Your statement of stupendously magnificent financial outlook is extremely foolish in view of thousands suffering through your mismanagement. Zion and creditors will be protected at all costs."

Regarding the polygamous teachings mentioned in the message to Dowie, Overseer Voliva declared that he would issue a statement regarding them later, when Dowie had been given an opportunity to reply. He said, however, that the teachings had not been public, but were of a private character.

If the deposed leader becomes obstreperous, it is said that his son, Gladstone Dowie, is prepared to make startling revelations.

IMMIGRATION RECORDS BROKEN

165,540 Aliens Arrived at New York in Last Three Months.

Albany, N. Y., April 2.—During the last three months of 1905 there were 165,540 alien arrivals at the port of New York, according to the quarterly bulletin of the state department of labor. This is an increase of 9000 over the record-breaking figure of a year ago, the influx from Italy alone being larger by 20,000 than in the last quarter of 1904.

"New York becomes the home of 63,413 of the newcomers," says the bulletin, "and the fact that 35,728 or one-fourth of the 140,000 immigrants of 14 years of age can neither read nor write is not altogether reassuring."

SUPERFICIAL SENTIMENT.

Secret of Power Lies in Intensity of Emotion.

Superficial sentiment is without vital influence. The secret of power lies in the intensity of emotion, but especially so in poetry, art and literature. By no means pious can artists and writers adequately depict what they do not feel. There should be a thermometer of temperament as well as for temperature. Feeling and emotion have their degrees. We are serene when our feelings are in the temperate zone, indignant when we pass eighty-three, furious when we reach blood heat, mad at boiling point. When feeling falls below 60 we become indifferent, and when it reaches freezing point we are heartless. An emotion that does not attain the seventy-sixth degree is hardly worth recording. At summer heat the rarest flowers begin to bloom and nature becomes poetic. While the temperate is the proper sphere for pure reason and scientific observation, it is rarely, if ever, proper for the highest achievement in any art. In the world of art imagination and feeling are not of content with a severity that touches the borders of indifference. The creative instinct is never effusive unless at a certain pitch of enthusiasm. It is the sharp, clear, brilliant current of thought that electrifies the brain. But an idea is worthless unless we can find a form to hold it. In the best work, idea, form and feeling appear to the beholder as one. An electric bolt seems a cold thing, yet a stroke of lightning will consume more at one flash than an ordinary fire would consume in an hour.—Francis Grierson in Critic.

GETTING THE NEWS.

Method Adopted at the Outbreak of the Revolutionary War.

In contrast to the workings of the newspaper of the day and of the rapid transmission of tidings without the aid of even a wire to guide the message is a document printed in the Berkshire Courier at the beginning of the Revolutionary war. But evidently people were as eager then as now to hear the news.

"For the Purpose of getting Speedy and Certain Intelligence from the Army at Boston. We the Subscribers hereby promise and agree to Ride from this town to Tyringham or Sheffield by Turus so as to bring Intelligence from thence each Day (the Sabbath excepted) and to Report the same at the House of Mr. Josiah Smith—And in Case of regular method is come into being for the News to Said Tyringham we promise to bear our proportionable part of the Expense in procuring Intelligence from Springfield twice in each Week—Witness our hands this 3rd Day of May 1775."

Following this agreement is a list of days, with the names of the citizens who were to be riders. Jacob Van Deusen, who agreed to be the first man to ride to Tyringham or Sheffield, was to go for it on Monday, May 8, and Mark Hopkins was to follow on Wednesday, the service from that time on alternating, except as to the Sabbath, which compelled a no news interval of two days in the week.

SPEED OF INSECTS.

A Common House Fly Travels a Mile in Thirty-three Seconds.

It is the popular belief that the flight of the birds is much swifter than that of the insects, but a number of naturalists who have been making a study of the matter think that such is not the case.

A common house fly, for example, is not very rapid in its flight, but its wings make 800 beats a second and send it through the air twenty-five feet, under ordinary circumstances, in that space of time. When the insect is alarmed, however, it has been found that it can increase its rate of speed to over 180 feet per second. If it could continue such rapid flight for a mile in a straight line, it would cover that distance in exactly thirty-three seconds.

It is not an uncommon thing when traveling by rail in the summer time to see a bee or wasp keeping up with the train and trying to get in at one of the windows. A swallow is considered one of the swiftest of flying birds, and it was formerly thought that no insect could escape it.

A naturalist, however, told of an exciting chase he saw between a swallow and a dragon fly, which is among the swiftest of insects. The insect flew with incredible speed and wheeled and dodged with such ease that the swallow, despite its utmost efforts, completely failed to overtake it.

The Water Pitcher.

The following simple method of keeping ice water in a common pitcher is worth knowing: Ept a layer of cotton batting between two sheets of wrapping paper three inches higher than the pitcher. Fasten the ends of the paper and batting together, forming a circle. Paste a cover over one end of the batting and paper. This cover, when over a pitcher, must come close to the stand and so exclude the air, and ice will keep a long time. This paper cover will be found of great service in a sickroom for both milk and water pitchers.

SAVED BY COURAGE.

An Exciting Adventure With a Mountaineer.

Mr. Becke, the author of "Notes From My South Sea Log," tells of his tutor, who seemed to him the best of heroes in the world because he had been through the first Maori war and because of an adventure when a thief befall him, and which is given as follows:

Poor Guy—such was the tutor's name—was a lieutenant, and he and two companies were captured by the Maoris. They were taken inside the stockade, and the chief, taking up one of the captured seamen's cutlasses, put its edge and then fixed his keen eye on the young officer's face. Two men of yours," he said slowly. "They shall go safely back to your lines if—" He paused, and a grim smile distorted his tattered face.

"If what?" asked Guy calmly. "If you will stretch out your right hand so that I may cut it off at the wrist swiftly, no further harm shall come to you, and you, too, shall go free."

"Will you keep your word?" "Aye, I, Te Atua Wera, am no liar." Guy nodded, quietly took up his coat and held out his left hand.

"Strike," he said.

The chief again smiled. "Thou art as cunning as thou art brave. I saw the right hand."

Guy let fall his left and extended his right arm. Te Atua Wera stepped back a pace, raised his cutlass—and struck the point of it into the ground. Then he bent forward and gravely rubbed noses with Guy.

"Go," he said, "but come back no more." So Guy and the two soldiers were allowed to return to Despard's lines unharmed.

SHORT LIVED DOCTORS.

Diseases Which Are Most Deadly to the

LOOTED MILLIONAIRE'S HOME

Chief Who Got Away With $100,000 in Valuables Arrested in New York.
 New York, April 5.—After a pursuit of four weeks by the police of three cities, central office detectives arrested Thomas J. Wainwright, describing himself as a lawyer of Boston, who is charged with robbing the residence of Dr. Nicholas J. Pinaut, of Minneapolis, of jewelry, silverware, pictures and securities to the value of $100,000. The police say that Wainwright is one of the most accomplished criminals in the country.

Dr. Pinaut is one of the wealthiest citizens of Minneapolis. He usually spends his winters in Europe or in the south. Just before starting for Pass Christian, Miss., last winter the doctor engaged as caretaker of his Minneapolis home a young man who said he was Thomas J. Wainwright, and that he was a lawyer, temporarily out of practice.

Toward the end of last February Dr. Pinaut was astonished to receive from his Minneapolis bankers a letter asking why it was that he wanted to sell certain valuable stocks and bonds that had just been offered through a Minneapolis firm of brokers. The doctor started at once for Minneapolis to investigate. He learned that his caretaker had disappeared and with him practically everything of value in the Pinaut mansion, as well as the contents of the doctor's safe in the deposit vault. The list of valuables stolen consists of diamonds, rubies, an immense quantity of silverware, many priceless antiques, among them a watch once owned by Cardinal Richelieu, costly lace and furs and several valuable paintings.

The investigation disclosed the fact, according to the police, that after stripping the Pinaut mansion of such of its contents as he wanted, Wainwright forged Pinaut's name to an order on the deposit company, and thus gained access to the doctor's safe, from which he abstracted such securities as he considered negotiable.

KILLED IN DOORWAY BY HOME

Mrs. Ennis Met Death By Shot Intended For Her Son.
 Salisbury, Md., April 5.—At her home, about four miles from this city, Mrs. W. A. Ennis was shot and instantly killed by Goldsborough Bailey, and by the same charge a bystander, Alfred Jones, was slightly wounded. The shot that ended Mrs. Ennis' life was intended for her son John.

Bailey is said to have been drinking heavily and abusing his wife, who secured shelter with the Ennis family, the nearest neighbors. Bailey sought her there and was driven away by John Ennis, who threatened to thrash him if he returned. Bailey did return, and calling Ennis out of the house, pointed the gun at him at short range. To protect himself, Ennis struck the muzzle of the gun aside as the hammer fell and the charge of shot struck Mrs. Ennis, who was standing just behind him in the doorway in the face, almost blowing her head off. During the confusion following the shot, Bailey walked a few hundred yards away, lay down and went to sleep. When he was found there shortly afterward by officers his savage dog was beside him and refused to allow anyone to approach. Before Bailey's arrest could be effected it was necessary to kill the animal.

DEMAND INVESTIGATION

New Jersey State Senators Deny Charge of Graft.
 Trenton, N. J., April 5.—In the senate Senators Shinn and Martens rose to a question of personal privilege and asked for an investigation of the charges that had been made against them by Philip Krimke, a Newark pawnbroker. Krimke in an affidavit made last week and published in a Newark newspaper charged that these senators had asked $200 each to suppress a bill. Both senators denied the charges, and on motion of Mr. Hilbery, President Bradley was empowered to appoint an investigating committee. Mr. Bradley appointed the senate judiciary committee, which consists of Senators Hilbery, Wakelee and McInturn.

GAME OF CRAP ENDS IN MURDER

Negro Shot Dead In Quarrel Over Five Cents.
 Lancaster, Pa., April 2.—In a quarrel over a five cent stake in a game of crap, Steve Green, aged 22 years, was shot dead by John Waters, Jr., about the same age. With a number of other negroes they were playing in a stable in the northern part of the city. When the dispute arose both men pulled revolvers. They were apparently pacified, and Green started to walk away, when Waters deliberately shot him in the side. He died in a few minutes. Waters escaped in the excitement.

Want to Be Pennsylvania State Police

Burlington, Vt., April 2.—A score of non-commissioned officers at Fort Ritan Allen have already obtained their discharge from government service, and as many more are said to have applied for their discharge, in order that they may become members of the Pennsylvania state police force which is now being augmented on account of the great coal strike. In the new state police work the men will receive $50 a month, an amount over doubt that which they have received from the government.

Alger Is Better

Alger City, N. J., April 2.—United States Senator Russell A. Alger, of Michigan, who has been ill at the Hotel Brighton here, is somewhat improved. He is still from a weak heart. His condition for a brief period was said to have been serious.

The Australian Native.
 For hundreds of years, perhaps thousands, the Australian black has accepted the doctrine of a Trinity in heaven and the theory of evolution. In some respects he is far superior to his civilized contemporary, but he curls himself around like a dog and slinks to sleep on the bare ground at sunset. In the dark he is a veritable coward.

The Throne of Thunder.

Mungo Mame Lohel, the throne, or place of thunder, as the natives call it, the peak of Kamerun, as the whites call it, is the highest point on the western side of the African continent. The first view the voyager gets of it, who, coming from the northward, has been coasting for weeks along low shores and up the stagnant rivers, fringed with mangrove swamp, is a thing no man can ever forget. Suddenly, right up out of the sea, the great mountain rises to its 13,700 feet, while close at hand, to westward, towers the lovely island mass of Fernando Po to its 10,190 feet, and from as its first charm every time you see it it becomes greater, although it is never the same. Five times I have been in the beautiful bay at its foot and have never seen it twice alike. Sometimes it is wreathed with indigo black tornado clouds, sometimes crested with snow, sometimes standing out hard and clear, as though made of metal, and sometimes softly gorgeous, with green, gold, purple and pink vapors tinted by the sunset—London Mail.

A Trying Reform.

A Presbyterian clergyman of New York with two popular daughters has discovered a new way to end the visits of their beaux at a seemingly hour-a-plan which might appeal to lay families as well. For a number of years it has been a custom of this good man to hold evening worship after supper, always concluding the prayers with a short discourse. Things went very well until the daughters began to receive the attentions of young men and begged off or stole away to make their own plans. They then the minister changed the devotional hour until 10 in the evening. This reform created an upheaval, but the father insisted, and at the stroke of 10 the visiting young men are now left one alternative—either to leave or join with the family in prayer—and it has proved a severe test of their devotion for the daughters when those not prayerfully inclined stick it out, sermon and all—New York World.

The Good Fellow

The treasurer of a church temperance society told at a temperance meeting a dramatic story.
 "A woman entered the barroom," he said, "and advanced quietly to her husband, who sat drinking with three other men. She placed a covered dish on the table and said:
 "'Thinkin' y'e'd be too busy to come home to supper, Jack, I've fetched it to you here."
 "And she departed.
 "The man laughed awkwardly. He invited his friends to share the meal with him. Then he removed the cover from the dish.
 "The dish was empty. It contained a slip of paper that said:
 "'I hope you will enjoy your supper. It is the same as your wife and children have at home.'"

Coffee-Tea.

Coffee-tea is the common beverage of the natives of Java and Sumatra. When required for infusion the coffee leaves are gathered fresh from the trees and are dried in a pan over a slow fire until they are bright brown. They are then put into a teapot, boiling water is poured over them, and the infusion is drunk with milk and sugar. It seems the general opinion that coffee should come in contact with metal as little as possible. The Viennese people prefer a glass bottle to a canister for storing, and Brazilians use earthenware in preference to a metal pot for making.

Antelope Lives Always in Open Country.

The antelope lives always in open country, unlike members of the deer family, which invariably prefer a thick, dense forest. They cannot be driven into timber cover or thickets of brush, but will literally turn about and run over a pursuer, if necessary, rather than be forced into cover. If they are ever obliged to pass by or through such places for food and water, they take a great deal of time to do so, as if they were determined to see everything that could be seen en route.—N. Y. Cross in Century.

The Great Lakes.

Lake Superior is the deepest of the great lakes, showing by soundings 1,098 feet in at least one place. Michigan stands second, with 100 feet less. Huron and Ontario are about 750 in the deepest parts, while Lake Erie is but 204. Vast areas of Lake Erie will not show a depth exceeding 80 feet. The bottom of Lake Michigan is 400 feet above sea level.

An Odd Verdict.

A jury in Lindsey, Lincolnshire, England, after being out some time on a case of alleged false pretenses, returned to court and said, "We can't bring him in guilty and don't like to say he is not guilty." They were sent back and in fifteen minutes reached this verdict, "We find him guilty, but not with intent." The prisoner was discharged.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

MAGIC ON TAP.

It May Be Bought the Same as Dry Goods or Groceries.
 Magic has become a mail order business. Chicago is the center of the trade in the United States. There is manufactured in Chicago magic enough to supply the Merlins of the world, and every week large orders for sleight of hand tricks are filled and sent off to the Philippines, Australia, Germany, England and France.

The times of Cagliostro are dead. Black magic and the delusions which belief in it made possible are things of the past. Conjuring has been lifted from the plane of witchcraft to that of pure legerdemain. It has become a white art, yet the world is not less eager to be deceived than it was in the old days. Yoganidra, the goddess of illusion, still reigns. This fact constitutes fully one-half of the unusual business of the magic shop.

There is not a feat known to the profession which cannot be bought, and society which is not to be bought, and who are eager to become magicians. Apparently there is no other kind of diet in the eyes which is so popular socially as this double mystery of sight and touch. Success is equally a matter of simplicity of apparatus and the performer's skill. Anybody can become a conjurer who has manual dexterity, personal presence, tact and fluency of speech. To become a phenomenon in this calling, however, requires, of course, phenomenal capacity.

The magic shop is an interesting place, full of curious apparatus and familiar objects which are all bewitched, subject to the spell of the magician's hand. Conspicuous among the collection is the famous orange tree of Robert Houdin, that piece of mechanism by which the "father of modern conjuring" gave Paris a genuine thrill a generation ago. As it stands upon the shelf the contrivance is nothing but an artificial orange tree, yet once, before the startled eyes of Paris, it burst miraculously into bloom at the wave of Houdin's wand, its blossoms became fruit, ripe oranges, which were distributed among the audience, and from the orange at the top two butterflies flew out bearing a handkerchief belonging to one of the spectators.

American conjuring, declares the man to whom the shop belongs, is the most original and inventive in the world. Its range is much wider than that of the marvelous Chinese jugglers, and beside the delicacy of its method the famous Indian jugglers is clumsiness personified.
 Magic has certainly become at last "an art as lawful as catfing," now that the world is linked by it, and the magicians in the various countries form a great brotherhood. The skill of Mage Merlin, of vast wit and a hundred winters, has given way to a magic no less subtle because more easily accessible and more readily understood.—Chicago Tribune.

Disappearing Hotel Towels.

"We lose money enough in stolen towels every week to board half a dozen porters," said a hotel clerk. "We never know exactly where they go, but they certainly disappear, and that right fast. If some of the people who take our towels had exerted their energies in a more laudable vocation they would have been rich many moons ago. There is scarcely a towel in the hotel that does not lose a fowl at least three times a week. Of course, we place several kinds—face towels, bath towels and just plain towels—in each one, and some one finds them so attractive that they are dropped into a grip and hustled out with the remainder of the luggage. When you have that a good bath towel costs from 10 to 20 cents and other towels anywhere from 5 to 6 cents, you probably can estimate the dead loss to a hotel. It is very convenient to drop them into satchels, suit cases or trunks, and they give dirty handy to wrap shoes or other dirty articles of clothing in."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

The Last Versailles Bourbon.

There is at Versailles an orange tree some five centuries old. This tree, which was taken from Fontainebleau of Versailles on the completion of the orangery, was already famous under the title of the Grand Bourbon. According to tradition, the tree had been planted in 1421 by a Princess of Navarre and after several changes of owners came into the possession of Francis I., by whom it was placed at Fontainebleau. When it reached Versailles the king came to visit it, and two grand Bourbons were then face to face. The man passed, and even his bones, torn from their tomb at St. Denis and tossed into a trench, have perished. Not a pluck of his dust remains. But the tree lives and blooms and bears fruit, the only Bourbon at Versailles, serene, invincible, enthroned.—Farmer's Versailles.

CRIME FOR WHICH HE DIED.

Winder was hanged for the murder of Mr. Frederick T. Rinehart, an aged toll-gate keeper who lived on the Dulany's Valley turnpike, about two miles beyond Towson. The crime was committed on the night of December 21 by Isaac and William Winder. Both admitted that they were implicated, and each tried to shift the responsibility to the other.

Isaac admitted that he shot at Mr. Rinehart, but William said he had nothing to do with it. Both declared they were not in the house, but the appearance of the room following morning had a tendency to substantiate the theory that robbery was the motive of the crime.

Isaac selected a court trial and was sentenced to be hanged. William, however, had his case removed to Harford county, where he was sentenced to imprisonment in the penitentiary for 18 years.

Isaac was sentenced to be hanged on March 30, but on the night of March 5 he escaped from jail. For 15 days he lived in the woods in the vicinity of Cockeysville and Phoenix, but was finally captured on March 20 near Loch Raven.

Suicide In Easton.

Isaac James Blunt, 68 years old, a well-known resident of Easton, committed suicide Tuesday, shooting himself in the right temple with a .38-caliber revolver. Despondency resulting from business troubles is given as the cause of his act in a note left by the dead man.

Mr. Blunt, who was unmarried and an employee of a sewing machine company, boarded with Silas Lane, on East avenue, Easton. He had been driving a horse lent him by Mr. J. H. K. Shaanahan, who was a comrade of his in the Confederate army, and Monday, as the result of picking up a piece of glass, he was convinced that this is believed to have been a contributory cause of the suicide.

Mr. Blunt was found lying on several carriage blankets in Mr. Shaanahan's stable, behind the latter's house on Goldsborough street, by Joseph Kirby, an employee of Mr. Shaanahan, who was about to open the door of the stable as the fatal shot was fired. The wounded mangled several hours, but nothing could be done to save his life, the heavy bullet having penetrated the brain.

The dead man went over his route as usual Tuesday morning and was apparently in good spirits. When he returned he evidently set immediately about killing himself. Having put the horse and wagon away, he took the blankets from the wagon and spread them like a bed on the floor of the stable, over some straw, and, laying down, and, putting the pistol to his head, pulled the trigger just as Mr. Kirby opened the door.

Mr. Blunt was a son of the late James Ringgold Blunt, originally of Queen Anne's county, who moved to St. Michaels, Talbot county, when his son was quite young. He was connected with a number of prominent families of both Talbot and Queen Anne's counties.

I recommend it in advanced stages of lung trouble." Foley's Honey and Tar stops the cough and heals the lungs, and prevents serious results from a cold. Refuse substitutes. W. Tyson Lansing.

FIGHTS ON THE GALLOWS.

Murderer Winder Repeats His Doom Until Overpowered. The hanging of Isaac Winder in the yard of the Towson Jail at 11.30 a. m., on Friday of last week was remarkable for several reasons, the most important of which was that the negro, though his wrists, arms and legs were bound, fought desperately for eight minutes and a half for his life.

That fully 2,000 men crowded about the jail, tore boards from the fence and made the execution a public spectacle was another remarkable feature.

Winder did not rebel against his fate until the noose hovered over his head. Then he fought five men. Finally he was overpowered, the knot placed in position and Sheriff Elliott pulled the trap. It required only nine minutes for the physician to agree that life was extinct, but the body was not lowered into the coffin by Jail Physician J. Royston Green until 12.05 p. m. It was the opinion of all the physicians that the negro's neck was broken.

That the murderer died hard was shown when the black cap was removed. Two of the fingers of his right hand were held fast in the noose. Sheriff Elliott and his assistants thought they had gotten Winder's hands away from his throat but the negro evidently worked his two fingers beneath it just before the drop fell. It was probably his idea that he could break the fall by holding to the rope, but the recoil was too great. As the knot slipped and tightened "it drew the fingers in with it."

Though the spectators became greatly excited, hissed and jeered, no attempt was made to interfere with the hanging, few of the witnesses realized at first that the negro was fighting, because his hands and black gown made his motions appear awkward. They imagined he was weakening and about to collapse, until he bit and yelled at the men who were trying to get the rope about his neck. Then all was still for some time, but the crowd gave vent to its feelings. It was ever any sympathy for the murderer, it vanished as soon as Winder put his foot on the scaffold.

Winder was hanged for the murder of Mr. Frederick T. Rinehart, an aged toll-gate keeper who lived on the Dulany's Valley turnpike, about two miles beyond Towson. The crime was committed on the night of December 21 by Isaac and William Winder. Both admitted that they were implicated, and each tried to shift the responsibility to the other.

Isaac admitted that he shot at Mr. Rinehart, but William said he had nothing to do with it. Both declared they were not in the house, but the appearance of the room following morning had a tendency to substantiate the theory that robbery was the motive of the crime.

Isaac selected a court trial and was sentenced to be hanged. William, however, had his case removed to Harford county, where he was sentenced to imprisonment in the penitentiary for 18 years.

Isaac was sentenced to be hanged on March 30, but on the night of March 5 he escaped from jail. For 15 days he lived in the woods in the vicinity of Cockeysville and Phoenix, but was finally captured on March 20 near Loch Raven.

Dr. White's Mail Held Up.

Dr. Theodore H. White, head of the "College of Science," 1917 East Pratt Street, Baltimore which was raised last Friday afternoon by United States Marshal Langhammer and his deputies and all his occult effects seized, has not received any mail since the morning delivery on the day of his arrest, when he had a brief hearing before United States Commissioner Bond, and was released on $10,000 bail for a hearing April 10.

The move to hold up the "Doctor's" mail was made at once by the local postal officials. On their representations the Postmaster General issued an order authorizing the Baltimore Postoffice officials to retain all mail coming to the "Doctor" until after his trial.

Mail for the "Doctor" has been pouring in daily. There is now a large bag full of it in the office of one of the post-office officials. It is estimated that some 5,000 letters are in the batch.

Postal Inspector Sharon visited the college last Monday afternoon to see if any business was being transacted. So far as he could ascertain the college has suspended. When the raid stopped the correspondence department, in which the "Doctor" employed some 18 or 20 ladies, he paid them off in full.

STORY OF THE GLOVE

IT REACHES BACK INTO THE MOST REMOTE AGES.

Customs of Different Times in Which Gloves Figured—The Ancient Legal Abuse From Which Was Coined the Phrase "Glove Money."

Gloves are now worn indiscriminately by rich and poor and have no special significance excepting as a completing article of the toilet.

As early as in the reign of Robert III, glove manufacturers were incorporated by charter in Perth, a guild being then established that still exists in name, although the town is not devoted now to the manufacture of gloves as a leading article of commerce.

A glove-makers' company was established in London in 1464, but was not chartered until 1833. In 1861 a company for the manufacture and sale of gloves was incorporated in Worcester, England.

Paris is a glove market for the whole world. In the Swiss mountains kids are raised especially for this industry, and great pains are taken to have the animals killed while the skin is fine and soft.

In ancient days a glove represented a contract or pledge, a substitute for the hand, being cast down by one contracting party to be taken up by the other.

It also represented a challenge, to throw down the glove often being an invitation to mortal combat. At the same time to give an enemy a glove in a pacific manner was a pledge of faith.

The king's system of ventilation, so well known, will be installed. Two large silos are built at the south end at sufficient distance apart so that a fine granary will be situated between them and the whole covered by a roof extending from the barn proper.

The roof cellar is made of concrete walls two feet thick and directly under the approach to the loft, having a capacity of 2,000 bushels.

A fur lined glove worn by Henry VI. is preserved in an old mansion that gave him shelter after the battle of Hexham, 1464.

It is of tan leather lined with deerskin with the hair on and turned over to form a cuff.

It is recorded of unfortunate Anne Boleyn that she possessed many pairs of extravagant gloves and would always wear them to hide certain blemishes on her hands which offended the eye of the king.

Queen Elizabeth took much pride in her gloves and made an entry in her book of expenses of "one pair of gloves embroidered with gold," which she sent as a gift to her sister Mary.

It has been customary for gentlemen to remove the right hand glove when shaking hands with a lady. This custom descended from an ancient one which forbade any one to enter the presence of royalty in gloves, because visitors were to stand unarmed, with the helmet off the head, the gauntlets off the hands, to show that there were no hostile intentions.

Bitting the glove is looked upon with disfavour as an unpleasant habit, but it had once a deeper meaning—a pledge of deadly vengeance.

Stern Rutherford but little said, but bit his glove and shook his head.

Thus wrote Sir Walter Scott in his "Lay of the Last Minstrel."

Gloves were first worn by the clergy to symbolize that their hands were clean and not open to bribes.

Both the old and the modern poets have written tender verses to this capricious article of feminine attire.

"Send me a glove you have lately worn, and I will tell your characteristics," was the way in which an advertisement was worded a number of years ago.

"He's proud and happy. The doctor says it's good."

"What happens?"

"A boy with rather an admirable knack of getting out of a difficulty wrote the following answer:

"A great many people come out to look at it."—London Answers.

NEW BARN BUILDING.

A Strictly Modern Structure, Employing Steel and Concrete.

Concerning a recent visit to the home of Director of Institutes F. E. Dawley, Fayetteville, N. Y., made to inspect a barn now in process of construction, in which iron and concrete play an important part, H. E. Cook writes to National Stockman as follows: I would not be misunderstood. This barn will not be within the reach of many farmers.

The building, as shown in the cut, has a main span of 8 feet in the clear, 100 feet long and 40 feet wide. Cows will stand facing, manger bulk of concrete and also used for watering.

The manure is to be carried out in a carrier and to another building some distance away, there to be hauled to the alfalfa fields at the pleasure of the owner.

HOG TROUGH. A Cleanly Trough For Feeding Swill and Mixed Feeds.

Here is a plan for the Indianapolis News for building the ordinary V trough in such a manner that it may be thoroughly cleaned; Build the trough in the usual manner, except at one end the piece is made movable.

Just to the edges of the sides and nail fast, as usual. Then cut a V piece which will fit snugly between the sides, but instead of nailing in this end piece arrange slots on either side of the trough on the inside, so that the piece may be slipped in between the uprights forming the slots. To make this plan more useful fasten a handle to enable one to lift the piece out readily.

With this one end removed it is an easy matter to thoroughly scour the trough, because all of the cleansing water may be swept out. The illustration shows each detail of this trough plainly so that any handy man can build it.

Birds to Kill Insects. Alabama quail and Virginia pheasants are being introduced all over Illinois by the state game warden, whose intention is, if possible, to place at least a pair of birds on each farm in every one of the 102 counties of the state.

It is expected that farmers will protect them as much as possible from hunters and feed them during the cold season. A veritable rush of farmers to co-operate in this plan of the game warden is reported. Each is anxious to receive birds and pledges himself to care for them. The end in view is the destruction of insects by the birds, and the expenses of the enterprise are paid out of the fund from hunters' licenses.

Costly Asparagus From France. A New York firm recently received a consignment of white asparagus from France along with some artichokes and hot-house grapes.

It was about fourteen inches long, not as large round as bunches from Charleston, and sold for $42 a dozen, or $3.50 a bunch, probably the best price ever obtained for asparagus in this country.

In early spring the first shipment from Charleston at times brings $18 to $22.—Cogntry Gentleman.
