The crime alleged is that "the syndithe deal through," and that if the charges were true, Theodore Roosevelt, Elihu Root and William H. Clouds and storms made the moonlight days dark, and therefore these ness, but the two Eskimo boys could advance expeditions were only partly successful.

On Feb. 19, 1908, the main expedition started for the pole. Eleven men, ties. driving 103 dogs and moving 11 heavily loaded sleds, left the Greenland shore and pushed westward over the troublesome ice of Smith sound to Cape Sabine.

The gloom of the long winter night was but little relieved by a few hours of daylight, and the temperature was very low.

Another Sleep Before the Start.

With a snow, charged blast in our faces it was quite impossible for us to start, so we withdrew to the snow igloo, entered our bags and slept a few hours longer. At noon the horizon cleared. The wind veered to the souththe night before. They were not to pounds of freight were packed on our sleds, and quickly we slipped around deep grooves in the great poliocrystic floes

The crevasses and pressure lines gave north we soon sank the bold headland which raises the northern point of Heiberg island.

Camp Is Pitched.

After a run of twenty-six miles we pitched camp on a floe berg of unusual height. There were many big hummocks about, to the lee of which were great banks of hardened snow. Away from land it is always more difficult to find snow suitable for cutting building blocks, but here was an abundance conveniently placed. In the course of an hour a comfortable palace of crystal was erected, and into it we crept out of the piercing wind. The first day's march over the circumpolar sea was closed with a good record.

The dogs curled up and went to sleep without a call, as if they knew there would be no food until the morrow. My wild companions covered their faces with their convenient long hair and sank quietly into a comfortable slumber, but for me sleep was quite impossible. Letters must be written. The whole problem of our campaign must be again carefully studied and final plans must be made not only to reach our ultimate destination, but for the returning parties and for the security of the things at Annootok.

Impossible to Foretell Return.

It was difficult at this time to even guess at the probable line of our return to land. Much depended upon conditions encountered in the northward route. Though we had left caches of supplies, with the object of returning along Nansen sound into Cannon flord and over Arthur Land. I entertained grave doubts of our abitity to return this way. If the ice drifted strongly to the east we might not be given the choice of working out our own return. In that event we would be carried perhaps helplessly to Greenland and must seek a return either along the east coast or the west

The ice in Eureka and Nansen sounds proved fairly smooth, and long marches were made. With an abundance of game-musk oxen, bears and hares-we found it quite unnecessary to use the supplies taken from Greenland. Caches of food and ammunition were left along H perg island for the return.

Willing Savage Hands.

Thus we managed to keep in game trails and in excellent fighting trim to the end of known lands. Camping in the chill of the frowning cliffs of the 2 butcher knives (10 inches), 1 saw northernmost coast (Svartevog), we looked out over the heavy ice of the polar seas through eyes which had been hardened to the worst of polar environments.

There was at hand an abundance of su dies, with willing savage hands and a superabundance of brute force in overfed pelts, but for a greater certainty of action over the unknown regions beyond 1 resolved to reduce the force to the smallest numbers consistent with the execution of the problem in hand.

We had traveled nearly 400 miles in twenty-eight days. There remained a line of 520 miles of unknowable trouble to be overcome before our goal could be reached. For this final task we were provided with every conceiv. able device to ease this hard lot; but, in addition to a rduced party, I now tra pairs of kamiks, with fur stockings, definitely resolved to simplify the entire equipment. At Svartevog a big cache was made. In this cache fresh meat, todnu, pemmican and much other food, together with all discarded articles of equipment, were left.

In the northward advance every factor of the dog train had been carefully watched and studied to provide a perfect working force for the final reach over the polar sea. Etukishuk and Ahwelah, two young Eskimos, each twenty years old, had been chosen as best fitted to be my sole companions in the long run of destiny. Twenty-six dogs were picked, and upon two sleds were loaded all our needs for a stay of eighty days.

All For Progress. To have increased this party would not have enabled us to carry supplies for a greater number of days. The sleds might have been loaded more heavily, but this would reduce the important progress of the first days.

With the character of ice which we had before us advance stations were impossible. A large expedition and a heavy equipment seemed imprudent. We must win or lose in a prolonged effort at high pressure, and therefore the dogs were gathered and the sleds

The Camp Equipment.

The camp equipment included the following articles: One blow fire lamp farther west. (Jeuel), 3 aluminium pails, 3 aluminium cups, 3 aluminium teaspoons, 1 tablespoon, 3 tin plates, 6 pocketknives. knife (13 inches), 1 long knife (15 inches), 1 rifle (Sharpe), 1 rifle (Winchester, 22), 110 cartridges, 1 hatchet, 1 Alpine ax, extra line and lashings, 3 personal bags.

The sled equipment was 2 sleds weighing 52 pounds each, 12 foot folding canvas boat, 34 pounds; 1 silk tent, 2 canvas sled covers, 2 sleeping bags (reindeer skin), floor furs, extra wood for sled repairs, screws, nails and rivets.

The instruments were as follows: Three compasses, 1 sextant, 1 artificial horizon (glass), 1 pedometer, 3 pocket chronometers, 1 watch, charts, mapmaking material and instruments, 3 thermometers, 1 aneroid barometer, 1 camera and films, notebooks and pencils.

The personal bags contained four exa woolen shirt, three pairs of sealskin mittens, two pairs of fur mittens, a piece of blanket, a sealskin coat (netsha), a repair kit for mending clothing aged to make fair progress. and dog harness, tra fox tails.

On the march we wore snow goggles, blue fox coats (kapitahs), birdskin I had expected to send the supporting shirts, woolen drawers, bearskin pants, kamiks and hareskin stockings. We fastened a band of fox tails under the knee and about the waist.

Helping the Advance.

On the morning of March 18 preparations were made to divide the party. The advance must be helped over the rough ice of the pack edge, and for this purpose Koolootingwah and Inugito were selected. The other six Eskimos prepared to return. One sled was left with the cache to insure a good vehicle for our return in case the two sleds were badly broken en route. A half gale was blowing into Nansen sound from the northwest, but this day's travel. But this would make the did not Interfere with the starting of abundant game for the return they required little but ammunition to supply their wants.

This drift did not offer a dangerous hardship, for the musk oxen would keep us alive to the west, and to the east it seemed possible to reach Shannon island, where the Baldwin-Ziegler expedition had abandoned a large cache of supplies. It appeared not improbable also that a large land extension might offer a safe return much Francke's Instructions.

Because of this uncertainty Francke was instructed to wait until June 5, 1908, and if we did not return he was told to place Koolootingwah in charge and go home either by the whalers or by the Danish ships to the south.

No relief which he could offer would help us, and to wait for an indefinite time alone would have inflicted a needless hardship. This and many other instructions were prepared for Koolootingwah and Inugito to take back. In the morning the frost in crystals had been swept from the air, but there remained a humid chill which pierced to the bones. The temperature was minus 56 F. A light air came from the west, and the sun burned in a freezing blue.

After a few hours' march the ice changed in character. The extensive thick fields gave place to moderate sized floes. The floes were separated by zones of troublesome crushed ice thrown into high pressure lines, which offered serious barriers, but with the ice ax and Eskimo ingenuity we man-

Return of the Helpers.

On the next day, with increasing difficulties in some troublesome ice, we camped after making only sixteen miles. Here a small snow house was built, and from here, after disposing of n pot of steaming musk ox loins and broth, followed by a double brew of tea, our last helpers returned.

With empty sleds and hungry dogs they hoped to reach land in one long fourth day without food for their dogs, those home going Eskimos. Now our party was reduced to three. and, though the isolation was more oppressive, there were the usual advantages for greater comfort and progress of a small family of workers. The increased number of a big expedition always enlarges the responsibility and difficulties. In the early part of a polar venture this disadvantage is eliminated by the survival of the fittest, but after the last supporting sleds return the men are married to each other and can no longer separate. A disabled or unfitted dog can be fed to his companions, but an injured or weak man cannot be put aside. An exploring venture is only as strong as its weakest member, and increased numbers, like increased links in a chain, reduce efficiency.

The personal idiosyncrasies and inconveniences always shorten the day's march; but, above all, a numerous party quickly divides into cliques, which are always opposed to each other, to the leader and to the best interests of the bags. The shivering legs were the problem in hand. With but two savage companions, to whom this arduous task was but a part of an accustomed life of frost. I hoped to over-heavy floe upon which we rested had several large hummocks, and over to the lee of one of these was found suitable snow for a camp. Lines of snowy vapor were rushing over the pack, and the wind came with a rapidly increasing force.

But the dome was erected before we suffered severely from the blast, and under it we crept out of the coming storms into warm furs.

It blew fiercely that night, but in the morning the storm eased to a steady draft, with a temperature of 59 degrees below. At noon we emerged. The snow grays had been swept from the frigid dome, but to the north there remained a low black line over a pearly cloud which gave us much uneasiness. It was a narrow belt of water sky and indicated open water or very thin ice at no great distance.

The upper surface of Grant Land was a mere line, but a play of land clouds over it fixed the eyes on the last known rocks of solid earth. In this march we felt keenly the mercing cold of the polar sea. The temperature gradually rose to 46 below in the afternoon, but the chill of the shadows increased with the swing of the sun's glitter.

A Life Sapping Wind.

It still blew that light, life sapping draft which sealed the eyes and bleached the nose. We had hoped that this would soften with the midday sun. but instead it came with a sharper edge. Our course was slightly west of north; the wind was slightly north of west. It struck us at a painful angle and brought tears. The moistened lashes quickly froze together in w.nking, and we were forced to halt frequently to unseal the eyes with the warmth of the uncovered hand. In the meantime we found the nose tipped with a white skin, and it also required nursing. The entire face was surrounded with ice.

This experience brought warm language, but there was no redress. If we aimed to succeed the face must be bared to the cut of the elements.

At about 6 o'clock, as the sun crossed the west, we had reached a line of high pressure ridges. Beyond the ice was cut into smaller floes and thrown together into ugly irregularities. An active pack and troubled seas could not be far away, according to our surmises. The water sky widened, but became less sharply defined.

We managed to pick a way among hummocks and pressure lines which seemed impossible from a dista ce

One Degree In Three Days.

By dead reckoning our position was latitude 82 degrees 23 minutes, longi- mountains were separated by valleys ture 95 degrees 14 minutes. A study filled with great depths of snow and of the ice seemed to indicate that we had passed beyond the zone of ice slowly to the sea, where it formed a crushed by the influence of land pressure. Behind were great hummocks type, but its appearance was more like and small ice; ahead was a cheerful that of heavy sea ice; hence the name expanse of larger floes. Using the accumulated vigor of man and beast, we had advanced a degree of latitude in three days. Our destination was about the product of the upbuilding of the ice 460 miles beyond.

But our life had assumed quite another aspect. Previously we permitted ourselves some luxuries. A pound The pearly glitter which raised it darkof coal oil and a good deal of musk ox tallow were burned each day to heat the igloo and to cook abundant food. Extra meals were served when an occasion called for it. and each man ate and drank all he desired. If the stockings or the mittens were wet there was fire enough to dry them out. But all of this must now be changed. There was a short daily allowance of food and fuel-one pound of pemmican per day for the dogs, about the same for the men, with just a taste of other things. Fortunately, we were well stuffed for the race with fresh meat in the lucky run through game lands.

At first no great hardship followed the changed routine. We filled up sufficiently on two cold meals and used superfluous bodily tissue. It was no over the horizon, merging imperceptilonger possible to jump on the sled bly with the lighter purple blue of the for an occasional breathing spell, as upper skies. Stripped For the Race.

We are finally stripped for the race. Man and dog must walk along together through storms and frost for that elusive pivot. Success or failure depended mostly upon our ability to transport nourishment and to keep up the muscular strength for a prolonged period.

As we awoke on the following morn-the upper surface of Grant Land under the influence of optical illusions gave us considerable entertainment.

At every breathing spell the heads turned to the land, and every look gave a new prospect. From belching volcacome many of the natural personal noes to smoking cities of modern busscenes, but a more desolate line of coast could not be imagined.

Low wind swept and ice polished ice. This interior accumulation moved low ice fall, a glacier of the malaspina of the fragments from this glacier, floe berg, which, seen in Lincoln sea and resembling old floes, were supposed to be of the north polar sea.

All Conditions Favorable.

Everything was in our favor in this march. The wind was not strong and struck at an angle, making it possible to guard the nose by pushing a mitten under the hood or by raising the fur clad hand. The snow was hard, and the ice, in fairly large floes separated by pressure lines, offered little trouble. At the end of a forced effort of fourteen hours the register indicated twenty-nine miles.

Too tired to begin the construction ing and peeped out of the eye port the of a house at once, we threw ourselves and in a few hours we saw from an unusual uplift of ice blocks a broad, dark line separating the packs-a tremendous cut several miles wide, which seemed at the time to bar all farther progress. We had a folding canvas boat on the sleds, but in a temperature of 48 degrees below zero no craft could be lowered into water without fatal results. All of the ice about was firmly cemented together, and over it a way was forged to the shore of the great lead.

Camp Beside the Lead.

Camp was made on a secure old field, and over its huge ice cliffs the crack seemed like a long river winding between palisades of blue crystal. A thin sheet of yellow ice had already spread over the mysterious deep, and a profusion of fantastic frost crystals were arranged in bunches resembling flowers. Through this young ice dark vapors rose like steam through a screen of porous fabrics and fell in feathers of dust along the sparkling shores. Etukhishook went east and 1 went west to examine the lead for a safe crossing.

There were several narrow places, while here and there floes had been adrift in the lead and were now fixed by the young ice. Abwelah remained to make our snow house comfortable. In exploring the shore line a partially bridged place was found about a mile from camp, but the young ice was too elastic for a safe track. The temperature, however, fell rapidly with the setting sun, and the wind was just strong enough to sweep off the heated vapors. A better atmospheric condition could not be afforded to quickly thicken the young ice.

The groaning ice and the eagerness to reach the opposite shores kept us awake for a long time. With the ear resting on the frozen sea the vibrations and noises of the moving pack were not unlike those of an earthquake. Breakfast was served early, and soon after we were on the thin ice to test its strength. Though the ice was hardly safe, it did not seem wise to wait longer, for the western skies were darkening with a wind that might destroy the new ice and compel a halt for a long time.

We also have three rooms—one large and two smaller rooms—for the use of persons who wish to meet others and transact business, or where they can take their securities and detach coupons, etc. All of these rooms are easy of access and ready for use at any time, and we will be glad to have them used by the people.

In our splendid vaults we have a large number of safe deposit boxes, in which persons can arrange to place their securities or valuable papers.

We will be pleased to open accounts with individuals, firms or corporations, whether large or small accounts, giving to our smaller accounts the same attention as the larger ones.

We will be glad to show persons through our building at any time during business hours.

It is the aim of THE CHRONICLE to publish as many personal and social items as possible, but it frequently happens that those who have guests visiting them, and those who entertain, fail to send a list of their friends, or an account of these events, to this office. Readers who live at a distance are always interested in what is going on "at home," and for that reason, if for no other, this col-uum should be filled every week. It is of course understood that anonymous contri-butions will not be published. Names of persons furnishing items will be withheld.

Farmers Hoarding Their Wheat.

The farmers in that section of the Cumberland Valley around Hagerstown, are holding this season's wheat crop for higher prices and feeding their old corn o cattle, as the new corn crop is short and will bring a much higher price. Wheat is bringing $1.08 on the local market, and is still advancing, and the farmers believe that the price will go back to $1.25, if not higher, before very long. Corn is commanding $1.20 a barrel on the market there, and it is certain that the price will go higher, owing to the shortage in this season's crop. The price of hay also is high, as the drought during the past summer had a serious effect upon the grass crop. Hay is selling for $3 more a ton at this time than it did last season, and is quoted by Secret of Cholera Deaths.

Professor Emerich, of Munich, claims that he has confirmed by chemical and spectroscopic analysis the accuracy of his theory that the fatal agent in Asiatic cholera is free nitrous acid, the formation of which is rendered possible by the vously. action of bacilli in transforming the nitrates of food into nitrites. This knowledge, he says, makes safe prophylaxis possible. Anybody can now protect himself from fatal consequences, even when actually infected.
