EXERCISES AT YORKTOWN

A BIG DEMONSTRATION Historical Spot Visited By Thousand Patriots

MARYLAND'S REPRESENTATIVE

Col. Tilghman, former Secretary of State, Makes Address.—Correspondence Between Cornwallis and Washington Read.

Yorktown, Virginia, the place where the British army under Lord Cornwallis surrendered to Gen. George Washington, was gay with bunting and throngs of people at the demonstration held there on Tuesday. The colors of United States and France formed part of the decorations and among the distinguished guests were a number of the descendants of signers of the Declaration of Independence.

Maryland was represented by Col. Oswald Tilghman, former secretary of state of this commonwealth. In his address Col. Tilghman said in part:

"Twenty-eight years ago today I had the honor of visiting Yorktown in a representative capacity, having been appointed by Governor Hamilton, of Maryland, one of the two commissioners to represent that State upon the occasion of the celebration of the centennial anniversary of the surrender of Lord Cornwallis. That was indeed a great occasion; the military and naval pageant was a magnificent one.

"I am here today in response to an invitation from the committee in charge of these exercises in a dual capacity both as president of the Society of the Cincinnati of Maryland and as first vice-president of the Yorktown Historical Society. I esteem it a great honor to be assigned so prominent a part in today's proceedings.

"This is truly a historic spot. It is one which every patriotic American citizen should reverence as sacred soil, for around it clusters the most hallowed associations. Here, indeed, is the birthplace of American liberty, for the independence of this, the greatest republic on earth, was never fully assured until the allied forces of France and America, under command of the immortal Washington, compelled the surrender of the British posts of York and Gloster, 123 years today.

"While honoring and eulogizing with pardonable pride the brave deeds of our revolutionary sires, we must not be unmindful of the great debt of gratitude we owe to our French allies, to the army of Rochambeau and to the naval fleets of Count D'Estaing and Count De Grasse. In the darkest days and most trying hours of the American Revolution the battles of Bunker Hill, of Long Island, of Trenton and Germantown at the North, and the battles of Camden, Eutaw Springs, King's Mountains at the South, would have availed us nothing; the blood of the thousands of brave American soldiers who fell in these battles would have been spilled in vain but for the timely arrival of the French fleet in the Chesapeake Bay on the last day of August, 1781.

"May the memories of our brave French allies, both by land and sea, who rendered to our beloved Washington such invaluable service in capturing the army of Lord Cornwallis at posts of York and Gloster ever be held in grateful remembrance by the liberty-loving citizens of these United States and may the friendship now existing between the two greatest republics in the world be as lasting and enduring as the monument here erected to the heroes of Yorktown by a grateful people."

HAGERSTOWN MILKMEN

MAKES DEAL WITH BIG CITIES

Baltimore and Washington Eager for Product.—Very Large Supply Necessary to Meet Demand.

Notwithstanding the fact that Hagerstown milk dealers have been having their troubles with milk inspectors, Baltimore and Washington are both negotiating with Washington county dairy-men to purchase their entire output. The prices held out are 20 cents a gallon for milk and 95 cents a gallon for cream.

If Baltimore and Washington succeeded in their efforts the residents of Hagerstown will suffer as there is already a shortage.

A wreck on the New York Central road Sunday injured ten people and killed one. Several officials, including W. K. Vanderbilt narrowly escaped injury.

A schism is threatening the Christian Science Church.

FAIR GREAT SUCCESS

Frederick Entertained Unusually Large Crowd

SPLENDID WEATHER HELPS OUT Household Department and Art Exhibits Attracted Much Attention.—Live Stock Stalls All Filled.

Nature was good to the managers of the Frederick Fair. The exhibition opened on Tuesday with ideal weather. A little after 10 o'clock on Tuesday morning the president of the Frederick Agricultural Society, Mr. Humm, accompanied by the directors in carriages, headed by the Woodboro band, and followed by a large concourse of men and vehicles, paraded from the City Hotel to the grounds where the show was formally opened.

A large crowd was in attendance on the first day and this grew larger each day following making the fair a great success. The management is to be complimented for their efforts to make the exhibition a clean one. No questionable shows or "skin game" artists were allowed on the grounds and this added greatly to the pleasure of the patrons of the show.

The exhibitions were even better than the high standard previous fairs had led the people to expect. In the household department over 6000 entries were placed. These with the specimens displayed in the art department were especially attractive.

The poultry exhibit contained over 4000 entries. In the horse and cattle departments every stall was occupied. Among the exhibitors might be mentioned A. W. Gaver, M. B. Thayer, George Lease, A. C. McCardell, J. W. Humm, R. S. Hargett, H. B. Witter, G. L. Wachter and C. W. Zimmerman.

Mr. C. Newton Thomas, manager of the machinery exhibit, must be complimented on the excellent display among which were several automobiles. Altogether the Fair was a splendid success.

FREDERICK CHARITY ORGANIZATION SOCIETY

Every Person Should be Interested in Work.—Local Committees to be Immediately Appointed.

Rev. Thomas Freeman Dixon, President of the Charity Organization Society of Frederick, has been appointed representative for this county on the Membership Committee of the State Conference of Charities and Correction. He will immediately appoint a local committee for the purpose of securing a large delegation from this county to attend the meetings of the conference in Baltimore on November 8th, 9th and 10th.

This conference is a meeting to which all of the public-spirited people of the state are invited, for the purpose of discussing publicly, those matters relating to charitable, correctional and public health work which will be before the legislature at its session this winter, and a special effort is being made to secure the attendance of the county commissioners, trustees and superintendents of almshouses, and local health officers from all of the counties, and already the officers of the conference have received word that these officials from several of the counties will be in attendance. Everyone should be interested in this movement.

W. M. R. R. REORGANIZATION AND ITS PROVISIONS

Interest Bearing Obligations Replaced by Common and Preferred Stock, Reducing Fixed Charges.

In the reorganization of the Western Maryland Railroad, the plan of the general lien and convertible bondholders committee provides for reorganization funds through sale of common stock. Interest bearing obligations to the extent of $18,000,000 will be replaced by common and preferred stock, thus reducing fixed charges for interest by, say, $730,000.

This will leave the road in a position, when necessary, to secure additional funds by mortgage, which may be required for the extension of the road to Pittsburgh, pursuant to the Gould plan when that interest obtained control several years ago. The underlying and first mortgage bonds and leased line stock, aggregating $50,951,950 is not affected. The plan is quite technical, and has the merit of providing $8,274,160 additional cash.

Mrs. Gertrude M. Hubbard, widow of Governor G. Hubbard, one of the best-known women of the National Capital, was killed in an automobile accident on Wednesday.

FOR SEVENTEEN YEARS A PASTOR

REV. DR. REINEWALD OF LUTHERAN CHURCH

Large Congregation Present at The Anniversary Last Sunday Morning

NEWLY FRESCOED CHURCH AND BEAUTIFUL FLORAL DECORATIONS

In These Years There Have Been Added To Church Roll 378 Names; 105 Members Have Answered Last Call and 292 Infants Have Been Baptized; 103 Marriages Solemnized and $5,544.78 Represents the Benevolent Collections During Pastorate.

REV. CHARLES REINEWALD, D. D.

Last Sunday was the seventeenth anniversary of the pastorate of Rev. Dr. Reinwald at Elias Evangelical Lutheran Church, Emmitsburg, and a very large congregation was present on that occasion, many remaining after the service to felicitate one another on their good fortune in having had Dr. Reinwald with them for so long a time, and to show him their appreciation of his faithful and kindly ministrations during that period.

White and pink carnations in profusion graced the chancel, the baptismal font was filled with choicest cosmos, while on the stand below the lectern seventeen large white roses, emblematic of the years Dr. Reinwald has spent here, formed a prominent and beautiful feature of the decorative scheme.

Naturally great changes have taken place during these years. Many have been the accessions, numerous have been the baptisms and marriages, and death has called to the great beyond numbers who once sat within the walls of this venerable church.

But figures make a stronger impression than words and the statistics below will give an accurate account of the conditions that have prevailed since Dr. Reinwald came to Emmitsburg in 1892.

Accessions in 17 years
By Confirmation	271
" Certificate	57
" Restoration	25
" Adult Baptisms	25
Total	378
Funerals officiated at:	232
Deaths of Communicant Members	105
Dismissed by Certificate and other losses	187
Infant Baptisms	292
Marriages Solemnized	103
Sermons and Addresses	2,468
Benevolent offerings in seventeen years	$5,544.78
Expended on Repairs and Improvements in 17 years the sum of	$4,116.00

In closing his sermon, the text of which was "He Thanked God," Acts 28: 15, Dr. Reinwald said:

"To-day, I must say as your pastor, minister and friend I thank God for the bright days of the past, for your faith, for every evidence and mark of kindness and loving thought, and for the sweet flowers on this anniversary day. You have ever been thoughtful, generous, patient, appreciative and progressive.

Such memories are sweeter than roses and shall live fresh and unfaded in the soul when these years have vanished amid those changes which are inevitable.

Death has caused a shrinkage in the pension roll of the United States, 48,312 having been dropped last year.

The mission of the minister is to serve and teach in the pulpit and out of it,—to bring by God's help, strength, and gladness from the throne unseen—to bring light into darkness—to give comfort in sorrow, solace in sickness, peace in trouble, and resignation amid reverses.

Need I say, the shadows of eternity are falling upon our labors, even as they are stealthily and silently coming to veil our faces. No exceptions fall beneath the working of this impressive law. Permanent things alone are precious. We thank God for that good which never dies.

May the present and the future be full of blessing and brightness. Enjoy the home and heavenly inheritance by anticipation. This is the prayer of the shepherd of the flock that pastures here:

How large a flock the Shepherd tends
So large that He alone can count,
A multitude that never ends
Which He leads on from vale to mount,
And though the host be numberless
He does not fail one lamb to bless.

Out where the happy pastures grow
And flashing streams their welcome sing,
Where softly falls the Summer snow
After the trees' sweet blossoming,
O'er luscious grass, through dewy meads
There the Good Shepherd gently leads.

Sometimes it seems it would be well
If He could keep His sheep within
The meadows and the flowery dell—
Out of the haunts of war and sin,
They might be safe in such retreat
But how to pass the dangerous street?

For where Christ's flocks are hurrying through
Great traffic fills the noisy days
And sin insults and foes pursue,
But yet He leads them in safe ways
Nor can they wander anywhere
Out of the clasp of His great care.

No noise shuts out the Shepherd's voice
And each one hears it speak his name,
Then comforted he has no choice
But turning back from sin and shame
Follows with swifter feet the call
And trusts the Shepherd's care through all.

To say that Dr. Reinwald is regarded as one of Emmitsburg's best citizens is but imperfectly stating a well-known fact. During his long residence his influence as a man as well as a minister, has been for that which is good, and his example an inspiration to all who would live up to the perfect measure of high-toned, high-minded citizenship. The community as a whole, irrespective of religious affiliation, congratulates itself in having him in its midst; it congratulates the pastor of the Lutheran church on the splendid work he has done, and further expresses the wish that Dr. and Mrs. Reinwald may remain in Emmitsburg for many years to come.

B. F. Barnes, the Postmaster at Washington, D. C. died suddenly of heart disease on Wednesday night.

MEAT TO STAY WAY UP

Packers Discuss the Situation of the Market.

HIGH PRICES FOR FOODSTUFFS

Satisfaction on One Side But No Hope For the Consumer.—Price of Live Stock Abnormally High.

No hope of cheaper meat is held out by the packers according to the report of the executive committee of the American Meat Packers' Association which was presented to the third annual convention of the association at Chicago Monday morning. At the same time a letter from Secretary Wilson was read to the convention thanking the packers for the assistance they had given the Department of Agriculture in the execution of the meat inspection law and declaring that the outside world was satisfied with American meats.

In considering the high cost of meat the executive committee said:

The past fiscal year has been a very unsatisfactory one to the meat packers of the country. The prices of live stock, our raw material, have been abnormally high, and the products have had to be sold at comparatively low figures. The prices of live-stock foodstuffs have been extremely high throughout the year, and this has resulted in a consequently increased cost of production to the feeders and raisers. It naturally follows that where our raw material is high priced that the products must go up in proportion, and we think it is our duty to the public to explain this situation. There seems to be but little prospect at this time of a decrease in the cost of live stock, which we will be compelled to buy, and, if the prices of our raw material continue upon a high plane, it will, therefore, be necessary for us to maintain a proportionate price upon our products.

A dozen scientists of world-wide standing will pass on the merits of the Peary-Cook controversy.

WORD FROM COOK'S ESKIMOS IN FARAWAY GREENLAND

Statement Repeated by Other Natives.—"Fear Peary Like The Devil."—Day Before Discovery.

The Greenland administration's steamer Godthaab, on which Dr. Cook traveled from Upernavik to Egeamind, has returned to Copenhagen. Her master, Capt. Schoubye, says that Knud Rasmussen went to interview the two Eskimos Dr. Cook says accompanied him to the pole. Rasmussen did not see them; he did not succeed in reaching Annotok, because the season was too far advanced. However, he met at North Star bay, north of Cape York some Eskimos who had conversed with Dr. Cook's Eskimos. Their statements agreed with Dr. Cook's. They believe that Cook and his Eskimos reached the pole.

They said that the day before he arrived at the pole Cook, after making observations and calculations, fell on the necks of his companions, and laughed and cried, saying: "To-morrow we shall be there." Capt. Schoubye adds that when the Eskimos at North Star bay saw his ship they were terrified, believing that Peary was on board. They hurriedly hid their provisions and other property. They fear Peary like the devil.

TOBACCO TRUST AND THE FARMERS' COMBINE

War Declared by Tobacco Raisers of Four States.—Night Riders Come In For Condemnation.

A secret meeting of representatives from four States of the Farmers' Educational and Cooperative Union of America was held at Danville, Va., on Tuesday. Plans were formulated to fight what is termed the Tobacco Trust and to regulate the price of tobacco. What this plan is was not made public. Resolutions were adopted opposing night riding and other forms of violence and condemning the public sales on warehouse floors of tobacco, which, the union declares, is like the selling of a dead man's property. Two hundred representatives from Virginia, North Carolina, Kentucky and Tennessee attended the meeting.

The opening session was public, but after a few addresses the union went into executive session.

Joaquin Miller, "Poet of the Sierras," in an address to the prisoners in San Quentin prison held Mr. Roosevelt responsible for much of the crime that has lately been committed.

DR. MCSWEENEY DECEASED

DIED LAST TUESDAY

Forty-Two Years a Priest, 26 Years a Professor.

FUNERAL HELD THIS MORNING

Last of Long Line of Divines of Same Name.—Cardinal Gibbons and Bishop Allen at Requiem Mass.—Laid to Rest on "The Hill."

Dr. Edward F. X. McSweeney, 42 years a priest and for 26 years Professor of Moral Philosophy, History and Canon Law at Mount St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, died at that institution on Tuesday night, the 19th inst., at the age of 68. Dr. McSweeney came to the College in 1883, and for the last 15 years had been director of the Seminary.

Father McSweeney, who was one of the best known educators in the country, was a son of O'Callahan and Honoria McSweeney, natives of Cork, Ireland, where he was born. Father McSweeney had three brothers in the priesthood, one of whom was Right Rev. Mgr. Patrick McSweeney. The deceased was not only the last of them, but was the last of a seventh generation of theologians who bore the name of McSweeney. The original McSweeney was a priest in Ireland during the protectorate of Oliver Cromwell and even he may have had a predecessor of his own family in the priesthood, but since that time and up to the death of Father McSweeney there had always been a priest of that name.

The following appreciation from the editor of The Mountaineer, published at Mt. St. Mary's College, attests the true worth of the departed, gives an insight into his noble character and shows what a loss the Church, the institution he served so long, and the entire community, has sustained by his death.

DR. EDWARD F. X. MCSWEENEY, A. M., S. T. D.

"Dr. McSweeney is dead. "To the Catholic world this simple sentence conveys a message of exceeding sadness. It means that one of its most learned theologians and ablest defenders has passed his his eternal reward. By his death Dr. McSweeney leaves one of those blanks which can never be filled. It was impossible to know him and not to love him, and his friends were numbered by the thousands in every walk of life. The key note of his whole career was simplicity, and in this respect he was almost child-like. For ostentation he cared absolutely nothing, and every honor which the Church in her infinite wisdom sought to bestow upon him was declined in order that he might remain in his simple Mountain home. His piety and sanctity moved all with a feeling of reverence and admiration for this venerable man of God. To him it was that the one burdened with sorrow and trouble went, and no one ever departed from him un-comforted.

"As an advocate of total abstinence, Dr. McSweeney was a mighty factor for good and the number he thereby benefited is countless. "Dr. McSweeney will not be forgotten. His good deeds will live on to testify to the nobleness of his beautiful life. Next only to God, Dr. McSweeney said he loved the Mountain, and this love was tenderly shown in a letter found after his death in which he expressed a wish to be laid to rest in the little cemetery on the hill. "While we are all deeply grieved at the irretrievable loss which the College and community has sustained, it is nevertheless softened by the knowledge (Continued on page 8.)

WRIGHT TAKES CHARGE WHEN MOTOR QUILTS

Aviator Saves Himself and Pupil in Flight at College Park.—Machine Brought Safely to Ground.

Mr. Wilbur Wright's perfect mastery of his aeroplane averted an accident at College Park Tuesday when he and Lieut. Lahm were sailing over the grounds. At an altitude of 20 feet the motor stopped, the army man having charge of the levers. Mr. Wright as soon as he knew of the trouble took charge of the steering and brought the machine safely to earth.

In the last flight of the day, on which Mr. Wright was accompanied by Lieut. Lahm, the machine remained aloft 19 minutes and some seconds, being the longest flight that has been made at College Park.

Gen. George B. Davis, in his annual report to the Secretary of War, attributes drunkenness in the army to the abolishment of the canteen.

(SEVENTH ARTICLE)

ON snowshoes and with spread legs I led the way. The sleds with light loads followed. The surface vibrated as we moved along, but the spiked handle of the ice ax did not easily pass through. For about two miles we walked with an easy tread and considerable anxiety, but we had all been on similar ice before and we knew that with a ready line and careful watchfulness there was no great danger. A cold bath, however, in that temperature, forty degrees below, could have had some serious consequences. In two crossings all our supplies were safely landed on the north shores, and from there the lead had a more picturesque effect.

For a time this huge separation in the pack was a mystery to me. At first sight there seemed to be no good reason for its existence. Peary had found a similar break north of Robeson channel. It seemed likely that what we saw was an extension of the same lead following at a distance the general trend of the northernmost land extension.

This is precisely what one finds on a smaller scale wherever two ice packs come together. Here we have the pack of the central polar sea meeting the land ice. The movement of the land pack is intermittent and usually along the coast. The shallows, grounded ice and projecting points interfere with a steady drift. The movement of the central pack is quite constant and almost in every direction.

The tides, the currents and the winds each give momentum to the floating mass. This lead is the breaking line between the two bodies of ice. It widens as the pack separates, narrows or widens with an easterly or westerly drift, according to the pressure of the central pack. Early in search one seal blowhole was found and an old bear track, but no alga or other small life was detected in the water of the crevices. At the big lead a few algae were gathered, but here the sea was sterile. The signs of seal and bear, however, were encouraging for a possible food supply. In returning for the season would be more advanced, and the life might move northward, thus permitting an extension of the time allowance of our rations.

Though the heat of the sun was barely felt, its rays began to pierce the eye with painful effects. The bright light, being reflected from the spodess surface of the storm driven snows, could not long be endured even by the Eskimos without some protection. The amber colored goggles that we had made at Annotok from the glass of the photographic supplies now proved a priceless discovery. They effectually removed one of the greatest torments to arctic travel.

The darkened or smoky glasses, blue glasses and ordinary automobile goggles had all been tried with indifferent results. They failed for one reason or another, mostly because of an insufficient range of vision or a faulty construction, making it impossible to proceed more than a few minutes without removing the accumulated condensation.

Relief In Amber Glasses.

This trouble was entirely eliminated in our goggles. The amber glass screened out the active rays which injure the eye, but did not interfere with the range of vision. Indeed, the eye, relieved of the snow glare, was better enabled to see distant objects than through fieldglasses. It is frequently most difficult to detect irregularities on cloudy days. The amber glass also dispels this trouble

They had partly uncovered themselves, but by trace and harness they were frozen to hardened masses, so much so that few could rise and stretch, which is a severe torment to dogs after a storm. We freed their traces, beat the cemented snows from their furs with sticks, and their curling tails and pointed noses told of common gratitude.

As we skirished about for a little stretch ourselves the sun rose over the northern blue, flashing the newly driven snows in warm tones. The temperature during the storm rose to 26 below, but now the thermometer sank rapidly below 40. The west was still smoky, and the weather did not seem quite settled. It was too early to start, so we disrobed again, slipped into the bags and sought a quiet slumber.

A few hours later we were rudely awakened by loud explosive noises. Looking about, nothing unusual was detected about the igloo, and a peep through the eye port gave no cause for the disturbance. It was concluded that the ice was cracking from the sudden change of temperature in quite the usual harmless manner, and we turned over to prolong the bag comforts.

Then there came a series of thundering noises, with which the ice quivered. Ahwahlah arose and said that the house was breaking. I turned to rise and sank into a newly formed crevasse, which up to that moment was bridged by snow. A man in a bag is a helpless creature, and with water below and tumbling blocks of snow from above pressing one deeper and deeper the case was far from humorous at a temperature of 48 below.

Still, the boys laughed heartily. Their hands, however, were quickly occupied. Ahwahlah grabbed my bag and rolled me over on snow of doubtful security. They then slipped into furs with electric quickness and tossed the things out on safe ice.

In the extreme cold the water froze in sheets about the bag, and when the ice was beaten off the reindeer skin was, to my pleasure, found quite dry. A few moments more of sleep and we might all have found a resting place in the chilling deep. That experience kept us ever watchful for the dangers of the spreading ice in all calms after storms.

The ice about was much disturbed, and numerous black lines of water opened on every side, from which oozed jets of frosty steam. The great difference between the temperature of the sea and that of the air made a contrast of 76 degrees, and the open spots of ice water appeared to be boiling.

Anxious to move along away from the troubled angle of ice, the usual breakfast was simplified. Melting some snow, we poured down the icy liquid as an eye opener and then began at the half pound boulder of pemmican, but with cold fingers, blue lips and no possible shelter the stuff was unusually hard.

To warm up the sleds were prepared, and under the lash the dogs jumped into harness with a bound. The pemmican, somewhat reduced with the ax, was ground under the molars as we went along. The teeth were thus kept from chattering, and the stomach was fired with durable fuel.

As we advanced the ice improved to some extent, and with a little search a safe crossing was found over all of the new crevices, though a strong westerly wind carried a piercing cold. Good progress was made, but we were not allowed to forget at any time that we were invading the forbidden domains of polar environment.

The Bitter Cold.

In starting before the end of the winter night and camping on the open ice fields in the long northward march we had first accustomed our eyes to a frigid darkness and then to a perpetual glitter with shivers. This proved to be the coldest season of the year. We should have been hardened to all kinds of arctic torment, but man only gains that advantage when the pulse ceases to beat.

Far from land, far from other life, there was nothing to arouse a warming spirit. Along the land there had been calms and gales and an inspiring contrast, even in the dark days and nights, but here the frigid world was felt at its worst. The wind, which came persistently from the west—now strong, now feeble, but always sharp—inflicted a pain to which we never became accustomed.

The kind of torture most felt in this wind and humid air of an arctic pack was a picturesque mask of ice about the face. Every bit of exhaled moisture condensed and froze either to the facial hair or to the line of fox tails about the hood. It made a comical caricature of us.

The frequent turns in this course brought both sides to the wind and arranged a line of icicles from every hair offering a convenient nucleus. These lines of crystal offered a pleasing dash of light and color as we looked at each other, but they did not afford much amusement to the individual exhibiting them. Such hairs as had not been pulled from the lips and the chin were first weighted, and then the wind carried the breath to the long hair with which we protected our heads and left a mass of dangling frost.

An Icy Coating.

Accumulated moisture from the eyes coated the eyelashes and brows. The humidity escaping about the forehead left a crescent of snow above, while that escaping under the chin, combined with falling breath, made a semicircle of ice. The most uncomfortable icicles, however, were those that had formed on the coarse hair within the nostrils. It is to free the face of this kind of decoration that the Eskimos pull the facial hair out by the roots; hence the real poverty of mustaches and beards.

CHAPTER 26.

AN ACT to amend Section one of Article one, title, "Elective Franchise," of the Constitution of this State, and to provide for the submission of said Amendment to the qualified voters of this State for adoption or rejection.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, three-fifths of all the members of each of the two Houses concurring, that the following section be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section one of Article one, title, "Elective Franchise," of the Constitution of this State, and if adopted by the legal and qualified voters thereof, as herein provided, it shall supersede and stand in the place and stead of Section one of said Article one.

Sec. 1. Every male citizen of the United States having the above prescribed qualifications of age and residence shall be entitled to be registered so as to become a qualified voter if he be, first: a person who, on the first day of January in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-nine, or prior thereto, was entitled to vote under the laws of this State, or of any other State of the United States, wherein he then resided; or second: a male descendant of such last mentioned person; or third: a foreign born citizen of the United States naturalized between the first day of January in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-nine and the date of the adoption of this section of this Article; or fourth: a male descendant of such last mentioned person; or fifth: a person who, in the presence of the officers of registration, shall, in his own handwriting, with pen and ink, without any aid, suggestion or memorandum whatsoever, and without any question or direction addressed to him by any of the officers of registration, make application to register correctly stating in such application his name, age, date and place of birth, residence and occupation at the time and for the two years next preceding, the name or names of his employer or employers, if any, at the time and for the two years next preceding, and whether he has previously voted, and if so, the State, county or city and district or precinct in which he voted last, and also the name in full of the President of the United States, of one of the Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States, of the Governor of Maryland, of one of the Judges of the Court of Appeals of Maryland and of the Mayor of Baltimore City, if the applicant resides in Baltimore City, or of one of the County Commissioners of the county in which the applicant resides; and any person who is unable to comply with the foregoing requirements as to making application for registration in his own handwriting, solely because he is physically disabled from so doing; or sixth: a person, or the husband of a person, who at the time of his application for registration, is a bona fide owner of real or personal property in an amount of not less than five hundred dollars, as assessed thereon on the tax-books of the City of Baltimore or of one of the counties of this State, has been such owner and so assessed for two years next preceding his application for registration; shall have paid and shall produce receipts for the taxes on said property for said two years and shall at the time of his application make affidavit before the officers of registration that he is, or that he is the husband of the person who is the bona fide owner of the property so assessed to him or to her, as the case may be, and that he or she has been such owner for two years next preceding his application.

No person not qualified under some one of the above clauses shall be entitled to be registered as a qualified voter or be entitled to vote. Every written application to be registered, presented to the officers of registration by any person applying to be registered under the above fifth clause, shall be carefully preserved by said officers of registration and shall be produced in any Court, if required, as hereinafter provided. The affidavit of any applicant for registration, duly made to the officers of registration or Court, that he, the applicant, is a person who was entitled to vote on or before the first day of January in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-nine, as aforesaid, or that he has become a naturalized citizen of the United States between the first day of January in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-nine and the date of the adoption of this section of this Article, as aforesaid, or his affidavit upon information and belief that he is a descendant of a person who was entitled to vote on or before the first day of January in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-nine, or that he is a descendant of a person who has become a naturalized citizen of the United States between the first day of January in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-nine and the date of the adoption of this section of this Article, shall be prima facie evidence of any of said facts so sworn to.

A willfully false statement upon the part of any applicant for registration in relation to any of the matters aforesaid shall be perjury, and punishable as perjury is punished by the laws of this State.

Any person who feels aggrieved by the action of any board of officers of registration in refusing to register him as a qualified voter, or in registering any disqualified person, may at any time, either before or after the last session of the board of officers of registration, but not later than the Tuesday next preceding the election, file a petition, verified by affidavit, in the Circuit Court for the county in which the cause of complaint arises, or, if the cause of complaint arises in Baltimore City, in any court of common law jurisdiction in said city, setting forth the grounds of his application and asking for the action of the board of officers of registration corrected. The court shall forthwith set the petition for hearing and direct summons to be issued requiring the board of officers of registration complained against in said petition to attend at the hearing in person or by counsel, and where the object of the petition is to strike off the name of any person, summons shall also be issued for such person, which shall be served by the sheriff within the time therein designated; and said several courts shall have full jurisdiction tion and power to review the action of any board of officers of registration and to grant or withhold, as it may deem lawful and proper, relief prayed for in the premises.

In determining whether any person who applied to be registered under the above fifth clause of this section was or was not entitled to be registered under said fifth clause, the court shall require the board of officers of registration complained against to produce the written application prepared and submitted by such person at the time he presented himself for registration to said board of officers of registration, and upon said written application the court shall determine whether or not said person; when he presented himself for registration, complied with the requirements of said fifth clause; and if the court shall determine the said written application, so prepared and submitted by said person, complied with the requirements of said fifth clause, and that said person was not disqualified under any other provisions of this Article of the Constitution to be registered upon the books of registry in question, then the Court shall order said person to be registered as a qualified voter, but if the court shall determine that said written application of said person failed to comply with the requirements of said fifth clause, or the said person was in any other respect under this Article of the Constitution disqualified to be registered upon the books of registry in question then the court shall order that said person shall not be registered upon said books of registry.

The court may enforce any order by attachment for contempt in said cases; neither party shall have any right of removal; exception may be taken to any ruling of the court at the hearing of said cases and an appeal shall be allowed to the Court of Appeals as in other cases; all such appeals shall be taken within five days from the date of the decision complained of and shall be heard and decided by the Court of Appeals upon the original papers, and otherwise, as the Court of Appeals may by rule prescribe, as soon as may be practicable.

The General Assembly shall have power to provide more fully by legislation not inconsistent with this section of this Article, for the hearing and determination of all such cases.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the act to be hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of this State shall be at the next General Election for members of the General Assembly to be held in this State submitted to the legal and qualified voters thereof for their adoption or rejection, in pursuance of the directions contained in Article XIV of the Constitution of this State, and at said general election the vote on the said proposed amendment shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words "For the Constitutional Amendment" and "Against the Constitutional Amendment" as now prescribed by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against said proposed amendment, as directed by the said Article XIV of the Constitution.

Approved February 25, 1908.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, AUSTIN L. CROTHERS, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF MARYLAND, in pursuance of the provisions of Section 1, of Article 14 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, do hereby order and direct that a copy of said Act proposing an amendment to section 1 of Article 1 of the Constitution of said State, be published in at least two newspapers in each of the counties of the State and in three newspapers in the City of Baltimore, one of which shall be published in the German language, once a week for at least three months preceding the next General Election, which election will be held on November 2nd, 1909, at which election the said proposed amendment shall be submitted, in the form and manner prescribed by the General Assembly, to the legal and qualified voters of the State, for their adoption or rejection.

A BAD PRESSURE ANGLE.

the season when the pack is little crevassed and not elastic it is probably wide; later, as the entire sea of ice becomes active, it may disappear or shift to a line nearer the land.

New Ice Stops Drift. In low temperature new ice forms rapidly, and this offers an obstruction to the drift of the old ice. As the heavy central ice is pressed against the unyielding land pack the small ice is ground up, and even heavy floes are crushed. This reduced mass of small ice is pasted and cemented along the shores of the big lead, leaving a broad band of troublesome surface as a serious barrier to sled travel. It seems quite likely that this lead, or a condition similar to it, extends entirely around the polar sea as a buffer between the land and the middle pack.

With the big lead and its many possibilities for troublesome delay behind, a course was set to reach the eighty-fifth parallel on the ninety-seventh meridian. What little movement was noted on the ice had been easterly, and to allow for this drift we aimed to keep a line slightly west of the pole.

The wind was not a troublesome factor as we forged along for the first day over this central pack. After a run of eleven hours the pedometer registered twenty-three miles, but we had taken a zigzag course and therefore only placed seventeen miles to our credit. The night was beautiful. The sun sank into a purple haze, and soon there appeared three suns in prismatic colors, and these soon settled into the frozen sea. During the night a narrow band of orange brightened the northern skies, while the pack surface glowed in magnificent shades of violet and lilac and pale purple blue.

Land Clouds Still Visible. Satisfactory observations at noon on March 24 gave our position as latitude 83 degrees 31 minutes, longitude 96 degrees 27 minutes. The land clouds of Grant Land were still visible, and a low bank of mist in the west occasionally brightened, offering an outline suggestive of land. This we believed to be Crocker Land, but mist persistently screened the horizon and did not offer an opportunity to study the contour.

Until midday the time was used for observations and a study of the land conditions. The dogs sniffed the air as if scenting game, but after a diligent perfectly, enabling the eye to search carefully every nook and crevice through the vague incandescence which blinds the observer in hazy weather. The amber glass therefore reduces not the quantity of light, as do smoky glasses, but the quality. We were not only relieved of the pain and fatigue of snow glare, but the amber color gave a touch of cheer and warmth to our chilled horizon of blues.

So thoroughly were we in love with these goggles that later they were worn while asleep, with the double object of screening the strong light which passes through the eyelids and also to keep the forehead warm.

On this march in the early part of the afternoon the weather proved good and the ice, though newly crevassed, improved as we advanced. The late start spread our day's work close to the chill of midnight, and before we were quite ready to camp there were signs of another gale from the west. Little sooty clouds with ragged edges scurried along at an alarming pace, and beyond a huge smoky bank blackened the pearly glitter.

Suitable camping ice was sought, and in the course of an hour an igloo was built. The structure was built stronger than usual. Double tiers of snow blocks were placed to the windward and a little water was thrown over the top to cement the blocks. The dogs were fastened to the lee of hummocks, and the sleds were securely lashed and fastened to the ice.

We expected a hurricane and had not long to wait to taste of its bitters. Before we were at rest in our bags the wind brushed the snows with a force inconceivable. The air thickened with rushing drift. In a few moments the dogs and sleds were buried under banks of snow and great drifts encircled the igloo. The cemented blocks of our dome withstood the sweep of the blast very well, but many small holes were burrowed through the snow wall, permitting some drift to enter.

Early in the morning, after a rush of but a few hours, the storm ceased as suddenly as it came and left a stillness which was appalling. The dogs soon began to howl desperately, as if attacked by a bear, and we rushed out, seeking guns, but there was no approaching creature.

It was a combined signal of distress. The storm driven snows had buried and bound them in unyielding frost.

GETTYSBURG LETTER

The citizens of Gettysburg were awakened about 3.50 o'clock last Thursday morning by an alarm of fire. The blaze was found to be in the rear of Carlisle street, where the barn, slaughter house, ice house, hog pen, and chicken house belonging to Mrs. Morgan Mickley, were burning.

The fire was discovered by some one at the residence of S. E. Waltman, next door to the Mickley home, and an alarm sounded, but not before the fire had assumed such proportions that it was impossible to save but little of the contents of the buildings. A surrey and buggy were gotten out, but three valuable horses, belonging to Mr. Mickley, J. B. Wineman and Vincent Eckenrode, who conducted a butchering business at the Mickley stand, lost his wagon and a beef that was in the storage house. All of the butchers tools and machinery were a total loss.

The fire company was on the scene in a short time and did good work in saving adjacent buildings. The delivery wagon of the Standard Oil Company, which was in a nearby stable was pulled out of reach of the flames.

The small stable on the property of Dr. C. Wm. Beals, on the West side of the alley, was entirely consumed.

John W. Brehm, who lives in the immediate vicinity, and whose automobile was in a stable nearby, succeeded in getting his machine to a place of safety, although not having time to don either socks or shoes.

John D. Lippy fell while helping to haul the engine, but was saved from being run over by the quick action of those at the pole swerving to one side, only missing him by a few inches.

Another early morning blaze occurred about 4.40 Sunday, when the stable in the rear of the property owned by J. A. Taney, West Middle street was burned down. Night Officer O'Reilly gave the alarm, and at this, as at the previous fire, the firemen responded promptly and did good work. A number of chickens were found to be missing, but when the fire was discovered a door opening to the alley was found standing open, which gives credence to the supposition that this fire, as the other, must have been of incendiary origin. A stable on the lot of Mrs. Jacob Gilbert, adjoining the Taney stable, was saved, though being on fire numerous times.

F. B. Deardorff, who had the Taney stable leased, lost over ten tons of hay. The College football team defeated Lebanon Valley in a well played game on Nixon Field Saturday, by the score of 24-0.

Friday was observed as "Field Day" by the Masonic Order of this district. Commanderies in Knight Templar uniform from York and Chambersburg joined with the local lodge in celebrating the event. A parade, headed by the Citizens Band, took place at 10.30 A. M. A dance was held at Round Top in the afternoon and a luncheon given in the evening.

W. E. Deardorff, of Butler township, and Miss Lettie A. Fidler, of Straban township, were married in the lodge at the National Cemetery one day last week. Rev. S. A. Diehl, formerly of Bendersville, performed the ceremony. County Superintendent Roth has about completed arrangements for the Teachers' Institute, which will be held in Xavier Hall, the week beginning November 29. It will continue until Friday noon, with four evening entertainments instead of five as in former years.

Calvin P. Krise, a well-known citizen of this place, died at his home on Carlisle street last Thursday, from kidney trouble, aged 77 years.

Mr. Krise was well known in this vicinity, having spent all his life, with the exception of a few years, in Adams county. He farmed for some years, but retired about twenty-five years ago, since which time he has lived in Gettysburg. He is survived by two sisters, Misses Henrietta and Julia, and one brother, Jefferson, of Frederick.

John Edward Reiling, a well-known citizen of Gettysburg, was found in a dying condition at the Rockville bridge across the Susquehanna river at Harrisburg, about 3 o'clock last Friday morning and died from wounds in the head a half hour later at the Harrisburg Hospital without regaining consciousness.

Mr. Reiling had gone to the Hagerstown Fair on Thursday, where he was last seen by acquaintances in the afternoon. From Hagerstown it is supposed that he went to Harrisburg to visit the officers of the International Harvesting Machine Company, by whom he was formerly employed. Just how his body came to be along the railroad tracks is a mystery which probably will never be solved. He was found by a track walker, but being unconscious could not give an account of himself. He was known to have had considerable money on his person at Hagerstown, but when found only ten cents were found in his clothes, giving the case the aspect of foul play.

His brother-in-law, George H. Taylor, and undertaker Bender, both of this place, went to Harrisburg and identified the body, there being only a membership card of the Fraternal Order of Eagles on his person by which his identity could be known. The Eagle Lodge of Harrisburg took the body in charge until claimed.

Mr. Reiling was raised in Cumberland township and was well known over the county, having dealt in agricultural implements and machinery for some years. Lately he conducted a butchering business on Chambersburg street.

The body was brought here on Friday evening and the funeral held Sunday afternoon, Rev. Dr. Clutz, officiating. The Royal Arcanum, Battlefield Council No. 717, Order of Independent Americans, and Gettysburg Aerie of Eagles, of which organizations he was a member, attended the funeral. Interment was made in Evergreen cemetery.

He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Lillian Williams, and two sisters, Mrs. John Snyder, of Fairfield, and Mrs. Samuel Lott, of Freedom township.

Rural Carrier Hutchinson is the first to carry mail by auto, he having purchased a Pratt motor buggy which he is using on Route 5.

Clarence E. Ohler has sold his restaurant, under the First National Bank building to George Culp. Mr. Ohler intends going into the grocery and produce business in York.

Miss Mabel McKinley and company appeared in the Walter Theater Tuesday evening. The entertainment was exceptionally fine and the theater crowded.

POLITENESS PAYS.

In business, in politics, in social intercourse, in the home, in the street—in fact everywhere and on all occasions politeness pays. It is one of the most valuable assets a boy or girl or woman or man can possess and the person who does not practice it is perpetually handicapped. To say that it pays, however, is putting it on a very sordid plane; for if there is one quality that should emanate, or rather radiate from a person it is this. It should be inherent and consequently spontaneous; but if it is not, it should be cultivated if for no other reason than to rub off the rough edges of intercourse. We know how much this means socially and we know what the lack of it entails in the ordinary transaction of business.

There are a great many definitions of politeness, but after analyzing them all the "Golden Rule" best expresses its true meaning, and certainly no one can find a better explanation and no one can deny that life is made the easier by following it.

We used to hear a great deal about "rugged honesty," and about certain men being blunt and frank and outspoken. Every day we come in contact with people who pride themselves on "saying just what they mean." But when it is all said and done these expressions are only designed to cover up a lack of tact and politeness. A man can be honest without being "rugged" which has come to mean brusque, and a person can express an opinion just as forcefully in a polite manner as he can in a blunt, rude way.

Tact, which has been called the "diplomacy of kindness," is very closely allied to politeness, and taken together these two qualities simply mean courteous consideration and a smoothing of the rough side of situations as they present themselves from time to time.

In the realm of clean, high-toned business as it is done today—quickly, smoothly and with consideration—politeness plays an important part, and it will be found that in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred those occupying the most important and responsible positions in the mercantile world and in the realm of government possess these two qualities—tact and courtesy—in a very great degree. It is in fact owing to this very possession, plus qualification, that they are where they are.

Politeness may not be inherent—it may come hard to some—but it can be cultivated and practised to such an extent that eventually it will become second nature. And all the effort, all the self-repression, all the self-control exercised towards this end will be action well expended if the result be finally obtained.

SIZING THINGS UP.

UNDER this heading the Dallas News says:

It may not harmonize with professional ethics to size up a man's pile and take it, but most of the professions base their demands largely upon the size of the fortune of the patient, client, patron, or taxpayer.

Now when you come right down to it, what does really constitute so-called professional ethics if not this very sizing up of a man's pile and getting as big a slice of it as possible? Some of the professions have a queer way of doing things, anyhow. Take the surgeon, for instance. Instead of having one price for a certain operation and naming it to all who want that operation performed, he charges one man one price, and another man another price—always making up on the second man for the undercharge on the first. This is nothing more nor less than making someone else pay for what he calls his charity. The merchant does not proceed in this manner. When a poor person comes to him for a barrel of flour, we will say, and he reduces the price to suit the circumstances of the customer, the transaction is finished. He simply gives away outright a certain amount; he does not charge the next customer, whom he may know to be better off, the regular price with the addition of the amount given to the less fortunate person. That customer would not tolerate it for an instant; nor would the surgeon.

That sounds very pretty—the excuses they make about how much time, study and money it takes to become proficient in their profession. How about the business man and the number of years he has to apply himself, the experience he has to acquire, and the amount of capital he must invest and keep invested? Don't these count for anything?

If an operation costs five hundred dollars, and a sufferer who needs to have it performed is unable to pay this much, let the surgeon charge two hundred, or one hundred, or fifty dollars, or even nothing—no surgeon is compelled to perform an operation if he doesn't want to, and free hospitals are at the disposal of any one—and let him close the transaction right there, but don't let him charge the next victim eight or nine hundred, or a thousand dollars to "even" matters.

That isn't the right way to size things up.

"THE constitution says that only idiots, the insane and convicts may not vote," declares Lady Francis Cook who says she is going to leave $1,000,000 with New York bankers to win votes for women. Mind you, she is going to leave a cool million in the hands of New York bankers, and yet she asks if that insane clause "bars women."

FREDERICK County politicians these days are finding it a pretty hard matter to say the proper thing at the proper time, and their henchmen are finding it still harder not to say the wrong thing when the temptation arises.

A LITTLE observation confirms the opinion that the common run of people are not so much in need of reformation as of information.—Detroit News.

And a little more observation confirms the opinion that just about now a considerable number of people are very much in need of winter overcoats and a few ham sandwiches.

It's even money that if Carry Nation knew how indispensable a cherry is to certain beverages she'd give the hatchets all right.

OCTOBER.

O, suns and skies and clouds of June,
And clouds of June together,
Ye cannot rival for one hour
October's bright blue weather.

When loud the bumble-bee makes haste,
Belated, thriftless, vagrant,
And golden-rod is dying fast,
And lanes with grapes are fragrant.

When gentians roll their fringes tight,
To save them for the morning,
And chestnuts fall from satin burs,
Without a word of warning.

When on the ground red apples lie
In piles, like jewels shining,
And redder still, on old stone walls,
And leaves of woodbine twining,

When all the lovely wayside things
Their white winged seeds are sowing
And in the fields still green and fair,
Late aftermaths are growing.

When springs run low, and on the brooks
In idle golden freighting,
Bright leaves sink noiseless in the hush
Of woods for winter waiting.

O, suns and skies and flowers of June,
Count all your boasts together,
Love, loveth best of all the year
October's bright blue weather.

STATE MISCELLANY

Catonville, Md. through its Civic League, is getting ready to become a city. Its city charter will be introduced at the next session of the Legislature.

Henry A. Wroth, Secretary of the Baltimore Chamber of Commerce, committed suicide at his home in Harford county Monday night.

Earl D. Wilson, quarterback on the Naval Academy football team, received injuries in the Villanova game last Saturday that resulted in complete paralysis of the upper part of the body.

The plant of the U. S. Rail Company, formerly the Maryland Rail Co., Cumberland, has resumed operations having passed from the hands of receivers.

During the months of July, August and September one lumber company alone in Garret county shipped 712 cars of lumber. The three months shipment would have made a train over five miles long.

A fire in Baltimore Sunday morning damaged the Abell building, Baltimore, Eutaw and German streets, to the extent of $335,000. Ten firemen were injured.

The Hagerstown Fair which closed Friday was the most successful in the history of the association. Many improvement will be made this winter to both grounds and buildings.

It is predicted among politicians in Prince George County, Md., that, owing to the temperance question, a split ticket will be elected. Oliver Metgerott is backed by the Anti-Saloon League for the state senate.

Baltimore's Frederick County Colony attended the Frederick Fair.

Mr. Henry C. Miller, junior member of the firm of Neidig & Miller, dry goods merchants of Frederick, died at his home in that city on Monday. He is survived by a widow and his mother. He was 42 years old.

Mr. Frank H. Purcell died at his cottage at Blue Ridge Summit of tuberculosis. He came to the mountains to regain his health.

The Anti-Saloon League began its series of meetings in Hagerstown on Monday.

The old White Swan Inn near Cumberland, where in the days of the old National Pike many men of national reputation stopped while on their way to and from Washington, was sold at Uniontown for $77,000. The purchaser is understood to be a traction company, which will raze the building and erect a large terminal station.

The affairs of registration for Washington county have reported that at the close of the last sitting of the registers there were 11,510 names on the books, a gain of 209 over last year. Both parties claim to have gained.

The woman of Prince George's county are working for the amendment.

Three horses were struck by a trolley car near Middletown on Monday. They belonged to Mr. Richard Kefauver. One of the horses had to be killed. They had escaped from a field and wandered on the track.

A cousin of Commander Peary, Mr. Walter S. Sawyer, died at Grafton, near Cumberland.

Coadjutor Bishop Murray is performing the diocesan duties of Bishop Paret who sailed for Genoa, Italy, on Thursday.

A military company has just been formed in Cumberland.

The large barns and other buildings on the farm of Mayor William E. Gilbert, of Laurel, Md., were destroyed by fire on the 19th inst. Loss is $12,000.

Major General Elwell S. Otis, U. S. A., retired, who succeeded General Merritt in 1898 as commander of the American forces in the Philippines, died at his home in Rochester yesterday morning. Gen. Otis was born in Frederick, Md., March 25, 1838. He is survived by three daughters.

One Thousand Successful Men.

I have on my desk a list of 1,000 successful men of this nation, writes someone in the Juvenile Court Record. By "successful" I do not mean mere money-makers, but men who have given us new conceptions of steam, electricity, construction work, education, art, &c. These are the men who influence our moral as well as physical lives. They construct for better things.

How these men started in work is interesting. Their first foothold in work is a fine study.

Three hundred started as farmers' sons.

Two hundred started as messenger boys.

Two hundred were newsboys.

One hundred were printers' apprentices.

One hundred were apprenticed in manufactories.

Fifty began at the bottom of railway work.

Fifty—only 50—had wealthy parents to give them a start.

Spanish Defeat Enemy Again.

Three regiments and a mounted battery of the Spanish forces while reconnoitering Sunday west of Nador engaged and defeated the enemy. The Spanish then retired, having lost a commander and two captains killed and 14 men wounded. The Moorish losses were heavy.

Mount Rindago, Italy, is in eruption.

Discussion of Affairs in General from Leading Journals of The Country.

Change the Auto Horn.]

(Philadelphia Public Ledger.)

Those patient and persistent patriots who in the face of ridicule keep up the fight for the suppression of unnecessary noises should turn their attention to the automobile horns. The ordinary pattern is bad enough, especially when blown with the imperative air usually adopted by the automobile drivers who are firmly convinced that the sole duty of pedestrians is to get out of the way, but they are pure music in comparison with the raucous alarms that are coming into use. If there is one thing that arouses the angry passions of mankind, in this country at all events, it is the assumption of command that is implied in these sudden calls to clear the way, and when they are voiced in hideous sounds, it is like adding insult to injury. The law should require a sweet-sounding note if auto horns are to be used at all, in crowded thoroughfares, and it should not tolerate the sort which sound like the squeal of a hyena.

Business to Stop War.

(Springfield Republican.)

The time is surely coming when, as a mere matter of business, war will be outlawed by the awakened people who are compelled to suffer from its ravages. To believe less than this is to be false to all that inspires human progress. It is not Quakerism, but sound statesmanship in the masses that is calling on the business men of the world to help to protect the common interest against a wanton waste of property and men.

Reform of Legal Procedure.

(From the Green Bag.)

President Taft has strengthened the cause of the reform of procedure by adding the weight of his authority to that of the American bar association in urging that technicalities be no longer allowed to defeat justice. The suggestion that Congress should appoint a commission to report a system "to secure quick and cheap justice in the federal courts" one that "will offer a model to the Legislatures and courts of the states," is approved by the Louisville Courier-Journal as a good one, in spite of the fact that "Congressional commissions are not notably efficient." The St. Louis Post-Dispatch says that the judicial procedure of every state needs revision and that a commission of this kind "would supply all the states with a basis for reform legislation."

That the states all have the same interests at stake, and can unite, if they choose, in a uniform system of procedure, is unquestionably true, and the New York Sun is unquestionably wrong in saying—

The demand for uniformity and symmetry in the political institutions of the several states constituting a vast republic is based on an assumed likeness in their different communities which does not always exist. The American bar association is wasting its time and labor in attempting to devise a uniform judicial system which will be satisfactory to all the states of the Union—including Oklahoma.

The newspapers of the country are practically united in their hearty approval of the work of reform in state courts in which the American bar association is interested. With the exception of the Sun, and the New York Commercial, which thinks that the court traditions of each state "command great popular respect, and Legislatures are very conservative in the matter of making court changes," we have found no newspapers adversely criticizing this program of the American bar association.

Party Regularity.

(Kansas City Times.)

"Party regularity," as preached by the chronic politicians, is usually an effort to cover up party irregularities.

High Tariff Did It.

(St. John (N. B.) Sun.)

Forty years ago the American flag could be seen at every port of any consequence in the world. Her ships then divided the carrying trade with England. Merchants in those days preferred shipping their cargoes in American bottoms to employing ships of any other nationality. Foreigners preferred sailing under the stars and stripes because both wages and food were better than anything that could be obtained in their own ships. She possessed not only the best ships afloat, but the best material for manning them also.

It was not lack of enterprise that drove the American flag off the ocean. It was the Morrill tariff and its successors in folly that drove American ships from the world's competition and confined them to protected coastwise trade. Neither was it lack of enterprise in the maritime provinces that produced the results we see today. We are a maritime people and have the call of the sea in our blood. The same causes have operated here as there, and their blight has been as damning upon our ships and sailors.

Trained Men Needed.

(New York Times.)

The Crane incident must at least have the effect of revealing to the people and to the Government the extreme need of a trained diplomatic corps, or, at least, of a corps as carefully trained as the political conditions of our society admit. Training does not always go with ability, and the best trained and most experienced man may at times, fail in doing what untrained men succeed in doing, as was shown, for example, in the case of Minister Washburne in Paris at the time of the Franco-Prussian War. But training does make it sure that a man in a high diplomatic post shall know what he cannot with propriety do. Just at present, when affairs in the Orient are so confused and unsettled, and when there are so many more or less conflicting interests of our own and of other countries involved this negative virtue is of great importance.

So Take Your Choice.

(Washington Herald.)

Even if Dr. Cook was the little boy who stole his mother's jam regularly in the long ago, we feel pretty sure Mr. Peary was the other little boy who always ran and tattled.

Academic Anarchy.

(Boston Transcript.)

But if young men cannot satisfy their cubbish conception of privilege except by hazing those weaker than themselves they should at least submit to the penalties. The strike of the students of the Maine university because the faculty have seen fit to discipline a portion of their number for hazing is a thoroughly senseless proceeding. Even if in the difficulties of securing evidence against actual offenders an apparent injustice has been done, it furnishes no justification for academic anarchy. It is frequently said that the college is a small world in itself and if that be true its laws must be obeyed by those who voluntarily put themselves under them, else instead of being in training for good citizens they are setting a dangerous example of lawlessness to those who have lacked their advantages.

In One Pocket, Out T'other.

(Banker and Tradesman.)

And how is it working out? Apparently the manufacturers are finding that what they put into one pocket, as additional profits, they are paying out of the other in increased cost of materials, while the consumers pay the ultimate bills and daily realize that, as the tariff now stands, enterprise is rapidly drifting away from the simple thing it should be to the realms of political chicanery and graft.

Swindling the Government.

(Kansas City Star.)

The customs officials estimate that the government has been swindled to the extent of from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000 in crooked importations in the last ten years. By means of prosecutions now under way these officials hope to recover at least $2,000,000 and to put a number of the swindlers in prison. A good effort, truly. But, on the other hand, the government, through the tariff law, indirectly legalizes extortion to the extent of hundreds of millions annually—extortion that would be swindling or robbery but for the government sanction it enjoys. In the matter of sugar duties alone this tariff permits the sugar trust to exact 2 cents per pound more for its standard sugar in this country than it asks in London for the same grade—2 cents a pound on 600,000,000 pounds per year.

Keep Up the Good Work.

(Washington Herald.)

A St. Louis man broke his collar bone while rising to give his seat to a lady in a street car recently. Only the other day we read where another man plunged headlong from the car window after extending a similar courtesy. Nevertheless we are moved to hope that those people in favor of reviving that polite, but obsolete, old custom will not be discouraged.

Football Rules For 1909.

(Boston Traveler.)

(Respectfully submitted to the committee of revision.)
Footballs must be resilient and collapsible at a pressure of seventy pounds to the square inch; this will break many a fall.

No gridiron shall be of metal.
The college yell is hereby abolished as a relic of barbarism, inciting to brutality.

Players must have their hair cut before each game; floating hair is inimical to the trachea of contestants.

The high ball, or anything approximating to it, is barred as tending to bad feeling; players may be cheered, but not inebricated.

When any player cries "Down!" two players must be designated by the referee to jump on him; this will give paying patrons a better view than heretofore.

No player shall gouge out but one eye of an opponent; if, through oversight, he should do so, he must put it back before the game can go on.

Players may still continue to kick a goal, if undue force is not employed.

A broken back counts two points for the opposing eleven, a broken leg, one; broken ribs and noses do not count.

Any player losing his head during a match game must be disqualified for carelessness, if still alive.

 Verse 6.—Who was this Festus referred to in this verse?
 From the preceding five verses what had the Jews requested Festus to do?
 Verse 7.—On what principle can you explain the bitter hatred which the Jews had for Paul?
 Will a religious bigot, who is full of hatred as these Jews were, stop short of swearing to a lie to accomplish his purpose?
 Should any Christian believe or circulate a charge against any person that he has not got ample proof of?
 Verse 8.—As a matter of fact had Paul, in any sense, broken any Jewish law?
 Which, at this time, were really in the most unenviable situation, Paul or his accusers, and why?
 Verses 9-12.—When a judge or a magistrate favors the prosecution, and makes harsh remarks against the prisoner during the taking of the evidence, thus prejudicing the jury, is such a man fit for a judicial position?
 When a Christian is accused of wrong doing, and is innocent, should he insist upon his innocence or be patient and silent, and wait for the facts to speak?
 Paul was no doubt wise in refusing to go to Jerusalem but was he equally wise in not insisting that his trial be finished at Caesarea, and in his appeal to Caesar?
 If you were a minister to be tried for heresy, which tribunal would you rather select, a prejudiced Conference, or Synod, or General Assembly, or Convention, or a committee of secular High Court Judges?

PERSONALS.

It is the aim of THE CHRONICLE to publish as many personal and social items as possible, but it frequently happens that those who have guests visiting them, and those who entertain, fail to send a list of their friends, or an account of these events, to this office. Readers who live at a distance are always interested in what is going on "at home," and for that reason, if for no other, this column should be filled every week. It is of course understood that anonymous contributions will not be published. Names of persons furnishing items will be withheld.

Mt. St. Mary's 10-Susquehanna 0.

The Varsity opened the regular football season on October 16, by defeating Susquehanna University, 10 to 0. The game was fast and well played by both teams. All the scoring was done in the first half as the visitors braced up towards the end of the contest. Among the features of the game were four long end runs by Dan Kelly, the crack Mountain half-back. Chaisty, Flannery and Campbell also starred for the Mountain and contributed much to the outcome of the game. For Susquehanna Curran and Hartman were the best yard gainers.

The game with the University of Maryland which was to have been played on the twentieth was cancelled on account of the death of Dr. McSweeney.

Birthdays.

On Monday evening a very pleasant surprise was given Mr. and Mrs. William H. Horner at their home near Rocky Ridge. ## A BIG DEMONSTRATION

Great preparations are being made for the big Democratic meeting to be held in Frederick City next Wednesday, Oct. 27th. Col. E. Austin Baughman is planning the affair which promises to eclipse anything of the kind ever held at the county seat.

There will be a monster torchlight parade in which fifteen bands of music and one thousand horsemen will appear and at eight o'clock the meeting in the City Opera House will be addressed by Ex-Gov. Warfield, Hon. Joshua W. Miles, Hon. Harry Covington, Hon. J. Charles Linthicum and other noted speakers. Col. Baughman is sparing no pains to make this demonstration eclipse last year's event which was notable from every standpoint.

Well Qualified.

After a long time we have succeeded in nominating a man for Clerk of the Circuit Court in the person of Mr. Joseph W. Gaver, who is eminently fitted for the position. Mr. Gaver possesses in a marked degree all the qualifications to fill the office acceptably to the people. He is a good lawyer which the clerk should be. He has the experience of an apprenticeship for several years, which will enable him to take the principal desk, which he will do, and thus save a thousand dollars yearly for the taxpayers. In voting for Mr. Gaver, I do not feel that I am voting for his pecuniary interests alone but for the best interests of the taxpayers and the business people. It certainly is a piece of foolishness to continue electing men to a position which they cannot fill, and then hire a clerk to do what they were elected to do, and then pay them and their clerk, too.—From letter of Wm. H. Lakin, Esq., to The Frederick Citizen.

Longenecker's Finest.

Besides being a very genial gentleman, Mr. Wm. Longenecker, of Zora, Pa., is a cultivator of excellent fruit. This year's crop of Greensweets, Ben Davis, Bellflower and Pippins, raised by Mr. Longenecker, was unusually fine and the entire output was disposed of the moment it matured, quite a large shipment going to Lancaster, Pa.

TRIBUTE

Of Mount St. Mary's Congregation to Rev. Edward F. X. McSweeney.

The death of Rev. Edward F. X. McSweeney on Tuesday night proves a great shock to this community in the suddenness of the message and in the depth of affection and high esteem, cherished for him by all classes and conditions. It is seldom that the public is stricken with a more genuine sorrow than that of the present bereavement. Those that were associated with Father McSweeney, or that came under his influence during the long years of his splendid service at Mount St. Mary's College and Seminary, will best tell the story of his eventful career in that institution.

Our melancholy task is to describe briefly even though inadequately the place that Father McSweeney held in the hearts of the Mountain people. His interest in all that concerned our welfare, made him an adopted member of every household and hence we loved and revered him as a father and friend. It will be hard for us to realize that his familiar face will no longer cheer us on the public road or by the family hearth, and our grief will be the more poignant because he occupied in our affections a place that will not soon be filled by another.

Despite the many duties of Father McSweeney at Mount St. Mary's College and Seminary, he found time to keep up the old traditional family spirit that has existed over a century between the Fathers of the College and the Mountain parish. More than this he loved to profit by every occasion to keep bright in the minds of our people the glorious record of the zealous pastors and missionaries that had done service among them for over a hundred years, and he strived in season and out of season to preserve fresh in their memory and warm in their hearts the noble Catholic ancestors who dignified the humble walks of life by their virtue and sanctity. This was the burden of his discourse, when he last spoke in St. Anthony's Church on the occasion of the solemn requiem service for the repose of the soul of Bishop McCloskey, and when his remarks were addressed particularly to the children whom he loved so well, and whom he desired to make the vehicles of the grand traditions of the past. While Father McSweeney rejoiced in all the good that he found in the past and present conditions of our Mountain people, he was keenly cognizant of the two great evils that hinder their spiritual and material advancement, namely intemperance and indifference to education; and often his great good heart was grieved at the evidences of these evils among the people that he loved. In his own quiet but effectual manner he did much to promote the cause of temperance, and the best years of his ministry were devoted to the cause of education. His zeal for the education of youth was apparent not only at the College and Seminary but also at the parish school which he loved to visit; nay more, his kind and genial bearing, his fondness for children and his interest in their education, made him a welcome visitor even in our public schools. Father McSweeney loved us all, and was interested in us all, but his love and interest were stronger for the poor, the lowly and the most abandoned; and here he showed himself the truly apostolic priest. He moved among us as the embodiment of the ideal priest and the ideal gentleman.

We all feel that we are the better for having come under his influence, and that we cannot forget his noble life and shining examples. Father McSweeney's request to be buried at the Mountain proves that having loved us in life, he will love us in death. Strong were the ties that bound him to the departed ones of his family, and much as he revered their last resting place, he felt that he should be buried where he had done his life's best work among the people that he cherished so fondly, and that held him so close to their hearts. When we pray for the repose of his soul, we shall always recall his beautiful life and the salutary lessons he taught us. Much as we shall miss him, we condole with those that shall miss him more than ourselves, and until we find a more formal expression of sympathy, we beg to take this occasion to tender our heartfelt sympathy with the Fathers, the professors, the seminarians and the students of Mount St. Mary's in the loss of one whom they greatly esteemed and loved.

Letters To The Editor.

[The Editor would have it understood that he is not responsible for the views expressed in communications addressed to him and published in THE CHRONICLE.]

No attention will be paid to anonymous communications.

An Explanation That Did Not Explain.

To The Editor of the Chronicle:

It is of course quite apparent to the commonest understanding that the communication in last week's issue of your valuable paper, signed "Fair Play" was a mere political subterfuge, and not a very smart one at that, to detract from the splendid endorsement which Judge Worthington received from the members of the Frederick and Rockville bars. But the subterfuge must wholly fail of its purpose.

So far as the testimonial from Montgomery county is concerned, as there has been no term of the Circuit Court in that county since June, and as there will be none until after the election, the sincerity of the signers of that paper cannot well be questioned.

As to the testimonial from the Frederick bar, as I circulated that paper myself I am able to say that it was signed voluntarily and not through fear. Opportunity has been given since the term of court for any of them who so desired, to withdraw their names, but none of them have chosen to do so. The effort to make it appear that the testimonial was a forced one must utterly fail.

But aside from this the imputation in the above mentioned communication upon Judge Worthington's character for uprightness and impartiality in the discharge of his duties, is certain to be resented even by his political opponents.

More than this the communication contained a reflection upon the manhood, integrity and independence of the members of the bar that is wholly unjust and unfair. Our lawyers are not a set of moral cowards. They know their rights and they are not afraid to respectfully yet firmly maintain them. Look over the list of signers and say which of them deserve to be called dastards.

A subterfuge so transparent and so falsely premised, is not only unworthy a place in a judicial campaign, but is almost certain to return to plague its inventors, whoever they may be.

CHARLES R. LEVY.

Editor of the Chronicle:

It may be of interest to your readers to learn the attitude towards the Judiciary taken by the Republicans of this Circuit. The following speech in which Hammond Urner was nominated at the Convention in Rockville on September 1st, voices that attitude and endeavors to set forth the requirements for that position and how closely Mr. Urner measures up to them:

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention:

This gathering to me seems in no sense a political convention—the dignity of demeanor and the solemn earnestness of purpose manifested seem to make it more a patriotic assembly met for the advancement of a great civic end, as indeed it has.

It is no light, frivolous matter that brings us together today, but a serious duty devolves upon us and one not lightly to be undertaken; it involves the selection of one who for fifteen years, God willing, shall largely have in his determination, under the laws, the rights of person and of property of the people of these two good counties—and, indeed of the State.

What qualities should we seek in the man whom we shall this day name as the successor in the line of great men in whom we have trusted? He should be a good man, honest and clean; he should be independent of power or pelf, or any wrongful influence; he should be of quick native intelligence and of thorough knowledge of law in theory and practice, with a mind ready and prepared to promptly apprehend, and of a moral courage to fearlessly apply the law without bitterness or sophistry and without fear or favor and from no hope or promise of reward—this is what a Judge means to our citizens, from the humblest toiler in the cottage to the strongest financial operator within our bounds, and this our people should demand regardless of creed, nationality or political predilection.

And such a man we will to-day ask you to nominate and present to the honest and intelligent electorate of this Circuit for their suffrages. He is a man whom no man owns or controls, who is above faction or party, a high-toned Christian American citizen. He has never been an office-holder and never a candidate except when accepting the empty honor of a nomination for Attorney-General of the State (a high tribute to his legal standing) and then his people in his own County who have known him since boyhood gave him an indorsement of a majority of over 1,700. The keenness and clarity of his analysis, the force of his logic and the true strength and directness of his application are not surpassed at our Bar. He gets his qualifications not from the fortuitous circumstances of place or station of birth, nor from the temporary elevation to place by virtue of the personal favor of an Executive, but from the life-long cultivation and improvement of qualities inherent in the man and that, grained in his nature, have been developed and trained until now they give us a well-rounded, well-trained lawyer to whom our people, however circumstanced, can safely commit their lives and their liberties, their homes and their honor. He is a lawyer fitted by unbroken study and practice of the law and familiarity with its principles and practice to apply them to the good of his people with an honest heart and a mind clear to discern and discriminate and not to be be-fogged, and quick and alert to see and to act aright.

In the full confidence that he will challenge the support of all of our people who desire an independent, honest and capable Judiciary, on behalf of Frederick County I beg to submit to this Convention as the nominee for the Chief Judgeship of the Sixth Judicial Circuit the name of Hammond Urner. TAFT AND DIAZ
MEETING

ELABORATE BANQUET

Pomp and Splendor of Mexico's Entertainment.

THE TWO NATIONS ARE TOASTED

Diaz Calls It An Epoch in Mexican History, a Striking International Courtesy.—Mexico and Her President Complimented.

President Taft on Saturday set foot on Mexican soil, and President Diaz was entertained on American soil. The two great men, heads of great Republics, passed felicitations one with the other and more closely cemented the cordial relations long existing between these neighboring nations.

In the evening President Diaz entertained his illustrious guest in his wonderful garden banquet hall at Jaurez, at which feast the gold and silver plate of the Austrian, Maximilian, the short-lived Emperor of Mexico, was used.

This was a most wonderful banquet. The "patio" of the customs-house had been converted into a huge arbor. A roof had been put on for the occasion, special tables had been constructed to fit the table linen brought from Chapultepec, and the national castle and other arrangements were on an equally elaborate scale.

Mexico's choicest flowers had been gathered from all parts of the republic and brought by the carload to Jaurez. At least four carloads were shipped in for the decoration of the banquet room alone. The plate above mentioned is valued at $1,200,000, and is one of the most valuable treasures of the government. Solid gold coffee and tea sets are the most valuable pieces. The service has been under a special guard ever since it was brought to Jaurez.

President Diaz proposed the first toast in which he said that this was epoch in Mexican history. "This striking trait of international courtesy which Mexico acknowledges and appreciates to its full value and significance, will henceforward establish a happy precedent for the Latin American republic to cultivate unbroken and cordial relations among themselves, with us, and with every nation of the continent."

"Actuated by these sentiments, which are also those of my compatriots, I raise my glass to the everlasting enjoyment by the country of immortal Washington of all the happiness and prosperity which justly belong to the intelligent industry and eminent civicism that are the characteristics of the manly and cultured American people, and the enduring glory of the heroic founders."

"I raise my glass to the personal happiness of its illustrious President, who has come to honor us with his presence and friendship, whose display will make for the cultivation of the common interest which binds the two neighboring nations whose respective elements of life and progress find in their union reciprocal completion and enhancement."

President Taft responded as befitted the occasion and spoke of the admiration of his people for Mexico's illustrious and patriotic President and for the whole people. Continuing he said:

"The aims and ideals of our two nations are identical, their sympathy mutual and lasting, and the world has become assured of a vast neutral zone of peace in which the controlling aspiration of either nation is individual human happiness."

"I drink to my friend, the President of this republic, to his continued long life and happiness, and to the never-ending bond of mutual sympathy between Mexico and the United States."

ADVERTISE DURING THE DULL SEASON.

"The advertiser who advertises spasmodically is on the road to lose his money, while the man who keeps regularly at it, even at a snail's pace, is going to achieve some results commensurate with his ability as an advertiser and the expenditure that he makes."

Challenge Flour is Going Some

Recently a large bakery in Philadelphia, wishing to put a new loaf of bread on the market, tested

Challenge Flour

Challenge Being Selected

and this bakery is now using 500 to 600 Barrels of this flour each week for their new style loaf. If you are not using

CROP REPORTS BRIGHT WINTER WHEAT CROP FINE

High Prices and Good Heavy Yield Will Give Farmer a Large Cash Reward.—Cotton Only Failure.

The winter wheat crop is said to be better now than it has been for several years past, and not far below the record crop of the year 1901. The spring wheat crop is a fine one and the two together are about the same as 1908, and larger than that of 1907. The price, however, is much larger and the farmer will reap a much larger reward in cash than ever before, according to the Banker and Investor. There will also be 55,000,000 more bushels of oats than were ever produced before. All other crops are doing well except cotton, only. Even here an increased price will probably preserve the free money value for a diminished crop. Good crops and good prices, in conjunction with the general revival in business, will doubtless bid the specter of hard times depart for some less favored land.

Youngest Civil War Soldier.

E. Wellington Abbott of Cambridge, Mass., son of the first man who ever took ether, and a veteran of the Civil war, died Saturday night. He was born in Boston, March 2, 1852, and has the distinction of being the youngest man who served in the Civil War. At the age of eleven years he ran away from home and enlisted as an officer's boy. He afterwards became a drummer in Company B, Sixth Regiment, M. V. M. He was discharged from service in 1866.

The Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Detroit Tigers for the championship of the world last Saturday. Score 8-0.

It is estimated that 10,000,000 persons paid admission to baseball games this season.

that the glory of God has been enriched by the addition of another saint."

The funeral with solemn high Mass took place at the College this morning at 10 o'clock, Cardinal Gibbons, Bishop Allen and representatives from the leading Catholic institutions in the country being present. The interment was in the "Cemetery on the Hill."

Dr. McSweeney is survived by his nephew, Rev. Thomas McLaughlin, pastor of the Catholic Church, New Rochelle, N. Y., and two nieces, members of the Sisters of Charity, this place.

No Revolution in Costa Rica.

There is no political disturbance of any kind in Costa Rica, despite reports to the contrary, declared Senor Calvo, the Costa Rican minister at Washington. He had just received a dispatch from the secretary of foreign affairs informing him that the report of a revolutionary movement in that republic is entirely baseless, and that everything was quiet there and no fears were entertained of a disturbance.

Another Aeroplane Record Broken.

Count de Lambert, the French aviator, accomplished the remarkable feat said to be the most daring yet credited to a heavier-than-air machine of circling several hundred feet above the Eiffel Tower. Orville Wright was a witness of the wonderful ascent and heartily congratulated the Count. A Wright biplane was used and the flying trip was made at Juvisy, France. In the preliminary, Count de Lambert maneuvered over the city of Paris at a height of four hundred feet.
