The mayor advised the board of supervisors that he would appoint a Struck Submerged Rock and Several committee consisting of engineers, architects, builders and lawyers to prepare plans for laying out streets The passenger steamer Courier, with a and boulevards and reconstructing crew of nine men and carrying about San Francisco.

Plan to Finance the City. At a meeting of James D. Phelan, chairman of the finance committee, and some prominent lawyers and bankers, a plan was broached for financing the city, which it is hoped will meet with the endorsement of the general committee. As it is estimated that the city has suffered a loss of $200,000,090 by fire, it is said that there is not sufficient money in San Francisco to reconstruct the city, and that the people must look elsewhere for funds to rehabilitate their destroyed fortunes.

Mr. Phelan said that if the money were borrowed through ordinary channels the rate of interest would add a burden that could not be borne under the conditions. The plan of Mr. Phe-Jan is to frame legislation to present to eongress, asking the United States to endorse the proposed bonds of San Francisco. With this guarantee of the government, the city would be able to go into the financial markets of the world and borrow the aeeded money at a low rate of interest on bonds to run for 50 years and secured by a mortgage on the best portion of the city.

Mr. Phelan asserted that such legisple of the islands.

of the state. With no immediate prospect that conditions will be so normalized that the community will be able to feed and take care of itself for several weeks, the citizens' committee began to evolve some way to provide against approaching failure of supplies. Mayor Schmitz informed the general committee that 700 car loads of food and supplies had been distributed since April 18, and transportation lines had information of only 108 cars

It is not even known how much money we can depend upon with which to purchase supplies, for you have heard from Mr. Phelan on several occasions that part at least of this money subscribed by individuals or companies in the east is disbursed through private agents here. While it is true that contributions of money will be very much more to the purpose than contributions of supplies, it should be known to the world if the one is not available the other will be most gratefully received."

Chairman Phelan, of the committee on finance, said he has as yet received no reply to his telegram to Secretary of War Taft, asking what the relief committee might expect out of the of threats to lynch Gabriel Battaile, a The troopers did not pursue the crowd, fund of $2,500,000 appropriated by con- negro, who criminally assaulted Miss but continued on their way to the gress. > The affair is the result of an attack upon non-union men made at various times last week. The attacks became so numerous that Sheriff Sharpless, of Northumberland county, appealed to the state constabulary for help. In accordance with orders from Captain John C. Groome, the superintendent of the state police, troop C, which was marching from Reading to Hazleton, was divided, and half of the men under Lieutenant Smith were sent to Mt

In most of the small mining towns the help about hotels and other places are related to mine wonkers or in sympathy with them, and during strike times they do all they can to help the workers.

The presence of the troopers on the main street of the town caused a crowd of mine workers to gather about them and the bolder ones in the crowd began to stir up trouble. The crowd closed in upon the state police and began throw. ing stones. The troopers charged the mob and scattered it, but not before several men were hurt, including a trooper. Lieutenant Smith drew his men into line and threatened to shoot if the mob renewed the attack. In the meantime, local leaders of the mine workers circulated through the crowd and ordered the infuriated foreigners to disperse and keep the peace. The chief burgess, who is a member of the miners' union, addressed the crowd from a window, and advised them to go home. This action had considerable effect, and the detail of troopers started for the Savre colliery of the Lehigh Valley Coal company on the outskirts of Mt. Carmel, where non-union men had been attacked by foreigners Saturday night.

Fired Three Volleys. Some of the mob persisted in following the troopers, and as they were passing the residence of Dr. J. D. Keefer, on Hickory street, some one threw a stone at them, which was followed by a shower of others. Lieutenant Smith wheeled his men about and gave the order to fire. The number of shots fired is not known, but it is said the troopers sent three volleys into the The Latest Closing Prices in the mob before it broke and ran. INCREASE WAGES

New York, April 28.—The anthracite mine operators, through their subcommittee of seven, at a meeting here drew up a reply to the latest proposition of the mine workers for an adjustment of the existing differences in the anthracite fields, in which they refuse to modify their position heretofore announced. The operators call upon the miners to renew for a period of three years the award of the anthracite strike commission or else to accept the operators' proposition that the strike commission arbitrate the question as to what changes, if any, shall be made in the scale of wages fixed by the commission in its original award. The miners have heretofore declined

These propositions seem to be based upon the impression that wages in the anthracite industry are unduly low. It was claimed that the earnings of the anthracite workers were less than those of the workers in the bituminous fields. Moreover, it was established by figures contained in the report of the secretary of internal affairs of the state of Pennsylvania for the year 1904 Aged Mrs. Mary McKittrick Ends Her that the average yearly earnings of all classes of anthracite mine workers are much greater than those of the McKittrick, who recently celebrated bituminous employes in that state. DACHSHUNDS.

As Fighters of Badgers They Have No Canine Equals.

The good natured, philosophic Ger man dachshund has always been regarded as more or less of a joke in this country. Even in the fatherland he is a staple for jesting. His elongated body, his crooked legs, his animated tail, his resemblance to a sausagewho could fail to make some sort of joke about a dachshund?

But the dachshund has a very serious side and a work in life.

"Dachshund" means "badger dog." Now, the badger is an animal that, generally speaking, needs neither game laws nor sympathy, because he is ableto take care of himself and fight bis own battles. Naturalists place him as a link between the bear family and the weasels. He has about all the strenuous characteristics of both, with some of his own in addition. Badger baiting was formerly a barbarous rustic sport that drew trade to country inns and taverns. A badger was placed in a barrel, and the man whose dog could bring him out got a prize. A single dog seldom did it. A full pack might-sometimes. The badger is a tremendous burrower, and the jolly dachshund of the jokes has been trained for centuries in Germany to go into his burrows like a ferret after rate and drive the badger out or fight him. In some German and Austrian cities there were formerly badger baiting tourneys in which crack dachshunds entered a pit with an ablebodied badger and fought for points. It is said that such contests are still held in Vienna. For spirit, endurance and agility the dachshund has no peer in this work, and a bulldog pitted against a badger would probably find himself cutting a poor figure.

So, make the jokes about the dachshund if you will, but give him credit for his prowess and for that gentleness, characteristic also of the best bulldogs, that makes both an affectionate companion to man and a loyal playmate to children. Give the dachshund credit, too, for intelligence. Hehas it in large degree. Few dogs are keener.-New York Press.

COIN CURIOSITIES. A Great Variety of Materials. Has

Been Used For Money. Among the early Roman copper coins was one that weighed nine and onehalf ounces and must have proved inconvenient small change for the Roman matron when she went shopping. China of all countries, ancient and modern, exhibits the greatest variety in the matter of coins. The earliest money on record, about 2000 B. C., consisted of shells and cowries. The cowry was used for small change, shells, the latter ranging in size from a few inches to a foot and a half in length, represented money of a higher value. A decrease in the supply of shells and increasing prosperity called for a more handy medium of exchange, and cash, the coin with a square hole in the center, came into existence and remains in use to this day. Among the earlier Chinese coins was one of porcelain about three-quarters of an inch in diameter and a quarter of an inch thick, bearing the legend "Eternal Prosperity." A very curlous knife money was at one time used in the state of Tsl. It was of copper shaped like a bill hook, about seven inches long and fitted at the end with a ring. During periods of metal scarcity in China iron, lead, tin, baked earth, grain, silk and shells have been used as a circulating medium. In Japan an Iron colnage, begun about 1636, has existed up to the present day. A curious coin made of a mixture of silver and copper was long in use in Japan. It varied in size from a small pea to a large bean. Lead coins were also used there for five centuries. Glass was employed as a substance for coin for many centuries in Egypt, while wooden money is mentioned in many of the Buddhistic wri ings.

Russian Superstitions. In Russia much rain is considered a good omen. It is believed that the downfall washes away the evil spirits, who would otherwise be hovering in the air ready to work woe to the monarch about to place his crown on his head, the bride on the point of plighting her vows, the babe on its way to the font or whosoever might be the hero or heroine of the moment. Further, the superstitious moujik believes that each stream of water has its Rusalka, or good spirit, a lovely maiden with yellow hair floating down her back, who spreads plenty around, but should the water fail, so that her hair dries, she will die, and famine or other disaster ensue.

Fassiness About Health Does More

Herm Than Good. When one thinks of the newfangled ideas about health and sees people on every hand hunting for disease germs in water, milk, meat, fruit and the atmosphere, analyzing everything, dreading swillowing and in constant fear with every mouthful they eat, one almost wonders whether or not life is worth living. If we are liable to be made the victims of tens of thousands of enemies which are in and around everything, in all liquids and all solids allke, we are in just about the same condition to enjoy life as was one of the olden kings who lived in mortal terror that everybody was trying to poison him. All his foods and drinks, everything, had to be tasted and tested by some trusted member of his household before he dared to touch it him-

If there is a pitiful object in the world it is a person who has become finical about his health, who lives in terror of germs and must examine and analyze everything he eats or drinks, looking for inrection.

It is an insult to one's Creator to go through life whining, complaining and fearing, in morbid terror that a thousand enemies are combined to rob one of comfort, of happiness and of health, Man was made to hold up his head, to walk erect, with boldness, fearlessness and confidence.-Success.

Lincoln and the Old Virginian. Washington was a strong man famous wrestler. He was never thrown, which meant much, for wrestling was a favorite amusement with Virginians, many of whom were as nearly invincible as the ancient Greeks. Lincoln, too, could boast classic excellence in the same sport. "It is a curious thing." Lincoln said, when Washington's prowess was first brought to his attention-"it is a curious thing, but that is just precisely my record when I was a youth. I could outlift any man in Illinois, and I never was thrown. If George was round now, I should be pleased to have a tussle with him, and I rather believe that one of the plain people of Illinois would be able to keep up his end against the old

The idea of having a patience trial for those about to marry is one that civilized people might adopt.

In the Country Schoolhouses. Missouri is exploiting a fresh idea in agricultural training. According to correspondence of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, E. E. Laughlin, president of the Missouri Corn Growers' association, says the sending of agricultural trains to county seats to hold farmers' institutes has been a failure, the farmers not attending. The plan of sending speakers to the school districts has been more successful. G. B. Ellis, secretary of the state board of agriculture, has sent G. W. Williams, the bee expert, out with an assistant into some of the southern counties, and as Mr. Williams sends in such a flattering report about the attendance and enthusiasm shown at the meetings Mr. Ellis has commissioned E. E. Laughlin, who will be assisted by H. J. Hyslap of Columbia, Mo., thoroughly to canvass Bates and Vernon counties during the next few weeks, after which other counties will be worked. The plan is to hold meetings in the schoolhouses in the evenings. Mr. Hyslap will give a talk and practical illustration on corn growing, and Mr. Laughlin will lec-

Every geographic section of the United States where soil or climatic conditions are distinctive needs one or more careful corn breeders.

Until the merits of a strain of corn and the honesty of the one who sells it are known farmers should purchase sparingly and insist on receiving the seed as car corn.

The most important character corn can possess is the ability to produce large yields. This character can be greatly increased by persistent selection of good seed corn from the progeny of ears that have proved most productive.

Vitality is preserved by thoroughly and quite rapidly drying the seed cars and storing them where they will not be exposed to damp atmosphere or sudden changes of temperature.-C. P. Hartley.

GARDEN CRAFT.

Peas, Early to Late - Melons Grown Between the Rows.

Just as soon as the frost is out, the last of March if possible, I plant early peas in rows six feet apart, putting up four foot chicken wire when they are up about an inch. I plant almost wholly for retail trade, selling my fruit, yegetables, poultry, eggs and cream to the summer people, so that I have to plan most carefully for a continuous supply of everything desirable. By this method with the early peas I miss getting them as early as others do, but get a large crop. For first early they should not be brushed, as the wind blowing them to and fro checks their growth, and they fruit quicker, while sticking them gives the largest possible development and keeps them in season from the middle of June into July, and they will all reach the top of Unusual Melon Culture. I plant white Japan melons between the rows May 1 in boxes with glass over them. Some years the melons force me to take up the peas before peas growing, in which case I think they would go to the top of a five foot wire. My late peas have not been planted so early as perhaps they might have been on account of the earlies being in the way. The only real late pea that succeeds with me is the Marblehead Early Marrowfat, which will grow above the top of five foot wire .-T. T. Jenks, Rhode Island, in Rural New Yorkor.

table knife. Potatoes to be cut for planting are shoveled into the compartments of the box, and in front of each compartment a man takes his position, being sented on a box or stool for comfort's sake, He seizes the tubers in rapid success sion and by pulling them against the blade quickly cuts one into as many pieces as desired. The pieces are then dropped into the open sack. It is claimed that by this indirect method of using the knife two fairly good cutters can cut each day all the potatoes ordinarily required for the use of one planter.

A Silent Subsoiler. Alfalfa is a silent, effective and persistent subsoiler. In our own experience alfalfa seeded Sept. 15 on heavy red clay lands had developed roots between two and three feet in length by Dec. 1, and two years after planting roots carefully washed out of the soil measured four to five feet in length. Under favorable conditions the roots of alfalfa will often penetrate to a depth of twelve feet or more, instances being on record of roots found more than thirty feet long. The size of the root varies with the age of the plant, the diameter at the crown varying from onehalf to two and one-half inches. Under these conditions it is little wonder that land should be greatly benefited by the growth of alfalfa. It is manifestly superior to the subsoil plow or any other implement which human effort has devised for unlocking and bringing within the range of shallow rooted plants the virtually inexhaustible supplies of plant food which are hidden deep in the bosom of the earth. -Messrs. Soule and Ferguson, Virginia.
