Medicine Shows.

It is refreshing to learn that hereafter a much higher license will be charged "Medicine Shows" exhibiting in Emmitsburg and that these shows will no longer be permitted to make pandemonium in our Public Square.

The public square is no place for shows of any kind and especially for such aggregations as seem to find it necessary to pander to the lowest that is in one's nature in order to sell their quacks and their cure alls.

Why is it that people will ignore the reputable physician and the reputable druggist and put their money (to be taken away from the town) and their physical well-being into the hands of the transient peddler of more or less injurious or worthless decoctions?

By imposing a high or prohibitive license on these peace-disturbing and demoralizing shows our Burgess will have the entire community, certainly the majority of the community, to support him.

Attend Strictly To Business.

When you see a man going down the street looking straight ahead of him and at a pace that insures his quick arrival at his destination, the chances are nine out of ten that he knows where he's going, why he's going and that it is worth his while.

And many of them will no doubt attain exalted positions among the Masons later on—carrying the hod.

True Philanthropy.

It is a good sign when, unsolicited, so many men who have honestly acquired large fortunes are trying to give to the world some lasting benefit resulting from their wealth.

As Young as You FEEL.

It does not matter very much, if age shows in your hair, if wrinkles write time's record on your brow.

Many of the young men who are just now being photographed on the front steps of colleges are convinced that they can easily lay the foundation of great success by means of their mortar boards.—Washington Star.

NOT TOO SERIOUS.

"Ethel, the sweet girl's father called gently from above stairs. "Yes, father. What is it?" she answered through the midnight stillness.

"Is your daughter progressing nicely with her music?" inquired the visitor of Mrs. Goldrox.

"I should say she was," said Mrs. Goldrox, with enthusiasm. "She's got so she kin play the 'Carnival of Venice' with variations, besides doing all them little physical exercises with her hands crossed."

NOTHIN' DOIN'.

Kind Lady—Now that you have had your dinner, what would you say if I offered you some work?

NATURALLY.

Teacher.—Now a monologue is a recitation in which one person takes part; a dialogue is one where two persons take part. Now can anyone find further example?

A METHOD.

"I wouldn't touch a penny to which I hadn't a legal right," said the conscientious man.

STARTING THE BLAZE.

Miss Newdust.—Yes, all of my ancestors held responsible offices in this world. Take my grandfather, for instance, whose picture you see over there.

WHEN THE FISH BEGIN TO BITE.

There's a feelin' Comes a-stealin' Shorter shamed like an' queer An' my heart 'll Shorter startle Jest about this time o' year.

As a feller

Feelin' meller, When his evenin' chores are dun, An' a-knowin' Where he's goin' With his fishin' pole all right.

THE SPANIARD.

His Courtesy, His Cigarette and His Lottery Ticket. Of the courteous manners of all Spaniards a traveler writes: "So anxious is every one to be of service to others that the stranger is apt to consider the Spaniards very inquisitive people. An experience in a Madrid tramcar was enlightening in this direction. A woman in getting into the car appeared to have slipped and hurt her foot. She and her husband began an animated discussion upon the incident, and of the dozen others in the car every one except ourselves craned forward to listen. The passengers were well assorted, ranging down to a woman almost of the beggar class. But one and all in turn joined in the discussion without exciting the least resentment, opinions being apparently welcomed. Gentlemen arriving at their destination ceased arguing, raised their hats and went out, leaving others in possession until the principals left."

"There is no hour of the day or night which a Spaniard deems inappropriate to the practice of smoking" the same writer observes. "Whenever he finds time hanging heavily, which is frequently, he lights a cigarette. Time hangs heavily on a Spaniard's mind in the brief interval between the courses at lunch and dinner, whenever he wakes at night, when traveling between station and hotel in an omnibus and always when in a railway train, regardless of ladies. The practice of smoking is so universal in Spain that railway compartments for nonsmokers exist in theory only, and the habit, combined with that of loud talking at all hours of the night and morning, makes the average Spaniard undesirable as a traveling companion, especially at night."

ST. JOSEPH'S ACADEMY.

Interesting Exercises Mark the Close of This Far-Famed Institution.

THE 97TH ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT.

Yesterday St. Joseph's Academy, Emmitsburg, Maryland, recorded its ninety-seventh Annual Commencement. Nearly a century has elapsed since the noble and saintly Mother Seton, with her heroic band of sisters, founded this well known and far-famed Institution.

The three days preceding Commencement were devoted to an exhibit of the art and needle-work accomplished during the Scholastic Term. The art-exhibit this year was particularly fine. Highest honors in China painting were awarded to Miss Mary V. Buckley of Washington, D. C., for a fish set that merited special commendation for harmonious blending of coloring and the life-like motion displayed in the painting of the fish.

Miss Buckley, a Post-graduate of the institution, devoted extra time this Term to art; other exhibits under her signature were a Tapestry painting of Aurora après Guido Reni—a flock of sheep and portraits of Mr. and Mrs. Buckley in pastel—all were beautifully executed.

Misses Lauretta Rohrbach and Genevieve Griesen claimed attention for their skillful painting of clusters of grapes, dainty birds and reads on their respective Punch sets. Misses Lilly McCall and Alice Smith merit special mention for beautiful dinner sets of green and gold. Tapestry painting seems to have gained ascendancy in the Art Department this term although pastel and water-colors still show their devotees.

In Tapestry painting we noticed particularly a silk Tapestry panel 36x60 Marine and figures—original—painted by Miss Oline Denny. Another silk Tapestry 50x72—Aethle, original, by Edwin Long. Scene—Interior Temple, Vestal Virgin—subject described in Moore's Epicurean; this work noted for its rich coloring is credited to Miss Madeline Robinson—a woodland scene in oil, five water-color California views and a copy of the Fisherman's Daughter by Bourgerea for which she merits a first prize are other exhibits of Miss Robinson. "Innocent Victim" (original by Teymour) Miss A. Yglesias; three panels—Stags—Miss Alice Galvin; Gleaners après Millet and Hart of Black Forest, Miss Margaret Powers; Ruth—Miss Pauline Gonzalez; Hunting Dogs—pastel—life-size, very fine—Miss Pauline Eckenrode. The following pastels were also worthy of note: Stag—Miss Lilly McCall; Tired Hound—Landseer, Miss O. Denny; Forest Fire—Miss Emily Spalding; Marine—Miss Christine Yglesias. Among the oil paintings may be mentioned a French scene—Peasant and Saep—canvas 40x50, Miss Pauline Scholz; Roses, Miss C. Yglesias; Apples—Miss Hannah Slade. A Benediction Veil, beautifully painted, was also credited to Miss C. Yglesias of Costa Rica.

The program of Thursday opened with Buchner's Festmarsch to the strains of which the students entered Commencement Hall. The Salutatory entitled: "Reverence for all goodness is the fragrant flower and ripe fruit of nobility" was written and delivered by Miss Lauretta Rohrbach of the Graduating Class. "The Peasant's Return" by Schumann was a bright and pleasing two-part chorus. Radezky March by Strauss was rendered by twelve piano performers accompanied by a small orchestral combination of organs, string instruments, tambourines, castanets and triangles. It was a selection and arrangement that pleased many. "Our Triumphant Flag" showed that it met a response from every one that took part in the soul-stirring strain. The patriotic number was accompanied by a recitation corresponding to the sentiment of the song—Drake's Ode to the Flag and Miss Buckley was the reciter. The other numbers of the program were choice and beautiful selections especially Jubel—Ouverture by von Weber. The Valedictory holding for its subject: "Not in Perfection but in Perfecting does the Art lie" was written and delivered by Miss Louise Sobold. Special Honors in Post Graduate Course were awarded Miss M. V. Buckley of Washington, D. C., and Academic Honors were conferred upon: Miss Emily Grace Denny, Ebensburg, Pennsylvania. Miss Katherine Irene O'Meara, Lynchburg, Virginia, Lauretta Jarboe Rohrbach, Frederick, Maryland; Miss Mary Oline Denny, Ebensburg, Pennsylvania; Miss Maria Luisa Angulo, Havana, Cuba; Miss Marie Antoinette Clagett, Upper Marlboro, Maryland; Miss Anna Louise Sobold, Emmitsburg, Maryland.

A noticeable and interesting feature of the exercises this year was that the Institution for the first time made use of its privilege to confer degrees. Mrs. K. Theala Conley of Brookline, Mass., receiving the degree of Master of Arts. Miss K. Eugenia Curtin of Danmore, Pa., that of Bachelor of Arts.

The Carrell Gold Medal for General Excellence was awarded to Miss Emily Grace Denny. Gold medal for Church History to Miss Marie Clagett. Gold medal for Literature to Miss M. L. Angulo. Gold medal for Mathematics to Miss Irene O'Meara. Gold Locket for Cooking to Miss Marie Clagett. Gold medal for Christian Doctrine to Miss Hortensia Angulo. Medals for Excellence in respective English Classes were awarded to Miss Frances Rufin, Second Academic Class, Miss Mary C. Euzkaneas, Third Academic Class, Miss Pauline Scholz, Fourth Academic Class.

MOUNT ST. MARY'S COLLEGE.

95th ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT OF THIS VENERABLE INSTITUTION.

Impressive Exercises Close the Collegiate Year. List of Graduates and Honors Awarded.

When Wednesday dawned it looked as though the day would be dark and gloomy and that the exercises at Mt. St. Mary's College would be marred in consequence. But gloomy though it was during the early hours of the morning, the sun as if to pay homage to the occasion, came out just as the visiting Bishop, the President and the Faculty and the Speakers, invited to take part in the exercises, wended their way from the East wing of the college, crossed the terraces where groups of students lingered, and entered the beautifully decorated Study Hall where was gathered a large and representative audience, eagerly awaiting the formal opening of the 95th Commencement of this venerable and venerated Institution.

While the orchestra played the first number the graduates, in cap and gown, marched into the hall and, after bowing to the Bishop, took their places at the left of the stage. James M. Burke was the first speaker. The college glee club then sang "The Chapel," by Kreutzer. Thomas L. McKintee delivered the next speech. His subject was "The Catholic Missions in California." After the orchestra had played the Minuet from Haydn's Militaire Symphony, degrees were conferred.

Father Flynn, the President of the college, received the degree of Doctor of Laws, conferred on him by Georgetown College. In his speech, acknowledging the honor, Father Flynn said, in part, that while he personally felt highly honored by the recognition, yet it was in part an expression of the good will and affection and good wishes that had always been entertained by Georgetown for Mount St. Mary's, and as such he was glad to be able to express for the whole faculty, gratification for the honor bestowed on his institution. Mount St. Mary's, continued Father Flynn, looked on Georgetown as the warmest friend of this institution and he looked on the conferring of this degree as an augur of the continuance of this good feeling. Turning to Father Quill, the bearer of Georgetown's message, he further said that he wished Father Quill to carry back to Georgetown the gratitude and grateful recognition of the Faculty of Mount St. Mary's. This graceful speech was met with loud applause. Further degrees were conferred on the following men: The Honorary degree of LL. D. upon: Rt. Rev. M'gr. John Boyle, Johnstown, Pa.; Hon. J. B. Head, 73, Greensburg, Pa. The degree of A. M. upon: A. E. Cassidy and Rev. Thomas Connors, both of Pittsburg, J. W. Fineran, Carbondale, Pa.; Richard O. Leroy, Mobile, Ala.; Kremer J. Hoke, Emmitsburg, Pa.; Charles F. Hogan, (honoris causa), Danmore, Pa.; Thomas M. Jordan, also of Danmore, Peter S. Kane, Troy, N. Y.; W. J. Unstetter, Pittsburg, J. E. McAlle, Danmore, J. L. F. McCreary, Derby, Conn.; J. A. O'Connor, and W. A. O'Hara, both of Pittsburg.

The graduates, Thomas J. Gillooly, Roanoke, Va.; Thomas L. McKintee, Steelton, Pa.; Bernard J. McKintee, Steelton, Pa.; John T. Hines, Latrobe, Pa.; James M. Burke, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; John J. O'Neill, Great Bend, Pa.; Aloysius F. King, Leonardtown, Md.; John C. Danphy, Altoona, Pa.; John P. Cuniff, Philadelphia; John A. Farrelly, New York; Edward J. Flanagan, New York; James F. Connelly, Johnstown, Pa.; Michael A. Bennett, Philadelphia; Thomas V. Burke, Staten Island; Joseph J. McAndrew, Brockville, Pa., received the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

In this column "UNCLE BILL" will answer all questions of a proper character submitted to THE CHRONICLE. Readers of this paper should not hesitate to patronize this column frequently, as "UNCLE BILL" draws a big salary and loves to work.

Uncle Bill: What is meant by the term "habeas corpus"? Respectfully, OLEANDER.

Oleander: Eliminating the legal phraseology surrounding this strictly legal term, and bringing it down to a plane sufficiently intelligible to the average mind; that is to say, couching the definition in terms the more easily comprehended by laymen in general and by such as possess mediocre understanding or limited or restricted power of mental absorption, habeas corpus is a writ usually "got out" by any member of the legal profession, in other words a lawyer, who finds that his client, whom he knows to be guilty, will be otherwise denied the opportunity of making his escape. This gives the lawyer time to create a disturbance in court, to get the judge, the opposing counsel and the bailiffs so excited or mixed up that they lose sight of the prisoner, who then and there makes his exit and seeks other elms.

Uncle Bill: How can I clear my complexion? LENA.

Lena: Use a filter. Uncle Bill: What is the best preparation to soften the skin? ZELIA.

Zelia: To six ounces of Aqua Fortis add equal parts of sand and chloride of lime. Apply the lotion with a mop, being careful not to get overheated. This will remove the skin, which can then be soaked in neatfoot oil—giving the required softness.

Uncle Bill: Let me into the secrets of Psychic Science? YOURS, DREAMER.

Dreamer: All you've got to do to accomplish what you are after is to listen for about one hour to some fairy who has gone "daffy" on "psychic research," whatever that means. When you meet with one of these "souls" who has her trolley twisted and who talks from a stomach filled with "education" tablets and Boston brain food, you are right where the stuff's made. Stay there and absorb and—well you'll be ready for a jury in about thirty days.

Uncle Bill: What chance has Hearst for the presidency? HENRY H.

Henry: About the same chance as a lamb would have with the butcher.

OLD SOLDIER WANTS PENSION INCREASED FOR PRETTY GOOD REASONS, HE THINKS.

HONEST WIDOW WOULD GIVE UP HEIRS.

Two Remarkable Though Widely Differing Documents Received at the Pension Bureau.

If a certain old veteran out in the State of Illinois does not get an increase in his pension for which he has been working, it will not be because he has not made a strenuous appeal to the Hon. Vespasian Warner, Commissioner of Pensions. It will not be because he has not stated his case in plain United States nor missed fire in recounting the causes which have led him to have "one foot in the grave and the other dam near it."

THE TWO HANDLES

Everything has two handles—one by which it may be borne; another by which it cannot.—EPICUREUS.

There are innumerable cups on the table of life. Some are glided and beautiful. Some contain bitter mixtures. Others are sweet to the taste. Every man must take such of the cups as are given him. What happens? The most beautiful cup often becomes bitter. The most bitter cup often grows sweet. See how this is!

You can take the morning by the handle of a frown and the whole day will frown on you. Take the stormiest day with a smile and it will grow pleasant. Take your work by the handle of reluctance and it will grow intolerable; yet the same man, takes the same work by the handle of willingness and it becomes easy. Try it!

Take your pleasure by the handle of self-indulgence and the pleasure is spoiled; take it by the handle of generosity, share it, and it will last.

Take wealth by one handle and it loads you with cares; take it by the other handle and see what will happen.

Take your business as a means of getting a living and it becomes vulgar drudgery; take it as a means of social service and it will be a noble religion.

Take marriage by the handle of your self-will and it turns out a failure; take it by the handle of love and you will be more happy every day.

Handle men with distrust and you will never get on with them; handle them by good will and the same men will be your friends.

Take yourself by the handle of egotism and you waste your power. Use the handle of modesty and the world is with you.

Take pain by the handle of fear and you will always have something to suffer. Take pain by the handle of courage and nothing can hurt you.

Take sorrow with self-pity and you will become too lonely to live. Take it by the handle of your sympathy and your sorrow shall be translated into new power to help all others who suffer.

Take the world by the handle of doubt and the day grows dark. Take it as God's world and the sun and stars will always be shining.

Take death with dread and you lessen the title of life. Take death with hope and life broadens into an infinite meaning. —BY CHARLES F. DODD, in Maxwell's Tolstoman.

other. Meanwhile my natural leg, the one I brot away safe from the Wilderness has tuis to the reumatism, till I'm almost sorry I didn't drop it when I did the other one.

"Now my Commissioner about this matter of increase in pension, you ma do just as you dam please. If you think lusin one leg at the Wilderness in 1864 blotted out the record of a Jullitt thro' the body at Antitum in 1862, and if you think the pension I've been gettin in full pay for a set of hasted insides, that haint been in good running order for more on twenty years, and never will this side of new gupsason, ALL RIGHT.

Bullet Disturbed His "Innards." But I'm going to tell you jest between us, that when that minie ball went thro' me at Antitum, it plaid hell with some important part of my innards, and it plaid for keeps. It cut something into flinders. I don't know whether it was my lungs or what, and your pet doktors doubt seem to know much about it as I do. The plane facts, that's what I'm driven at, broke up and basted me from heel to whiskers, and I got bused at Antitum before my leg was lost, and the record says so.

Now I dont want to be sassy I aint billt that way. But my warror if you expect to blossom out as vice president of these United States by bucking against the honist Klaim of an old veteran, with one foot in the grave, and the other dam near it, you're getting more than you'l have time to stak up. You make about as much at that game as the dokter general will by vetoing wooden legs.

Respectfully yours with a dam good memory.

The most remarkable case of strict honesty that has lately come to the attention of the pension department is the case of Mrs. Arthur Gibson of Fremont, Neb. Mrs. Gibson three years ago applied for a widow's pension, and had a deal of trouble getting it.

Congressman McCarthy of her district interested himself, and after much effort Mrs. Gibson made her case good and was put on the rolls for $8 a month. She got at the same time a good slice of back pension that had been accruing to her since her application was made. A widow must show that she has not over $250 annual income in order to get a pension.

Continue Keeping Boards.

The other day Mr. Macarty received from her a letter, returning the vouchers for her quarterly pension payment, and adding:

"Last week I received some funds from a source entirely unexpected. I have been able with this and the money from my back pension to pay off all debts, and make a small investment. My yearly income will exceed $250. For this reason I feel that I must return the voucher with the request that you state the case to the commissioner. I shall feel it necessary to continue keeping boards, but cannot honestly continue to send vouchers for pension money now that my income will exceed the Government limit."

Name to Stay on Rolls.

Mr. McCarthy marched over to see the commissioner. They figured out that, inasmuch as Mrs. Gibson's statement about her income was truthful at the time the pension was allowed, it is now too late to go back of the fact. She can't be removed from the rolls merely because of her conscientious scruples and the fact that she received a small legacy. So she will keep right on getting her pension, with the assurance that there is no impropriety in it.

The case is said to be the first of its kind.—Washington Times.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

That the people of the country shall pay two millions of dollars annually for the inspection of meat which they buy later at rates affording vast profits to the beef trust is the proposition made to the House of Representatives by the Agricultural Committee. The injustice of such a measure has not deterred the Committee of the House from forming and presenting this proposition which is offered as a substitute for the Beveridge amendment that passed the Senate, and which provides for adequate inspection of meats, at the cost of the packers.

The President is emphatically opposed to the measure presented by the House Committee and if it is enacted he may veto it or should he sign it he will attach a memorandum which will indicate definitely and unmistakably to the country that he regards the law as inadequate and unsatisfactory. If the Government is required to pay the inspection charges the provision, in the opinion of the President, will render the law ineffective. He is opposed to the bill in its entirety and has pointed out to Chairman Wadsworth of the committee that the failure of the committee to provide for inspection at all hours of the day and night is a defect that he cannot overlook. The measure as presented by the majority of the Committee is an evident effort to favor the packers as far as possible and to protect their interests. There are men in the House of Representatives interested in the beef packing business, notable among them Speaker Cannon. These and friends of the beef trust for other reasons, are making every effort to prevent the passage of a bill that will fall hard on the butcheries, and the Committee measure is an effort to compromise at the expense both in money and health of the great public that buys the beef trusts products. Since the matter has been before Congress and especially since the publication of the Neill-Reynolds report exposing the unspeakably bad conditions that surround the packing houses of Chicago and disclosing the fact that the entire public is menaced by the filthy denaying and poisonous products that issues from them, the Capital has been infested with the agents of the trust who are working day and night and spending money with lavish hand to lobby and prevent legislation along the lines of the Beveridge amendment. The entire Congress knows that in matters that come before the House Speaker Cannon is all-powerful and the effect of his interests in the packing business is apparent in Chairman Wadsworth's report. A minority report of the committee presented by Representative Bovio of Alabama objects to the proposition to tax the people two millions of dollars annually for the inspection of meat and says that inasmuch as the conditions which make such inspection necessary were created by the packers and that as the health of the people is at stake it would be doubly unjust to saddle that expense on the shoulders of an innocent public which is certainly not responsible for the situation. His report states that there is abundant precedent for making a private industry bear the expense incident to its own business and there is no reason or justice in imposing the burden upon the people. A final objection to the majority report is the setting aside of the civil service laws making it possible to appoint inspectors as the result of political influence instead of merit which handicaps them at the start and prevents them being free agents.

Last week the Senate passed the thirty-six hour act, a starvation, thirst and fatigue bill. It is the bill that nineteen twentieths of the people who understand it have been protesting against thirty years ago during President Grant's administration Congress enacted a law that cattle, hogs, sheep and horses should not be held continuously on cars or on boats for more than twenty-eight hours without rest, food and water. The Senate bill just passed adds an additional eight hours to conditions that were well nigh intolerable under the twenty-eight hour law. Animals in the natural state eat or ruminate pretty much all the time and to make them go for thirty-six hours without food is a torture which when combined with thirst and the fright and bewilderment of a moving train is cruelty indescribable. Doubtless nineteen twentieths, perhaps ninety-nine hundredths of the people of the United States, if there could be a referendum would vote against this bill. The great untold herds alone, an almost infinitesimal part of the population of the United States are in favor of it but with their powerful wealth they have pushed the bill through the Senate and millions of animals born and unborn, must suffer untold misery merely because they cannot speak or vote or strike or organize. Unless the humane majority of the United States arise in their might and prevent the passage of the bill in the House of Representatives or urge the President to veto it this most scandalous and retrogressive measure will become a law.

"Farmer" Benson, the newly appointed Senator from Kansas, who has taken the place made vacant by the enforced resignation of Burton of that place is not a stranger in Washington. He has been to the National Capital before. His visits number two, the earlier being made in 1892, when he marched through as a private and the second in 1895 when he marched in Sherman's army during the grand review. It is doubtful if he would have known Washington for the same place if the conductor had not put him off at the station, but he found his way to the Capital without the aid of a guide and took the oath of office in the chamber which he had never entered before. He denies that he ever said that one honest man could not do much in the Senate, but farmer, though he is, it is not probable that he is unsophisticated enough to think that one honest man will be able to accomplish much in that body.

PEOPLE WILL TALK.

You may get through the world, but 'twill be very slow. If you listen to all that is said as you go; You'll be worried and fretted, and kept in a stew—

For meddlesome tongues must have something to do— And people will talk.

If quiet and modest, you'll have it presumed That your humble position is only assumed—

You're a wolf in sheep's clothing, or else you're a fool, But don't get excited—keep perfectly cool— For people will talk.

And then, if you show the least boldness of heart, Or a slight inclination to take your own part, They will call you an upstart, conceited and vain.

But keep straight ahead—don't stop to explain— For people will talk.

If threadbare your dress, or old-fashioned your hat, Some one will surely take notice of that.

And hint rather strong that you can't pay your way. But don't get excited, whatever they say— For people will talk.

If you dress in the fashion don't think to escape, For they criticize then in a different shape: You're ahead of your means, or your tailor's unpaid.

But mind your own business—there's naught to be made— For people will talk.

Now, the best way to do is to do as you please; For at ease, Of course you will meet with all sorts of abuse; But don't think to stop them—it ain't any use— For people will talk.

WHAT THE PEOPLE OWE THE PASTOR.

First, confidence. The word "pastor" is empty and meaningless where the people do not repose confidence in him. The church can have no growth in grace, and can make no progress in the community, if the people place not confidence in him who ministers to them in spiritual things. Confidence is the medium of personal influence; it is the basis of all co-operation in religious work.

Second, co-operation. No matter how eloquently he may preach, nor how faithfully he may labor to build up the church, if the people do not respond to his appeals and work with him he is as helpless as an infant. They should use their influence to help build up an audience for him, speak well of him as a preacher, to those who are not in the habit of attending church. They should attend all the public means of grace—the preaching services, prayer-meetings and Sunday-schools. If all the members of the church would do this, how the church would fill up on Sunday; and in what wouldness of life would many a dead prayer-meeting spring! The people owe the pastor faithful co-operation in all lines of Church activity.

Third, a competent support. No man can support more honestly and effectively than the gospel minister. He is in no sense of the word a charity; he renders more than value received for all that he gets, and yet there are very few pastors but are often embarrassed for the want of money, when there embarrassment might be relieved if even their paltry salaries were kept paid up promptly.—The Occident.
