CHARITIES AND CORRECTION

ANNUAL CONFERENCE

To Be Entertained at Frederick in November

PROGRAM OF GENERAL INTEREST

Laymen, County Officials and Physicians Invited to General Meetings. —Subjects Concerning the Public Health.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday, November 17, 18 and 19 the annual Maryland conference of charities and correction will be held in Frederick. Mr. Joseph D. Baker is the president of the conference.

The programme arranged for this year is one of general interest. Subjects of vital importance will be discussed and a particular effort is being made to interest laymen, physicians and state and county officers in the advisability and importance for instance, of preventing diseases of all kinds, proper methods of sanitation and measures for the maintenance of public health. The discussion of these subjects will be of more than general interest and an effort will be made to avoid technical papers that these laymen may the easier grasp the significance of the subject.

Among the suggested topics for the general meetings are: Conservation of neighborhood and family resources and the diagnosis and treatment of individual family needs.

The committee in charge has arranged a very remarkable programme that will contain such names as Prof. L. H. Bailey, of Cornell University, who was chairman of Ex-President Roosevelt's "Country Life Commission," Francis H. McLean, of New York, Field Secretary of the Charity Organization Department of the Russell Sage Foundation; Frederick L. Hoffman, Chief Statistician of the Prudential Life Insurance Company of New York; Prof. Jacob H. Hollander, of the Department of Economics of the Johns Hopkins University; Prof. Irving Fisher, of Yale; Hon. John Jay Edson, of Washington, and Frederick H. Wines, of Springfield, Ill., besides many persons prominently identified with charitable and correction work in Maryland.

This meeting is not in itself a charitable institution, nor is it a convention of charities, but as its name signifies, a conference of those people who are vitally interested in the better care of the poor and of the wards of society, whether they be dependents, defectives or delinquents. It is out of such conferences as this in the various states, and the National Conference of Charities and Correction, that the best thought and practices have been evolved, until the American states are leading the world in their humanities.

A special invitation will be extended by the officers of the conference to members of boards of county commissioners and other county and municipal officials and special conferences are being arranged for superintendents and matrons of county homes.

ILLINOIS POLITICAL SITUATION IS SORDID

Staff Correspondent For Baltimore Sun Tells of Fierce Fight For Political Preference.

Sordid is the only word that fittingly describes the Illinois political situation. It is a fierce, dog-in-the-manger struggle for office, for patronage, for political power and prestige and for little else. It is a fight between politicians and it is waged upon a low plane. There is a Congressional contest, as in other States, except that there the issue between Insurgency and standpattism is not clean cut or well defined. The Democrats will gain a Congressman or so in the State as a result of the November election, and there is the possibility that the resentment among Republicans against the Taft administration and the Payne-Aldrich Tariff law, which lacking a leader though it did in the primaries last week deal smashing blows to the prominent standpat candidates, may sweep into office a lot more Democratic nominees who are merely trailing along in the hope of such revolutionary wave.

Spare Us, Mr. Ballinger!

"When I get footloose from public office I intend to devote a part of my time to giving to the American people some idea of the purity of the lives of my traducers," said Secretary of the Interior Richard A. Ballinger, at a banquet given in his honor by the Denver Chamber of Commerce and the Real Estate Exchange.

MAN HIGHER UP GUILTY

Culmination of Sugar Trust Prosecutions

C. R. HEIKE TO GO TO PRISON

Secretary and Treasurer of Refining Company That Used False Scales at Docks at Williamsburg.

The culminating point in the Government's prosecution of the American Sugar Refining Company was the trial and conviction of Charles R. Heike, former secretary and treasurer of the company, who has been called "the man higher up" in the Sugar Trust.

Heike was sentenced on Monday to serve eight months in the New York penitentiary on Blackwell's Island and pay a fine of $5,000 on conviction of conspiring to defraud the United States government by the underweighing of sugar.

Judge Martin granted a stay of execution of the sentence pending an appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. The court also reduced Heike's bail, which had been $25,000 pending sentence since his conviction last June, to $15,000.

These suits grew out of the extensive underweighing frauds on the Williamsburg docks of the trust, brought to light by Richard Parr's famous raid on the docks in 1907. Four weighers for the company and Oliver Spitzer, their dock boss, were convicted on the first criminal trial in connection with the frauds, and the weighers are still serving out their sentence of a year in the Blackwell's Island penitentiary. Spitzer, who was sentenced to two years in the Atlanta penitentiary was pardoned during the trial of Heike, Ernest W. Gerbracht, the refining superintendent, and four minor employes of the company for conspiracy. He turned state's evidence, and his testimony played an important part in the conviction of Heike, Gerbracht and the checkers. The sugar company meanwhile had paid the government more than $2,000,000, out of which it was shown the customs had been defrauded by the underweighing operations.

WM. BRYAN BREAKS ON COUNTY OPTION ROCK

Peerless Leader Bolts Party Ticket and Makes First Departure From Regulars Against Friend.

In a statement in which he declared that the crusade which he feels impelled to wage against the liquor interests of the state and nation overshadows a personal and political friendship of 20 years, William J. Bryan announced he had bolted the head of the Democratic state ticket in Nebraska and would not support James C. Dahlman for governor.

Mr. Bryan says he regrets that he is compelled to take the stand he does—his first departure from political regularity—but says he feels it his duty to do so because of the position taken by the Democratic nominee on the liquor question.

Secretary Ballinger Sued.

Richard A. Ballinger, Secretary of the Interior, was sued in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia Monday by Emerson B. Smith, a realty operator of New Mexico, who claims that after giving a final decision in his favor in a case involving valuable land adjoining the town of Clovis, N. M., acquired by Smith at a cost of $3,000 the Secretary reopened the case without authority of law and awarded the land to another, who seeks to oust Smith upon a technicality and Smith objects.

Chicago Fourth City In World.

The population of Chicago has been announced as being 2,185,283. Though the figures are not so high as anticipated, Chicago's position as the second city in the country and the fourth city of the world is assured, as the figures for Chicago are 600,000 in excess of Philadelphia. This assurance gives Chicago a place in the world's cities next to Paris and just above Berlin and Tokio.

Taft Wants Canal Fortified.

In the President's message to Congress in December he will recommend the appropriation of the $2,000,000 to begin the work of fortifying the Panama Canal. Mr. Taft has always favored the protection of the canal with great guns, and he thinks the time has arrived to begin the work.

Since the United States cruiser South Dakota went into commission three years ago 800 men have deserted from her. The navy officers are unable to account for the large number of desertions, but the enlisted men say that it is due to the fact that the glamour of life in the navy is not all that it is painted on the government's circulars.

GETTING READY FOR NOVEMBER

POLITICS OCCUPIES ATTENTION OF THE COUNTY

People Are Sizing Up Calibre of Men Rather Than Sticking to Close Party Lines

HON. DAVID J. LEWIS' CHANCES IN SIXTH GROWING STRONGER

Republican Party Smarting Under Wounds Received During Primary That Will Not Heal.—"Stranger" Warner Gains Little Popularity With the Republican Voters.—Democratic Hopes Throughout the Country as Told in Exchanges.

Every effort is being made here, there and elsewhere to allay the political fever that has attacked the people. Politicians do not fancy the interest the "rank and file" show in the election for next November. While this is a government of the people, and by and for as well, the "leaders" do not want it to be so much so as present conditions indicate. Take the Sixth Maryland District for instance. At the primaries the two parties had their candidates up for selection. On the Democratic side the people selected Hon. David J. Lewis. The Republican party also presented candidates but the people could not express their unbiased opinion of the fitness of the men on account of the activity of the "leaders" and a stranger, Warner, was selected. In consequence of this procedure the "rank and file" are listening to Lewis and it looks as if the people's candidate would win notwithstanding he is a Democrat in a Republican crowd.

This activity of the voters, this care in selection and spirit of discernment is called factionalism by some, and resented by all Simon Pure politicians. The other day Mr. Warner, at a meeting of Montgomery county Republicans when a chairman was selected for the county committee by a majority of the members, but not in accordance with his desire, took the floor and expressed in strong terms his disapproval of the selection of a man against the protest of the candidate. He declared this action to be a thing "unheard of," and added with evident contempt, "it means the petty quarrels of the primaries will be carried into the election." This declaration from the candidate, after a harmonious meeting, came as a shock to those present, and the committee hastily adjourned.

This was but natural considering those who made Mr. Warner a candidate, he being distinctly not a "people's choice," but a spoiled political child of a very strong organization. It is openly said that there are many "unheard of things" in store for him at the hands of the people, and also it is thought that the organization that adopted him will find it necessary to let him know just where he stands between this and election day. The whole thing is unfortunate for Warner and the Republican party. Harmony is only apparent here or in the other counties of the district when Mr. Lewis is under discussion.

At the Democratic county committee meeting in Frederick on last Saturday afternoon the best of feeling prevailed and from the trend of affairs it seems that the Democrats will take advantage of every politically wrong move made by their opponents. Mr. Lewis attended the meeting and spoke in a confident manner of his election. He said he would carry Allegany.

PRIMARY CANDIDATES FILE EXPENSE ACCOUNTS

What It Cost Hagner, Blair and Warner.—Winner Spent $141.25, The Other Two Accounts Larger.

The political agents of the several Republican candidates who contested for the congressional nomination in the recent primaries have filed their reports with court clerk.

Alexander R. Hagner filed his own report. His expenses were $260, of which $125 was paid to the election supervisors of the five counties in the Sixth district. The other expenses were for messenger service, railroad tickets, hotel bills, postage, stationary, etc.

Gist Blair's expenses, according to the detailed report of his treasurer, Attorney Joseph W. Wolfinger, were $228.97. The contributions embraced $125 from Mr. Blair. His expenses consisted of stationery, printing, messenger service, etc.

The expenses of Brainard H. Warner, Jr., who won the nomination, were according to the statement of his treasurer, former Court Clerk Harry E. Baker, $141.25, and comprised messenger service and cab hire. The contributions were: From Mr. Warner, $125; unknown, $16.25; total, $141.25.

Five persons were injured, two fatally, during a panic following a tenement house fire in New York Monday.

by a majority twice as large as he got over Pearce two years ago. "In every county," he said "the belief is prevalent that we will win, and this spirit goes a long way toward victory. Two years ago there was practically no expression among Democrats that the party would win, but in this campaign I find it everywhere. The only thing that will defeat me will be failure on the part of Democratic voters to come out on election day, but I do not think this will happen."

He said the party is well organized over the entire district, and in good shape for a hard campaign. He will spend about 10 days at a time in each county besides occasional other visits. Beginning about October 4 he will spend his time in this county, and he expects to attend the fair.

From various exchanges, to quote Bourke Cockran, "political affairs are in a state of flux." Of course Roosevelt is the whole show. The Courier-Journal of Louisville says:

We do not believe that Theodore Roosevelt will be able to "Bryanize" the Republican party. In our opinion he has "bit off more than he can chew." His day will be short-lived. Already the country is waking up to the meaning of his crusade. If he should beat the Old Guard at Saratoga, obtaining both his platform and his nominee, and approving himself the whole show he will have to carry the succeeding election in November. Failing of this, down he goes, "like Maginot to the bottom of the sea," from which no life saving station will be in reach to rescue him. If, on the other hand, the bosses beat him, his fling will be prolonged until 1912, to meet in the national Republican convention either personal shipwreck or a party riven from stem to stern.

Speaking of conditions in New York, the Washington Herald says it is a political row to the death.

Nearly thirty years have elapsed since the famous fight within the Republican party of the Empire State that rent the organization in twain and made the way clear to the Democracy to elect a President of the United States.

Then it was Regular vs. Half-breed. To-day it is Old Guard vs. Insurgent.

Thirty years ago the spoils of office precipitated the internecine strife; now it is a life and death struggle for control of the party machinery. The governorship and the electoral vote of the State are involved to-day, as they were involved then, and the Republican party will be fortunate, indeed, confronted with an equally threatening situation, if it escape the loss of both.

The nomination of a man like William J. Gaynor undoubtedly will mean this year a Democratic victory unparalleled since Cleveland's victory over Folger.

BALTIMORE'S WATER SUPPLY SHORTAGE ALARMS PEOPLE

Supplies Will Last 20 Days If People Observe Strictest Economy.—Drinking Water All Right.

The water situation in Baltimore city and county is alarming but there is no fear of an absolute lack of drinking water. The strictest economy is being enforced by the police. The supplies in the reservoirs will last twenty days if the appeals made to people to lower the daily consumption are heeded.

The opinion prevails among the members of the Baltimore Water Department that now is the time to economize and prepare for any emergency. The consumption of the City water has been considerably reduced by the public appeals, and the problem which is now presented is to reduce that consumption to such an extent that it will be less than the stream supply, no matter how low that may fall. A total of 72,000,000 gallons is now being consumed daily by the city, and Water Engineer Quick stated that it is hardly possible that the stream supply will shrink to less than 50,000,000 gallons a day. What Baltimore must do is to reduce its daily water consumption to that amount.

Portuguese police discovered a bomb factory in Lisbon and arrested 10 persons, one of whom confessed to existence of a political plot.

CENSUS IN MARYLAND

Changes it Brings About in Representatives

FREDERICK MAY GAIN DELEGATE

In National House This State May Lose One Representative if Present Ratio is Increased.

The federal census means much to Maryland. By the federal figures is compiled the total representation of several counties in the House of Delegates.

By the corrected census of 1900 Dorchester and Prince Georges and Montgomery counties, each gained a delegate.

It is claimed that the new census will give an additional delegate to Allegany, Caroline, Frederick, Howard and Kent.

By the Federal census is also determined Maryland's representation in the lower House of the national congress. If the present ratio of representation is increased, as is likely, Maryland may lose one representative. Certainly a reapportionment of the congressional districts of the state by the next General Assembly will be necessary.

A conservative estimate of Maryland's population as determined by the recent census is 1,500,000. This figure is arrived at on a basis of 12 per cent. during the past decade. For the 10 years between 1890 and 1900 the increase was 14 per cent., and the same increase may have been maintained since 1900, but the fact is not overlooked in considering the probable rate of increase that the older state the more staple the population. Immigration decreases, while emigration is apt to increase. Final figures will not be announced by the Census Bureau for several weeks.

According to the federal census of 1900 the population of Maryland in that year was 1,190,050. The state census taken in 1901 showed the population to be 1,181,651.

THE IRISH ARE COMING HURRAH! HURRAH!

Emigration From The Emerald Island Is Again on the Increase.—Home Government Complains.

The home government is complaining over the fact that too many Irish are leaving Ireland this year. The following is taken from an Irish journal:

"The Irish emigration statistics prove unsatisfactory; 1,861 persons left this country during July, as compared with 1,602 for July of last year, an increase of 259. Of the emigrants 1,097 were males and 764 females. In all 20,816 persons have left Ireland during the first seven months of 1910, an increase of 2,407 over the same period in 1907. The total emigration last year was 28,677. Emigration seems likely to reach 32,060 for the year."

Government Employs 15,000 Negroes.

According to a campaign book recently issued by the Republican National Committee, there are nearly 15,000 Negroes employed by the Government. Their total salaries aggregate $8,255,761. Eleven are official of the Diplomatic and Consular Services; 11 are officers in the United States Army; nearly 8,000 are employed in the Postal Service. The number employed in departments in Washington is 5,768, 703 of whom are in the Treasury, 571 in the Government Printing Office and 421 in the Department of the Interior.

Economy in Government Printing.

The policy of economy which is the watchword at the Treasury Department is reflected in the annual report of the director of the Bureau of Printing and Engraving. Director J. E. Ralph shows that the bureau has done 11 per cent. more work on about $172,000 less than it did the year before. More than $90,000 has been saved by reducing the size of the internal revenue stamps for cigars.

MODIFY HOUSE MEMBERSHIP

CALLED FOR BY CENSUS

Congress to Have Lively Fight Over Question

THE SMALLER STATES MAY LOSE

Republicans Are Expected to Strive to Reduce Number of Members From the South.—How Seats Can be Manipulated.

One of the first questions with which the approaching session of Congress will be called upon to grapple will be to determine when the next apportionment of members of the House of Representatives under the recent census shall be made.

The Constitution requires that a reapportionment shall follow each decennial enumeration of the people, and accordingly a redistribution of seats in the House membership takes place soon after the conclusion of each census.

Apportionment can be used for party advantage through the manipulation of population fractions in the various States. The size of the House once determined, the representation of each State is arrived at by dividing the aggregate population of the country by the total membership of the House and then dividing the population of any given State by the quotient thus obtained. Almost inevitably there ensues upon each of such divisions a remainder, large or small. Aside from arbitrarily fixing the representation on the number of voters rather than the actual population, this remainder or fraction, affords the base of manipulation of the apportionment of members.

If used to the extreme, it might be an important factor, as no fewer than 23 Representatives now hold their seats on fractions. That they should do so is strictly in accordance with the law, which provides that any deficiency occurring on an even division shall be supplied from the States having the largest remainders on the division. This rule was strictly followed in the last apportionment in all allotments except those made to Maine and Nebraska. In both those States Congress exercised somewhat arbitrary power by giving each a Representative on a fraction less than the fractions of other States which received nothing because of their own fragments. This action was taken to prevent the loss of representation by any State.

If the policy of allowing no reduction should be accepted in the approaching apportionment, it might upset the plans of some of the leaders who are most anxious to avoid any appreciable increase in the size of the House. The census experts already understand that when the figures are made public it will show that some of the smaller Eastern States have failed to keep pace in growth with their larger neighbors and with many Western States. If, therefore, they are to be protected against loss of representation it will be necessary to hold the ratio down to something like the present basis or to discriminate

MAYOR GAYNOR SCORES NEW YORK JOURNALISM

In Absolute Defiance Of The Criminal Law.—Ready To Fight Scoundrels In Newspaper Business.

Mayor William J. Gaynor in a letter to his sister scored certain newspapers for the manner in which they had attacked him, saying:

"Such journalism is, of course, in absolute defiance of the criminal law, and it did enter my mind to publicly call on the grand jury and the District Attorney to protect me from it, but I was weak and feared people would say I was thin-skinned. But the time is at hand when the journalistic scoundrels have got to stop or get out, and I am ready now to do my share to that end. They are absolutely without souls. If decent people would refuse to look at such newspapers, the thing would right itself at once. The journalism of New York city has been dragged to the lowest depth of degradation. The grossest raieries and libels, instead of honest statements and fair discussion, have gone on unchecked."

Gettysburg College Opens.
Gettysburg College opened on Monday with an address of welcome in Brum Memorial Chapel by the new president, William Anthony Granville, Ph. D., who comes from the faculty of Yale University. The venerable ex-president, Dr. McKnight, also took part in exercises. It was a most auspicious opening, the spirit of college loyalty and enthusiasm shown being extraordinary. In every department there is a gratifying increase over last year in the number entering. The new students are also better prepared than formerly and they have come from a wider territory than ever before. The dormitories are all full and the overflow of students must now secure rooms in the town.

The Y. M. C. A. reception given in Recitation Hall Monday evening in honor of the new president and the new students, was the largest in the history of Gettysburg College.

Help Out The Bureau.
The law compels the Maryland State Bureau of Immigration to collect a fair estimate of the result of the diverse crops in the counties, but did not make any provision for it. The Bureau, therefore requests any respectable farmer, who has the interest of his section at heart, to furnish a reliable estimate of the possible result of the wheat and grain crops in general, as well as other products, in his district. The address of the bureau is 11 E. Lexington street, Baltimore, Md.

in favor of the smaller States.

A loss of membership would be by no means a new experience to many States. In the first apportionment, made after the census of 1790, when the House numbered all told only 105 members, Virginia was given 19, almost one-fifth of the entire membership, and in 1800 that number was increased to 23. Then there was a gradual falling away until 1870, when there were only 9 members from that State. Since then there has been a gain of one from Virginia.

Barring the first apportionment, Connecticut began with 7 members and now has five. Maryland has been reduced from 8 to 6 and New Hampshire from 4 to 2. Vermont, which in 1810 had six members, now has 2, while Maine, with 8 in 1830, has been reduced to 4. Massachusetts has the same number with which she started in 1790. In 1810 the number was increased to 17, but by the next apportionment it had fallen to 13, and the original figure of 14 was not regained until 1900.

The first apportionment made by the Constitution itself provided for one member to every 30,000 inhabitants, with the result that at its first session the House contained only 65 members. The census of 1790 resulted in an increase of 105, with 33,000 as the basis of representation. From that time forth with one exception, the increase both in representation and ratio has been steady.

The old leaders are anxious to keep the size of the House down, and few of them will admit the possibility of an enlargement to beyond 400 or 410 at the utmost.

The question of the disfranchisement of the Negro vote in the Southern States will receive attention in connection with the question of apportionment. The House is even now on record in favor of an inquiry into this subject.

DRY CORN FOR HOGS.

Results of Experiments Made by the Iowa Agricultural Station.

The Iowa experiment station (bulletin 106) has made investigations relative to the preparation of corn for hogs. Six forms of corn were tested—dry ear corn, soaked shelled corn, dry cornmeal, soaked cornmeal, dry corn and cob meal and soaked corn and cob meal. The experiment included 312 hogs of all ages, fed in thirty-two lots. The results were summarized and the conclusions drawn that dry corn is highly relished by hogs and the most convenient to feed. Owing to the greater time required to masticate it, pigs ate it more slowly than soaked corn and cornmeal.

DUROC-JERSEY BARROW

The fastest and most economical gains were obtained by feeding dry ear corn until the hogs were close to 200 pounds in weight. Attention is called to the fact that whether fed dry or soaked before feeding, a bushel of corn ground without the cob made more pork than a bushel of corn ground with the cob. A bushel of ear corn made as much gain as one and one-third bushels ground into corn and cobmeal at the expense of 6 cents a bushel.

Writing on this subject, the American Swineherd says:

The farmer who makes a practice of raising grain exclusively, hauling it to the elevator and selling it is robbing himself, or, in other words, depleting the fertility of the farm.

Every year as the crop is gathered and sold off the place it is left with decreased productive power for the future. It is like mining or digging out the value of the soil and shipping to the market. It is selling your farm virtually through the elevator.

Selling the corn by the hog route or through any other live stock is retaining the fertility. By a proper system of diversified farming and rotation of crops you can build up and improve instead of destroying the productiveness.

For the Farmer With Brains.

The root is the foundation of the plant. It should be stimulated to early and continuous growth by the best care in the beginning.

Riding up on the hay stack is a dangerous form of sport. Rather use the ladder to get on the stack. There is no telling when a rope, a pulley or a timber will break.

It is very important to make the soil a vast storehouse of moisture for orchard trees since they must have large quantities if they are to produce profitably.

Rusty garden tools may be brightened by soaking in sour milk whey for twelve hours, then brushed. A coat of kerosene should then be applied.

Never offer for sale any food product you would be ashamed to put on your own table.

Alfalfa is not a lazy man's crop. It is a hustler, and it makes the man hustle. These two hustles make the mighty dollar.

The side lines in farming may be made into life lines.

North America produces about one-third of the world's wheat, which totals about two and three-quarter billion bushels.

To Keep a Cow From Sucking.

A subscriber of the Iowa Homestead at Birmingham, Ia., says that the best plan he has ever tried to keep a cow from sucking herself is to put a surcingle around her body and run a pole from the lower part of it to her halter. Just make it long enough so it will not interfere with eating, and she will be obliged to behave herself after that.

Washington, the nation's capital, can not be reached from any direction without traveling through miles of exhausted and abandoned soil.

Why Cabbage Decays.

A recent government publication dealing with the causes of decay of cabbage in storage states that rot and leaf blight are the immediate causes of this decay. The organisms which cause decay gain access to the leaf through bruises and injuries due to the careless handling and through leaves infected with black rot.

USING POULTRY MANURE.

Three Farmers Express Opinions About Its Value as Fertilizer.

The following opinions concerning the use of poultry manure were gathered by the Orange Judd Farmer:

"As poultry manure is the richest and most valuable farm fertilizer I take special care of it. The most profitable way I have found in disposing of it is to use it as a top dressing for grass. It is also especially valuable for onions and newly set strawberry plants. Corn and nearly all garden crops do well with it. It is especially rich in nitrogen and is quickly available for the use of plants. I never mix it with wood ashes or anything that contains lime, because lime sets free the nitrogen in the form of ammonia. Sifted coal ashes are not objectionable, nor is gypsum. Sand and loam are useful; dry muck is especially so."—Henry R. Ingalls, Greene County, N. Y.

"I have applied several hundred bushels of poultry manure mixed with twice its bulk of stable manure in the fall or early spring to corn land that was badly run down. The result was a yield at the rate of eighty-three bushels of corn to the acre. I have also used considerable poultry manure on the garden, but here it should be applied in the fall and harrowed or disked in to give best results. If applied in the spring it often burns tender plants. My best results have come on the corn. In my estimation it is much better than any complete fertilizer costing $24 to $30 a ton, provided it is kept dry by being mixed, as made, with muck or other good absorber."—Fred Grundy, Greene County, Ill.

"Every day I sprinkle the dropping boards in my poultry house with sifted coal ashes and clean them off every morning. The manure thus secured is spread on the garden in preference to every other fertilizer. My garden beats those of all my neighbors."—E. B. Leek, Suffolk County, N. Y.

A SOFT, FULL BLOUSE.

embroidered robes are designed with trimmings of muskrat, black fox and moleskin.

Fur faced hats are also talked about, and the shops are showing charming toques of grebe feathers adorned simply with one black wing, which in connection with the white glossy feathers is exceedingly chic.

Quantities of velvet will be used on winter hats. Toques and turbans made entirely of satin and velvet are meeting with favor this fall.

The soft, full blouse that is cut in one with the sleeves is an attractive model. The blouse pictured is made with a plastron and yoke in one and is especially adapted to combinations.

FOOTGEAR NOTES.

Vagaries of the Mode in Smart Shoes For the Winter Time.

Street shoes this winter will be made of black Russia and dull calf leather, with a patent leather and cloth combination for more dressy shoes.

Vamps are still short, and heels are seven-eighths inches high on street models, and a longer pointed toe is noticeable.

More laced boots will be worn than for some seasons past. As a rule, women do not take kindly to laced boots, but when the instep is high these often fit better than buttoned shoes.

AN EASILY MADE NIGHTGOWN

To be worn with fur trimmed costumes there are boots with fur collars and fur weltings, to be classed as novelties. These are very striking effects.

Properly fitting shoes keep their shape and appearance of newness longer and are more satisfactory in service than those that are either too large or too small.

One piece garments have become a veritable craze, and the nightgown that is made with milkado or kimono sleeves is among the latest and best liked. This one is exceedingly dainty and can be made in an hour or so.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

This May Manton pattern is cut in three sizes—small 32 or 34, medium 36 or 38 and large 40 or 42. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 6748, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage, which insures more prompt delivery.

THE FARMER'S CREED.

I believe in stacking, in the pointed tops grouped in every grove and barnyard. I believe in the manure spreader. I believe in farmers' picnics and Chautauqs and fishing trips, in getting away for a day now and then after the summer season's work is over. I believe in the fall pastures of rape in the stubble fields when the blue grass takes its summer rest.—Iowa Homestead.

$500 FOR THREE DAYS' WORK

How It Paid a Kansas Boy to Use Diskers Before Plowing Wheat.

Last year the extension department of the Kansas State Agricultural college issued a circular urging disking wheat immediately following the header, to be plowed two or three weeks later. Most of the farmers thought this would be too much trouble for the increase in yield it might bring, but a boy in Edwards county persuaded his father to let him have thirty acres on which to try that plan. His older brother also had thirty acres adjoining his field, which he put in in the ordinary way, the same as his father did 1,000 acres. The soil was the same, the seed wheat was the same, and the rainfall was the same.

The only factor that differed in the history of the crop was the disking of the wheat stubble immediately after the header. Yet the wheat thrashed out forty-six bushels and ten pounds to the acre for the ground that had been so treated, and the brother's yield was only twenty-five bushels. That was about the average for the 1,000 acres of the farm also. Wheat at 90 cents would pay the boy who disked before time to plow about $500 for three days' work.

Transplanting.

Transplanting such vegetables as tomatoes and cabbage is of value in making the plants stocky and in developing the root system. In transplanting care should be taken not to break too many roots. If the ground is moistened before the plants are taken up the dirt will cling to the roots and few of them will be broken. The garden trowel is the best implement with which to take up plants for transplanting. The same instrument may be used to make the hole in which the plants are to be placed. See that the roots are spread out well and not all compacted in one bunch. Transplanting in the evening had better be done toward evening or on a cloudy day to prevent wilting. If the ends of part of the leaves are pinched off evaporation will be checked and the plant's chance for living through the operation improved. A little water poured into the hole will help if the soil is dry. A piece of paper placed over each plant and held down with clods for the first day or so will help them to get a start.

Dairy Products Worth $1,000,000,000.

According to the last year book of the department of agriculture, there are 21,720,000 milk cows in the United States, and these are worth $702,945,000. The magnitude of the industry can perhaps be best understood when it is considered that these cows produce yearly about $1,000,000,000 worth of dairy products.

Muslin Window For Cow Stable.

Cows should not stand facing a window unless the window be covered with muslin. By the way, the muslin window in a cow stable is better by far than glass. It gives a subdued light and furnishes ideal ventilation.

THE BATTLE IN THE SIXTH.

The primaries are over, Central Committees have met, plans have been outlined and all is in readiness for the campaign leading up to the election of a Congressman on November the eighth.

In this, the Sixth Congressional district, there bids fair to be a very hotly contested fight and the conditions that were brought about by the recent domination of what has been very widely advertised as "The Organization" will be more than interesting in Republican ranks, owing to the publicity given the alleged acts of, and the adverse criticism directed toward the acknowledged head of that "Organization" for what was claimed to be overactive participation, on his part, in county politics.

Just here, the Republican opponents of Mr. B. H. Warner, Jr., point out a glaring inconsistency on the part of the supporters of the young District of Columbia lawyer. It was claimed, by the "Organization," that that body resented Mr. Blair's nomination, on the ground that he was Mr. Taft's candidate—the would-be nominee of one man. Mr. Blair beat Mr. Warner in every county but Frederick, and it is asserted by anti-Warner Republicans, (and there seem to be plenty of them) that Mr. Warner's victory was not his own, not a victory won for him by the people, but the result of the alleged bossism of one man whose candidate he, Mr. Warner, was.

There was certainly not anything of a popular nature about Mr. Warner's success, claim his Republican adversaries, but on the other hand, much that is significant in the fact that he was repudiated by the majority vote of the very county which he claims as his place of residence—the one county, above all, where his fitness or unfitness for office would naturally be best known.

From this it can be readily perceived that the wounds inflicted on each other by the different factions of the Republican party during the recent skirmish in the Sixth are deep and painful.

Moreover, from general report, there is rancour in the hearts of the leaders of the various clans. The fight became very personal in the primaries and the indications are that the feuds that were rife at that time will continue with unabated ferocity until the very day of the election. Nor are the wounds inflicted in this first encounter only surface wounds, such as leaders of warring factions in a political party might expect, but deep wounds that mortify as well as sting.

Under ordinary conditions the get-together-and-bury-the-hatchet principle, usually prevalent in the Republican ranks, would be sufficient to "smooth the wrinkled frock of war," pour oil on the troubled waters and set all things right; but this time it will not avail, say those within the party, and this election, they claim, will be not for the choice between the people's candidates, but between a candidate nominated by one man and another nominated by popular vote.

TO THE WEATHER MAN.

O, dear, kind Mr. Moore, Mr. Willis Moore we mean, are you losing all control of this here weather? Have the wheels all slipped their cogs in your atmosphere machine? Or is the old thing broken down quite altogether? Can it be sir do you think, that some ill-concealed hot ire, has o'er heated all the lobes in your big brain? So that you and our old friend J. Pluvius Esquire, can't come to terms about a settled rain? Heaven knows, Mr. Moore, we are very fond of you, and your work it used to give great satisfaction. But you've boiled us and you've baked us, and you've put us in a stew, and now you're driving us to real distraction. Has Pluvius lost his job, or broken up his water can? Or is he now away upon a long vacation? Has T. R. late come forth and ordered that you put a ban, on water for the sake of conservation? How would it be, kind sir, if you fired a gun to bust, all the clouds that carry liquid in their lining? Don't you think you could dissolve that infernal dry-up trust, that is setting all the farmers to repining? O, dear, kind Mr. Moore what we want is not a drizzle, and let us make this matter to you plain. Everything you've lately done in this line has been a fizzle, and we'd have you know that what we want's wet rain. So now Professor Moore try to get yourself together, for with feeble efforts we are very tired. And if you don't send down a bunch of good and soaking weather, b'gosh we'll see to it that you are forthwith fired.

THE WATER FAMINE.

The serious conditions prevalent in many parts of the state due to the scarcity of water are really lamentable. Owing to the long continued drought cities and towns everywhere are being confronted with problems which have caused much anxiety and which have also required the best efforts of municipalities to work out to even partial satisfaction. Water is absolutely essential to health and to the well being of the populace, and, even if it be not of the highest quality, to have an unlimited supply is a blessing which most communities cherish. To be brought face to face, then, with a water famine is in the nature of a positive calamity. Indeed the very thought of the probability of disease epidemics resulting from the scarcity of this life-giving commodity is in itself almost enough to precipitate disease.

That Emmitsburg enjoys an enviable reputation in having not only fine water but an unusually good supply of it is thoroughly appreciated by those who use it. It is generally conceded that the mountain water supplied to this town has no peer anywhere. Doubly careful therefore should the people of Emmitsburg be in the use of it, being particular that no leakage in house pipes occurs and that the water be put to only proper uses.

"The Rockefellers are to hold a family reunion," says the Philadelphia Inquirer. This, of course, means that all the other "fellers" will have to chip in and help to pay the fiddler.

THE NEW NATIONALISM.

Here's the latest, greatest cure-all that you ever saw or smelt; It is sold and manufactured by old Dr. Roosevelt; It will turn the nation inside out and also outside in, And cleanse it of original and other kinds of sin; It will utterly destroy each fundamental institution And relieve the irritation of a useless Constitution; It will nullify the Bill of Rights, eliminate the courts, And remove the worst excrescences from Congress down to warts.

It contains the well-known remedies in Dr. Bryan's name, On the discovery of which still rests Karl Marx's fame; The same that Dr. Debs prescribed when sometimes candidate, And one time peddled far and wide by "Bloody Bridles" Waite— Those socialistic sirups that are warranted to keep In any kind of climate and to make the patient sleep, And recommended by the "Pops" in their once "sacred cause" To anaesthetize the judges and to paralyze the laws. Then into the decoctions there is poured with iron hand Some strong imperial essence of the Kaiser Wilhelm brand, And next bromidian platitudes are dropped into the mass, Which is highly carbonated then with conservation gas; Meanwhile is added righteousness until it's very thick, Then it's brought up to the boiling point and stirred with the Big Stick; And when it's done he bottles it and furiously shakes it, Then throws the patient on the floor and chokes him till he takes it. —Richard Linthicum, in N. Y. World.

In the Afternoon.

Past is the golden noontime of the year; The sun has turned his glowing face away And to the South draws nearer, day by day The shadows of earth's afternoon are here. Gone is the joyousness of happy spring; The wild flowers and the roses bloom no more; The birds no longer sing about the door, But wheel from tree to tree with restless wing. The crucible of summer boils no more; The elements are fused, and wait the day When Nature, the artificer, shall pour Their jewelled contents out along our way; All that the summer wrought, then man will make his own, And with her largesse gild his undisputed throne.

COL. ROOSEVELT LOST SOME IN NEW YORK PRIMARY

Barnes Claims Majority of 55 For Sherman.—Vice-President Loses Own Assembly District and Ward.

William Barnes, Jr., speaking for the regular Republican organization, when he learned of the results of the Republican primaries throughout New York had this to say Tuesday night: "The result of today's primaries ends the contest over the temporary chairmanship of the Republican State Convention and gives Vice President Sherman a clear majority of 55 votes over both the Roosevelt-Griscorn-Greiner faction and the doubtful delegates." Vice President Sherman was defeated in his own election district by the progressive Republicans at the primaries in Utica though he carried the city by gaining delegates in a scant majority of the wards.

A large barn on the Linganore Hills Farm, east of Frederick, belonging to Miss Emma Brown, was burned Saturday afternoon. A large quantity of grain and some farming implements were destroyed. The flames started in a straw rick and communicated to the barn.

Thaddeus McCauley Biser, a well-known member of the Frederick county bar and former magistrate, died Sunday night at his home, Sandigan, west of Frederick, of cancer, aged 55 years. Mr. Biser, who was a son of the late Daniel Biser, was born in the Middletown Valley.

A barn on the farm of James Wallace, near Burkittsville, was burned last Friday afternoon, with 1,300 bushels of wheat, a quantity of hay and some farming implements. With the exception of one bull, the live stock was saved. A wagon shed and two straw stacks were also burned. The loss, which is heavy, is about half covered by insurance.

Mayor J. McPherson Scott, of Hagerstown, has asked the State Board of Health, Baltimore, to send an expert there and procure samples for analysis of the Antietam creek water, which the Washington County Water Company is now supplying to Hagerstown consumers. The Mayor and Council at a special meeting discussed the advisability of instituting suit to have the Water company enjoined from furnishing Antietam creek water, which is said to be badly polluted, but the city officials deemed that such a course would be unwise, as the supply of mountain water on hand is very limited.

DOCTOR KIEFFER AND AUTOMOBILES

Condemned in Sermon Practice Of Using Machines on Sunday to Gratify Lust for Amusement.

Rev. Dr. J. Spangler Kieffer, president of the Potomac Synod of the Reformed Church in the United States, in a sermon in Zion Reformed Church, Hagerstown, on "Sabbath Desecration," referred to the auto as a home-breaker and a Sabbath-breaker. He said the automobile was here and it had come to stay. The invention was one to call forth admiration, and rightly used, it would be a blessing to mankind. He condemned the practice of those who use the automobile on the Sabbath to gratify their lust for amusement, excitement and sensation and those who go on Sunday spees.

Persons who are confirmed to hard physical or mental labor during six days of the week, he said, and who seek healthful recreation on Sunday, are not to be condemned if they take an automobile ride into the country for fresh air, but even such, he thought, should find at least one hour on Sunday to give to the worship of God.

STEALS 105 BASES

An Outfielder in the New York State League Breaks Previous Records.

William H. Zimmerman, of Newark, N. J., outfielder on the Utica team of the New York State League, which closed its season Sunday, broke all records for base stealing in organized baseball for the past fourteen years. During the season now ended he stole 105 bases.

There have been but four times previous to this year when over 100 bases have been stolen in one season by a player. Twenty years ago, Hamilton, of the National League, stole 102, and he went that number thirteen better in the following year.

Tom Brown, when playing with the old American Association in 1891, stole 110 bases. Brown at that time was one of the fleetest outfielders in baseball. Lange in 1896, stole an even 100.

APPLES IN FREDERICK COUNTY

Chance To Win Distinction in This Branch of Agriculture and Head The List of Wealthy Counties.

Supplementing the article that appeared in last week's CHRONICLE on Apples in Western Maryland, Mr. James H. Gambrill, Jr., president of the Frederick Board of Trade and of the Frederick County Farmers' Exchange comes out with a statement that if Frederick county farmers went into the apple producing business extensively and energetically this county would soon rank first in the country in the value of its agricultural products.

"In recent years," says Mr. Gambrill, apples have attracted much attention and large amounts of capital have been invested in apple producing lands and orchards. Some of the counties in our neighboring States of Virginia and West Virginia are not only advertising and making known their ability successfully to produce apples of quality, but each year are making good their claims by bring into their counties hundreds of thousands of dollars by the sale of their fruit. Much of this fruit is produced on lands which before the apple growing period was reached was considered the least valuable—the hillsides and highlands.

"Many of the Western States are not only heavily advertising their apple-producing lands, but are making sales of land at prices ranging from $500 to $1,500 per acre when planted to trees at bearing age. Frederick county can produce many varieties of apples just as well and successfully as either of the Virginias or many of the apple-producing States of the West, and we have the advantage of them in our nearness to the large Eastern markets. Apparently our people are entirely indifferent to the opportunities and advantages that our county offers in this direction, and to the great amount of additional wealth it would bring to our doors.

"We frequently hear it said that apple orchards are too much trouble and expense, and that one will have to wait too long for returns. It is true that in order to get good results from an apple orchard it is necessary to go to some trouble and expense. But large returns cannot be expected from any business venture without considerable effort and expenditure. It also requires time for an orchard to reach the bearing age, but many of us carry life insurance policies on which the yearly premiums or dues amount to more than the yearly expense of maintaining an orchard, and the policies do not mature as soon as an orchard, nor pay as handsomely upon maturity as a well-kept orchard when in its prime.

"I do not know of any one way in which we could more wisely build for the future, or any one thing which would more greatly benefit the county and necessarily our city, than if our land-owners and farmers would begin immediately the planting of commercial apple orchards and that they receive the intelligent and necessary care required. It usually requires seven or eight years for the trees to reach the bearing age, during this time crops other than grain could be grown in the orchards, so there would not be a total loss of the use of the land during this period.

"Fifteen to 20 years from now, Frederick county ought to be producing 500,000 to 800,000 barrels of marketable apples, from which we should derive a revenue of from one million to one and a half million dollars. This, together with her grain and her increasing dairy and other agricultural interests, would go far toward placing her in the first rank, instead of remaining third."

The Baltimore American likewise has a word to say on apple culture: "Not alone in Frederick county, but in other Western Maryland counties where the rocky clay soil that seems to be peculiarly adapted to apple culture abounds, greater attention should be given to the production of apples as a market commodity. The market for this particular commodity, it must be borne in mind, is now world-wide. The value of the apples which the United States annually exports to Great Britain and Germany runs into the millions reckoned in dollars. In two or three of the newer States of the Northwest apple growing has been engaged in at fanciful profits. Mr. James H. Gambrill, Jr., the Frederick man whose opinion has just been quoted, also expresses the belief that Frederick county lands—and other Western Maryland lands may be included—are just as well adapted to the growing of high-grade apples as these Western Slope lands that produce the fancy brands.

"The American has frequently contended that scientific fruit culture offers a source of profit to Maryland farmers that has never yet been properly realized upon. The fact that it takes an orchard from six to ten years to get into profitable bearing is counterbalanced by the fact that, if cared for properly, it will last a lifetime after it has once come fully into bearing."

Letters To The Editor.

[The Editor would have it understood that he is not responsible for the views expressed in communications addressed to him and published in THE CHRONICLE.]

Attention will be paid to anonymous communications.

Editor of The Weekly Chronicle:

Thinking you would be pleased to know of the recognition your papers merit in connection with my "History of Emmitsburg" I have linked together a few of the appreciations written to me with as much brevity as possible, and by using the same expressions, show how the hearts of former citizens live in constant remembrance of days gone by.

Recollections of Emmitsburg.

The author of "Home, Sweet Home," dying in a foreign land, expressed the sentiment of the human heart. Long before the Christian era, like sentiment was voiced and it stands before us as one of the choice virtues. When the children of Israel hung their harps upon the willow, how sublime the thought, none is ashamed to express that of the remembrance of the old roof tree.

The birthplace of every human being has attractions all other scenes and sounds are subservient to. Early impressions last long. Early associations are pure. Early training is ineffaceable. So with persons who have gone from our town. Living elsewhere they have a longing for the place, unless they are bereft of humanity. Their early associations wed them to their former home, causing them to return in old age to visit the scenes and meet the residents of their former home. When these former residents come to visit friends or visit the town, the first places they go to are the cemeteries to read the epitaphs on the tombs. I am prompted to repeat some of the many expressions from former residents who have purchased the "History of Emmitsburg," their gratitude for the work, and the enjoyment they have had. It carried them back to scenes in their childhood, renewed their acquaintance of long forgotten scenes and brought to mind the names of persons out of mind.

One lady wrote: "I wept whether for joy or sorrow I do not know, when I thought of the change in the names of the inhabitants and my associations in youth."

One lady in Philadelphia wrote: "Though absent so many years, that I would not know one person living in the town, yet I long to return and walk the street as once I did when a girl, and read the epitaphs on the tombstones." Business men in the busy West have taken time to write me words of thanks, speaking of their boyhood days as they were reminded of the churches and school houses. Many speak of the swimming hole and the old street pump. One spoke of old Mr. Welty the fiddler, and Arthur McGinnis and his hounds, and how certain school masters used the rod to teach the young ideas how to shoot. One spoke of Gelwick's brewery where he drank many a glass of beer and "how much better it was to the present slop." One said in Black's tavern at the forks of the road he danced in the ball room on the second floor; another was gratified with the many changes in the town since he left. The ringing of the church bells has never died away from the memory of some. One in Iowa wrote that the boys of his day had little money to spend, not so with the boys now, as they all seem to have rich parents, as to the girls, he says, they are all better looking than they used to be, and supposes it is the style of dress that makes the difference. He is happy in his recollections of Emmitsburg adding, "Do you remember Mr. Gamble's ox team?"

Some recollected one incident—some another—in which they personally participated. All in all, the substance, though varied, show the appreciation of many. One druggist in Ohio said he scarcely passed a day without referring to the book. Some mentioned THE WEEKLY CHRONICLE as a welcome guest, as they received it as a weekly letter from the old friends at home. The pleasure the foreigner has in thinking and speaking of his fatherland is like the letters in evidence, as testimony of the appreciation these persons have of the "History of Emmitsburg." I take this means of thanking the persons who wrote the letters referred to, for their appreciation, and say the citizens will be glad to see them any time they return.

Prohibitionist Is Out For Votes.

Finley C. Hendrickson, of Allegany county, Prohibition candidate for Congress from the Sixth district, was in Frederick on Tuesday on his way to Monrovia, where he addressed a meeting. Wednesday he went to Kensington, Montgomery county. He expects to keep up an active campaign and looks for an increase in the prohibition vote all over the district.

Hint to Married Men.

So many married men are mistaken for burglars and shot these days while entering their own homes might suggest to the inventive mind a new excuse for not coming home until broad daylight. Better return at that late hour half-shot than to gum-shoe into the flat a few hours earlier and get wholly shot. —New York Evening Telegram.

GETTYSBURG

Pennsylvania College opened last Thursday with a large attendance, many new students being enrolled. The usual class spirit prevailed, although the warning of the town authorities last year prevented any trouble. Several class fights occurred on the campus, but upper classmen acted as referees and prevented serious results. According to an old custom the Sophomores had large posters printed, setting forth the manner in which the Freshmen were to conduct themselves, but contrary to custom, did not put them up, the Freshmen discovered their whereabouts and stole them.

The younger class then proceeded to put up a poster which they had prepared, much to the chagrin of the second year men.

The test of superiority, which has taken the place of the class fights, took place on Nixon Field on Saturday afternoon, and was clean sport.

The two classes took position at opposite ends of the field, each member supplied with a piece of rope, the object being to tie up an opponent. The classes were well drilled and at the signal rushed together, when a general mixup ensued. After this a tug of war between picked teams from the two classes was held. The final score stood sixty-two points for the Sophomores and forty-one for the Freshmen, hence the latter will be obliged to wear the green caps with yellow buttons, as designated by the Sophomores, during the entire term, or until they gain a victory in debate or some other manner decided upon.

A racing matinee was held at the West End track Saturday afternoon, but was poorly patronized.

Miss Nell Culp, Lindora Ramer and Alda Ocker; Messrs. Henry Gerlock, Earl Culp and Morris Stansbury took a moonlight trip to Caledonia park last Thursday evening in Clarence Redding's automobile.

Mrs. Annie, wife of William Bushman, died at her home near town Tuesday morning, aged 52 years. She is survived by her husband and eight children.

John Cromer, of near New Chester, this county, was arrested on last Saturday, charged with several offenses. As he has already served several penitentiary terms he was sentenced on Monday to the maximum term of 30 years in the penitentiary.

Mary Agnes, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hersh, died on Monday evening from the effects of diphtheria, aged 5 years and 8 months.

Extensive preparations are being made for the entertainment of what is expected to be the largest crowd Gettysburg has had in many years, the occasion being the dedication of the new Pennsylvania State monument, on next Tuesday, September 27th.

FROM THURMONT

Lieut. and Mrs. George Landers, from Fort McHenry, are visiting Mrs. Helen Landers for a few days.

Mr. John A. Horner, of Emmitsburg, was in town Monday.

Hon. J. P. T. Matthias was in Frederick Monday.

Mr. Charles Matthias, who has been surveying in Virginia and Washington county, is home for a few days preparatory to leaving for college.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Eyer are in Atlantic City.

Miss Lilly Cover, of Baltimore, is visiting relatives in Thurmont.

FROM FOUR POINTS

Mr. Frank Hahn and family, of Baltimore, spent Sunday with Mr. Lawrence Hahn, of near Four Points.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Valentine attended the funeral of Mr. Valentine's grandfather, Mr. Elias Valentine, of near Rocky Ridge.

Mr. and Mrs. John Grushon entertained Mr. and Mrs. Charles Staub on Sunday. As Mrs. Charles Staub has been an invalid for many years and this being the second time away from home this summer, she enjoyed her visit very much.

Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Stansbury spent Saturday and Sunday in Fairfield.

Mr. Grace Valentine visited Mr. Albert Valentine on Saturday.

Miss Addie and Edith Baumgardner visited Miss Elsie Keilholtz on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Zacharias spent Sunday with Mr. George Ohler and family.

Miss Florida Troxell, of near Four Points, is in Baltimore with her mother, who has undergone an operation at Union Infirmary Hospital. It is reported that Mrs. Troxell is slowly improving.

Mr. Harry Stonsifer made a trip to Baltimore on Saturday.

Miss Edith and Mary Ohler called on Mrs. George Clutz on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Hahn and son, Wilbur, spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. George Clutz and family.

The large barn, on the farm owned by the Crapster heirs and tenanted by Mr. William Hull, of near Four Points, was destroyed by fire Saturday afternoon. This caused quite an excitement within the neighborhood. The fire is supposed to have originated by a child playing with matches. Quite a number of people from a distance assembled to view the ruins on Sunday.

The Misses Edith and Mable Pohle spent Tuesday afternoon in Emmitsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Boyd spent Sunday with Mrs. Boyd's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Shorb near Keysville.

Mr. Wm. Smith has improved the appearance of his home by erecting an iron fence around the lawn and the laying of a concrete walk.

Mr. and Mrs. Gasaway Ohler, of Taneytown, and Miss Marv Hernts, of Gettysburg, visited Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Baker on Tuesday. They also spent the afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Ohler.

Mr. and Mrs. Motter Morrison and children, George and Elizabeth, of Emmitsburg, and Mrs. Shipley, of Baltimore, spent a day this week at Mr. Morrison's farm near this place.

The mill of Mr. H. K. Martin at Four Points is undergoing a thorough overhauling. All the old time bolting machinery has been discarded, and one of the latest, and most modern bolters is being installed. The machinery was furnished by Sprout Waldron & Co., of Muncy, Pa., and is known as the Monarch Self-balancing bolter. It is being installed by J. H. Hartley, of Baltimore.

When this mill resumes operation again, it will be second to none. Mr. Martin being a man who endeavors to please his trade we feel quite sure he will be amply repaid for the expense and trouble he has gone into. He hopes to be able to resume business in about a week.

ACROSS THE LINE

DO YOU HAVE HEADACHE?

Eighty per cent. are due to Eye Strain. It may be glasses, not medicine, that you need. Relief will be obtained by a properly fitted pair of glasses.

WHAT GLASSES WILL DO.

If your work or reading tire the eyes, glasses will rest them. If you are subject to headaches, the chances are that it is caused by Eye Strain. Special glasses will relieve them.

DON'T wear glasses unless prescribed by a reliable Optometrist.

A REASON WHY.

If you were ill you would call in the best Physician; if you had a law suit, the best Lawyer. If your eyes are bad why not take equal precaution to select a reliable Optician and Optometrist?

Drugs and Sickness.

It is not too much to say that the medical profession today no longer believes that any drug (with a few exceptions, like quinine in malaria, mercury and the antitoxins) will cure a disease as such. All that it will do is to modify conditions as to help the body in its fight against disease.

We are no longer content, in the biting phrase of Voltaire, to "pour drugs of which we know little into bodies of which we know less." What will help one patient will harm another, and what may be beneficial in the early stage of a disease will be useless or even injurious in a later stage.

In the language of Captain Cuttle, the effect of a drug, like "the bearing of an observation," "depends on the application of it." It is neither rational nor safe blindly to swallow down a drug which is highly recommended in a certain disease and expect it to "do the rest." There is no such thing as a universal cure for a disease nor even a remedy which can be relied upon as "a good thing to take" at any and all stages of it.—Dr. Woods Hutchinson in Delinquent.

Gagadig Gigadab.

There was a quaint old man in Manchester, England, who for many years went by the unique name of Gagadig Gigadab. His original name was John Smith, and for many years he brooded over the possibilities of mistaken identity involved in it. The name figured frequently in criminal records, and he became abnormally apprehensive lest he might be confused with some of the bad John Smiths. At last what he feared so much actually happened. One morning the papers reported the arrest of an accountant in a bank for embezzlement, and through some blunder of the reporter the identity of the embezzler was confused with the subject of this article, who was also a bank accountant. Then and there he determined to assume a name like unto no other ever borne by mortal man. And in Gagadig Gigadab most people will agree that he succeeded in so doing.—New York Tribune.

Legally Better Off.

The creditors of the ancient king had become so unpleasantly insistent that he resolved to put them where they could trouble him no more. So he invited them to a great banquet, and when they had feasted and drunk of his prepared wine he instructed his servants to convey them to his deepest dungeons. And the next morning when he went down to learn whether his servants had done his bidding his creditors raised their voices and entreated to be set free. But he remonstrated with them, saying:

"My friends, you have no just cause for complaint. Are you not better off in the eye of the law than ever before? Any lawyer will tell you that a secured creditor has an exceptional claim." Then he left them and went on his gladsome way, happy in the knowledge that he could at last go through his dominions without being dunned.—Chicago News.

Masculine Music.

The musical doctor stepped into the shop.

His hair stuck out like stiff straws, and his joy of life was under his arm; also two buttons on his waistcoat were undone. So there was no doubt about his being a genius.

"Aha, ahem, ahum!" purred the musical doctor. "B string for a violin, please."

The man behind the counter looked flustered. He went to the shelf, took off a small packet, examined it carefully, examined it again and then hesitatingly returned to the customer.

"I beg your pardon, sir," he began diffidently, "but this 'appens to be my first day in the shop, and yer might give me a little 'elp. The fact is these 'ere strings look all alike to me, an' I can't tell the 'es from the shes!"—London Globe.

Firearms in Russia.

As an illustration of how closely everything is watched in Russia, take its system of registering firearms. When a weapon of any kind is purchased a permit must be secured from the local authorities. The name of the man who makes the purchase, with the number of the weapon, is recorded. If the purchaser ever wants to dispose of the weapon he must notify the authorities and cause the transfer to be recorded on the books of the firm which sold it.

An Anachronism.

When some celebrated pictures of Adam and Eve were seen on exhibition Mr. McNab was taken to see them. "I think no great things of the painter," said the gardener. "Why, man, tempting Adam w' a pipkin of a variety that wasna known until about twenty years ago!"

Hindering the Process.

Doctor—Well, John, how are you today?

John—Verry bad; verry bad. I wish Providence 'ud 'ave mussy on me an' take me.

Wife—Ow can you expect it to if you won't take the doctor's physic?—London Mail.

Her Answer.

In inculcating the idea of truthfulness a teacher asked the question, "What is the best thing in the world to do and sometimes the hardest?"

A little girl raised her hand timidly. "Well, my child?" "To get married!"

Too Fond of Them.

"Is he fond of outdoor sports?" "Yes. His wife complains that he even invites them home to dinner."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

LIVE FASHION TIPS.

Real Flowers Trim Some of the Smartest Hats of the Season.

Real flowers, if not natural ones, are the latest phase of millinery trimmings. The real flowers are treated with some chemical which preserves them far beyond their ordinary life, and they are even dyed if colors do not suit the taste of the milliner.

Fashion is outdoing itself in the most exquisite capes for autumn wear over one piece costumes. Those of soft liberty satin or silks are especially beautiful. A cape reaching to the hem of the frock is a necessary adjunct of the evening frock.

Attractive hats of long nap beaver, soft and velvety as fur, are seen in the shops. They are offered in all the brown, beige and gray tints and in some good blue, red and gray colorings and are light and pliable.

Carved wooden beads are rivaling in popularity the many designs and colorings in glass effects and jet. A string of "pennant" beads lends a charming variety to certain costumes.

Now that the school season is beginning girls will be in need of gymnasium costumes. The suit pictured is simple and easy to make and consists of bloomers and blouse.

The Symbolism Didn't Appeal.

"Charlie," sorrowfully sighed the young lady in the parlor of the concrete house on Washington avenue. "It is nearly 12 o'clock."

"Yes, Belinda," was the breathing response of her poetical companion, who was sitting on the sofa beside her, "the minute hand is drawing closer to the hour hand, and when the time of midnight is chimed the two hands will be even as one. Oh, darling Belinda," he continued as he lit "ally simulated the action of the minute hand, "may not the coming together of those two hands be symbolical of us?"

She broke away and stood firmly on her feet. "No, Charles Henry Smith," she retorted angrily, "those two hands will remain as one but a single second, and then the minute hand will divorce itself and go on its way alone. No, Mr. Smith, a minute hand that doesn't stick isn't the kind of symbolism I want!"—Chicago News.

Dividing a Long Sermon.

Dr. Samuel Buel of the last half of the eighteenth century, who used to preach two or three hours, like Isaac Barrows, was ingenious in detaining his congregation. On one occasion, after preaching nearly two hours—as long as he could feel secure in the presence of all his hearers—he remarked that he was done preaching to sinners and that they were at liberty to go; the rest of his discourse would be addressed to good people.

A gentleman who once went to hear him stated that when the hourglass was nearly ready to be turned a second time from the commencement of his sermon he said, much to the relief of the person who related it, "Once more." After going on some eight or ten minutes longer he said, "To conclude," and after another about equal interval he said, "Lastly."

The gentleman added that he expected every moment to hear him say "Everlastingly."

He Came Down Light.

A Chicago board of trade man who was not in the habit of attending church was taking a walk one Sunday morning, and on coming to a church at the regular hour of service he decided to go in. As he entered the auditorium in which the pews were adjusted upon a sloping floor an usher stepped forward and, wishing to consult him as to location before conducting him to a sitting, politely inquired:

"Would you like to come down pretty well?"

Mistaking the inquiry to be an appeal for money, the board of trade man began to fumble through his pockets as he drawled:

"I'd like to, but I'm not prepared to come down very heavy, as 15 cents is all I have with me."—Harper's Magazine.

Eddystone Island.

The smallest inhabited island in the world is that on which the Eddystone lighthouse stands. At low water it is thirty feet in diameter. At high water the lighthouse, whose diameter at the base is eight and three-fourths feet, completely covers it. It is inhabited by three persons. It lies nine miles off the Cornish coast and fourteen miles southeast of Plymouth breakwater. Flattholme, an island in the British channel, is only a mile and a half in circumference, but, consisting mostly of rich pasture lands, supports a farmhouse besides the lighthouse, with a revolving light 156 feet above the sea. There are about 100,000 islands, large and small, scattered over the oceans. America alone has 5,500 around its coasts. There are 305 in the bay of Rio Janeiro, 16,000 between Madagascar and India and some 1,200 off the eastern coast of Australia between its mainland and New Guinea.

Mr. Franklin at the Bar.

Among the state papers for the year 1536 may be read a letter from John Bartelet to Henry VIII's minister, Thomas Cromwell, stating that in accordance with the recent act the mayor and aldermen had chosen Mr. Pryseley to attend the English parliament as the representative of Calais and that he had made certain arrangements about his passage into England.

One Thomas Boyd was elected as his colleague, and Calais continued to send M. P.'s to Westminster until, in the reign of Mary, we lost the stronghold we had held for over two centuries. This is the only instance in England's history of anything like colonial representation at Westminster unless indeed we reckon one or two exceptional occasions when colonial grievances have been voiced at the bar of the house of commons, as they were so brilliantly by Benjamin Franklin, when Burke said the scene reminded him of "a master examined by a parcel of schoolboys."—London News.

Learn to Laugh.

Laughter is the best of all tonics. Bacilli are humorless folk and hate the physical constitution that is always vibrating with the shocks of fun. This is a truism, but serviceable and likewise worth repeating are the platitudes on laughter as the great aseptic of the soul. It is true there are different kinds of laughter, and some of them need formaldehyde. There is a kind, too, that needs bicarbonate of soda as an antidote—another that calls for lithia tablets. But the right sort of laughter was stolen from the gods by some wiser Prometheus, and nothing can prevail against it. In America there is plenty of laughter, good, bad and indifferent, but mostly good, and much that is very good. It is one of our greatest national resources. May we conserve it always. A people that laugh kindly and often have not much to fear; a people that laugh wisely, nothing.—Chicago Tribune.

Fanny Dickens.

Fanny, the sister of Charles Dickens, was one of the first students entered at the old Royal Academy of Music when it opened its doors at Tenterden street in 1823, and at that time the students lived at the academy, only going home for the week end. "Every Sunday," Dickens told Forster, "I was at the academy at 9 o'clock in the morning to fetch her (Fanny), and we walked back there together at night." And the Sunday itself the two spent—in the Marshalsea prison, where their father and mother then resided, owing to Mr. Dickens having "failed to propitiate his creditors." While her father was still in prison Fanny won a prize at the academy, and the future novelist, then engaged in pasting labels on blacking pots at 7 shillings a week, was present to see her receive it.—Westminster Gazette.

Twain and the Rivermen.

Mark Twain once told to a party of friends the following story on himself. On one occasion when he started on a trip down the Mississippi river on a flatboat he was advised never to answer the questions asked by rivermen on other boats and never to bandy words with them, as he would be sure always to come out second best. He followed the advice religiously for a time, but one day he thought he saw a chance to get the better of a riverman who called out:

"Hey, thar, what yer loaded with?"
"Jackasses. Don't you want to come aboard?" yelled back Twain.
"That's whut I reckoned seem' as how they let ther biggest donkey hev ther run of the deck!" came back Twain made a dive below as all the rivermen in the neighborhood set up a derisive laugh at his expense.

"Niggering" Logs.

The question was asked me as a native of Maine if I could find out what "niggering" logs meant in the state ment "We niggered the logs." I found that to "nigger" logs was to save the labor of chopping them into lengths by piling them up crossed at points where it was desired to separate them. By building fires under these crossings several logs could be burned into sections at once. Because "a nigger" was supposed to be lazy this lazy man's way of cutting logs into lengths was, naturally enough, called "niggering."—Appleton Morgan in New Shakespeareana.

The Inexpensive Policeman.

Mr. Walter Seymour, who writes "Ups and Downs of a Wandering Life," had Thorold Rogers for a tutor while at Oxford. Rogers was as amusing as he was heterodox. "I remember asking him one day, 'Mr. Rogers, what do you consider the origin of the idea of the deid?' 'Cheapest policeman they could find!'"

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Dog That Advertised

"Maybe He Wants to Advertise"

"DADDY, why can't doggies talk?" asked Evelyn as the children were waiting for papa to think of a bedtime story.

"Well, some doggies can, almost," he replied; "that is, they can make you understand just what they want. And that reminds me of a dog I once heard about. He was a collie named Bob and seemed to know everything that was going on. Now, Bob was very proud of his long nose, his black eyes and his fine coat, but he was especially pleased with his beautiful bushy tail. No dog in the county had such a tail, and Bob seemed to know it.

"One day, kiddies, Bob was careless in crossing the street, and an ice wagon ran over him. How it did hurt, and how he did howl with pain! They picked him up and carried him home, and he was soon better, but his heart was broken when he found that his beautiful tail had been cut off by the wagon. For days and days he lay in a dark cellar and refused to be comforted, and even when he did come out again he was a most lonesome doggie.

"Bob was missing one day, and his master searched all around the town and finally found him in a newspaper office. He was lying there on the floor, and every once in awhile he would bark and howl as if trying to tell them something, but no one could understand just what he meant. He would not go home, and every day when the men came to work the dog would follow first one and then another and bark and bark. Finally one of the men said:

"Why, I believe I know why Bob is acting this way. Maybe he wants us to advertise in the newspaper for his lost tail. Is that what you mean, Bob?"

"Well, kiddies, it seemed as if that was exactly what the doggie did want, for he jumped around in delight and licked their hands and was perfectly happy again, and when the man petted him and said he would fix it all right Bob immediately went home. And, just for fun, this advertisement was put in the paper:

LOST.—One long, beautiful, bushy collie's tail. Finder please return and get reward. No questions asked. BOB (this office).

"And did poor Bob get his tail back, daddy?" asked Evelyn.

"No, of course not, honey," laughed daddy. "Bob called at the newspaper office every day just as if he knew about the advertisement, and he watched everybody who came in as if he was expecting they had his lost tail. After a week or so had passed, however, he evidently gave up hope of recovering it and remained home, but he was a very savage doggie after that. He would chase and bite every dog with a long tail that came along and made friends only with those that had short tails."—Chicago News.
