THE CHICAGO PLATFORM

Stirring Republican Document

REVISION OF TARIFF

Principle of Protection Believed in by Party

CONCERNING ANTI-INUNCTION

Mr. La Follette's Ideas Neither Safe Nor Safe.—Plea for Continuance in Power.—Roosevelt's Influence Plainly Seen in Statements in Document.

One of the leading Republican journals of this country in an editorial on the Republican platform calls it a "stirring document" and "a fervid appeal to the favorable judgment of the people." The paper referred to above and from which the following is taken is the Philadelphia Press. "The platform is a good cry to go to the country with. It presents a strong and telling argument for the continuation of the Republican party in power. Since that party has done all the good deeds here presented, the natural response will be, 'let it be retained in power so that it may continue and perfect its good work.'"

"The great body of Republicans believe in the principle of protection to American industry. The party is firmly committed to it and remains strong in this faith in the deliverance adopted yesterday. A revision of the tariff is demanded and will take place, but the revised tariff will give such protection 'as will equal the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad, together with a reasonable profit to American industry.' The platform declares for maximum and minimum tariff, the latter to represent the normal measure of protection at home, 'to give security to our producers and maintain the high standard of living of the wage-earners of this land.'"

"There was much opposition to any statement of the subject of inunction in the platform. The integrity and independence of our courts are highly prized by Americans, and they oppose anything that even looks like a limitation upon this authority. There have been complaints about the precipitate issue of injunctions and the convention in its wisdom declared that the rules of procedure should be more accurately defined, and no inunction should be issued without notice, except when irreparable injury would result from delay. As injunctions are rarely issued without notice to the party enjoined, the limitation, if incorporated in law, would not greatly change the present practice. It is a very moderate proposition. It places no limitations on the Courts and does not deprive them of their ancient power. It simply commands deliberation and requires that notice be given to the parties concerned when possible.

"There were several propositions voted down which were presented from Wisconsin. That State has developed a more radical type of Republicans than obtains elsewhere. The Republicans of the country are progressive, but conservative. They believe in going ahead when they are sure they can advance with safety. Mr. La Follette has not yet proved the safety, the sanity and the wisdom of the policies which he urges with such persistent energy."

SIX CASES OF LEPROSY CURED

Self Sacrificing Care And Interest of The Sisters of Charity in the Louisiana Leper Home.

The report comes from Louisiana that out of sixty-one lepers at the state institution in the past two years, six have been practically cured. These cures have not been worked by any specific remedy nor are the patients isolated as in other homes. The patients are attended by six Sisters of Charity and none of these self-sacrificing women has become infected. The degree of freedom enjoyed by these lepers is surprising. There are no stockades, no high fences, no armed guards nor even night watchmen to prevent them from escaping at will. The one strong bond which holds them to the institution is the self-sacrificing care and interest of the Sisters of Charity in making them comfortable and contented.

WAS A CONFEDERATE

New Secretary of War General Luke E. Wright

HIS RANK IS HONORARY TITLE

Short Sketch of the Career of the Man Who Succeeds Mr. Taft in the Cabinet.—Comes From a Prominent Military Family.

Gen. Luke E. Wright, the man who succeeds Mr. Taft in the President's Cabinet next Tuesday has an interesting public career. He went to the Philippines just before the second McKinley election of 1900, and was there as Civil Governor during the 1904 campaign when President Roosevelt was elected "in his own right." During the coming campaign Mr. Wright will be in the United States and ready to vote, but how that vote will be cast is exciting speculation among political gossips here. He is a strong personal friend of Mr. Taft, with whom he was a co-laborer in the Philippines, and although the Tennessean still adheres to his Democracy, it is believed here that his vote this November will be cast for Mr. Taft, who if elected President, is expected to continue Wright in office as Secretary of War.

Although everybody in Tennessee refers to Luke Wright as "General" he never attained that rank in the Civil War. It comes to him from the fact that he was for a while Attorney-General of Tennessee, and since that time everyone in his state addresses him as "General." The Wright family of Tennessee is prominent in military affairs and statecraft. Many members of the family have served with distinction in the army or on the bench, and Mr. Wright served throughout the Civil War as a member of the Confederate Army. He entered as a private at an early age in the battery which was commanded by his brother, the late Eldridge E. Wright, who was killed in action at the battle of Shiloh, and young Luke was elected lieutenant by members of that battery. Luke Wright participated in several engagements, but was too young to attain high rank in the Confederacy.

CANDIDATE SHERMAN

Career of Republican Vice President Nominee

IN CONGRESS FORTWENTY YEARS

As Counsel for Republican Congressional Committee His Advice Has Been Valuable.—Prominent in The Financial World.

James Schoolcraft Sherman, who was nominated for Vice President, has been a member of Congress for the past twenty years, with exception of a two-year period between 1891 and 1893. He is a native of New York, and was born at Utica, in 1855. His education was received in the public schools and at Hamilton College, where he graduated in 1878. He then studied law, and was admitted to the bar in New York State in 1880. Before entering upon his career as a national legislator and statesman Mr. Sherman had been honored at home. In 1884 he was elected mayor of his native city, which is strongly Democratic, as a Republican, receiving a substantial majority, and he was chairman of the Saratoga State convention held at Saratoga in 1895, and again in 1900. Mr. Sherman has been vice chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee for eight years, and has rendered valuable service in conducting previous campaigns. He was frequently called into counsel and his advice proved valuable on many occasions in the conferences held at headquarters in New York. In 1906 he was made chairman of the committee. As a member of the House, Mr. Sherman is serving on the very important Rules Committee, on the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, and on that on Indian Affairs, of which he is chairman. In addition to his work in Public Life, Mr. Sherman has also been prominent in financial and industrial lines. He is president of the Utica Trust & Deposit Company, and at the head of the New Hartford Canning Company.

BEAUTIFUL TRIBUTE TO MOUNT ST. MARY'S BY MISS RUFFIN

Instrumental and Vocal Music Under Direction of Professor Gaul Faultlessly Rendered.—Miss Morgan, Salutatorian, Honors the Pope's Jubilee.—Patriotic Numbers and Drills Receive Much Applause.—Graduates for the First Time Wear the Cap and Gown.—Pleasing Remarks by Bishop Curtis.—List of the Guests of the Institution.

GRADUATING CLASS 1908.

The ninety-ninth annual commencement held at Saint Joseph's College and Academy, on the eighteenth, did not in any point fall short of the success which has always marked former occasions at that famous institution. The weather was delightful, the very air seeming to be permeated with music and poetic inspiration; and the happiness that beamed from the countenances of visitors and students before, during and after the exercises, clearly showed that very bright anticipations had been formed, and that all expectations had been most fully realized.

From the beginning of the week specimens of the young ladies' work had been on exhibition in the Art Room. These specimens displayed skill and taste in water-colors, oil, pastel, tapestry painting, wood carving, pyro-sculpture, pyrography, china painting, pen and ink sketches, drawings from nature. Among them Christ Walking on the Waves, 40x60, by Miss Marian Denegre; Marine Scene, 36x52, by C. Cogan; Forest Fire, 30x40, R. Strickland; Ecce Homo, screen in oils, M. Powers; sofa pillow, copper riveted, I. Esquivel; punch set in grape, A. Smith, and one in roses and gold, M. Powers; tea-set, D. Dow; three sets vestments, hand painted, R. Strickland, M. Powers, C. Cogan, D. Dow; three Benedictine veils, beside numerous other pieces, all greatly admired. Miss M. Dow's carved oak leaf centre table was quite a curiosity of its kind.

Thursday morning, on the stroke of nine, the Entrance March inaugurated the opening of the well-arranged program, faultlessly rendered, before an appreciative audience. Mrs. M. E. H. Ruffin, L. H. D., in cap and gown, being the most prominent figure of the Alumnae, as they entered in a body after the students.

The musical numbers were charmingly varied; each one evinced taste, skill and careful teaching. The vocal selections ranged from the full chorus calling forth every voice in the school and heavy accompaniment to the "sweet and low," delicately arranged part song that carried most gracefully with its beautiful melody the harmonizing chord requiring no instrument to sustain the true correct intonations of the sweet, fresh youthful voices. The instrumental selections were equally pleasing and varied in character. Pianoforte numbers in which as many as twelve performers united so perfectly as to shading, rhythm and expression as to give the effect of a single instrument—volume and strength alone designating the difference. These performances alternated with orchestral combinations for violin, harp, organ and pianoforte. The last vocal numbers of the program, although decided and directly opposite in sentiment and effect, were equally charming. The Gypsy Song, full of gaiety, life and joyous spirit, carried every one with its gleeful strains, while the plaintive notes of "Goodbye, Sweet Day" so feelingly rendered by Miss Margaret Powers in the name of the Class of 1908 claimed its tribute of sadness and sympathy.

Professor F. Gaul, of Baltimore, who has for many years directed the music for rehearsals and commencement exercises at St. Joseph's was again this year in his accustomed place and by the skillful, graceful movements of his baton brought success to every number of the program.

In the Salutatory, Filial Affection, Miss Helen Gray Morgan's paper was trimmed in white and gold in honor of the Sacredotal Jubilee of the Holy Father, to whom tribute was paid with perfect enunciation and much expression, the sentiments being in every way worthy of the occasion. This same young lady gave evidence of her patriotism in Neals' American Eagle which did her great credit as an electionist, and was on the whole thrillingly grand. During the recitation Miss Regina Barry, of Baltimore, waved "Old Glory," the immense flagstaff being mounted by a gold eagle. Following this number of the program came twelve young ladies who went through the Delsarte Scarf Fantasies, movements to the tune of "The Star Spangled Banner." This performance with its tableaux vivants, elicited repeated applause.

The salutatorian, Miss Helen Gray Morgan said: Affection is the keynote of life. To its strains, whether true, deep and harmonious, or false, shallow, discordant, we tune our lives, for we are what we love; and our soul, like unto the tender strings of the instrument, plays on to the pitch of the tone of our life. Born above affection reflects on earth its native heaven, dewing with brightness, and smoothing the rough, darksome way where each, ere he has reached the echoless shores of Eternity.

Affection makes the world a glowing fireside. Like the gentle rain, it refreshes the withering heart-flowers. Under its soothing touch, weakness grows into strength, and despondency lifts her drooping head to the smiling promises of hope, even "as the sunflower turns towards the sun." Thus does affection transform, whilst infusing a nobler, higher, impulse wherever it prevails.

It is the spear that spurs us on to sow what others will reap; the breath that inhales the bitter, and exhales the sweet. It is the hand eager to give, and whilst taking extends to the giver, not to the gift; the lips that give the smiles, the eyes that keep the tears; the keen ear and the word to other's goodness, deafened and unspoken to their faults. In fine, affection is that glorious something which inspires us to be all for others; for love is not love, when shrouded within self.

Of all the forms in which affection issues from the deep-set roots of the

GOMPERS NOT PLEASED

Dissatisfied With Anti-Injunction Plank

LABOR INTERESTS ARE IGNORED

Not Likely That the Law and Precedents Governing Injunctions in the Past Will Be Interfered With in the Future.

The platform adopted by the recent Republican Convention at Chicago does not please all concerned. Both the laborer and the employer have their objection to certain clauses incorporated in that document. The revolution threatened by those at the head of the labor interests in all probability will not come to pass, and before election all will be harmoniously gathered into the flock. Samuel Gompers, head of the American Federation of Labor, who resides in Washington, is thoroughly dissatisfied with the so-called anti-injunction plank in the Republican platform and it is reported that he will now go to Denver to see if the Democratic carpenters cannot do something better for organized labor than did the carpenters at Chicago. He claims that the plank inserted adds neither strength nor respectability to the contention of labor against injunctive process. On the other hand, those representatives of the employers organizations who were so active at Chicago are quite disgusted that any reference should have been made indirectly to anti-injunction in the Republican platform. They however, are consoling themselves with the reflection that platforms are for campaign purposes and that there is a long cry between a nerveless statement in a presidential platform and legislation so important a question as equity procedure in state and federal courts. The Congress that will assemble after the fourth of March next to legislate on the tariff question, will have enough to do with that subject alone. Other questions of the greatest importance are pressing for consideration and it is not at all probable that the law and precedents governing injunctions in the past will be interfered with.

HITCHCOCK OR VORYS

Not All Harmony in Republican Headquarters

WORK FOR SECRETARY OF PEACE

Each Wants To Conduct Taft's Campaign and Neither Will Give In.—Some Objection to Hitchcock.—Candidate Will Decide.

Secretary Taft, the Republican nominee for President, has already left Washington for his old home in Cincinnati. He remained there, however, only a day or two to settle a dispute, it is said has arisen between Mr. Vorys and Mr. Hitchcock, the two managers who so successfully waged the campaign which resulted in Mr. Taft's nomination. Of these gentlemen each wants to be the sole manager or head manager of the presidential campaign and Mr. Taft will probably have as much difficulty settling this question to the delight of all concerned as he had in the Philippines, in Cuba, or at Panama. However, it is to be hoped that his reputation as "Secretary of Peace" will not be completely smashed in the effort. It is understood that the head management of the campaign depends absolutely upon the wishes of Mr. Taft, who has not publicly expressed any preference. The question, of course, is one of practical politics and no selection will be made from mere personal reasons. There have been two stories afloat concerning Mr. Hitchcock. One was that he had been offered the vice-presidency of the campaign committee, with headquarters in New York and that he had declined it. The other was that Secretary Taft had said that Mr. Hitchcock would be his choice. Because of the successful way in which Mr. Hitchcock handled the contests in the Southern states he has gained much reputation, but at the same time, he has aroused a feeling of resentment which now threatens to overthrow him. Representatives of powerful interests have said that they will resist his appointment to the last and that if he is appointed, they will refuse to serve with him.

Influenza, like cholera, always travels from east to west.

TAFT REPUBLICAN LEADER

Nomination Pleasing to Party

FITNESS FOR OFFICE

High Tribute to Ability and Character of Man

HIS RECORD IN PUBLIC OFFICE

Familiar With All Sides of Public Life and Problems.—Reputation for Tried Ability and Unselfish Devotion to Duty, and Principle.

The choice of the Republican party for candidate for the Presidency was William Howard Taft, now Secretary of War. Mr. Taft was born on September 15, 1857; is a graduate of Yale University, class of '78; completed his education at the Cincinnati Law School; was for a year law reporter for Cincinnati papers; Assistant Prosecutor for Hamilton county, Ohio; Collector of Internal Revenue for First Ohio district; Judge of Superior Court for three years; United States Solicitor General; United States Judge; President of the United States Philippine Commission and Secretary of War.

Of this man the Baltimore News said he "is so simple in his make-up, so direct and understandable in his mental processes that he might almost be considered common-place were it not for the extraordinary bulk of achievement to his credit. Sane, open, frank, kindly, efficient, industrious, are the adjectives one applies most naturally to the Republican candidate."

"In all history only two or three Presidents have come to the President's chair," says the Philadelphia Press, "with a preparation as complete or a mastery as visible of the problems of the Presidency, the fruit of experience, action and achievement. His nomination follows the proved deeds of a life spent in the public service, where he has never failed in a task and has never disappointed expectancy, high as his own record has made the expectation of men."

"He comes of a sound New England stock associated with affairs through more than one generation. His grandfather was for years a member of the Vermont Legislature. His father held post after post, Judge, minister and Cabinet officer, as well known for his public services as for his wide practice as a lawyer. William H. Taft himself has had the training of education, of events, of affairs, and of administration at home and abroad, on the bench, in our insular possessions and at the head for four years of the War Department at a time when it is charged not merely with the army, but with our public improvements, our colonies and the Panama Canal.

"In an hour when the conduct of the Government at Washington has been charged with new problems, burdened with new duties and faces new responsibilities, first the Republican party and next the nation turns to a man familiar with these new needs, tested in each and crowned with success in every task to which he has been called. At the threshold of active life he shared in the work and knowledge of journalism and its close and intimate

J. S. WILLIAMS RESIGNATION

House Minority Leader's Place Will Be Hard to Fill.—A Man of Great Intellectual Strength.

Among the questions discussed during the week by statesmen and politicians still loitering in Washington is the resignation of the leadership of the minority of the House by John Sharp Williams of Mississippi. It will be remembered that he, about a year ago, was elected over Gov. Vardaman to the United States Senate and he will, in a few months transfer his activities from the House of Representatives to the other legislative body of the United States. It is doubtful if there is a man on the Democratic side who is capable of bending his bow.

acquaintance with things as they are. As a Judge, on the State and Federal bench, he has known the law and shown both courage and learning in expounding it. He has held the scales even between capital and labor. He has not hesitated to curb the exactions or protect the rights of the one and he faced without fear the necessity of suppressing the criminal violence of a strike by the use of all the weapons in the hands of a Judge. He restored the Philippines to peace and began there the first self-government known in an Asiatic colony. He has brought efficiency out of disorder on the Isthmus, and in Cuba he has shown how preparation for self-government can be joined for the protection of order and the repression of revolution.

"There is no side of American life with which he is unfamiliar, and on all he has displayed knowledge, courage and principle. His judicial decisions show his grasp and command of the legal and constitutional problems of railroad and trust. He has attacked the boss and the corrupt machine in his own party. He has told the truth to Southern Republicans, and in the North he has courageously asserted, in the face of interested clamor, the necessity of a revision of the tariff on lines which will consider due protection to American labor, the promotion of our industry and the growth of our foreign trade. Nor has our diplomacy a more brilliant triumph than the success with which he secured the settlement of the tangled issues centering about the property of the orders of friars in the Philippines on terms honorable to the United States, satisfactory to the Philippine people and accepted as just and generous by the highest authority of the church to which these orders belonged.

"This varied record of success in a career which has everything in it but failure rests on ability, the training of events and principle. Through all his years there has never come near him the remotest touch or taint of self-interest or self-seeking, much less of vulgar scandal. He put aside the chief ambition of his life, a seat on the Federal Supreme Court, to discharge his full duty at Manila. He has united the efficiency of the man of action, the rectitude of the Judge and the broad outlook of the statesman.

"His vision of his land looks farther than its boundaries and sees more than its present needs. Great issues are before the people. The years that are opening before us are to decide the balance and poise between capital and labor, between the efficiency of great corporations and their public supervision, between the profits of our railroad system and the rights of the public, between the development of our industries and the promotion of our commerce, uniting the prosperous growth of the United States within its boundaries and its fit position as a world power, looking out on the Atlantic, the Pacific and the Gulf.

"These are new and present problems. They call for the wisdom and justice of a jurist, the efficiency of the administrator, the single-minded desire of the patriot and the open mind of a President who sees the world itself as a whole and knows the international problems of the day. No American possesses all these qualifications by inheritance, by his record and by all he has done as completely as William Howard Taft."

Convention Oddities.

The Chicago editorial correspondent of the Boston Transcript says that some of the memorable things of the Republican convention were:

1. Cannon was the only candidate except Taft who was seconded by a man from out side his own State.

2. Fairbanks was the only candidate to carry the solid vote of his own State; even Taft lost four Ohio votes to Foraker.

3. The break from Huges' delegation was the largest, sixteen in number, while he obtained the smallest support outside his own State of any candidate.

4. Massachusetts cast its entire vote for Taft, thus settling the much mooted question of middle April as to which side had been victorious in the skirmish.

5. New Hampshire was the only New England State which did not vote solid for Taft.

6. Georgia had been reached in the alphabet before any candidate other than Taft obtained a single vote.

7. New Jersey's vote was the most split, it going to four candidates, including La Follette.

8. Forty votes was a pathetic ending of Mr. Fairbanks' long and respectable campaign.

THE LEGEND BEAUTIFUL

Tribute To Mount Saint Mary's.

By FRANCES GILDART RUFFIN.

So beautiful the Valley seemed that morn
Enwreathed in smiles as now when early dawn
Uplifts the shadows from the eastern hills;
So sweetly sang the birds in answering thrills
Of melody. As sweet as now they sing,
Breathing a dreamy music into spring.
The quiet sunshine poured its golden flood
On leaf, on nodding flower, on half-blown bud,
As radiantly as now, when touch of light
Awakes the blossom from its sleep of night.
The time was long ago—but with the years,
The story of that day to listening ears
Full oft was told, until the tale has grown
A legend of our Valley,—all its own.

The morning sun that climbed the mountains' height
Found kneeling on the earth, his bent head white
With passing years, an aged Indian Chief;
The dusky features marked with lines of grief;
For 'neath the spreading oaks each grassy mound
Proclaimed the peace that weary souls had found:
These were his children's graves, and often there
The lonely Ottawa knelt in prayer.

Full many a moon ago the Black Robe came,
And taught his people the dear savior's name.
In forest shades they raised Christ's Sacred Sign
Beside it placed His Virgin Mother's shrine;
Those warriors brave laid tomahawks aside
Thenceforth in peace unbroken to abide.
But clouds began to gather o'er the land,
The priest was driven from his faithful band;
The Chief's tribe was scattered far and wide,
And one by one his sons and daughters died.

Thus musing on the past, its grief and care,
The aged Ottawa's ceaseless prayer
Rose 'mid the stillness to his gracious queen.
The morning swift went by,—the noon unseen,
Till twilight shadows slept among the trees;
The suppliant kneeling there nor hears, nor sees.

How earnestly he pleads: "Sweet Lady fair!
Long have I loved thee! Thou dost seem to share
The sorrows that my breaking heart o'erflow,
The Indian's sighs and tears, the Indian's woe.
Ah! Lady, let my soul's sad yearning cease,
Give me to dwell with thee in heavenly peace.
But ere I greet thee in those realms of light
Unworthy that I am—by thy dear night
One token of thy love vouchsafe,—to see
Thy beauty now, to feast my eyes on thee!"

Was it the echo of his prayer he heard,
Or yet the murmuring dream of some night-
bird?

Low music broke on his enraptured ears,
More tender than the sound of sobs thro' tears;
Then gliding down the moonbeams' silvery light
A peerless Queen arrayed in dazzling white.
A shimmering veil like fountain's purest spray
Fell from her head; a glorious summer day
Hath skies as blue as was each silken fold
Of her rich mantle, caught with clasps of gold.
And when she spoke, her words of comfort fell
Upon him like some mystic, hallowed spell:

"Behold my son, thy Mother comes! Thy prayer
So fervent answered now, soon wilt thou share
The joys of heaven. Yes, from her throne above
The Mother bends to show the child her love.
For sixty years, thou'st been my faithful son,
I bring the recompense thy love hath won.
O'er trackless groves no more shall wild deer
roam,
The forests God will make the white man's home;

Harvests of grain will bend with every breeze
That sweeps its cooling fragrance thro' the trees.
Where stately pine, where now dark cedars loom,
Bright orchards mellowed by the sun shall bloom.

"Where robed in verdure soft yon Valley lies,
A gentle Sisterhood shall there arise;
And Vincent's Daughters, Mother Seton's band
To Charity shall dedicate the land.
Then at each morn, each noon, each eve, the bell
From cross-crowned spire and turret high shall tell
The Angelus: Words woven into sound
So sacredly to thrill the air around.
About my shrine shall youthful maidens raise
With choirs celestial, dulcet hymns of praise,
And with their garlands wrought from flowers
of spring,
More precious offering of pure hearts shall bring.

"Behold those rugged peaks, the Blue Ridge near,
There shall a temple to my name appear;
Then shall Saint Mary's glory flaming forth illumine the East, the West, the South, the North
And as those cohorts vallant, thence depart
Shall youthful legions, Levites true in heart
Fulfill the mighty mandate: 'Going...teach.'
Till through their patient toil the Faith shall reach
Unto the farthest hill and valley, bearing all
The welcome tidings of the Shepherds' call.
The mitred heads of prelates shall proclaim
Their triumphs due to Mount Saint Mary's name.
Thus shall it come to pass ere long, my child;
Thus shall the uncleared groves, the echoing wild
Bloom Eden-like, while loyalty shall yield
Its homage to The Lady of the Field."

Gone was the vision beautiful; there shone
The silvery splendor of the night alone.
Today, the past and present strangely blend;
Today, the memories of a century lend
Their voices in a chorus full and sweet,
As Mount Saint Mary's "hundred years" we greet,
And whilst the golden round we proudly hail
We're minded of the wondrous Indian tale.
Our happy privilege now in joy to gaze
Upon the fullest lustre of her days,
Would that her Founders,—men inspired of God,
Beheld the seed they planted in our sod
Yielding its hundredfold of fruit today!
Not so! such empty wishes but betray
Too weak a faith! Their spirits do not sleep
But o'er the Mountain loving vigil keep;
And ever plead before the Great White Throne
That God will guard the Mountain as His own.

Whose hand in beauty on the Mountain's brow
Hath set the Temple grand that crowns it now,
Where science, art, and eloquence have poured
Their treasures to the world; where to the Lord
So many a heart hath given its best, its all?
Who taught us first, Saint Mary's Mount to call
"Mother of Bishops?" Ah! from sea to sea
Dubois, in full response rings back—"twas he.

Or reminiscence fond will surely find
Another name with laurels rich entwined,
Look now o'er more than fifty years apace
While scenes familiar history may retrace:
You see a priestly form ascend the lone
And weary steep unheeding briar and stone
Beneath his tired feet. He walked with God
As on the mountain's toilsome path he trod,
And in your own great poet's words you say:
"The Angel Guardian of the Mount—BRUTE."

And crowding out from memory's pages fast
Come other names enshrined within the past;
Te Deum must like incense sweet ascend
As with the Priesthood's sacrifice they blend
In praise to God. Thrice favored freedom's land!
When faith in Christ enrolls such fearless band
Of honored laymen as have graced yon halls,
The boast of chivalry: their country calls
Upon them in her pressing needs, and we Oh, Mountain Mother, turn our thoughts to thee!

Thy sons, Saint Mary's, soon shall gather round
And with their deep strong love thy glories sound,
Then shall great men in numbers fitting sing
The Mountain's Centenary, a heaven sent thing;
Weaving their chaplets of immortal praise
To bind thy brow through endless length of days.

Yet at thy feet is cast a little flower
A bloom that lives and dies within an hour;
Be patient with this song: it doth but tell
The wishes that from grateful hearts now swell.
Live on, and flourish in thy purpose just,
A nation's welfare is thy noble trust.
Send forth thy sons whose likeness unto Him
The Christ Divine, no earthly dross can dim;
Men who seek God and Truth, and these beside
No meaner, smaller life-atms dare abide.

Ah, Mount Saint Mary's hundred years all hail!
Accept the greetings of Saint Joseph's Vale.
A century's sun is sinking fast to rest;
But ere its fading gleams die in the west,
Across the golden years our memories run
In thanks and love. Behold the future's sun
A century new, already shining now.
It comes with halo bright to deck her brow.
'Twill consecrate, with us, to Mary's name
The glory of the past, its well-earned fame;
And pledge to Mary all the coming years
With what they hold of gladness or of tears.

Oh, SEAT OF WISDOM, as thou didst reveal
Thy choice of Mount Saint Mary's, set thy seal
Upon her labors, that like threads of gold
The Master's teachings she may e'er unfold.

TAILORED SUITS
The newest Tailored Suits are in and wait your inspection. To say they are beautiful scarcely does them justice, you must feast your eyes to properly appreciate their excellence over previous seasons. The conceits are so varied and charming that few ladies will find it difficult to secure a personal style. Our display is the most comprehensive that we have ever attempted and shows not only the most approved Models, many of which have an individuality not seen elsewhere, but the most desired materials in the wanted colorings of new brown, Copenhagen, blues, fancies and black. All at prices most reasonable.

SEPARATE SKIRTS
will command unusual attention this Spring. The makers have tried themselves and such an array of pretty stylish skirts you have never beheld. Blues, browns and fancies will be good, blacks are especially strong, and Voiles tastefully trimmed with ribbon and taffeta bands will be the vogue. Our range begins at $2.95 and embraces all correct models up to $15.00. Drop in. Our patrons say our Skirts always fit and wear.

The Republican National Convention nominated W. H. Taft, for President, and James S. Sherman, of New York, for Vice President.

Bishop Charles Henry Brent, twice elected to succeed the late Dr. Henry Y. Satterlee as Bishop of Washington, will be in that city in August.

Mr. Taft sent in his resignation as Secretary of War on Friday last to take effect on June 30. He will be succeeded by Luke Wright, of Tennessee, a Democrat.

Bryan has 116 more votes than are necessary to elect him as the Democratic nominee for President. The convention will be held in Denver beginning July 7.

The last State troops employed to suppress the night riders in the tobacco district of Ohio have been ordered home. It cost the State $45,000 to guard the farmers against the outlaws.

Venezuela and the United States have suspended diplomatic relations. The trouble between the two countries has grown out of the strange conduct of President Castro of Venezuela.

Thomas Lawson says that if the Democratic Convention will name on their ticket Johnson, for President and W. J. Bryan, Vice President, he will see to it that there will be added to the general campaign fund $1,000,000.

Secretary Taft has directed the quartermaster of the army to reserve a suitable plot of ground at the Arlington National Cemetery as a site for a monument in special honor of colored soldiers who lost their lives in the Civil War.

President Roosevelt and his family are again domiciled in his Summer residence at Sagamore Hill for the annual Presidential vacation of three months. As during his other vacation periods, however, the President will by no means give over attention to official business.

A dispatch received by a Paris news agency from Rome says that all the French deputies and senators who voted for the separation laws have been excommunicated "latae sententiae" and that the French bishops must refuse them Christian burial unless they repent before they die.

Over 100,000 barrels of oil consumed by fire, three valuable oil refineries destroyed are the results of an electric storm which passed over Western and Northern Pennsylvania on Tuesday and Wednesday. Lightning caused three spectacular fires at Bradford, Warren and Washington, Pa.

The ninth biennial session of the general Federation of Women's Clubs which has been pleasantly anticipated by Bostonians, was opened on Monday. From all directions delegates poured into the city, and every state in the Union is represented in the convention, even the Canal Zone.

Dr. Holland, director of the Carnegie Institute, has been decorated by France with the cross of the Legion of Honor. This was brought about through his presentation to the Natural History Museum of Paris, on behalf of Andrew Carnegie, a cast of the diplotocous, the original of which is in Pittsburgh.

Yale University conferred the honorary degree of LL. D. to J. Pierpont Morgan, a direct descendant of Rev. James Pierpont, the most prominent of the founders of Yale. The degree is awarded with special reference to Morgan's public service to the nation in mitigating the panic of last Fall.

Governor General Smith, of the Philippines, has cabled a report to the Bureau of Insular Affairs regarding the closing of the first session of the Philippine Assembly and declaring that no resolution of any kind was adopted "to send any petition whatever to Congress or to make demand for independence."

Since his nomination for the Presidency Secretary Taft has made several narrow escapes from railroad accidents. On Sunday morning the piston rod broke on the engine that was drawing his train through Ohio but fortunately it fell from and not on the track. On Monday two engines were disabled delaying his arrival at New Haven.

Because of two murders in Sabine county, Texas, committed by negroes, in which the white men were the victims, nine negroes were lynched. Five were hanged to one limb of a tree, another was shot as he ran, two others were caught and shot and thrown in a creek bottom, and the ninth was shot as he stood at the gate of the home of one of the murdered white men.

Twenty-four manila wrapping paper manufacturing companies, twenty-three of which last Friday pleaded guilty to indictments charging that the members of the Manila Paper and Fibre Association were an illegal combination in restraint of trade and in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust act, were each fined $1,000 on Monday by Judge Hough in the United States Circuit Court, New York.

Grover Cleveland, twice president of the United States, died at 8:40 o'clock Wednesday morning at his home, Westland, Princeton, where he had lived since his retirement as the nation's chief executive, almost 12 years ago. Grover Cleveland, was 71 years old March 18 last. He and his wife celebrated the twenty-second anniversary of their wedding on June 2.

The marriage bans of Madame Anna Gould, formerly the Countess de Castellane, and Prince Helie de Sagan, a cousin of Madame Gould's first husband, were on Saturday morning posted on the walls of the offices of the mayors of the sixteenth and seventh arrondissements (wards) of Paris, in accordance with the law that requires the publication of a marriage in the arrondissement of each contracting party.

Sentences were handed down on Monday in the case of the participants in the Jewish massacre of 1905 at Bialystok, Russia, when eleven Christians and seventy-three Jews were killed and twenty-three Christians and eighty-two Jews were wounded. One of the prisoners was sentenced to three years' penal servitude, thirteen others were condemned to from six months to a year's imprisonment, and fifteen were acquitted.

The registered mail pouch which, with $50,000 in money and $100,000 worth of diamonds and jewelry, was stolen from the mail car at Union Station Kansas City the night of June 6, was found by a switching crew in the railroad yards of the Rock Island railroad in Kansas City, Kan. The pouch still held a number of valuable articles of jewelry, but the four envelopes which had contained the $50,000 in currency were empty.

Decision was reserved by Justice Dowling in the Supreme Court of New York on an application by Col. Franklin Bartlett for a modification of the order made at the conclusion of Harry K. Thaw's trial for the murder of Stanford White, committing him to the Matteawan Hospital for the Criminal Insane. District Attorney Jerome opposed the motion. He said Thaw was a dangerous paranoiac and should be kept in a lunatic asylum, and that Matteawan was the proper place for him.

Announcement was made on Wednesday that Miss Helen Taft, daughter of the Republican presidential nominee, has been awarded a scholarship at Bryn Mawr College, having won first honors among the candidates for entrance to the institution at the matriculation examinations. Next to her in honors was Elizabeth Harlan, of Chicago, granddaughter of Justice Harlan, of the Supreme Court, who was also awarded a scholarship. Four scholarships are awarded by the college each year.

The Militia Board, appointed by the Secretary of War, under the recent act of Congress providing for the reorganization of the States and Territories and which was in session several days last week has completed its work. The board has reached the conclusion that the organized militia cannot be fully equipped for field services for $2,000,000, the limit allowed by law in any one year, and the opinion of the members is that that the process of equipment must be carried on for a number of years before it can be completed.

For the first time in history, heroes will be recognized and rewarded by accident insurance companies when the International Association of Accident Underwriters meets in convention in Atlantic City on July 7, 8 and 9 next. Last year the association decided to award annually three gold medals, called the George E. McNeill medal, in honor of the memory of one of the founders of the association to three persons in the United States and Canada who performed during the year deeds of heroism which resulted in the saving of human life.

It was semi-officially declared at the Vatican last week that the date of the next consistory had not been definitely decided. In some authoritative quarters, however, it is believed that it will be held in December, thus closing the year of the papal jubilee. Nothing is known regarding the report that two American and one English cardinals are to be created. The creation of cardinals is entirely in the hands of the Pope, who often acts without asking even the advice of his Secretary of State, Merry Del Val, or any other cardinal. It is improbable that there will be any new American cardinals, although the creation of an English cardinal is thought likely.

FRIDAY, JUNE 26, 1908.

WHEN the scholastic year is over and examinations have proven whether or not the student and teacher have made the best use of their opportunities...

What then but words of praise can be uttered in regard to St. Joseph's College and Academy, that eminent Seminary in our very midst...

During all this time St. Joseph's has done her work modestly, and well; too modestly, it might be said...

St. Joseph's—known in every country on the globe, but best known and most highly appreciated in all parts of this country as a model school...

It would seem that although there are special courses that may be here pursued, most scholars who attend St. Joseph's avail themselves of the advantages offered by that evenly balanced schedule of the curriculum...

Not amidst surroundings like those of the overcrowded city is the student called upon to put forth her best efforts. No demoralizing distractions reach the eye or ear in the "Valley."

St. Joseph's has had a past of which she may be justly proud, and when this old College and Academy rounds out its hundredth cycle...

Not alone the party to which he owed allegiance and to the basic policies of which he was truer than many of those in it (who professing much more did for it so much less than he), but the country at large...

In the early sixties he was serving his country, though in a minor capacity, with energy and zeal. As sheriff he left behind him a record of faithfulness...

When Cleveland was governor, to which position he was elected by the unprecedented majority of 192,000 votes...

That's strange, but we know some men who are so hot-headed that a yellow jacket would have to have cracked ice on his feet in order to stay on his cranium long enough to bite him.

his firm stand for the rights of the nation, and the position he took in regard to the Chicago strike are some of his chief official acts. And those pages of history on which Grover Cleveland is written are and ever will be the brighter for that name.

If the programme of the Republican National Convention was cut and dried before hand, and the formal proceedings were in the nature of a ratification of predetermined and preadopted policies, it cannot be said that telling work was not accomplished at Chicago.

Mr. Taft is a clean candidate with an enviable record. He has admirably filled each position to which he has been appointed, he has gone to the very root of all matters that have come to his attention...

His running mate, Mr. Sherman, though he has not been in the public eye to any great extent, is a hard worker; one who has ably represented the State that has so often honored him with a seat in Congress...

ON June 20th, the Towson News, one of our most esteemed contemporaries, entered upon its fourth volume. In a very modest way it told of the success that had attended the paper ever since it made its bow to the public...

It is a clean, progressive paper, with a high moral tone; well edited, well printed and always full of interesting matter. We congratulate the Editor and the publishers of the News upon the growth of the business under their control...

ONE Oklahoma man is said to be so cold-blooded that the mosquitos that work on him wear overshoes on the job.

That's strange, but we know some men who are so hot-headed that a yellow jacket would have to have cracked ice on his feet in order to stay on his cranium long enough to bite him.

No matter what promises the Chicago platform contains, Senator Aldrich will still be at the old stand in the Senate and probably Speaker Cannon at his in the House.

And if that's the case only such legislation as these two O. K. will pass at the next session.

LUKE WRIGHT is flying a good deal higher than the other Wrights.

Well, that's Wright, all Wright.

The year 1909 will be notable as the centenary of many great men throughout the World.

Also as the centenary of that excellent Catholic Institution, St. Joseph's College and Academy, Emmitsburg.

Discussion of Affairs in General from Leading Journals of The Country.

Forgotten Root.

Secretary Root has been almost entirely snuffed out. Buckingham served Richard III. faithfully up to a certain point. When he reached that point he got what the slang of the street calls "cold feet," and at once Richard called for his head.

Taft Next President.

William H. Taft is the next President of the United States, provided the Democratic National Convention nominates William J. Bryan.

It is an office for which Mr. Taft has conspicuous qualifications. But, best of all, his nomination means the end of Roosevelt and Rooseveltism.

It means the end of personal government, of autocratic regime, of militarism, of jingoism, of rough riderism, of administration by shouting and clamor, tumult and denunciation.

It means the end of the Roosevelt reign of terror and the restoration of the Presidency to its historical dignity under the Constitution.

He Has Never Failed.

(New York Times, Ind.)

Quite aside from his relation to the President, Mr. Taft is the man of the hour because he has high qualifications. In respect to brains and character, which are fundamentals of fitness, he is eminent. The country knows him well, and he knows the country thoroughly.

Where Promoters Always Lost.

(From Brooklyn Eagle.)

A record of the "corners" in grain in the United States, just compiled, indicates that corners are now things of the past, partly because the nation's crops have grown too big for corners to be attempted...

In May, 1867, there was a "corner" in wheat, and on the eighteenth day of that month the price was forced up to $2.85, only to fall back to $2.16 the day the "corner" ended.

During May, 1880, there was a small "corner," but the range was only $1.21 to $1.19. In August, 1881, there was another "corner" and the price was forced to $1.30, and forced up to $1.61, but at the end of the month was $1.19.

was run from below the dollar mark to $1.85. It is not exaggerating to say that that deal netted fully 50 cents per bushel to producers, who took advantage of it, and all had a chance to.

Looking for it in a Balloon.

(From Philadelphia Press.)

For a few days the scene shifts to Denver. That city is a mile up in the air, and so is the Democratic party in striving to discover something to counteract the splendid Chicago platform.

His Game Was Costly.

(From Boston Transcript.)

John Sharp Williams's resignation of the floor leadership of the Democrats of the House will have no other effect, so far as the public is concerned, than to give him more time for the indulgence of his taste and talent for epigrams. As a leader, Mr. Williams has not been a success. He fastened the attention of the country last winter by the filibuster which had no other effect than to prolong the session by a wanton consumption of time.

And Devil A Monk Was He.

(Col. Henry Watterson, in Louisville Courier-Journal.)

Upon a platform of imposture, largely constructed out of timber stolen from Mr. Bryan's backyard, the Republican party has set a man of straw—a very portly and pleasing man of straw—and has said to the voters, "Behold in William Howard Taft the counterfeit presentation of Theodore Roosevelt."

The answer which the voters are likely to make in November may be found in the first chapter of the Horn-Book of Common Sense, which, translated from the original Vulgate into modern English, reads, "The voice is Roosevelt's voice, but the hands are hands of Rockefeller."

Thus, after many centuries, we have the recurrence of a famous passage of Holy Writ made political and brought to date, in the last instance, as in the first, a great fraud and a mess of potage, playing the leading parts.

At length the Republican party has had to disguise itself as a Populist, and to join to the cry of "Stop, thief!" in order to escape the consequences of its own acts.

We mean no disrespect to the Secretary of War. He is a gentleman of noble character, an official of signal service and merit, a citizen of unblemished reputation. He was a typical Republican of the school of Sherman, Garfield and McKinley until he began to temporize with Roosevelt and got the Presidential bee in his bonnet.

The platform on which they have placed Judge Taft contradicts his rulings as a judge on the bench. His party in Congress has falsified his attitude toward our insular dependencies. He is put forward as the star performer of an enterprising and spectacular manager who has succeeded in adapting ragtime music to the serious business of the state and in turning the Government of the country into comic opera.

They promise us tariff reform. They actually promise us tariff reform! Tariff reform! Good Lord—

The devil was sick, the devil a monk would be;

The devil got well—and he said: "Ain't I the slickest?" Tariff reform, the fat fried out of the manufacturers as thick as butter from New York to San Francisco, greasing every doorstep and smearing each cross-road between! Tariff reform! The robber barons putting up the money and bossing the job! Why, that were just like currency reform; with old he-goat, high finance Aldrich, papa-in-law Rockefeller behind him, superintending both the Senate and the House! Where, oh, where are Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves? Where are Satan and his Christian Endeavor Society; Falstaff and his Woman's Christian Temperance Union; Friar Tuck and his Sunday school class; Robin Hood and his bill of rights; in short, where are Cousin Seno Payne and his Ways and Means Committee? and "Uncle Joe" Cannon and his Rules Committee? As well set Richard III to draft a new Decalogue or Munchausen to indite an atrophie to truth, as expect these to amend the Dingley schedules.

La Fayette

Shortly after his arrival in America, LaFayette wrote to his wife in France—"American women are very pretty and have great simplicity of character." Very natural then that these women should have appreciated the beauty of simplicity in silverware. Not strange either, in reviving a time-honored Colonial Pattern distinguished by extreme simplicity, that it should be named after LaFayette, whose own exalted simplicity of character made him desert the luxury of court life in the cause of American freedom. The "LaFayette" has no ornamentation. Severely plain in its surfaces, this pattern realizes the highest art of the craft, resting its charm wholly on beauty of outline. Delightfully old fashioned and typically Colonial. In Sterling only.

Ask for the "LaFayette Book," and in making your selections look for the trade-mark which distinguishes the true "LaFayette."

CURRENT COMMENT

Views of State Editors on Topics of The Times

Justice Miscarries.
(Hagerstown Mail)

To the common people of Pennsylvania it seems strange that the three men who were in charge of the State's interest while it was being robbed by the political contractors who built the state capitol should be acquitted by order of the court before which they were brought, "Strange" is not the word that is applied to this verdict, says the Waynesboro Herald. To the common people who try to live decent, upright lives so that their families and their state, even if they have no particular occasion to point to their career with especial pride, also have not cause to blush for shame at the manner of their living, the men who professed to want to fill positions of responsibility because they were able to, are guilty. Shorn of the chicanery of the law the facts present themselves something after this manner. In a sum paid out by the state aggregating some thirteen millions of dollars, about one-half was taken without any goods being delivered to the state, some are by means of false bills, false measurement and other dishonest means.

Among business men such transactions are fraudulent and thieving and no excuse is made for the head of a department whose duty it is to inspect the goods and O. K. the bills if he shows that he allowed a clerk or some one else to do his work. If he neglects to do his duty it is said that he is guilty at any rate because his neglect was criminal. In the minds of the common people and according to the standards of common honesty Mathews and Snyder are guilty despite the whitewashing verdict of acquittal.

Concerning Huston and Cassell in the filing cases, the jury says that they are not guilty of conspiracy, but the people say that they are guilty of stealing even though their lawyers may be able to clear them from the further charges before the court.

The saddest thing connected with this miscarriage of justice is the fact that these acquittals still further tend to the debauchery of our young men. When they see political contractors making great sums of money by methods that no decent business man would tolerate, they look for punishment to follow and when it does not, they lose respect for the laws of the state and they are led to believe that a premium is set on cunning and trickery.

Good Citizenship.

(Democratic Advocate, Westminster.)
The subject of good citizenship cannot be too often or too seriously considered by the people of this country. Under the fundamental law of our land, as expressed in our written constitution, every citizen of the country is entitled to a voice in the government, and it is his duty to exercise it.

How many men there are in every community who take no interest whatever in public affairs, who seem to think that the government will run itself. This is a very erroneous view of citizenship, and of necessity must work great harm to the republic.

We have a country that is worth caring for and a form of government that is worth preserving and it is the duty of every man, who has a spark of pride in his country, to unlimber himself and get into line with those who are trying patriotically to preserve the purity of our institutions.

A Live Issue

(The Aegis, Bel Air)

Ordinary highways thread a country for the purpose of general travel at a rate of from three to ten miles per hour, and the character of this general travel and the safety of such travelers almost prohibit a faster rate than ten miles. For their mutual benefit these people—the taxpayers—have in recent years agreed that they be heavily taxed for the purpose of making their highways safe, comfortable and profitable. Hardly do they begin to enjoy the benefits of their outlay before a small, self-constituted class comes along and so confiscates these highways that many good citizens do not want improved roads built near them because of objections resulting from automobile travel. One of our leading citizens is now opposing the location of the state highway near his home because of this objection. No one will assert that as a class the 2,000 owners of machines in Maryland are heavy taxpayers, yet with scant courtesy they leave us the remnant of our roads after they have glutted themselves with monopoly. No huger joke occurs during their ride than to see the paralyzing fear they produce in many women and children, regardless of whether the danger be real or fancied, while in the case of a man, why daren't he assert his reasonable rights, their highest ambition is to dash down the middle of the road with such speed that the number of their speeding machines cannot be detected. Neither prejudice nor other than a sense of justice prompts our words. Automobiles have rights which all should respect but which they should not abuse. No travel should be at an excessively high rate of speed except on a specially constructed road, and the road should be put to no other purpose.

Former Governor Brown in a public interview recently advanced the idea that machines exceeding a safe rate of speed should not be allowed to run on highways for general travel and this certainly would be an effective means of checking excessive speed. But their use of the roads in a reasonable way calls for special consideration. Doubt no longer exists as to the fact that they far exceed other methods of travel in destroying the road bed and should therefore bear an extra share of the burden towards its maintenance. As even leading automobilists are willing to submit to a reasonable license fee, which at an average of $50 would amount to $100,000, probably this part of the problem could be readily adjusted when the legislature next convenes, and this money could be dedicated to repairing our state highways, which will be the chief sufferers from their ravages.

There's always a straight way to everything.—Our Mutual Friend.

STATE JOURNAL

Paragraphs of Maryland News for Hasty Reading

The County Commissioners of Carroll county have made the tax levy for county purposes for the current year at the rate of 60 cents on $100 of valuation, divided as follows: Public schools, 20 cents; courts, magistrates' and officers' salaries, 12 cents; almshouse, pensions and insane paupers, 7 cents; large bridges and main roads, 9 cents; general road purposes, 12 cents; miscellaneous purposes, the income from bonds, corporations and mortgages. The total amount levied is about $100,000.

Notice was received last week at the office of the clerk of the Circuit Court for Frederick county that a pardon has been granted by Governor Crothers to Robert Keller, who at the February (1899) term of the local court was convicted of murder in the second degree and sentenced to the Maryland Penitentiary for 18 years.

Hon. William H. Taft, who was nominated at Chicago as the Republican candidate for president of the United States, on Friday last sent his personal regards to the Union Veterans of Maryland, and was unanimously indorsed by the Grand Army Club at a largely attended and enthusiastic meeting held at the club parlors.

John Hohing, one of the four young men who broke out of the Hagerstown Jail last January, was sentenced on Saturday by Justice Hartle to jail for two months on the charge of jailbreaking. Hohing, with a companion, had been arrested on the charge of holding up and robbing O. S. Finrock as he was driving along the Leitersburg turnpike one night in January. Hohing was also tried on the charge of highway robbery, but as Finrock failed to identify Hohing positively the charge was dismissed, and he was then tried for jailbreaking. Hohing was arrested at Cumberland, his former home.

The jury in the $10,000 damage case of John Manuel against the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, which was removed from Allegany county to Garrett county, returned a verdict for the city of Cumberland last April. The case was first sent to Washington county and later to Garrett county.

Howard Monighan, aged 14 years, was engaged in picking cherries at the home of his father, John Monighan, along the trolley line between Pen Mar Park and Rouzerville, when the limb upon which he was standing broke. In attempting to save himself he grabbed hold of two electric wires passing through the tree. The little fellow was shocked into unconsciousness and he fell to the ground. Both hands were badly burned and amputation of several fingers may be necessary.

The first demonstration on the road in honor of Secretary Taft, the Republican Presidential nominee, who was en route home, occurred at Cumberland on last Friday night. Four live elephants belonging to W. W. Power, who had them at a New York show for three years, participated in it. The elephants were secured by a local committee and they were covered with huge white banners, painted "G. O. P." and paraded through the streets to the depot, headed by the South Cumberland Band. The Secretary was in the dining car when the train stopped and he and his party were greatly surprised to find a throng of over 3000 people and the four elephants drawn up to greet him. "Baby Lou," the smallest of the elephants, had a huge bouquet, which she strained to present Mr. Taft with her trunk, but she could not reach him because of the crowd. It was then handed the candidate by Mr. Power.

J. C. Carpenter, a Cornell student, under the colors of the Maryland Athletic Association in the meet held in Baltimore on Saturday, beat the record in the quarter-mile run, doing the distance in 50 4-5 seconds.

A trolley wreck on the Hagerstown and Funkstown line of the Hagerstown Street Railway system on Sunday injured seriously some twenty passengers. Several of those hurt were taken to the hospital.

Com. Peary, who will start for the North Pole next month, will be accompanied as usual by Henson, the negro from the Eastern Shore of Maryland, who has made three journeys into the dark and icy regions with the explorer. Peary is accompanied on his dashes by Henson only, who he claims is faithful to the core and of inestimable value in such work.

Welsh & Brother Company, one of the oldest jewelry concerns, in Baltimore, has gone into the hands of receivers, by consent, on a creditors' petition. It is stated that the embarrassment of the jewelers was due to the existing financial stringency. Frank E. Welsh, Jr., stated that it was more than likely there would be a reorganization of the concern, as he said, the assets are about $80,000 above the liabilities.

ROSENSTEEL—OCHS.

On the morning of June sixteenth at 6.30 o'clock, at Holy Trinity Church, Bloomington Ill., was solemnized the marriage of Miss Katherine Ochs and Mr. Harry Rosensteel. After a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride in Normal, the couple left for an extended trip to Baltimore, Md., and New York City, for a visit with the groom's parents and other relatives.
 The bride's gown was of Paris muslin and lace and her bridesmaid, Miss Jennie Lear, wore pearl gray silk. The groom was attended by Mr. Brennen, of Chicago.
 Mrs. Rosensteel is well and favorably known by the young people about the city and was formerly employed at the Newmarket. Mr. Rosensteel is head clerk at the Hills hotel, where he has gained an enviable reputation as an upright progressive young man. They will make their home with the bride's mother, Mrs. Ochs, 602 Harris avenue, Normal.—Bloomington Pantagraph.

According to the Emmitsburg Chronicle our umpire, Mr. Forrest, (Poster, per the Chronicle) is a "little hazy" on base ball rules. Yes it's this way. REFORMED REUNION AT PEN MAR

Features of Special Interest on Programme.—Park and Entertainment To be Better Than Ever.

The Reformed Church Reunion, on July 16th., will be the first of the church reunions to be held at Pen Mar this year, and will, in all probability, be the greatest ever held there by this church. Mr. Emory L. Coblenz, of Frederick City, is chairman of the programme committee and will conduct the music. The Braddocks Height's Band, will give one of its most excellent concerts, and also accompany the singing—which will be one of the chief features of the exercises. The tunes and words of the hymns will be printed in souvenir form and will be distributed as before.

The "All College Hour" will be more complete than last year, as special effort will be made towards reunions by the committee. The address will be made by the brilliant young orator of Heidelberg Church, York, Pa.—Rev. B. B. Royer.

Increased facilities for reaching Pen Mar have been perfected from all directions, by which arrangements it is hoped to get together one of the largest reunions ever held by this church. In addition to the interest that comes with the meeting of your friends on that day, Pen Mar itself has a number of new features this year.

REFUSED EXTENSION OF TIME

W. F. & G. R. R. May Have Charter Revoked.—Must Use Electric Power in Streets of Frederick.

A news dispatch in the Baltimore Sun dated Frederick, June 22, says—At a special meeting of the Aldermen tonight the Washington, Frederick and Gettysburg Railroad Company was refused an extension of 12 months in which to substitute electricity for steam on their railroad on Fourth street.

The company was given until noon today to comply with the charter given by the city, which calls for electricity for motor power instead of steam, now in use, under penalty of having their charter revoked. Although notified some time ago, the company claimed that they were unable to make the change and asked for an extension of time. Mayor Smith will call another special meeting as soon as Mr. Gambrell returns, when the matter will be definitely settled.

Beautiful June Wedding

A beautiful wedding was solemnized on June 17 at Immaculate Conception Church in Baltimore when Miss Mary E. Hassler, of Baltimore and Mr. James H. Stouter, of Emmitsburg, were united in marriage by the Rev. Father Neck, uncle of the groom. The bride was attired in white French batiste and carried a large bouquet of bride roses; the groom wore black broadcloth. The ushers were Messrs. Joseph Stouter, brother of the groom, of Patterson, N. J., and Peter Kavanau, of Baltimore. The church was crowded with friends of the happy couple. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride. In the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Stouter left for this place where a reception was given them by the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Stouter, and they received many valuable and useful presents. On Wednesday evening they left for Atlantic City where they will spend a week. Mr. and Mrs. Stouter will make their home in Baltimore.

CASE OF BAKER VS. BAKER.

On Wednesday evening Eugene L. Rowe Esq., received the following telegram from Annapolis: "In case of Baker vs. Baker, order reversed, petition dismissed. The appellees pay costs above and below." This is the termination of the case in which the Circuit Court appointed Edward H. Rowe a receiver to collect and receive all rents accrued and to accrue from the real estate in Equity cause No. 8152, the Court of Appeals reversing the order of the lower court, as stated above. Eugene L. Rowe Esq., was the attorney for the appellants and Messrs. Urner and Urner for the appellees.

CHILD'S LIFE COST HER DEARLY

In Saving Her Adopted Daughter Mother is Frightfully Injured by Mower Knives.

Mrs. Charles L. Cline, of Myersville, this county, while rescuing her adopted daughter who was in the path of two runaway horses hitched to a mowing machine, was frightfully injured.

She saved the child, but was dragged through a field for a distance of 150 feet, while the blade of the sickle nearly severed her right leg above the knee, cut a deep gash across her abdomen, slashed her arm and the back of her head.

The mower had been used to cut hay in a field in front of the house, and the horses had been left untied. During the absence of the driver the horses became frightened and started to run in the direction of the barn. From the house Mrs. Cline saw the team going directly in the path of her little daughter. She rushed toward the horses and grabbed for the bridle, but the horses swerved and she missed it. She was knocked down and caught in the sickle bar of the mower.

Partial Eclipse of the Sun.

On Sunday next, June 28, the moon will pass between the earth and the sun, causing an eclipse, which will be visible throughout the entire United States. As seen from this place the eclipse will begin at about half past nine, and end at about 12.53. In this latitude the eclipse will be partial. Not since the eclipse of May 28, 1900, has there been a total solar eclipse the central path of which touched any part of the United States. That eclipse was of deep interest to American astronomers, for the central path passed through the southern part of the United States and was plainly visible to the naked eye in this place. The shadow axis entered the United States at the extreme southern point of Texas, crossed the northern part of the Gulf of Mexico, including in the path of the total eclipse New Orleans, Mobile, Raleigh, and Norfolk. Even President McKinley took enough interest in that eclipse to go to Norfolk for the purpose of observing it.

Thurmont Is Disappointed.

On account of the close dealing of some of the land owners living in and near Thurmont the project for electric lights for that town is about abandoned. Those who owned property through which the right of ways had to be obtained for the transmission of power &c., incident to the installation of the plant, charged so exorbitantly for these privileges that it makes it impossible to consider the plan.

Gettysburg Encampment.

The National Guards of Pennsylvania will go into camp on July 15th. The grounds that they will occupy are on either side of the Emmitsburg road with general division headquarters where the railroad crosses the road. The cavalry and batteries will be located on Confederate avenue to the left of the road, going toward Gettysburg.

Cheek Bone Broken Playing Ball

Mr. Felix Lingg in collision with Raymond Sebald on Sunday last while playing baseball broke his cheek bone. Dr. D. E. Stone was immediately summoned and set the broken bone. The accident happened while Lingg was trying to bring in a run, Sebald was catching for the opposing nine. Sebald was not hurt.

Banner Hay Crop Across the Line.

Pennsylvania will have the largest hay crop in many years. Reports from every county show that farmers have large fields in grass and that there has been a wonderful growth. This is one of the most valuable and profitable crops of that state.

A BARGAIN.

Here is an opportunity to get a suit of clothes at a nominal price. I have about 25 suits in odd sizes, good cut, good material, and finish that were bought at a price. They were originally $7.50 and they are yours at $5.00 a suit while they last. J. D. CALDWELL.

MASSES AT THURMONT

Bishop of Helena, Montana Will Administer Confirmation at St. Anthony's

Mass at Mt. Carmel Church, Thurmont, Sunday, June 28, and Sunday, July 5, at 8 A. M. At St. Anthony's Church, Mount St. Mary's, first Communion of the children will be administered Sunday, June 28, at 7 A. M. In the afternoon at 4 o'clock, Rt. Rev. John P. Carroll, Bishop of Helena, Montana, will administer Confirmation and make an address. This is the Bishop's first visit to the Mountain. He comes East at the invitation of the Cardinal to preach the exercises of the priests' retreat that will take place in Baltimore next week.

COMMENTS ON PHIPPS' GIFT

The noble benefaction of Harry Phipps, notice of which is found in another column, has attracted wide attention. The Hartford (Conn.) Times says editorially:

The gift of $500,000 to Johns Hopkins University by Henry Phipps in order to found a clinic for the study of insanity is a splendid benefaction. It is a distinct addition to the endowments which American millionaires have made in recent years for inquiry into various branches of medical science.

The $500,000 which Mr. Phipps contributed is for the purpose of providing a building and adequate equipment for the great undertaking. Supplementary gifts will provide for the maintenance of the institution and for salaries for a medical and nursing staff. The researches will be conducted on an extensive scale and will be thorough.

Any comprehensive and scientific study of insanity is bound to be useful. Maladies of the mind are playing a large part in twentieth-century civilization and they are imposing a tremendous burden on the public. The number of inmates of the insane hospitals of the United States is upwards of 200,000. The annual cost of the maintenance of the insane in the public hospitals of the country is nearly $21,000,000. The burden is a growing one. Any effective measures that will prevent, arrest or cure insanity will confer on humanity untold benefits. The sort of thorough, sweeping and patient investigation which Mr. Phipps seeks to have conducted into the tremendous problem of the defective class is likely to yield a dividend of social betterment.

The New York Commercial took this occasion to have a fling at Pittsburgh's unsavory reputation. It said—"The gift of Henry Phipps suggests several thoughts. Did the local history of some of Pittsburgh's young sons-of-their-fathers prompt the gift, or was it a study of recent market manipulations and lamb shearing parties? At any rate there should be no lack of subjects for investigation by the professors of insanity."

Statement Of Frederick's Finances.

The annual statement of the municipal government of Frederick has been submitted to the Mayor and Aldermen by City Register M. A. McCaffery and adopted. The report showed that receipts for the year were $108,108.80. Expenditures amounted to $108,108.80. The assets of the city are $108,856, of which $250,000 is for water works, $85,000 for city hall, $50,000 for electric light plant, $83,501.66 sinking fund, $8,000 for water rent, $12,000 taxes and other smaller items. The bonded indebtedness of the city is $579,500.

HOPE FOR NIAGARA

Canada Will Co-Operate in Saving the Falls from Destruction.

The report of the International Waterways Commission to the Canadian Parliament gives good hope that Niagara Falls will be saved. The Americans, under the lead of Congressman Burton, have shown themselves inclined to do their part toward preserving the natural beauty of the falls from further maraging. The argument of the exploiters has been that without Canadian co-operation, nothing effectual can be done; that the falls will be ruined, anyway, and that the dollars drained from the cataract will go into Canadian, instead of American, pockets. The report of the international commission is unanimous, both Americans and Canadians agreeing that the spoiling must be stopped at once. It remains for the Ottawa lawmakers to take measure to co-operate with the American Congress. One of the most dangerous incentives to Canadian enterprise at the falls has been the American market for Canadian power. Even though power plants were prohibited on the American side, American manufacturers could make use of current transmitted from the Canadian powerhouses. A suggestion which has been before the international commission has been the prohibition of the exportation of electric power from Canada to the United States. The dispatches do not state the extent of the international commission's recommendations of this important point, but imply that the finding is that the amount of exported electric current be limited. This would go far to check the activity of the Canadian power grabbers for the time being.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

JULY 4 AND LOCKJAW

Government Warns Against Fatal Disease

ADVICE GIVEN TO PHYSICIANS

Injuries Following Use of Fireworks and Blank Cartridges Are Never Trivial.—Dressing to Be Renewed Daily Until Healed.

Believing that neglect of proper precautions against tetanus in dressing wounds resulting from the celebration of July 4 is responsible for many of the deaths which follow the holiday, Surgeon-General Wyman, of the Marine Hospital, has sent out a general warning in the public health report.

During the last five years there have been 876 cases of tetanus as the result of the annual Fourth of July celebration, of which 721 have died, a mortality of 92 per cent.

"Physicians often treat blank cartridge and other Fourth of July injuries, unless of a serious character as trivial," says the Government warning, "contenting themselves with picking out the plainly seen pieces of wad, powder, etc., and applying a dressing. In a few days the patient returns with symptoms of tetanus and then, when it is too late, antitoxin is given, the wound is thoroughly cleaned out, and perhaps a piece of wad or clothing found in it.

"It should be an invariable procedure that all Fourth of July wounds be laid fully open under local or, preferably, general anesthesia, and all foreign material and necrotic or badly injured tissue removed, as the presence of blood-clots and necrotic tissue favor anaerobic conditions which are essential for the development of the tetanus organism. After the wound has been thoroughly cleaned out it should be swabbed out with strong carbolic acid, followed by a washing with alcohol or peroxide of hydrogen, to prevent further action of the acid.

"After cauterization the wound should be thoroughly washed out with a 1-1,000 or 1-2,000 solution of bichloride of mercury and packed with gauze soaked in a saturated solution of salicylic or boric acid and a large wet dressing of the same solution applied. In no case should the wound be closed, but it should be allowed to heal by granulation. The dressing and packing should be renewed every day."

MAKES SPEECH OF WELCOME

Joshua Motter, Former Marylander, Speaks to Travelling Men's Association at St. Joseph.

To Mr. Joshua Motter, of the firm of Tootle, Wheeler & Motter Mercantile Company, of Saint Joseph, Mo., was given the duty of welcoming to that city the United Commercial Travellers of Missouri. Mr. Motter is well known in this vicinity, having been born in Williamsport, Washington county, and is closely related with the Motters of this place. In the course of his remarks, the speaker said:

When Sir Walter Scott created the characters of Ivanhoe and Quentin Durward, they were the very flowers of chivalry, belted knights, who attracted the attention and commanded the admiration of an intelligent and civilized world. It was left for the United States, the greatest nation on the face of the earth, to have an array of knights greater and grander than fancy ever pictured or the imagination ever conceived. It is true by their side is no glittering weapon of destruction, but, bearing in their hand the sample case, the honorable insignia of commerce, they go forth with energy and no little diplomatic ability to dispose of the product of the American mills.

Upon your manhood, upon your ability upon your valor, upon your honor much depends the position this nation will occupy in the mercantile world. * * * It is an arduous enterprise and will require tact and much convincing power. I know of no class of men so eminently qualified to fill this mission as the gallant knights of the sample case, the American commercial travellers.

Your country demands of you that you guard with the same fidelity and devotion our commercial flag as our brave soldiers and sailors do for our national starry banner.

One On The Preacher.

The preacher was making his annual call. In the midst of the conversation the small son of the family came running in. His clothes were torn and one of his eyes was blackened.

"Bobby," said the preacher, "you've been fighting again. Your clothes are all torn and you have a black eye. Fighting is very wicked. Come here and let me pray for you."

"Aw, g'wan," was the prompt retort; "go home and pray for your own kid. He's got two black eyes."—Harper's Weekly.

human heart, whether its flowers are plucked from the springtime garden of childhood, beneath the sunny bower of youth's golden summer, or amid the dazzling snows of winter's age the deepest, holiest, kindest, best is filial affection.

This is the love which our Blessed Redeemer has taught us to render unto God, for from the "Sermon on the Mount," uttered by His sacred lips, nearly two thousand years ago, we have learned to say: "Our Father who art in Heaven." Alas! that we are so often unmindful of our privilege, and the filial obligations it implies. But even still, to picture His bountiful goodness to us, whose eyes absorb but dimly the profound depths of His perfections, our Saviour portrayed two fathers, that we may the better see Him in them: our parent-father, and our Holy Father the Pope, Christ's true representative on earth. Ah! the parent father loves his little ones; for them he toils all day,—keeps watch by night. His is the affection purified by sacrifice; for in the sweated brow, the roughened hands, the wearied brain, he sees a strengthening of the links that bind him to the hearts of his children; thus disguising the toil, rejoicing, sorrowing, onward through life he goes. Yes, toiling ever for his children, and even when the cloud is on his brow, his thoughts are but of them. Cheered by their love, he yet grieves over the one who has let in the gloom, instead of the sunshine, to cast its shadow upon the hearthstone of the hearth. Beautifully has it been said that: "tears befit the warrior; when his troops desert him; the patriot, when his countrymen rush to their doom;" but, more than all, do "tears befit the father, when his children rebel against his love."

In our Holy Father Pious X, we behold the "Great White Shepherd," feeding his lambs, feeding his sheep, shielding them with loving, paternal solicitude, from the black wolf of error and corruption; encouraging them on to "the way, the truth, the life;" sustaining them with the strength of the frequent reception of the Blessed Sacrament of the Sacred Banquet, awakening life in the souls of his children, and with a father's liberal hand scattering spiritual treasures and blessings throughout all lands, for the nations are his inheritance.

Now as the golden bells of our Holy Father's Sacred Jubilee are resounding throughout the Eternal City, on the banks of the rushing Tiber, their joyful chiming should find answering echoes in each loyal Christian heart. And whilst the whole Catholic world is rejoicing,—from within the hallowed walls of our Valley Home, gracing the eve of her century's smile on her sweet labors, from freedom's bright shore, eagerly do we pledge our allegiance, as we tender our heart's fondest tribute of reverent and devoted filial affection to our Pontiff-Father, Pius X, gloriously reigning; meanwhile, our fervent prayers accord with the attention of the heart of Rome—the heart of the World.

Holy Father, with the greeting

Of thy children far and near, Filial wishes we would offer, All from loving hearts sincere. May the Christ Divine who gave thee For dominion this whole earth, Guard and prosper thy grand purpose, Known to him alone, its worth.

And for endless, endless ages, E'en when time shall be no more, Angels still proclaim thee faithful In thy mission to restore To their Shepherd, Lord and Master, All who wandered from His fold; Be thy triumph, Holy Father, Traced in characters of Gold.

Well we know our youthful homage, Must to thee seem incomplete, Did we call not upon Mary, Name to thee as music sweet, True, the splendor of her presence, Is her Son's reflected light, Tracing ever, ever round her, His own wondrous halo bright.

Hail, to thee, O "Virgin Mother, Mother, daughter of thy Son," Thou wilt plead for gifts and graces, Till our father's crown be won. Peerless Sovereign of our Valley, In our tribute thou hast part, Then commend our filial pleading; To the loving Sacred Heart.

Mid the perils that beset him, Pius X hath turned to thee; Best and tenderest of Mothers, Bless our Father's Jubilee.

Miss Frances Gildart Ruffin's paper displayed the Mountain colors, as with remarkable ease, graceful self-possession and almost fervent enthusiasm she read "The Legend Beautiful," a tribute to Mount Saint Mary's. This poem appears in another column.

The Valedictory—Mother, Home and Heaven—bore the Academy colors, blue and white, and was read very distinctly and with much feeling.

Degrees.

In testimony of having honorably completed the Collegiate Course of St. Joseph's College the Degree of Bachelor of Arts was conferred upon Frances Gildart Ruffin, Class '07, Mobile, Alabama. By a decree of the faculty of St. Joseph's College the Degree of Bachelor of Arts was conferred upon Mary Patrice Meehan, Class '75, Jersey City, New Jersey; Mary Teresa Magee, Class '99, Lancaster, Pennsylvania; Clara Elizabeth Guilfoyle, Brooklyn, New York. Graduating Medal and Diploma, Classical Course, Mary Catherine Euzkauckas, Barnesboro, Pennsylvania; Marie Whitney Hungerford, Marshall Hall, Maryland; Mary Henry Ruffin, Mobile, Alabama; Marie Constance Bentley, Roslyn, Maryland. Modern Language Course, Helen Gray Morgan, Baltimore, Maryland; Helen Mary Stief, Shamokin, Pennsylvania; Mary Margaret Powers, Little Rock, Arkansas.

The graduates, as well as the candidates for degrees, wore caps and gowns for the first time on this occasion.

Special Honors.

Gold medal Christian Doctrine, Frances Gildart Ruffin; The Carroll gold medal, Mary Catherine Euzkauckas; gold medal, Church History, gold medal, English Literature, Marie Whitney Hungerford; gold medal, Composition and Rhetoric, Mary Henry Ruffin, gold medal, Mathematics, Helen Mary Stief; gold medal, Art, Mary Margaret Powers.

The following tribute to Miss Meehan and St. Joseph's College and Academy is taken from a Jersey City paper: Among the degrees conferred June 18 at the ninety-ninth annual commencement of St. Joseph's, Emmitsburg, Maryland, one of the oldest Catholic Colleges for women in the United States, was that of Bachelor of Arts, on a former graduate, Miss Mary Meehan, 392 Ogden Ave., Jersey City Heights. Miss Meehan has been for a number of years a most successful member of the staff of Public School No. 8, Sherman Avenue, of which Miss Jane M. Lewis is the principal, and is well-known in local educational circles. The commencement was presided over by Bishop Curtis and by many distinguished members of the Catholic hierarchy. Miss Meehan was very active in the university extension course in pedagogy which Dean Thomas N. Balliet has been conducting during the past four years for the teachers of Jersey City.

In presenting her name to the faculty of St. Joseph's for the degree they have conferred on her, Miss Meehan's record as a successful educator received the most flattering endorsements from Dean Balliet, Henry N. Snyder, Superintendent of the Jersey City Schools, Dr. Ulmer A. Allen of the State Board of Education, Charles A. Hoyt and Miss Lewis, principals of School No. 8.

Miss Meehan is a member of a family long resident in the Hill section. Her father, the late Patrick J. Meehan, was for more than fifty years editor of the New York Irish American, and for many years a member of the Brooklyn Board of Education. Miss Meehan made the full academic course at St. Joseph's which was founded in 1809 by the famous Mother Elizabeth A. Seton, the first American Sister of Charity. Mother Seton was the Granddaughter of Archbishop Robert Seton, now of Rome but formerly Rector of St. Joseph's, Jersey City. President Roosevelt is a connection by marriage of the Seton family.

St. Joseph's Emmitsburg has always been one of the most popular educational institutions in the country and many socially notable women have gone to school there. Mother Margaret is the present Superior and Sister Francis the Directress. Great preparations are being made for the celebration of its centennial next year.

Miss Meehan is a member of the congregation of the church of St. Paul of the Cross of which her father was one of the founders and up to his death a trustee. The rector Right Rev. Mgr. Stafford was one of the sponsors who cordially endorsed the presentation of her name to the faculty of St. Joseph's for the degree.

When the program had been rendered Bishop Curtis stepped to the platform and was greeted with long and loud applause. After some pleasing and original remarks, relative to the music, His Lordship thanked the youthful performers for the entertainment, congratulated both the graduates, and the recipients of degrees. Then followed a few hints of warning that their pathway in life might not always be strewn with roses; he emphasized to his attentive listeners some wise and solid counsels bidding them when they had anything to say always to be sure that they knew what they were talking about,—always to mean what they say; always to understand what is meant by those who speak to them, etc.

Almost a vein of humor ran through the deep and solemn truths His Lordship advanced, showing that Bishop Curtis has the courage of his convictions, and that he is a fearless champion of the right. All were most favorably impressed by the concluding feature of the Ninety-ninth Commencement.

The following is the program in detail: Strauss—Duo, Radetzky March, first pianoforte—Miss L. O'Brien, second pianoforte—Miss O. Conboy; Salutatory—"Filial Affection"—Miss Helen Morgan, Graduating Class; Schubert—Semi-Chorus—Vocal Class, "Hark! Hark! The Lark," first soprano

Letters To The Editor.

[The Editor would have it understood that he is not responsible for the views expressed in communications addressed to him and published in THE CHRONICLE.]

To the Editor of the Chronicle:

Will you please grant me a little space in your progressive paper in which to enter a reasonable complaint? I do not understand why our town officials allow the public sidewalks to be blocked with dirty, greasy oil barrels and made nearly impassable at times by obstructions such as enormous store boxes. The writer met several ladies going in opposite directions a few nights ago, and in passing, one of the ladies was forced to brush against the barrels referred to, soiling and making unsightly the new and very pretty white dress she wore. The pavement is none too wide at the place in question, it being taken up by other obstructions and when the oil barrels are added to the blockade the passage is far too narrow for pedestrians. I have always looked upon the offender as one of our most public spirited and enterprising men and I feel sure this obstruction was placed there without a thought of the damage it might do.—X. Y. Z.

A young lady from London was visiting, for the first time, a country farm. Seeing a cow looking very savage, she said to the old farmer: "Oh, how savage that cow looks!" Alumnae Meeting at Saint Joseph's.

The train delayed unusually long on Tuesday evening, June sixteenth, to put off passengers at St. Joseph's station. Light hearts were surely among the crowd, as the visitors moved up the avenue for their glad voices mingled in mirthful tones just as in former days at the recreation hour. Already they had caught a glimpse of the Sisters, with the officers of the alumnae, at the front door waiting to welcome them "home again," to spend two whole days with full liberty to roam about the dear old place, visit the well-remembered pleasure haunts, not a nook or corner to be forgotten. With a cordial greeting all were invited to hasten over to the refectory where supper was ready to which all were urged to do justice by the smiling, graceful Sophomores in neat white caps and aprons, each with tray in hand. When the electric light was turned off at nine o'clock, all were in their snug, cosy little beds in Saint Francis de Sales' dormitory with permission to sleep late. Oh! the happy dreams of that favored night and the next.

After breakfast what hurry and bustle to get ready to start in time for the Mountain Commencement. On our return, dinner over, the Art Room persistently offered its many attractions to distract amid our preparations for the banquet at three-thirty. Useless to endeavor to describe our enjoyment, the beautiful, indeed, exquisite decorations, the irresistible pressing of the juvenile waitresses in eager attendance, the well-nigh endless courses prepared by the cooking class, everything so delicious; just as we had always been accustomed to associate the cherished memories of our dear Valley-Home, to which in the long intervals of absence we so often come in spirit to be refreshed, I had almost said rejuvenated, but young and old alike to borrow strength, courage, and cheerfulness, despite "pearly teardrops" that will sometimes intrude to dim life's brightest, sunniest hours. Each found a dainty little souvenir at her place. At half past six the tenth Alumnae meeting was held in the Recreation hall. The members were delightfully entertained by a most acceptable program: Miss H. G. Morgan recited "Lasca;" Miss Oline Denny, "Virginus;" Miss Helen Galvin, Miss A. McConomy, Mrs. Fannie Horton Smith contributed a fine selection of instrumental and vocal music, each one going through her part with the same elegant simplicity that always characterizes the "Saint Joseph's girls."

This meeting was rendered noteworthy by the presence of Mrs. Alice Malone Galvin, of Boston, Mrs. M. E. Henry-Ruffin, of Mobile, and Mrs. Margaret Jarboe Rohrback, of Frederick, each accompanied by her two graduate daughters, amiable and accomplished young ladies of whom the youthful mothers may well be proud. The seven graduates of the class '08 being introduced to the Alumnae meeting, took their places among its members. Then the minutes of the last meeting were read. The resignation of the President's office tendered by Mrs. Kate Thecia Conley was accepted. It had been decided that no election take place this year. The vice-president, Mrs. Nannie O'Brien Seamen, presided at the meeting; upon her the duties of the two-fold office will devolve until the next election.

With a feeling of regret I conclude the letter which I promised some of you to write, as I am painfully conscious how feebly it portrays the keen pleasure that it was the privilege of those who were fortunate enough to be present, to enjoy forever in the retrospect. The most vivid description generally leaves much for the imagination to supplement, and even then the reality is not wholly attained. Ah! we take with us from the Valley a something not tangible, a nameless peace, joy, and consolation, a heritage exhaustless, of which we cannot be deprived, for so hath our Alma Mater dowered all her favored children.

Adieu, adieu, sweet Valley Home. Again must we go forth to roam; With thee we leave as we depart, With our best treasures, half our heart. Sweet Mother Mary, as we go Once more thy blessing fond bestow; That unto others we may bear As token of thy love some share.

The following were in attendance at the Alumnae Reunion: Mrs. Nannie O'Brien Seamen, Baltimore; Miss M. Stella McBride, Emmitsburg; Miss Alice T. McConomy, Lancaster; Mrs. Stella O'Brien Golibart, New York; Mrs. Margaret Jarboe Rohrback, Miss Lauretta Rohrback, Miss Ellen Rohrback, Frederick; Mrs. Bena Sanders Mac Corie, Philadelphia; Mrs. Fanny Hartman George, Baltimore; Miss Charlotte Caddell, New York; Miss Mary Magee, Lancaster; Miss Marie Claggett, Upper Marlboro; Miss Louise Sebald, Emmitsburg; Miss Mary Wolcott, Baltimore; the Misses Lucile and Madeline Robinson, Bel Air; the Misses Sara and Mary Ferguson, Charleston, S. OUR FOREIGN BORN POPULATION

According to S. N. D. North, director of the census, writing for the New York World, in 1883 the total population of the United States was in round numbers 54,000,000.

This total included approximately 8,000,000 immigrants. Nearly 13,000,000 have come to this country since then. But this enormous influx of foreigners has not produced an increase equally great in the total immigrant of foreign-born population.

At the census of 1900, when the total population of this country had increased to 76,000,000, the population of foreign birth was but 10,341,276, or only 2,000,000 greater than it was in 1883, although in the intervening period over 7,000,000 immigrants had arrived. Over 6,000,000 more have come in since 1900, yet it is hardly probable that the present foreign-born population of the United States exceeds 13,000,000 out of a total population of about 86,000,000.

It should be remembered that the flow of the stream of migration is not all inward. There is a return current fluctuating greatly in amount according as the economic conditions that prevail in this country are favorable or unfavorable to the immigrant seeking employment. Until recently this return current has not been statistically measured with exactness.

We need not be surprised that the net increase in our immigrant population comes far short of the total influx of immigrants, especially when we remember that this population is constantly being depleted not alone by the return migration but also by deaths. Thus it comes about that an immigration of 13,500,000 foreigners in a period of twenty-five years has produced an increase of only about 5,000,000 in our total foreign-born population.

It is usual to measure the relative importance of the immigrants in our midst by computing the percentage which they form of our total population. Thus measured their importance has not very greatly increased in the last twenty-five years. Back in 1880 13.3 per cent. of our total population were immigrants, and in 1900 the percentage was hardly larger, being only 13.7.

This percentage, however, does not fairly measure the real importance of the immigrant, for the reason that the foreigners arriving on these shores comprise few infants and young children. In 1900 the foreign-born, while constituting only 13.7 per cent. of the total population, formed 23.2 per cent. of the male population over twenty-one years of age.

In the North Atlantic States they constituted 33.9 per cent., or one-third of this population, while in the cities of Chicago and New York a majority of the males of voting age are immigrants, the percentage being 53.5 for the former city and 54.7 for the latter. These figures are a significant indication of the political influence of the immigrant.

NEWSPAPERS THE BEST.

Every day fresh proof of the surpassing value of newspaper advertising is brought to light. There are other good kinds of advertising, but none that produces such satisfactory results.

There is no getting away from the fact that the newspaper gets in closer and more intimate touch with the public than any other medium.

Why is it, then, that many otherwise shrewd and far-sighted business men allow themselves to be persuaded to spend their money on mediums that bring them only meagre returns?
