MR. ROOSEVELT IN POLITICS

TO HELP IN NEW YORK

Going to Plunge Into Thick of Fight in State

TO SAVE THE REPUBLICAN PARTY

Together With Hughes He Will Review Entire Present Political Situation. —Withdrawal of Governor Spells Disaster.

Theodore Roosevelt is going to plunge into the thick of the political fight that will be waged this fall for the control of New York state. He persists in his refusal to talk politics for publication, but it may, nevertheless, be said with authority that he will devote his every effort to save the Republican party from the defeat which he thinks menaces it in New York state.

At a conference between Mr. Roosevelt and Governor Hughes the entire present political situation in New York state will be reviewed. It is indicated that if Governor Hughes accepts a place on the United States Supreme Court bench, as the governor has already signified his intention to do, and withdraws entirely from active politics, the result may be disastrous to his party. It is also known that Col. Roosevelt favors some primary reform legislation although he has not had the opportunity to study the various plans that have been proposed and although he has not decided which of them, if any of them, he most approves.

To the newspaper men who tried to squeeze political views from him the Colonel turned a deaf ear. They were taken to his library where they found a room in confusion, littered with thousands of unopened letters and hundreds of books sent by publishers and friends, with still other hundreds of magazines, all unread. There were letters on the table, on a settee and on the floor.

"I want you newspaper men to make it clear that it is utterly impossible for one man to cope with all this mail," said the colonel. "If every man, woman and child in the United States who has been writing to me were to stop writing to-day," he continued, "it would take me six months, with clerical assistance, to answer them all. Probably there are many letters here from close personal friends, but it is impossible for me to separate the important from the unimportant. I am getting the mail of the White House and I have not the White House staff to dispose of it." The colonel began at the top of the pile and picked up 10 or 12 letters. The first he opened was from a prominent member of Congress enclosing a copy of a speech which the writer requested Mr. Roosevelt to read and criticize. "It would take an hour of my time," Col. Roosevelt said. "It would be impossible for me to grant such a request."

Concerning a political letter he said: "I was out of civilization for a year and I have not come into touch again with political conditions either in the state or the nation. Those who have written me must understand that it is impossible for me to reply for many months."

PROMISING PEARRE SLURS THE STATE HE REPRESENTS

Told The House How Money Is Used In Maryland Elections.—Recounts No Personal Experiences.

George Alexander Pearre used his eloquence in the closing days of the Sixty-first Congress to tell of the corrupt use of money in Maryland elections. He did not speak of any personal experience or loss of money in this connection. His remarks may have been the first words of an apology for the defeat that is due him.

He declared that the great curse of the politics of today was the use made of money, and said he was rejoiced at the increase in sentiment against the illegitimate expenditures that have been countenanced in the past in both parties. So long as money was permitted to remain a factor in determining election, he said, so long would the politics be corrupt and the will of the people suggested and smothered. In his own state of Maryland, Mr. Pearre said, large sums of money had been used in the corruption of voters and there could never be clean politics until the whole wretched business was stamped out.

"So far as Maryland is concerned," he said, "the fact that money is used in elections is well established, and I cite from no less an authority than an ex-governor of the state, Hon. Edwin Warfield, who publicly declared that it takes $100,000 to nominate and elect a man governor of Maryland."

SECOND SESSION OF THE SIXTY-FIRST CONGRESS IS NOW HISTORY

COST PEOPLE BILLION DOLLARS

Measures Passed Include Railroad Bill, Postal Savings System and Publicity of Campaign Contributions and Many Others.

The second session of the 61st Congress is now history. Congress adjourned at 11 o'clock Saturday night. In the Senate the Mail Ship Subsidy bill was made the unfinished business for the next session and Senator Simmons discoursed on the causes of high prices as the Democrats of the Lodge committee had found them. The Senate won as usual in its contentions with the House respecting the abolition of the pension agencies, which needlessly cost the government $700,000 a year. So the pension bill was agreed to. It appropriates $156,000,000. The investigation of the sale of the friar lands was favorably reported in the House, but no special rule was forthcoming to enable the House to consider it. Senator Lodge was successful in persuading the Senate to pass the Mann "White Slave" bill, passed by the House.

It is declared that the appropriations and authorizations exceed those of the last session of the last Congress by $10,000,000, and all told are more than $1,054,000,000.

In looking over the record of Congress among the main bills passed are the following: Railroad bill, Postal Savings system, Statehood for Arizona and New Mexico, Publicity of Campaign contributions after election, Withdrawal of Public Lands by President, Appropriation of $250,000 for Tariff Board, Bureau of Mines and Mining, Use of Improved Safety Appliances by Railroads, Issue of $20,000,000 Reclamation Certificates, Reorganization of the Lighthouse Service, Two New Battleships, Additional Regulation of the "White Slave" traffic, Agricultural Settlement on Coal Lands.

There were a few bills of importance that failed of passage, prominent among them were the Federal Incorporation bill, seven bills covering the Administration's Conservation System, bill to limit the issue of injunctions, new form of government for Alaska, Ship Subsidy, Bureau of Public Health, codification of postal law, increasing rates on second class mail.

The Chicago Evening Post, from a Western Independent Republican standpoint looks on the work done in this way:—The winning of the $250,000 tariff board appropriation, the signing of the statehood act, the virtual passage of the land withdrawal authorization, the railroad bill and the postal savings measure should mean the turning of the tide for William Howard Taft. His administration will henceforth be judged not by promises but by results. And it is our prediction that the popular estimate of its real worth will not fail to go upward day by day.

This is an important alteration in the surface of affairs. But important as it is, there is every probability that Mr. Taft himself considers the profit that may come to the Republican party is far more important than any benefit that may accrue to his personal fortunes. The seriousness with which he takes his party chieftainship makes this almost certain.

Probably the most interesting thing that has been said of the Congress was the statement of Speaker Cannon, giving his opinion of the work accomplished. He said:

"In my judgment, the two sessions of the Sixty-first Congress have accomplished more and done better work than any other Congress of which I have been a member. It has rarely occurred that a Congress enacting a new tariff law has accomplished much else save handling the appropriations for the government."

"This Congress has not only revised the tariff without disturbing business, but it has enacted important legislation amending the interstate commerce law, giving greater power, and ceating a court of commerce, and this without seriously affecting the business of the railroads or checking their increase of wages to their employees."

"This seems to me to meet the definition of statesmanship in legislation, and I can say this without selfish pride, because the legislation was enacted under the leadership of the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, with the Hon. James R. Mann as chairman. "This Congress has also enacted a postal savings bank law, which is entirely new legislation, blazing a new trail in law-making in this country."

"In my judgment, this is the best illustration of party legislation we have had in many years, and it fully justifies the necessity for party action in a great legislative body. If there had not been party solidarity on this bill, there would have been no legislation creating postal savings banks."

Mr. Cannon reviewed the other measures that have been passed in this session and added:

"The appropriations have been large, but not nearly as large as demanded by the people who were agitating over the development of the various departments of the government. There has not been a single appropriation bill that has not been increased by a non-partisan vote in the House over the report from the committee. This would seem to indicate that the demand for economy is like the demands for reduction of the tariff, and always applies to the appropriations other than those in which the agitators are interested."

"The people who want a larger navy are willing to economize on everything else; and the same is true of those who want large appropriations for the Department of Agriculture, for the army, for the improvement of rivers and harbors, for public buildings, and for all other activities of the Federal government."

"The Democrats have talked about economy, but they have helped enlarge every appropriation, and there are bills introduced by Democrats and not acted upon which would call for $500,000,000 additional expenditure. So I take it that their talk of economy is Pickwickian.

"As I said in the beginning, the work of this Congress has been greater than any other which I have been identified as a member, and it has been constructive legislation in the face of destructive tactics and efforts to create factional strife.

"These efforts, I regret to say, have received more attention in the public press than the real work of legislation, and having given so much space to these revolutionary efforts, at the expense of the record of work, it is not surprising that some of the editors should suddenly discover in these last days that the Republican Congress has enacted laws to carry out the pledges of the Republican platform, and then jump at the conclusion that this work has been done in haste before adjournment, instead of being the painstaking efforts of seven months by the committees and the members of Congress."

"This work of legislation has gone on quietly but effectively, while those who view Congress from a distance have been assuming that the House was doing nothing but changing its rules. The changes of rules have contributed to the pleasure and perhaps the power of some individuals in the House; but the current of legislation itself has moved on as usual, with little disturbance on account of a few new methods and with little advantage therefrom."

"I do not think the work of a Congress should be measured by the volume of business, but by the character of the legislation and the care taken in its consideration. Measured by that standard the Sixty-first Congress will take a high place in the record of legislation."

"There have been, however, more than 6,000 of the 27,000 bills considered and reported from committees, and about 300 public laws enacted in this session, as against 400 public laws for the entire Sixtieth Congress. I can commend the entire membership of the House for industry and intelligence in their legislative work of this session."

RAYNER'S CALL TO ARMS

DEMOCRACY CAN WIN

Brighter Prospects Than at Any Time Since War

REPUBLICAN PARTY IS DIVIDED

Insurgents Have Come to Stay and to Fight Without Compromise.—Worthy Man Needed to Carry Colors to Victory.

Maryland's United States Senator, Mr. Isidore Rayner, has a word to say to the Democratic party concerning its prospect and the "real issue." Mr. Rayner said his say before leaving Washington on Monday and this is part of his advice:

"There has never been a time since the close of the Civil War that the prospects of the Democratic party have been brighter than they are at the present hour. If we divide now and fail to avail ourselves of this opportunity, we don't deserve to win. The indications that point in this direction are so apparent that anyone can observe them who will only glance at the political horizon. The causes are manifest and disclose themselves upon the surface."

"In the first place, the Republican are rent with discord and dissension. The Insurgents have come to stay. They are not fighting for a compromise, but are contending for a mighty principle, and in the end they will win. There are no such words as retreat or surrender in their vocabulary. To state their position simply and concisely, they are striking first for individual freedom within the party and next for the rights of the people against the forces of corruption and the tyranny of the money power, protected by legislation and favored by the Government. Nearly every proposition they have contended for has been voted down by the organization, and it is a remarkable fact that every principle they have espoused is to be found among the traditional precepts of the Democratic party. Our party will, therefore, take the arraignment of the Republican party by its own members and use it as the most effective weapon in the next national campaign. In every Insurgent stronghold the Republican party is on trial for its life. This condition constitutes our first opportunity, and whenever in any of these sections, the Republican organization nominates its candidates a combination with the Insurgents, as has been effected in the present Congress, will portend Democratic success. Such a combination will be perfectly legitimate and justifiable because it is in the interest of honest government, administered for the benefit of the American people."

"In the next place, the broken pledges upon the tariff have decimated the Republican constituencies of the land. Downward revision was solemnly promised, and in absolute mockery and betrayal of the promise, upward revision has been granted. Every Democratic

SEN. GORE OFFERED MONEY INVESTIGATION TO FOLLOW

Blind Senator Tells of Bribe and Wants Indian Affairs Closely Scrutinized by Congress

Senator Gore says money is being used to influence certain legislation in connection with Indian affairs. The Senate on Saturday adopted a resolution introduced by Mr. Gore of Oklahoma, directing an investigation into the sale of asphalt and coal lands. The inquiry is to be conducted by the Senate committee on Indian affairs and is to determine whether there is any necessity for the employment of private counsel or agents in connection with lands belonging to the Choctaw and Chickasaw tribes, and if the employment of such counsel is necessary, whether a fee of 10 per cent. is reasonable.

Senator Gore's charges in connection with Indian affairs in Oklahoma are confined to those made against J. F. McMurray, an Oklahoma lawyer. When the senator made his appearance in the Senate Saturday he said, in private conversation, that another attorney had been making an effort to have about 10,000 Negroes enrolled, which, he said, would net the promoter $25,000,000 or $30,000,000 if permitted to be perfected. "Oh!" said the senator, "There are several dens of wolves in that state. I hesitate to go into the matter as it ought to be done, but someone ought to do it." He had not decided whether he would bring the new charge to the attention of the Senate.

RESIDENTS WANT PEN MAR DRY AND OPPOSE LICENSE

Railroad Joins In Opposition to Opening of Saloon in or Near Popular Mountain Resort.

The residents in and about Pen Mar are very decided in their opposition to the granting of a license to John Ruths to open a liquor saloon within a short distance of the park. The Western Maryland Railroad has also joined in the opposition.

John Ruths has made application to the Washington county court for saloon license. The park has been free from saloons since Thaddeus A. Wastler, of Cascade, Md., had a law passed prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors in the territory.

Altenwald Trestle On Fire.

A long stretch of the high trestle on the Altenwald cut-off of the Western Maryland railroad, at Greendale Station between Quinsonia and Wayne-castle, caught fire and was partly destroyed. Eighty feet of the trestle was made impassable and traffic was interrupted for 24 hours.

Eleven transatlantic liners left New York for Europe Saturday with about 5000 first cabin passengers and many more in the second and third cabins.

Spain and Vatican Disagree.

Against the protest of the Vatican Spain has decided to carry out her religious programme. By royal decree the constitution has been amended to authorize the edifices of non-Catholic religious societies to display the insignia for public worship. The papal protests were coupled with the negotiations between the government and Rome for the revision of the concordat and recently Premier Canalejas intimated that unless the Vatican changed its attitude, the negotiations would be broken off. The Vatican in reply, after setting forth that it maintained that the decree was a violation of the concordat and the engagements of previous ministries, declined categorically to continue the negotiations over the revision until this point was settled.

Reply From The Vatican.

The Spanish government has received by telegraph at Madrid another note from the Vatican, in which it is stated that the Vatican will reply to the full text of the government's proposal, which has now arrived. This leaves the negotiations between the Spanish government and the Vatican relative to the subject of the church and non-Catholic religious societies still in abeyance, and practically where they were a week ago.

Monster Fake of the Century.

This week the announcement was made public of the publication of a volume embracing the results of two years' inquiry by prominent churchmen, physicians and scientists into "Christian Science and other forms of faith healing." The former cult is emphatically rejected as false and dangerous. It is held that "Christian Science" may quiet sufferers from nervousness, but that it has killed far more than it has cured. It is asserted that its aim is profit for the promoters and the inner few. Dr. William Osler is among the contributors to the volume.

John B. Stanchfield, special counsel for F. Augustus Heinze, the Copper King, received $800,000 as his fee for gaining the acquittal of his client.

Hotel Blown Up, Five Dead.

Five men were killed and eleven injured, two of them fatally, when Ed-Bushay's saloon and suburban hotel, five miles north of Minneapolis, was blown up Tuesday evening by the explosion of a gas tank in the basement of the saloon. The dead are Eugene Hamlin, Louis Hamish, Charles Siggelkow and two unidentified men.

Patterson, N. J., suffered from a $1,000,000 fire on Monday.

ANOTHER BID FOR VOTES BY PROMISING PEARRE

Would Drain Constituents from The Swamp Lands of The Eastern Shore and Southern Maryland.

Col. Pearre is out with a scheme to drain the swamp land of Eastern Shore and Southern Maryland. The Western Shore is now all fitted up with fancy P. O.'s and he will now complete his efforts by adding many millions of square feet of dry land to the soil of Maryland. It will be fine to raise beets.—Hagerstown Mail.

Garrett county has thousands of acres of this class of land and the Colonel needs votes badly in Garrett, and if he will drain our swamps the votes will be forthcoming but our people have grown tired of fish hatcheries, federal buildings and other minor bids for their votes and will take little stock in the Colonel's latest scheme.—Garret Journal.

Airship Excursions in Germany.

Bluebeard's Secret Chamber

When the excitement attending the funeral of Bluebeard and his wives had died away Sister Anne carried the young widow Fatima to the seashore, and the thoughtful brothers saw to the overhauling of the mansion, which had been the scene of so much tragedy. Strange to say, when they sought the blue room, behind the doors of which Bluebeard had hidden his dreadful deeds, "it wasn't there at all."

The blue room had vanished so completely that, though these brave men had fought and bled to save their sister, they began to doubt that there was such a chamber at all.

When Fatima returned she found the place transformed. She did not mourn very much for Bluebeard, but filled her home with gay guests.

It chanced one day that a noble suitor came riding from the north. Fatima knew that she was falling in love with the stranger, and the sensation was an odd one. For many nights Fatima had the most beautiful dreams, but once she awoke with a start. She thought she heard Bluebeard's terrible voice, which rumbled like thunder, and he said:

"Let him who dares to take my wife seek first the blue chamber!"

All the next day those words kept ringing in her ears, and when her lover came, demanding an answer to his suit, she told him of her dream.

"This afternoon, then, sweet Fatima," he said, "will we seek the secret chamber?"

So in the afternoon, accompanied by his betrothed and followed by the two faithful brothers and Sister Anne, the determined youth set out upon his quest. Up and down the long corridors, in and out of the spacious rooms, he led the way with Fatima. Of a sudden she stopped, and her beautiful face grew pale.

"I cannot move," she said; "there is something holding my train."

Sister Anne stopped to look.

"It seems to be a huge nail in the floor. Wait; I will draw it out."

But it resisted all her strength, and the two brothers tried and then the lover, but it still held firm. When Fatima put her slender hand upon it it yielded at once, and she drew it out easily. She gave a little cry as she looked at the hole in the floor. "DO NOT PASS THAT DREADFUL FACE," she saw it, for it proved to be the very key with which she had opened the forbidden chamber.

As she rose to her feet she trembled so that she was forced to lean upon her lover's arm. As they all turned to go forward they were confronted by a heavy oak door.

Fatima put her key through the massive keyhole, and the door opened wide as if a gust of wind had blown it. A short flight of marble steps led down into the very apartment on the threshold of which Fatima had stood that fateful morning, and at the foot of the steps a huge and ferocious looking bust of Bluebeard had sprung up.

"Oh, do not go down!" cried Fatima to her lover. "Do not pass that dreadful face of my dead husband and that blue light—you will never come back to me."

"Give me the key," he replied. "Your husband may have been terrible in life, but I do not know fear."

"But see how the eyes of the image glitter and the blue light comes from his beard."

"Give me the key," he repeated, holding out his hand.

The poor lady tremblingly obeyed him, and it lay for a moment on his broad palm, while he turned it over and over as if in thought. Then of a sudden he hurled it with all his great strength full in the face of the hateful image. The key was heavy and the aim true, for the pedestal tottered and fell with a dull crash, and gradually a beautiful yellow light chased away the shadows. Bluebeard's image lay crumbled into dust. The walls of the secret chamber grew thinner and thinner, and bits of the blue sky peeped through interlacing branches.

The dreaded spot became a bowery where birds nested, and great golden butterflies sailed in the amber air. Here the very next day the happy pair were married, and from that time until this nothing more was seen of the key.—Washington Star.

RELIGIOUS THOUGHT.

Gems Gleaned From the Teachings of All Denominations.

Whoever works silently and preparedly works by God's plan.—Rev. Dr. S. Edward Young, Presbyterian, Brooklyn.

Joy of Giving.

Giving imparts more joy than receiving, because giving includes receiving.—Rev. Dr. A. C. Dixon, Baptist, Chicago.

Unity.

When the bishops, clergy and people unite there is no such word as fail, for they form a triple cord which cannot be easily broken.—Cardinal Gibbons, Roman Catholic, Baltimore.

Worship.

Worship is the means by which the empty soul approaches God to be filled with his fullness and that it may then go out to live for him in the strength thus received.—Rev. Dr. John H. Prugh, Reformed, Pittsburg.

Tainted Love.

A man ought to be a Christian regardless entirely of considerations of gain. It is a tainted love that loves, or pretends to love God for a consideration.—Rev. John Flagg, Presbyterian, New York.

The Life Eternal.

Eternal life is a beginning, not a completion. It is a process and a growth. It is a summer of growing grain, but not an autumn with its ripened harvest. It is a life of conscious fellowship with God.—Rev. W. Jasper Howell, Baptist, Brooklyn.

Strong Gifts to Fight Sin With.

Nothing is strong enough to resist infinite power. Nothing is perplexing enough to foil infinite wisdom. And when these gifts have behind them infinite love there can be but one issue in the fight with sin.—Rev. W. H. Morrison, Universalist, Brockton, Mass.

Antidote of Pessimism.

The number of pure and undefiled people of today is a prophecy of what humanity will come to. It will be a harvest of souls. The antidote of modern pessimism is found in the house of God, and the gospel will be universally diffused.—Rev. C. F. Aked, Baptist, New York.

Christ's Power.

Christ had marvelous power to inspire people to a holy enthusiasm. His sweet spirit, holy example, pure life, were inspiring, soul stirring. Something flashed from his eye, rang from his voice, flowed from his emotions, which made him irresistible.—Rev. Dr. William A. Hunter, Presbyterian, Los Angeles, Cal.

Cure For Sin and Doubt.

The cure for doubt on all Christian essentials is not more evidence to the mind, but the cure of the sin principle in the heart, so that desire may run parallel to judgment and reason. Men do not necessarily sin because they doubt, but they do naturally doubt because they sin. And the cure for sin is the cure for doubt.—Rev. Frank W. Luce, Methodist, Cleveland, O.

We Reap What We Sow.

Who shall even guess all that immortality may mean? No description has even furnished a hint of what we shall be. Just one characteristic of the future is clear. Heaven and hell will be the answers to what we are. Not even God can put heaven into an unheavenly heart, and not all demons can prevail to keep a heavenly spirit out of heaven. Still, as we sow we reap.—Rev. Dr. George Clarke Peck, Methodist Episcopal, New York.

True Friendship.

The tremendous pressure upon the Christian church is not to give the world a new theology—that is easy; not to create a new organization—that is too simple; not to multiply in numbers, for that may be misleading. But its supreme task is to create a constituency of those who have direct access to God, who take time to think about the same, are earnest enough to test the faith in real service and then in the bond of a vital brotherhood, knit together by love and guided by the Holy Spirit, give to the world a demonstration of the fact that here is true friendship. Paul found Cephas.—Rev. Dr. Robert W. McLaughlin, Congregationalist, Brooklyn.

Cure of Crime.

What is the true method of curing crime? We have inherited many things from the past. One of the worst is our tribe of criminals; the other is the false and inhuman way of dealing with them. If men easily consigned heretics to an endless hell, so they consigned lawbreakers to a hell on earth, for until these latest days all penal institutions were hells in sober fact. We are becoming more humane; we are also wiser. Punishment does not cure crime. What does? Creating a new set of habits, and that only can do it. Put industry in place of idleness, justice in place of greed, integrity in place of dishonesty—in short, by the "reformatory" plan.—Rev. A. B. Beresford, Universalist, Baltimore.

Man's Price.

While everything has its price, it is not true that every man has his price. It is a foul libel on our common humanity to say so. There are men in every station in life not purchasable. Gold and place cannot buy them. The offer of a crown could not swerve Washington from the path of duty. However, there is a sense in which a man may have his price. Ambition may inspire him. The rewards of ambition stand for the price with which he is to be purchased. If he is seeking fame, the pains, research, adventure and tolls which accompany that seeking stand for his price. Then he must pay the price for the attainment of virtue by which to attain the consciousness of serving God, a price beyond any arithmetical value.—Bishop Samuel Fallows, Reformed Episcopalian, Chicago.

WOMEN NOW IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Kaiser's Only Daughter the Most Carefully Guarded of European Princesses -- Woman Whose Business Is Fighting Fire.

THE most carefully chaperoned girl in Europe is undoubtedly Princess Victoria Louise of Prussia, the only daughter of Emperor William.

At dances the kaiser himself selects her partners, and she can accept them only with the consent of her principal lady of honor. No officer may dance twice with the princess in the same evening nor on two successive evenings, and her partners must all belong to the old nobility.

Even with all these precautions a strict watch is kept on her partners, and if they fail to comply with the strictest rules that have been laid down for them their fate is likely to be hard.

The emperor is enormously ambitious for his daughter and is not satisfied with any of the matches that have been proposed so far.

The Richest Actress in America.

Maud Lillian Berri is the richest actress in America. In private life she is the wife of Frank Moulan, the comedian.

Her father, Commodore Fulton G. Berry, recently died in Fresno, Cal., leaving an estate of not less than $1,500,000. He also left valuable raisin orchards and possessed oil land that is leaping in value under the impetus of recent big strikes. Far from opposing his daughter's career in light opera, he deluged the stage with flowers of the most expensive kind and was very proud of her talent and beautiful voice.

A Woman Fire Fighter.

of it in private houses, schools and stores.

She organizes fire drills and sells fire insurance. In fact, she is in every way a professional fire fighter.

A Royal Battle of Dough Balls.

The latest social sport is the throwing of dough balls, and this intellectual amusement was originated by Mrs. William J. Moore, a New York woman. She received the late King Edward at her villa in Biarritz just before his departure for England. When the first formalities were over the fete became a carnival, with live white rabbits running loose among the guests and rubber animals bouncing around on the tables. A battle of dough balls, after the manner of the battle of flowers, followed, and the royal countenance and clothes, like those of the guests, were covered with the white flour.

Sensitive Women.

Women are usually much too sensitive in everyday life, for ultra sensitivity is only another form of vanity and self conceit. The woman who is really self forgetful is never affronted, because she is so busy thinking of others that she is not thinking about her own dignity. It does not bring real happiness to possess exaggerated vanity that is wounded on the slightest provocation.

High Honor For American Woman.

The Marquise de Wentworth, wife of T. Winslow Wentworth of New York, has achieved the high honor of being made a member of the Jury of French Women Painters and Sculptors. In the domain of art this is the highest dignity ever conferred upon an American, either man or woman.

Perfumes in Ancient Days.

Old as the history of the world itself is that of the queen of flowers. The ancient Greeks and Romans reveled in roses. They were used lavishly at their feasts. In the time of the republic the people had their cups of Falernian wine swimming with blooms, and the Spartan soldiers after the battle of Cirrha refused to drink any wine that was not perfumed with roses, while at the regatta of Balaia the whole surface of the Lucrine lake was strewn with flowers.

Making a Lawn.

On his English tour an American was admiring the velvety smoothness of a certain sward, and, being possessed of land and an overpowering confidence that with money all things are possible, he asked the head gardener how to produce such a lawn. And the gardener said: "It's easy enough, sir. All you need do is to remove all the stones, plow up the ground, plant it with grass seed and roll it for 300 years."

The Salt Charm Failed.

Some three years before the Franco-German war broke out Count Seckendorff accompanied King William I. on his visit to Napoleon III, and was present at the celebrated dejeuner given in the Pavillon de Diane at Fontainebleau. King William, who was sitting next the empress, was asked by her to pass the salt, and in complying with this request he threw a little salt over his shoulder. Upon the empress exclaiming, "Why do you do that?" the king explained that in his country it was the custom to do so when passing the salt to ward off bad luck and any chance of a quarrel. The empress in a prettily turned speech at once replied, "But surely there is no danger of anything interfering with our friendship." In less than three years the Germans had crossed the Rhine.—London Spectator.

An Odd Epitaph.

The following epitaph is to be found in a cemetery within seven miles of New York's city hall:

Reader, pass on; don't waste your time O'er bad biography and bitter rhyme, For what I am this crumbling clay inures, And what I was is no affair of yours.

In the Game.

"I am in the hands of my friends," said the political siddespeer.

"Yes," replied the harsh critic, "and every time your friends look over their hands they seem impatient for a new deal."—Washington Star.

GETTYSBURG

About ten o'clock Friday morning one John Lee, a prisoner in the county jail, made his escape. Lee, with a number of other prisoners, was in the jail yard, under surveillance of an officer. The prisoners were pitching horse shoes, playing ball and other games, in which he took no part. While the games were in progress Lee watched his opportunity and succeeded in getting on the roof of an outbuilding. From there he climbed a chimney and got on top of the wall surrounding the yard. He dropped over the outer wall of the yard, into the yard of Mrs. Wible, and escaped to the alley. He proceeded across country to a wheat field, where it was supposed he hid.

An alarm was immediately given and a searching party organized. Sheriff Fissell and Deputy Sheriff George Fissell deputized a number of men, some of whom searched the wheat field, while others surrounded it to await his exit. The search, however, proved futile, and he is still at large.

Telephone and telegraphic messages were sent to neighboring towns, but as yet he has not been apprehended. Lee, who said he came from Waynesboro, was lodged in jail several weeks ago on the charge of chicken stealing. Considerable excitement was created about 9.45 Saturday evening, when the east end of town was startled by the unusual sound of gun reports. Investigation revealed the fact that some unknown man had been discovered in the stable of S. E. Swope, East Middle street.

A young son of Mr. Swope had gone to the stable to lock the doors for the night, and was suddenly brushed aside by an unknown man, who upon being discovered, ran across the field of Mr. La Grand Hospelhorn, nearby. The boy gave the alarm and his father fired several shots in the direction the man had gone. The shots brought neighbors to the scene, and they, with officer O'Reilly, thoroughly searched the adjoining wheat field. The man was seen once by Mr. Swope, who was in the lead of the gang of pursuers, but was unable to recognize him. The chase was kept up as far as Rock Creek, where the man eluded his followers in the thick woods.

It was evidently his intention to take Mr. Swope's horse, as the animal was found to be loose in the stable.

Sunday morning the 15th Cavalry and 3rd Field Artillery, U. S. A., arrived here and went into camp on the site east of town. Everything is in readiness for the maneuvers, which will begin next week.

The P. O. D. will be in charge of C. K. Gilbert, with Russel Shoemaker as assistant, and the following will serve as carriers in camp:—Jesse E. Snyder, John Sacks, Harry Bucher and George Hartman. Jacob Ramer will carry the mail between the local and camp offices.

The total number of men in camp here during the maneuvers will be 12,407.

Another story of burglary comes from out of town. The guard's house on Confederate avenue, was broken into, the Roser-steel refresher stand at East Cemetery gate robbed, and an attempt made to rob the Weikert stand at Round Top Saturday night. At the latter place the would be burglars were frightened away by Mr. Weikert, who sleeps in the building.

But He Didn't Kick the Bucket.

As William Stansbury, who lives with James Sheeley on the Andrew A. Annan farm near the mouth of Tom's creek, was about to cross a platform over a well on the property, the boards of the covering broke and Mr. Stansbury fell into the water beneath. With one of the planks that went down with him, he contrived for himself a footing and grasped the stock of the pump for support. He was in the well for about half an hour when he was heard calling and Mr. Sheeley was lowered and pulled him out.

ACROSS THE LINE

Fairfield—Mr. James Cunningham and daughter, Miss Margaret, are spending some time at the home of J. Paxton Bigham.

Charles A. Stebbins, of Hagerstown, freight conductor on the Western Maryland was instantly killed by falling from his train through the trestle over Toms Creek near here. His neck was broken.

Communion will be administered in the Lutheran church on Sunday, July 3rd, at 10 o'clock, A. M. Preparatory services Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Cornelius Sanders lost a very valuable horse last Friday from colic.

Frank Cumberland aged 25 years, brought to this county when a small boy from a Philadelphia orphan's home and residing in the vicinity of Fairfield, was killed by a Western Maryland freight train about midnight Saturday. He was horribly mangled. The body was not found until Sunday morning. An inquest exonerated the railroad. The remains were taken in charge by Steward Sheely of Almshouse and buried in the graveyard there. He had no known relatives.

This is the young man who several years ago got in trouble with the railroad on Lutheran Reunion day. He uncoupled cars from an excursion train and a bad wreck was narrowly averted.

The Democratic County Committee of Adams county met in Gettysburg last Saturday. The following is a list of county committeemen from neighboring townships:

Mr. E. E. Overholtzer, formerly of this vicinity, now living in Los Angeles, has sent us the announcement of the Federation of State Societies held in Los Angeles. Here are some of the items served at the banquet: One hundred and twenty gallons of olives, 500 dozen radishes, four barrels of sweet pickles and the same amount of sour, 1500 pounds of potato salad, 1200 pounds of chicken salad, 1800 pounds of salmon salad, 1000 pounds of premium boiled ham, 1200 pounds of roast beef and a like amount of roast veal, 1200 pounds of cheese, 120 gallons of ice cream, 600 gallons of coffee, 500 dozen rolls, 300 pounds of butter, 50 boxes of oranges, and other things. All this was served on 60 tables each 80 feet long, and 1600 yards of fine table linen spread over them.

Theatre On The Mountains.

The erection of a theatre at Blue Ridge Summit has caused excitement among the hundreds of cottagers and boarders there. The new theatre, where moving-picture shows and vaudeville will be given, is a large frame building being constructed near W. L. Maurer's store and quite close to the new $15,000 Episcopal parish house. On account of its proximity to the church property there have been many protests against the opening of the theatre.

Engagement Announced.

The engagement of Mr. Walter H. Stoecker to Miss Marie Sopp, both of Brooklyn, N. Y., has been announced. The groom, who is well known in Emmitsburg, is an enthusiastic automobilist. Miss Sopp is an attractive young lady very popular and highly accomplished and has a host of friends.

THE FOURTH OF JULY IN EMMITSBURG.

The press of late has laid great stress on the Fourth of July. Editorials galore have teemed with advice as to how the day should be spent, cautions a plenty have been disseminated in regard to the use of explosives and the danger attending the discharge of toy pistols and with one accord the newspapers of the country have suggested a "safe and sane Fourth."

The large cities and also many towns, both large and small, have wisely determined to do away with the senseless and barbarous diversions that used to be deemed indispensable on this date and to devote the day to observances in accord with the spirit of this essentially American anniversary, giving over a part of the time to outdoor diversions in which all can join and which all can enjoy.

In Emmitsburg the day will be spent in a manner that cannot fail to appeal to all who claim this community as their home and necessarily to all who appreciate the advantages they enjoy in living in a neighborhood so unusually well protected from loss by fire.

The Vigilant Hose Company, as fine a body of fire fighters as ever held the nozzle or scaled a wall, will celebrate the Fourth by holding its annual picnic at Fireman's Park. Great preparations have been made, plenty of entertainment provided, and on that day everybody will be given an opportunity to manifest a very practical interest in the welfare of this splendid volunteer organization whose heroic work in the past and whose willingness to cope with whatever contingency may arise in the future should endear it to every Emmitsburgian.

All roads should lead to Firemen's Park on Monday and nothing should be allowed to keep anyone from participating in these festivities for at least part of the day. The Fourth is a holiday—one of the most important of the year. This year let it be the biggest ever and let every man, woman and child turn out in honor of the Vigilant Hose Company.

LET IT BE A LINCOLN ROAD.

Now that interest in a memorial to Lincoln has been revived by the legal incorporation of two important bodies for the purpose of establishing a lasting and suitable tribute to the "War President," it begins to look as though something real and practical was about to result. There seems to be considerable doubt, however, as to what form this memorial should take, one of the recently organized societies preferring a pretentious monument and plaza and the other a National Highway.

Of the two ideas—and both, of course, ought to receive due consideration—the latter would appear to be the more appropriate, more indicative of the plain rugged, characteristics of the man whom it is the desire of the people to honor.

If there ever was a man of the people, beyond a doubt Lincoln was that man; and if ever there was one who wanted the masses to enjoy the fruits of government expenditure, it was surely he who made that famous speech at Gettysburg. A National highway, then, that all the people could enjoy—all reap the benefit of—would, above everything else be in keeping with the personality of the one whose name it would bear and also, as we believe, with his wishes, were he here to express them.

By all means let this memorial be a wide and beautiful road reaching from the National Capitol at Washington to the National Cemetery at Gettysburg; a well made, well kept avenue, flanked by noble trees and substantial tablets bearing the coat of arms of every State of that Union which Lincoln sought to preserve.

THE WORLD NEEDS MORE MEN LIKE THIS.

To know a man well passed middle life, whose manner is unusually gracious, whose temperament is serene, whose sympathy is apparently limitless, whose views are sanely optimistic and whose heart and mind are still young, is to enjoy a special privilege. To lose a friend who possesses such qualities is to sustain a loss irreparable.

The world is not over filled with magnetic men whose gentleness of mien and manner draw you to them in a way so natural that you are scarcely conscious of the actuating impulse. Nor is it overcrowded with men who have that happy faculty of imparting something always pleasant to hear—something always worth while thinking about for weeks after you have left them.

A few days ago there died just such a man as this, and the sad blow fell not only upon a devoted family and a loyal and affectionate community, but upon every neighborhood in which he was known. That man was Dr. J. W. Downey, of New Market; respected, admired and beloved by everyone with whom he came in contact.

The world needs more men like Dr. Downey and one cannot fail to be impressed with the thought that as it is the world is a better place just because he lived in it.

PEOPLE with the best memories seem to be those who always recollect their own good qualities and the weakness of others.

MR. PEARRE is still threatening his party in this district. He is decidedly in the saddle and he is riding up and down the ranks urging the people—coercing them, threatening them, and pleading with them—to stand by him in his desperate effort to hold his job in the House. The Republican camp is pretty well split up and there appears to be a leader in every faction. Each is vying with the other for supremacy and the question is, who will be successful in landing the nomination? One thing seems certain: If Pearre wins (and the Democrats put up a strong man) the Republicans lose.

ANOTHER Richmond in the field! Somerset County, through the Crisfield Times, presents Dr. Gordon T. Atkinson, ex-Comptroller of the Treasurer, as "the logical standard-bearer of Maryland Democracy in 1911." This makes the fifth "logical candidate" already, with other counties yet to hear from. And, by the way, who side-tracked the Brown boom?

A DISPATCH from Indiana says that farmers in that State have discovered the letter "B" on oat blades in many fields and that the Democrats interpret this to mean that Bryan will be the next president. Which goes to prove that Western Democrats are still in the wilderness—still looking for signs. And incidentally "B" stands for a good many things, "bosh," for instance.

WE always knew that Mr. Roosevelt had certain admirers that were willing to follow him almost anywhere, but we were totally unprepared to hear of a woman jumping out of a second-story window for a button containing her idol's picture. It just goes to show, however, that hero worship is still in vogue.

"No one can tell at this moment who will lead our forces," says Senator Rayner in his prophecy concerning the Democratic outlook. But no doubt the Senator from Maryland has his own opinion about the growing popularity of Governor Harmon and Mayor Gaynor.

A. G. SPALDING, sporting goods manufacturer, is going to run for Congress. Mr. Spalding has a keen eye for business and doubtless sees future contracts for Cabinet and Congressional golf and tennis supplies.

AN honest, competent official need never fear abuse; for the evil spoken about him is always uttered by people who are themselves scheming and dishonest.

Diplomats in Charlton Case.

The case of Porter Charlton, who confessed to the murder of his wife near Lake Como, Italy, when arrested at Hoboken, has become international. The foreign office at Rome Monday decided to follow the provisions of the Italian-American extradition conventions and to ask for the extradition of Porter Charlton, leaving it with the American authorities to accept or refuse the request. With this decision the "Lake Como murder case enters the realm of diplomacy."

Concerning Ballinger Report.

The Ballinger-Pinchot investigating committee met Saturday last, and adjourned to meet in Minneapolis on September 5, when an effort will be made to agree upon a report. The report will be made public as soon as agreed upon. This decision was reached after a full discussion among the members of the committee, both Republicans and Democrats. Senator Root will return from Europe before the date set for the meeting and all 12 members are expected to be present.

Bishop McVickar, Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Rhode Island, died on Tuesday at the age of sixty-six.

Interesting Paragraphic News From Various Sections of Maryland.

The Montgomery county taxable basis is $15,815,150.

Harry B. Noland confessed killing Alice Brown Letten in Cumberland last week and will be tried in October.

Two midshipmen and Mrs. N. E. Bowyer were drowned off the Naval Academy bathing beach, Annapolis, on Wednesday.

Robert Laupp, thirty-three years old proprietor of Rams Horn inn, a well known roadhouse at Bladensburg, committed suicide by shooting himself through the mouth with a .38 caliber revolver Sunday morning.

Mayor Schell of Frederick, has taken steps toward a sane Fourth of July by issuing a public notice to the effect that the law prohibiting the firing of pistols or firecrackers within the limits of the city will be strictly enforced.

Yesterday Cardinal Gibbons celebrated the forty-ninth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood. The Cardinal was ordained June 30, 1861, in the Baltimore Cathedral by the late Archbishop Francis P. Kenrick, after he had finished his theological courses at St. Charles' College and St. Mary's Seminary.

Members of the Maryland State Teacher's Association are in session at Ocean City. The executive committee of the association includes Mr. Howard C. Hill, of Cumberland, chairman; Mr. Thomas C. Bruff and Miss Mary Holmes, of Baltimore; Mr. Nicholas Oram, of Easton, and Mrs. Ida P. Stabler, of Montgomery county.

The board of county school commissioners for Frederick county will shortly send out invitations to a number of architects to submit designs for a new high school building to be erected in Frederick, for the erection of which a bond issue by the county was provided for by an act of the legislature at its late session.

Homer B. Barrow, a helper in the Western Maryland Railroad yards in Hagerstown, met with a tragic death Saturday night, when he was run over and instantly killed by a locomotive on which he was riding to the roundhouse. He was 22 years old, unmarried and a native of Ridgeville, Va., having been in the employ of the Western Maryland since May 31, of this year.

A tearoom and fiction library will be added to the $15,000 Episcopal Parish House at Blue Ridge Summit, Rev. Ernest A. Rich, pastor. The two bowling alleys will be open from 9.30 A. M. to 10 P. M. and motion pictures will be given every Friday evening. The musical concerts given last season will be repeated this year from July 15 to September 5.

Ground was broken on Monday in Frederick for the erection on Court street, on a site adjoining that of the Y. M. C. A. building, of a building for the Post Publishing Company of Frederick, which will publish a new newspaper, to be known as the Evening Post. The building will have a frontage of 40 feet on Court street and a depth of 120 feet. The front portion will be two stories in height, with basement pressroom. The architects are Hamme & Leber, of York, Pa.

Judge Keedy, of the Washington county court, and Justice B. Hartle, of Hagerstown, are thinking of putting into operation a law, if any exists, requiring jail prisoners to work on the public roads. Justice Hartle has long been an advocate of the movement, and has frequently appealed to the County Commissioners to provide work on the roads for the prisoners. He called attention to Governor Crothers' views on the subject, and said the prisoners should be required to produce a revenue for the county, instead of being a charge upon the community as they are at present.

At a meeting of the mayor and city council of Hagerstown the city attorney was instructed to take legal proceedings to compel the Washington County Water Company to fulfill its contract with the city and the Hagerstown Street Railway to cease furnishing current for lighting and power to private persons. The city officials assert that the Water Company, which recently installed meters, has exceeded its powers and violated existing contracts with the city. The company is charging 30 cents per 1,000 gallons for water. The city requested that the rate be made 15 cents, but the company refused.

Prof. Cyrus F. Thomas, 85 years old, for many years a well-known resident of Frederick died Sunday in Washington. For 30 years he had been on the staff of the Bureau of Ethnology, and for 10 years had lived in Washington. He was an assistant in the United States geological and geographical surveys of the territories, under Hayden, 1869 to 1873; professor of natural sciences, Southern Illinois Normal University, State entomologist of Illinois and member of the United States Entomological Commission. He became an archaeologist of the Bureau of Ethnology in 1882, and was the author of a number of notable publications. He was born in Illinois and afterward went to Pennsylvania. From there he moved to Frederick and lived there until he moved to Washington. The body was interred in Mount Olivet Cemetery, Frederick on Tuesday.

The Old Plush Volume Pictured the Family History

A RARE TREAT FOR THE VISITOR

She Learned All About the Twins, Aunt Jane's Love Affair, Sister Gertie's Narrow Escape and a Lot More.

"Yes'm, that's my marriage certificate, and them pictures pasted on it is me and pa the day we were married. No, he wasn't sick but he was so scared it made him look peaked. Do you like to look at photographs? Most everybody does, I guess. Wait till I get the album. Yes, it is kind of a pretty cover—real plush. I got it off a book peddler lady—dollar down and 50 cents a month.

"Them's twins. There was two of them. They looked just like you see them there. One of them is my husband, but nobody can tell which he is now. Sort of creepy, ain't it, not to know whether your own husband is one twin or the other? One of them died when he was sixteen and that broke the set. I think it is the sweetest picture in the album, they look so simple and harmless, just like two little calves. Gran'ma Jones used to make their clothes. You'd never guess it, would you? She used to lay the cloth in two thicknesses and cut out two suits at once. If one of them had been a girl she couldn't have done it. Turn over the page.

"That's the gentleman Aunt Jane nearly married. He looks like a college professor, dont he? He was so refined and meek and so eloquent at prayer meeting. But he wasn't a professor; he peddled Grigg's infallible cure for hog cholera and lectured on temperance. He was awful poor in his health, and the minute Aunt Jane set eyes on him she made up her mind to marry him. She was forty, and she usually got what she wanted, and everybody said it was a thousand chances to one that she would get him. But just when Aunt Jane was sure she had him he got wind of it. He went back to Massachusetts the next day and died peaceful. Turn over the page.

"That's my sister Gertie and a bass singer we used to have in the choir. His name was Spung—Lancelot Spung, and he was a barber by profession. Him and Gertie was engaged for six weeks, but she found out he had a wife and six children at Boston, so she didn't marry him. He was the sweetest singer. You'd never imagine he had a wife and six children if you could have heard him sing. Ain't it awful how sinful people can be and yet look so innocent? Gertie took on awful when she heard the facts about him, and she wouldn't get engaged to anyone else for a long time, and you know what that means for a choir singer. Turn over the page.

"Sue Hartwick that is, one of my old girl chums. She ran off with a cattle buyer and got married, but that wasn't until five years after this picture was took. She had a lovely character—so light and playful and that fond of handsome clothes. I remember the day she had that picture took. She had been to a picnic with a traveling gentleman from Cincinnati and got engaged to him. I helped her trim the very hat she had on. It was green straw with roses, one red and one blue and one yellow. It matched her complexion lovely. She was a dark blonde with red hair. Oh yes, she always smiled that way on account of one front tooth being out. Turn over the page.

"That's my Aunt Phoebe by marriage, the day she was married. Ain't she sweet? The basket wasn't hers. It belonged to the man that took the picture. Neither was the curls all hers, though they didn't belong to the photograph man. I've got them now laid away till they come in handy. I tell pa it's a pity it ain't man's hair 'stead of lady's and then he could wear it. Baldness seems to run in his family. His father was so bald that he never used a brush or comb for forty two years; used to comb his hair with a flannel rag. That dress of Aunt Phoebe's is the lowest necked anybody on either side of our family ever had, but then she was a great one for society. Turn over the page."

Georgia Desperado Killed.

W. H. Bostwick, the desperado who killed three men and wounded three at his home near Ocilla, Ga., Sunday, was found dying in his barricaded home at 4 o'clock Monday morning, when the Fitzgerald company of the National Guard rushed and captured the house. He expired within an hour. The five children who were in the house with him were rescued uninjured. It is supposed that a bullet fired during the fight with the posse Sunday night struck him.

Half Million on Pension Roll.

Soldiers and sailors of the Union Army in the Civil War are dying at a rapid rate. About 90 names a day are dropped from the pension rolls. This average is equivalent to about 2,700 deaths a month, or about 32,000 annually among Federal survivors of the war carried along on the pension lists. The actual number of survivors of the Civil War on the pension rolls on June 30, 1909, was 593,961.

GERMS OF TETANUS OR LOCKJAW.

Most of the deaths from Fourth of July accidents are due to tetanus, or lockjaw. A toy pistol or a fire cracker wounds a boy's hand. Frequently the hand is dirty, and the dirt, laden with the germs of tetanus, is driven into the flesh.

Tetanus owes its origin to a microbe which enters the circulatory system through a wound. In former times a wound made by a rusty nail was greatly dreaded because of the frequency with which lockjaw resulted. Such wounds are quite as dangerous now as they were in other days, but not because the nail is rusty. Rust alone has nothing to do with the disease.

One of the breeding-places of the tetanus germ is the intestines of domestic animals, especially the horse. The city streets, the village and the country roads and pasture-lands are, therefore, always infected.

The wounds from which lockjaw results are most commonly on the face, hands or feet, because these parts are exposed; but they may be anywhere. In the case of children playing, the hands and feet are more likely to get dirty than other parts of the body. Moreover, the tissues are hard and compact, and so are tenacious in retaining germs carried into the flesh by a wound which punctures or lacerates.

It is also significant that most cases of lockjaw result from slight, apparently unimportant wounds. The reason is that they are neglected, whereas serious injuries receive attention by a physician and are properly cleaned.

Unless treated by a modern antitoxin method, tetanus is fatal in the majority of cases, and even when that treatment is applied, promptness is of great importance. Best of all is the preventive application of the remedy. This should be sought in the case of any wounds to hands, face or feet, no matter how slight, if the wound is of such a kind that surface dirt may have been driven into the flesh.—Youth's Companion.

Salaries Of Clergymen.

"Salaries of clergymen average only $663 a year in the United States"—so reads a Washington dispatch lately sent out over the country giving a small summary of the results of the church census taken in 1906 and now about to be published. It cannot be said to convey a very accurate impression, reads the Springfield Republican. With the exception of the Methodist and Baptist bodies, the larger or best-known denominations show average ministerial salaries much above this given average. The Unitarian average is $1653; Protestant Episcopal, $1242; Universalist, $1238; general convention of the New Jerusalem, $1233; Jewish, $1222; Presbyterian, $1177; Reformed church, $1170; United Presbyterian, $1096; Congregational, $1042, and Reformed Presbyterian, $1008. Quite often, in addition to the salaries as appearing in the census, the clergyman is provided with housing, and funeral and marriage fees and the like provide some additional source of revenue, often considerable. Probably it cannot be maintained, on the basis of the above averages, that clergymen are greatly underpaid, as compared with the averages obtaining in other professions. When it comes to the Methodist Protestant body, for example, which shows an average below even the low average for all denominations—below $633 a year—it must be said that complaint of underpay seems to be well grounded, even after taking into consideration such gains from free rent and fees as have been noted.

The Refinement of Humor.

If you want real humor look not for it in the newspapers or joke books. Get you, instead, a report of the convention being held at the capital of our nation by the United States Brewers' Association. From the proceedings you will learn that while "the prohibition movement has been riding at high tide the sale of beer has increased 90,000,000 gallons a year and the sale of spirits 11,000,000 gallons." You will discover that though the people of the United States are becoming more temperate, "the consumption of alcohol increases just as steadily as the growth of temperance." Then you may wonder why, this being the case, brewers continue to inveigh against prohibition. The supposition has been that the more business they can do the better they will be satisfied.

That aside, however, as being a mercenary suggestion, let us consider where prohibition gets a knockout blow in the association's annual report. This delightful document tells us that:

The whole vegetable world is in a conspiracy against the prohibitionist. The bees become intoxicated with the distillation of the honeysuckle; the wasps grow dizzy in the drowsy clover patch and even the ants wobble after they have feasted upon over-ripe fruit which has started a natural fermentation.

Could anything be more convincing? Could you beat it for the refinement of humor? Go to the bee, the wasp and the ant, thou guzzler, get wisdom and get soused!—Pittsburgh Gazette Times.

The special and regular session of the present Congress broke all records in the number of bills introduced—some 27,000 in the House and 9000 in the Senate.

Pictures of the Kingdom. Matt. xiii 31-33, 44-52.

Golden Text—The Kingdom of God is not meat and drink: but righteousness and peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost. Rom. xiv:17.

Verses 31, 32—In how many particulars was the Christian church small at its beginning?

How many are there in the world today who profess to be Christians?

How many nominally Christian nations are there to-day?

What is the extent of the influence of Christianity to-day upon morality, education, science, philanthropy, commerce, etc.?

In what respects does the gospel influence each individual convert, the same as it has influenced the world?

Verse 33—What is the influence of leaven upon bread?

What is the influence of the grace of God, upon a human being who receives it?

What are the conditions to be observed for putting leaven into bread, and what are the conditions to be observed for putting the grace of God into a human heart?

This woman put the leaven into "three measures of meal." Can the grace of God be received at all, if it is not taken into body soul and spirit? Why or why not?

Will the day ever come when the "whole" of humanity will be "leavened" with the gospel? If so, when and how?

Verse 44—What is the real treasure of the kingdom of heaven on earth?

What is the field in which lies buried this great treasure?

How do men find this hidden treasure?

Why does Jesus lead us to infer that we must sell all we have, in order to possess the field in which this rare treasure is found?

Verses 45, 46—What does the average man seek after more than anything else?

What is it, when found, which gives more joy than all else beside?

When a man finds "the pearl of great price" how much is it worth to him?

What is the one great consideration which absorbs all others?

Verses 47, 48—In what respect is preaching the gospel like fishing with a drag net?

Who are they whose duty it is to throw out, and pull in the gospel net?

When, according to this parable, are the good and the bad fish sorted?

Verses 49, 50—What are the angels of God who, at the end of the world, will divide the wicked from the good?

How much value will be given to a man, in that day, for his belief, in estimating this character?

* What will be the standard for estimating good and bad men, at the end of the world? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Are we to take Jesus' words literally about the furnace of fire into which the wicked will be cast, or in what sense must they be taken?

Verses 51, 52—Is Jesus a teacher who can be understood by any man with his ordinary natural faculties? Why?

Lesson for Sunday, July 10th, 1910.—Review of the Past Thirteen Lessons.

A FAIR EXCHANGE

MANY people have things that they no longer have use for, but keep them in the house, taking up room and doing no one any good.

Better sell or trade off things you don't want. Advertise them and you will find that there are people ready to take them and pay cash, or trade for them. You will find it easy through the Columns of

THE CHRONICLE

PERSONALS.

It is the aim of THE CHRONICLE to publish as many personal and social items as possible...

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McCarren, and little son, Roger, visited in Baltimore.

Mrs. Amelia Norris was at Pen Mar on Sunday.

The Misses Amelia and Elizabeth Annan, of Taneytown, visited the Misses Annan of this place.

NOTICE SUBSCRIBERS.

THE CHRONICLE respectfully requests all subscribers who are in arrears to pay for their subscriptions before August 1st.

This notice is published in order that this paper may conform to the requirement of the Postoffice, which requirement is mandatory.

This is not a dun—not a demand, but a request made necessary by the Government authorities and one which THE CHRONICLE feels assured will meet with a prompt and appreciative response.

Miss Marian Hoke and Miss Ruth Patterson are spending today with Dr. and Mrs. Musselman in Gettysburg.

Mrs. Harry Shulley, of Reading, Pa., is visiting Mrs. Jacob Hoke of near town.

Mrs. John Ecker of Taneytown, and Mrs. Russel Ecker, of Thurmont, spent day with Mrs. Isiah Ohler.

Levy For 1911.

The County Commissioners of Frederick county have made the levy for 1911, fixing it at $1.18. The increase is due to the new assessment and the Primary Election law.

LOCAL BREVITIES

Readings from THE CHRONICLE Standard Thermometer for week ending July 1:

Table with 4 columns: Day, 8 A. M., 12 M., 4 P. M. Rows for Friday, Saturday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday.

Mr. A. M. Manahan brought to this office a double head of rye taken from his former farm northwest of town.

The sound of the binder is in the air. In the last five days the farmers have harvested most of their wheat.

On Saturday Officer Bert Hospelhorn was sworn in as town constable.

Messrs. Patterson Bros. are reshingling their large bank barn to the rear of West Main street.

The real estate of the late Lewis M. Motter, sold at public auction on Tuesday, brought $3770. Mr. George Gillellan bought the homestead for $2315.

Troops A, B and D, of the 15th U. S. Cavalry, under command of Captain Barnhardt, and Batteries E and F, of the 3rd United States Field Artillery, under command of Captain Locke and Lieutenant Miles, passed through town on Sunday morning.

One of the prettiest flowering cactus seen in a very long time is the beautiful plant of Mrs. Knoff, the blossoms on which are unusually large and of a brilliant crimson hue with silken centers.

Mr. Edward Gourley sent to this office a monster freak potato which in appearance resembles a cross between a mastiff dog and a Chinese dragon and weighs about a pound and a half.

Mr. Joseph Welty has a new breed of chickens which lay peanut shaped eggs. One of these eggs resembling a jumbo guber pea was sent to the CHRONICLE office a few days ago and attracted much attention.

There have been reports of pretty tall oats grown on farms in this vicinity but the tallest thus far sent to this office is a specimen from the farm of Patterson Brothers, which measures five feet, eleven inches.

Mrs. James Hospelhorn's garden is responsible for most unusual cabbage. The head is smooth and solid and about the size of an orange. Growing from this are a number of narrow leaves about a foot in length with stems at uniform distance and standing upright.

The youngsters who took part in the exercises of Children's Day at the Methodist Church on Sunday last, were treated to a delightful picnic along Hartman's dam on Wednesday. Miss Edythe Nunemaker arranged for and had charge of the outing.

Patterson Brothers finished cutting grain on the last day of June. They have 100 acres of wheat on shock.

Howard Johnson made a narrow escape from drowning on Wednesday. He was washing grain sacks at the creek and with his companions was playing in the water when for some reason he went down. Mr. William Bowling rescued him.

S. E. C. 6; Taneytown 2.

In a one-sided game yesterday St. Euphemia's Club defeated Taneytown by the score of 6 to 2. Arnold fanned 11 men, Nelson retired 3 on strikes. Sebald, G. and Kerrigan starred in the fielding halves. Taneytown's runs were scored on errors. Batteries, Taneytown, Crapster and Nelson; S. E. C., Sebald and Arnold.

FIREMEN'S PICNIC JULY FOURTH

Preparations Completed For Large Gathering

EXCITING GAMES OF BASEBALL

Parade at Nine O'Clock, A. M.—Programme of Occassion Outlined.—Day to Rival Old Home Week of Last Year.

The preparations have been completed for the great Firemen's Picnic on Monday and included in these preparations are several innovations that will add greatly to the convenience and pleasure of the guests.

After the parade the following in part will be the programme at the grounds: Baseball game, Sebalds vs. Ashbarrels; Band Concert at one o'clock; Baseball Game, Fairfield vs. St. Euphemia's School team; Band Concert from five to seven.

Of all the successful picnics held by the organization this promises to be the best. To the country people and those who will drive to the picnic, the various stables of town will afford ample accommodations for their horses and vehicles.

The record of the town made last Summer during Old Home Week and the splendid organization holding this picnic are well known to all. This in itself should be the picnic's best advertisement.

Firemen's Park, the scene of the picnic, is a complete public play ground. A swift diamond and the excellent Fairfield team which will play baseball with the St. Euphemia's School team, is one of the leading features of the day.

At night the grounds will be brilliantly lighted with powerful lamps. The dancing floor will be in excellent condition and the musicians have promised to never get tired.

Mr. Joseph K. Lilly, a son of Dr. Lilly of McSherrystown, died at his home in that place on Monday.

Mr. Lilly was in Emmitsburg Saturday in company with Mr. C. T. Blaniard, of the same place, and stopped at the Emmitt House. He had a hemorrhage from the lungs at the home of Mr. F. A. Welty that evening and was removed to the Emmitt House where two more hemorrhages followed.

Dr. Jamison was called in. His father was summoned and arrived here in his automobile shortly after midnight and took his son home with him that night.

The young man suffered a great loss of blood and died from the effects about 9 o'clock Monday morning. The funeral was held in McSherrystown on Wednesday.

CHURCH NEWS

At a meeting of the Presbytery of Baltimore held on Tuesday a committee of 12 men was appointed to solicit funds and organize a board of trustees to incorporate New Windsor College.

The twenty-first annual reunion of the Reformed churches of Maryland and adjoining States will be held at Pen Mar Park on Thursday, July 14. This will be the first of several big church reunions to be held at Pen Mar this summer.

DR. J. W. DOWNEY.

One of the most prominent men of this county and a frequent visitor to this place, Dr. Jesse W. Downey, of New Market district, died suddenly last Saturday of paralysis.

For several years Dr. Downey has been in ill health, having given up his large medical practice some four years ago.

But his last years were not spent in inactivity for he exercised personal supervision over his large farms. It was during a visit to one of these that he was stricken down.

He was a practical farmer. On his many visits to Emmitsburg he was ever a welcome guest at this office where he told of his scientific experiments in agriculture.

Indeed it was his intention to prepare for publication in THE CHRONICLE a treatise on "Seed Corn, Its Selection and Cultivation."

This we are sorry to say was never to our knowledge completed. His interest, too, in politics was very keen and he held an important place in the councils of his party.

His busy life was full of incidents. Born of William and Jane Wright Downey, of near New Market, March 24, 1848, at the age of seventeen he enlisted in the Confederate army serving throughout the war with the First Maryland Cavalry.

The first engagement he participated in was at Falling River and later took an active part in skirmishes around Winchester and the raid through Pennsylvania.

It was his intention to tour the Battlefield of Gettysburg in the near future and he looked forward to the trip with great pleasure.

At the end of the war he returned to New Market and in 1866 began the study of medicine under Dr. E. W. Moberly. Later he read under Prof. Nathan Smith, D. D., of Baltimore and entered the University of Maryland.

He was graduated from the medical department of the University March 3, 1869, and engaged in his profession in his native town.

Dr. Downey was married in 1876 to Miss Mary Hammond, daughter of Major Denton Hammond and Elizabeth Wilson Hammond, who survives and also two children: Mrs. Dr. D. E. Stone, of Emmitsburg, and Dr. Jesse W. Downey, Jr., of Baltimore.

One sister, Mrs. H. H. Hopkins, Sr., and one brother, Frank Downey, of New Market, also survive.

He was an ardent Democrat and widely known in Maryland through his participation in a number of conventions as a delegate from Frederick county.

He was also widely acquainted through his connection with the Maryland National Guard, in which he served for many years as surgeon of the First Regiment, attending numerous encampments.

Frederick Reservoir Leaks.

Mayor Schell, the aldermen and Superintendent of Water Works Tyrrar, inspected the water supply of Frederick and discovered a big leak in the new reservoir, causing a loss of about 140,000 gallons daily.

The leakage is due to a defect in the side of the basin and it has caused a drop of three feet of the water in the reservoir in one week.

CORTRIGHT METAL SHINGLES

WHEN Cortright Metal Shingles were first introduced (24 years ago) you had some excuse for being sceptical:

But now—

If you are sceptical it can only be because you do not know the facts in the case.

They are used today from the Atlantic to the Pacific for all kinds of buildings, under all conditions.

They are fireproof, stormproof; never leak and last as long as the building itself without needing repairs.

RAYNER'S CALL

TO ARMS

prophecy that this would be the accomplishment has been fulfilled. The people, instead of being relieved, as promised, have been ground under the iron heel of New England's despotic policy of a tariff for protection with incidental revenue. If we do not make the country ring with the denunciation of this iniquity, then we are not capable of defending the cause we represent. Such a base and flagrant violation of a party's sacred pledge has never before taken place in all the history of political parties in this country. The people are ready to arise and avenge this wrong.

"This is the paramount and overwhelming issue that will arouse our party into action. There are other issues of great importance, but to anyone who has watched the reckless deeds in Congress of the dominant party from day to day, challenging and defying the public sentiment of the country, simply to swell the profits of monopoly, this one issue, an issue upon which we can proceed to victory, surpasses and surmounts them all."

After exposing several more weaknesses in the Republican party, Senator Rayner concluded as follows:

"The Republican party is constantly boasting of its political ancestors, and well it may of Lincoln, of Grant, of Blaine, of McKinley and others. I have great respect for the past record of the Republican party and I do not disparage it, as it is written in the history of the country. Speaking of it at the present moment, however, it has been well said that while it has one hand up, on the monument of its ancestors, it has the other hand in the pockets of the people. The time is ripe, therefore for Democratic ascendancy. The Republican party has separated itself from the masses and, body and soul has gone over to the classes. It stands bodily for the system and the interests.

"No one can tell at this moment who will lead our forces. Whoever it may be, we must all unite; and no attempt must be made to eliminate anyone, and our standard must blaze with the motto that the favored beneficiaries of the Government must surrender and that the ancient charter of the people must be restored.

"Inspired as I always am by the memory of Cleveland when a political agitation is on hand, I cherish the hope that the man who will carry our colors will be a worthy successor of that immortal patriot, who, after years of exile, led us twice to triumph and who in all the annals of our country upon the entire field of the Governmental service and upon the avenues of legislation, whenever he met the forces of greed and avarice, without any vain display, without advertising or parading his virtues and avoiding ostentation, was unflinching and relentless a foe as corruption ever encountered."

COURT OF APPEALS REVERSED

What Next?—Dispute Over Tract of Land on Littlestown Road.

According to Judge Motter the 40-acre tract of land of the estate of David Gillelan along the Littlestown road at Middle Creek, can not be divided without loss and injury to the heirs. Judge Motter gave this opinion in the suit brought by H. Morris Gillelan. From this decree the defendants appealed to the Court of Appeals, and that court, through Judge Burke, reversed the decree of Judge Motter, holding that the land could be divided without any injury or loss, and remanded the case to the lower court in order that a commission might be issued to divide the land in dispute, in the event the parties desired it.

The members of this commission, Messrs. R. E. Hockensmith, George T. Eyster, William Morrison, Isaac J. Gelwicks and Albert M. Patterson, viewed the tract and came to the unanimous decision that the Court of Appeals was wrong and that it was impossible to divide the property without loss.

A petition will likely be directed to the Court of Appeals asking for instructions as how it is possible for their clients to receive their interest out of the real estate in question.

THURMONT CELEBRATES OPENING OF ELECTRIC PLANT

Bands of Music, Yellow-Clad Soldiers, Speeches, Electric Illumination Part of Day's Sights.

Last Saturday Thurmont celebrated the completion of its electric light plant in a manner altogether fitting such an occasion. The streets were gayly decorated with bunting and flags. To add to the enjoyment of the day United States troops, A. B and D. of the Fifteenth Cavalry and two batteries of artillery, on the way to Gettysburg stayed over for the fun.

In the afternoon a team picked from among the soldiers played baseball with the Thurmont team. The game was a heavy hitting affair and finally resulted to the discomfort of the locals—the score was 13 to 11.

Toward nightfall the water was turned on at the new dam and the dynamo whirled and the lights shone forth. Everything went perfectly and Thurmont enjoys the proud distinction of being the best lighted town in Maryland. Speeches were made by Rev. C. B. Shaffer and Dr. E. C. Kefauver.

FREE TUITION FOR HIGH SCHOOL.

Several months ago this community as well as others that have High Schools were agitated over the question whether their High School should continue. This was due to the fact that a law has been enacted in the state of Maryland which divides all High Schools that are to receive State appropriation into two grades, the first to number 85 pupils and the second to number 35. Because our school never had this number, very many patrons feared that they would be deprived of the privilege of giving their boys and girls a finished academic course in a High School.

But at our annual Commencement, Prof. John T. White, Supt., of Frederick Co., Schools quieted these fears and "poured oil on the troubled waters" by announcing that our High School would be open next year as usual whether the 35 mark was reached or not. This was indeed very good news. Now comes an equal important announcement and probably just as welcome a one. Prof. White has recommended Free Tuition for the High Schools and our Commissioners have seen fit to grant the same. Therefore a High School training is in the reach of all. Parents who have hitherto been indifferent and been contending that it was beyond their means can hardly make any excuse whatever and keep a child out of High School. With a full equipment of modern textbooks and appliances, modern courses, including everything that a boy or girl needs when they get out into the world, and everything practical too, not merely theoretical, all should avail themselves of this opportunity. This coming September the Emmitsburg High School will have important changes in a few departments. Patrons and friends of the school have in the past cooperated in making their school an important factor in this community and we believe that with these new constructions as an incentive will even do more.

JOHN WANAMAKER'S PLAN.

"I never in my life," says John Wanamaker, used such a thing as a poster, a dodger, or a handbill. My plan for twenty-five years has been to buy so much space in a newspaper and fill it up with what I wanted. I would not give an advertisement in a newspaper of four hundred circulation for five thousand posters and dodgers. If I wanted to sell cheap jewelry or run a lottery scheme I might use posters, but I wouldn't insult a decent reading public with handbills."

C. E. INSTITUTE AND ASSEMBLY

Pen Mar July 18 to 22.—To Be a Great Summer Conference.

The Christian Endeavor Institute and Recreation Assembly which is to be held at Pen Mar July 18 to 22 will bring to this State the many special and delightful features of the larger summer conferences in the North. The great missionary gatherings at Silver Bay, Lake George, N. Y., will be somewhat reproduced in the daily mission study classes at Pen Mar. The Christian Endeavor Summer School at Sagamore Beach, Mass., will be represented in the School of Methods, the Northfield Summer Conference will be remembered in the stirring inspirational addresses which will be given each evening in the great auditorium. The geographical location of Pen Mar is as good as any of these Northern Summer Conference places and a great crowd is expected there this Summer.

In addition to the many delegates from the Maryland Societies a goodly number will attend from the District of Columbia and the nearby Pennsylvania counties. Special rates are made from all points on the Western Maryland Railroad and a flat rate of $2.50 for the round trip is charged from Baltimore. Board may be had at a low rate making the cost of the entire trip within $12.00.

ELECTION DISPUTE IN COURT

Office of City Register of Frederick the Bone of Contention.

The contest over the election of Michael A. McCaffrey for city register of Frederick has been taken to court. McCaffrey defeated Heck by one vote; this was disputed. The case will be heard to-day. Counsel for Mr. McCaffrey allege that Mr. Heck is not eligible to the office, as he was not a freeholder at the time of the election. Mr. Heck is contesting the election upon the ground that ballots were thrown out as improperly marked that should have been counted in his favor, and he has asked the court for a recount of the discarded ballots.

The question of eligibility was raised by counsel for McCaffrey on the ground that the law specifies that the candidate must be a property holder at the time of the election. Mr. Heck's counsel will contend that he is properly qualified, having become a property owner in the meantime.

UNIVERSITY OF PENN LEADS IN BASEBALL

Results of Season's Play on University and College Diamonds.—Line Up of Best "All Eastern" Team.

The University of Pennsylvania is adjudged the champion in baseball. Last year this institution held the same place. The following are the results of the season in the larger schools: Pennsylvania won 23 out of 29; Williams 11 out of 14, one tie game; Fordham 18 out of 23; Princeton 18 out of 25, two tie games; Amherst 12 out of 22. These are the first five; the next five are West Point, Dartmouth, Holy Cross, Columbia and Brown. The "All Eastern" nine would be best represented by the following:

Templeton of Williams, pitcher. De Mott of Lafayette, pitcher. Henry of Amherst, catcher. Chadbourne of Dartmouth, catcher. Murphy of Yale, first base. Norton of Dartmouth, second base. Mahoney of Holy Cross, shortstop. Mills of Williams, third base. Wood of Pennsylvania, left field. McHale of Maine, center field. Mahoney of Fordham, right field.

Truth About Lightning.

Now that we may expect seven electrical storms the following from an article by Donald Cameron Shafer in Country Life in America is very timely. Mr. Shafer says that a great many people actually believe that lightning can be blown into a house with a strong draft, and so always close windows and doors during a thunderstorm. With the terrific speed of lightning—186,000 miles a second—there is no danger of its being blown aside from its course, only that the wind might, and probably does, change the direction of the air currents, but not to such a degree as greatly to affect the direction of the discharge and carry it into a building. There is absolutely no record that I know of where a discharge of lightning from the sky struck the side of the house and came into an open window or an open door. Houses are struck, but they are always struck on the roof first, and nearly always on the very highest point of the roof at that, unless the current leaps off a telephone or electric wire. This is because, with the enormous voltage or pressure of lightning, dry wood is almost as good a conductor as copper wire is to a weaker current, and lightning, traveling in the easiest paths, quickly leaves the air, which is a non-conductor, to run down the wooden timbers of a building.

THE WEEKLY CHRONICLE.

ROAD COMMISSION HELD UP

High Price of Frederick Turnpike Company May Lead to Change in Route.

The State Roads Commission is of the opinion that they are being held up by the Frederick Turnpike Company. Seventy-two miles of this road, that is from Ellicott City to Hagerstown, at the company's price would cost the State $108,000. In view of this offer from the Frederick Turnpike Company the Commission is considering an offer from the owner of the Liberty Turnpike. Two miles of this road have already been presented to the State and the rest of it can be bought at a saving of about $150,000.

When the construction of the good road reaches Monocacy River, a distance of about three miles from Frederick, it is probable that the commission will diverge from the Frederick road to the Emmitsburg turnpike and enter Frederick along that road. It would mean the building of a bridge across the river, but it is believed by Mr. Tucker, of the Commission, that such a course would be justified.

ODDS AND ENDS

President Taft is now at his summer home at Beverly, Mass.

William Jennings Bryan is on his way back from England aboard a Montreal steamer.

Robert Taft's automobile ran down an Italian workman fracturing his skull. The accident happened at Beverly, Mass.

The National Education Association convenes in Boston to-morrow. Thirty-five thousand teachers will attend the 6-day exercises.

Porfirio Diaz was reelected president of Mexico on Sunday. Ramon Corral is vice president. This is the eighth term for Diaz.

Representative Beitler Ames of Massachusetts, has formerly announced his candidacy for the United States Senate, to succeed Henry Cabot Lodge.

Colonel Roosevelt will lecture in Washington before the National Geographic Society some time in November. The date has not yet been fixed.

Under the will of the late Elisha P. Wilbur, financier, and once president of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, an estate of $17,000,000 is bequeathed to his family.

The Vatican at Rome Saturday evening reiterated the statement, that all reports of the resignation of Cardinal Merry del Val, papal secretary of state, are entirely unfounded.

In a pitched battle with bandits on the streets of Lynn, Mass., a prominent shoe manufacturer and policeman were killed. The three bandits, one of whom killed himself, were captured.

Madison F. Larkin, of Scranton, was nominated for governor of Pennsylvania by the Prohibition State Convention, being chosen over H. T. Ames, an attorney of Williamsport, and D. Clarence Gibboney, of Philadelphia. Larkin received 92 votes to 33 for Ames and 16 for Gibboney.

Meager details reached Jackson, Miss., Monday of a race riot near Harrisville, Simpson county, on Sunday, which has cost two lives and from which more trouble is expected. Armed posses of several hundred white men are now in search for Negro fugitives.

It will probably be several months before postal savings banks will be opened under the law of the late Congress session. Various forms of blanks passbooks and other paraphernalia of the business must first be prepared and distributed, and before this is done models will be sought from foreign governments having postal savings systems.

A decision to construct the proposed $25,000,000 Chicago Terminal of the Pennsylvania Railroad has been reached by the management of the railroad in concurrence with the directors of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, the Chicago and Alton and the Chicago Burlington and Quincy Railroads, which will occupy the station jointly. All these roads now use the Union Station.

PRESIDENT TAFT SNUBS SEN. BRISTOW OF KANSAS

He Refuses to Allow Him to Name Postmaster in His Home Town.—Due to Resentment.

President Taft has denied Senator Bristow of Kansas, the privilege of naming the postmaster of his home town. It is said that Senator Bristow is the first Senator of the party in power to be denied this privilege since the time of Thomas H. Benton.

The course of the President in this matter is believed to be due to resentment of the attitude of Senator Bristow toward the Railroad bill, the Postal Savings Bank bill and other administration measures. The President has named as postmaster at Salina, Kan., in which town Mr. Bristow lives, Thomas D. Fitzpatrick, whom the Senator vigorously opposes. Mr. Bristow's candidate for the place was George M. Hull. Fitzpatrick was endorsed by Representative Calderhead, a devoted follower of Speaker Cannon.

Should the weather be inclement the Zora Picnics will be held on the Saturday evening following. 6-17-tf Charming Winter Hats Trimmed With Flowers For Pretty Women.

White beaver hats in rather moderate sizes are very stylish this year. A stunning hat of this kind with a high square crown and slightly rolling brim simply trimmed with a wreath effect in mauve dahlias was seen recently. Another charming model in white, of a larger size, in flat shape, was adorned with bunches of exquisite violets and their glossy brownish leaves about the low crown. Above the circle of violets at the left front was a beautiful white camellia.

An enormous chapeau of black beaver, flat and pancake of shape, is trimmed with a big bunch of black and white agrets, starting from the center of the hat and sticking out all over the crown in a smart, spiky fashion. Holding the agrets in place is a double Alsatian bow of bright, cherry colored velvet ribbon.

Still another hat of black beaver has a stiff wreath of large, perfectly dead white roses around the crown. A bow of black velvet is the only other adornment.

A pretty little walking hat is of navy blue felt in a small mushroom shape that is dented in a becoming manner over the face. Two great blue wings are arranged Mercury style at the sides and connected in front with a box plaited, upstanding trimming of changeable blue and green silk.

The dainty little dress illustrated is a practical and easy pattern to copy, and with a tucked yoke feather-stitched by hand a pretty little frock for the baby will be the result.

MODISTIC MATTERS.

Small Hats the Smartest Just Now Beware of Taupe Veiling.

The smartest women are all wearing small hats this winter. Of course the large hat is worn on real dress occasions, but the little hat is the correct thing for all around use.

In purchasing veils women should give attention not only to the fact that the veil matches the hat and gown, but that it looks well on the face.

A LONG SCHOOL COAT--3484.

A pattern of this long coat may be had in four sizes--for girls from six to twelve years of age. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number (3484), and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail.

Veils must be securely fastened with the barette and small hatpins. Now that taupe hats are worn women will think of buying veils to match. There is scarcely one woman out of ten that can wear a taupe veil.

For school wear no better model can be selected for a girl than the coat illustrated. Cheviot and serge are the materials used when the coat is designed for school, but for dress occasions broadcloth is employed. Bright red cloth is a favorite color this season

The Festive Codfish.

A correspondent of the New York Post says that the codfish frequents "the tablelands of the sea." The codfish no doubt does this to secure as nearly as possible a dry, bracing atmosphere. This pure air of the submarine tablelands gives to the codfish that breadth of chest and depth of lungs that we have so often noticed. The glad, free smile of the codfish is largely attributed to the exhilaration of this oceanic altitude. The correspondent further says that the "cod fish subsists largely on the sea cherry." Those who have not had the pleasure of seeing the codfish climb the cherry tree in search of food or clubbing the fruit from the heavily laden branches with chunks of coral have missed a very fine sight. The codfish when at home rambling through the submarine forests does not wear his vest unbuttoned as he does while loafing around the grocery stores of the United States--Bill Nye.

A High Priced Fricassee.

Lord Alvanley, a noted wit and high liver in England a hundred years or so ago, insisted on having an apple tart on his dinner table every day throughout the year. On one occasion he paid a caterer $1,000 for a luncheon put up in a basket that sufficed a small boating party going up the Thames. Being one of a dozen men dining together at a London club where each was required to produce his own dish, Alvanley's, as the most expensive, won him the advantage of being entertained free of cost. This benefit was gained at an expense of $540, that being the price of a simple fricassee composed entirely of the "noix," or small pieces at each side of the back, taken from thirteen kinds of birds, among them being 100 snipe, 40 woodcocks and 20 pheasants--in all about 300 birds.

Our Eccentric Phrases.

Why do we always talk of putting on a coat and vest? Who puts on a coat before a vest? We also say putting on shoes and stockings. Who puts on shoes before the stockings? We also put up signs telling people to wipe their feet when we mean their boots or shoes. And a father tells a boy he will warm his jacket when he means to warm his pantaloons. We are a little eccentric in our phrases at times.

Reckless.

"Aw, come on!" the little boy was heard to remark. "Be a sport. I'll bet yer any amount o' money up to 5 cents."--Harper's.

True Happiness.

About the happiest man in the world should be he that, having a fad, is able to make a living at it.--Chicago Record-Herald

Pottery and Secrecy.

In the royal manufactory of pottery at Meissen, Saxony, the work was formerly carried on with the utmost secrecy to prevent the processes from becoming known elsewhere. The establishment was a complete fortress, the portullis of which was not raised day or night, no stranger being permitted to enter for any purpose whatever. Every workman, even the chief inspector, was sworn to silence. This injunction was formally repeated every month to the superior officers employed, while the workmen had constantly before their eyes in large letters the warning motto, "Be Secret Unto Death." It was well known that any person divulging the process would be imprisoned for life in the castle of Koenigstein. Even the king himself when he took strangers of distinction to visit the works was enjoined to secrecy. One of the foremen, however, escaped and assisted in establishing a manufactory in Vienna, from which the secrets spread all over Germany.

Her Diamond Necklace.

Brown is a very careful man. He is superlatively careful. So careful is he that he has insured his insurance money.

Now, Brown has a wife. Wives have to be given birthday presents, and on his wife's first birthday after their marriage he gave her a beautiful diamond necklace. This was not as reckless as you might think, for each stone on the necklace represented a year of Mrs. Brown's life, and he let every one know that. And he arranged to give Mrs. Brown a new diamond each birthday. And he let the neighbors know that too.

He has just missed giving his wife a birthday present for the ninth successive year.

As to when greed will conquer pride and his wife will ask for another birthday present, we shall have to wait and see.--Pearson's.

Why Not Pass the Plate?

"They ought to pass the plate at church weddings. It comes natural to do it in church, and to do so would add a pretty and useful employment to the duties of the ushers, who always have a little spare time before the bride arrives. And, really, getting married is more expensive than ever, and, though wedding presents are excellent in their way, what the young people usually need the most is cash. Instead of the list of gifts which the newspapers sometimes print we should read, "The collection yielded $4,000,000." That would be nice. It is much easier to store and care for money than plate and glass! And money always fits and there is no such thing as an embarrassing duplication of dollars.--Life
