OPERATORS AND MINERS AGREE

Sign Agreement Extending Present Scale Three Years.

OLD PLACES FOR THE MEN

New York, May 8.—After carrying on megotiations for nearly three months the sub-committees representing the anthracite mine workers and operators of Eastern Pennsylvania agreed to continue the award of the strike commission for another three years and the men will return to work as soon as practicable, probably Monday.

All miners who have not committed violence against persons or property will be re-employed and no one will be discriminated against because of any activity he may have taken in the strike movement. The agreement is subject to the ratification of the tridistrict convention of mine workers at Scranton, but there is not the slightest doubt that the delegates will approve the action of their representatives.

This outcome of a dispute, which threatened to develop into a long and bitter struggle and paralyze a great industry, was looked upon with considerable satisfaction by the coal road presidents, as the agreement entered into is their first proposition made early in March in reply to the mine workers original demands.

The miners had little to say regarding the agreement except that it was the best they could get. They pointed out, however, that the agreement entered into is the first general agreement that has even been signed between the operators and miners, and they look upon it as a step forward in their efforts to have regular agreements with their em-

The Agreement. The following is the text of the agree-

"Whereas pursuant to the letter of submission signed by the undersigned in 1902, 'all questions at issue between the respective companies and their own employes whether they belong to a unfon or not,' were submitted to the anthracite coal strike commission to decide as to the same and as to the 'conditions of employment between the repective companies and their own employes' and the said strike commission under date of March 8, 1903, duly made i and filed its award upon the subject matter of the submission and provided that said award should continue in force for three years from April 1, 1903, | and the said period has expired.

'Now, therefore, it is stipulated between the undersigned in their own be- | All Except Steam Sizes Down Forty half in so far as they have power to represent any other parties interest, that the said award and the provisions shall continue in force for three years if that had been originally prescribed as its duration. That work shall be resumed as soon as practicable and pany will make a similar decrease in that all men who have not committed | price. violence to person or property shall be re-employed in their old positions."

The agreement is signed by George F. Baer, E. B. Thomas, W. H. Truesdale, Dav'd Willcox, John D. Kerr, Morris Williams, Joseph L. Cake, John Mitchell, P. D. Nicholls, John Dempsey, W. Dettrey, John P. Gallagher,

While the compact entered into was predicted last week the agreement was the Maxwell street police station dis- burg; Engineer J. S.Fickes, Fireman not reached without a final struggle on trict, where 112 are reported closed, A. T. Cook, J. H. Collins, conductor; the part of the miners to get something and in the new city police district, W. Osborne, Harrisburg; J. R. Carmore. President Mitchell in stating to the operators the action of the Scranton convention asked that the proposed agreement be made for two years. In arguing for the two year term he said the cost of living might increase considerably in three years and that other changes in the mining industry might come that would make the present wage | variety. scale upfair to the men. The operators in their reply said they felt that any contingency that might arise was covered by the award of the strike commission and they concluded by asking that the award be continued for three years. This was then agreed to.

. In taking up the question of discrimination against some of the men. it was the intention of the mine owners to take back only such men as they chose to re-employ, but President Mitchell contested this point so strongly that the operators withdrew it.

No date has been officially set for the resumption of work. It was thought that Thursday would be selected, but as some of the mines are not in good condition for an immediate resumption the beginning of operations may be delayed until Monday. This is the sixth week of the suspension, and represents a loss in production of about 5,000,000

Out of Region. Scranton, May 8. - The adjourned mession of the mine workers convention promises to be very formal and uninteresting. There is no question but that the agreement signed by the operators and members of the sub-scale committee will be approved by the delegates unanimously. There was a noticeable let-up in operations on the part of the companies which have been the most aggressive since the suspension began, in the importing of men deus Burch, who came here from Vir. this city. Arrangements are already being made by the Delaware & Hudson and the Erie companies for the shipping back of the imports. They will, it is understood, be paid in full and will be furnished transportation to the point from which they were shipped into the region. It is expected that they will be practically all out of the field before Monday next when the resumption of operations will probably be ordered, and that there will be no unpleasantness as a consequence when the old hands return to work. There are not any visible signs of dissatisfaction among the Englishspeaking members of the organization. They all seemed convinced that their leaders have shown them the best way out of a bad dilemma and there are few who are at all inclined to criticise the stand taken by John Mitchell, whose honesty of purpose and devotedness of interest to their cause has not suffered in their eyes.

Pushing open the door, she found the bodies of her father and brother lying on the floor. The throats of both had been cut and their bodies were covered with wounds. The condition of the room indicated that the men had made a desperate resistance before being overcome apparently by several assailants. On the floor lay three blood-stained razors. All the furniture in the room was overturned and the floor and walls were spattered with blood. The location is a lonely one, and it is believed that the Whitemans were attacked and killed by one of the numerous bands of tramps that infest the neighborhood.

WOULD REGULATE THE OIL TRUST

Joseph Pasquale, a Italian cook, of President Suggests Federal Control of Railroads to Prevent Rebates.

Washington, May 5. - President Roosevelt in a message to congress accompanying Commissioner Garfield's report on the Standard Oil company, blames the railroads for fostering such monopolies through secret rebates. He suggests these methods for curbing corporations;

First-That the government examine railroads as thoroughly as it examines national banks. Second-That railroad rates be fixed by the inter-state commerce commission subject to court review. Third-That the railroads be permitted to combine to protect themselves against great industrial corporations. Fourth-That alcohol be placed on

Fifth-That the remaining government oil lands be carefully protected. Flagrant discriminations by the railroads in favor of the Standard Oil company are revealed by Commissioner Garfield's report on his investigation. In almost every section of the country that corporation has enjoyed unfair advantages which have given it

That the Standard not only received secret rates from the railroads in the past but is still receiving them is one of Mr. Garfield's charges. In 1904 alone he figures that the amount saved to the corporation through discrimination was $750,000. Some direct rebates were paid he discovered. In most states, though the discrimination by the railroads was effected through secret and semi-secret rates, discriminations in the open arrangement of rates, discriminations in classification and rules of shipment Chief of Police Harry C. The statement is added that the department of justice will take up the question of instituting prosecutions in at least certain of the cases, and the hope is expressed that congress will enact into law a bill of Senator Knox to correct the interpretation of the immunity provision rendered in Judge Humphrey's decision.

Continuing, the president says: "The report shows that the Standard Oil company has benefited enormously Four men were drowned in the Mont- up almost to the present moment by secret rates, many of these secret rates being clearly unlawful. "But in addition to these secret rates with pistols at Randall, O., and Wal- the Standard Oil profits immensely by open rates, which are so arranged as to give it an overwhelming advantage over its independent competitors. The refusal of the railroads in certain cases to prorate produces analogous effects. Thus, in New England the refusal of certain railway systems to prorate has resulted in keeping the Standard Oil in absolute monopolistic control of the field, enabling it to charge $300,000 to $400,000 a year more to the consumers of oil in New England than they would have had to pay had the price paid been that obtained in the competitive

LONDON SLEEPS LATE

THE SLOWEST TO AWAKE OF ALL THE EUROPEAN CAPITALS.

Hard to Get a Breakfast In Restaurants In the English Metropolis Before Eight o'Clock-Paris and Berlin Are Early at Business.

It used to be a common accusation against the English people that they ate too much, drank too much and slept too much. Today we have vastly improved in the matter of drinking, and there are not wanting signs that we are, as a race, becoming more moderate in our indulgence in the pleasures of the table. Chancellors of the exchequer have to face a decreasing drink bill, and a popular dramatist has given a new expression to "an Englishman's god" in satirizing the worship of "Little Mary."

But we still cling to the old fashioned notion of 'eight hours' sleep as the minimum for the recuperation of our

Do healthy people really require eight hours' sleep? I answer unhesiin the United States government tatingly "No." Six hours should be sufficient for every ordinary person, and there are many so constituted that five would be quite sufficient.

London lies, perhaps, the latest abed of all European capitals. The workingman, it is true, is up and about in the early hours of the morning. He is compelled to rise early in certain trades and occupations for which daylight is essential. But he gets ' is eight hours' sleep by going to bed at 10.

That he wants to go to bed very early in order to have a liberal allowance of sleep is proved by the "two hours a night" system adopted by those who cater for his evening amusement. The managers of those entertainment houses will tell you that the 7 to 9 "show" is arranged specially for the working classes who want to be home and in bed soon after 10, because they have to be at work at 6 in the morning. So one may take it that eight hours is the measure of all classes, the workers and the idlers, the poor and the rich, the frugal and the luxurious. But it is with the class that does not do manual labor that I am principally concerned. I believe that we are at a great disadvantage commercially with our foreign rivals owing to the late hour at which we commence the business of the day. A friend of mine has recently returned from Germany, where he went to carry out a big financial undertaking. He had letters of introduction to two German bankers. He forwarded them, and in one instance he was requested to come and see the head of the banking firm at 7 in the morning, or concession from the regular freight and in the other to call and see the principal at 7 in the evening. We canman of any position making either of these appointments in London. The habit of lying late in bed leaves many parts of the metropolis almost deserted till 8 a. m. I have for years found that I can do with six hours sleep, and if I have an extra quantity of work to do I can limit myself to four hours without any evil consequences. And so it happens that, going to bed between 1 and 2, I am frequently up and out in the streets by 6 o'clock in the morning. Woe betide me if in certain parts of London I want an early breakfast. In my own-neighborhood I pass through whole streets of houses, where at 8 o'clock the servants are only just opening the front doors and shaking the

The other day I went to a great rallway terminus at 7:30, thinking that at least I could get breakfast there. The doors of the refreshment room were shut and locked. It was not until the clock struck 8 that a waiter, who was putting on his coat, opened the door of the dining room for passengers who wanted breakfast.

The Parisians are a late people. Most of their cafes are open till 1 a. m., and many in the more fashionable quarters until 2. But Parislans are up and about long before Londoners. You will find the business houses of Paris in full swing at 8 a. m., with not only the staff present, but the principals. Enter any of the Paris railway stations on a fine Sunday morning at 6 o'clock, and you will find them thronged with a gay crowd of working class folks in their Sunday best, setting out for a day's excursion into the country.

I am convinced that one of the first steps we have to take to meet the competition of our continental trade rivals is to begin the work of the day earlier, to waste fewer of the precious hours of daylight in sleep that ceases to be healthy if it is prolonged.

"When you wake, get up," is a German saying. The second sleep-the morning doze after the first waking-instead of being refreshing is the reverse. It brings about a sense of lassitude which frequently remains through the day. All men are not, perhaps, so constituted that four hours' sleep would be sufficient for them, but no man should take more than six if he wants to be "healthy, wealthy and wise."

The medical school of Salerno had a good deal to say about sleep. It prescribed six hours as the maximum for

PUMICE STONE.

The Best Quality Comes From the Island of Lipari. We often bear it remarked, and particularly after the eruption of a volcano, that pumice stone ought to be plentiful and cheap, as quantities must loved the east-Egypt, the Indies, forhave been ejected during the volcanic disturbance. As a matter of fact, however, none of the white stone in geueral use is obtained from active volcanoes. It comes from the deposits of the article discovered in one or two quarters of the globe, the best of which is at present to be found in the island of Lipari, situated in the Tyrrhenian sea. The island is mountainous in character and consists of tuffs and lavas and of highly siliceous volcanic products. The district where the stone is found is called Campo Blanco or Monte Petalo, 1,500 feet above the level of the sea.

After riding a considerable distance, partly along precipitous paths sufficiently dangerous to be interesting and partly through vineyards and over grassy plains, one almost comes suddenly upon a seemingly snow clad valley, inclosed by hills also quite white, and the whole glaringly bright on a sunny day. Into those hills workmen are unceasingly digging deep burrows, working within by candlelight. In their excavations they come across many lumps of pumice stone, which are placed in baskets, subsequently being conveyed along the valley to the seashore, Italy. Whatever is most Italian is in where small boats are loaded and sail to the seaport near by, where the stone the south and not of the north. The shoemaker uses no last, but turns the unfinished shoe with his feet, while his hands are busy in shaping it, So the carpenter holds with his great toe the board he is cutting, and the wood turner handles his tools as well with his toes as with his fingers,

This use of the feet to assist the hands in their labor is not, however, the mere result of practice, but is principally due to the fact that the Hindoo foot is quite different from ours in its anatomical conformation. The ankle of the Hindoo and the articulation of the back of the foot permit considerable lateral motion. Then the toes possess a surprising mobility. The great toe can be moved freely in all directions, and the first and second toes are separated by a wide space, sometimes as much as five-eighths of an inch across at the base of the toes and two inches at their extremities.

The articulation of the hip is also pecuitar, and this renders it easier to use the toes in handling the objects by enabling the Hindoo to sit in a squatting posture much more comfortably than we can do. A similar formation of the feet and toes is found among the Anamese, but it is not, as might be supposed, a common thing among barbarous and savage tribes.

One naturally thinks of the resemblance to a monkey which a human being using both feet and hands in the manner described above must present, and yet the Hindoo foot is not at all like the foot of an ape or monkey. The great toe is not opposed to the other toes like a thumb, as occurs with the monkey, and accordingly the pedal dexterity of the Hindoos is not to be land of straight shooters, and no countaken as an indication of simian descent.- Pearson's Weekly,

THE PLANET MERCURY.

Like Venus and For Like Cause, It is Now a Dead World.

Mercury is a body devoid, practically if not absolutely, of air, of water and of vegetation. Consequently it is incapable of supporting any of those higher organisms which we know as living beings. Its surface is a vast desert. It is rough rather than smooth. Whether this roughness be due to mountains proper or to craters we are too far away from it to be able yet to say. The latter is the more probable. Over the greater part of its surface change either diurnal or sea-Aid. Then he put a new lower part to sonal is unknown, Three-eighths of its with wool on farms. ## SEEING SICILY.

Not to Know This Island Is Not to Know Greece

There are some lands which have always laid a spell upon the mind, upon the imagination, upon the heart, Greece, above all other countries, has entranced the mind. The imagination has ever gotten Asia, the almost as mysterious Asia of today. For most of us the home land is the country of the heart; for many, it may be, it is Palestine, where was lighted the fire at which the hearts of incalculable millions are still warmed. Others are content to say with Emerson in the fine essay on "Heroism," "That country is the fairest which is inhabited by the noblest minds." But, above all other lands, there is one which has at once impressed the mind, the imagination and the heart of western peoples. When a famous poet declared that on his heart would be found engraved the word Italy the words voiced the emotion of a multitude in every country of Europe and in the great northern continent oversea. To see Sicily, the old "Garden of the Sun," as the poets have loved to call it, is not to see Italy, though there may be a measure of truth in Goethe's remark that not to know Sicily is not to know Italy. In a sense one might more truly say of Sicily that not to know it is not to know Greece. In another sense, the room they want to stretch out their however, we have in this most beautiful of islands the intensification of over everything else, as they so often evidence here, though it is Italian of sula.-William Sharp in Century.

TYING WOOL

Boxing and the Loose Bundle-Box-

There are two ways of tying wool still practiced in many sections. Both have their advocates, and both have their merits. Boxing, as it is called, is probably most commonly practiced is either sacked up loose or tied in a loose bundle.

The loose bundle is preferable except in two ways. A loose bundle is more apt to come to pieces before reaching the sorter unless too large an amount of twine is used. Both are objectionable features, says a South Dakota sheepman who describes the two ways of tying wool in Orange Judd Farmer. In boxing the fleece can be done up in a more compact form with the use of less twine and is less liable to come to pieces in handling. Buyers, however, do not make any serious objection to either form when properly done. First the shearer should endeavor to keep the fleece in as nearly a compact form as possible. After removing all tag locks lay the fleece flesh side down and after closing in the edges fold over toward the center from all sides, folding over enough to make a bundle about a foot square; then turn the fleece over on about four feet of twine, passing it around the second time the opposite way, and tie firmly. The same process is gone through in preparing it Almost any one can make a wool box. For each side take boards (A, A) three feet long and one foot wide and for the center three pieces (B, C, B) a foot square and hinge them together, as shown in the cut. Now saw two notches on each of the four sides to hold strings, as indicated in diagram. Cut your strings about three feet long and lay them on the board, as indicated by dotted lines. After folding the fleece as stated above lay it on the box, fold up the sides, then the end pieces, fastening them with cleats. The ends of the strings are handy to tie to-

Growing Chicory. The best soil for chicory is a limy, sandy loam. Stony soil and clay soil are equally unsuitable. The surface soil should be deep and the subsoil porous enough to allow the long taproots to penetrate a foot or more. The seed is sown about the last week of May. Chicory seed is fairly hardy, more so than corn. Just before sowing the seed it is well to lightly harrow the land to destroy young weeds. Seeds should be sown fifteen to twenty to the mountains. Dissipated Elements. In the disintegration of radium by the giving off of helium the amount of energy set free is 1,000,000,000 great calorics for one gram of radium. Now to reconstruct the dissipated elements would require as much energy as was lost in their dissipation, and this explains the hopelessness of their synthesis, as no such amount of energy can be employed. How were these elements first constructed? That is a question for the students. A German physicist, W. Meigen, suggests that the dissipation of elements is an actually gave me the expectant hand.
