Gettysburg was defeated in an interesting game of baseball at Arendtsville last Wednesday by the score of 10-1. The Gettysburg team went to pieces in the sixth inning. The regular monthly meeting of the town council was held last Tuesday evening the 1st inst. After the usual routine of business had been passed, a proposition for a new water supply was heard. No definite action was taken, the subject being referred to the Ordinance Committee for consideration. Next Sunday, Sept. 13th, will be rally day in the Sunday schools in this place. Chester LeRoy, aged 6 months and 7 days, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Fissel, of Greenmount, died Friday morning, of cholera infantum. Interment was made at Mount Joy Cemetery Sunday morning, Rev. Mr. P. T. E. Stockleger officiating. Mr. George Null, of Greenmount, has installed a new engine in his shop at that place. Work on the Emmitsburg and Gettysburg road is being pushed rapidly and is nearing completion. This road is being macadamized, the government having appropriated money for that purpose. A very pretty, though quiet, wedding took place at the home of ex-Senator Wm. A. Martin, Lincoln Avenue, at six o'clock last Wednesday morning, the 2nd inst. when his daughter, Miss Elsie Natalie, was married to Jones Keffer Robb. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. H. H. Sharp, brother-in-law of the bride. The bride is one of Gettysburg's most popular young ladies, while the groom is well known here having graduated from Pennsylvania College in June. After a wedding tour they will make their home in Princeton, N. J., where the groom will attend Princeton Seminary. It was rumored here last week that work had been started on the Mt. Holy-Gettysburg trolley road, but such is not the case; no active work having been done so far. George S. Rhine, a highly respected young man of this place, died at his home on Breckenridge street at 9:30 o'clock Monday morning, of tuberculosis, aged about 32 years. Deceased was raised in this place and was well and favorably known. He was a barber by trade having learned his trade, with B. M. Sefton, but for some years has been working in McSherrystown. The funeral was held on Thursday; Rev. J. A. Clutz, D. D., officiating and the interment was made in evergreen Cemetery. The racing matinee at the old Henning track, West of town, on Monday afternoon, drew a large crowd estimated at about 700 people to that point, who were much pleased with the event. Those who had the affair in charge are to be congratulated on making it the success that it was, and more races are looked-for in the near future. The football season this year promises to be one of the best that Gettysburg has had for many years. Manager Keller E. Rockey has arranged a strong schedule of games. There will be an abundance of good material, and with the old players they should make a fine showing. The schedule follows: Sept. 26—open (at home.) Oct. 3—Lebanon Valley College, at Gettysburg. Oct. 10—Bucknell University, at Lewisburg. Oct. 14—University of Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia. Oct. 24—open (at home.) Oct. 31—Dickinson College, at Gettysburg. Nov. 7—Western Maryland College, at Gettysburg. Nov. 14—open. Nov. 21—Western University of Pennsylvania, at Pittsburgh. Nov. 26—Franklin and Marshall College at Lancaster. Last Friday night a very enjoyable private dance was held at Round Top by the young people of Gettysburg. There were about 20 couples present. The Gettysburg orchestra furnished the music.

A public school for mutes, the first of its kind, has been opened in New York city. Battling Nelson won from Gans in a twenty-one round prize fight at San Francisco on Wednesday. A Negro accused of assault on a white woman was lynched at Damascus, a small town in Georgia, last Saturday. The edict of Governor Fort of New Jersey closing all saloons of Atlantic City was again enforced last Sunday. King Edward of England will not receive the Papal Legate to the Eucharistic Congress, now in session in London. Forest fires the latter part of last, and the early part of this week destroyed valuable property in Minnesota near the city of Duluth. The town of Rawhide in Nevada was destroyed by fire on Friday and Saturday of last week. The property loss amounted to $750,000. The grand manoeuvres of the German army began on Monday at a place on the French frontier. The total number of troops participating is 70,000. United States Senator Knox, Mrs. Knox and Philander C. Knox, Jr., their son, were injured, the latter rather seriously, in an automobile accident in Switzerland. An anti-royalist demonstration in Glasgow, Scotland on Saturday nearly cost the life of Prince Arthur of Connaught, a nephew of the King of England. The police saved him from a mob. Two more banks in the city of Pittsburgh were closed last week. They were the Cosmopolitan National Bank and the Mount Washington Savings and Trust Company, two small concerns. On Saturday Mr. Bryan began his 4,000-mile journey into the South, East and Middle West. This trip will be a twenty-day, speech-making tour, and is the beginning of the Democratic candidate's campaign. The leper Early who is under the care of the authorities at Washington D. C., and who contracted the dread disease while serving his country as a soldier, has been granted a pension of seventy-two dollars a month with $165 back pay. Capt. Arthur Desborough, a member of the British Explosives Commission, who was invited to show the United States Government how to increase the safeguards against loss of life and to prevent disasters in coal mines, arrived from England late last week. The government will shortly establish a wireless telegraph station on the top of the Washington Monument in Washington. It is expected that with this station the messages from ships at any point in the Atlantic Ocean and from nearer points in the Pacific can be received. President Roosevelt, in his final annual message to Congress, probably will recommend an increase in the numerical strength of the army to at least 100,000 men. At present the army is on a footing of 60,000 men, the number provided for in time of peace. The Republican campaign in Ohio was opened at Youngstown on Saturday. Of all the speakers present, including such men as Governor Harris of Ohio, A. I. Vory and Senator Beveridge of Indiana, Governor Hughes of New York received the greatest demonstration of welcome. After a separation of 27 years, Gen. Daniel E. Sickles and his wife are reunited. It is said that General Sickles, weakened by infirmities and slowly sinking under the burden of years, expressed a wish months ago to once again see his wife. A package containing $52,000 entrusted to the Wells-Fargo Express Company at Salem, Ore., addressed to Portland, Ore., is gone. The thieves have covered their tracks so thoroughly that the case is a mystery. The package was marked "valued at ten dollars." Leon Delagrang, president of the Avition Club of France, established a new record abroad for both time and distance flights with his heavier-than-air machine at Issy. He remained in the air twenty-nine minutes and fifty-four seconds and covered a distance of over fifty-miles. Holland has invited the American fleet of warships to visit Java. Reply has been made declining the invitation, owing to the desire to maintain the prearranged itinerary of the fleet and reach the Philippines for target practice and manoeuvres. The government of Holland has addressed a note to Castro, President of Venezuela, asking him to revoke the edict which ruined the trade of Curacao, and admitting that Venezuela had ground for grievances against the Dutch. The demand is framed in courteous and mild language.

It is understood that the Vatican has practically decided upon the appointment of Monsignor Aversa, the present apostolic delegate at Washington, to replace Monsignor Falconio, who is to have some other post without being created a cardinal. It is thought that an attempt was made on President Roosevelt's life last Saturday. Some one fired a shot while he was driving along a lonely road. Whoever it was or what was his motive is a mystery. The news dispatches say the "bullet whizzed over Mr. Roosevelt's head." The geographical commission which has been engaged for several years in making an official map of Mexico, reports to the Government, it is said, the discovery of 7679 towns and villages heretofore officially unknown. These will now be "on the map" for the first time. A meeting of the unemployed held in New York on Monday was broken up by the police. The gathering had too many anarchists among it to be safe and Berkman, the man who tried to murder Mr. Frick of Pittsburgh, several years ago, and a woman were arrested. Emma Goldman was ordered to leave the hall. Former United States Senator Sullivan of Mississippi led a mob which lynched a Negro at Oxford, Miss. In an interview Sullivan said, "I led a mob which lynched Nelse Patton, and I'm proud of it. I directed every movement of the mob and I did everything I could to see that he was lynched." The primaries of the Democratic and Republican parties in the city of New York, held on Tuesday show that Governor Hughes made gains in New York county (Manhattan) and suffered losses in Kings county (Brooklyn). He carried enough districts in New York county to indicate that his strength can be raised to 73 delegates. The first returns to the National Conservation Commission show that the Government is making fine headway with the inventory of natural resources, one of the most extensive tasks ever undertaken in this country. The corps of investigators, statisticians, experts and scientists has been hard at work all summer. At a meeting of half a hundred of the largest taxpayers and hotel men of Atlantic City on Monday night, the excise question was thoroughly gone over and the decision was reached to make a direct appeal to Governor Fort and the Legislature for laws of a less stringent nature governing hotels. It was the consensus of opinion that the entire State is ready for less severe laws. The Government's suit to dissolve the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, under the Sherman anti-trust law, which was begun over a year ago, and the last hearing of which was held in New York early in July, was resumed in the Custom House last week, in that city, before Special Examiner Franklin Ferris. It is expected that the hearings will continue for at least a month, and than will be shifted to Chicago. A sensational incident marked the hearing in court in Washington, D. C., in the fight the Bucks Stove and Range Company is waging to have President Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell and other executive officers of the American Federation of Labor adjudged in contempt for violation of the court's order against the Federation's publication of an "unfair list." Attorney Daventryport assailed Mr. Mitchell's attorney saying, "We will show that Mitchell's affidavit in the connection is a statement wholly false and made with the knowledge that it was false."

THE PULPIT AND PRESS.

No single age has had a monopoly of wrong-doing. There is just as much of it to-day among the high and low as there was a thousand or even two thousand years ago; but, taking into account the enormous increase in the world's population, not a whit more.

What is the situation to-day in the large centres where corruption—political, commercial, and social—is notorious? Is wrong-doing in high places being unrelentlessly fought by a vigorous clergy? Is the clergy doing its part in laying bare the offenses of those who are powerful and influential with the same readiness it evinces toward those of lower state who are guilty of evil doing?

Conditions have changed it is true, but wrong-doing to-day is evil just as it was a hundred decades back. It arises from the same identical sources and it leads to the same identical results.

The clergy to-day have a powerful agency through which to work; more potent than any that existed in the early periods mentioned, an ally that is ready and anxious to spread broadcast the religious and the moral side of all issues and questions advocated by the church.

Imagine the interest that would be aroused by the frequent publication in the daily or the weekly journal of the views of well-known clergymen on specific and provable instances of wickedness in our national life, depravity in our social economy, or corruption in our political methods, and in politics in general.

The pulpit and the press, each working independently of the other, mould public opinion as it is, but how much more fully and effectively could they mould the civic conscience if they worked, day by day, year in and year out, hand in hand.

TO INCREASE FARM VALUES.

If it were demonstrated to the farmer that by sowing a particular crop in accordance with certain directions he would increase the value of that crop just ten per cent. it is quite likely that he would adopt the method prescribed and be glad to profit by the result; for the farmer of the present day is a wide-awake man, very quick to make use of anything and everything whereby he may increase the yield of his land.

Farmers pay a road tax, it is true, and in return for it they have a right to expect that all roads in their county and district shall be kept in good condition. But the fact remains that all roads are not kept in repair, simply because the amount allotted is wholly insufficient to do the work needed.

LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS.

As may be seen by the unusual amount of activity in laying sidewalks, the people of Emmitsburg are demonstrating their belief in concrete. A very short time ago there were but two concrete pavements in the town, and those in front of church properties, while now pavements of this kind may be found in every section of the corporation, much to the improvement of the appearance of the place and greatly to the delight of all pedestrians.

Apart from the increased value added to property by the judicious use of concrete, apart from the decided comfort and satisfaction to be derived from it, these improvements are indicative of the creditable pride which our home people take in their community. It also shows the progressive spirit which is characteristic of them and it indicates that at the present rate of advancement it will be but a short time until any pavement in Emmitsburg other than that made of cement will be a rarity.

THE HAINS TRIAL.

If the Hains brothers adhere to their alleged determination not to plead insanity in the case in which they will soon be tried for a very heinous offense, this flimsy precedent which lately became established in criminal cases will receive quite a set back; but at the same time there will evolve from this action an experiment which, if successful, will prove exceedingly dangerous. Should the emotional insanity plea be ignored by the attorneys for these men, and should these attorneys be able to influence a jury of twelve men to render a verdict justifying one person in killing another in cold blood for certain grievances, real or imagined, all law covering such criminal offenses will be a dead letter, and every man will become his own judge, prosecutor and jury, in so far as his own conduct toward an enemy is concerned.

We have had too much emotionalism of late as a plea in behalf of murderers and also as a means of swaying a jury—too much toleration of the technical in all branches of criminal procedure—and there is no better time than now, just prior to the Hains trial, for public opinion to be voiced in behalf of speedy justice and a doing away with the befogging claptrap that throws a veil over fact and evidence and appeals only to the feelings.

THE provisions of the new ordinance relating to street disturbances in Emmitsburg, and which is published in another column, should not be overlooked by those who heretofore have seemed to derive much pleasure from making night hideous in town. The maximum fine, it will be observed, is ten dollars, to which all costs are added, and as it is the laudable desire of the authorities to put a stop to rowdiness within the corporate limits, few offenders may hope to escape with the minimum penalty which is two dollars and costs.

MARKET REPORTS.

The following market quotations, which are corrected every Thursday morning, are subject to daily changes.

Market reports for Emmitsburg, including prices for wheat, oats, corn, hay, and various livestock.

Country Produce etc. prices for items like butter, eggs, chickens, turkeys, and various meats.

Baltimore, Sept. 9 market reports for wheat, corn, rye, hay, straw, mill feed, and other commodities.

CURRENT COMMENT

Views of State Editors on Topics of The Times

Useless State Officers

In a general way, every citizen knows that the State is maintaining a number of useless offices, and is paying out in salaries and fees a great deal more money each year than is actually needed for the proper management of its affairs.

Vote of The Sixth District

The vote of the Sixth District of Maryland at the last general election as compiled by the Baltimore Sun Almanac is as follows.

Vote of the Sixth District table showing Democratic and Republican votes for Allegany, Garrett, Frederick, Montgomery, and Washington counties.

These figures do not exactly represent the full voting strength of the two great political parties and the Prohibition vote has been on the increase for several years, as well as the Socialist vote, and their vote will not diminish with the vote at the coming election, but will rather be increased.

It is quite probable, says the Cumberland Times, that the vote in this district in November will exceed thirty-five thousand. What proportion of this gain will be Democratic depends very much upon conditions in the two parties. It does not require any very keen perception to discover that the advantage is largely with the Democrats.

Now, how is it with our Republican friends? That disorganization rules supreme within the Republican lines is apparent to the most casual observer. The faction hostile to Col. Pearre nearly, if not quite, equals the followers of that gentleman in numbers. It is as implacable to-day as it ever was.

Under such conditions, with the minority party in thorough harmony and accord, and the opposition torn to pieces by dissension, it will not be difficult to overcome an apparent majority of 2,224. It has been done upon many occasions. It has occurred in this district, and it will be repeated in November, 1908.

CURRENT COMMENT AND VARIOUS OPINIONS

Discussion of Affairs in General from Leading Journals of The Country.

Obedience To Law.

"There is no issue in the political campaign to compare in gravity with the issue of law enforcement in the United States, and the rigid and uncompromising march of justice. The right spirit cannot be thrust upon the people suddenly by force of arms. They must be born and bred to a respect for the law; they must be taught by every known agency in the republic to adopt as a part of their active, every-day working patriotism the high resolve to stand for the law individually and collectively; to oppose all who oppose it; to sustain it even when they do not like it, and to make 'this country a country of the law,' because they are convinced that the republic's bulwark is the law; that society's happiness depends upon it; that 'freedom is its child, peace is its companion, and safety walks in its steps.'

Troublesome Pittsburgh Lunatics.

"Let us teach the criminal to be a good citizen" is the cry in many a quarter. But how can this programme be carried out so long as Pittsburgh lunatics are allowed to convert our county jails into country houses? The letter in which Mr. George McLaughlin describes to the State Commission of Prisons Thaw's quarters and liberties in the Dutchess County jail reveals a condition which cannot fail to teach every offender in the Poughkeepsie institution the lesson which most of all corrupts American civic life—the superiority of wealth to law.

Each succeeding report on insanity in America grows more sinister. To the much debated question whether the number of aberrant minds is increasing, affirmative answer is given by the Bureau of the Census in its recent bulletin about the insane and feeble-minded in hospitals and institutions. The statistics, based upon evidence collected four years ago, 'reveal a remarkable increase in the class of insane to which they relate.' Since 1890 both the number of asylums and that of their inmates have more than doubled; at the beginning of 1904 the 328 institutions for the insane harbored no fewer than 150,151 unfortunates.

The Other Side Of The Case.

When the people cease to put a premium on inefficiency of labor as they have been doing of late years, when the man or boy who steals his employer's time is regarded in the same way as he one who steals his employer's dollars, when the people are willing to pay freight and passenger rates sufficient to enable the roads to build better roadbeds and more double tracks and have better rolling stock, when the silly talk about watered stock is ended and people realize that English roads are capitalized at an average of nearly four times the average in this country, and that the average of English freight rates is nearly four times our average, then we may begin to see better and safer railroads and fewer accidents involving frightful loss of life.

higher rates and a greater safety to life and limb.

The Best Candidates.

"It is far more important to elect the best candidate than it is to elect Democratic or Republican candidates. And for this reason the records of some of the men who are up for re-nomination and re-election will be looked into with unusual scrutiny. For in spite of the many good things the present Congress has done, under the compelling force of public sentiment and President Roosevelt's persistent leadership, there are many men in the House who are no better than the obstructionists in the Senate—men who serve the interests rather than the people. These, and new candidates of similar sympathies, alliances, and obligations, should be repudiated whenever they are opposed by more desirable candidates, no matter to which party they belong."

The Speakership as an Issue.

The Boston Transcript finds a novel feature in the campaign to be the prominence which reform of the House rules has gained in current discussion. It says:

"For the first time in our history, a Speaker of the House (elected by that body itself) is virtually running for his office before the people, hardly less so than the President himself who is to be chosen by an electoral college. No other plank in the Democratic platform is winning so much approval in independent quarters as that which criticizes Mr. Cannon. Vice Presidential Candidate Kern shrewdly sensed public opinion in making it the main topic of his speech of acceptance. Even in New England candidates for the House are already talking of what they would do in case their constituents required a pledge, for or against, the Speaker's re-election. The situation has thus become one of the highly serious aspects of the campaign."

It is that the office of Speaker is second in power and influence only to that of the President himself. He is virtually the authority of life and death over all projects of law, over the details of the national budget, and to considerable extent over the careers of Representatives themselves. Yet under our Constitution this powerful and influential public officer is elected by a majority of the House, and if sufficiently popular in his own district may stand outside the main currents of political thought, an obstruction, and, as many think, a necessary obstruction, to the consummation of legislative and governmental reforms. But there is a growing feeling that such an officer is an anomaly in our political system, and that the House should somewhat reduce his dimensions.

The political instinct of the American people has scented a way to get at the Speaker. Constitutions may provide that the House shall choose its own presiding officer, but constitutions cannot prevent the people from making the Speakership an issue, and virtually compelling Mr. Cannon, as the Transcript says, to go before the electorate on the question of his re-election. It is contrary to every democratic principle that an officer of so much effective power in the government should be irresponsible to the people, and it is hardly to be expected that the Speakership would be overlooked in the democratic movement of the time. We believe it has been proposed by some political innovator that the Speaker should be elected by popular vote; it would seem that the innovation is about to be effected, as far as our constitutional forms permit. This is one of the unexpected developments of a campaign that appears to be proceeding along no fixed lines and conforming with no traditional rules.

Reform of the Law.

Let there be less legislation, and no legislation that is not loyally regardful of and coherent with the fundamental principles of jurisprudence. In perhaps nine cases out of ten where a new law is proposed it is superfluous because there is already an old law, flawless and established, that amply meets the purpose. In some states a fever for legislating, coupled with profound ignorance of the alphabet of legal principles in the legislatures, has cumbered the ground with statutory rubbish and a resulting jungle of decisions, making of jurisprudence 'a climax of absurdities and a wreck of principles.' Since law is in the last analysis, a statement of rights, the consequences to society and individuals of a jurisprudence grown chaotic are easily conceivable. These authoritative voices now raised against the descent to chaos and for a return to and a diligent study of first principles, are earnest and patriotic and bent on public service.
